BOTH WATER ORDERS PASSED BY COUNCIL

Vote of President Hobbs Necessary on the $10,000 for Extension of Service

Councilman Richards Alone Against Meter Appropriation

A special meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening on the call of the Mayor to take action on the orders appropriating $10,000 for water meters and $10,000 for the extension of water mains. Councilman Sandberg and Woodward were absent.

WATER METERS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order for $10,000. The report was accepted and the order took its second reading.

Councilman Richards said if the Council had lived up to the City Charter the city would not be in its present predicament. The Council last year passed an order for $40,000 "for extension and meters." It was understood $10,000 of that was to be expended for meters. Not one dollar of that appropriation was expended for meters. We have no assurance that we would get any better results from this order.

Councilman Smith asked if he thought that would satisfy the Supreme court.

Councilman Richards replied that it would be a good thing if the city had to pay a fine as it might learn to abide by the City Charter. It would be one of our best assets in experience.

Councilman Nowland asked the Commission why money was not expended for meters last eyar.

Commissioner Bainbridge replied that when the matter came up last year it was explained that from $14,000 to $16,000 would have to be expended at Squantum outside of the regular work and the city appropriated $40,000. At the same time the committee decided the city should be metered at wholesale and an order for $72,000 for that purpose was reported. Acting in good faith, and with the expectation that this order would pass later, the city went ahead. When the order reached the Finance committee it was cut to $40,000, and the words "and meters" added. It did not say

Roast The Turkey Crisp and Brown

Some ranges are as tricky as a Missouri mule, they have spells when you can't do anything with them. It's especially annoying on Thanksgiving day to try and prepare a dinner on a range of this kind. Now with a Glenwood Range you can roast the turkey crisp and brown, no fuss--no care--work done in the shortest possible time. If your range is old, let us take it away and set up a handsome new style plain casting Glenwood. To make it easy for you--we allow you to pay a dollar a week.

HALLOWE'EN AT ST. MARY'S

Ghost Dance One of Features--- Whist and Dancing

A very largely attended Hallowe'en party was held at St. Mary's hall Monday evening for the benefit of St. Mary's church. The hall was profusely decorated for the ocasion white and yellow bunting predominating. Strewn about the bunting were black cats and witches, pumpkins and jack-o'-lanterns. The stage was decorated with potted plants and cut flowers, white predominating.

During the first hour there was a whist tournament in which fifty tables participated. Prizes for the best scores were awarded as follows: Ladies—Mary McCue, Beatrice Morrissette, Margaret Kelley and Annie McDouglas. Gentlemen—Peter Duggan, Edward Monahan, Charles Hebert and Duffy Ogle.

The whist over the hall was darkened and a number of young ladies dressed in sheets and pillow cases representing ghosts marched in to weird music and gave a ghost dance on the platform. This dance was in charge of Mrs. Fennessey, and those to take the part of ghosts were Ethel Burnes, Alicia Elcock, Annie Kane, Mary Monahan, Helen Pickering, Sadie Monahan and Elizabeth Farrell, Miss Rena Mannix was the accompanist and Frances Elcock the reader.

The ghost dance was followed by a flag drill and Hallowe'en games. Then came dancing until midnight. Refreshments of a hallowe'en nature were served during the entire evening by an efficient committee headed by Mrs. Rose Canavan.

Mrs. M. McDonnell was in charge of the party and she was ably assisted by Mrs. S B. Little, Mrs. J. F. Fennessey, Margaret Daley, Mary Droham, Mary Galvin, Annie Galvin, Mollie Berry, Katherine Spain, Mary Sweeney, Elizabeth Farrell, Elizabeth Falvey, Frances Elcock, Grace Elcock, Helen Duggan, Mary Duggan, Louise Monahan, Mary Kapples, Louise, Susan and Helen Pickering, Annie Foley, Josephine Grignon, Mercedes O'Brien, Nellie Morrissette, Helen and Gertrude Burke, Helen Farrell, Teresa Howley, Rina Bizzozero, Gertrude O'Brien, Mary Chisholm and Mary King.

A BARN PARTY.

A very jolly Hallowe'en party was celebrated in Parker's barn at Atlantic Saturday night. The young folks assembled promptly at eight o'clock, and from the moment they were ushered up the drive way by ghosts, 'til the last Virginia reel every moment was enjoyed. Each one present was given a fortune by the witch in her den made of trees and boughs, and the barn was prettily decorated with foliage and fruit. Following the games and Hallowe'en frolics a supper was served in rustic fashion. Mr. Waterhouse came with his fiddle and dances ended the evening's entertainment.

Those present were: Gladys Arthur, Margaret Laurence, Jean Arthur, Dorothy Bean, Marion Moffatt, Grace DeWolf, Alice Waterhouse, Mary Hern, Harriet Waterhouse, Marguerite Hill, Vivian Wilmore, Alena Kilpatrick, Leslie Arthur, William Northrop, Walter DeWolf, Winthrop Safford, Homer Emerson, Gordon Sherwin, Clifford Fratus, Thomas Wilkinson, Lawrence French, Harold Hill, Homer Hill and Charles Kendall.

J. P. QUINCY PASSES AWAY

Once Owned a Beautiful Estate in This City

Josiah Phillips Quincy, a former resident of Quincy, died Monday evening at his home at 82 Charles street, Boston. From 1859 until a few years ago he lived in the house now occupied by the Quincy Mansion school. This was before Elm avenue was laid out as a public street, but was a most attractive approach to a grand old estate.

Mr. Quincy's death followed a sudden attack of pneumonia a week ago, and despite the constant care of the physicians he failed rapidly, sinking into unconsciousness early yesterday afternoon. His three daughters and his son were with him to the end, but but the most powerful stimulants failed to bring consciousness, and he passed away without being able to recognize any of his children.

Mr. Quincy was stricken Oct. 24 at his home. Two nurses were called and Dr. Ames was at the home almost continually, but with 81 milestones behind him Mr. Quincy could not rally. On Wednesday telegrams were sent to his daughter, Mrs. Mabel Davis, who had just returned from her home at Buenos Ayres and with her husband, W. G. Davis, a wealthy business man of that city, was staying in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis hastened at once to Boston, and upon their arrival at Mr. Quincy's home they were told that it was but a question of days. Mrs. Davis was with her father constantly from that hour, night and day.

Early Monday afternoon Mr. Quincy began to sink rapidly, and his two daughters Mrs. Helen Muirhead of Cambridge and Mrs. Fannie Hull of Brimmer street were sent for. They arrived about 2 o'clock with their brother, ex-Mayor Josiah Quincy.

Throughout the long hours of the afternoon the family grouped about the bed of their dying father, who passed away at 7.50 o'clock.

Mrs. Davis was prostrated and could not be seen. The arrangements for the funeral were made by her husband. Private services will be held at the house Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The body will be cremated at Forest Hills and interred in the family tomb.

Josiah Phillips Quincy was born in Boston on Nov. 28, 1829, the son of Josiah and Mary Jane (Miller) Quincy. He received his degree of A. B. from Harvard University in 1850, and A. M. in 1853. He was admitted to the bar in 1854. Besides following the practise of law, he has engaged in the real estate business in Boston. In 1859 he removed to Quincy and here conducted a large milk farm for many years. Returning to Boston, he took up his residence at 82 Charles street.

Mr. Quincy was a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society and the Phi Beta Kappa. He belonged to the Twentieth Century and Examiner Clubs. As an author he has figured successfully. His books include "Lyteria" (poems); "Tax Empton No Excuse for Spoliation," "Protection Majorities," "The Peckster Professorship," "Double Taxation in Massachusetts and the Unearned Increment." He has also contributed quite extensively to the newspapers and magazines. His literary attainments were pronounced. One of his political essays was given wide and favorable notice.

Steering wide of the traditional family lines, Mr. Quincy never publicly identified himself with any political or other organization. He preferred to live quietly. For years he has passed his summers at Marblehead, in a house on piles, right over the water, where he found relief from the hay fever with which he was afflicted.

On Dec. 23, 1858, Mr. Quincy married Miss Helen Fanny Huntington, daughter of Judge Huntington of Milton, a very intelligent woman of strong character.

TODAY'S COURT.

Gordon McDonald was arraigned for breaking and entering the store of Esther Shread on Water street. Case continued until Friday.

IMMIGRATION PROBLEMS

Related by Deputy Hurley at Wollaston

A meeting of unusual interest was held by the Walther Men's class in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church on Monday evening, when those present were addressed by Deputy Commissioner Hurley of the Immigration Bureau at Boston upon "The practical working of the immigration service."

"One finds two classes of opinion," said Mr. Hurley, "one which says open wide the doors and let in everybody that desires admission. The other says close the doors and let in no more. There is a middle course which we should pursue in admitting those that form today the raw material of American citizenship tomorrow.

The vast influx of the last five years is, however, too large and while suspension is not to be seriously considered, the criminal class should be restricted and a higher physical standard enforced.

There are three causes which make the alien look toward this country; attraction, expulsion and solicitation. America is a most attractive word throughout Europe, for it means money and liberty. American wages are the honey pots that attract the foreign flies. Hordes also flock to this country on account of religious persecution abroad, compulsory military service, and on account of increased taxation.

The last cause, which calls far the largest number and causes the most trouble, is solicitation. For this the unscrupulous of the steamship sub agents are to blame, who paint glowing pictures of the land of promise and induce whole families to emigrate who would be better off in their own country. These causes produce three classes of immigrants: natural, assisted and solicited.

Mr. Hurley told countless anecdotes of high human interest, of the methods used by the excluded in trying to get by the officials. Steerage is the greatest paying freight in the world. In former days, when it was more difficult and costly to reach this country, only the sturdy and enterprising immigrant came in. Now that the ocean is but a ferry, the least desirable fall the easiest prey. There is room, said Commissioner Hurley in closing, for all of the right kind, but no room for the wrong.

Refreshments and a social hour followed the close of the address.

AT WOLLASTON.

The jolliest of Hallowe'en parties were entertained by Miss Winnifred V. Church of Arlington street, Monday evening. The usual stunts and tricks were accomplished, as swinging apples, bobbing apples, finding one's fate by the dishes, and charades. After which supper was served, appropriate place cards and favors of black cats with witches on their backs, carried out the Hallowe'en idea. Then fortune telling by candle light and guessing contests caused much merriment. The electric light in the dining room was covered by a huge skull and the orange colored scheme with witch designs was carried out on the table.

Those at the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roach, Miss Leona Robbins, Miss Lottie Trenholm, Miss Clara Porter, Miss Madge Hatfield, Miss Ethel Hatfield, Miss Eleanor Dunn, Miss Eveline Salsman, Miss Gertrude Barbour, Miss Ida Brown, Louis Cleaves, Lester Porter, Chester Barlow, William Bullock, George Drew and Nathan Drew.

FAXON ARRAIGNED.

Harold B. Faxon, the former paying teller of the People's National bank of Roxbury, arrested in Nevada, arrived in Boston on Monday and was arraigned before Judge Dodge of the United States district court. Being without counsel he was not asked to plead. He was held in bonds of $15,000 for trial on the charge of embezzlement of $7,300 from the bank.

HALLOWE'EN AT MANSE

A Very Enjoyable Party by Young Peoples Society

A very successful Hallowe'en party was held in the manse of the First Presbyterian church Monday evening under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. About 125 were welcomed by the ghosts at the door, and conducted inside where a dismal owl and sepulchral figure surmounted by a hideous grinning skull added to the gaiety of their reception. A Brownie with a serpent's tongue was darting hither and thither among the other "gay and festive critters." The grinning skeleton in the corner had a habit of snapping his jaws in an uncanny manner which made a number of the young ladies turn their backs on the horrid thing. The whole scene was enshrouded in a dim light which added greatly to the attractiveness of the decorations, consisting of pumpkins, autumn foliage and various other things suggestive of the day and of the season.

Several piano solos were very well rendered by Miss Maria Purdy of Atlantic, and Everett Clark was vociferously applauded at the conclusion of his vocal solos.

A pumpkin drill executed by ten small boys furnished much amusement to the craning spectators. The animated pumpkins were as follows: James Jenkins, Wallace McIntosh, Lewis Marini, Nathaniel Barton, William Cumming, George Cumming, Nelson LaMonte, William Faulkner, James Matheson and William Watson. In the meantime the wise old owl had been scratching his head, and the guests were each given a fortune by the ghosts, plucked from the tree of knowledge and propounded by the bird of surpassing wisdom.

Refreshments were served by the ghosts, in plates bearing jack-o'-lanterns and mugs with hump-backed black cats upon them. After larder had been made lean, the crowd gathered around the piano and shouted out the good old songs. The party did not break up until a late hour.

The success of the occasion was due to the good pastor and his wife and to the social committee of the Y. P. S. C. E. This committee consisted of the following: Lillian McIntosh, chairman, Jennie Walker, Jennie Norrie, Jennie Barton, Ruth Kemp, Annie Cumming, Belle McIntosh, William Troupe, Everett Clark and William Michael. Belle McIntosh and Ruth Kemp were the ghosts and Robert McMillan was the brownie. Mrs. Matheson superintended the work of decoration. Young and old seemed to enjoy themselves thoroughly and the gathering was pronounced the jolliest yet.

NO-LICENSE ENCOURAGED

Progress Slow But Sure in Massachusetts

The enthusiasm shown at the Eastern conference of No-License workers of Massachusetts on Monday is sure to be felt in the vote on the license question in cities this fall and in towns next spring. Several hundred were registered at the Ford building, Boston, during the afternoon and evening. Much of the success of the conference was due to Delcevare King of Quincy, the chairman of the Massachusetts No-License League, who arranged the program and presided at the afternoon session. A limited time was allotted to each speaker and he was required to keep within it. There were special exhibits from Quincy, Brockton, Worcester and other cities and towns and also a carefully prepared exhibit by the league.

In the afternoon the No-License campaign was discussed by different gentlemen in its different phases—Why, how, fundamentals, essentials, law enforcement, headquarters, work, canvass, etc.

A banquet was enjoyed from 6 to 7.

At the evening session ex-Governor Long presided, strong convincing addresses were made by Mr. Long, Charles W. Eliot, LL. D., Bishop Lawrence, Robert A. Woods of Boston, John H. Balch, Jr., of Newburyport, Rev. J. E. Lacount of Hudson, ex-Mayor W. F. Davis of Woburn, Guy Newhall of Lynn and Delcevare King of Quincy, the latter making an appeal for courage, cooperation and cash.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Because of the pending suit of the State of Massachusetts, the City Council could not refuse at this time to make an appropriation for the installation of 800 to 1000 water meters. The Commissioner of Public Works should proceed immediately to meter all services which have been installed since Jan. 1, 1907, and as many more as possible. To make the person who uses but $5 or $6 worth of water pay $16 per year may not be relished by many, but it will be up to them to kick against the rate.

Before the city makes any more large appropriations for "construction" and borrows the money on 30-year loans, the committees of the City Council should carefully investigate and ascertain if all these appropriations are used for construction, or whether they include expenses which properly belong to maintainance. A thirty year loan means double payment. Water loans in the future should not extend over more than ten years.

Inasmuch as Republicans are pleased with the administration of Mayor Shea, and have given him hearty support in the past, why not this year nominate him as their candidate for Mayor. It is said that Mayor Shea has received fully as many Republican votes as Democratic votes in some of his campaigns, and His Honor has recognized this fact in his appointments to office, and employment of labor. If the Democrats of Quincy stood as ready to recognize merit in Gov. Draper as the Republicans do in Mayor Shea, there might be reciprocity.

We thought of Mayor Shea when we read the address of Chairman Fish at the Business Men's banquet to Gov. Draper in Boston on Saturday. He said in part:

"There is one principle that ought to run through every party down to the youngest voter, and that is 'when you see a man doing his work well, stand behind him.' Is the position of governor political? It may be, but it is far more a business position, requiring intellectual capacity, courage and fairness.

"What have these primary qualities to do with the alleged issues of the parties? The tariff and the high cost or living should be fought out in Congress. I predict that a very large number of Democrats will vote for a business governor as exemplified by his Excellency."

Declaring that Governor Draper had appointed a capable commission to study the high cost of living and that they had not blamed it to the Republican party and the Governor, Mr. Fish concluded: "I predict not the majority of last year, but one that will rank large in the annals of Massachusetts."

And Elwyn G. Preston in discussing the real issue said:

"The issue is whether the great State of Massachusetts shall now, in this year of grace, refuse to bestow the seal of its approval upon one of the most high minded, courageous and devoted servants who has ever held high office in the Commonwealth. That is the real issue. There is no other."

So in the city of Quincy, Mayor Shea by his business like non-partisan government has given so satisfactory service that no Republican or Democrat desires to oppose him. It is probable that Mayor Shea may have more opposition among Democrats than Republicans.

DRIFT OF OPINION

The wage question is a live topic everywhere. The man or woman who works for others must have their pay. Ministers must have their salaries, lawyers their retainers and doctors their fees. Any failure causes trouble. Even colleges cannot be supported without the income that flows from tuitions. If the students fail to see the bursar on time, embarrassment is sure to follow. It is that way at Tufts college. At registration day notice was given that all term bills must be paid on or before a certain day, but the seniors paid little attention to it, thinking it was only intended to hurry up the "freshies" and make them pay promptly. But when the time expired they found that the president meant business, and the bursar was kept busy. Half a hundred of the students, however, could not raise the funds, and when they went to the class rooms they found themselves under suspension and were not allowed to enter. It was a hardship, no doubt, but it was probably as useful a lesson as the students could be taught, that of meeting an obligation. Not enough emphasis is put upon this necessary feature of education, but the young gentlemen who went to the class rooms and found that "the door was shut," received practical instruction in the virtue of business integrity, a lesson that not many of them will soon forget.—Lynn Item.

The ordinary school child can locate the rivers of Africa and the kings of England, but he can not tell the public officials of his own city, nor name many of its leading streets. Recognizing the necessity of developing local pride, the city of Newark, N. J., has adopted the admirable plan of requiring in its school's study of the city charter, of city methods of doing business, and of city geography. There are to be brigades for keeping the streets clean and the homes habitable.

The most permanent basis for the prosperity of our city is to give our young people a love for their home town. If they have this affection they will be less likely to be led away by false hopes to other places.

The first step is to make them familiar with their home town and to get them interested early in plans for home improvement. If a generation of young people could come along who had really done a lot of work for this city, they would develop a feeling of attachment for it that would make them very slow to leave.—Beverly Times.

YOU! You! Why say your own town is so slow; that business is on the bum; that there's no chance for a fellow to get on here? How much are YOU doing to help? Does getting YOUR money in this town and spending it in another help to make this town lively and prosperous? Does slighting or skinning on YOUR work in the place where you are employed help the concern YOU are working for and indirectly the town YOU are living in? Does YOUR everlasting grumbling and knocking bring business to the town? Does YOUR vote for efficient, lazy or careless town officials ,when better men are offered as candidates, help to make the town lively and reduce YOUR living expenses? Is YOUR attitude on public matters, when influenced by spite or prejudice, calculated to boom the town or hurt it? If YOU do any or all of these things are YOU not pulling your own house down on your own head? What are YOU doing to make things livelier and better? Does YOUR effort consist mainly of standing on the corner and knocking those who are trying to do something? Are you a leaner or a lifter? If YOUR town is all wrong and YOU cannot see any way or place in which YOU can help, move; the town will be better off without YOU. YOU are only taking up room. Don't knock. Boost! YOU!—Spencer Leader.

A glance at the religious notices in the Saturday papers is sufficient to show to what extent the churches now avail themselves of display type to set forth their attractions. Almost as much prominence is given to the announcement of the Sunday servics as to theatre advertising and the fact is significant of a new conception of the uses of publicity in promoting an interest in religion.

Not only is the subject of the sermon printed in type selected to catch the eye, but attention is called to special features of a programme designed to draw a large audience—to the concert or moving picture exhibition arranged for, to the fact that the services will be held on the parish house roof during hot weather, to addresses on civic questions or the discussion of political issues. A "cut" of the church or a picture of the pastor sometimes accompanies the notice.

This extension of publicity methods by the churches is not confined to the large cities. It is a movement of national extent, as may be judged by the instances cited in Printers' ink of advertising of the kind by churches in Patterson, Columbus, O., Davenport, Ia. Lawrence, Kan., Troy, N. Y., Omaha, and in Alabama, North Dakota and elsewhere. It is an entirely legitimate development of church activities. As the pastor of a Lutheran congregation in Ohio says, "Printers' ink is as good for a church as for any big business." And, it may be added, fully as appropriate for an institution that has the best of scriptural precedent for not hiding its light under a bushel.—New York World.

—It looks like making light of every serious matter to say that "eggs are soaring," but what is meant is that they are passing beyond the salaried man's range of vision.—C. S. Monitor.

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

"COPIE."

One of the most intelligent and lovable dogs in the city met almost instant death on Washington street on Sunday, struck by a large touring car, whose occupants sped on, indifferent to what they had done. It was only a dog! What cared they? But there are dogs—and dogs; and to those who knew and loved "Copie," he seemed almost human. His face was particularly pleasing, and his shapely head and big brown eyes full of expression, had attracted the attention of sculptors who had sought him as a model for a statue. His gentleness was shown in his great fondness for kittens; he had brought home no less than four tiny waifs, proudly exhibiting them to the members of his family. It was a familiar sight, "Copie" and his kitten strolling along the streets, his sharp ears and keen eyes ever on the alert for danger, and no friend could coax him to go for a walk while his kitten was with him to be cared for.

"Copie" was a Scotch collie, owned by Mr. Chaplin of Cottage street. He had many friends in and around City square and the vicinity of his home who will be sorry to know he has gone, but no one will miss him more than the writer, in whose home he was a daily visitor, and where he was most dearly loved.

A Friend.

CITY COUNCIL

how much should be expended for meters. About 240 meters were purchased and set. The law, however, in regard to meters was not complied with as the Council failed to pass the meter order.

Councilman Nowland asked how late it was when the $40,000 was expended.

Commissioner Bainbridge replied that the bulk of it was expended by August.

Councilman Nowland said too much ought not to be taken for granted. It was intended that part of the money should be used for meters.

The rules were suspended and the order passed 17 voting yes and 1 no, viz.:

YES—Bolster, Boyd, Branch, Bryant, Cantfill, Carey, Cherrington, Clark, Ericson, Flynn, Gardner, Histen, Loud, McDevitt, Nowland, Smith, Whiton—17.

NO—Richards—1.

NOT VOTING—President Hobbs—1.

ABSENT—Sandberg, Woodward—2.

WATER EXTENSIONS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order for $10,000 for water extensions. The report was accepted. Order took its second reading and the rules were suspended.

Councilman Richards said this was not the proper time to do construction work and get the best results.

In reply to a question by Councilman Nowland, as to what it was proposed to do with the money, Commissioner Bainbridge said there were certain parts of Squantum without water, and as the people were all the year residents there was an urgent demand for it. Then there were no mains along the boulevard at Atlantic and the people there want water. There were many people who wanted water. We have a small lot of pipe on hand. Pipe has not been as cheap for twelve years as it is today. It will take about six days after it is ordered to get the pipe.

Councilman Nowland moved to amend by making the amount $2,000.

Councilman Whiton opposed. It would check development, if people who built houses could not get water. To his own knowledge there were a number of houses fully plumbed that did not have water. This was the only paying department in the city. He saw no reason why the order should not be passed.

Councilman Cherrington saw no reason why the order should not pass.

In reply to a question by Councilman Branch, the Commissioner said that last year pipe cost $25.70; the price now was less than $23. He would feel justified in stocking up. Then he proposed to have the city line its own galvanized pipe this winter. Over $1,000 could be saved by the city doing its own work.

Councilman Branch thought it a good investment, if a saving of 10 percent could be made.

Councilman McDevitt saw no reason why the order should not pass. People want water and should have it.

Mayor Shea told of the many demands that were being made for water. People were coming to City Hall every day to make deposits for water, but it could not be granted. No pipes will be laid when it is not advisable to do the work. The city is under a moral if not legal obligation to give people water.

The amendment of Councilman Nowland was rejected.

The order was put on its passage, 15 voting yes and 3 no.

President Hobbs asked the City Solicitor if 15 was a two-thirds vote.

The City Solicitor said the Council now had 22 members, and 15 was two-thirds. He would rule that 15 was a two-thirds but it would be wise to have 16.

President Hobbs then directed the clerk to complete the roll and the order was passed by a vote of 16 yes and 3 no as follows:

YES—Bolster, Boyd, Branch, Bryant, Cantfill, Carey, Cherrington, Ericson, Flynn, Gardner, Histen, Hobbs, Loud, McDevitt, Smith, Whiton—16.

NO—Clark, Nowland, Richards—3.

ABSENT—Sandberg, Woodward—2.

LOOKED LIKE A WAFFLE.

Ex-Senator "Billy" Mason tells of a political campaign in South Dakota wherein he had been called upon by the state committee to take a part. When Mason arrived at his first town, where he was to deliver a speech the next day, he found that the two so-called hotels were crowded to the doors.

He was compelled for that night to sleep on a wire cot that had only some blankets and a sheet on it.

As Mr. Mason is a man of considerable avoirdupois, he found his improvised bed anything but comfortable.

"Well," asked the proprietor when the politician appeared in the morning, "how did you sleep?"

"Fairly well," answered Mason, "but I certainly looked like a waffle when I got up."

GAGADIG GIGADAB.

There was a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who for many years went by the unique name of Gagadig Gigadab. His original name was John Smith, and for many years he brooded over the possibilities of mistaken identity involved in it. The name figured frequently in criminal records, and he became abnormally apprehensive lest he might be confused with some of the bad John Smiths. At last what he feared so much actually happened. One morning the papers reported the arrest of an accountant in a bank for embezzlement and through some blunder of the reporter the identity of the embezzler was confused with the subject of this article, who was also a bank accountant. Then and there he determined to assume a name like unto no other ever borne by mortal man. And in Gagadig Gigadab most people will agree that he succeeded in so doing.—New York Tribune.

DRIVEN TO BANKRUPTCY

Majority of Creditors of Boston Stock "Brokeress" Are Women

Boston, Nov. 1.—Insight into the passion of women for stock gambling, and the names of some who sought to make money by guessing right on the ticker were divulged when Mrs. Annie E. McKenzie, who formerly conducted a stock brokerage office, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $5638.79 and no assets.

The majority of the creditors are women and their names appear in the petition filed yesterday. It is possible that further proceedings may bring to light names of others who came out ahead in their operations.

Mrs. McKenzie stated that she had not been in business for a year and a half. Her creditors drove her into bankruptcy, she claimed, by threatening to put her in the poor debtors' court.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Quincy Invited to Send Delegates to Convention

Mayor William T. Shea has just received from A. Lincoln Filene chairman of the committee in charge of the local arrangements, an invitation to attend the fourth annual convention of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, which will be held in Boston Nov. 17-18-19.

This educational convention, from all indications, will be one of the most important gatherings that has ever come to New England, bringing here the United States Commissioner of Labor, the president of the Wabash railroad and many other notable speakers.

The need of better plans and methods of preparing young people to do their work in the world will, as a matter of fact, be emphasized during the whole third week in November, for the National Society's convention will be preceded on the 15th and 16th by the first national conference ever held on the subject of vocational guidance—one arranged under the joint auspices of the Boston Vocation Bureau and the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The meetings and discussions of these five days, all of which except the banquet on Thursday evening, are free to the general public, will be likely to draw a heavy attendance from the nearby cities of New England.

In explanation of the character of the convention Mr. Filene writes to Mayor Shea:

"Dear Sir:—I am writing to give you the preliminary announcement of of the fourth annual convention of the national Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, which will be held this winter in Boston on November 17, 18 and 19; and also to extend to you on behalf of the Local Committee of Boston an official invitation to send two appointed delegates to this convention.

"At the present time the problems of Industrial Education are becoming of such vital consequence in the wise administration of the school systems of so many of our industrial and agricultural communities that we consider ourselves extremely fortunate in securing for Massachusetts the convention of this National Society for this year, and I therefore trust that you will be able to send delegates to take part in and to profit by the discussion.

"The programs which are arranged for Thursday evening and Friday morning, afternoon and evening and for Saturday morning are of unusual interest. The full program with all its details will later appear in the public press.

"Thanking you for letting me know the names of those whom you have selected as delegates to represent your community, I am,

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "A. Lincoln Filene."

The National Society for Promotion of Industrial Education, which was formed in New York City in 1906, has already done a remarkable work in uniting the many forces throughout the country that are making education more practical and helpful. The annual conventions are designed not only to enable specialists to get together but also to interest manufacturers and other employers, teachers whose business it is to train boys and girls to be efficient and self supporting adults, and everybody else who realizes the value of the present day movement for improved industrial training.

THE PRISONER'S FRIEND.

The Sunday afternoon meeting of the Y. M. C. A. for older boys was addressed by Daniel McKay, the prisoner's friend. Some were disappointed because they expected to hear Inspector McKay of the Quincy force. Mr. McKay has made it his life work to go to the different prisons throughout the country and cheer up and convert the prisoners. He told of many experiences in connection with his work. The principal subject of his address was "The types of prisoners and why they were in prison." The three types are (1) those who commit crime with malice aforethought, (2) those who commit crime in a sudden burst of passion, and (3) those who commit crime through heredity. Drink and temper were the principal causes of imprisonment. Mr. McKay thought that a distinction should be made between those who were wilfully malicious and those who could not help themselves (type 3.). The attention of every one of the 50 boys who were present was held for over 40 minutes.

TOWNS TO FIGHT GOVERNMENT

Object to Order of War Department for New Bridge

A meeting of representatives from Quincy, Weymouth, Hingham and Cohasset was held in the selectmens rooms at Weymouth on Monday evening, to take action in regard to the order of the War department to rebuild the bridge between Weymouth and Hingham. Under the order of the War department the City of Quincy and towns mentioned above must bear the expense of the proposed bridge, which seems unjust from the fact that the new bridge is solely for the benefit of the government.

The City of Quincy was represented at the meeting by Dock and Water Front Commissioner Frank F. Crane. The meeting voted to appoint a committee to take up the matter with the government. The committee appointed are:—John W. McAnarney, Albert P. Worther and Joseph O. Bardett.

GARFIELD STREET PARTY.

A very unique Hallowe'en party was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Catherine McLeod of 47 Garfield street. The guests were greeted upon entering the house by ghosts and witches located in different corners and the walls were tastefully decorated with sprites and fairies. Games were in order until a late hour. The game of "Donkey" made things merry for a while and prizes were awarded Thomas Joyce and William Hogan. Musical selections were rendered by Thomas Joyce, Miss Annie Connors and Allie McDonald. Solos by George Nelson, Misses Annie Connors and Julia Duffy. Miss Mary Garbarmo favored with her special dance. Whistling solo by John Gillis. Refreshments were served.

CAR ACCIDENT.

Angus McDonald, of 8 Hersey place, had a narrow escape Sunday evening by being thrown while trying to alight from a car while it was in motion. Mr. McDonald boarded the 8.45 P. M. car for Quincy at Chubbuck street. With him were two ladies whom he assisted onto the car, accompanying them to seats. The conductor was in the car collecting fares, and after paying for the two ladies, Mr. McDonald went to the rear platform and jumped off. The car had made considerable headway, and he fell, cutting a gash over his eye, and was rendered partly unconscious. He was assisted by the conductor and friends to the office of Dr. Bushnell, where his injuries were attended.

VERMONT IS THIRD.

The 16 ships in the Atlantic fleet are rated in the following order in the department records for gun efficiency: Delaware, Minnesota, Vermont, Idaho, Nebraska, North Dakota, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Rhode Island, Louisiana, Virginia, Mississippi, Connecticut, Kansas, Georgia, Michigan. This order may be changed, as all the armored cruisers are yet to fire under the same rules and have a chance to win the trophy. Splendid shooting was done by all the ships, and considering the increased range, from 6,500 to more than 10,000 yards, greater accuracy was attained than on any previous practice.

The Vermont, North Dakota and Rhode Island were built in Quincy.

MAYOR VISITS ADAMS HOUSES

Endorses Proposition as to Quincy Flag Days

Flags were flying at the birthplaces of President John Adams and President John Quincy Adams on Monday in honor of a visit from Mayor Shea who was accompanied by ex-Mayor Fairbanks, the present City Auditor. The Mayor took a keen interest in inspecting the historical relics in both houses under escort of Benjamin King the caretaker of the Quincy Historical Society. At the John Adams birthplace in charge of the Daughters of the Revolution, Mr. King made a great hit by playing on the old piano said to be over 200 years old. He also sang to his own accompaniment. Mayor Shea endorsed the suggestion to make the birthday anniversaries of John Adams and John Quincy Adams flag days for Quincy, the City of Presidents, and may issue a proclamation.

HE SURPRISED HER.

A farmer out Laddonia way drove to Bowling Green one afternoon to do some shopping. His wife had reproached him often about his shabbiness, so to surprise her he bought in Bowling Green, along with his seeds and tools and whatnot, a complete rig from the skin out.

As the farmer drove home in the twilight an idea struck him, and, halting his wagon on a bridge over a deep stream, he took off his old patched coat, doubled it up and flung it in the water.

"Won't Emily be surprised?" he said to himself. "Won't she be took aback when she sees me so spick and span?"

He took off his waistcoat and sent it after his coat. Then he flung his hat into the stream, then his shirt, then his shoes and socks, then his trousers. And so this disrobing act kept on until the farmer—it was of course, pitch dark by now—had nothing further to disrobe.

"I'll certainly surprise the wife," he said.

Then, shivering a little in the evening air, he reached down for the package of new clothes. It wasn't under the seed bag. So he hopped lightly to the back of the wagon and searched the floor on hands and knees. But the bundle wasn't on the floor either. For quite five minutes the farmer looked for it. And then, with a sigh, he took his old place again on the hard, old seat and drove off homeward through the darkness.

It was a long ride and a chilly ride for the white, slim figure holding the reins, but it ended at last, and the farmer hopped from the wagon and dashed nimbly indoors, hoping to reach his room unnoticed.

But his wife, a lamp in her hand, came full upon him in the hall. The strange, snowy apparition, moving so lightly, gave her a great shock.

"Why, father" she said.

But the farmer, brushing her aside, sped upstairs three steps at a time.

"I said I'd surprise ye," he shouted grimly, "and, by gosh, I reckin I have done it!"—Washington Star.

HE OBEYED INSTRUCTIONS.

Christ Nelson, having been in this country only a few weeks, was slow in learning American customs, and especially the inscriptions on envelopes. One of his first acts after landing in Oregon was to take out naturalization papers. On the corner of the envelope, in which were contained the documents that make him an American citizen, were the words: "Return in five days."

"Wal, I be har," he said, yesterday, as he shuffled up to the counter in the county clerk's office, and spoke to Deputy Prasp.

"What do you want?" asked that official, carefully noting the embarrassed flush on the Swede's face.

"Wal, it say on this har envelope 'return in five days,' and the time be up today, so I kan come round."

When assured that nobody wanted him, he turned with surprise and walked sadly away, not certain whether he was naturalized or not.—Portland Oregonian.

His Other Self

A Forgery Within the Law

By MARY D. BLAKE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

A man was sitting on the piazza of a summer hotel in Maine when another man came up the steps and, after eying him sharply, advanced toward him and said:

"Mr. Pierson, I believe."

"You have the advantage of me, sir."

"I have seen you several times and have been introduced to you. Are you not Richard Pierson of Chicago?"

"If you will excuse me, sir, I prefer not to tell you who I am until I learn something about yourself. Doubtless you are perfectly honest and sincere in taking me for an acquaintance, but you must admit that such methods are so often taken with a sinister motive that it behooves us to be on our guard on the advances of a stranger."

"You are perfectly right. I am Mark Anderson and have often been in Chicago. There I have met Mr. Richard Pierson. If you are not he you resemble him sufficiently to be his twin brother."

"I confess," replied the other, softening, "that I have often been taken for this man Pierson. I wish that I could say that I am he, for I understand he has a fortune. When were you in Chicago, sir?"

Anderson told him that he had left Chicago but a few weeks ago, adding:

"If you are not Richard Pierson of Chicago will you now kindly tell me who you are?"

"Lovering is my name—Alexander Lovering."

Mr. Anderson, while he carefully refrained from appearing to court Mr. Lovering, lost no opportunity of putting himself in his way. Lovering at first appeared to be trying to avoid the man, but gradually gave way and suffered himself to become intimate with his new acquaintance. Finally Anderson mentioned a certain young widow—a Mrs. Markland. Lovering pricked up his ears.

"The man you resemble," said Anderson, "was at one time attentive to her."

Lovering winced.

One morning the two men were in the writing room of the hotel. Lovering was writing a letter. He had finished and addressed it and was beginning another when he was called away, leaving the addressed letter on the table at which he had written it. When he returned Anderson said to him:

"Do you know that your handwriting is very like that of the man I mistook you for?"

"How do you know that?" asked Lovering.

"I could not help seeing the address on the letter you left on the table when you went out."

"Are you familiar with this man—what's his name?"

"Pierson."

"Pierson's handwriting?"

"Yes."

"How did you become so?"

"Well, the fact is that Pierson was a suitor for the hand of a woman I know."

"And she showed you his letters?"

"She did once."

"Did she consider that honorable?"

"Well the truth is I had heard things about Pierson, and, the lady being my friend, I thought it my duty to tell her. She showed me a letter to convince me that I was mistaken, but I convinced her at last."

Lovering did not seem to take enough interest in the matter to follow it further.

"I wonder," said Anderson, "if your signature is as much like Pierson's as your handwriting is."

"We're not of the same name."

"Write his name, Richard G. Pierson."

Lovering wrote the name and showed it to Anderson, who studied it carefully. "I think I have a note from Pierson," he said. "I'll get it and compare the two signatures."

Going to his room, he returned with the note. It simply informed Mr. Anderson that a certain request of his could not be granted.

"Not even an expert," said Anderson, "could tell the signatures apart."

He looked up at Lovering and found Lovering looking at him with a changed, a cunning, expression.

"Let's drop this fencing," said the latter. "I understand what you are up to."

"Well?"

"I'm your man, but I won't have anything to do with the matter except the penmanship."

"You mean"—

"I'll write the check. You'll have to do the rest."

"You tumble too easily. I'm afraid of you."

"Nothing risked, nothing gained."

"What amount do you propose to go for?"

"What do you propose? This is your suggestion. I suppose you have figured on getting funds out of this man before and are posted on what he will stand."

This was true. Anderson had figured on getting funds from Pierson and knew where he kept his bank account and what was his credit. It was agreed between the two men that Lovering should draw a check for $25,000 on a certain bank in New York where Anderson knew Pierson kept an average balance of $50,000 he used for margins on stock operations. The rascals were to go to New York together to perpetrate the swindle. One thing Lovering insisted on, to which Anderson demurred—Lovering claimed that since he would do the forging he alone would be guilty. Anderson could throw the whole burden on him. Lovering also changed his mind about the method of drawing the money. Resembling Pierson so closely, he would need no identification at the bank. He could present the check with certainty that it would be paid without question. He therefore required Anderson to write him a proposition to get $25,000 out of Pierson by forging his name and personating him. Lovering refused to proceed with the matter until Anderson gave him this paper, and Anderson finally consented.

The conspirators parted to meet in New York on a certain day in September. Anderson went first, in order to investigate Pierson's bank account with a view to determining if it would stand a draft upon it such as was meditated. Anderson wished to defer the execution of the paper Lovering required till the time of drawing the money, but Lovering refused to go to New York at all without the paper in his possession. He succeeded in convincing his pal that a proposition to perpetrate a fraud was not in the eye of the law the same as perpetrating a fraud. Indeed, there was a great difference. This removed Anderson's objections so far as to induce him to sign the paper.

When the day appointed came round Anderson and Lovering met in the lobby of a New York hotel.

"Well," said Lovering, "what do you know?"

"I know that a certain lady on whom Pierson has long been sweet is in the city. Therefore it is probable that Pierson himself is not far off, though he's not so thick with her as he was"—

"You mean since you broke up the intimacy between them?"

"Well, that's about it."

"How could you, a crook, prejudice a lady against a gentleman?"

"I've never been in a scheme like this before. I belong to a good family."

"Well, never mind your family. What have you found out about Pierson's bank balance?"

"He had over $70,000 in bank yesterday."

"How did you find it out?"

"I'm in with one of the bookkeepers."

"Ah! You are! Well, did you get one of the bank's blank checks?"

"Yes. Here it is."

He produced his pocketbook and took out several blank checks. "The only risk," he said, "is this—Pierson's checks have printed numbers on them. The teller may notice this is not numbered."

"I'll fix that by calling for one of the bank's checks and signing it right there before him."

"Good! I never thought of that. Then you can pay me my share, and he'll think you drew the money for a special purpose."

The same afternoon the two men entered the bank where Pierson kept his account. Lovering went to the paying teller's window and said:

"Goodwin, give me a blank check. I want some money."

"All right, Mr. Pierson." And he handed the bit of paper through the window.

Lovering took it to a shelf where were writing materials and wrote the check and signed it with as firm a hand as if he were drawing his own money.

"You're a cool one," said Anderson, who was trembling like a leaf.

Lovering presented the check and asked for the money in $500 bills. The two men waited till the sum was counted, then received it through the teller's window.

As they left the bank Anderson drew a long breath. "You did that splendidly," he said. "How could you keep your nerve?"

"An honest man's nerve is never strained by his conscience," replied the other. "I drew my own money."

"What do you mean?" asked Anderson, starting.

"I am Richard Pierson, the man whom your lying tongue separated from Virginia Markland. You needn't shiver; you are in no danger. I have simply got you down in black and white that you are a swindler. How you ever fooled a lady of Mrs. Markland's good sense is a mystery to me, though I admit you are as plausible a rascal as I ever met. Now go before I kick you down these steps."

Anderson lost no time in obeying the order, and Pierson, re-entering the bank, deposited the money he had drawn.

That evening he sent a card up to Virginia Markland, who was staying at one of the uptown hotels. On it was written, "I have an explanation to make." He met the lady in her parlor, but was coldly received.

"It is only recently," he said, "that by accident I have discovered who poisoned you against me. I confess that I am astonished at your having listened to a man who should be in state prison."

"To whom do you refer?"

"Edward Anderson."

"Mr. Anderson is a gentleman."

"If you think so read this."

He drew the contract by which he and Anderson were to obtain money by forgery. Then he told the story of how he acquired it.

The lady admitted that without this written evidence she would not have believed that one she had long honored with her friendship could be a common swindler. She asked forgiveness and was forgiven.

BRIEFS

November.

All Saints day.

Frosty this morning.

Ten months of 1910 have passed.

State election a week from today.

The afternoons will reach their shortest Dec. 3.

There undoubtedly will be considerable activity the next two months installing water meters.

The November meeting of the Board of Trade will be held tomorrow evening in the Adams building.

Never was Hallowe'en more generally observed in Quincy than this year. Parties were held everywhere.

Quincy's civic centre, as well as the estate of the late Henry H. Faxon is being improved by the removal of the stable adjoining the Faxon house.

A recent engagement which has brought forth many congratulations is that of Miss Bessie Bartlett Tucker, daughter of Mrs. A. W. Tucker of Wollaston, to Frank Lincoln Adams of Dorchester.

Fragment society of First church is to hold an allday meeting tomorrow in the church parlor, members taking box lunches. The ladies are preparing for a sale and supper on the evening of Nov. 16.

The regular communication of Rural lodge this week will be the annual, and a special has been called for Nov. 17 to receive an official visit from Rt. Wor. Hartley L. White, D. D. G. M., of the 24th Masonic district.

Mrs. Stanley Bone of Putnam street, formerly teacher of domestic science in St. Louis, is to address the Mothers' association tomorrow afternoon at Bethany chapel. Her subject will be "The Hygienically Clean Home."

At the Saturday evening whist party held in Clan McGregor hall, souvenirs were awarded to Mrs. W. Prout, Joe Cillis, Mrs. Denton, Mrs. W. Huber, Miss Rundle and C. Fletcher and consolation to Mrs. J. Higgs and L. Berman.

W. H. F. Browne of Elm avenue sailed today from New York for Europe, where he will travel through Scotland, England, France, Germany, Austria and other countries in the interests of the Jordan, Marsh Co. of Boston. Mr. Browne will be absent about two months, returning shortly before Christmas.

THIRTY-SEVEN STATES VOTE

In Elections Which Occur Next Tuesday

LARGE ISSUES ARE INVOLVED

Practically Whole of Congress Will Be Elected—Thirty United States Senators to Be Chosen by New Legislatures—Twenty-Eight States Vote Full Tickets—Long String In Empie and Keystone States

Washington, Nov. 1.—The general elections of Nov. 8 will be second in importance only to that in a presidential year. Practically the whole of congress will be elected; and on the result of the vote for the state legislatures rests the strength of the parties in the United States senate. Thirty senators will complete their terms next March 3, twenty-four Republicans and six Democrats.

Twenty-eight states will elect full tickets, including the governors. In nine others justices of the supreme court and minor officers are to be chosen, and in Indiana state officers, with the exception of the governor, are to be voted upon.

Two of the states, Maine and Vermont, have already chosen their congressmen, but Arkansas and Georgia, which have held their state elections, will go to the polls next week for their representatives in congress. In the same way Maryland, Mississippi, Virginia and West Virginia, which have no state officials to select, will turn all their energies on their representatives in congress and various constitutional amendments, and in West Virginia on the legislature as well. Alabama, Maryland and Vermont have already elected their senators.

In South Carolina and Louisiana the outlook is simplified by the fact that it has not seemed worth while for any party to put a ticket in the field except the Democratic. At the other end of the scale are New York and Pennsylvania, the electors of which have no less than six parties competing. New York, besides the regular two parties, the Prohibition, and the two Socialist organizations, has the Independence League. Pennsylvania, besides the Republican, Democratic, Prohibition and Socialist tickets, has also one styled the Keystone party (Independent) and another known as the Industrial party. In two other states local organizations appear to complicate the situation, the People's Independent (Populist) in Nebraska and the American (anti-Mormon) in Utah.

The Prohibitionists will bring their fight before several states in the form of constitutional amendments.

Socialist tickets have been nominated in thirty-four states, but they will have to meet the opposition of the Socialist Labor party in eight of these —Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, Ohio and Texas.

Constitutional amendments are before a majority of the states holding elections, but most of them are of merely local interest.

Woman's suffrage will be considered at the polls in four states. Oregon, by its proposed amendment to the constitution introduced by the initiative, may grant the suffrage to all taxpayers regardless of sex, and Oklahoma, South Dakota and Washington have similar proposals before them.

According to their present constitutions every ten years the voters of Iowa and every twenty years the voters of Ohio must be asked whether they are satisfied with the constitution as it stands or wish for a constitutional convention. These periods have now arrived and the citizens of these states will express their views on this question next week.

DISAPPEARED IN 1908

Former Bank Teller, Recently Caught, Charged With $7300 Theft

Boston, Nov. 1.—Harold B. Faxon, one-time paying teller of the People's National bank of Roxbury, was held in $15,000 by Judge Dodge in the United States district court on a charge of embezzlinz $7300 from the bank in 1903.

Faxon was arraigned on an indictment returned in 1908. Nothing had been heard from him from the time he disappeared until three weeks ago, when he was located in Goldfield, Nev., where he had been working in a mine under the name of "Jack Morgan" and where he had married the daughter of Donald Ferguson, a mine owner.

Hen Thieves Routed With Gun

Brockton, Mass., Nov. 1.—Discovering four men trying to steal his prize hens James B. Forrestall, who has a large poultry farm, shot at the thieves. One of the men was hit in the leg, but his companions carried him to an awaiting carriage, helped him into it and the four men escaped.

Suicide In Public Garden

Boston, Nov. 1.—A negro girl committed suicide in the public garden last night by drinking carbolic acid. There were no marks of identification upon her and no one has claimed her.

GIBBY GETS ONE DOLLAR

Legislative Agent Had Brought Suit to Recover $10,000

Boston, Nov. 1.—Ben F. Gibby, a legislative agent, won his suit against Richard H. Long, the South Framingham shoe manufacturer, for services in his behalf in the 1907 legislature in opposition to the United Shoe Machinery company, the jury returning a verdict in his favor of $1.

Gibby brought a suit for $10,000 which he alleged Long still owed him, although Long had paid him $2000. Gibby said that he did not get the second $1000, but that it went to John J. Curley, who is in the city collector's office. Curley, on the witness stand, said he got $1000.

Gibby has not collected the dollar which the jury awarded him. In the first place he doesn't need the money. In the second place he's going to take the case to the supreme court for decision on points of law.

SUIT INSTEAD OF WEDDING

Widower Quits Young Bride-Elect on Day Set For Marriage

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 1.—After 17-year-old Melvine Berroult had made all the preparations for her wedding and was putting on the gown which her betrothed helped her select a week ago, she received a letter from her fiance, Nelson Bouquette, telling her it was all off and the marriage would not take place.

"But I am willing to settle for any expense I may have caused you," wrote the man, who is a widower, the father of a 12-year-old daughter. The marriage was to have taken place yesterday in St. Jean Baptiste church.

Miss Berroult had an attorney consult the widower, who said he was willing to pay $60 to his bride-that-was-to-have-been in weekly installments of $1. The lawyer decided to enter a breach of promise suit for his client against Bouquette.

HE ONLY REPEATED PUBLISHER'S WORDS

Kreitler Denies Threat of Building Being "Blown Up"

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Albert B. Kreitler, third vice president of the International Printing Pressmens and Assistants' Union of North America, made the following statement in reference to a dispatch sent recently from Denver:

"Press dispatches have quoted me as saying, in a talk before the Trades and Labor assembly at Denver, that the 'newspaper building would blow up before a settlement would be made with the pressmen's union,' leading the public to believe I had been advocating the perpetration of such a dastardly deed.

"A local publisher made the statement to me that he 'would see the building blown up before he would settle with the pressmens' union. In my talk I simply quoted the publisher to show his attitude toward the pressmens' union. The incendiary words are those of the publisher, but have been attributed to me."

NEW REVOLT IN PORTUGAL

Display of Military Disloyalty Toward the New Government

Lisbon, Nov. 1.—Troops were massed about the government house and soldiers were held in readiness in the barracks as the result of the unearthing of a military conspiracy and the arrest of thirty-two officers charged with secretly plotting against the new republic.

President Braga, the provisional head of the republic, declared that the trouble came about through an investigation by the judiciary and not of the cabinet.

Drastic measures were taken to prevent the further display of disloyalty. It is reported that the cabinet fears that a secret cabal exists to overthrow the republic and set Manuel back upon the throne.

EVERY MAN TO BE OWN DOCTOR

Iowa Man Proposes to Drive Death From Country

HE ORGANIZES A SOCIETY

Rational Treatment of Mind and Body the Method—Children Properly Raised Expected to Attain Old Testament Longevity Records—Blow at Death to Be Asked For at Hands of Iowa Legislature

Des Moines, Nov. 1.—War has at last been declared on Death. An Iowa man proposes to drive Death out of the country or at least so spoil his business that he can claim victims only at the age of several hundred years.

Clinton Merrick of Forest City is the man who has undertaken this task. He has organized the Anti-Sick and Anti-Death Association of America and purposes to lead those who will to the fountain of eternal youth. It's no spring such as was dreamed of by Ponce de Leon, according to Merrick, but a system of rational treatment of body and mind and the proper education of rising generations.

Mr. Merrick is not claiming that people who have worn out lives and are about ready to die can get a new grip of life for several hundred years, but he contends children can be so raised that they will enjoy lives commensurate with those of which children wonderingly read in the Old Testament.

The first blow at death is to be asked at the hands of the Iowa legislature this coming winter. Then the Anti-Death society will ask the general assembly to pass a law making it compulsory to teach in public schools and colleges the cause and remedy so far as known of physical diseases and also for the perpetuation of life or lengthening of life by giving broad publicity to the knowledge now known and to later be attained by scientific investigation of broken down tissues and cells and how to replace them with warm, healthy blood as does the robust child in building bone, muscle and tissue.

It is the belief of the club that every child should be thoroughly educated in the knowledge of cause and remedy of physical diseases. It means the installation into the public schools of instruction along medical lines.

Instead of having a few doctors for a whole lot of people when they become ill, Merrick believes in making every man his own doctor by giving him the knowledge how to protect his health and care for himself all the time. He argues few people would need doctors if they took the proper care of their minds and bodies.

The association just held a convention at Forest City which was well attended and a large legislative committee was appointed, with Merrick at the head, to draft laws to be introduced in the coming legislature looking toward carrying out the program of universal education on questions of health and the eradication of death from Iowa.

TAXPAYERS GET BUSY

Turn Over $7,000,000 Into Boston City Treasury In One Day

Boston, Nov. 1.—Upward of $7,000,000 in taxes were taken in by City Collector Parker and his staff of assistants at city hall yesterday. Today is the last day before the time for the placing of 6 percent interest on all tax money owing the city, and the lower floor of city hall was thronged yesterday with taxpayers during the five hours that the city collector's office was open.

The largest contribution to the city treasury yesterday in the way of taxes was made by Francis Welch, who is a trustee for a number of large estates. Welch sent a check for an amount slightly in excess of $1,000,000.

HAVE PAIN IN THE NECK

Airship Fans Responsible For New Disease Named Aeroplanitis

New York, Nov. 1.—Aeorplanitis is the latest disease. Many doctors have been puzzled for several days by patients complaining of sharp pains in the neck and shoulders closely resembling rheumatism, though few had ever been affected by that ailment hitherto.

All of those complaining had attended the aviation meet at Belmont park, and the physicians have decided that the trouble was caused by the efforts made to watch the birdmen in their flights, causing severe strain on the muscles.

Temporary Heat Quickly

Did you ever stop to think of the many ways in which a perfect oil heater is of value? If you want to sleep with your window open in winter, you can get sufficient heat from an oil heater while you undress at night, and then turn it off. Apply a match in the morning, when you get out of bed, and you have heat while you dress.

Those who have to eat an early breakfast before the stove is radiating heat can get immediate warmth from an oil heater, and then turn it off.

The girl who practices on the piano in a cold room in the morning can have warmth from an oil heater while she plays, and then turn it off.

The member of the family who has to walk the floor on a cold winter's night with a restless baby can get temporary heat with an oil heater, and then turn it off. The

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER
Absolutely smokeless and odorless

is invaluable in its capacity of quickly giving heat. Apply a match and it is immediately at work. It will burn for nine hours without refilling. It is safe, smokeless and odorless. It has a damper top and a cool handle. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font.

It has an automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be cleaned in an instant.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and can be quickly unscrewed for rewicking. Finished in japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

GET THE HELP QUINCY GROW HABIT

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Quincy People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in quick succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with a certain and safe remedy. Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Quincy.

[illegible] Hegarty, 367 Granite St., Quincy, Mass., says: "Some time ago I suffered severely from kidney disease that I could hardly get about. I was restless at night and could not find any position in which I was comfortable. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and contained a heavy sediment. I was growing worse and was at a loss to know what to do, as the many remedies I tried failed to help me. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store. After I had taken the contents of four boxes, I was in good health. I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

SOARS UPWARD 9714 FEET

Johnstone Breaks World's Record For Altitude In Aeroplane

New York, Nov. 1.—A "baby" Wright roadster, with Ralph Johnstone at the wheel, glided gracefully to earth in the twilight at the close of the international aviation meet at Belmont park last evening, with the barograph registering a new world's record for altitude.

The little machine of only 35 horsepower had been up 9714 feet, exceeding by 528 feet the height attained in France by Henry Wynmalen of Holland.

Claude Grahame-White, who carries away the Gordon Bennett trophy, which takes the next international tournament to England, sharpened the sporting appetite with a challenge to John B. Moisant, the Chicagoan, for another race from the park around the Statue of Liberty, in New York harbor, and return. Moisant, who won the $10,000 for his fast flight around the statue, ignored the challenge.

EXPERTS TO PROBE LUMBER TARIFFS

Good Progress on Canadian Reciprocity Arrangement

Washington, Nov. 1.—The possibilities for reciprocity with Canada have progressed to the point where the tariff board is about to take up some of the schedules of the present law which would be affected.

The chemical schedule, upon which a start was made several weeks ago, will be allowed to wait tentatively at least, and it is said to be not unlikely that an investigation of the lumber schedule, which would be one of the principal factors in a reciprocity arrangement, will take its place.

Experts who have been working on the pulp-wood and paper schedule in which the Canadian arrangements also would be concerned, are also making progress beyond the expectations of the board.

Supreme Court Ruling Regarding Jurymen In Murder Cases

Washington, Nov. 1.—A man's constitutional rights are not necessarily violated by a jury, which is trying him on a charge of murder, being allowed to separate and to read newspapers during the trial. It was so held by the supreme court of the United States. The court also held similarly in regard to the refusal of a judge to send a jury out of the courtroom during arguments on the admission of evidence.

Furthermore, the court laid down the rule that the act requiring the accused to put on a coat, alleged to have been worn when the crime was committed, did not amount to "requiring a prisoner to testify against himself."

Accidentally Kills Stepbrother

Lincoln, Me., Nov. 1.—Millage Lyons, 10 years old, was accidentally shot and killed by his young stepsister, Helen Cole. The boy had just returned home from a hunting trip with his father. MANY STRIKING IN SYMPATHY

More Than Ten Thousand Express Employes Are Out

STRIKEBREAKERS ATTACKED

Missiles of All Kinds Hurled at Them in Streets of New York—Police Deal In No Gentle Manner With Offenders—Protest Against Presence of Bluecoats on Wagons—"Everything on Wheels" May Stop

New York, Nov. 1.—The striking expressmen gained adherents when between 1500 and 1800 workers of Monahan's Express, the Boston Dispatch and the Manhattan Delivery company, joined issue with them. The platform men of the American Express company at the Grand Central station and the same company's waybill clerks went out in sympathy.

It had previously been reported that the Boston Dispatch and the Manhattan Delivery company were involved, but the walk-out did not occur until Monday. More than 10,000 men are now on strike, demanding increased pay and shorter hours.

There were many small disturbances in various parts of New York city as strikers attacked wagons manned by strike-breakers. Stones and missiles of all kinds were thrown and several drivers and their helpers were badly hurt.

William Hoyt, a helper on an American Express wagon, had his skull crushed with a brickbat and probably will die. All the disturbances were quickly quelled by the police, who dealt in no gentle manner with the strikers.

Many arrests were made and heavy fines imposed. Policemen sat with the drivers of the 315 wagons of all companies that made deliveries in the city, and an escort of from one to three mounted patrolmen followed each wagon.

It was announced at strikers' headquarters last evening that a conference with Mayor Gaynor had been arranged for today, when the representatives of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters will make formal protest to the mayor against the employment of the municipal police as guards on the wagons of the express companies.

It was stated also that a meeting of the executive heads of the local unions had been arranged for today to discuss the advisability of calling a general strike of "everything on wheels in the city" affiliated with the unions, excepting railroads.

The loss to perishable goods still continues to be heavy.

Over the river in New Jersey there was no disorder. Governor Fort arrived in Jersey City yesterday afternoon and made a tour of the city with the mayor, visiting the headquarters of the express companies. His object was to determine whether it would be necessary to call out the troops to maintain order. National guardsmen have been awaiting emergency orders since Saturday.

PARLIAMENT FOR CHINA

Prince Regent Yields After Holding Out For Several Years

Pekin, Nov. 1.—Prince Yu Lang, a member of the grand council of the Chinese empire, during a speech in the senate declared that the entire nation was agreed upon the necessity of an early convocation of a general parliament.

Members of the senate were given the impression that the throne had acceded to the request for a parliament to be assembled at an early date, and that the attitude of the prince regent in holding out for several years had been rescinded.

The importance of this concession on the part of the government can be scarcely over-estimated, in view of its recent refusal to entertain a similar request made by a delegation from the provincial assemblies last June.

NATURAL SCENERY.

Its Defacement in Massachusetts by Advertisements.

The last Legislature referred this question to the Highway Commission and requested them to investigate as to whether or not modifications in the existing law are necessary. At a hearing held by the Highway Commission at their office in Boston, Oct. 26, Albert R. Shattuck of Lenox, said: The laws of Massachusetts on this subject read as follows:

"Chapter 208, Section 115. Whoever paints or puts upon or in any manner affixes to any fence, structure, pole, rock of other object which is the property of another, whether within or without the limits of the highway, any words, device, trade-mark, advertisement or notice which is not required by law to be posted thereon, without first obtaining the written consent of the owner or tenant of such property, shall, upon complaint of such owner, or of his tenant or any municipal or public officer, be punished by a fine of not more than ten dollars. Any word, device, trade-mark, advertisement or notice which has been painted, put up or affixed within the limits of a highway in violation of the provisions of this section, shall be considered a public nuisance, and may be forthwith removed or obliterated and abated by any person."

This statute has been a law of the State for about 37 years, except the last paragraph which has been a law of the State for the past 12 years. The statute prohibits the putting up of advertisements on private property without first obtaining the written consent of the owner or tenant and it prohibits the putting up of advertisements within the limits of the highway and provides that such advertisements are a public nuisance and may be forthwith removed or obliterated or abated by any person.

Contrary to this law, certain hotel keepers and keepers of garages have defaced our beautiful State by advertising signs, advertising the fact that they keep a hotel or keep a garage. Certain other persons authorized by this law to abate this nuisance have destroyed many of these signs.

Last winter the proprietor of a hotel and keeper of a garage above referred to finding that they could not advertise their wares by signs upon the highways without transgressing the law, sought the easy road of asking the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to repeal the law above quoted and to substitute in its place a bill which one of their number, Mr. Dennis Morrissey, who keeps a garage at Stockbridge, petitioned for. Such bill is known as Senate Bill No. 46. This bill is most amusing. It permits, under very slender restrictions, interested parties to erect signs furnishing information to the travelling public relative to distances and directions to city or towns, or other information. Here is the African in the wood pile in the words "or other information." You see it would only be necessary for Mr. Morrissey to state that it was 11 miles to Stockbridge and then "the other information" could very well be a flaming advertisement of his garage. The Act went on and actually provided a penalty for anybody who destroyed such a sign, the penalty to be not less than $10 nor more than $500, or a person destroying such a sign could be imprisoned for not more than 30 days.

The repeal of the present law and the enactment of Senate Bill No. 46 raised such a hubbub that the persons who desired to advertise their business on the highways thought it best to try and modify the bill. A number of modifications were suggested, one of which was that a person who desired to remove an illegal sign should be authorized so to do by the Aldermen of the City of Selectmen of the Town in which the matter complained of was situated. Another was that the petition for the removal of such illegal sign must be made by a citizen or tax payer of a city or town. No citizen of the State could petition for the removal, but it must be a citizen or tax payer of a city or town. Another provision was that if such authority to remove was secured, that the sign should be removed in a careful manner, having regard for its preservation and should be kept by the person removing same with ordinary care and should be delivered to the owner thereof, or his representative, when so requested to do. Another provision was that within two days after removing such sign the person making such removal should deposit with the city or town clerk of the place where such sign or advertisement was a written memorandum signed by the person making the removal, which would state the date of the removal and give a description sufficient for identification of the place from which removal was made and the residence of the person making the removal.

Because of the present law which has been in force in its present shape for some 12 years, the beautiful State of Massachusetts has fewer advertising signs than I think, any other State of the Union. In New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and New Jersey the manufacturers of automobiles and automobile tires seem to be covering the States with their advertisements because there is no law prohibiting them. The State of Massachusetts has suffered less than the neighboring states in this respect because of its most excellent laws on the subject and I think you will all agree with me that our beautiful State is less covered by advertisements on the highways than any other State in the Union.

I hope that your Commission which has done so much to beautify the State, not only by building the best roads in the world but by beautifying these roads by planting trees and shrubbery at the sides of them, will unanimously be opposed to any alteration in the present law and to any restriction of the individual citizen of the State preventing him from exercising what has been his right for the past twelve years to destroy any illegal signs on the highways.

RED CROSS FOUNDER DEAD

Dunant Created World-Wide Society After Witnessing Famous Battle

Geneva, Nov. 1.—Henri Dunant, founder of the International Red Cross society, died at Heiden, a health resort.

Dunant was a famous philanthropist. He was of Swiss birth and lived in Geneva. At the battle of Solferin, Italy, June 24, 1859, he witnessed the needless suffering and loss of life resulting from days of neglect to care for the wounded.

He conceived the idea of pledging the nations of the earth to regard and protect as neutral all sick and wounded combatants and all persons giving them succor. He elaborated his idea, and through the co-operation of the Swiss federal council brought about an international conference at Geneva in October, 1863.

SOCIETY WOMAN WEDS FORMER CHAUFFEUR

Honeymoon Trip Across Continent In Automobile

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 1.—In defiance of her family, who had strenuously opposed the match, Miss Clara Stanley, the wealthy society woman of New York and Great Barrington, was married to her former chauffeur, Thomas F. Behan, in this city by Rev. Michael Leonard of St. Joseph's parish. Immediately after the ceremony the couple started for Boston in Behan's big touring car, with Behan at the wheel and his bride beside him.

The car was the one presented to Behan by Miss Stanley last spring after the chauffeur had quit work for her family. In it they will make their honeymoon tour across the continent to California, where they will spend the winter.

Miss Stanley, who gave her age as 37 when the license to wed was taken out in Pittsfield, is the sister of the millionaire electrical inventor, William Stanley.

Behan was born in Pittsfield 32 years ago. He is six feet tall and weighs over 200 pounds. He learned about running an auto three years ago, and almost his very first job came from his bride's family.

HELD FOR TAYLOR'S DEATH

Aged Watchman Claimed That Young Man Assaulted Him

Boston, Nov. 1.—Joseph A. Boivin was held in $10,000 on a manslaughter charge by Judge Dimock for a hearing on Thursday. The police accuse him of inflicting the injuries from which John Taylor died. Boivin is 22 years old.

Taylor was night watchman at Young's wharf, where a yacht on which Boivin is employed is lying. Saturday night Boivin tried to go down the wharf to get aboard his schooner and was held up by Taylor, who was 62 years old. The police say that Taylor stated at the hospital that Boivin inflicted the internal injuries of which he later died.

BRIEFS

C. W. Coy was in Barre, Vt., over Sunday.

A meeting of the West Quincy Improvement society will be held Thursday evening.

W. L. Horton and family have moved from Appleton street to a new residence on Squantum street.

Mrs. Lemuel Titus of St. John, New Brunswick, is the guest of the Joseph H. Titus of Warren avenue.

The International Correspondence school has an exhibit in a window of Cook's drug store at Quincy Point.

Division 5, A. O. H., hold a smoke talk in their hall on School street, Nov. 18.

J. Shaughnessy and family moved Monday from Linden place to the Hardwick house on Revere road.

Crowds of young people were about the street Monday evening playing Hallowe'en jokes.

Almore H. Hatch lost his suit in the Norfolk Superior court against the Boston & Northern street railway for injuries at Chelsea in 1907.

Mrs. Charles Roach of Fayette street entertained her parents Mr. and Mrs. Kelley, and sister Miss Edith Kelley of Brockton over the week end.

Miss Eva Brown was a week-end guest of friends in Haverhill, and on Monday was warmly greeted by many friends at the Massachusetts No-License conference in Boston.

Mrs. Napoleon Reed, Master Bert and Miss Lillian of Liberty street returned from New York Monday night, where they have been spending a few days with friends.

Friends of Mrs. Cecil Marble will be glad to learn that her mother is convalescing from her recent accident, and has been moved from Boothby hospital to her home in Weymouth.

The meeting of the committee on the Boston—1915 rally to be held in Quincy called for Thursday evening has been postponed until Friday evening. It will be held at the rooms of the Board of Trade.

Mrs. J. F. Gleason of Independence avenue entertained a few friends Monday evening at dinner in honor of the second anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Laffayett Gleason. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and it being Hallowe'en night a grand good time was enjoyed by all.

There was a great rush all day Monday and Monday evening at the Tax Collector's office of people who wanted to settle with the Collector before Nov. 1, as interest on unpaid taxes commences today. The result was that $82,900 was passed into the city treasury box during the day, bringing the amount of taxes collected during the month of October to $200,000 and and more.

The surface drain which formerly emptied into the big lot at the corner of Chubbuck and Washington streets, has been carried down to the brook which runs into Bent's creek. The property above-mentioned has been sold and probably a building of some sort will be erected on it in the spring. By switching the drain water into other channels, the ground will have a chance to dry up and the work of filling in will be greatly facilitated.

WEST QUINCY COUNCIL

May Be Organized by Knights of Columbus

A largely attended meeting was held at Hibernian hall, West Quincy, Monday evening to discuss the advisability of forming a council of the Knights of Columbus in West Quincy. This section of the city now has about fifty residents who are members of Quincy Council, and it is believed that should a council be instituted at West Quincy its growth would be rapid, and that many who are eligible for membership would become affiliated with the order.

The meeting was attended by many knights as well as by many prospective members. Ex-Councilman Charles J. McGilvray presided, and the aims and objects of the order were presented in a lucid manner. No formal action was taken, but probably will be at a meeting to be held at the same place next Monday evening. At this meeting District Deputy Charles J. Brady will be present and explain more fully about the order.

AT PROTECTION HALL.

The Young People's Society of the Swedish Lutheran church held a very successful Hallowe'en party in Protection hall Monday evening. Over 100 young people were present to participate in the various games and novelties provided by the committee in charge. The committee consisted of the following: Claus Samuelson, Sadie Nelson of Braintree, Andrew W. Nelson, Anna Viden and Esther Viden. The hall was appropriately decorated with jack-o'-lanterns, pumpkins, autumn foliage, etc.

Miss Anna Viden as fortune teller looked very prophetic, and the other ghosts and witches added to the suggestiveness of the occasion. The refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. John Nelson and Mrs. Viden. Miss Emma Witting played several selections on the piano very aceptably. Old and young entered into the spirit of the occasion and many of the older ones as well as the young were heard remarking that they had the best time within their memory.

AT WOLLASTON.

A very enjoyable Hallowe'en was spent at the home of Miss Persis Thompson, 77 Beach street. The guests were met at the car by spectres who conducted them to the dwelling of the hostess through devious paths, over ash-heaps and through fences, etc. Once inside the mysticism was increased. Moans and the clanking of chains, more ghosts and witches and a room heated to a high degree, caused the guests to stop and reflect, and one was tempted to yell out, "Shades of Cambyses, what next?" But the witchery was over before very long, the lights were turned up and appropriate games and music and stories gave the atmosphere a less sulphurous turn. Needless to say everyone found things just right and the party did not break up until a late hour.

SURPRISE PARTY.

A surprise party was tendered to Joseph Mischler of 207 Whitwell street, Monday evening, which was celebrated as his birthday, a Hallowe'en and surprise, at the home of A. L. Waterman of Fulton street, Neponset. The surprise was complete.

At home his father and mother surprised him with a gold monogram watch and when he arrived at Neponset with his sister and some Quincy friends to a Hallowe'en party as he supposed they surprised him with a double gold rope chain. There were people present from Winthrop, East Boston, Charlestown, Dorchester, Neponset and Quincy.

Some of those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. James Lennon, Lizzie Adams, Mamie Hynes, Eva Stah, Anna Daley, Miss Doherty, May Cronin, Anna Heller, Anna Eastman, Miss Hynes Mrs. Dyer, Frank Stephens, Daniel Doyle, John M. Welsh, James Daley, John A. Welch, Raymond Hynes, Albert Warburton, James J. Elcock.

MATRIMONY IS REWARDED.

In order to influence their clerks to marry, the firm of Swift & Co., will give a wedding present of $50 to each man in the employ of the company upon the announcement of his marriage. The inference is that the services of a married man are worth much more to the company.

RESIGNATION OF COUNCILMAN

Fred R. Snow of Ward Five Writes Letter

Mayor Shea received a letter this morning from Councilman Fred R. Snow, whose seat was declared vacant at the last meeting of the City Council, resigning his office as Councilman from Ward Five. Although the envelope was directed to the Mayor, the letter was directed to the City Council to whom it will be forwarded at the next meeting.

STATE AND CITY ELECTIONS

Many Candidates for Office of Councilmen

There are three candidates in both the Quincy representative districts and also for senator, Republican, Democratic and Socialist. The Socialist against Thomas and Sullivan is Fred H. Lord; against Langelier and McDevitt, Jeremiah W. Donovan; against Barnes and Coombs, Albert Hess of Randolph.

Papers are being circulated at Quincy Point for Edward P. Histen, W. A. Carey, Michael Corbett, Frank Duffy and H. G. Studley as Councilman from Ward Two.

Papers are being circulated in Ward Three for George A. Bolster and in Ward Five for Arthur C. Gardner.

Papers are being circulated for Charles M. Bryant and Charles E. Cherrington as Councilmen at large.

The towns of Randolph, Sharon and Stoughton will vote at the State election on the question—"Shall nominations by political parties of candidates for the office of representative in this district be by direct plurality vote?"

C. E. PARTY.

A Hallowe'en party was held last evening at the home of Charles Campbell under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the United Presbyterian church. All the Hallowe'en "stunts" were tried and all furnished much amusement, particularly bobbing apples, hunting beans and chasing the ring. Thomas Melrose sang several appropriate song which met with the uproarious approval of the audience. Ghosts and fortunes and various spook-ey things served as contributors to the fun for the 40 who were present. The commitee in charge consisted of the following: Miss Marion Russell, James Ross and James Smith.

SOCIAL GIRLS.

A Hallowe'en dance was given by the Quincy Social Girls in Alpha hall last evening. Over 200 couples were on the floor and the spectators in the gallery were numerous. The dance was under the direction of Miss Abbie D. Griffin who was assisted by Miss Bessie V. Burke, Miss Margaret McKenzie and Miss Vera A. Burke. Wilson's orchestra furnished the music. the evening was greatly enjoyed by all and the dance was in every way a success.

SPORTING NOTES.

Quincy High vs Hyde Park High today.

Grahame-White will challenge Moissant.

Ralph Johnstone who did great work in endurance at the Quincy aviation meet, broke the worlds record for altitude at New York on Monday, 9,714 feet.

—If you wish to oil or paint the kitchen floor, and there are cracks that need filling, tear several newspapers into small pieces and soak them in water. Mix one pound of flour and a quart of water together, beating it until it is smooth and free from lumps, then stir in a tablespoonful of alum and two quarts of boiling water. Set it on the stove where the paste will cook and mix the wet paper with it. Boil until it is quite thick, and press it into the cracks while hot with a knife. It will soon harden and makes the floor nice and smooth

EAST TO MEET WEST IN THREE INTERSECTIONAL FOOTBALL GAMES

Hard Fought Struggles Tackles Michigan, and Cornell,

As there is every reason to believe that Harvard will win the eastern championship and that Minnesota will retain the title of conference champion and make a strong bid to annex the western championship, interest in football is gradually turning to intersectional contests to be played this year with Michigan, Illinois and Chicago striving to uphold the honor of western football against Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Cornell, respectively.

Penn and Michigan Evenly Matched.

Michigan and Pennsylvania will struggle for supremacy in Philadelphia on Nov. 12, and from present indications this battle should be hard fought from start to finish. At present neither eleven seems to have anything on the other, but both are sure to be developed to the height of football perfection for a game which means so much for eastern and western football.

In the first games of the year Pennsylvania was beaten by Ursinus and Michigan was held to a tie in its first encounter, but since its defeat Pennsylvania has come back in a manner which stamps it as a strong aggregation and one that will give its opponents plenty of trouble.

Michigan's showing against Case was disappointing to many Wolverene alumni. This game should not be considered a criterion of Michigan's strength. Practically the same situation prevailed at Ann Arbor last year, the only difference being that Michigan suffered a bad defeat at the hands of Notre Dame before any signs of improvement were shown.

As Michigan was victorious over Pennsylvania last year, 12 to 6 in the first victory of the Wolverenes over the Quakers since the two teams began engaging in contests in 1906, Coach Yost is working to bring about another victory this year. This is one of Michigan's big games, and, with the exception of the Minnesota contest, it is regarded as the most important struggle on the Wolverene schedule.

In 1907 Michigan was deprived of a touchdown against Pennsylvania because the officials ruled that a forward pass did not cross the line of scrimmage five yards either side of the center. The play was executed beautifully and showed plainly that Yost had figured it out to a point where it was sure to be successful if executed properly. In all his plays in which the forward pass is a factor they show careful planning and with the proper execution are almost sure of success

BENBROOK, CAPTAIN OF MICHIGAN ELEVEN.

Illinois Versus Syracuse.

Next to Minnesota, Illinois is considered to be the strongest eleven in the conference eight, so the Illinois game with Syracuse will be watched by the enthusiasts in the west and east. After making such a strong showing against Yale, Syracuse has given indications of having its strongest team in years. Last year the downstaters defeated the New Yorkers, 17 to 8, in a well played game, and Illinois is out to duplicate this performance this year. With the best of prospects this purpose should be accomplished, as the game will be played at Urbana, Ill., Nov. 19, and the downstaters will have had opportunities to gain much experience in former contests.

The week before the Syracuse contests Illinois will meet Northwestern at Evanston in a game which should give the Orange and Blue eleven a good test for its eastern opponents. Although Illinois is forced to play a hard schedule this season, there are enough men available at Urbana for the coaches to develop enough back field men to make things interesting for any team, and if no unforeseen accidents befall any of the good players Illinois is sure to do its share toward upholding western football this season.

Chicago and Cornell to Meet.

Cornell and Chicago are to clash in Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 12. Since Chicago and Cornell renewed football relations in 1908 neither eleven has been able to demonstrate its superiority over the other. On both occasions of former meetings the games have resulted in 6 to 6 ties, but the question will be settled this season if Cornell continues to play the brand of football which has characterized this year's contests. At present the Ithacans look a lot stronger than the Maroons, and the easterners will have the benefit of playing on their own field.

In 1908 Chicago looked a lot stronger than Cornell, and last year the situation was just the opposite. On the occasion of the first meeting if Steffen had caught a forward pass the Maroons would have been the victors, and last season if Cornell's quarterback had used any kind of judgment in selecting plays while inside of Chicago's five yard line the Ithacans would have won without a doubt. It must be said, however, that Chicago put up great exhibitions of defense when close pressed last year, while in 1908 Cornell was outplayed in a number of departments.

One thing is certain, and that is Cornell will make every possible attempt to win from Chicago this year, and unless the Maroons show great improvement in the games to be played before Cornell is met the Maroons are destined to go down in defeat before the easterners.

COMING SPORT EVENTS

The twenty-first annual field trials of the National Beagle Club of America will be held at Shadwell, near Charlottsville, Va., commencing Nov. 10.

Johnny Hayes, the Olympic champion, and James Crowley are to compete in a full Marathon distance race of 26 miles 285 yards in the vicinity of New York the latter part of November.

Jose Raul Capablanca, the young Cuban chess master, is making another tour of this country and Canada.

The first artificial indoor curling rink in this country is being laid in the Boston arena.

The St. Louis City Association of the American Bowling Congress may consist of 325 clubs. That city is to hold annual tourney, starting Jan. 21.

Tommy Ryan's protege, Con O'Kelly, will box Marvin Hart, the Louisville heavyweight, at Syracuse Nov. 4.

The Canadian Chess association's biennial tournament will begin in Montreal Dec. 26. All games will be completed in six days.

Leading Grand Circuit Winner.

Dudie Archdale (2:06¼) heads the list of grand circuit winners. Her winnings are $22,208.

ONSIDE KICKS

Pennsylvania seems to have made more progress with the forward pass than any of the other eastern colleges

Football players are trying to cheat the flying tackle rule. They down the runner with one foot trailing on the ground.

"Hurry Up" Yost is not using substitutes in Michigan's games unless men are actually injured.

There never has been a drop kicker among the college teams that could touch Billy Bull of Yale, now coaching the New Haven kickers.

Herring, who played on the championship Rugby team at Oxford, is now an instructor at Princeton, and the Tigers are likely to get a few football wrinkles imported from the other side

Triple Plays Numerous In 1910.

There have been six triple plays in the National league this season, an unusual number. They have been made by New York, Cincinnati (two), Brooklyn, St. Louis and Chicago.

England Has Great Socker Team.

The English socker team that has just returned from South Africa won all of the twenty-three matches played

LAND COURT

To H. Josie Belcher, Helen A. Dearing and Frank H. Dearing of Braintree, in the County of Norfolk, and said Commonwealth; Etta J. Moses, Carrie E. Darrow, George W. Rackham and Harriet E. Turner of Quincy, in said County of Norfolk; Willis E. Kingsbury of Brockton, in the County of Plymouth, and said Commonwealth; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Gerda Elizabeth Nelson of said Quincy, to register and confirm her title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situate in said Quincy, bounded Southerly by Bay View Avenue forty-five (45) feet, West by land of Carrie E. Darrow one hundred forty-six and eighty-three one hundredths (146.83) feet; northeasterly by land now or late of Etta J. Moses fifty and eight tenths (50.8) feet and easterly by land of George W. Rackham one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet; containing about 6116 square feet.

Petitioner claims as appurtenant to the above described land rights of way in said Bay View Avenue (private way) in common with others entitled thereto.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the twenty-first day of November A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-ninth day of October in the year nineteen hundred and ten.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

EX-MAYOR HALL IS WILLING

Nomination Papers Out for the Republican Nomination as Candidate for Mayor

Has Twice Served the City as Chief Executive

The question as to who will be the Republican candidate for Mayor at the coming municipal election has been practically settled. The candidate will be ex-Mayor John O. Hall.

Nomination papers for Mr. Hall were taken out Tuesday, and were placed in circulation for signatures that evening, and are being circulated in the different wards today.

Ex-Mayor Hall served the city as its chief executive in the years 1900 and 1901, being succeeded by ex-Mayor James Thompson. It was only after considerable consideration that Mr. Hall allowed his name to be used this year.

At the election of Dec. 5, 1899, Mr. Hall's opponent on the Democratic ticket was ex-Mayor Harrison A. Keith. Mr. Hall received a total of 1895 votes and Mr. Keith 1636, giving him a majority of 259 votes over Mr. Keith. At this election the office of Commissioner of Public Works cut a large figure in the result.

The following year Mr. Hall again had Mr. Keith as his Democratic opponent. The total vote was Hall 2,036 and Keith 1,664, a majority of 372 for Mr. Hall.

John T. Cavanagh was the Commissioner of Public Works under Mayor Keith in 1899, and when Mayor Hall took office, Charles F. Knowlton, who failed of appointment at the hands of Mayor Keith was appointed and served during his term of office.

It was during Mayor Hall's term of office that the Fore River Shipbuilding plant was located in Quincy, and the present works built. Mayor Hall took an active part in inducing the company to locate in Quincy, and it was mainly through his efforts, coupled with Frank Fessenden Crane, that the plant moved from East Braintree to Quincy.

During his term Mayor Hall freely used his veto power, and not a few of the orders that passed the City Council during those years ran up against a snag when they reached the Mayor.

Mr. Hall is a ready talker and frequently spoke on matters pending before the Council. Previous to his election as Mayor, he held for many years the office of City Auditor, which he resigned to accept the Mayor's chair. He is affiliated with the Masonic fraternity, a member of the Board of Trade, and other organizations, and is secretary of the Quincy Yacht club.

TO RUSH WORK ON WATER

Appropriation May Be Available This Week

The two orders passed at the special meeting of the City Council reached the Mayor on Tuesday and he promptly affixed his signature of approval. City Treasurer Curtis immediately began negotiations for the loans, and it is expected that the loan will be made today. Commisioner Bainbridge has some pipe on hand, and the most pressing demands for water will be immediately met. As for water meters, the weather will make no difference as to their installation as they are set inside the cellar walls.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

One of the merriest parties of the Hallowe'en season was held at the home of Miss Gladys Bishop, 124 Upland road. The rooms were decorated in an unusually attractive manner with pumpkins, jack-o'-lanterns of various shapes and sizes, autumn foliage and spectral apparitions. Ghost stories and Hallowe'en "stunts" occupied the attention of the guests for the first part of the evening. Afterwards, refreshments and appropriate games were enjoyed until a late hour. The hostess was assisted by Miss May Burnie in preparing the games and "stunts." The score of young people who were assembled pronounced the evening the most enjoyable of the year.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Martin Cunniff and Frank Mullen of Ward Six have taken out papers as Democratic candidates for ward councilmen.

At last accounts, Councilman Bryant had not decided whether he could be a candidate for reelection or not.

The first registration for the municipal caucuses will be held Thursday evening, Nov. 10.

It is reported that Charles C. McCue, James M. Flaherty and Richard Williams have taken out papers for the nomination for Councilmen from Ward Four.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The State election of Massachusetts was close last year, the total of Governor Draper being 190,186, while James H. Vahey received 182,252. This was because the vote of Quincy was close. When the plurality is big in Quincy for either party that party will win. When it is small in Quincy it will be small in the State. See figures in another column today. "As goes Quincy so goes the State and Nation." It has been verified for twenty years.

The cost of living is being discussed freely on the stump in this campaign. For the want of a real reason the Democratic spell binders charge the Republican policies along with the tariff as being alone responsible for the increased cost of living. But the honest facts are otherwise. High prices are not confined to the United States alone. Similar conditions are to be found in Germany, England, Austria and elsewhere. Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor, gives some light on this subject of cost of living and wages here and abroad that bears out the contentions of the Republican arguments. Says Mr. Gompers: "Mentally contemplating the many cities I visited, and having in mind the conversations I had with workingmen who had lived both in Europe and America, I believe I may assert that whether the cost of living in Europe or America is greater to the workingman depends entirely upon the standard of living he adopts while in America. If he voluntarily lives the life of self-denial in this country that he compulsorily lived in his native land, his outlay in money will remain about the same. Even then he will hardly be able to escape gaining something from the superior supply of the good things of life in America." And then Mr. Gompers declares that the Republican party stands for intelligent protection and the Democratic party stands for indiscriminate revision of the tariff downward, a policy that would result disastrously not only to American industries but to American labor.

ASSAULTED WOMAN WITH AN IRON BAR

Wales Convicted by Jury After Long Deliberation

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 2.—After seventeen hours of deliberation, a jury in the superior court returned a verdict of guilty against William R. Wales, a night watchman of Clinton, who was charged with assault and robbery on Miss Catherine A. Kelly.

Miss Kelly, who was employed in Worcester, was returning to her home in Clinton late at night on Sept. 2, when she was attacked by Wales, who felled her with an iron bar. Her skull was fractured and the bones on one of her hands were broken.

The assault was followed by the robbery of $2. For several weeks Miss Kelly was at the point of death, but eventually recovered.

AGREED TO DIE TOGETHER

Pact of Despondent Young Couple Is Partially Carried Out

New York, Nov. 2.—A suicide pact, entered into by a despondent young couple on the upper West Side of the city and carried into at least partially successful execution, was revealed when Paul Torrea was found dead in bed and his young wife, partially overcome by gas and a wound in her left wrist, was calmly waiting for her life to end.

Mrs. Torrea said that the knife wound had been inflicted by her husband in the carrying out of a suicide agreement, which they made yesterday.

Her husband first cut a deep incision in her left arm and then slashed his own right arm. He then turned on the gas and they lay down to die. The Torreas were married Oct. 17 last.

PRESENTS HIS EVIDENCE

Candidate Coombs Submits His Case to People

(Advertisement.)

Citizens of Quincy:

Forget, if you will, your political affiliations long enough to give calm, dispassionate consideration to the following facts, which I present as reasons why I should be elected as your State Senator rather than my opponent, Lawyer George L. Barnes of Weymouth.

Mr. Barnes while in the Legislature was the Chairman of a Committee on Public Lighting which reported and secured the passage of a bill providing for a sliding scale of prices for illuminating Gas.

Gas in Milton costs 80 cents. In Quincy it costs $1.50. Gas for both places comes from the same source of supply, and through the same pipes. Quincy and Milton, as you know, adjoin each other and are separated by only an imaginary line.

The discrimination, or whatever else you may call it, which is implied by the foregoing comparison is significant, especially when viewed in the light of the fact that the same George L. Barnes since leaving the Legislature in 1906 has been employed as a paid lobbyist by the New England Gas and Coke Company. This fact is undeniable and can be easily verified by an examination of the public records at the State House.

After leaving the Legislature this same George L. Barnes who wants to "represent" you in the Senate, opposed the passage of the "Safe and Sane Fourth of July Bill," a most humane, merciful and necessary measure calculated and well designed to save the children,—yours and mine among others,—from mutilation and disfigurement. Why, you ask, should Mr. Barnes oppose such a beneficent measure? He was paid $600, for so doing by a well-known concern which is engaged in the business of manufacturing fire crackers and similar contrivances. This assertion also is the eternal Truth, or I would not make it. It will not be denied, for the proofs are on record at the State House.

Gentlemen: I submit my candidacy to your decision with the assurance that if I am elected no sentiment or feeling of affinity shall be created or developed between my soul and any corporation or person employing a lobbyist. Every matter coming before me will be considered solely on its merits.

Rednor P. Coombs,
189 Billings St., Quincy, Mass.

A NECESSITY OF LIFE

Bread Wins Over Cake In Interstate Commerce Ruling

Washington, Nov. 2.—Bread as a necessity wins a qualified victory over cake as a luxury in a rate decision which the interstate commerce commission announces in the case of the Oak Grove Farm creamery of Boston against the Adams Express company and others.

The decision denies the creamery's contention that cake should be given as low a transportation rate as bread, but orders a discontinuance of the defendant common carrier's rule that in a mixed shipment of bread and cake, 50 percent of the package must be bread in order that the package should get the lower bread rate.

The commission points out that bread is a necessity of life and an article of universal consumption and the defendants may therefore properly apply to it a somewhat lower rate.

DEMAND FOR HORSE MEAT

Sixty-One Thousand Animals Killed Yearly In Paris Alone

Washington, Nov. 2.—A report has been submitted to the state department by Deputy Consul General Yost at Paris showing the vast amount of horse meat the Frenchmen are forced to eat on account of the high cost of living in that country.

The deputy consul says that approximately 61,000 horses and mules are slaughtered each year in Paris alone in order to supply the demand for cheap food flesh.

"Dealers in horse and mule meat," the consul writes, "are compelled by law to indicate by means of a sign of a horse's head over the front of their places of business that they deal in horse meat. This is to protect the unsuspecting public, who frequently are unable to distinguish between beef and horse meat."

Alexandria, Egypt, Nov. 2.—Several large cotton sheds and 6000 bales of cotton were burned here. The loss is $1,000,000.

SEEK CONTROL OF SHAH'S LAND

England and Russia Said to Be In Big Deal

GERMANY GREATLY DISTURBED

Has Large Interests In Persia Which Would Be Wiped Out Should Other Two Countries Assume Control of Internal Affairs of Empire—Demands That British Marines at Lingah Be Withdrawn

Berlin, Nov. 2.—According to semi-official information the foreign office has sent an ultimatum to England that the British marines landed at Lingah, Persia, must be withdrawn at once.

The Persian situation has been regarded as getting more and more critical for several months. The greatest excitement prevailed in Berlin when the news was received that England had landed a force of armed men in Persia. The action was regarded as part of a deal between England and Russia to divide Persia and force Germany out of its rights along the Persian gulf.

The situation in Persia reached such a critical stage some months ago that both Great Britain and Russia decided to deal with it by radical measures. The only question is how far they are prepared to go in the direction of assuming control of the internal affairs of the country.

Germany's interests in Persia are large, especially in connection with her Bagdad railway scheme, and she sees them doomed to disappear should Russia and England divide the shah's land and control between themselves.

Two years ago Russia and Great Britain entered into a treaty for the control of the Persian empire, the interest of England being due to the fact that her Indian colonies lie partly on the Persian gulf and it was felt essential that no other European power obtain a foothold there.

Russia has won by conquest from Turkey all the territory along the northern boundary of Persia and absolutely controls the Caspian sea. It was agreed that Russia would take care of the northern half of Persia and England the southern half. England had been letting things sort of drift along until some months ago, and now that she has landed troops there it has waked up Germany.

FROM COAST TO COAST

Air Pilots Planning For Long Balloon Trip Next Year

Boston, Nov. 2.—Plans were laid for a balloon trip across the continent, to be followed by an attempt to cross the Atlantic during the coming year, at the banquet in this city last night of the Association of International Air Pilots of America.

The cross-continent trip is to start from the western coast, either San Francisco, Tacoma, Seattle or Portland, and to finish somewhere south of New York along the line of the westerly current of air at that latitude.

Not only have all the important preparations been made, but the three pilots have been nominated by the association in H. H. Clayton, Jay B. Benton and J. W. Flagg, international pilots under license from the Aero Club of America.

FRESHIES HELD PRISONERS

Captured by Tufts Sophomores on Eve of Banquet

Medford, Mass., Nov. 2.—Fights and wild pursuits rendered the day notable yesterday to the students at Tufts college and to the residents of Somerville and Medford in the vicinity of the college.

Early in the day the sophomore class received an inkling that the freshman banquet was to be held in town in the evening, and after the custom at the hill started out to prevent it.

All but two officers of the class were captured and held prisoners all day long in West hall with two dozen more freshmen who were rounded up after several fights and several pursuits.

MANY DISASTERS REPORTED

Severe Storm Sweeping Western Coast of the British Isles

London, Nov. 2.—The western coast of England and Scotland, and the eastern coast of Ireland, are being swept by a terrific storm of high winds and torrential rain. Much damage has been done on both land and sea.

A number of shipping disasters have been reported. The shores of the Irish sea are strewn with wreckage of small craft and the life savers are keeping extraordinary vigils to detect ships in distress.

New Ambassadors Arrive

Washington, Nov. 2.—The president received the credentials of Marquis Cusana Consaloniari and welcomed to this country the new Italian ambassador. Fifteen minutes later the president received the letters of and welcomed Mr. Byrn, the new Norwegian minister.

OVER 32 KNOTS BY STERETT

Good Showing on Her Standardization Trials

The torpedo boat destroyer Sterett, built at Quincy, made a great record for herself Tuesday in her standardization trials on the Rockland course. She was sent over the course 34 times. Three of the extra runs were due to the fact that the tide turned unexpectedly early, and some were discarded in order that the trial might be completed under uniform conditions. When the runs were resumed the sky was so hazy that the signals could not be seen, and five useless runs were made before the sky cleared.

Her best time for a mile was at the rate of 32.333 knots an hour.

Her five best runs were 32.034 knots, 31.230 knots, 31.816 knots, 31.295 knots, and 32.333 knots.

The maximum horsepower developed was 15,000 and her average speed was 31.633.

During these runs the Sterett produced less smoke than any other oil burning warship on their trials.

Capt. Joseph Kemp was the navigating officer, and the Fore River company was represented by F. O. Wellington and C. B. Edwards the chief Engineer. Lieut. R. L. Berry late of the battleship New Hampshire, who has been assigned to the command of the Sterett was also on board.

Today the Sterett will have her first water consumption test and twelve-hour run at 25 knots.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

The autumn meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs will be held in the First Baptist church, Central square, Cambridge, Tuesday, Nov. 8. The morning session opens at 10.15 o'clock. Addresses will be made by Morris Patterson, of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., on "Ideals in Civic Art," John J. Enneking, of Boston, on "Art From an Artist's Standpoint," and Alfred W. Martin on "Art as an Interpretation of Life." Box luncheon at noon.

The Woman's club of Rockland is to observe its Health day on Friday afternoon. Dr. H. D. Arnold will give an address on "The Nutritive Value of Common articles of Food." Dr. Joseph Frame will speak on "Medical Inspection in the Schools," and Dr. C. H. Colgate on "Local Conditions."

* * *

Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick of Chestnut street is hostess this week for the Friday club and Mrs. Wilson Marsh, chairman of the afternoon's program, the subject being "On the trail of Gods and Heroes of the Mediterranean."

The November meeting of the New England Wheaton Seminary club will be held Saturday, Nov. 12, at hotel Vendome, Boston. Mrs. Edith H. MacFadden will speak on "Ellis Island and the Immigrant." The business meeting will be held at 1.30; literary and musical program at 2.15 and a social tea from 3.30 until 5 o'clock.

Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution hold their November meeting on Monday afternoon at the birthplace of President John Adams, with a business meeting at half past two and regular chapter and social meeting at three o'clock.

The state society of the Daughters of the Revolution has arranged a series of whist parties to raise funds to contribute toward the Annapolis memorial. The hostesses for the parties are: Mrs. Susan M. Plummer, 330 Summer street, Lynn; Mrs. Frederick C. Leslie, 36 Washington street, Newton Lower Falls; Mrs. Grace D. Snow, 523 Washington street, Brookline; Miss Lena H. Cook, 14 Gardner street, Allston. The dates are Nov. 8, 22, Dec. 13 and 27.

The next regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in Protection hall, Johnson building, on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. Loyal Temperance Legion will meet at the same place at quarter past four. As there is business of importance to come before the Union a full attendance is much desired.

* * *

Mrs. May Alden Ward whose current event lectures were so much enjoyed and largely attended all through the winter, has been engaged by the Art and Literature committee of the Quincy Women's club for another series, the first one to be on Thursday afternoon Nov. 10 at the clubhouse. There will be one each month on the second Thursday afternoon of the month until May first.

The State convention of King's Daughters will be held in Shawmut Congregational church corner Tremont and Brookline streets, Boston on Nov. 8 and 9th.

Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth, whose reading of "Votes for Women" was so much enjoyed last season by the Quincy Women's club is the first woman to take the stump in this state. What is a commonplace in English politics comes as a rather agreeable novelty to our own voters. Possibly unconvinced, in the present case they appear to be charmed.

The Country Whist club of South Quincy celebrated Hallowe'en in a novel way by having a progressive lunch, ending up at the last member's house where they met the men belonging to the four members awaiting them and played whist until midnight. Then the usual Hallowe'en sports were enjoyed. The different spreads and decorations were unique and beautiful. Members of the club are: Mrs. George Boutilier, president; Mrs. Albert Willis secretary; and Mrs. Alexander Hall, Mrs. Richard Gordon, Mrs. William Westland, Miss Annie Gordon, Mrs. G. A. Bolster and Mrs. Nelson Spencer.

Wednesday, Nov. 9, Rev. George Hale Reed will be the speaker at the meeting of Wollaston Alliance in the vestry of the Unitarian church. His subject will be "The Religion of Robert Louis Stevenson."

A meeting of the executive board of the Quincy Women's club is to be held Thursday morning at ten o'clock at the clubhouse.

An opportunity for housekeepers who are house-cleaning is afforded by the King's Daughters who will gladly accept and call for anything of value for a rummage sale to be held in Faxon hall, next week. Please notify circle members or telephone Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Quincy 531-4.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

The Arts and Crafts committee has planned an interesting afternoon for the next meeting of the Quincy Women's club on Tuesday, Nov. 8. Frederick Whitney is to give interpretations of Indian Symbols in weaving with blackboard illustrations.

Mrs. George W. Stone of Wollaston has kindly loaned the committee her rare and valuable collection of real Indian baskets for exhibition at this meeting. There will be examples of the weaving of many different tribes and some of them will illustrate in the original the designs of which Mr. Whitney will speak.

These baskets will bear explanatory cards and Mrs. Stone has consented to personally exhibit and explain the meaning of many of these designs at the close of the meeting. It is hoped a large number will attend to avail themselves of this unusual privilege. The committee in charge have arranged for two blackboards to accommodate as many as possible.

The Arts and Crafts exchange solicits a visit to their salesroom where will be found many useful articles of exquisite design and fine workmanship.

Following the lecture and exhibition there will be a social tea.

Rehearsals begin this month for the play "Pygmalion and Galatea" to be given by the Art and Literature committee on Dec. 13. This date in the club calendar is looked forward to with much pleasure by club members.

QUINCY YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB

November meetings of Quincy Young Women's club are as follows:

Nov. 5—Classes for basketry, dramatics and dancing.

Nov. 7—Glee club.

Nov. 12—Speaker—Miss Edith Randall. Subject—"A Vacation in Switzerland."

Nov. 19—Classes for basketry, dramatics and dancing.

Nov. 21—Glee club.

Nov. 26—Thanksgiving social evening.

On the first and third Saturdays there are classes for basketry, dramatics, and dancing; on the second and fourth Saturdays, regular meetings of the club and on the second and fourth Mondays, the Monday preceding the Tuesday meeting of the Quincy Women's club the Glee club meets.

UNITY CIRCLE KING'S DAUGHTERS

Unity Circle of King's Daughters held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening in Bethany chapel. The ladies voted to give twelve kindergarten chairs to the Day Nursery. The rummage sale committee consisting of Mrs. A. L. Melcher, Mrs. Gilbert Miller and Mrs. E. W. Branch made announcements about the sale. It will be held in Faxon hall, Nov. 10-11-12 afternoon and evening. This is the principal means of raising funds for the year's work and in consequence the financial success of the year is largely dependent upon it. All who are interested in King's Daughter's work are urged to contribute clothing, hats, books ,everything saleable, for which they find no use, or with which they can do without. During the past few years the sale has meant a lot of hard work, which was made up for by the successful outcome and the generous contributions not only from the ladies connected with the Circle but rom those throughout the city who are interested in philanthropic work and were desirous of helping the good cause along. So this year everyone is invited to lend a hand in assisting the ladies in this good work.

A Gradual Reduction.

An old gentleman accustomed to walk around St. James' park every day was once asked by a friend if he still took his usual walk.

"No, sir," replied the old man; "I cannot do as much now. I cannot get around the park. I only go halfway around and back again."—Housekeeper.

LAUNCHING TOMORROW

May Be Witnessed from Many Vantage Points

The torpedo boat destroyer Walke, a sister ship of the Perkins, and Sterett, both built at the Fore River shipyard, will be launched tomorrow at 11.30. The launching will be a private one, the yards not to be opened to the public. The only guests at the launch will be a small party from Providence who will accompany the sponsor, Miss Mildred Walke Walter of that city ,a granddaughter of the late Rear Admiral Henry Walke, for whom the vessel is named.

The launching party will come on a special car from Providence and this car will be run through to the Fore River plant, via. East Braintree. The party is due at the works shortly after 11 o'clock, and they will be immediately escorted to the launching stand that has been erected about the bow of the ship.

Immediately after the launch the guests will be given a lunch in the new office building, after which the car will be run back to Boston.

This will be the ninth launching at the Fore River plant in this city this year. Although the yards will be closed to the public they may easily witness the launch from many vantage points along the shores of the Fore river, both at Quincy Point, North Weymouth and East Braintree.

"AS GOES QUINCY SO GOES THE STATE"

State Committees of All Political Parties Should Make Note of This

Has Been Verified in Twenty State Elections

"As goes the city so goes the state and nation" is truer today of Quincy than of Hull. It has been verified in every State election since 1889, and in every Presidential election since 1875.

During these years the State of Massachusetts has gone Republican sixteen years and Democratic four years, and so did Quincy. The Nation has gone Republican at six elections and Democratic at two elections, and so did Quincy.

Therefore the Quincy returns November 8 will tell who is elected that day as Governor of Massachusetts. The vote in recent years has been:

QUINCY'S VOTE FOR GOVERNOR.

*Elected

In years when the vote of Quincy is close the vote of Massachusetts is close, but the Quincy majority is always on the popular side.

In 1909 the plurality in the City for Gov. Draper was but 92, and in the State it was but 7,931.

In 1908 when the City gave a plurality of 746 to Draper the State went Republican by 60,156.

In 1904 when the City gave Douglass, the Democrat, a big plurality of 565 he swept the State with a plurality of 35,989.

In each of the five years that Russell was a candidate, Quincy was with the majority, three times with him and two times against him.

"As goes Quincy so goes the State and the Nation."

MISS FARRAR IS EMPHATIC

Uess Naughty Word In Expressing Her Opinion of Dukes

New York, Nov. 2.—Geraldine Farrar, the American opera singer, is evidently not going to marry a titled foreigner; at least not a duke. The soprano was informed, on her arrival on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, that it was reported that she would wed a duke.

"Dukes?" asked Miss Farrar. "I've met many of them and, believe me, taking them individually and collectively, they are not worth a d——."

CANNOT VOTE IN OKLAHOMA

Several Thousand Negroes Barred by the "Grandfather Clause"

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 2.—Holding that it has no jurisdiction to grant relief from the operations of the "grandfather clause" amendment to the Oklahoma constitution, the federal circuit court dismissed the application of Daniel Sims, a former slave, who asked for a writ of injunction that would permit him and other negroes to vote at the general election on Nov. 8.

This decision makes the "grandfather clause" operative for the election on Nov. 8, disfranchising several thousand negroes, as the various precinct election boards have final authority to pass on a voter's qualifications.

Sense of Humor Declining.

"Do you think Americans have a great sense of humor?"

"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "I'm afraid it isn't what it used to be. The folks out home are becoming so interested in economic issues that they don't seem to care whether I tell them any funny stories or not."—Washington Star.

Two Faults.

"You hunt too much," said Louis XV. to the archbishop of Narbonne. "How can you prohibit your curates from hunting if you pass your life in setting them such an example?"

"Sire," said Dillon, "for my curates the chase is a fault; for myself it is the fault of my ancestors."

VISCOUNT MORLEY

Has Served His Country In Many High Positions

VISCOUNT MORLEY ILL

Aged Statesman Said to Have Resigned His Post In India

London, Nov. 2.—It is stated that Viscount Morley has resigned the office of secretary of state for India, and the fact that he declines information on the subject is accepted as confirmation of the report of his retirement.

The viscount is in his 73rd year, and it is known that he has for some time desired to vacate his post, because of his advanced years and ill health. The Earl of Crewe is mentioned as likely to succeed Morley.

HOW TO WASH WINDOWS.

Strange as it may seem, there is a right and wrong way to wash windows, and as this operation is usually dreaded, the following method will doubtless be appreciated, as it saves both time and labor. Choose a dull day, or at least a time when the sun is not shining on the windows, for when the sun shines on the window it causes it to be dry streaked, no matter how much it is rubbed. Take a painter's brush and dust them inside and out, washing all the woodwork inside before touching the glass.

The latter must be washed slowly in warm water diluted with ammonia—do not use soap. Use a small cloth with a pointed stick to get the dust out of the corners, wipe dry with soft piece of cotton cloth; do not use linen, as it makes the glass dirty when dry. Polish with tissue paper or old newspaper. You will find that this can be done in half the time taken where soap is used, and the result will be brighter windows.—From the Storekeeper.

BRIEFS

An estate on Hancock street opposite Merrymount park will be sold at 3 P. M. tomorrow by Auctioneer Burke.

The Quincy Anti-Tuberculosis Association will hold its annual meeting next Tuesday evening, at No. 17 Granite street.

The Pickwick club meets tonight with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Beattie of Elm street and will discuss "The Dominion of the Air" under the leadership of Miss Katherine Stegmaier.

Members of the Quincy Charitable society have received announcement of the annual meeting which will be held on Monday afternoon, Nov. 7, at three o'clock at the clubhouse of the Quincy Women's club.

The annual meeting of the Anti-Tuberculosis Association is to be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 8, at the office of its president Henry M. Faxon, 17 Granite street. Any person can become a member by contributing annually to the funds of the Association and any one interested in the work is invited to attend the meeting.

The Misses Cora and Olive Barnicoat of 17 Edison street, entertained many of their friends Tuesday evening at a Hallowe'en party. Games of all kinds were played, among which were many pertaining to the fates After refreshments were served the floors were cleared and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Among the invited guests were Miss M. E. Dowd and J. E. Sweeney of Hyde Park.

MASKED BURGLARS ARE PUT TO ROUT

Everett, Mass., Nov. 2.—Two masked robbers, armed with guns, were beaten off with a fusillade of scale weights last night by George Peavey, over 60 years old, a storekeeper at 30 Clinton street, whom the robbers attempted to hold up in his place of business.

The robbers fired two shots. One cut a crease along the storekeeper's shoulder. The other bullet went wild, entering the ceiling.

The shooting was brought to an immediate end by the missiles that fell to the hand of the storekeeper. He hurled a "ten-pound" weight at one, the missile striking the intruder's forehead a glancing blow. The first weight was immediately followed by another a little heavier, which struck the other masked robber in the pit of the stomach.

The fusillade by the storekeper proved too much for the desperadoes. They fell over one another in their hurry to get out of the store.

IN FASHION'S REALM

Upholstery Fabrics Woven for Paris Gowns | Beads and Furs Lavishly Used

Paris, Oct. 1.—There are several novelties this year in materials, and chief of them all are the magnificent brocades, woven with gold or silver or with satin flowers, which Paris dressmakers are using, either for gowns or cloaks.

They are mostly in subdued shades, but some of them are even vivid in tone. They are very thick in texture, and almost coarse as regards the thread, so that they have been compared to the Louis XVI. and Louis XV. and Empire furniture brocades, and not inaptly. There are, besides, the silk and satin brocades of the thirteenth century, which are more supple and dainty than these heavy ones, and an almost numberless variety of fancy silks, all richer than they have ever been before.

Many of the satins have gold threads running through which are hardly visible to the eye, but which give an added touch of richness to the surface of the fabric. One must not forget the "etoffe lame," used for many of the underslips, which is made of very thin gold or sliver strips, crossed and recrossed into a loosely webbed thread, and resembles more than anything a loosely woven cloth of gold or silver.

A new material called ratine, a cross-woven material, with the upper surface rather curly, is also bound to have a vogue for afternoon gowns and tailor suits. It is to be had in all colorings, and is checked and striped.

Another novelty is a particularly silky zibeline, which some of the tailors are reserving entirely for walking suits, trimmed with satin or cloth bands.

But of all these fabrics velvet takes first place, and it has been brought to such a state of almost perfection as regards suppleness and pliability that it can be draped in any style without difficulty. There are many new chiffon velvets, satin velvets, and silk velvets, the names all meaning that the velvet is as soft as it is possible to attain at present.

Even in velvet the brocade effect is repeated, and quite a number of afternoon gowns and wraps of it are seen, but always in conjunction with some softer and lighter material, such as silk voile or chiffon to relieve its somewhat heavy aspect.

Besides the very supple velvets there are fabrics which are alternate stripes of black velvet and white, green and red, yellow or blue satin. The alternate stripe is sometimes of moire, but the velvet stripe is always black, and is about one and a half inches wide.

A great deal of ingenuity has been brought to bear upon the manufacture of these velvets, as also upon the designs, for quite a number of them have patterns in beads, gold or steel or white porcelain, which appear not to have been sewn upon them afterward, but to be woven into the fabric during its manufacture.

Satin, too, is treated in the same way, and many beautiful effects are obtained.

But where success has reached its greatest height is in the new Byzantine voiles and tulles, which are not embroidered, but have heavy barbaric patterns woven into the rest of the design, which is principally beads.

Fur is present on most garments and this is not surprising, for the late Summer already foretold its advent; then there is an infinite variety of coarse and fine gold, silver, and metallic laces, splashed with Roman, Egyptian, Byzantine, and Moorish designs—in fact anything that is barbaric in effect—in metal, sewn or woven with antique gold and silver thread.

There are, too, the beautiful embroideries, also woven, which are truly Eastern in character and cannot be compared to anything else, and the wide bands of figured ribbon and gold lace which Doeuillet uses under his veilings as a sort of band from below the waist to just over the hips, while Poiret has wonderful bands of embroidery at the hem of his robes into which are inserted shaded roses which are raised into relief, while Cheruit has a beautiful rhinestone embroidery.

Velvet ribbons, too, appear with an almost unwearied reiteration, and so do the beaded embroideries which have been mentioned. Silver net insertions embroidered in silk, the jet buckles, the metallic "motifs" which serve as fastening or as fixtures to draperies, the thick gold cords with huge tassels simply tied around the waist and falling like those of the Capucine monk, only that they are of gold, while his are of rope; the embroideries in floss silk and the long fringes of jet, coal, or crystal are all seen.

Worth in particular is very partial to coral, crystal, and silver fringes, which hang over the hem at the feet. Then comes—and it is hardly possible to state just how important they are in comparison with the other trimmings—the beautiful Venetian and Milanese laces, which are used in great quantities, as is also a new kind of thick, coars, filet lace used as panels back and front to black chiffon or satin gowns.

Venetian lace is used in many ways as trimming, principally over black satin, and then it is retrimmed in its turn by black satin. A quaint and novel gown I saw was of black satin, with white Venetian lace tunic, having a black satin waistband, from under which escaped a sash of black satin, having a knot at the end. Venetian lace is also used in an "apron" effect over black.

A new trimming to the satin afternoon frock is that of "queue de rat" soutache, braided into large patterns, usually of a contrasting shade from that of the gown. I saw a wonderful ivory satin gown veiled in black tulle in apron shape, strewn with large jet cabochons, with a band of gold and black embroidery edged with black and gold beaded fringe of large size.

Flowers and fruit, too, play by no means a minor role in the trimmings of gowns. They are not real, but artificial, and are made of satin. They serve as the sole trimming to the very simple peasant bodices of beaded tulle, which is about all that the tops of evening frocks are composed of, or they are the means of fixing up draperies on the skirt.

One or two houses use bunches of grapes, with the fruit and leaves tinted a natural color, and others use small red crabapples, while others again make use of large berries.

But the majority prefer flowers, and principally roses, chrysanthemums, gardenias, and orchids, all made of satin to match the costume.

Little pink rosebuds woven around with gilt thread to represent moss roses as trimming. Very large varieties of roses are made of ribbons with gold hearts, and some are even made of dyed kid leather. These latter, however, are very stiff and only really suitable for such flowers as edelweiss, a great deal of which is being used as trimming for the many new black and white combinations.

A pretty conceit of Jean Worth is to edge the hem of a Nattier blue satin evening frock with a band of roses made on a strip of muslin, and then intertwine a band of fur between them. —New York Times.

MOBILIZING AT SEA

Yankee Fleet of Battleships Starts on European Cruise

Washington, Nov. 2.—Spick and span in their new dress, the sixteen battleships of the Atlantic fleet set out from New York, Philadelphia and Hampton Roads for a two months' visiting cruise to French and English ports, bordering the English channel.

At a spot in the Atlantic, about 250 miles off the coast, in the latitude of Philadelphia, the four divisions of the fleet will rendezvous tomorrow. The fleet is due to arrive at Brest, France, on Nov. 15. On the following day the first division will drop anchor in Portland harbor, Eng., the second at Cherbourg, France, and the third at Gravesend, Eng.

OVERCOME BY GAS

Three Men In Submarine Collapse While Under the Sea

Newport, R. I., Nov. 2.—Gas fumes, created by the breaking of a battery in the turret of the submarine Octopus, while diving in a submarine drill, nearly cost the lives of the twelve men who manned the boat before the craft could be brought to the surface.

Three men were so seriously overcome that they had not been resuscitated after the submarine had been brought into Newport to the torpedo station. All the officers and crew were affected by the fumes. All the men will recover.

APRONS FASHIONABLE.

Not only do women wear aprons still, but they wear more different kinds than their grandmothers had. The modern girl has an apron for the the pantry, another for dusting, one with special pockets for knitting and fancy work, and yet another variety, sheerer and more dainty, to protect the frock when presiding at a chafing dish.

The new aprons are fascinating in cut, trimming, and material, and the girl who likes to begin her Christmas gifts early will do well to specialize and make every friend an apron suited to her special needs.

The young housekeeper who keeps but one maid will like a cooking apron that entirely covers an afternoon or evening frock when she is preparing things in the pantry. These need not be the prosaic affairs of dark blue or red checked gingham. Blue, pink, or violet chambray, stylish dotted or barred mercerized cottons, or barred muslin that is not too sheer, creamy, unbleached muslin—all these launder as well as ugly materials.

Get a good pattern, preferably one that is circular, to avoid fullness. Sleeves are essential. They should be finished with a buttoned band, and big enough to slip easily over another sleeve. Cut away the neck in a small square or V. It is cooler and easier to fit than one close to the neck.

A gift apron for the pantry should not have the handwork of another aprono its trimming should be bold, not delicate. The unbleached muslin can have a deep hem of colored gingham, old blue, rose, pink or violet, or the whole apron can be bound with a two-inch facing of color put on right side. The cuffs are also in color. These bands may be stitched by machine, but are prettier applied by briar stitching or rows of chain stitching in a tone deeper than hems.

More novel are appliques of color across the bottom in a wall-of-Troy in deep points, or in a running scroll. A border of detached diamond shaped pieces eight inches high of color applied with black mercerized cotton are stylish. Smaller diamonds can be used to border neck and sleeves.

A cool apron of white barred muslin can be trimmed with colored embroidery bands around neck and sleeves, or double scrolls in two shades of old blue or rose can be briar stitched on narrow bias bands.

A work apron, voluminous and reaching to bottom of skirt and with a bib is dainty in pale pink chambray, briar stitched in white cotton. The square bib with ends that continue around the neck has the edge hemstitched, while running from shoulder to bust are parallel rows of hemstitching and briar stitching. The bottom of apron is finished in ten-inch border, hem and briar stitching alternating, and similar trimming is used on ends of strings.

A dusting apron should cover the skirt of gown and is preferable with a bib. There should be at least one pocket. A novel design is made of white galatea trimmed with an inch border of pink flowered chintz. The bib reaching to bust where it rounds into a semicircular top.

The novelty lies in the use of chintz bands as pockets. They are cut in shape of a huge H, the side pieces being three inches wide and the cross pieces five inches. This is stitched to the apron along all the sides of uprights save the top, and across bottom of cross strip. This makes two lengthwise pockets for whisk, feather duster or corner brushes, while in the cross pocket go cheesecloth and silk dusters.

In making such an apron for a Christmas gift the pockets may be filled with appropriate dusting untensils.

A convenient fancy work apron is made from white Persian lawn embroidered in a scallop of deep violet cotton. Two pieces of the material are cut into oval shape, reaching a little below the knees, and cut circular until it fits the waist line smoothly. The upper piece has two good sized oval openings cut from waistband to depth of seven inches and wider at bottom than at top. These are marked with a scallop and buttonholed in color, with a dot or eyelet in centre of each scallop.

The two pieces are basted carefuly together on edges and around top and a heavy scallop and dot worked through the two thicknesses. The waist band may be a straight band or a shaped piece finished on top with scallop.

This model may be developed in a variety of ways. The edges can be bound in colored lawn or be finished with a ruffle scalloped and embroidered like the pocket openings. A frill of heavy lace put on with a line of heavy chain stitching in color is showy and little work.

Another knitting apron is made with ends cut straight across and a deep strip added on outside to form pockets Divide into three by two rows of lengthwise stitching. Make the pockets any depth over eight inches.

A fluffy chafing dish apron with little work on it is made from white Swiss with a blue embroidered dot. Cut body of apron in large heart shape and make another smaller heart for bib. The point fits between the broad lobes of the big heart. A still smaller heart forms a patch pocket on left side of the apron.

All of these hearts are edged with narrow German Val. lace, put on only full enough not to pucker. The bib is joined with small bows of blue ribbon, which is also used for ties. For greater elaboration the lace can be joined by a line of cording stiteh, or insertion can be set in each heart the width if the insertion from the edge.

When made from a plain material, small designs of forget-me-nots worked in two shades of blue cotton can be put at top and bottom of each heart.

Another dainty apron for chafing dish purposes is more easily contrived, as it is nothing but a big square of pink mull, with a two-inch hem of white or pink-and-white bias stripes, applied by fancy stitchery. Run two groups of four lengthwise threads tucks in the upper corner to form a bib and on outside of each group put a small rosette of ribbon heading ribbon ties.

This apron is capable of many variations, as a white centre with a colored hem, a colored square edged with flat lace, and inner rows of insertion, or a square of striped materials, with a hem the tone of darkest stripe.

Remnants of laces, materials left from Summer frocks and reduced cotton fabrics can be turned into smart and useful aprons.—N. Y. Times.

TO LAUNDER EMBROIDERY.

Those who have fair success with washing white embroideries find that colored pieces soon lose color through laundering. Yet there is no reason why such work cannot be skillfully done by the amateur laundress.

Indeed, it is much safer to trust to one's own washing than to give handsome embroideries to a laundress who is not especially trained in fine needlework.

A good soap is of utmost importance. This should be a pure white soap in the fine toilet grades. Avoid ordinary washing soaps, also washing powders, ammonia, soda, or borax.

Make a strong lather of warm soapsuds and wash quickly, not rubbing hard, and paying special attention to soiled spots. Rinse four times through cold water, squeeze out most of the moisture without wringing and iron while still damp.

If the piece is too heavy to iron without long drying put it within a thick Turkish towel and press out most of the moisture. Never leave wet pieces of embroidery heaped upon each other.

Sometimes, owing to poor rinsing after a first washing, the color of the silk will stain the foundation material. This can usually be overcome by keeping on rinsing in an abundance of water.

When colored embroidery is done on washing silk it should be put through a soft and tepid water, the drying should be quickly done, and instead of ironing the material should be pulled and stretched into smoothness. Tack it when tightly stretched into position, and leave until entirely dry, seeing that the threads of the material are in right direction. If the embroidery itself needs pressing run a moderately hot iron over the back of work.

Sometimes foundation materials are too dead white after laundering. They can be given a creamy tint by treating as one does laces—that is, by dipping in water to which a littlecoffee or tea has been added.

Iron on the wrong side, with the work face down into a thick flannel or Turkish towel covered with fine linen. Use a moderately hot iron and press each part until dry. The work is improved by making a pad of fine organdie, wringing it out of hot water until no drops fall from it; then press it on back of embroidery and iron at once, moving the iron slowly and not taking off until all moisture from the pad is evaporated. If linen is much wrinkled it should be put between two linen cloths and ironed face downward This takes off the ugly shine at the back and makes scorching less probable.

If good qualities of colored silks or mercerized cottons are used there is little danger of running. With cheaper grade material it is wise to set the color by soaking in cold salt water or in a little sugar of lead.

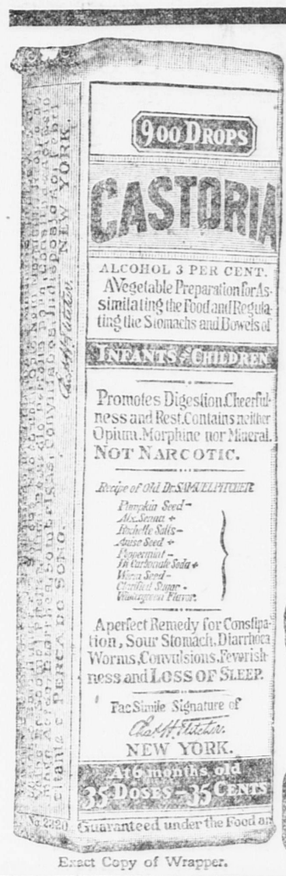

Never hang colored emgroideries in the sun to dry. Nothing fades them more quickly.

SETTLEMENT NOT IN SIGHT

Strike of Express Employes Continues to Spread

CONFERENCE IS ABANDONED

Wagon Employes of Big Department Stores In New York Quit Their Jobs —Strike Leaders Threaten to Call Out Thirty Thousand Drivers of All Classes of Vehicles—Many Outbreaks Quickly Quelled by Police

New York, Nov. 2.—No material progress has been made toward settling the strike of the express employes, which has been in progress for nearly a week.

The strike has resulted in a great congestion of express traffic and has caused much disorder, numerous street fights having occurred both in this city and in Jersey City, where the labor trouble first had its inception.

An attempt was made yesterday to hold a conference at which Governor Fort of New Jersey, Mayor Gaynor of New York and Mayor Wittpenn of Jersey City were to talk over with the strike leaders and officials of the express companies the matters at issue, but Fort was unable to come to Jersey City and the efforts to bring about such a conference were abandoned for the day.

Mayor Wittpenn had a conference with some of the strike leaders. He said last night that he had nothing to say at present regarding the progress made looking to a settlement.

The strike has extended to Newark, where a number of drivers went out, while in this city the wagon employes of several big department stores joined in the movement.

The leaders last night made the threat that unless the trouble is speedily adjusted they will call out 30,000 drivers of all classes of vehicles. They declare that more than 10,000 men are already involved in the demands for recognition of the union, better wages and shorter hours.

Rioting occurred in many parts of Jersey City and in Manhattan Tuesday. For the most part, however, the outbreaks were quickly quelled by the police. Arrests were made in nearly every instance and the arraignment of these prisoners called forth notice to rioters that more severe penalties will be dealt out in the future.

The express companies have given further protection to their drivers by equipping the front end of their wagons with wire screens behind which the drivers sit with the police. The reins pass through a small loophole in the screen and the wagons look like menagerie cages.

Peary Returns Next Week to Active Duty In the Navy

Washington, Nov. 2.—Captain Robert E. Peary returns to active duty in the navy department on Nov. 9, as engineer expert for the department of justice in cases before the court of claims, involving construction work for the naval bureau of yards and docks.

This work was the explorer's choice among several places offered him by Acting Secretary of the Navy Winthrop from which to make a selection. Peary would have preferred, it is said, to have been assigned to duty at the naval library to write of his travels in the frozen north..

TWENTY ARMY AIRSHIPS

Chief Signal Officer Asks For Them In His Annual Report

Washington, Nov. 2.—"Twenty aeroplanes at least are needed for the United States government service," says General Allen, chief signal officer of the army, in his annual report.

"These aeroplanes should be on regular practice at different points in the country throughout the year," continues Allen. "They should be present in camps of instruction for regular troops and organized militia. To operate this number would require at least twenty specially trained officers and pilots."

3804 KILLED, 82,374 INJURED

Record of Year's Casualties on Railroads In United States

Washington, Nov. 2.—"Killed, 3804; injured, 82,374." This is the casualty record of the railroads in the United States during the year ended June 30 last, according to the interstate commerce commission.

It is an increase of 1013 in the number killed, and 18,454 in the number injured over the previous year's figures.

There were 5861 collisions, killing 433 persons and injuring 7765, and damaging railroad property $4,629,279.

COLT OUT OF THE RUNNING

Rubber Magnate Declines to Be Candidate For the Senate

Providence, Nov. 2.—Samuel P. Colt declines to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States senate to succeed Senator Mr. Colt is president of the United States Rubber company. He was a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator in 1908, but was defeated by Senator Wetmore.

Since the resignation of Aldrich was announced last spring there has been considerable speculation as to who would be his successor and it was the general belief that the senatorship would go either to Colt or Henry F. Lippett, a textile manufacturer of this city, both of whom are personal friends of Aldrich. The announcement by Colt therefore leaves Lippett the only avowed candidate of the Republican party in the field.

DENOUNCES POLYGAMY

President of Mormon Twelve Apostles Warns His Followers

Salt Lake City, Nov. 2.—The president of the Twelve Apostles of the Mormon church, Francis M. Lyman, denounced before his congregation the "new polygamy," which has been openly charged against the Mormon church, and has never been denied. Lyman is next in succession to President Smith.

"The manifesto against polygamy given to the church is quite as binding as any written revelation," said Lyman. "The laws against the practice have been tested and sustained in the courts, and we must obey them.

"This skulduggery must cease. Some men and women have got into the fashion of having visions and dreams about this, but let me assure you that all such manifestations come from the devil."

MOISANT'S ANSWER TO GRAHAME-WHITE

American Is Ready to Race Anywhere at Any Time

New York, Nov. 2.—Claude Grahame-White, the British aviator, received the answer of John B. Moisant, the American who won the $10,000 Statue of Libery flight, to his challenge for a repetition of the race. Moisant's answer is as follows:

"I will race you anywhere, at any time, under any circumstances, on equal terms."

The Aero club, it is declared, is prepared to back Moisant to the extent of $100,000 if Grahame-White will race him on equal terms. The response of the American air racer puts the matter squarely up to the Englishman.

HITCHCOCK WILL STAY

His Showing of Economy Will Keep Him In Taft's Cabinet

Washington, Nov. 2.—Postmaster General Hitchcock will remain in the cabinet. Hitchcock's work in reducing the postal deficit settled the issue. It was the first showing of downright economy, and Mr. Taft was greatly pleased.

Mr. Taft will recommend in his annual message that second-class and third-class postmasters be put under the classified service. If congress approves, several thousand postmasters go to the classified civil service.

Mr. Taft will recommend that the magazines be required to pay the present rate of 1 cent a pound on all reading matter and a much higher rate, to be determined later, on the advertising pages.

GIVES JEWS A RESIDENCE

Czar Approves the Opening Up of Twelve New Sections

St. Petersburg, Nov. 2.—Emperor Nicholas has approved a resolution adopted by the cabinet opening up new sections for the residence of Jews.

Heretofore legal residence of Jews has been restricted to that section of the Polish provinces and the Ukraine delimited by the original Jewish segregation law and known as the "pale."

Imperial consent is now given to unrestricted residence of Jews in twelve districts. The places affected are suburbs of towns within which Jews have already been permitted to live.

Counsel of Man Accused of Murder Reports Incident to Judge, Who Suspends Trial While Juror Is Taken From Box and Arrested—"Go-Between" Tells How Nan Patterson Jury Was "Hung"

New York, Nov. 2.—The trial of Edward T. Rosenheimer, reputed to be a millionaire, charged with the murder of Miss Grace Hough by running her down with his automobile, was suddenly halted before Justice O'Gorman, and one of the jurors taken from the box to the judge's chamber.

George W. Yeandle, an architect, the juror, who had been questioned by O'Gorman, had been arrested and charged with having demanded and accepted a bribe.

The arrest was made by central office detectives after $500, it was alleged, had been given to Yeandle by George A. Knoblick, one of the Rosenheimer's lawyers. The money, it was learned in court, was paid over to him on instructions from O'Gorman, and was on account of a total of $2000.

A man named Tiemendorfer, a friend of Yeandle, also was taken into custody, charged with having been the "go-between."

According to James W. Osborne, chief of Rosenheimer's attorneys, Tiemendorfer visited him in his offices after the Rosenheimer jury had been selected and made the blunt proposition that for $2000 Yeandle would vote for Rosenheimer's acquittal, no matter what the evidence might be.

To prove Yeandle's value, Osborne says, Tiemendorfer told him that Yeandle had been one of the jurors in the first "Nan" Patterson murder trial and had "hung" the jury after holding out against a verdict of guilty for seventeen hours.

Mr. Osborne asked for time to think the proposition over. He then placed the matter before O'Gorman, who advised that a trap be set for the juror.

On the arraignment of the two prisoners on a short affidavit, charging bribery, both were held in $10,000 bail. Neither was able to furnish the amount. Yeandle protested to Police Magistrate Murphy that the whole matter was a mystery to him.

Another juror was selected in Yeandle's place, and Rosenheimer's trial for the murder of Miss Hough was resumed.

ELOPES FROM WELLESLEY

California Miss Runs Away With a Youth From Lynn

Wellesley, Mass., Nov. 2.—A sensation such as Wellesley college has seldom experienced occurred here when it was discovered that Miss Madeline Powers, a freshman from California, had eloped with Lourin S. Ulman of Lynn. The couple were married Monday at Nashua, N. H.

Miss Powers is the daughter of Frank J. Powers, president of the Union Trust company of San Francisco. She is a member of the freshman class, and since the beginning of the year she has been rooming in one of the freshman dormitories. The groom is the son of Seth Ulman, a Lynn banker.

"THOROUGHLY CONVERTED"

Sultan of Sulu's People Will Henceforth Be Americans

Manila, Nov. 2.—The Sultan of Sulu arrived here on the transport Sheridan after his tour of Europe and the United States. The sultan, who greatly enjoyed his visit, says that he is convinced the Americans are in the Philippines solely for the benefit of the natives. As to his future plans he said:

"I shall return to Jolo, assemble the dattos, describe my observations in foreign countries and announce my policies. I shall ask their support for an educational program. I am thoroughly converted and my people will henceforth be Americans."

Carnegie Is Visiting Taft

Washington, Nov. 2.—Andrew Carnegie is a guest at the White House and President Taft and he spent last evening together. It was said that the presence of the steel magnate at the White House had no significance, other than social.

Take a cake of Lenox Soap, cut it into small pieces and dissolve these in three quarts of boiling water. Keep at boiling point until a solution is formed.

This solution will do better work than soap —and without any waste.

Rub the soap solution on the soiled parts, fold and roll each piece separately, pack in a tub, cover with warm soapy water, let stand over night, and in the morning you will find that the really hard work of washing—the rubbing on the washboard—is not half as hard as usual.

BRIEFS

A meeting of the City Council Committee on Finance will be held Thursday evening.

Frank E. Parlin of Cambridge, formerly superintendent of schools, was in town this morning.

Miss Irma C. Tilton of the Board of Health office returned this morning from her vacation trip to Washington and Philadelphia.

The weekly whist parties at the rooms of the Granite City club begin tonight. Weekly and monthly prizes are given for the highest percentages.

All Saints day was fittingly observed in all the Catholic churches of the city Tuesday, masses being celebrated at 5.30, 7 and 9 o'clock in the morning.

A meeting of the general committee from the different towns and cities, who are acting in the matter of telephone rates, meet tonight at the Revere house, Boston.

The new telephone number of Frank F. Prescott, the city editor of the Daily Ledger, is 869 M Quincy. It is on the two-line unlimited service with divided ring.

The Boston Gear Works has circulated hundreds of copies of the Daily Ledger with the page article on Quincy's new manufacturing centre at Norfolk Downs.

The Quincy Adams petitioners for better train service received no notice that the Railroad Commissioners would give a hearing on Tuesday and consequently were not represented.

Sergt. M. E. Hanson of the Police department is having his vacation this week. Officer Goodhue is acting as day station officer during his absence.

J. I. Anderson of Prescott, Arizona, who is interested in the Arizona copper syndicate and has headquarters at U. S. Hotel, Boston is spending a few days with W. S. Brown of Wollaston.

Abigail Adams lodge, I. C. of A., opened a fair on Tuesday at Clan McGregor hall. A whist tournament was opened in the afternoon. In the evening there were other attractions.

HORSES DEFINED.

F. A. Whitney of Meeteetse, Wy., a rich rancher, during a recent visit to New York told a story about a little slum urchin whom he had sent on a month's vacation into the country.

"The lad," he said, "thought we got mush from mushrooms and milk from milk-weed. One morning a lady pointed to a horse in a field and said:

"'Look at the horse, Jimmy.'

"'That's a cow,' the boy contradicted.

"'No,' said the lady, 'it's a horse.'

"'Tain't. It's a cow,'' said the boy. Horses has wagons to 'em.'"

SOCIAL OF GALAHAD CLUB

Dance and Refreshments at the Parish House

The first social given by the Galahad Brotherhood Tuesday evening in the parish house of Christ church was a splendid success from every point.

The brilliant electric effect, the dainty and exquisite beauty of the Chinese lanterns, the quaint old harvest moon, the merry dancers gliding to and fro with a light step and a joyous heart, proved that the trials of the world had been cast aside, and the philosophy of merriment taken its place.

Robert McNairn accompanied by Miss Roberts, rendered an excellent violin solo, while E. J. Chadd entertained the audience with admirable singing.

The entertainment committee proved their capability of handling the situation, seeing that each individual was made at home, and by a system that they had developed, all receive refreshments without interrupting the dancing.

The reception committee was by no means lagging in its duty, and this was plainly seen by the emptiness of the chairs during the dancing.

Gibbs McDonald with his fine electric and decorating abilities played an important part towards making the evening one big success.

LETTER TO THE MAYOR.

People from all parts of the country write the Mayor on all manner of subjects, so that should he take heed of them all it would require a greater part of his time. The following is a fair sample of some letters he receives. This letter came this morning from Memphis and Nashville, Lookout town, Tenn.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Horace Abercrombie of Elm street, Braintree, well known to the older residents of Quincy passed away on Tuesday in her 77th year.

Marshall W. Fisher of 757 Washington street died at his home on Tuesday. Mr. Fisher was nearly 78 years of age.

George Putnam of Dorchester, an employee of the shipyard, had his collar bone broken on Monday noon while playing soccer football.

Alice D. Wilding, the little three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wilding of 26 Baxter street, died Tuesday at her home.

The Woman's Guild of Christ church had a Hallowe'en supper on Monday evening. The decorations, games, story telling, etc., were in keeping with Hallowe'en.

A. K. Kennedy, J. D. McBride and G. Bergstrom were the committee in charge of the first dance of the Fore River hull draughtsmen which was held in Colonial hall, Monday evening.

Quincy has a good many up-to-date markets and by watching their ads from day to day in the Ledger housekeepers can solve the problem of the high cost of living by taking advantage of the special bargains they offer.

—One of the strangest accidents, and at the same time one of the most terrifying, occurred in one of the Pittsburg steel mills recently. A man was carrying a steel billet through a shop when he came within range of a 30-ton magnet used as a crane. It sucked him to it like a flash, and the 10-foot jump into the air was made with such force that the man was fatally injured by the impact.—Springfield Republican.

CREW OF OCTOPUS

Have a Close Call While Diving Off Newport

A dispatch from Newport, R. I., says gas fumes, created by the breaking of a battery in the turret of the submarine Octopus, while diving on Tuesday, nearly cost the crew of twelve men their lives. The men were seriously overcome.

The first the men knew of the trouble was the bad air and that the white mice, the submarine tell-tale were unconscious. While on the way to the surface the man at the elevating machinery collapsed. The men staggered about until the boat reached the surface, when the commander, Lieut. Donald C. Bingham, wrenched away the turret fittings and fell out onto the deck. He soon recovered and pulled out the other men of the crew.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Wollaston Club will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening at 7.30.

The Boy Scouts will take an all day Hike on Friday starting at 9 in the morning. Hingham will be the objective point.

The College Club will meet Friday evening in the Association building for business and a good time.

Mr. Clee will finish the stereopticon story, "The Lad from beyond Tuxedo" at the Saturday morning meeting for younger boys.

Sunday afternoon, Mr. W. C. Smith will speak to the older boys on the subject "The Boy in his Leisure moments."

A natatorial contest is being arranged by Mr. LaRose to take place in the pool some time later in the month.

REPUBLICAN RALLY.

The Republicans of Quincy will hold a big rally in Alpha hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. A number of the most noted speakers in the state will give addresses. Among them are: Hon. John D. Long of Hingham, former Governor of Massachusetts, former Congressman and also former Secretary of the Navy; Hon. George P. Lawrence, Congressman from the 1st Massachusetts district; Patrick M. Longan of Gloucester, a representative of the League of Republican Clubs of America, and the candidates for office, J. Mitchel Galvin, nominee for Representative to Congress, George L. Barnes of Weymouth, nominee for Senator, William R. Thomas and Louis F. R. Langelier, nominees for representatives to the General Court.

Before the rally a parade with a band, red lights and torches will take place. The guests are noted orators whom it is always a pleasure to hear and each man will keep the party kettle boiling during the time allotted him for his speech.

A RUDE INTERRUPTER.

"The feelings of women are far deeper and finer than those of man," cried the lady orator, in a fiery tone. "We are told by those who style themselves the stronger sex that we are much inferior. Is that so?

A loud chorus of "No!" from the ladies greeted this question, and the orator went on:

"I say that woman feels where man thinks—"

"Is that the reason your husband is bald?" inquired one of the few male members of the audience.

It was lucky for him that he got two seconds' start in the race for the door.—Pearson's Weekly.

CHOOSING THE LESSER EVIL.

"Judge," said the prisoner, "I would like to ask a few questions before I enter my plea."

"You have the court's permission," said the judge.

"If I go on trial," said the prisoner, "do I have to sit here and hear all the hypothetical questions asked by the lawyers?"

"Certainly," said the judge.

"And hear all the handwriting experts?"

"Of course."

"And follow the reasoning of the chemistry and insanity experts?"

"Very probably," said the judge.

"Well, then, judge. I will enter my plea."

"What is it?" asked the judge.

"Guilty!"—From Army and Navy Life.

NO SCORING YESTERDAY

Hyde Park and Quincy High Well Matched

In a game that was called at the end of the third period on account of darkness, Quincy High and Hyde Park both failed to score on Tuesday. The visitors did not appear at Merrymount Park until after 4 o'clock and the periods were made short on that account.

At the opening of the game Hyde Park started off with a rush, and brought the ball well down the field. Quincy got the ball before the goal was threatened very seriously, and the home team started on their journey up the field. Manning who was playing end made a long end run, but fumbeld when he was tackled. Hill recovered the ball. Time was called before any further progress could be made.

SECOND PERIOD.

The second period opened with the ball on Hyde Park's 35-yard line in Quincy's possession. The visitors got the ball on an intercepted forward pass, but Chapman threw his man back for a loss in two successive rushes and Quincy recovered the ball again. Prout made a gain of 20 yards, but the ball was soon lost, and Mulhern, the Hyde Park captain, gained the twenty back again, and would have made a touchdown had it not been for Manning. Quincy braced however and got the ball back again. A long gain by Hill and a fine forward pass, Hill to Manning, brought the ball to the visitors 45-yard line. Time was called with the ball in Quincy's possession.

THIRD QUARTER.

The home team went into the third quarter determined to score, and it looked as if they would after gains by Hill, Harmon and Prout and another excellent pass to Manning which carried the ball to the 20-yard line. Blackmur tried another forward pass, but it went beyond the goal line and Hyde Park was given the ball on the 25-yard line. Arthur and Gould collided with a post when they were pursuing the ball, and both were laid out for a couple of minutes. Mulhern made another good gain for Hyde Park, but Tirrell and White stopped the advance.

Hill made a 25-yard gain on an end run displaying wonderful ability in throwing off tacklers. A forward pass was intercepted, and Hyde Park made one or two short gains. Hill made another gain, and Arthur punted a long one to Hyde Park's 20-yard line. The visitors got the ball and on the next play returned the punt. With about 3 seconds to play time was called on account of darkness.

INTERESTING GAME.

Both teams played good clean football, and the game was very interesting all the way through. Hyde Park had a chance to score in the first period but the kick from placement which was tried went wide and Quincy receiving the ball on the 25-yard line soon carried it out of danger. The home team had a good chance to score after Manning brought the ball to the 20-yard line on a forward pass. Blackmur tried another forward pass, instead of signalling for a rush, and the forward pass failed. It was taking a big chance in a way and if it had worked we would have said it was just the right thing to do. Perhaps a quarterback with a little more experience would have tried an end run and a line buck instead but they might have been of no more avail than the forward pass.

On the whole Quincy was the superior of the two teams, and if the periods had not been so short a touchdown would have been made. Hyde Park was fast and sure but lacked a little in weight. The team played good football and made a stiff proposition for Quincy. The home team played well but did not play fast enough to make up for the brevity of the periods.

White did exceptionally well both on the offence and defense. Manning proved to be as effective at end as he was at quarterback and got off some fine end runs and gains by means of forward passes. Blackmur did very well at quarter and with the exception of possible errors in judgment, which were excusable, filled his position very creditably.

Hill and Chapman played faultlessly as usual. Arthur got off some long punts despite the fact that he was suffering from a bad ankle. It was unfortunate that the visiting team was unable to get there on time because a game with short epriods must necessarily be more or less unsatisfactory, and the rapid approach of darkness after sunset made a bad matter worse. However, as much of the game as was seen was very interesting because the teams were well matched and open plays were used almost altogether.

Vol. 25 No. 256 QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 3, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

ANOTHER FLOP ON CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Now It is Said Fresident Hobbs Will be the Republican Nominee

Ex-Mayor Hall Ready to Withdraw In His Favor

Considerable of a surprise was sprung on the unsuspecting public this morning, it being rumored that when the Republican nomination papers were opened tonight, it would be found that the candidate for Mayor would not be ex-Mayor John O. Hall, but someone else. The name of the gentleman now expected to be a candidate is Ralph W. Hobbs, president of the present City Council. It is reported that Mr. Hall was not anxious to become the candidate, but that after earnest solicitation he allowed his name to be used This morning it was said that he was perfectly willing to withdraw in favor of President Hobbs, and if that gentleman decided to run that he would not file his papers.

RALPH W. HOBBS.

President Hobbs has been a member of the City Council for several years. He was the president of the Council in 1908 and 1909 and is serving a third term. His name has frequently been mentioned in connection with the mayoralty, and it has been generally understood that he would some day seek the nomination and election. Few however, had connected his name with this year's candidacy, as it was understood that he desired to return to the Council and take a seat on the floor where he could take a more active part in the deliberations of that body. He is at present chairman of the special committee appointed to investigate the financial condition of the city, and while acting as such has made an exhaustive study of the financial conditions of the city.

W. F. NICHOLS DECLINES

Purely Personal Business Reasons Prevent Candidacy

To the Editor of the Ledger:

In view of the fact the writer was the Republican Candidate for Mayor a year ago, and that the impression seems to have widely prevailed that I would again enter the field at this time, I desire to candidly state my position

Fully appreciating the confidence and sincerity of all who solicited and supported my candidacy last year, and which has since developed to a point which is now becoming embarrassing to me; I want to publicly announce that for purely personal business reasons I very much regret that I have been unable so far to see my way clear to enter the contest this fall, when Republican non-partisan success seems more than probable.

Yours very truly,
Walter F. Nichols.

Wollaston, Nov. 2, 1910.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

A very jolly Hallowe'en party was given by Miss Violet Shay in honor of her tenth birthday at her home on Beach street, Saturday evening. The house was prettily decorated with orange paper, witches, black cats, and jack-o'-lanterns.

As each little guest arrived they were met at the door by a ghost and conducted to the parlor which was lighted by jack-o'-lanterns. After all had arrived the lights were turned on and then began all kinds of games including a peanut hunt, the prize being awarded Blanche Morris. At 9 o'clock the guests marched into the dining room which was also decorated. In the centre of the table was a large birthday cake lighted with ten candles and at each plate was a fire cracker, which when the string was pulled, contained a paper cap which each child wore, the cake contained a thimble, piece of money, and a button, and lots of fun was had over the finding of each. Ice cream, cake, fancy crackers, fruit and candy were served.

Miss Violet received many pretty presents.

Among those present were: Mrs. R. M. Cleale, Mrs. George Broadbent, Miss Clara Coombs, Miss Edna Shay, Misses Blanch Morris, Ethelle Cleale, Elenor Stuart, Rachel MacTear, Lucie Mae Shay, Ruth Broadbent, Lucy Marr, Dorothy Shay, Jenetta Shay, Fannie Stuart, Irene Shay and Doris Shay, Masters Morton Cleale, Louis Shay, Robert Frazer, James Shay and Albert Stephenson.

TELEPHONE RATE HEARING

Extension of Time for One Year Probable

Quincy representatives were present Wednesday evening at the meeting held in the Revere house, Boston, of the committees from the various cities and towns in the Boston telephone district, who are seeking a modification of the new telephone rates recommended by the State Highway Commission. Representatives of the Telephone company present stated that the new rates were not of their making.

A letter was received from the Highway Commission stating that in response to the protest they would request the Telephone company not to arbitrarily cancel the present rates until Nov. 1, 1911. This means that subscribers at the old rates may continue until that time.

The commission in its letter said:

"To the committee of Suburban Telephone Subscribers, Mr. Charles A. Dean, chairman:

"Dear Sir—Toward the close of the hearing Monday it developed that your committee had an alternative proposition for this commission's consideration:

"First, that this commission should request the telephone company not to arbitrarily cancel the multi-party suburban residence rates for existing subscribers before Nov. 1, 1911 or

"That the commission should recommend to the telephone company that a 5-cent toll be charged in and out of Boston from any suburban exchange.

"We have carefully considered your request. We believe that the next 12 months should show fairly conclusively whether, as this commission believes, the schedule adopted is fair and equitable both to the public and to the company. What this commission desires is to secure the greatest benefits to the public which can be obtained without injustice to the company.

"If the next 12 months develop the fact that the schedule is a desirable one, you will want it. If, on the contrary, the next 12 months develop the fact that the schedule is not sound and well balanced the commission will want to revise it.

"We therefore readily acquiesce and grant your request as outlined in the first section of your alternative proposition."

The letter was signed by Harold Parker, William D. Sohier and T. D. Kemp.

GRANITE CITY WHIST.

There was a good number of contestants Wednesday evening at the opening night of the weekly whist tournaments at the rooms of the Granite City club. Play was commenced at 8.30, and twenty-five hands were played. The best score was made by James E. Neary, who won 35 and lost 13, giving him 72 plus percent. The second best score was made by George H. Field, who won 40 and lost 20 giving him 66 plus per cent. At the close of the tournament a lunch was served.

TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYER WALKE LAUNCHED TODAY

Sister Ship of the Perkins and the Sterett Which Have Met All Requirements

Miss Mildred Walke Walter of Providence the Sponsor

The torpedo boat destroyer Walke, a sister ship of the Perkins and Sterett, both built by the Fore River Ship Building Co., and which made such enviable records during the government trials on the Rockland course, was successfully launched at the Fore River yards this morning. The Walke was named for Rear Admiral Henry Walke, and her sponsor was Miss Mildred Walke Walter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walter of Providence, R. I., and a granddaughter of the late Rear Admiral Walke, her mother being a daughter of the late admiral.

The launching was a private one, the general public not being admitted to the works. There was quite a large party from Providence, however, and the guests at the launch were confined to this party. They came from Providence in a private car which was attached to the 10.45 train from Boston and was run into the works over the Fore River Co., private track.

Preparations for the launch were well under way when the official launching party arrived, and they were immediately escorted to the stand that had been erected about the sharp steel bow of the destroyer. The work of driving in the wedge that lifted the boat from her keel blocks was soon over, and little remained to be done except to saw away the soul pieces. When all was in readiness the signal was given and the two-inch planks that held the destroyer on the ways were soon severed. As she began to slide down the greased ways, Miss Walter smashed a bottle of Mumm's Extra dry over her bow and gave her the name of "Walke."

The destroyer slid gracefully down the ways and was soon riding at ease in her native element. She was surrounded by tugs which took her to the fitting out dock where she will be made ready for her trials.

Although the yards were closed to the general public there are many vantage points along the Fore river from which the launch could be seen and a large crowd gathered and added their cheers to the shrill scream of the whistles that announced the launching of another war vessel.

Immediately after the launch the official party from Providence were escorted to the new office building where a lunch was served. This was an entirely informal affair and there was no speechmaking. The health of the sponsor and the success of the Walke were however proposed and drunk.

The Perkins the first of the three boats of this class built by the Fore River Co., had her official trial some weeks ago and more than exceeded her government requirements both as regard to water and coal consumption as speed. The Sterett the second of the trio is now having her official trials and up to the present time has more than made good, and the company have every reason to expect that the Walke will do as well if not better than her two sister ships.

Immediately after the lunch the special train was taken back to Boston and Providence.

The guests at the launch included the following.

Miss Mildred Walke Walter.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter.
Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ames.
Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Hatfield
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Foster
Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Livermore
Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Remington
Mrs. Richard D. Knight
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Knight
Mr. and Mrs. Walter O. Holt
Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Freeze
Mr. and Mrs. William Sykes
Miss E. Z. Dillon
Miss Mabel Beckford
Mrs. W. Manchester
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davies
Mr. Joseph H. Walter.

The Walke is 293 feet overall and has a trial displacement of 742 tons.

Miss Walter, the sponsor, is a remarkably pretty little girl. She wore a white dress trimmed with pink ribbons, white shoes and stockings, a white beaver hat trimmed with pink rose buds and white ribbon rosettes. Over this was thrown a tan colored broadcloth coat.

General Manager H. G. Smith in welcoming the guests at the lunch said he wished to extend the greetings of the Fore River Co., and regretted that Admiral Bowles was unable to be present. It was very pleasing to know that the Navy department had recognized and honored another naval officer by giving this boat the name of Walke. He gave a brief history of Governor Draper's administration will be endorsed because Massachusetts, under his wise and sagacious leadership, has gone forward and has maintained its supremacy— a supremacy that might easily have been lost.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

It would be something new to elect as Mayor a man who held the office some years ago. All mayors thus far have served in successive years. But mayors have filled other city offices, in fact are now well represented. Former Mayor Porter became a member of the School Committee and chairman of the board; former Mayor Fairbanks is now City Auditor; former Mayor Keith is now City Clerk; former Mayor Sears has been City Solicitor, and former Mayor Bryant is in the City Council, and has been president of that body. Two former Mayors have died and one is a non-resident.

DRIFT OF OPINION

Enforced sobriety is one of the measures by which practical temperance is being forwarded. A great reform is going on quietly in all the industrial establishments and railway systems of the country. Not only are men tested for color blindness and for defects of vision and perception, but they are also brought under new rules which affect their trustworthiness in their daily duties and in cases of emergency. Some railroads now discharge men who are known to drink, gamble, and visit disreputable resorts. There has been a general clearing up of ideas in all athletic associations, because it is seen that normal conditions of health are essential to the performance of feats which require skill and alacrity. No gentleman is now respected even by "good fellows" if he allows himself to be overcome with drink at a public festivity. The statistics in regard to the consumption of alcoholic drinks do not in any way give the measure of good or bad behavior among people at large.—The Christian Register.

Governor Draper is fairly and fully entitled to the vote of every citizen that realizes the value of a public servant who is not afraid to act in the way he believes is calculated to serve the public interest, when that service is misconceived and misrepresented by a boisterous opposition. Of his faithfulness there can be no question. His ability is not to be doubted. His courage is known to all men. There is nothing in the existing governmental situation which calls for his displacement by any other aspirant for the office. Voters who consider the man and the conditions candidly can come to no other conclusion.—New Bedford Standard.

A speaker at one of the Y. M. C. A. meetings said that seventy-five per cent. of the immigration to America is male. The other side of the shield is illustrated by the vital statistics of the United Kingdom, which show that there are almost 1,200,000 more women than men in Great Britain. In all Europe there must be not less than ten million women whose prospects of wifehood and motherhood have been destroyed by emigration. It is quite certain the immigration of women from Great Britain at all events should be welcomed.—Globe, Toronto, Canada.

Church advertising is growing and there is no reason why it shouldn't. It is perfectly legitimate to use newspaper columns to announce what is going on in the churches and it is merely a matter of taste how this shall be done. In some places the church "ads" vie with the theatre advertising in display, but as a rule it is not so conspicuous though as generally read. Nowadays it may not be feasible to go out into the highways and by-ways to compel people to come into the churches; but it is entirely proper to invite them so to do, and to extend the invitation through the newspapers.—Framingham News.

CANDIDATES ARE NUMEROUS

For Nominations for the City Council

Hobbs or Hall.

Republican rally tonight at Alpha hall.

Candidates Galvin and Barnes will also speak at a Milton rally tonight with Roger Wolcott and Malcolm E. Nichols.

Will Cornelius D. Austin file papers today for a rival Democratic candidate to Mayor Shea?

Nomination papers of both parties for all officers to be voted for at the Municipal caucus Nov. 15 will be opened this evening.

The Republican slate for Ward Two is: For Councilman at large, Percy H. Holman of South street; for Council men from ward, John B. Bass of Edison street, Sylvester D. Rich of Beach street, and Henry G. Studley of Hanna street.

There will be plenty of candidates for Republican nominations as councilmen at large, the list including Ernest W. Branch, Percy H. Holman, George A. Bolster, Edward J. Sandberg, Charles M. Bryant, Charles E. Cherrington, A. N. Labrecque and others.

A close contest is being waged in the Fifth Norfolk district, including Wards One, Two and Three, where Representative Thomas won last year by 98 votes. The vote in detail was:

"THE WORLD IN BOSTON."

That the missionary leaders and allied churches of Boston and New England are determined to make the Missionary Exposition, which is to be held in Boston next spring a veritable world's fair has become more than ever apparent since the recent call issued by the executive officers of "The World in Boston" as the Exposition is named, asking each church to enlist volunteers to help in making up the quota of 10,000 workers or "Stewards" which will be necessary to successfully carry out the plan adopted for the elaborate presentation that is to be made of the progress of missions, in non-Christian countries, and in Uncle Sam's domain.

JAPANESE DREADNAUGHTS.

A decision is said to have been reached by Japan to construct five super-Dreadnaughts for her navy within five years at a cost of $40,000,000. An influential paper published at Tokio states that the proposed fortification of the Panama canal is directed against Japan, and hence the increase in her navy. When a course is decided on, either by a nation or an individual, one excuse is as good as another. The fortification of the canal is not directed against any foreign power. It is a defensive movement for the protection of the interests of the United States, the monetary investment in the canal which our country cannot afford to have destroyed, and the preservation of the American right of way against all others that might wish to secure control of it. If Japan is to build five great warships because of the fortification of the canal, then there is reason for the action of our government, and also for making the defensive works as strong as it is possible for modern science to devise.

On Oct. 15, a Japanese Dreadnaught of 20,000 tons was launched in the presence of the emperor and 50,000 of his subjects. Japan is ambitious to have the largest and best navy in the world, and she is not alone in this desire. What Japan is determined to be ready to do makes it imperative on the part of other powers to be prepared to meet any emergency that Japan may force upon them. The disarmament of the nations still continues to be classed as an iridescent dream.—Lynn Item.

ARMY THREATENS NEW GOVERNMENT

Makes Demand That Portugal Distribute Pensions

Lisbon, Nov. 3.—The new republic of Portugal is threatened with a military revolution. The Second and Fifth regiments addressed a round robin to Provisional President Braga, declaring that they were prepared for an insurrection if they were not granted the promised promotions and pensions for helping overthrow the monarchy. The government probably will yield.

The Royalists who have adhered to the republic demand the same rewards as the revolutionists proper seek to exact. The revolutionary crew of the cruiser San Raphael has been dismissed. The crew of the cruiser Adamaster has refused to leave the vessel unless the members are guaranteed a pension of $15 a month each for life. In order to avoid disorders it is likely that the government will grant all of these demands.

A secret committee representing an element that is dissatisfied with the course of the government has been planning a revolution for some time.

TAKES SENTENCE AS A JOKE

Woman Once Tried For Murder Goes to Prison For Extortion

New York, Nov. 3.—When Florence B. Wildrick, who attained much notoriety a few years ago by being acquitted of the murder of Walter Brooks in a local hotel, was sentenced to serve from seven to fourteen years in state prison for extortion, she semed to take the whole proceeding as a joke. She will be sent to Auburn prison.

She smiled cheerfully while Judge Crain was pronouncing sentence and when led from the courtroom she appeared happier than at any time since her arrest several weeks ago.

It was different with Edward H. Brooks, convicted along with Mrs. Wildrick. He was pale and hung his head as the judge read the sentences. On the way to the Tombs, to await transportation to Sing Sing prison, he was visibly affected.

ADMITS SEEKING BRIBE

"Go-Between" For Juror In Murder Trial Pleads Guilty

New York, Nov. 3.—Claiming that he has only been in this country a few years and that he did not understand the law or the enormity of his offense, Dagelbert Timendorfer, a German, pleaded guilty to the charge of being the "go-between" for George W. Yeandle.

Yeandle was chosen a juror in the Rosenheimer murder case, and it is alleged he sent Timendorfer to Rosenheimer's lawyer to demand a bribe of $2500, for which sum Yeandle offered to prevent a conviction of the millionaire autoist on trial for the death of Miss Grace Hough.

Timendorfer was remanded for sentence on Nov. 11. Yeandle, who was indicted with Timendorfer relative to the bribery charge, after having been removed as a juror, has pleaded not guilty.

PLANNING ROUSING FINISH

Candidates For Governor of Massachusetts Each Predict Victory

Boston, Nov. 3.—Spellbinders of both parties were on the stump in practically every city and large town in the state last night. Both Congressman Foss and Governor Draper issued statements claiming victory on Nov. 8. The campaign will be pushed with the utmost vigor for the next three days.

Governor Draper said that the Democratic campaign up to date had consisted of "headlines, brag and bluster," and predicted that he would be elected by a substantial plurality.

Foss said his plurality in Boston, estimated at 25,000, would be his plurality in the state. He said Draper is dodging the issue and called upon Senator Lodge to explain his vote on the woolen tariff.

POSED AS A BOY

Ohio "News Butcher" Becomes the Wife of Her Roommate

Toledo, Nov. 3.—Margaret Patrick, a 17-year-old Coshocton girl, arrested after posing as a boy the past three months, yesterday became the wife of W. F. Collmer, 22, employed by the Bell Telephone company, with whom she had roomed for the past month.

Dressed as a boy, under the name of Robert Doyle, she obtained employment as a messenger by the Bell Telephone company and later as a "news butcher" on the Lake Shore. She was arrested Tuesday and later confessed.

The girl's voice and manner aroused the suspicion of the baggage master, who "quizzed" the girl into a confession. She said she could not find any desirable work for a girl.

Bad Mackerel Year

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 3.—"The most dismal failure in the history of the industry," is the general verdict on the mackerel fishery for 1910. The total catch is but 23,000 barrels. A few years ago the catch ran as high as 300,000 barrels.

ERBSTEIN INDICTED

Charged With Corrupting Juror In the Lorimer Case

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Charles E. Erbstein, one of the attorneys for Lee O'Neil Browne, who was recently acquitted of a charge of bribing State Representative White to vote for William Lorimer for United States senator, was indicted, charged with corrupting a member of the jury which cleared Browne.

The juror in question, Grant McCutchen, and Henry T. Stacy, alleged go-between, according to the stories they told the state attorney, received $250, which they divided equally, for McCutchen's vote on the verdict. The first trial of Browne resulted in a disagreement.

Newspaper Man a Suicide

New York, Nov. 3.—Gilbert E. Jones, former owner of the New York Times, committed suicide by shooting in the right temple in his office in the old Times building.

TAFT FOR RECIPROCITY

Envoys Leave For Canada to Reopen Trade Negotiations

Washington, Nov. 3.—For the purpose of resuming negotiations looking to the establishment of closer trade relations between the United States and Canada, which were begun last spring, Henry M. Hoyt, counsellor, and Charles M. Pepper, commercial adviser of the state department, left today for Ottawa.

President Taft is especially anxious that a reciprocity treaty shall be the outcome of the negotiations. Both Hoyt and Pepper have been in conference with the president almost constantly during the past few weeks, and they go to Ottawa bearing his instructions and his confidence that a satisfactory agreement will be reached.

DUE TO WARS.

"The high cost of living we are feeling now is partly due to the outcome of the Russian-Japanese War," declared David Starr Jordan, president of the Leland Stanford, Jr., university, in a speech Monday night on "International Peace," at Palo Alto, Cal.

"The whole world helps to pay the penalty of any war. Governments are now ruled by their capitalists. The train of war in life and blood has lowered the quality of race and has placed the nations under bonds to the invisible empire of wealth that can never be paid. Every great power is staggering under the weight of the interest charges alone."

President Jordan's address to the students was based upon the observations of his recent European tour.

A WINTER GUEST.

Samuel Minturn Peck.

The singing days are over,
The happy birds are dumb;
Mid fields of fragrant clover
The bees no longer hum:
Along the hill the air is chill—
The Wintertide hath come,
And on the world is weary,
At twilight time 'tis eerie
The tristful night falls dreary,
And as the shadows gather in,
My heart grows cold and numb.

But who's this Minstrel fusty,
A-trembling at my door?
His garb is brown and dusty,
And quaint should be his lore.
The more I blink the more I think
I've seen his face before;
'Come in, wee Cricket, pray you!
You're welcome—why delay you?
Beside my hearthstone stay you,
And through the long long winter nights
We'll sing the summer o'er."

A man came out from Boston to fix the electric bell system of the school on Monday. He was so successful that the clock refuses to go and the bells and the electric attachments to the doors do not work. Headmaster Howlett and Miss Lennon have been obliged to give the signal at the opening and the close of each period, one on the second and third floors and the other on the first.

The prize for best cover design for the Golden Rod has been awarded to Clara Bushnell. The magazine will be smaller in all dimensions but thickness. The color of the covers will be coffee brown instead of bright yellow as in former years.

Sarah Hale '10, has entered City Hospital as an assistant nurse.

Robert N. Findley, who entered High school from Dorchester High last week, will not be allowed to play football for the school this fall. The three months' rule which is enforced at many of the Boston and suburban schools will prevent his playing against Dorchester, since they would refuse to play a team which did not enforce it. That is the only game in which he will be needed, but for the reason above mentioned and because he knows the signals and trick plays of the Dorchester team, he will not be allowed to play in that game.

The course in drawing has been built up wonderfully this year by Mr. Ray, the new instructor. At present there are nearly 400 pupils taking the two courses, free hand and mechanical drawing.

Manager Blackmur is trying to arrange a game with Everett High to be played at Merrymount park, Friday afternoon. Another game which the followers of the team desire is a return game with Brockton High. Blackmur is trying to arrange the game for Thanksgiving week. There should be a contest with the nearest rival for the last game of the season. Whether Brockton fills the requirement is an open question, but this year we are inclined to think that it will. This is a defeat which ought to be wiped out, and Quincy could do it on the home grounds. The Dorchester game will be of interest of course, but it is not the game that Dorchester would rather win than all the others, and Quincy much as she would like to win has not the best of prospects for a victory over their heavier and more experienced rivals. Harvard has her Yale, Andover has its Exeter, most of the schools have one game to which all the pupils look forward, and for which the team trains and prepares itself particularly. Since Adams Academy has been closed, Quincy has been without such a game and the quest of a rival seems to be the thing this year.

Among the new teachers which Quincy has been very fortunate in securing this year are Mr. Schoonmaker in the commercial department, and Mr. Smith in the department of science. Both men have brought the courses which they are conducting up to a high plane. It has been said upon good authority that some of the courses in our High school are the best in the state, and among them were mentioned courses conducted by these new men.

GRADED SCHOOLS.

The athletic contests at the Adams school are creating a great deal of enthusiasm among the boys and girls of the upper grades. During the past week 31 contests have taken place with the following results:

Team 3, James Smith captain,—won 14, lost 17.

Team 1, John Farquharson captain,—won 9, lost 22.

Team 4, Peter Williams captain,—won 8, lost 23.

Team 2, Henry Ford captain,—won 1, lost 30.

The class pin for the 8th grade scholars of the Washington school has been selected by the committee. The colors are gold and red. At the top is a star and crescent in gold. Below it is a shield covered with stars and a scroll bearing the name of the school. The design was suggested by the coat of arms of President Washington, and is in fact a facsimile of part of it.

The Cranch shool has selected a permanent design for its class pin. The design which is embossed upon a gold surface bears the initials "C. G. S."

The week's games between the teams of upper grade boys were hotly contested last week. Out of 21 games played:

Team 2, Harold England captain,—won 7, lost 14.

Team 3, Henry Hall captain,—won 6, lost 15.

Team 1, Carl Bates captain,—won 6, lost 15.

Team 4, George Norris, captain,—won 2, lost 19.

The class pin for the Adams school has for its design an engraving of one of the birthplaces of the Presidents Adams on Franklin street.

The Masschusetts Fields school association hold a meeting in the Park and Downs church this evening. Mr. Barbour, the superintendent of schools, will speak.

Miss Vira Horner, fourth grade teacher at the Wollaston school was out on account of sickness on Tuesday.

The permanent design chosen by the class pin committee of the Massachusetts Fields school is a very pretty one. The raised form of Squanto, the Indian chieftain, is in the centre of the pin. A border of blue has the name of the school and the numerals of the class embossed upon it. The design will remain unchanged, but the numerals will of course change each year. The teachers have secured pins without numerals.

Henry L. Upton, master of the Willard school, has organized a study class for the teachers in his building who wish to take advantage of the opportunity. Quite a number have joined and it was voted at the last meeting to make a study of McMurry's "How to study, and teaching pupils how to study."

* * *

According to the general understanding there will be new members on the School board next year, the terms of Chairman Miller, Dr Hunting and John J. O'Hara expiring. At first all three desired to retire but Messrs. Miller, and Hunting may accept a renomination.

Miss Annie Z. White, a teacher in the third grade of the Willard school, who has been sick for sometime, is at her sister's home, Cedar Grove, but hopes to be able to resume her duties Monday.

The report cards have been issued to the pupils throughout the city. They should receive the careful attention of the parents, so that they may cooperate with the teachers in securing the highest possible results in the pupils's school work, attendance and conduct.

Telephones have now been installed in practically all of the school buildings, and another week will see them all in. While regular instruments have been installed Supt. Barbour has formulated certain rules which will prevent the abuse of the telephone privilege: The rules are two in number and right to the point. The first is that the telephone shall not be used by teachers or scholars for calling, nor shall they be called during school hours. This rule does not apply to the master or his assistant. The second rule is that the telephone shall not be used where there is a toll charge at any time.

It was announced this morning that both Chairman Miller and Dr. Hunting had taken out nomination papers for renomination on the School Committee. The former as the member from Ward Three and the latter at large.

The class pins of the Gridley Bryant school have arrived. In the centre of the pin there is a medallion of Gridley Bryant, and on the border the name of the school and the class numerals are placed. The color scheme is purple and gold.

The seventh and eighth grade boys of the Lincoln school were represented by teams in a soccer football game Wednesday at the Old Colony grounds. The 8th grade team won the contest by a score of 3 to 0.

A music examination for all scholars in the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grades throughout the city, is scheduled for Dec. 1. In preparation for this Miss Perkins and the teachers are giving indivdual instruction where it is necessary.

The older boys in the John Hancock school were organized into two teams which contested in a game of soccer football Wednesday. The team captained by John Magee defeated Stanley Lee's team 2 to 0.

The Willard school boys will begin practice in soccer football next Monday. They were to have started today but the manual training classes are scheduled to meet in High school this afternoon and thus the opening practice is deferred.

The reports for the first eight week's work are out in all the graded schools. Delinquency slips are sent to parents as soon as the deficiency is first noticed, thus preventing any fault finding at the end of the year.

The introduction of soccer football into the graded schools is meeting with great enthusiasm on all sides. The boys take to the game very kindly and the two soccer football clubs in the city, the McGregors and the Fore Rivers are very much interested in the movement. They have offered to furnish coaches for each school, referees for the games, and the McGregors have offered a cup for the winning team in the school league. Whether or not the league can be formed this fall is a question but an effort will be made to get it started by the middle of the month. Interclass contests are played at recess each day, and more extended games will be played afternoons and Saturdays. The two soccer clubs have taken hold of the idea with enthusiasm and have agreed to do all that is within their power to promote the game here. All the large cities have introduced soccer football into their schools and many of the colleges have taken it up quite extensively. Dr. J. Gardiner Smith, the physical director, is working in the interest of the game. The moral element will be made prominent as well as the physical. Every boy will be expected to play a clean game, and the openness of the soccer game will make this much more of a possibility and a probability than the American rugby game. The Scottish game is sane and safe. It is a very rare occasion when a man is injured in playing it. Every player on the team has a chance to do as much as his neighbor, and the exercise to be obtained from soccer contests is the best possible for development of the lungs and limbs. Starting under such favorable auspices there is every reason to believe that the game will live and prosper in our schools.

WOODWARD INSTITUTE.

The Senior class gave a Hallowe'en party to the Juniors Friday evening, Oct. 28, in the music room of the school. The room was decorated in class colors with the addition of a little color suggestive of the season. The girls performed all the stunts that go with Hallowe'en, and made the rafters ring with their merriment. Refreshments were served, by members of the entertaining class, and the party broke up at 10 o'clock after a very mirthful evening.

Allan W. Walker, the caretaker, is moving into the smaller house on the Woodward grounds which faces on Linden place. His residing in close proximity to the school will be mutually a good thing, for the school will get better service with Mr. Walker right there to keep an eye on everything, and he will not have to get up at all hours of the night to tend the furnaces and to meet the state requirements for his presence in the building.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL.

All Saints day was observed Tuesday by the scholars and teachers of St. John's school. The regular school sessions were not held, but the scholars gathered at the regular time and went to church to attend the 9 o'clock mass.

The last installment of desks and chairs arrived Wednesday and the eighth room will be equipped today. The teachers for the seventh and eighth rooms have been here for some time, and the work is going on without a break. The upper grades have been divided somewhat, so as to arrange for the occupancy of these new rooms.

The grading of the grounds is progressing as fast as the weather will permit. The work cannot be finished until spring, but considerable headway can be made on the levelling before winter sets in.

OTHER SCHOOLS.

The Bridgewater Normal school basket ball team will play the Quincy Y. M. C. A. Saturday, Dec. 17.

The committee of scholars of the Stetson High school at Randolph who are raising a fund to pay for a typewriter for the class room, have, through the treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Sheehan, made a report showing how they raised the $50. The several classes are now planning on presenting the school with useful and ornamental articles. Funds have also been started for basketball purposes and for the base ball diamond.

The Oliver Ames High school has a band which holds rehearsals in the gymnasium.

New Bedford has a waiting list of 300 for the men's evening industrial school and nearly 500 for the girls' industrial school.

The race for the appointment of drum major of the Fife and Drum corps of the English High battalion at Lynn is a hot one, as there are several candidates, all struggling hard to secure the position. Among the names for candidates are Robert Boyd, John Oliver, Fred Brooks and Lester Marshall. This year the drum major will have the rank of a commission officer.

Boys of Braintree High school are forming a foot ball team to play Thayer Academy and Holbrook High. They have been putting in a stiff practice afternoons on the Common, under the direction of Mr. Andrews and Mr. Smalley. Frank Ness '11 has been elected as captain and Allen Lawson '11 manager.

Frank Ness has been elected manager of the basket ball team for the ensuing year, and Clinton Scollard '12 as captain.

The girls of the different classes are going to form teams this year to play for class honors. No games will be arranged with other schools.

CONVENTION TOMORROW.

Some timely topics are on the program for the annual convention of the Norfolk county Teachers' Association, which will be held tomorrow at Ford hall, Boston. Music at the morning session will be furnished by the Dedham High school chorus, and at the afternoon session by the Lotus Male Quartet.

The session opens with devotional exercises by Rev. Ambrose W. Vernon, D. D., of Brookline. The principal address will be by H. L. Gilson, state secretary of boys' work of the Y. M. C. A., whose topic will be "The aim and scope of the Boy Scout movement."

There will also be short address on "Training Hercules" by F. E. Edwards, James P. Munroe, Arthur T. Smith, John Golden, Horace L. Brittain and Rev. O. P. Gifford, D. D.

At the afternoon session will come the election of officers, Supt. Barbour of Quincy being chairman of the nominating committee. Also the following addresses: "The Teachers' Annuity Guild," by E. D. Russell of Llynn; "Educational Work Outside the School," by G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark University of Worcester.

SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

On Monday, November 7, the domestic arts division of the New Bedford Industrial school will be opened in the Dennison Memorial building at the south end, says the Standard, all arrangements for this having been completed by the trustees, and when the new school is once underway, it will be a distinct and valued addition to New Bedford's public facilities for the education of the youth of the city.

The industrial school on Water street is a boys' school; the domestic arts department of the school in the Dennison Memorial is a girls' school. Both branches are under the care of the board of trustees and both branches were provided for in the act under which the industrial school was established here, which provided for instruction in both domestic and mechanical arts. The latter provision is now being most successfully cared for in the boys' industrial school; the second provision will be cared for beginning with the term which opens next Monday morning.

As is the case at the industrial school, the age limit is 14 years. A girl of that age, who can read and write and who can speak the English language is eligible to enroll. A grammar school education is not necessary, although if possible, it is desirable.

The courses offered after the preliminary training are varied, and the length of the course is problematical, depending upon the rapidity with which the pupil can be advanced, and the courses which the girl desires to enter. The preliminary training, however, for all courses differs but very little. The aim of the school is to turn out girls, who if they want to go into a mercantile establishment as a dressmaker or a milliner, can secure employment at once at wages, without being forced to go through the long term of apprenticeship; and to turn out girls who are capable of going into homes and caring for them.

Statistics prove that the average girl works in a store or a shop about six years and then gets married. If she does not get married, eventually she will have charge of the running of a house for herself. The ordinary girl, eventually runs a house for herself, or for her husband, if she marries, and at the industrial school she will have received training which will fit her for it and fit her to run a house on a limited income.

After the preliminary training a girl can elect whether she wants to take the courses in millinery and dress making or specialize further in household economics. If the former her studies are emphasized along these lines; if the latter, the reverse is true. But the dressmaker or milliner when she finally graduates knows considerable about foods, cooking and the running of a house. The girl who specializes in household studies, when she graduates knows considerable about dressmaking and millinery, at least enough to make her own garments. The aim of the school is broad and it is practical.

TEACHERS' FUND.

The tenth annual report of the Boston Teachers' Retirement Fund Association shows a steady improvement in finances. Lincoln Owen has been chairman of the committee on finance and Frederic A. Tupper, formerly headmaster of the Quincy High school, has been chairman of the committee on annuitants. There are 2,421 contributing members, and the list of annuitants, numbers 128, fifteen of whom retired on account of disability. The total receipts of the year 1909-10 were $67,562.62, as follows: $43,338.00 from reservations from salary; $13,767.00 to complete $540; then $10,517.62 as income from interest. The payments included $29,891.96 to annuitants; $1,996.50 refunded; $820.41 for expenses, leaving a balance for the year of $34,853.75. The total fund is $320,006.03.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTURE.

At the fourth annual meeting of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, to be held in Boston, November 17, 18 and 19, an entire session will be devoted to a discussion of "Part Time Schools." The main feature of this form of school organization is the close correlation of school work and shop work, the former being provided by the regular school system at public expense and the latter by commercial concerns out of their own budgets.

At Beverly and Fitchburg, Mass., and at Cincinnati, Ohio, equal squads of boys alternate weekly between school and shops, by which means the employer is assured of the constant services of the same number of boys. The pupil-apprentices are paid for their time in the shops, thus being enabled to support themselves and at the same time continue at school long after the age when otherwise they would have been compelled to seek other employment.

Educators and employers alike will be interested in the description, at the Boston convention, of the organization and the methods employed in the above mentioned schools by Prof. W. B. Hunter of Fitchburg, Supt. A. L. Safford of Beverly and Supt. Frank B. Dyer of Cincinnati.

WASHINGTON, LINCOLN AND CLEVELAND ON NEW BONDS.

Three Denominations Issued For Postal Savings Depositors.

The new $20 postal savings bond will have the face of George Washington displayed in a simple medallion frame as its distinguishing feature. The features of Abraham Lincoln will appear on the $100 bond and Grover Cleveland on the $500. These are the three denominations chosen for immediate issue.

"So far as the $40, $60 and $80 bonds are concerned the treasury department is not yet prepared to make an announcement. The designs will be similar to those of the first three denominations mentioned, but the vignette medallions will differ," said Assistant Secretary A. Piatt Andrew.

Under the postal savings law depositors may surrender their deposits or any part of them in sums of $20, $40, $60, $80 and $100 and multiples of $100 and $500 and receive an equal amount of a new issue of United States coupon registered bonds in like denominations, the interest payable semiannually, redeemable in one year and payable in twenty years in gold coin.

They are to be exempt from any form of taxation, but are to be issued only when there are outstanding bonds of the United States subject to call or when the government wants to replenish the treasury.

THE MOTHERS ASSOCIATION

Talk by Mrs. Bone on "Household Sanitation"

The regular meeting of the Mothers' Association was held in the chapel of Bethany Congregational church Wednesday afternoon. An appreciative audience listened to Mrs. Stanley Bone who gave a talk upon "Household Sanitation."

Mrs. Bone contrasted the ideal homes of today with those of the different stages of civilization in the past ages. She also showed how the nature of woman's duties has changed with the march of civilization, and how woman's responsibilities have increased with her greater understanding that she is, in a large measure, the guardian of the health of the members of her household; that the true woman's duties extend farther than her own door. She must have an interest in, and assist in perfecting the healthful conditions of the community in which she lives. The card party and other purely selfish pleasures must be secondary to her civic duties and humanitarian efforts.

The ideal construction of the home, the importance of location as contrasted with furnishing of the interior, the sanitary conditions around as well as inside the home; the cellar and what a factor for good or evil it might become; ventilation in the home and how to regulate it; the importance of sunshine and fresh air as powers to destroy germs—all of these subjects were given consideration by the speaker.

The fly and what disease and danger may follow in its tracks was dwelt upon at length. A number of rules given out by the American Civic Association as how best to proceed against this pest was next in the order of discussion.

The position of the woman as the spender, and also the demander introduced the subject of clean and sanitary shops and unadulterated foods. The importance of having the food displayed in provision, grocery and bakery stores protected from dust and flies, was pointed out. It was shown that this might be brought about if the women who do the purchasing insist upon the sanitary conditions under which food is displayed.

The next meeting of the association will be held on Dec. 7. Mrs. Clara Bancroft Beatley of Boston will be the speaker. Her subject, "The Real Mother" ought to attract a large audience. Mrs. Beatley is a delightful speaker.

KAISER POOR ARCHITECT.

Design For Cologne Bridge Inartistic and Will Be Changed.

The German emperor is fond of giving examples of his versatility, not always with happy results. Among other things he prides himself on being something of an architect. His high opinion of his abilities in this respect, however, is not shared by all his subjects.

On more than one occasion the kaiser has meddled in architectural matters with unfortunate results, and now the Berlin press is mildly satirical at his expense over his "improvement" of the new bridge recently opened over the Rhine at Cologne. This bridge is decorated with an equestrian statue of the kaiser himself, the first that has been erected. The bridge is flanked by four towers.

The architect intended the towers to be of equal height, but the kaiser went over the designs and insisted that the two downstream towers should be higher than those facing upstream. This expensive alteration was duly carried out, but the effect is so unfortunate that the experts as well as the ordinary public and even the minister of communications agree that the plan must again be altered and the two high towers reduced to the level of the others.

BRIEFS

It is reported that Dr. A. Waldo Forbush of Somerville will build a summer home immediately on the Boulevard near the yacht club houses.

The engagement is announced of Miss Leona Greenwood Robbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus B. Robbins, to Mr. Louis Stephen Cleaves, both of Wollaston.

The suit of Alice Holmes of Hyde Park vs John Cashman of West Quincy, claiming $10,000 for personal injuries for fall of derrick in 1908, is on trial in the Norfolk Superior court.

There is a large white dirty dog, supposed to be unlicensed that has become a nuisance about City Square. His dogship deposits himself across the sidewalk at its narrowest part in front of Thompson's restaurant obliging pedestrians to walk over him.

The many friends of Miss Ruth S. Page of Wollaston Park who last August went to Wappocomo, West Virginia, to be absent for a year, will be pleased to learn that she is happy and in good health. She writes that the scenery in the hills there is beautiful. The snap shots and post cards received from her confirms all the praise she bestows upon them. With all the new attractions to absorb her mind, she wishes her many friends especially those affiliated with the Park and Downs church to know that a big corner of her heart is still reserved for them.

—The assistant editor of the London Chronicle has been sentenced by an English judge to pay a fine of $1000, or stay in prison until it is paid, for contempt of court concerning Crippen murder case. It would be an excellent plan says the Athol Chronicle if some of our American judges would deal out like sentences to some of our sensational newspaper writers.

NEW PROBLEMS HAVE ARISEN

French Cabinet at Loggerheads Over Labor Legislation

IN UNEXPECTED RESIGNATION

Whole Body Quits at Suggestion of Briand, Who Will Form New Ministry In Harmony With His Views on Parliamentary Program to Meet Crises Such as One Tided Over During Recent Railway Strike

Paris, Nov. 3.—The cabinet of Premier Briand, which succeeded the Clemenceau ministry on July 23, 1909, unexpectedly resigned in consequence of the bitter attacks made in the chamber of deputies upon the government's action in suppressing the recent railroad strike and a diversion among its members over its proposed legislation for the avoidance of similar crises in the future.

A strong Republican majority in the chamber voted confidence in the government, but at a meeting of the ministers dissensions developed and Briand announced that new and serious problems had grown out of the labor trouble that must be met by a united ministry. Accordingly he suggested the retirement of himself and associates.

President Fallieres has asked Briand to form a new cabinet and he has consented, and it is expected will remodel the retiring ministry in harmony with his views on a parliamentary program to meet crises resulting from strikes.

Briand, who is a Socialist, was forced to abandon office by the assaults of the Socialists, who declared that he had betrayed them.

The Socialists, who rejoiced when Briand was chosen as premier, branded him as a traitor to the party tenets for his work in crushing the recent strike. The interpellations of the Socialists, and the subsequent disorder in the chamber of deputies last week, were the final acts that caused the premier's resignation.

The cabinet which retired was made up as follows: Premier and minister of interior and public worship, Aristide Briand; war, General Brun; marine, Admiral Lapeyrere; justice, M. Barthou; foreign affairs, M. Pichon; finance, Georges Cochery; education, M. Doumergue; public posts and telegraphs, M. Millerand; commerce, M. Dupuy; agriculture, M. Ruau; colonies, M. Trouillot; labor, M. Viviana.

This cabinet was formed by Briand after a great deal of difficulty and was hailed at that time as "the great Socialist cabinet." Briand was the pivot on which the whole drama, ending in the cabinet's fall, turned.

It is probable that Ministers Pichon, Dupuy, Brun and Lapeyrere will be in the new cabinet. Ministers Millerand and Viviani dissented from Briand's program and their retirement is likely to be permanent. Millerand especially was dissatisfied, insisting that the principle of arbitration should be recognized more broadly by the government. Just what Briand's program of future legislation provided had not been made known to the public when the resignation of the cabinet was announced.

At the meeting at which Briand suggested the resignation he thanked his comrades for having stood together in the national crisis and shouldered unitedly the harsh attack in the chamber. He said that he had been violently accused and even charged with nourishing an ambition to throttle public liberty.

It was true that these attacks had been repudiated by a strong Republican majority, which voted confidence in the government, but nevertheless out of the railroad strike and out of the debate in the chamber, whose character was so exceedingly grave, new and serious problems had arisen which must be met by a united ministry. For this reason the premier suggested the retirement of the cabinet.

HEN IS AN ANIMAL

Rhode Island Man Finds It Out When He Has to Pay Fine

Providence, Nov. 3.—Because a hen is a female fowl and a fowl is a domesticated bird, and a bird is a feathered flying animal, William Dunnagan is to pay a fine and costs amounting to $40.75, Judge Herbert holding that he is guilty of cruelty to animals.

Nine of the hens in the barnyard of Mary A. Wallace in Lakewood died after partaking of tomatoes stuffed with Paris green and set temptingly about a swill pail in the adjoining yard of Dunnagan. He said he had stuffed the tomatoes for the entertainment of skunks and rats.

A COSTLY LUXURY.

The criminal is a costly luxury. We say "luxury" because we do not need him and need not have him. He is a product, and we do not try to stop the production. We spend more money on him than upon good citizens—$6,500,000 every year in Massachusetts! This expenditure is the largest which the taxpayers make, excepting for school. It is 10 per cent of all the taxes. In the last 20 years the Massachusetts taxpayers have spent $100,000,000 for police, courts and prisons, and what have they to show for it? Crime has not decreased; the criminal has not retired from business. The number of arrests last year, in this State, was nearly 150,000, the largest ever known.

Why, with all this expenditure, is there no reduction of crime? Simply because the money is not spent in such a way as to make any impression upon crime. It is spent for police. They are necessary. But they don't prevent crime. After the law has been broken they arrest the breaker. Undoubtedly their presence is a protection to life and property. If we have criminals, we must have police. But crime is committed regardless of the police. The criminal is a curious creature. He knows that if he breaks the law, probably he will be arrested. The police prevent some men from becoming criminals, but when a man has become a criminal he will commit crime, regardless of the police, and take the consequences.

We have courts. But courts do not prevent crime. We have always had them, and crime has always been. It isn't the business of courts to prevent crime, but only to punish it after it has been committed. There is a story of a judge, who, in imposing a death sentence on a man for horse stealing, said to the culprit, "I am not punishing you for stealing a horse, but that horses may not be stolen." But it didn't accomplish its purpose. Horse stealing continued. Another thief took the dead one's place. Like the police, the courts deal with past offences. They do not prevent new ones.

And we have prisons. But they do not prevent crime. In 1908 there were 32,077 commitments to Massachusetts prisons. This number was sufficient to deter, if the imprisonment of one man would deter another. But in 1909 there was an increase—to 32,228, and more than 18,000 had been in the same prisons before! Their previous experience did not deter them, and it did not deter others. In 1908, 191 were sent to the State prison; and in 1909 the number was 198, and 17 of them had been there before.

The police and the courts and the prisons we must have, but after spending more than $6,500,000 for them in 1908, we had a much crime as ever in 1909, and paid about the same to take care of it.

What can be done? The police and the courts and the prisons must be continued. But the fatal defect of our system of dealing with crime is based upon the assumption that the entire business can be turned over to those three agencies. So long as we depend wholly upon them, we shall have the criminal with us.

Who cares that he is there? The taxpayer ought to, for he has to pay an enormous price for his presence. Isn't it about time to spend some money for prevention of the first offences—for the great agencies which have kept the rest of us from becoming lawbreakers? If Boston would spend $100,000 a year on playgrounds and boys' clubs, and on decent places in which men could pass a pleasant evening without being in temptation, it might reduce its police force within five years. But when crime is found to be rampant, we merely call for more police, and continue making new criminals for them to arrest.

And isn't it about time to do something to prevent second and subsequent offences Massachusetts tries reformatory measures on a very few, and with good results, but as a rule, when it imprisons a man it does it under a system which there is no reason to suppose will improve him.

And when he is discharged, What? Who receives him with a glad hand? His old chums; his "pals." He is welcome in the saloon—where else? He had a good bed and a good meal yesterday, in the prison. Where will he get a meal and bed now? Phillips Brooks said that "the discharged prisoner stands in what we may call the most forlorn and desperate condition which civilization has to offer to a human being." And, who helps him out of it? It would seem as if the rich men would see that it was for their interest that the ex-prisoner was housed and fed, lest he relapse into crime again. It would seem as if the churches, aiming "to seek and to save those that are lost," would do something for these men. It would seem as if employers of labor would give them a chance, instead of turning them away because they have been "jail birds," without inquiring whether they have become good citizens.

The last Sunday in October is Prison Sunday. Supposing every church in the State should observe it; should tell their congregations some of these things; should try to arouse a Christian spirit toward these "lost" men; should create such a sentiment toward them that they would believe that "somebody cares" what would the result be? Why don't they try it, and find out?—Boston Common.

AN AMAZING STATEMENT

Young Doctors Said to Fill Many Graves While Learning Surgery

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—Dr. John B. Deaver, one of the best known surgeons in the country, addressing the members of the Northwestern Medical society, said:

"A medical student fills a graveyard before he becomes a surgeon. I have filled several and don't call myself a surgeon yet. But I have found by long experience that a great many cases of appendicitis and gall stones do not need the use of the knife at all. And many cases of appendicitis need very little or no drugs at the outset. In cases where I do operate I often find that the case is only begun after the operation and I spend nights in woory after many operations.

"Out of 300 cases of appendicitis at one hospital with which I am connected in the last three months there have been but six deaths. This is due, not so much to skilful operating as to care in avoiding the use of the knife."

"CHURCH OF ALL NATIONS"

Will Be Run Irrespective of Nationality, Color or Creed

New York, Nov. 3.—Much interest has been manifested in the "Church of All Nations" to be started next Sunday in Jamaica. It is the intention of those actively interested to establish a place of worship for persons irrespective of nationality, color or creed, and to have teachings strictly non-sectarian. The result of the first meeting Sunday will be watched with great interest.

The new church will be established in a large store at Church and South streets, and will have a seating capacity of two hundred. Those who have canvassed the district to obtain opinions as to the success of the institution believe that the store will be crowded Sunday. Many prominent Jamaica residents are behind the movement.

BLOWS OFF HIS HEAD WITH A SHOTGUN

New Hampshire Man Thought He Had Killed His Wife

Sanbornville, N. H., Nov. 3.—George Clark, employed at the local Boston and Maine roundhouse, beat his wife into insensibility and, fearing that he had killed her, blew off his head with a shotgun.

Clark for some time had been insanely jealous of his wife. Mrs. Clark, it is said, never gave her husband any cause for jealousy. Their married life was marred by frequent quarrels.

Clark became intoxicated and went to his home. He upbraided his wife, and when she pleaded with him to go to bed he became angered and began to rain blows upon her face.

She fell to the floor unconscious. He tried to revive her without success, and then, half sobered by the thought that he had committed murder, he seized a shotgun and placing the muzzle under his jaw pulled the trigger.

EPIDEMIC OF SMALLPOX

Twenty People Dead and Forty-Five Dying In Michigan Town

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 3.—With twenty persons already dead and about forty-five dying from a sweeping epidemic of a most virulent form of smallpox, Mayor Stewart has issued a proclamation closing all theatres, schools, churches and other public meeting places.

The disease first appeared a month ago. The detention hospital is filled with patients and two physicians are giving all their time to their care.

BROTHERS IN POLICE TRAP

Holdups at Boston Charged to Two Young Men

ARE SONS OF CONTRACTOR

Laborers In Employ of Their Father Had Been Suspected of Robbing Women on Streets Until Patrolman's Suspicions Were Turned In Another Direction — Alleged Highwaymen Identified by Two of Their Victims

Boston, Nov. 3.—The Brighton police are confident that in Henry T. and Walter C. Meegan, aged 22 and 16 years, sons of a Stoneham contractor, they have the two highwaymen who have so terrorized the Brighton section of this city during the past few weeks by holding up and robbing women on the streets.

The young men were identified by two of the young women who were assaulted and robbed while they were in the act of aiding the police in the hunt for the "real robbers. The strategem which resulted in their arrest was planned by Captain Sullivan of the Brighton station.

Patrolman Mattey, who patrols the beat in the vicinity of the camp where the two Meegans and a number of laborers in the employ of their father live, went to the camp and while in conversation with the Meegan boys asked them to accompany him to Washington street, where he wanted them to pick out several laborers who formerly worked for their father, whom he expected to pass through that street about 5 o'clock.

The young men agreed to assist the patrolman and were on hand. In the meantime Mattey had informed his captain. Miss Mary McDougall, who was held up last Thursday evening, and Miss Catherine Coakley, who was assaulted and robbed Sunday night, were standing on Washington street in company with Inspectors Wills and Muldoon of police headquarters.

It was arranged for the women to inspect the Meegans thoroughly in the broad daylight and then in case of an identification to signify the fact to the officers. If the young women did not identify the men the police were to proceed with them and not let the two Meegans know that they had been suspected at all.

As soon as Miss McDougall's eyes lighted on the Meegan brothers she became almost hysterical and cried out: "There are the two men now.'

Immediately the police took hold of the two Meegans and led them to the police station, where they were locked up on the charge of robbery.

It is intended that Miss May Murphy, who was attacked and robbed Friday night and has been in a hospital since that time as a result of the nervous shock, shall be given a chance to try and identify the pair as soon as her physicians will permit.

The two young men denied absolutely that they were guilty of the holdups, saying that some mistake had been made. They could not account satisfactorily for their actions during the periods when the young women were held up.

Since the first robbery occurred in the Aberdeen district of Brighton the police have been of the opinion that some of the employes of Contractor Meegan were responsible. Meegan has been filling a contract there and several of his men, including the two sons, have been sleeping in a shanty during the progress of the work.

Some little time ago a difficulty arose between Meegan and the police as a result of the unsanitary condition prevailing at the shack and the police therefore knew the various laborers who were living there. None of them appeared to answer the description of the two robbers.

Then Patrolman Mattey had his attention attracted by the Meegan boys, and becoming convinced that they were the guilty parties informed his captain of the fact. The trap was then laid which worked to the satisfaction of the police.

DEATH OF MELTON PRIOR

Death of Professor Brewer, Noted Scientist and Explorer

New Haven, Nov. 3.—William H. Brewer, professor emeritus of agriculture in the Yale Sheffield scientific school and long famous as a scientist and explorer, died at his home here from infirmities due to old age.

Professor Brewer was 82 years old and was the last of the old school of scientists at Yale. As a member of the first class ever graduated from the Sheffield scientific school, in 1852, Brewer's connection with the university covered, up to his retirement in 1903, more than half a century.

For the past fifty years he had been one of the most famous scientists in this country, and was the last to retire from the Yale group of great scientists that included Dana, Silliman and Marsh. He was born in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 14, 1828.

AGREE TO ARBITRATE

Express Drivers Willing to Leave Case With Civic Federation

New York, Nov. 3.—The strike of the express companies' drivers and helpers neared a settlement when Mayor Gaynor announced that the strikers had agreed to arbitrate. The strikers informed the mayor that they were willing to leave their case in the hands of arbitrators to be selected by the conciliation committee of the National Civic Federation, and return to work and wait for the decision of the arbitrators until Dec. 1 or Jan. 1.

Mayor Gaynor held a conference with President Platt of the United States Express company, on the strike situation. All that is needed to secure a settlement of the strike by arbitration is the consent of the employing companies.

TO PUSH SIBLEY CASE

Judge Calls For Immediate Audit of Election Expense Account

Franklin, Pa., Nov. 3.—Unusual excitement was created here when it became known that Judge Criswell had decided to re-open the audit of the election expense account of former Congressman Sibley.

The audit was to have been heard Nov. 14, but on allegations that Sibley was in a critical condition the hearing was postponed untill next May. Immediately reports were heard that Sibley was much improved, and with his wife would spend the winter in Florida.

Man of 107 Sent to Jail

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 3.—Probably the oldest man ever arrested in the United States is imprisoned at Fort Totten. He is O. M. Ziebach, aged 107 years, and was arrested on a charge of introducing liquor on the Indian reservation.

Perhaps Crazed by Hazing

Hamilton, O., Nov. 3.—Believed to have been crazed by hazing, Robert Gordon, 19 years old, a student at Miami university, was found wandering in the streets here in a dazed condition. He has been placed under the care of a specialist.

NAMES MAN WHO FIRED THE MINE

Colonel Brady Says Cubans Blew Up the Maine

TO BRING WAR WITH SPAIN

Planned to Cause Interference by United States and Deliverance of Cuba—One of Government Investigators Says Report Was Sent to President and Secretary of War, but It Has Never Been Made Public

Kansas City, Nov. 3.—Lecturing at St. George's church, Colonel Jaspar E. Brady, one of the four officers sent by the government to investigate the destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, Feb. 14, 1898, declared the mine which destroyed the battleship was placed by the Cubans in order to bring on war with Spain and the deliverance of Cuba. He further asserted that the information had been sent to the president and the secretary of war.

"When I went to investigate the disaster with three other United States officers," Brady said, "there were three theories concerning the origin of the disaster—that the explosion was caused from the outside by agents of Spain, that it was caused from the inside, and that the Maine was anchored over a mine prepared by the Cubans.'

"We were able to informe the president and the secretary of war that the last theory was the most consistent with the facts. This leads to the conclusion that the Maine was blown up by the Cubans in order to bring on war with Spain and the deliverance of Cuba."

Continuing, he said: "Now I will tell you for the first time the name of the man who blew up the Maine. He is, or was, Jose Zavaldo. He was electrician at Morro Castle. It was he who threw the switch which set off the powerful mine that destroyed the ship and sent 207 lives into eternity in a flash. Zavaldo was afterward shot by order of General Blanco.

"We even got a piece of the cable that led from the mine to the room in Morro Castle. That piece of cable is now in the navy department at Washington."

Colonel Brady resigned from the army in 1899. Asked why the report given the president and the secretary of war had not been made public, he said: "Well, I'm sure I don't know."

Colonel Brady is a brother of Rev. Cyrus T. Brady, the author, who is pastor of St. George's church, where the lecture was delivered.

Wainwright Discredits Story

Washington, Nov. 3.—Rear Admiral Wainwright, who was executive officer on the Maine at the time the vessel was blown up, says that there was no military board appointed to investigate the disaster. The story told by Brady was one of the theories advanced at the time the naval board of inquiry, of which Wainwright was a member, investigated the matter. It was discredited then, and Wainwright says he places no stock in it now. He brands as untrue Brady's statement that a piece of the cable that led from the mine to a room in Morro Castle now is in the navy department. If there had been any such cable, he declares, it would have been discovered by the divers who examined the hull after the explosion.

TO FLY FROM LINER

Aviator Expects to Bring Mail From Fifty Miles at Sea

New York, Nov. 3.—J. A. D. McCurdy of Glenn H. Curtiss' staff will try to fly by aeroplane from the deck of a vessel fifty miles at sea to a point on Manhattan Island on Nov. 5. The Kaiserin Auguste Victoria of the Hamburg-American line, sailing that day, will carry McCurdy and his Curtiss biplane.

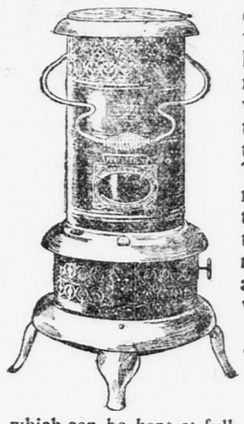

The Hamburg line is making the test to demonstrate the feasibility of equipping its new liner, the 900-foot steamship Europa, the largest ship in the world now under construction, with a regular aeroplane service for use in transporting mail at sea and other purposes.

Record Collection of Taxes

Boston, Nov. 3.—Boston's city collecting department this year has broken all records for tax collections. This year $24,248,721.13 in taxes had been collected by Nov. 1. This is nearly $750,000 more than the record made by the collecting department up to Nov. 1 last year.

That Cold Room

on the side of the house where winter blasts strike hardest always has a lower temperature than the rest of the house. There are times when it is necessary to raise the temperature quickly or to keep the temperature up for a long period. That can't be done by the regular method of heating without great trouble and overheating the rest of the house. The only reliable method of heating such a room alone by other means is to use a which can be kept at full or low heat for a short or long time.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

Four quarts of oil will give a glowing heat for nine hours, without smoke or smell.

An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. Filler-cap does not screw on; but is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached by a chain and cannot get lost.

An automatic-locking flame spreader prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that it can be cleaned in an instant.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and can be unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. Finished in japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental. Has a cool handle.

Republican rally tonight.

The Goodyear Shoe Repairing Company of Chestnut street is recommended by good work and prompt work.

Mrs. Kate Michael and daughters, Mary and Isabelle of Hardwick, Vermont are visiting relatives in this city.

E. C. Bennett, formerly assistant has been appointed chief draftsman of the hull department at the Fore River shipyard, to succeed George Simpson, who resigned to become the American representative of a firm of European naval architects.

Harold B. Faxon, whose trial for larceny of $7,500 from the People's National bank begins today in the United States district Court, was visited on Wednesday by his mother and sisters. It was the first time his mother had seen him for seven years, and the meeting was a pathetic one.

Word has been received from Rev. Thomas S. Barbour, D. D., of Prospect avenue, who left a short time ago to engage in missionary work on the continent. Mr. Barbour wrote from France and reported difficulty in going through Paris occasioned by the railway strike there.

A very enjoyable Hallowe'en party was held at the home of Miss Ruth Lynds of 158 Granite street. The hostess was assisted in entertaining her many friends by Miss Evelyn and Miss Isabella Rogers. The first part of the evening was spent in playing Hallowe'en games, after which refreshments were served.

The Ladies' Aid of the Hall Place M. E. church held a successful rummage sale at 287 Copeland street, Wednesday, in charge of Mrs. William McCormick, who was assisted by Mrs. Badger, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Hawes, Mrs. Mary McCormick, Mrs. Loud, Mrs. Bent and Mrs. McCormick. A large assortment of second-hand articles and clothing were contributed by members and friends of the church and these found a ready sale.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Union chapel, Houghs Neck, will give the "Deestrict Skule" this evening at 8. The ladies have worked hard in getting ready for this, and their efforts should be appreciated. The play is extremely funny all the way through, and by localizing some of the hits an extra laugh will be forthcoming. Be sure to go and hear the "kids" recite and see them cut up.

TRAINS DELAYED.

Inward trains were more or less delayed this morning by an accident to the locomotive of an inward gravel train. Just after passing Wollaston the excentric rod doubled up, causing a blockade of the track until a wrecker could arrive from Boston and disconnect the engine. In the meantime some of the inward trains were sent over the Granite branch.

QUINCY BOARD OF TRADE

Endorse the Widening of Hancock Street

The Board of Trade had a short meeting on Wednesday evening, and the most important business was the endorsement of the movement to widen Hancock street between Saville and Adams streets on the westerly side. The following committee was appointed: Frank F. Crane, John R. Richards and Frank F. Prescott.

A letter was received from the Norfolk County Commissioners, relative to the recent vote of the Board of Trade in favor of Quincy granite for the County Courthouse at Quincy, saying the commissioners would give the wishes of Quincy's consideration.

John O. Hall, for the special committee on improvement of train service, reported that the committee had had interviews with the passenger agent of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., and requested that certain trains make stops at Quincy Adams, Quincy, Wollaston and South Boston, also for a new train from Boston about 11.50 P. M. to stop at all way stations as far as South Braintree. The wishes of the Board of Trade will be granted if possible.

John R. Richards reported progress on telephone rates. He said a member of the committee was attending this evening a meeting of the suburban committee in Boston, and would have more to report at the next meeting.

Further time was granted the committee to report on the recent outing, also on the double tracking of Washington street.

BRIEFS

John A. McDonnell has sold his estate on Elm street and has moved into the house recently built by W. R. Lofgren on Bigelow street.

The fire department was called out on a still alarm Wednesday for a fire on the roof of the residence of P. P. Burke, Doble street, caused by a spark from the chimney.

The meeting tomorrow afternoon of the Friday club will be held with Mrs. Frank A. Page of Wollaston, instead of with Mrs. Hardwick as scheduled in their program.

Rev. Carl G. Horst, pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church, has returned from abroad, reaching home on Tuesday evening. His trip across was made on the Grosse Kurfurst, the trip being a pleasant one. His first public appearance will be at the church social to be held this evening.

THREE DAYS' FAIR.

The Abigail Adams lodge, I. C. O. of A., are holding a fair in Clan McGregor hall. The opening Tuesday evening gave promise of a very successful outcome and the attendance and sales of the first two days came up to expectations. A musical program and a short entertainment have given much pleasure each day. Many of the older people took advantage of the opportunity to indulge in a little whist and old and young alike are finding things very much to their liking. The conclusion of the fair will come this evening.

Elaborate preparations were made by the committee in charge and the success of the undertaking has been merited. Mrs. Mary Ferguson, the chairman of the committee has turned night into day in getting ready for the fair, decorating and arranging and pricing. Associated with her were the officers of the chapter and prominent committee workers. The ladies have been assisted by several gentlemen among them, William B. Norrie and W. A. Kelley who have charge of the wheel of fortune.

WOLLASTON SOCIAL.

A large number attended the church social in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church on Wednesday evening. A program consisting of solos and duets by Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Estes was enjoyed. With J. Arthur Sparrow as master of ceremonies those present joined in numerous games. The evening closed with the serving of light refreshments. In charge of the affair was a committee composed of Miss Margery Rideout, Mrs. Wellington Record Mrs. Mills, Mrs. C. B. Hall, Mrs. Corey, Mrs. J. Arthur Sparrow and others.

—Codfish are now said to be scarce. Even the fish help along the high price game by getting out of the way just when they are wanted.—Brockton Enterprise.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Boy Scouts will take a Hike tomorrow starting from the Association building at 8.30, and returning at 4 in the afternoon. The route will lead to Hingham where scout games will be played, and a potato bake will take place. Boys wishing to take apples to roast may do so. A very pleasant outing is expected.

E. G. Gay, general secretary of the Association and Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus King are back from Toronto, where they attended the International convention. They report a fine series of meetings and a fine time.

The College club met Wednesday evening and made arrangements for a ladies' night which will be held in the Association building, Friday evening, Nov. 18. Henry Trask, president of the club and Herbert Sutermeister, chairman of the social committee, have charge of the arrangements. Delcevare King will have charge of the games. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Gay and Mr. and Mrs. L. F. LaRose will be the patrons and patronesses. There will be music, a short entertainment and refreshments. Everything promises to be just right and a grand good time is anticipated.

The "Employed Boys" have been divided up into teams bearing the names of the different colleges, such as Dartmouth, Yale, Carlisle, West Point, etc. These teams contest in various kinds of athletic sports and all have entered into the races and games with enthusiasm.

LOCAL SPORTS.

Bob Somerville is arranging for another carnival of sports at Quincy Music hall on Election night, Nov. 8.

Hyde Park High had better luck at Norwood than at Quincy winning 15 to 0.

Brockton High and Salem High were unable to score on Wednesday.

Braintree High and Holbrook High met on the gridiron on Wednesday and the former won 15 to 5.

Dedham High and Arlington High played a tie game on Wednesday 5 to 5.

• • •

South Boston High was defeated by Mechanic Arts High.

The Wompatuck club of Hingham is made up of nearly 300 members and a committee comprising Charles M. Scudder, Robert D. Brewer, George Melcher and George W. Stetson has arranged a series of 19 entertainments that will provide for the literary and social wants of the membership. The official list comprises three ladies' nights (at which times the ladies of the club members are royally entertained,) three "smokers" for the men, three progressive whist parties, three musical and literary entertainments, three dances, a fancy costume party, a dramatic entertainment, a children's costume party and a vaudeville show. The clubhouse, town hall and Loring hall are used for the series. A bowling tournament was inaugurated Tuesday evening with twelve teams at the clubhouse.

With enthusiasm everywhere in evidence and prospects bright for a successful season, says the New Bedford Standard, the City Football Soccer league held its second meeting of the year Monday night. In addition to the six teams which it was thought would make up the league at the first meeting, three more have applied for admission.

FIRE AT BRAINTREE.

South Braintree square was endangered this afternoon at 1.15 o'clock by a fire in Holbrook block. An alarm from box 43 brought out the fire department and a crowd of people in short order. The fire was in a tenement occupied by an Italian family and was confined to a sleeping room where a mattress was on fire.

—The Norwood Messenger has hit it squarely when it says: "Our neighbor's prosperity means a great deal more to us than someone's who lives elsewhere. We should bear this in mind in buying our goods. We can afford to pay our home man a fair price for his wares rather than send our money away, knowing as we do, that every dollar our own citizen makes will help in sustaining our schools, churches and public institutions. It pays richly to patronize home industry. This applies to the merchants themselves."

TIGERS READY TO CLAW BULLDOG

Yale and Princeton Elevens Soon to Meet In Annual Combat.

NEW CODE HELPS LATTER TEAM

Eli Team, Pre-eminent at Pulling, Pushing Style, Has Made Slow Progress Under New Rules—On Other Hand, Princeton Likes Changes.

By TOMMY CLARK.

The battle lines are drawn, and the football elevens of Princeton and Yale are ready to line up for their annual struggle on the gridiron, to be played this year at Princeton, Nov. 12. To the Tiger men the game with Yale is the all important event of the year. For the past few weeks the coaches have been developing plays to beat the New Haven bulldog. Judging by the records of the two teams since the start of the 1910 football campaign, it looks as if the Tigers will defeat Yale. The new rules are very popular at Princeton, while Yale, pre-eminent in the slashing, pushing, pulling style, has had a hard time adapting herself to the new code.

The all-together-help-one-another spirit that always has been the keynote of Yale teams, is practically useless under the new rules. Of course there is team work in modern football, but as it is impossible to help the runner by pulling or pushing him in the well remembered way of former years the great advantage that all Yale teams have had over other aggregations is now a thing of the past.

The Tigers were never a team to make much of the line plunging attack. In the old days, when brilliant ends and speedy backs were of the greatest service, Princeton won most of her games by such men. The present rules require much the same sort of offense, and Coach Roper thinks he has a back field that can play this game to the limit. It is true that it contains only one member, Captain Hart, of the 1909 team, but the other three backs are all worthy running mates of the Tiger leader. Ballou was a famous player in his high school days and last year was the star of the Princeton scrubs.

But the star of this quartet promises to be Pendleton. Coach Roper says Pendleton is one of the best running backs of the year. He is possessed of great speed; but, what is of more importance, he is an expert dodger and has a quick change of pace. Such a man is particularly dangerous in a broken field. The fourth member of this quartet is Sparks, who was a substitute last year.

The Princeton line from end to end is not as heavy as most Princeton lines have been in previous years. In fact, it has been outweighed in at least two of the season's preliminary games. It is the idea of Coach Roper that if his line can hold its own with opponents his back field can do the rest.

In all the games Yale has played this fall her defense and offense have been ragged and uncertain, the former proving very ineffective at times, especially in the Syracuse and West Point games.

The Yale squad is composed mostly of green men, and considerable patience, and lots of hard work will be needed to mold them into an effective football machine.

Out of thirty-four games with Yale Princeton has won but eight.

Coast Baseball League May Expand.

The Northwestern Baseball league is in favor of joining with the Pacific Coast league in the formation of an all coast organization of eight clubs on condition that the teams be divided evenly among the northern and southern divisions, four in California and four in Washington and Oregon.

Less Shifting of Football Players.

The shifting of the football players in the games which is possible under the new rules is likely to be done less as the season advances. As usual, the coaches will endeavor to put on the field eleven men teams that will be able to go the entire distance.

LAUNCHING

Rear Admiral Walke, and complimented Miss Walter on the graceful manner in which she had performed her part of the launch.

Mr. Walter in responding for his daughter thanked the Navy department and Fore River Co., for the honor it conferred in naming the vessel "Walke." We consider the United States God's own country and first among the powers of the world. We appreciate the naming of this vessel, and know she will make a s good a name for herself as did Rear Admiral Walke.

Capt. Little, resident machinery expert of the United States navy, also added a word in praise of the record of Rear Admiral Walke.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Vol. 25 No. 257 | QUINCY, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 4, 1910 | PRICE TWO CENTS

CANDIDATE HALL WILL NOT WITHDRAW

Republicans Will Have a Contest at Caucuses For Mayoralty Nomination

Contests for Councilmen at Large and from Wards

Instead of being without a Mayoralty candidate, the Republicans have a surplus, as papers were filed Thursday for two candidates. President Ralph W. Hobbs and ex-Mayor John O. Hall. It was a surprise to the general public Thursday when the Daily Ledger announced that papers would probably be filed for President Hobbs. Many doubted the sincereness of the story, but when the papers were opened it was found to be true.

It was thought that when President Hobbs entered the contest that Mr. Hall would drop out. Such however, does not appear to be the case. Mr. Hall's papers were filed early, but those of Mr. Hobbs did not go in until two minutes before the time limit.

This is not to be the only contest for eight papers were filed for Councilmen-at-large, to fill five positions. Of this number five are members of the present City Council, and one an ex-member, while two enter the field for the first time.

For School Committee-at-large there is no contest, Dr. Hunting having a clear field to himself. He is a candidate for reelection.

There are no contests of any kind in Ward One or Two for Councilmen from ward, each ward having three candidates.

John D. MacKay is a candidate for School Committee from Ward One to succeed himself and the only new candidate for the Council is John R. S. Ross who represents the Houghs Neck end of the city.

In Ward Two, Harry G. Studley who ted Councilman Histen at the last election, but lost at the special election, is a candidate this year, and the others on the ticket are new men. Arthur B. Foster is the candidate for the School Committee in this ward where J. J. O'Hara withdraws.

Ward Three has its usual contests, five seeking the nomination for three Councilmen from the Ward. Of the five, John R. Richards is the only member of the present Council seeking renomination, Councilman Bolster who represented the ward last year being a candidate at large. For School Committee from the ward, John L. Miller is a candidate for renomination.

In Ward Four there is but one candidate for the City Council, and this may be thrown out. Papers of John Evans arrived just two minutes after the close of the filing time, and the papers lacked one name of the required number of signatures.

In the Wollaston ward, there is quite a contest for Ward Councilmen, six papers being filed. Councilmen Gardner and Loud are candidates for reelection, and ex-Councilman Bean again enters the field. The other three are new men.

In Ward Six there is also a contest for Councilmen from ward, four papers having been filed. These are all new men and the contest will be a keen one. Squantum which has recently formed an Improvement association is represented by one candidate.

There are no contests for Ward Committees. The complete list of nominations for the Republican caucuses are:

MAYOR.

Ralph W. Hobbs and John O. Hall.

COUNCILMEN-AT-LARGE.

Ernest W. Branch, Percy H. Holman, George A. Bolster, Edward J. Sand-

GOV. LONG APPRECIATED

Strong Arguments Also by Congressman Lawrence

The Republicans had a full house on Thursday evening at their only rally of the campaign at Alpha hall, and although the speaking continued until 10.30, most of the voters remained. The guests of the evening were escorted from the depot to the hall by the City Committee headed by a band and red fire was burned along the route.

Several of the prominent Republicans of the city occupied seats upon the platform. President W. M. Chase welcomed the voters, speaking briefly. George H. Brown was introduced as the presiding officer, and after contrasting the two State conventions introduced Hon. John D. Long, the former governor, congressman and secretary of the navy.

HON. JOHN D. LONG.

HON. GEORGE P. LAWRENCE, M. C.

Ex-Gov. Long was very cordially greeted and spoke as a neighbor who was not an aspirant for office. Like many on the retired list, he said his head was not sore. He had a deep interest in this campaign, and proceeded to answer the questions—What is best for State? What is best for Nation? Are we not all proud of our country, and all the blessings of a free generous republic! The government has been Republican—Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Roosevelt and today that ideal of statesmen, W. H. Taft. (Applause.) When Democrats [illegible] fell control under Cleveland disaster followed.

Coming to State issues, he said all are proud of Massachusetts, why a change? The Democrats have not raised a State issue and could not.

NO PARTY OPPOSITION TO MAYOR SHEA

Only Contest Among Democrats Is in Ward Four for Councilmen and Committee

Five West Quincy Candidates for City Council

There are several vacancies in the Democratic nominations and there are also contests in some wards. Although papers for Mayor were taken out by Cornelius D. Austin, supposed to be in opposition to Mayor Shea, they were not filed, so that the present Mayor will have no one opposing him for the party nomination. Six papers were filed for him, one from each ward of the city.

No papers were filed for Councilmen-at-large or School Committee-at large, but as it is understood the City committee have authority to fill vacancies there may be a candidate for Councilman-at-large.

No papers were filed for Councilmen from Ward One, or for School Committee from the ward, and but one list for Ward Committee.

In Ward Two a full ticket for Councilmen was filed. One of these was for Councilman Histen and the others are new men. Councilman Flynn who now holds a government office retires from active politics. Councilman Carey also withdraws from the Council, but filed papers for member of the School Committee from the ward to succeed John J. O'Hara who now holds the office of Tax Collector.

In Ward Three but one paper was filed for Ward Councilman, and that was for James M. Faircloth. The candidate for School Committee is Dr. D. B. Reardon.

While other wards lack a contest Ward Four does not, for five are seeking the nomination for the three Ward Councilmen. Councilman John D. Smith who it was expected would not be a candidate, changed his mind and filed papers, as also did Councilman Harry T. Boyd. The other three are new men.

There is also a contest for Ward Committee from West Quincy, two lists

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Does the United States propose to allow Canada to get the trade with South America? A Montreal dispatch says: Arrangements have been made for the establishment of a monthly steamship service between Montreal and Halifax and South American ports. The C. P. R. is the prime mover in the case, although the boats will be run under a subsidiary company, as in the case with the Australian-New Zealand boats. The question of a subsidy for the new line is now being laid before the Government at Ottawa. The subsidy does the trick.

A review of the nomination papers filed by both parties for members of the City Council shows that should all of the present members who have filed papers be elected that the Council of 1911 will have ten new men. It is not among the impossibilities that the two ex-Councilmen may win out, although even in this case it might be at the expense of some member of the present Council.

The lists also show that available timber is not lacking for 25 gentlemen who have not as yet held political office are anxious to serve their sections of the city.

Among the Republicans ten of the present Council are seeking renomination, two ex-members and eighteen new men. While among the Democrats three of the present Council are seeking nomination while seven enter the contest for the first time.

DRIFT OF OPINION

Elements that speak loudest in politics are not always so convincing as facts modestly displayed. With less than five days to elapse before Massachusetts voters choose their Governor for two years, it is advisable to halt occasionally and take stock; wise to pierce the haze of personality and indirection or to fan away the smoke of political clashes, and then calmly and judicially to view the merits of the rival candidates. Is it to be said of Massachusetts voters later on that they were blinded by issues rightfully connected with national or congressional campaigns, and failed to distinguish and give proper thought to the questions that have more direct bearing on the state situation? Are the tariff, reciprocity, high cost of living and the income tax proposition live issues in Massachusetts' home affairs? This is something that every voter ought to think over without prejudice and be guided by his own honest verdict.

All citizens who care strongly for the welfare of their town, city and state must take interest in politics. An increasing number of them are enabled by experience to sift the chaff from the wheat in political utterances, and these fortunate ones doubtless already have come to decisions. On the one hand there is the Democratic candidate, running for office independently of the convention that failed to name a party standard-bearer, and favored, qualifiedly, by Samuel Gompers "if he will stand true to labor's rights." Mr. Foss has given the labor unions a formal pledge that he will sign the eight-hour bill, vetoed twice by Governor Draper, in case he is elected. Whatever is said of Gov. Eben S. Draper, Republican candidate, the fact must be admitted that he has made an able defense thus far of his labor record, and that he is keeping fairly close to intimate issues.

The veto of the eight-hour bill, a measure declared unconstitutional by Massachusetts' attorney-general, is the only action that has brought much criticism to Governor Draper. He has stated openly his reasons for declining to favor that measure, and he was re-elected last year after he had declared that he would act in the same manner if returned to Beacon hill. There was no beating about the bush; just a plain outline of purpose. In a campaign like this the voters will do well to remember that they are to elect a capable state executive, and not get questions which properly affect the national legislators at Washington entangled with the governorship.—Christian Science Monitor.

—It is certainly a grievous shame if ahead of the tenth Massachusetts district is the prospect of James M. Curley for Congress. It is a shame because the district deserves a far higher type of man. In the purely Boston wards are many intelligent and conscientious men and women, and the good repute of Milton and Quincy is proverbial. South Boston, however, is too little known to the average citizens of the main part of the city, yet it is a section composed in the main of people of good conduct, honest purposes, kind hearts and good cheer. They do not wish to be represented in Washington by an unworthy man. They deserve something better. Yet so strong are party ties that the voters there are in the habit of voting the Democratic ticket for congressman. Let us hope that in this case the sense of honor of South Boston will be active and that this sentiment will assist in the election of Mr. Galvin, whose campaign has been fair, energetic, and telling.—Boston Transcript.

Mr. Roosevelt takes the trouble to deny that he wants to be king. When he does that, it is just as impossible to take him seriously, as it is to take seriously those persons who insist that he is planning to become the monarch of a great American empire. That he has developed to an unusual extent the desire to have things and to make things go the way he thinks they should go is clear enough, but that is only an extreme form of an emotion which is entertained by many other men—and not a few women. But that he has the faintest desire to be a king is an assumption altogether too ridiculous for him to dignify with even a denial.—New Bedford Standard.

Whether or not married women in government employ at Washington who have husbands able to support them will be gradually removed is conjectural. This is not the first time that the subject has been broached in Washington circles, but changes have failed to materialize. At the present juncture, the agitation takes on added emphasis, because of the fact that recent economies have resulted in the dismissal of many unmarried women. These ex-employes take the ground that they ought to be favored for reinstatement over women in place who have husbands able to support them. The force of this reasoning will generally be recognized, but how it will strike the official judgment is the main thing. Whichever way the decision, there is sure to be a howl.—Salem News.

THE WATCHERS.

Elizabeth West Parker.

When mother puts the night-lamp out
And leaves you all alone,
Are you afraid of burglars
Or ghosts that moan and groan?

Do you see the shadows creeping,
Creeping on the floor?
Do you hear the queerest whispers
Just there inside the door?

And then, when you have held your breath
Until you head goes round,
You just have to call out, "Mother,"
As loud as it will sound.

And when she comes and hold your hand,
And sits down on the bed,
Don't you feel as safe as safe can be,
Without a bit of dread?

Perhaps if you've been awfully scared,
And say you'd like the light,
She'll tell you of the lots of folks
Who stay awake all night,—

The railroad men, and trolley men,
And the watchman on the block,
The sailor looking out for land,
'Way up in masts that rock.

And, when the night is blackest black,
And the wind blows rain and sleet,
There's the man who walks along the shore,—
The coastguard on his beat.

And the switchman 'way out on the plains,
And the soldier standing straight
Right at his post,—yes, hundreds armed
To guard this land so great.

Oh, there's lots of folks awake at night
They don't all work, you know;
There's that little lame girl on our street,
The one who walks so slow.

They say there's nights and nights and nights,
When she lies awake alone,
No one to hear her when she calls,
An ache in every bone.

And after all—when she's so brave,—
And folks at work all night,—
I guess you can go now, mother dear,
And—you may put out the light.

—The man who knocked the head out of a four dollar barrel of apples and just beneath found a message put in by the grower, "I got 75 cents for this barrel of apples—please let me know what you had to pay for it," uncovered in very simple manner two of the factors that are chiefly responsible for the high cost of living—the profits exacted by the transportation companies and middlemen. The problem is certainly one that deserves investigation of a very thorough type.—Athol Chronicle.

HELD AS BURGLAR'S PAL

Boston Police Think They Have Evidence Against a Woman

Boston, Nov. 4.—May McCloskey, a diminutive woman rather smartly dressed, was taken to police headquarters last night from Rutland, Mass., charged with being the confederate who aided Frank McCann in breaking and entering the house of Charles Gettemy on the night of Oct. 24 and the larceny of silverware and jewelry valued at $275.75.

The accused woman, who declares she has no home, refused to say anything to the police, yet two grips were found in her possession containing articles alleged to have been stolen from the Gettamy house, also a jimmy, crucibles for melting gold and silver and two loaded revolvers.

Her accomplice, McCann, who was arrested a week ago charged with about eight breaks, is in jail. Her love for him caused the arrest of the woman in Rutland last night. The pair are suspected of having committed many breaks.

CITY SALARIES AT HUB

They Have Jumped $460,567 For First Ten Months of 1910

Boston, Nov. 4.—Boston's municipal payrolls were nearly a half-million dollars more during the first ten months of this year than they were during the same period last year, according to the regular monthly payroll statement issued at city hall.

During the month of October the jump in the payroll was nearly $50,000 more than the payroll for October, 1909.

During the first ten months of this year the city paid out in salaries $10,720,670.20, as against $10,260,102.32 for the same period last year. The increase this year was $460,567.88.

The payroll for last month amounted to $1,102,489.50, or $49,279.77 more than the amount for the month of October of last year.

VALLADARES DEFIES PRESIDENT DAVILLA

Honduran Troops Repulsed by Deposed Governor's Followers

New Orleans, Nov. 4.—A cable received here from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, states that government troops have been defeated in an attempt to storm the island of Amapala and capture General Valladares, former governor and commandant there, who was deposed by President Davilla for insulting the United States and British flags.

Additional government troops have been moved into western Honduras, for Valladares is threatening a revolution, which will engulf the entire republic and perhaps overthrow the government. Valladares' forces are entrenched upon the island, which the former governor has seized in his own name, behind a battery of machine guns.

They are plentifully equipped with ammunition and have a great quantity of food.

Martial law has been declared throughout the country, owing to the fear of Davilla of an insurrection being started by Valladares.

A Sixty-Eight-Year-Old Schoolboy

Kansas City, Kan., Nov. 4.—Declaring it his lifelong ambition to learn to read and write, John W. Smith, 68 years old, a negro and once a slave, last night appeared at the school for negro children in this city and asked to be admitted. He will be enrolled, but will have to pay $1 a month tuition.

"Do you think you can make my daughter happy?" asked Miss Thirstysmith's father gravely.

"Why, I have already, haven't I?" replied Spooner. "I've asked her to marry me."—Smart Set.

BOSTON—1915 PAGEANT.

The directors of Boston-1915 continue to prove their wholesome interest in all the towns of the metropolitan district and our local talent is to have a prominent share in the gigantic civic pageant "Cave Life to City Life" which is being arranged for production in the Boston Arena for the end of next week. It offers an exceptional opportunity to our young people to participate in such an interesting and instructive affair.

Not only have they planned a ten-days campaign for aggressive civic ideas and a conference of mayors from all the towns of New England, but this pageant, probably the greatest spectacle ever arranged on this continent, has been produced with the idea mainly in mind of bringing groups of people from all the communities of Greater Boston closer together in some play business which would realize in simple fashion the spirit of friendship and co-operation. Undoubtedly such participation will mean as much to our young people as the grave discussion of theories, ways and means in council will mean to their elders.

Boston Arena is one of the largest indoor show places in the world and we want the great cast of players in this pageant to truly represent all the different districts and towns of Greater Boston. It is a great opportunity for the young people of the towns to learn the "get together" spirit—and that is the greatest thing in the world. When the young people learn to co-operate, one with each other, on a large scale nothing will be impossible for the City of Boston. We have enrolled groups from all the high schools, many from the women's clubs and church societies, and the historical societies all around have been most helpful with designs and properties for the Indian and settler groups. The great dances we have arranged will be continued accompanied by a mammoth orchestra, and the sight of one thousand boys and girls dancing the stately minuet in that vast hall, surrounded by rows and rows of fathers and mothers, their aunts and uncles, will be something that the people of Greater Boston will never forget."

—All reports agree that campaign contributions are pretty slow this year, and that all parties are suffering. Such a condition is not likely to be hurtful to public morals, however, and an election that is pulled off without a lavish use of money is the more certain to come pretty close to representing the popular will.—Philadelphia Press.

SMOKER OF DRAUGHTSMEN

A Jolly Time by Employees of Shipyard

Good fellowship, mirth and music abounded at Colonial hall Thursday evening at the fourth annual smoker of the draughtsmen of the hull and engineer departments of the Fore River Ship Building Co. The festivities began at 8 o'clock and it was after 11 o'clock when with the words of the Stein song resounding through the hall the party separated.

B. G. Barnes was the toastmaster, and L. B. Doane was the musical director. Others on the committee were S. T. Torrey for engine room, McArdle and Hope for the hull room. The guests of the evening were G. Simpson, ex-chief of the hull department room; C. Fox of the engine room; and E. C. Bennett the new chief of the hull department room.

Long tables were laid down the hall and about these were seated the fifty or more men who perform the draughting work for the Fore River Co. The program opened with a march and overture on the piano and a few general remarks by the toastmaster. Then came stories of an entertaining nature by the draughtsmen, and the singing of the Stein song by the party. The good health of E. C. Bennett, the new chief of the Hull room, and his newly appointed lieutenants, L. Brath and T. H. Browning, were enthusiastically drunk. These gentlemen replied briefly to the friendly greeting which had been extended to them.

On one of the tables was a handsome silver pitcher which the draughtsmen were to present to G. Simpson, the retiring chief of the hull room. Mr. Simpson was however unable to be present owing to a severe cold, and it was arranged to have the gift sent to his home with a suitable letter, setting forth their good wishes. In connection with the presentation of this pitcher Mr. Debes made a few remarks, and the pitcher was passed about for inspection.

Then there were more brief remarks by the members of the party which was followed by the company singing that well known refrain "Solomon Levi," and other songs, the Stein song being the general favorite.

Aside from the local talent there were a corps of entertainers from one of the well known Boston amusement houses. These included Miss Lillie Hueston, who was a distinct success as a singer and dancer; Bert Howe, as "Rube with the green umbrella"; Henry Myero, as Lew Dockster; Miss Nellie Hartford in singing and dancing specialities who made a decided hit. So well were the party pleased with the singing of the two ladies that the company sang, "For she's a jolly good fellow."

Then there was more speaking by the party and choruses closing with again singing the Stein song. Before adjournment a vote of thanks was extended to the committee for the pleasing program they had provided. Cheers were also given by the party for Mr. Simpson, Mr. Bennett and the entertainers.

A REAL HELPMEET.

John Mitchell said to an Indianapolis reporter:

"Every workman should resolve on Labor day to join a union. The union is stronger and more resolute than the individual. It gets things done. In fact, in its beneficent relation to its members it reminds me of Hobson's wife. She said:

"'Hobson was a confirmed smoker with a tobacco heart when I married him a year ago, but today he never touches the weed.'

"'Good for him,' said her listener. 'To make a change like that requires a pretty strong will.'

"'Well, I've got one,' said Mrs. Hobson."

WHY HE DISCARDED THEM.

"One wretched, blustery day," said a Pittsburg iron man, "I had a cap with ear-tabs on when I met Mr. Carnegie on the street. He joked me about them. He told a good Scotch ear-tab story. He said there was an old Scot who always used to curl—you know the game—in ear-tabs; but one bitter day he appeared on the ice minus the tabs, and a friend said:

"'Hullo, whaur's yer auld lug-warmers?'

"'Oh,' was the reply, 'I've never worn them since my accident.'

"'Accident? What accident?'

"'A man offered me a drink an' wi' the dashed flaps, I didna hear him.'"

MILTON.

A smoke talk was given Thursday evening in the Town Hall by the Milton Republicans. A large gathering from all parts of the town was present to hear the speeches and to enjoy the hospitality. William F. Garcelon of Newton; John E. Rousmaniere of Boston; J. Mitchel Galvin, nominee for representative to Congress, George L. Barnes, nominee for senator; and Roger Wolcott of Milton, were among the speakers.

The annual military social of the Col. Oliver W. Peabody camp, 74, Sons of Veterans, will be held this evening. The proceeds will go toward the benefit relief fund.

The Milton Educational society opened its exhibition of works of art in the Public Library on Tuesday, November 1.

The fire alarm was sounded from Box 65 Monday at 2.49 A. M., for a fire in the house on Huntington avenue, owned by J. T. Goodwin and occupied by Walter S. Hammons and family. When the family was awakened the roof had been burned off and they escaped from the house with difficulty. The department saved part of the house, but the handicap was too great to do its most effective work. The house will be rebuilt as soon as possible. An overheated chimney is said to have started the fire. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

The rummage sale held under the auspices of the ladies of the Episcopal church on Wednesday, Nov. 2, was a great success. The total amount received exceeded the expectations of everyone.

The new fountain in East Milton has been completed. Before the drinking fountain for horses can be used the idewalk in front of the basin will have to be torn away. It is not likely, however, that the water will be turned on in it until spring. The inscription which is above the smaller basin is carved in plain block letters "Presented to the Town of Milton my Nathaniel Thayer Kidder, 1910." Above the larger basin on the other side, the figures of fish and a seashell have been carved. The effect is simple and artistic.

Leonard L. Minot, formerly a letter carrier at East Milton and now a resident of Dorchester, is the father of a baby girl. Bartlett Cates of East Milton is the proud grandparent.

Mrs. John W. Lawton, wife of the veteran coachman of Mrs. E. M. Carey, died at her home this week.

Harold Richardson is on a business trip through New Hampshire and Vermont.

The fence around the skating rink in Cunningham park has been completed. It is expected that the rink will be in better condition than ever this year.

There will be two games on Cunningham field Saturday. Milton High will meet Woburn High, and the Cuningham gym team will meet the representatives of the Willow A. C. of South Boston.

James Phinney of Washington street was operated upon Wednesday. The chances for his recovery are said to be slight.

Milton terrace, near the junction of Adams and Beale streets, is building up very rapidly. Another new house has been started very recently.

The stereopticon lecture which was given by David J. Brown Wednesday evening at the Baptist church was very ably delivered and well attended. Mr. Brown spent part of his time in Europe at Oberammergau witnessing the Passion Play and he was very well versed in his subject. The church was packed and people were standing in the back and at the doors. The singing by Howard H. Hare and by the choir added much to the pleasure of the evening. William Forbes had charge of the lantern. All the views were good both those dealing with the Passion Play itself, and those depicting scenes of the surrounding country. The proceeds will go for the expenses of the choir.

There will be a member's dance at the Cunningham gymnasium next Wednesday evening.

A stereopticon lecture on the Life of Christ and Palestine will be given twice on Sunday. At 4.45 in the afternoon the pictures will be shown especially for children. In the evening at 7 o'clock the public is invited and a fine series of pictures and a fine lecture are promised. The lantern slides have been procured at a considerable expense and are said to be the best obtainable in this country.

A rally in the interest of James M. Curley, will be held in Ellsworth hall this evening. T. H. Riley of Malden, Rednor P. Coombs of Quincy, James H. Shea of Mattapan all Democratic candidates for office, will speak as well as Mr. Curley. An enthusiastic meeting is expected.

—Electricity is now being used to unload ships. Since every hour a vessel lies in dock means so much less in her earning power any apparatus to facilitate the loading and unloading of boats is a distinct economy. Powerful motors operate the hoists and derricks.

RALLY

Appropriations were large but there was no extravagance. We have an 8-hour law in force, but not one which forbids a man to work over eight hours. Before the nomination the Democratic candidate was opposed to the so-called 8-hour law. Mr. Long paid a high tribute to Gov. Draper and predicted his re-election.

The trouble with men and women today is that they are always looking for something better. They give no thought to how well off they are. It cannot be denied our conditions have greatly improved. As presented by Mr. Long there is no bugbear in Cannonism, corporations and the tariff. No party could do better than have the Republicans. We should stand by the nominees. (Great applause.)

Congressman George P. Lawrence made a very able address telling of the work of Congress. Seldom has a Congress accomplished more good legislation, and during it all President Taft never faltered. The bills were reviewed.

Patrick M. Longan, a business man of Gloucester, made a strong vigorous speech. He wanted all industries to prosper.

Candidates Galvin and Barnes entered together about 9.30, coming from Milton. Both addressed the voters, and were followed by Representatives Thomas and Langelier, who told of what they had accomplished for the city.

After the rally about 100 prominent Republicans of the city met in Union hall and organized a Republican League club with George A. Sidelinger as president and Louis F. R. Langelier as secretary. A committee of three on organization will be appointed.

LADIES AID SOCIABLE

A Supper Which the Ladies Could Enjoy

The first sociable of the season, and a most successful one, was held by the Ladies, Aid Alliance in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening. A two act farce entitled "A box of monkeys" provided the entertainment for the evening with the following cast:

Ed. Ralston, half owner of Sierra mine, John Norrie.

Chauncy Oglethorpe, his partner, Edward R. Hall.

Mrs. Ondego-Jhones, an admirer of rank, Miss Hubbard.

Sierra Bengaline, her niece, a prairie rose, Mrs. John Norrie.

Lady Guinevere, an English primrose, Miss Margaret Hall.

The players were greeted by a receptive audience, and all did justice to their parts. The scenes were laid in the drawing room of Mrs. Ondego-Jhones of New York. The evenings pleasure was enhanced by the presence of the pastor, Rev. Carl G. Horst, whose return after a summer's stay abroad, was welcomed this being his first public appearance. The supper held at 6.30, was well attended, the new method of asking no donations doubtlessly attracting many. The rowd necessitated a second table being set. An appetizing menu consisting of roast beef and gravy, mashed potatoes, macaroni and tomato, apple, celery and nut salad, rice puding with chocolate sauce, rolls and coffee. The supper was served by a party of young people of the church, and a committee composed of Mrs. William E. Rowe, Mrs. Charles T. Baker and Mrs. Adelaide C. Armstrong were responsible for the excellent supper arrangements.

JEWEL FOR BRO. PARKER

Who Is Reelected Master of Rural Lodge

The annual communication of Rural Masonic lodge was held Thursday evening. The reports of the secretary, treasurer and trustees of the charity and permanent funds showed the lodge to be in an excellent financial condition, and the membership to be large and increasing. The charity fund alone amounts to over $8,000.

The election of officers resulted in a choice of the present officers. The full list of elective and appointive officers being as follows:

Worshipful Master—Albert M. Parker.

Senior Warden—Frank A. Reed.

Junior Warden—H. Everett Crane.

Treasurer—A. Falconer.

Secretary—Walter E. Simmons.

Chaplain—Charles Sampson.

Marshal—Horace E. Spear.

Senior Deacon—Frederick E. Tupper.

Junior Deacon—Henry P. Hayward.

Senior Steward—Andrew S. Johnston.

Junior Steward—Harry S. Bates.

I. S.—R. D. Witherell.

Tyler—C. R. Bestick.

These officers were installed by Wor. Hartley L. White, district deputy grand master of the 24th district with Wor. Joseph P. Prout as district deputy grand marshal, both being members of Rural lodge.

After the installation Worshipful Master Albert M. Parker was presented with a past master's jewel, the presentation being made in behalf of the lodge by Wor. Bro. Charles Sampson. An additional $100 was voted toward the Masonic Home making $1,500 now pledged.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

A very enjoyable Hallowe'en party was given by Miss Harriet and William Griffiths at their home, 22 High street. The house was very fittingly decorated for the occasion and there were about thirty present, some from Arlington, Holbrook, Weymouth, Everett, South Boston, as well as local friends. Various Hallowe'en games were indulged in during the evening, which together with dancing afforded merriment for the entire party for several hours. One of the attractions of the evening, which proved to be very popular, especially with the young men, was a young lady dressed in the costume of a witch, who played the role of the fortune teller, and no doubt she played her part very well, judging from the number who were constantly watching for their turn to hear what the young lady had to say about their future. As there was an abundance of vocal talent on hand, as well as several excellent piano players, this branch of the entertainment was a feature. About 12 o'clock the party sat down to a very bounteously supplied table, decorated with jack-o'lanterns and various ornaments which constantly kept one reminded of ghosts and goblins.

Miss Giddy. "He! he! Mr. Graves, I didn't expect to find that you had gone to the bow-wows."

Mr. Graves. "Oh yes. I'm one of the judges."

Miss Giddy. "Why, I didn't know they had to have judges! That's why it's called a bench show, I suppose."

BRIEFS

Rainy today.

Only four days to the State election.

Hobbs vs. Hall, and the winner vs. Shea.

Quincy chapter, Order of the Eastern Star will present a drama next week to be followed by a dance.

The first prize banner won by the Foresters in the Fourth of July parade is on exhibition in Berry's pharmacy.

The public schools might have had a holiday today if they had not closed for the teachers' convention because of the storm.

The School department of the Daily Ledger required nearly five columns of space yesterday. It is a regular Thursday feature of increasing interest.

The True Blue Whist club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Isaac M. Holt of Cottage street. It was the opening meeting of the season and a very happy occasion for hostess and members.

The next meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club will be held Tuesday evening, November 8. The speaker will be Prof. Joseph H. Beale, of the Harvard Law school; subject "Municipal misrule and the remedy."

At a recent meeting of the local Council of the Knights of Columbus a committee was appointed by the grand knight to give a concert in aid of the Tuberculosis Camp. The concert will be held on the evening of November 25 at 8 o'clock in Alpha hall. The committee appointed consists of Richard D. Cole, Gerald Sullivan, and George B. Powers.

—The raising of the Maine, and the discovery of what happened when the awful tragedy in the harbor of Havana stirred the pulse of the world, is a task that ought to have been undertaken years ago. It is a mark of progress of a kind to be noted in many departments of diplomacy and statecraft that men are beginning to trust the truth. They desire to know the exact facts which underlie the transactions which bring the nations into relations of friendship or enmity. If it should turn out, as we think it may, that Spain and the Cubans were not responsible for the blowing up of the Maine, then we shall have learned a lesson in patience and humility which ought to serve us during the rest of our national life.—Christian Register.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND
Said to Be on the Verge of Nervous Breakdown

HAMMOND NEAR COLLAPSE

Mining Engineer Must Remain Very Quiet For a Time

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 4.—John H. Hammond, the millionaire mining engineer, is at his summer home, Lookout Hill, Freshwater cove, on the verge of a nervous breakdown. While his friends are not apprehensive, it is known that his physicians have prescribed absolute quiet for a time.

This is the reason for his nonappearance at city hall, where he was scheduled for a speech at a Republican rally. While nothing serious is anticipated, it is evident that Hammond will have to slow down for a time at least.

SECRET DIES WITH MISS HARDCASTLE

Society Girl's Suicide Followed a Great Disappointment

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 4.—An inquest here on the body of Miss Ethel Hardcastle, the New York society girl, who was killed by a train two weeks ago, brought out many facts which were either unknown or carefully guarded at the time of the tragedy.

It developed at the inquest that Miss Hardcastle suffered greatly from a disappointment, that she had suicidal mania and that she evidently escaped at night from her nurse's care, went to the railroad and laid across the rails, with her neck resting on one rail. That was inferred from the fact that her head was severed by the first passing train.

Famous Pauline Wayne, 3d, Takes Up Her Abode at White House

Washington, Nov. 4.—Pauline Wayne, 3d, the much-talked of new White House cow, has at last reached Washington and taken up her domestic duties as provider of milk and butter for President Taft's household.

Pauline is a Holstein Frisian cow of registered stock. She came from the stock farm of Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin, and was on the road from Kenosha just two days. Pauline arrived in a big crate none the worse for her long journey in an express car.

Pauline's aunt, Gertrude Wayne, is said to have held the world's record for milk and butter production. Pauline at present yields 7½ gallons of milk a day. The stork is expected to visit Pauline soon.

STATE PRISON FOR LIFE

Italian Slayer of Armenian Pleads Guilty to Murder Charge

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 4.—Upon his plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, Sabatini Santasia, the slayer of Hovannes Manzoian, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state prison. Santasia was indicted for murder in the first degree, but the court accepted his plea of guilty of second degree murder.

Santasia is an Italian and his victim was an Armenian. Both were employed in a manufacturing plant here. The men had a quarrel at the factory and Santasia was discharged. He obtained a revolver and, returning to the vicinity of the factory, lay in hiding until Manzoian came out for his noonday meal, when he shot him to death. Santasia is 30 years of age.

CANDIDATES CLAIM VICTORY

Draper and Foss Are Making a Whirlwind Finish

HATFIELD ISSUES STATEMENT

Allows Foss 13,000 Votes In Boston and Says Republicans Will Carry State by 47,000 Plurality—Folk of Missouri and McGillicuddy of Maine on Stump For Democrats, Who Declare That They Will Win

Boston, Nov. 4.—It is four days to the state election which will decide whether Eben S. Draper or Eugene N. Foss will be the next governor of Massachusetts. Both sides are making whirlwind finish.

Last night at Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill, Foss again repeated his attack upon Senator Lodge for the latter's vote on the woolen schedule of the Payne bill. He said that the confidential reports made to Republican headquarters showed that Draper was defeated.

Governor Draper held a big rally at Springfield. He said that the election of Foss would mean control of the state house by Mayor Fitzgerald and Martin Lomasney of Boston.

The Republicans had a dozen speakers all over the Cape yesterday, and the day wound up with a big rally at Provincetown. The Democrats had a number of rallies in the central part of the state.

The first official claim on the Republican end was made in a statement issued by Chairman Hatfield of the Republican state committee last night. He said:

"Republican success at the polls on Nov. 8 is now assured. Conditions throughout the commonwealth all point to a great Republican victory all along the line. Governor Draper will come to Boston with at least 60,000 plurality. I now place Mr. Foss' plurality in Boston at 13,000. By these figures the state will give Mr. Draper 47,000 plurality.

"For many weeks the Republican city and town workers all over the state have been exceedingly active. The entire state has been covered as never before. Reports from every section show clearly that a determined effort is being made to bring out the great Republican reserve vote. That this work will bear fruit is absolutely certain.

"It all means that Governor Draper's magnificent record will be handsomely indorsed and the citizens of the commonwealth will administer a severe rebuke to the Democratic party."

The following statement was issued from the Democratic state committee:

"The closing days of the campaign will see a host of prominent Democrats from outside the old Bay State lending their aid to those Massachusetts speakers who have done such yeoman service to elect Foss and the Democratic ticket.

"Governor Joseph Folk of Missouri, who is billed to speak at the big Boston ratification meeting and rally, wired the Democratic state committee that he would be in Boston Saturday.

"Congressman-elect McGillicuddy of Maine reported to the state committee yesterday, anxious to take the stump, and was immediately assigned to Lawrence and Lowell last night.

"He said: 'After my speeches at Fall River and New Bedford and from what I have seen and heard in going through the state, I am convinced that Democratic opportunities were never more bright. They appear brighter for you in Massachusetts than they did for us in Maine just prior to our election—and you know what the Pine Tree State did. Massachusetts should not only elect the entire state ticket, but a majority of the legislature as well, thus incurring the retirement of Senator Lodge and the election of a Democrat to the United States senate.'

"Congressman-elect Gould of Skowhegan, Me., will speak on Friday, Saturday and Monday evenings. 'I only wish I could do more,' he says, 'for I see nothing but victory ahead for the Democracy of Masaschusetts.'"

Opium Seizures at Honolulu

Honolulu, Nov. 4.—Two thousand dollars' worth of opium was found in a passenger's trunk on the arrival of the steamer Mongolia. United States District Attorney Breckons made the seizure and arrested several customs officers for complicity in attempts to smuggle the drug. Recent seizures of opium here amount to more than $20,000.

ATWATER CONFIRMS THE BRADY STORY

Declares That the Maine Was Blown Up by Zalvado

Meriden, Conn., Nov. 4.—Francis Atwater of this city, who was publishing a newspaper at Havana at the time the Maine was blown up, commenting on the statement of Captain Brady at Kansas City, which was to the effect that the ship had been blown up from the outside and that the government knew the details of the happening years ago, affirms the story.

Mr. Atwater says he was at the time also treasurer of the fund which was helping the reconcentrados. He sent a cablegram to this country on Nov. 4, 1899, telling of Zalvado's destruction of the warship, the information, according to Atwater, having been given him by a detective, who told him also that Zalvado had been poisoned and that one of his accomplices stood ready to confess the full details of the plot.

At that time all the information obtainable, said Atwater, was sent to then secretary of war; but, while the letter was acknowledged, no further notice was taken of it as far as Atwater knew.

BRIAND FACES HARD TASK

Political Enemies Already Preparing to Thwart His Plans

Paris, Nov. 4.—The powerful influence of Socialist leaders has been exerted to thwart Premier Briand and the greatest indignation is expressed against Briand by his political enemies, who accuse him of breach of honor in resigning the balance of the cabinet, the other members being under the impression, apparently, that Briand would also step out of office.

Premier Briand has announced the organization of the new French cabinet. In making up the cabinet, the premier had been in consultation with former leaders. Of the new cabinet ten members have never before served in a ministerial capacity.

Parliament met yesterday and adjourned until Nov. 8, when the new ministerial program will be read.

Maine State House Remodelled

Augusta, Me., Nov. 4.—The remodelled state house will be formally dedicated on Dec. 20. The building has been completed within the appropriation of $350,000.

The Famous Rayo
Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflickering light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickeled, and easily polished.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Shakspeare has always succeeded at the Castle Square. Last season "Hamlet," "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Othello" were played to large and appreciative audiences and now for the first time this season, Mr. Craig will make a Shakspearian production. He has chosen "Richard III" as one of the most notable of the great dramas by the master dramatist, and he is sure that the revival of so rarely produced a play will arouse more than ordinary attention. "Richard III" has for its leading character the great Duke of Gloster who won the throne for himself after persistent efforts in which he stopped at nothing to reach the height of his ambition, and the play itself forms a vivid and picturesque narrative of the most interesting episodes of his career. The part of Richard will be played by Mr. Craig for the first time in a number of years, and he will bring to it all his well known skill at character interpretation. The role is one of great finesse and varying emotion, and to many of his admirers it will display Mr. Craig in an entirely new light. The other parts will be carefully assigned to Mr. Craig's associate players, and the scenic production will be elaborate and historically faithful. The run of "Richard III" will be limited to a single week.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE

Mr. William Gillette, under the direction of Mr. Charles Frohman crowded the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, all last week with a revival production of his most popular dramatization of Conan Doyle's hero of fiction, "Sherlock Holmes," the title role of which Mr. Gillette performed with his customary masterful skill and sensation. It was impossible to realize that the stage tale was one that had been oft told before the very same footlights, so thorough was the presentation. The star was as admirable as ever in his impersonation of the great detective, the company superbly supporting and the scenic efforts both complete and startling. During the current week, beginning next Monday evening, the 7th instant, Mr. Gillette will play his stirring Civil War drama, "Secret Service," enacting his original role of the spy-lover, who, after penetrating the hostile country and proceeding to thwart the enemy's purpose against his own country, falls under the sway of the daughter of the commanding general he was planning to destroy. He even undertakes to utilize his sweetheart in this endeavor, but refrains before he had gone very far in that step. In the end he transfers his allegiance wholly to the Little God of Love without detriment to, the welfare of either of the contending armies. Mr. Gillette's portrayal of the susceptible scout is ranked among the best of his delineations. Though a war play, the production is given absolutely without the noise or carnage that attends the average battle pieces.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Charlotte Hunt, the Boston stock actress who has been making such a hit at B. F. Keith's theatre during the week, will appear Monday in something that will prove a decided novelty in vaudeville. It is a one act comedy drama written by Miss Hunt, and in which she is the only person appearing. The action takes place in a lady's boudoir, beautifuly furnished, and during the piece a delightful little love story with a jealous woman as the principal figure, is unfolded, and at the same time Miss Hunt does a charming little bit of comedy in showing Milady dressing for the street. On this bill will be one of the greatest European novelties ever imported to this country, called "The Four Uessoms," a big troupe of acrobats and balancers who do the most astounding feats. Howard and North, those perennial favorites, are also on the bill and will present the greatest of all their comedies, "Those Were The Happy Days." Another extraordinary feature from abroad will be Vilmos Westony, the pianist of international reputation, a protege of the late Richard Wagner, who besides being a great artist has caught the vaudeville idea and has a programme that has been making a tremendous hit ever since he arrived in this country. Still another foreign company is that of Percy Warm, who will appear in a dramatic sketch based on one of W. W. Jacob's famous sea stories, called "The Boatswain's Mate." Other features will be Gordon and Marx, German comedians, and the Royal Colibris, a troupe of midgets.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Meredith Nicholson's popular novel, "The Port of Missing Men," has been made into an excellent play by E. E. Rose, the dramatist, and will be seen here for the first time at the Boston Grand Opera house next week. It is a story of love and intrigue with an American heroine and an Austrian hero. The hero, though known as John Armitage, is in reality the son of Count Von Strobel, the Premier of Austria.

TAFT GRASPS OPPORTUNITY

He Makes It Known That He Will Run In 1912

CABINET OFFICERS IN OHIO

Their Statements on Stump Doubtless Have Indorsement of President—Buckeye and Empire States to Decide on Him or Roosevelt—Ohio Cannot Elect Democratic Governor Without Repudiating Chief Executive

Washington, Nov. 4.—Politicians of the capital have awaited with interest the speeches of Secretaries Knox and MacVeagh in Ohio. They have felt that at the psychological moment of the campaign President-Taft might see his way clear to strike a blow at his enemies or uphold the hands of his friends by some means or other without breaking his pledge not to participate personally in the campaign in any state.

The speeches of the two cabinet officers in Ohio are an answer to the remarkable suggestion of Mr. Root in New York, that if Roosevelt was defeated through Stimson in the Empire State, the party must face him as a candidate for president in 1912. MacVeagh, with his usual frankness, spoke even more plainly than Knox with respect to the next presidential nomination. He said that whether or not Ohio fails to go Republican, the president will continue to grow in the confidence of the nation, "and will be the nominee of his party in 1912."

Mr. MacVeagh's speech was carefully prepared before he left Washington. Secretary Norton visited the treasury building a week or more ago and directly made the request that MacVeagh go into Ohio. Cabinet officers do not go about the country making speeches upon the personal request of their chief unless they reflect the ideas and purposes of that chief.

The significance of the visit to Ohio of Knox and MacVeagh lies in the challenge of President Taft to all his enemies. It fixes the eyes of the country upon Ohio and New York as nothing else could. The president has borne silently the fault-finding of his administration by Mr. Roosevelt and done what he could properly to indicate that he sincerely desires the success of the Republican candidate in New York, whatever its effect upon the political future of Roosevelt.

But the fact which stands out sharply and fixes the attention of the country upon results in Ohio and New York is the pregnant one that the voters of those two states have it in their power virtually to say that Taft shall be and Roosevelt shall not be the Republican candidate in 1912.

The opportunity to put up to the country, through his own people in Ohio, the question which has split the Republican party wide open, since the refusal of Roosevelt to declare that he would not be a candidate for president again, came in the way of Taft and he grasped it.

President Taft has now entered Ohio with an appeal made by two of the most sagacious counselors of his administration and told his people frankly that they cannot re-elect a Democratic governor without repudiating him, or, if Root is to be believed, without opening the door of the White House to Roosevelt or some western radical. Ohio knows very well that if Taft is repudiated she will not be called upon again in a very long time to provide Presidents of the United States.

The Ohio campaign, with the new twist given to it, cannot do otherwise than have a profound effect upon conditions in New York. The president's pronunciamento, whether he so intends it or not, will strengthen the enemies of Roosevelt there and will weaken Roosevelt correspondingly.

The cast as a whole prefers Taft to Roosevelt, if for no other reason than that Taft, while progressive, states a definite program, which congress and the country may take or leave as it chooses, while Roosevelt volleys unceasingly against general conditions, but submits nothing concrete.

SUIT AGAINST BANK OFFICERS

Receiver Bates Would Make Directors Responsible

COLEMAN'S $307,000 THEFT

Bill In Equity Charges "Gross Negligence and Inattention to Duty," Which Allowed Heavy Defalcation Resulting In Wrecking of Cambridge Bank—No Effective Oversight Over Bookkeeping Department

Boston, Nov. 4.—John L. Bates, receiver for the National City bank of Cambridge, which was wrecked by George W. Coleman, filed a bill in equity in the United States circuit court against President Dresser and the directors of the National City bank of Cambridge, seeking to hold them financially responsible for the stealings of Coleman, amounting to $307,000.

The receiver declares that the defendants were negligent in their duty. The defendants named by ex-Governor Bates in his suit as receiver are:

President Edwin Dresser, Directors David A. Barber, George W. Gale, Sumner Dresser and George E. Richardson.

The receiver states, in his bill of complaint, that he conducts this suit "with the knowledge and approval of the comptroller of the currency, to recover from the president and directors the losses sustained by the creditors through the defalcation of George W. Coleman."

The receiver goes on to say that he charges them "with gross negligence and inattention to duty."

Receiver Bates charges that for more than two years before the bank suspended on Feb. 21, 1910, they utterly neglected to make any sufficient examination of the affairs of the bank and neglected to exercise any effective oversight whatsoever over the bookkeeping department or the employes; that during the whole of 1909 they caused no examination or audit to be made of the bank.

Further he alleges that the negligence of the bank officials enabled Coleman to steal $307,000 from the bank; that at no time did they make any reasonable effort to ascertain the cause of the shrinkage of deposits at the bank; that they never attempted to check up the cash book by taking the totals from the individual ledgers, which would at once have revealed the defalcation of Coleman.

He calls the officials mere figureheads as regards the management of the bank, except in the matter of its loans, and asks for an accounting and inquiry under direction of the court as to all losses sustained by the bank, its creditors and stockholders, by reason of the act and omissions of the president and directors, and asks that a decree be entered against them requiring them to pay to the receiver all sums for which they may be held responsible in the matter and for such other relief as may be required by justice.

The depositors of the bank were made happy recently when Receiver Bates informed them that they would receive checks for 60 percent of their deposits.

Soon after this Edward A. Paul, teller of the bank, began paying out the money on hand and disbursed something like $230,000 in this way. This 60 percent dividend represented the sale of the quick assets of the bank.

It was announced that there would probably be 10 percent more when the slow assets of the bank were converted into cash.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTER

Strikers and Express Representatives to Discuss Settlement

New York, Nov. 4.—The movement for a settlement of the strike of express company drivers and helpers which has practically tied up express business in and around New York city for a week past took more definite form with the announcement that representatives of the companies would meet representatives of the men to discuss plans for ending the strike.

Earnest effort to adjust grievances, and a resort to arbitration if the joint conference fails of agreement, seems to be the program.

CREWE SUCCEEDS MORLEY

Former Indian Secretary Becomes President of Privy Council

London, Nov. 4.—It is officially announced that Lord Crewe has been appointed home secretary for India, to succeed Viscount Morley, resigned. Louis Harcourt has been named colinial secretary to succeed Lord Crewe.

Viscount Morley has been appointed president of the privy council, in succession to the Earl of Beauchamp, who in turn succeeds Harcourt as commissioner of works.

THE CHAMPION LAUGHER

His Hearty "Ha Ha" Over a Horse Trade Lasts For Twelve Hours

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Nov. 4.—Trading a mule for a "shaved tail" horse appealed to the humor of S. H. Schrapp of this city and he began laughing. He laughed ten minutes, then an hour, with the tears rolling down his cheeks and still he didn't stop. His friends became alarmed and summoned a physician, but the physician couldn't stop the hearty "ha ha."

When six hours had passed and Schrapp was still convulsed with laughter another physician was called, but the horsetrader's merriment kept on and an electric battery was brought into play.

Just as the laugh had rounded out twelve hours the trader was given a heavy electric shock, the "ha ha" ceased and Schrapp fell over exhausted.

It was thought for a time that the man would die, but he shows no ill effects from the long laugh.

YOUTHS HELD FOR HOLDUPS

Additional Evidence Obtained Against the Meegan Brothers

Boston, Nov. 4.—Henry F. and Walter C. Meegan, who, as the police claim, held up at least two of the four women in the Aberdeen district of Brighton, were arraigned before Judge Barnard. Their case was continued until Nov. 9. Henry, who is 22 years of age, was held in $5000 bail, as he is charged with two counts, and Walter, who is 16 years of age and therefore a juvenile, was held in $2500 bail, there being only one count against him.

Additional evidence was obtained yesterday. Patrolman Wilson of the Brookline police found a woman's handbag in the bushes near the boys' camp. He notified the Brighton police, and Captain Sullivan asked him to come to the court. Wilson did so, and the bag was shown to Mary McDougall, the first woman to be robbed. She identified the bag as belonging to her. This was taken from her on the night of Oct. 28.

HONEYMOON INTERRUPTED

Husbands of Two Brides Locked Up In New York Tombs

New York, Nov. 4.—Peter O. McMartin and William K. Adolphe, both of Des Moines, Ia., who were arrested on their arrival from Chicago, accompanied by their brides, were arraigned in the Tombs court and held in $5000 bail each for examination on Saturday.

The two men are charged with passing a worthless check and were arrested on receipt of a telegram from the chief of detectives of Des Moines. The men, who denied the charge, were committed to the Tombs in default of bail.

LAND BIRDS IN MID-OCEAN

Owl, Wrens, Thrushes and Chaffinches Alight on Steamer

Boston, Nov. 4.—A flock of more than a dozen birds, including one owl, and several wrens, thrushes and chaffinches, alighted on the steamer Caledonian when she was in mid-ocean on her way to Boston from Manchester and Liverpool. All were so exhausted that they were easily caught and all but two chaffinches died in a short while, the owl being one of the first to succumb.

The two surviving chaffinches are now in possession of the Caledonian's steward. No one on board had any idea of how the birds happened to be so far out in the ocean. It may be, however, that they were driven seaward by the recent storms.

TWENTY-ONE LIVES LOST

Coroner Finds Train Crew and Dispatcher Responsible For Wreck

Hamilton, O., Nov. 4.—Train Dispatcher Albert Smith and members of the crew of a freight train on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad are held responsible for the collision of one of the freight trains with a Big Four passenger train at Middletown on July 4, in the finding of Coroner Burnett of Butler county.

The wreck caused the death of twenty-three persons. The coroner finds that the freight train was on the main track at Middletown when it should have been on the siding.

Jesuits Safe In Portugal

Washington, Nov. 4.—Disturbed by rumors that the provisional government of Portugal intended to arrest, court martial and execute Jesuit priests, the Portuguese foreign office has cabled its various diplomatic representatives to make general denials.

BRIEFS

Sample ballots for the State election have been posted.

D. E. Wadsworth & Co., are showing some attractive show windows, suits and waists being specialties.

The Fore River Ship Building Co. will begin to occupy its new office building on Monday.

Carl Christiansen of Irving place was taken to the City Hospital on Thursday with typhoid fever.

Walter H Lacey of Wollaston, a graduate of Quincy High, was to represent Harvard today in the cross country run.

All plans are perfected for the 19th annual concert and ball of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association, which will be held at Quincy Music hall next Friday night. Wilson's orchestra. H. J. Seiler will cater.

This weather makes some people smile. George W. Jones says there is nothing like it for his business and his clerks have had to hustle to keep up with the demand for rubbers and umbrellas.

The visit of the grand officers to Quincy lodge of Elks, planned for next Tuesday evening, has been postponed until a later date, owing to the State election. Election returns will be received at the club house and a lunch will be served.

The ladies of the Quincy Catholic club are arranging for another of their enjoyable whist and dancing parties, for Monday, Nov. 14. There will be dancing in Alpha hall and whist in Union hall. The proceeds will be used in connection with the charity work of the association.

Arrangement have been made for a series of Democratic rallies to be held in Quincy tonight. Four rallies in all will be held namely at South Quincy, West Quincy, Quincy Point and Atlantic. The local candidates for senator and representative will speak as will also Candidate Curley.

The Foss campaign committee received perhaps the worst blow yet, when in response to an appeal to Charles Francis Adams for funds, "to administer a rebuke to the Republican machine," they received a stinging denunciation of the Boston Democratic city machine, which Mr Adams regards "as being in no single respect better or preferable to the famous Tweed ring."—Boston Advertiser.

—Six acres of the Boston Common have been systematically improved this fall by removal of the understratum of sterile soil and the substitution of fertilized loam. Next spring the process will be still further extended.

LOWER CAR FARES

Wanted by Girls who Work at Lower Mills

A regular meeting of the West Quincy Improvement association was held Thursday evening with President Stephen B. Little presiding.

There was a prolonged debate on the question of street car fares between West Quincy and Milton Lower Mills. There are quite a large numbe of men and girls residing at West Quincy who are employed in the chocolate mills, and car fares eat into their wages. If they ride to and from their work as they must necessarily do during stormy weather, it means an outlay of twenty cents a day. Even in pleasant weather it means either the expenditure of this sum or a long walk from East Milton to West Quincy which is a hardship after a long day's work. The argument at the meeting was that if some arrangement could be made whereby a five-cent fare would take them from West Quincy to Milton Lower Mills it would be of great benefit to these workers.

It was argued that possibly the Old Colony street railway, which operates both lines, might be induced to run one car from West Quincy to Milton Lower Mills in the morning and one in return at night to accommodate these workers for a five cent fare. That is ten cents for the round trip.

A committee consisting of John D. Smith, John Evans and James H. Elcock was appointed to take the question up with the street railway to see what could be done.

It was voted to instruct the committee on the annual banquet to report at the next regular meeting, Nov. 17, as to the time and place of the banquet. This committee will meet next Thursday evening at St. Jean's hall to complete its arrangements so as to be able to report as instructed.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The Epworth League of the Wollaston M E. church held one of its largest and best business meetings and socials Thursday night at the home of the pastor. F. G. Bennett had charge of the business. Five new members were added to the League. A plan was brought forward by the officers which provided for a red and blue contest. This contest is to last for three months. Miss Rena Chamberlin and Miss Sadie Teed are the captains. They started out with great enthusiasm. Miss Florence Bennett had charge of the program which consisted of autumn games. The rooms were very prettily decorated with tinted foliage.

—An electric truck is being used on a farm near Rochester, N. Y., with great success. This truck will handle three times as much farm produce in a day as a team.

It is just as well that the Quincy High football team could not arrange a game for the holiday today, as rain would postpone it.

"It has been proved," said Hawley, 'that men have larger brains than women, hence their superior intellectual powers."

"Much that proves!" snapped Dobson. "Every one knows men have larger tongues than women, yet I never heard of any one who was fool enough to try and argue man's superiority in the talking line over women."

GREAT SPORT AT HOUGHS NECK

Prominent People Take Part in Deestrict Skoo

A session of the "Deestrict Skool" was held Thursday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Union chapel at Houghs Neck.

The school was held in the chapel, and there was a very large attendance of visitors, largely "parents" of the pupils. Henry W. French impersonated the school mistress, and his previous experience as a teacher stood him in well.

The whole affair was replete with laugh-provoking incidents, and th e 25 or 30 young and old people who were the pupils all had their parts perfect. The plot of the play, if such it could be called, was over the school dunce, impersonated by one Decker. He had been chastised by the school mistress and his mother (Mrs. Goodie), had come to remonstrate with the teacher for abusing her offspring. Not obtaining the necessary satisfaction from that source it was put up to the school committee to settle. This committee was composed of Messrs. Hutchings, Rider and Webster. They questioned the pupils at length as to their knowledge on various subjects, and in every case it turned out th e pupils knew more than the committee. The members of the committee were dressed as rubes and they acted well their parts.

Another character that created much laughter was Able Brown. He also had a complaint to make. He claimed that while driving over the broad macadam streets of Houghs Neck that the boys threw rotten apples at him. He had many questions to ask and in almost every case the boys answered for the school mistress and school committee, and even poked fun at Able's tall hat, some even taking shots at it during the session of the school.

Miss Ella Acorn presided at the piano and the singing of the pupils was remarkable, the A. B. C. song bringing down the house with thundering applause. There was also a pleasing duet by two of the young ladies. So successful was the whole affair that it may be repeated at an early date.

HARD STORM AND GALE

Houghs Neck Hit Hard Today By the Storm

Houghs Neck is experiencing today one of the toughest storms it has had since Christmas last year. The wind is northeast and is blowing a gale. It is fortunate that it is rain that accompanies the gale, for if it were snow it would be considerably worse. Owners of boats moored off the beach were hard at work all the morning making their moorings more secure, but in many cases hauling the boats onto the beach. The tide at 1 o'clock was unusually high, and the waves were dashed with great force all along Quincy's water front. The causeway leading to Houghs Neck was overflowed at high tide, and along Wollaston beach the water came up nearly to the boulevard.

MISSED BY MANY.

A great gloom is cast over the home of little Alice Davis Wilding who passed away Tuesday afternoon at her home 26 Baxter street after a brief illness aged three years, four months and fourteen days. "Sistie" was the sunshine of the neighborhood, and will be greatly missed by her playmates, She was always willing and ready with a sweet little smile for everybody. Funeral services were held at her late home at 2.30 on Thursday afternoon and interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

There were many beautiful floral pieces. Among them:

Pillow of pinks and roses, Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

Pillow of chrysanthemums, roses and pinks, Arline Sweeney.

Spray of red jack roses, Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney.

Wreath of roses and pinks, Miss Mary Fihely.

Cross of pinks, roses and lilies of the valley, the neighbors.

Basket pinks, roses and lilies of the valley, the neighbors.

Spray of pinks, Francis Sullivan.

Spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sullivan.

Spray of pink chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Green.

Basket of roses and pinks, Misses Annie and Jennie Walker.

Spray of pinks and chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Saunders.

Spray of pinks and ferns, Dorothy Myatt.

Spray of pinks and roses, George Davis.

Mound of white pinks, Mr. and Mrs. William Gavin and family.

Spray of white pinks, Miss Margaret Kemp.

Spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Butts.

Bouquet, Berle Bean.

Bouquet, Beatrice Biganess.

Bouquet, Hilda Smith.

Bouquet of chrysanthemums, Mrs. Winneburger.

Large wreath of chrysanthemums, employees at the Fore River.

Bouquet of chrysanthemums, Mr and Mrs. Walker.

Tales of Cities.

Chicago purposes to double the number of its electric lights.

London has two municipal golf courses, Brighton and Nottingham one each, Edinburgh ten and Glasgow three.

In the United States Boston has been the best place to be born if you want to stand a good chance of living to be at least a year old.

New York is the largest gas and electricity consuming city in the world. The companies that furnish the supply have a total capitalization of $227,046,550.

The Royal Box.

King Alfonso of Spain has won the reputation of being the best dressed monarch of the day.

King George was the twelfth holder of the title of Duke of York and the eighteenth holder of the English title of Prince of Wales since its creation in 1301.

Her majesty the queen of England, daughter of the Duke of Teck, is said to take a rigidly Puritan view of all questions. The queen is affirmed in a French weekly to have "a nervous horror of the new woman."

Culinary Conceits.

The addition of a beaten egg to the mashed potatoes used for potato cakes will be found worth while.

The chicken meat left over after making soup can be used in croquettes and salads. Chop or mince it after freeing from gristle and fat and season it highly.

A Bordeaux pudding is made by cutting sponge cake into two or three thin layers, spreading each with some kind of tart jam and crowning all with whipped cream appropriately flavored.

Aviation.

Japan has an aeronautical commission, which is making a tour of the world to study the subject.

To guide airships which get above clouds at night it is planned in Germany to send up balloons containing electric lights.

The French government is seriously considering a plan to explore Algiers and the Sudan by means of aeroplanes for the purpose of ascertaining the most desirable locations for airship stations.

Christians In Old Rome.

Religious persecution as such was unknown under the Romans. The Christians were regarded as seditious. In denying the divinity of the Caesars and the Roman gods they were guilty of high treason in Roman eyes and were accordingly punished. But their punishment had no religious significance whatever. The Christians were persecuted not because they were Christians, but because, in the opinion of the authorities, they were disturbers of the peace and safety of the state. Religious persecution was a thought that never entered the Roman mind.—New York American.

Mexican Trade Increases.

In 1910 Mexico's imports were $97,428,700 gold, an increase of $19,000,000, and her exports $130,028,000, an increase of $14,500,000.

JOHN O. HALL HAS WITHDRAWN

Writes Letter to Secretary Langelier Recalling The Papers He Filed

Leaves Clear Field for President Hobbs

The Mayoralty question as far as the Republican candidate is concerned has been very much cleared by the withdrawal of ex-Mayor John O. Hall from the contest for the nomination, thus leaving a clear field to President Ralph W. Hobbs of the City Council.

It was rumored about the city Thursday that Mr. Hall would not enter the contest if President Hobbs decided to run. This rumor was not borne out that day, however, for when the Republican nomination papers were opened that evening it was found that both Mr. Hall and Mr. Hobbs had filed papers, and it looked as though there would be a hot contest at the caucuses for the nomination.

Under the caucus law persons who had filed papers have until tonight at 5 o'clock in which to withdraw them. Mr. Hall has taken advantage of this clause and withdrawn. His withdrawal was contained in a letter forwarded this morning to Louis F. R. Langelier, secretary of the Republican City Committee.

The letter of withdrawal gave no reasons, simply stating that he desired to withdraw the papers filed by him as candidate for Mayor.

An effort was made to get into communication with Mr. Hall this noon, but he had gone to Boston, and could not be reached. The general understanding, however, that having the success of the Republican party at heart at the coming Municipal election and in the interest of harmony he withdrew to leave a clear field and avoid any contest.

It is quite well understood that Mr. Hall did not voluntarily enter the contest, but only after earnest solicitation when there appeared to be no other candidate.

The withdrawal means that at the Municipal election the fight will be between Mayor Shea, the Democratic candidate, and President Hobbs as the Republican candidate.

FORE RIVER CHANNEL.

The project of improving the Weymouth Fore river so that vessels of the largest type can be built by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company and safely launched from its banks is assured. The announcement that the federal engineers are in favor of the undertaking will be made within a few days from Washington.

SMALL VERDICT.

At the Superior court at Dedham on Friday, the jury returned a sealed verdict for the plaintiff for $150 in the case of Alice Holmes of Hyde Park against John Cashman of Quincy. The plaintiff brought an action of tort to recover $10,000 damages for personal injuries by being struck by a derrick when it fell at Hyde Park in 1908. John W. and Thomas F. McAnarney appeared for the defendant Cashman. An offer of $300 in settlement by the defendant is said to have been refused several days ago.

CAMPAIGN NEARING CLOSE

Democratic Rallies Held in Four Wards of City

Democratic rallies were held in four wards of the city last evening but owing to the severe storm were not largely attended. The rallies were held at West Quincy, where Councilman Smith presided; at South Quincy, where Councilman Cantfill presided; at Quincy Point, where Peter Hines presided; and at Atlantic, where Frederick O'Brien presided. The principal speakers were Candidate Curley, Francis L. Phelan, John F. McDonald, John F. Thornton and L. D. Bejach of Nashville, Tenn. In addition to these Councilman Boyd and Candidate McDevitt spoke at West Quincy, Candidate McDevitt at Atlantic and Candidate Sullivan at West Quincy, South Quincy and at Quincy Point.

Gov. Draper, ex-Gov. Guild, Senator Lodge and Guy Ham will address a rally tonight at Tremont Temple. Music by a Military band.

ANNEXATION QUESTION.

Col. H. L. Kincaide and Hon. Russell A. Sears will address the Men's club of Christ church, Monday evening on "The Annexation of Quincy to Boston." This is a very timely question and discussed as it will be by two of Quincy's most progressive citizens, should prove of great interest. The relation of Quincy to its big neighbor is becoming more and more intimate and too much attention cannot be given to its consideration.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The standing for the teams of Employed Boys entered in the contests in athletic sports, gymnastics and aquatics is given below. The contests started Nov. 1 and will continue until Dec. 31. Each team has chosen the name of a college. All the competition during the remainder of the year will be carried on by these teams. Carlisle—Capt. Gus Beigfors, 8-7. Harvard—Capt. Edgar Nichols, 6-5. Dartmouth, Capt Robert Booth 5-7. Yale, Capt. S. A. Yates 2-7.

The Juniors team names and captains have been chosen as follows: Crimson—Sidney McLaughlin, captain; Orange—James Matheson, captain; Red—Wesley Brown captain; Brown—John Clark captain; Green—William Torrey, captain; Blue—James Jenkins, captain.

Another handicap meet for Seniors will take place this month.

Three great international organizations which have had their source in this country, the Y. M. C. A., the International Brotherhood and the International Sunday School association, will unite in holding a week of prayer Sunday, Nov. 13. Special intercessory prayer for all sorts of Christian work and Christian workers will be offered every day during the week in every country in the world where christianity has taken root. The local association is drawing up plans for the proper observation of the week.

The conclusion of the stereopticon story "The Lad from beyond Tuxedo" was read this morning. The hall was filled with boys who listened with intence interest to the tale of patriotism. After the story was completed, the fellows sang "America" with great spirit.

TODAY'S COURT.

William W. Wilson was fined $10, Max Rubin [illegible] and Vincent P. Roberts $20 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

Daniel J. Mahony was sentenced to six months in the house of correction for larceny at Holbrook.

The continued cases of Christopher Barry for drunkenness, assault on Officer Bishop and for profanity at Quincy were heard. He was fined $15 for drunkenness. On the other cases he was found guilty and the cases placed on file.

—An exchange says: "Just as stagnant water breeds disease, so stagnant business men breed discontent, retard progress and make the way of those who have faith in their town doubly hard."

STATUS OF "SPECIALS"

Legally Officers of Law the Decision

A case of unusual interest to the city as well as to men who are known as "Special Police" officers came up in the district court this morning on continuance. The case was that of Officer Malone against three young men charged with assault upon an officer. When the case was called several weeks ago, Congressman O'Connell, who appeared for the defendants raised the point of law that there was no such thing as a "Special Police" officer, and that the appointment of Malone was illegal and that he was not an officer.

The case was continued from time to time until this morning. When the case was called, City Solicitor McAnarney appeared. He stated to the court that he did not appear as counsel as to the merits of the case for assault, which he did not intend to touch upon, but simply in behalf of the city to contend that special police officers while enforcing law and order could not be assaulted and then the defendants escape on the ground that there was no authority for their appointment. The City Solicitor claimed that the question was not open to the defendants in the proceedings then before the court, and for the purpose of the case the court should rule Malone a police officer. After hearing the arguments of the City Solicitor the court ordered the case to proceed on its merits next Saturday.

The City Solicitor then turned the question as to the facts of the assault over to the attorney who originally appeared as counsel for the government in the case.

The ruling of Judge Avery practically means that Special officer Malone is legally an officer of the law.

Our Credit System
The Helping Hand

Over sixty per cent of our great business is cash business. By this we mean that the purchaser pays cash at time of purchase or within 30 or 60 days. It's a real pleasure for us to lend a helping hand to the man who on account of his small wages and the high cost of living finds it inconvenient to pay cash at the time of purchase for the household goods needed to make his family comfortable. Some folks scoff at credit, but we admire the man of courage who buys the home comforts for his family and spares a few dollars a week from his earnings with which to pay for them.

Banks couldn't exist if they did not lend their money to merchants who use it with which to conduct their business and we on a smaller scale act as the banker of the working man—extending him the necessary credit to furnish his home in a manner befitting his surroundings and the higher advancement of his children.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

A Boston paper says: "City Treasurer Slattery of Boston has paid off all the temporary loans negotiated last May, June and July at 3 1-2 percent in anticipation of the payment of taxes."

We wish it could be said of Quincy at some time in the year that all temporary loans had been paid. Probably none of the 1910 temporary loans aggregating $400,000 to $500,000 have been paid, or will be paid before 1911, when new loans are issued to replace them.

For two years William R. Thomas and Louis F. R. Langelier have represented Quincy in the Legislature with credit to the city and the Commonwealth, and no good reasons have been advanced why they should not have the customary three years. They have given very faithful attention to their duties, being both regular and punctual in attendance. On all great questions they have carried out the wishes of those who voted for them, and have also been unusually successful in securing recognition of Quincy. They voted for the Bar and Bottle bill and can be depended upon to vote against a repeal of the bill. They have advanced the measure to connect the two Metropolitan parkways in Quincy, and can secure an appropriation in 1911. They are active to the wishes of the voters of Quincy to get out of the South Boston Congressional district. They have voted independently and conscientiously on all the numerous measures before the Legislature, and it is surprising how little criticism is heard.

George L. Barnes, the Republican candidate for the Senate, can also do better work for Quincy, if elected, than his rival He is pledged to place Quincy in the Norfolk county Congressional district if possible, and he is opposed to the repeal of the Bar and Bottle bill or any measure enacted by the Legislature of 1910. He is interested in two bridge questions which deeply interest Quincy and Weymouth the unjust demands of the War department for a new bridge at Weymouth Back river, and a wider draw in the Weymouth Fore river bridge.

Here is a Weymouth endorsement of the candidate:

"Weymouth this year has the opportunity to send two men to the Great and General Court—one to the Senate and the other to the House. Both of these young men are in every sense Weymouth boys, born here, graduates of our High school, and interested and active in everything that benefits the town. They are strong, able and honest, and, if elected, this town will have a representation in the Senate and House of which she will be justly proud."

Thousands of Troops Will Prevent Barcelona Labor Demonstration

Madrid, Nov. 5.—The government announces that it will prevent at all hazards a monster labor manifestation arranged in Barcelona, to which city the strikers in Sabadell have declared that they will march. General Weyler, captain general of Catalonia, has a big force of troops at his command, but these will be reinforced by 15,000 soldiers.

The government claims that the revolutionary leaders, many of whom have been imprisoned, are trying to inflame the masses of the workmen.

FIREMEN'S RELIEF.

Nearly a quarter of a century ago there was founded in our city an organization which has proved its fitness and its value by time honored service in our midst. On the 30th day of March, 1886, a little group of men met in the Central fire station and formed the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association. Among the charter members were: Joseph M. Glover, William C. Seelye, Amos L. Litchfield, Frank E. Burrell, William Caldwell, Thomas H. Coulon, Arthur C. Merritt, Peter J. Cahill, Luther Rogers, William F. Powers, Albert G. Olney, Franklin Curtis, Edward H. Richardson, Frank L. Carlton, John F. Coulon and William A. Gavin. On April 7, 1886, the association was organized under following officers: President, Amos L. Litchfield; vice president, Franklin Curtis; clerk, William Caldwell and treasurer, Joseph M. Glover.

Previous to the organization of this association the three districts had systems of their own. The crews of the old Tiger, Granite and Vulture tubs and the men on the Lovell chemical held dances separately for the purpose of raising funds for benefits in case a man was injured. In the fall of 1885 the idea of having all districts unite and run a big dance suggested itself to the men, and the first event of this sort was held in the Town Hall which was located where City Hall is now. In the following spring as has been stated above, the Firemen's Relief association was formed.

Today the association has a membership of about 75, including most of the members of the city department and several former members. The officers for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Daniel J. Nyhan; vice president, William F. Powers; clerk, James Gallagher, and treasurer, Edgar G. Hayden. The vice president, it will be noticed, was one of the charter members, and the president just missed being one. He was in the fire department at the time of the formation of the association, but being one of the younger members he was not one of the original signers of the constitution. At present, Mr. Nyhan is chief of the Atlantic district.

The dues for membership are $1 a year. Outside of these and the annual dance, the only source of revenue comes from the fines imposed upon the men for non-attendance at fires. The annual dance is of course the principal source.

If a member of the Relief Association is hurt while going to, returning from or working at a fire he receives a benefit of $5 a week until he is well. A limit is set, however at six months. There is also a death benefit of $100. Those members of the association who are no longer directly connected with the fire department can receive this, but not the sick benefit. On the second Sunday in June of each year a memorial service is held at the cemeteries where firemen have been buried. Last June all the cemeteries in the city were visited as well as one outside.

The association is governed by the board of trustees which includes the officers and one other who are members at large and one member from each engine house. The annual meeting comes in January. All business which comes up during the year is attended to by the board of trustees. A special committee on arrangements is appointed by them to take charge of the annual dance.

THE FRIEND OF LABOR

Business Associations Give No Indications of It

(From a Speech by Hon. Norman White of Brookline)

Probably there are few, if any, men in New England who are directly connected with more corporations than Eugene N. Foss. Yet he is the "working man's friend" at election time. Listen to this list, and remember it when you silently deposit your ballot:

Eugene N. Foss, 34 Oliver street, 1909—

President and director of Bridgewater Water Company.

Director Hyde Park National Bank.

Director Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange.

Treasurer and director of B. F. Sturtevant Company.

Director Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company, which is owned by the Street Railroad Trust of Greater New York.

Director Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

Massachusetts Electric Company, finds him a member of its executive committee and trustee. This is the Street Railway Trust of Massachusetts.

President Maverick Mills, East Boston.

President and director Burgess Mills.

Director Chicago Junction Railway, owned and controlled by the Beef Trust.

Director Union Stock Yards Company. This is a part of the Beef Trust largely responsible for the high cost of meat.

Director Manhattan Railway Company, which has debauched politics in New York city for years.

President and director Mead Morrison Manufacturing Company—a non-union shop where the machinists are now on strike.

Director and member of the executive committee of the Mexican Central Railway, which has been branded as employing underpaid and wretched laborers.

Director East Boston Land Company.

If Mr. Foss wants to have his thousands of American workmen compete with the laborers of Germany, England, France, Italy and other underpaid countries why doesn't he stay in Congress, where he is sure of his own vote. No governor has a vote on the tariff and Mr Foss knows it. He also knows that Taft is President and will be for two years, and no new tariff bill in those years will be made a law without Mr. Taft's signature, whether Mr. Foss is travelling with Dr. Cook to the North Pole or whether he is working with the beef trust, or whether he is governor, or just plain Eugene N. Foss. He knows, furthermore, that he, as much as any man in Massachusetts, is responsible for the high prices in beef and other things. Does he sell his products less than others? Does he treat his labor better? Do his traction companies ,their allies and political henchmen stand so high in the community that he can afford even to speak of high prices to the voters? Is he proud of his seat as a member of the executive committee of the Mexican Central Railroad, which handles poor, ignorant, half-starved men like cattle? No, Mr. Foss, Massachusetts

ORGANIZED CHARITIES

Miss Alice L. Higgins, general secretary of the Associated Charities of Boston, and director of the Boston 115 committee on charities and correction, will speak in the assembly room of the Woman's club house Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 10.30 A. M. Subject: "Why organized charities need a paid secretary." The meeting will run under the auspices of the charity conference of Quincy. All organizations which do any charitable work within its own membership or for the public, are invited to send large delegations.

The King's Daughters, the Day Nursery, the Elks, the Firemen's Relief association, all sorts of organization, should have representatives there. Miss Higgins will tell something of the work in Boston, and will point out the advantage of associated charities. In our own city its need has often been felt. An instance which happened last Thanksgiving will perhaps give some of us something to think about. One woaman received six Thanksgiving dinners from as many different organizations in the city. Others, more needy and possibly more deserving, were obliged to go without. By associating the charities, all such possibities would be removed. Miss Higgins has many interesting facts to give, and has the reputation of being a fascinating speaker. Il the organizations with any charitable branch whatsoever should send delegations to this meeting.

The Social Realm

It is always a pleasure to find one of the older members of society who can perform duties as well, or better than those of the younger set. If the young people wish to equal or hope to surpass those of mature years they must be about self-improvement. There was that thought in the minds of the audience at the Mothers' Association Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. C. W. Guy led the devotional services. Her theme was Thanksgiving, after a short talk upon this subject, she followed with a poem by Lucy Larcom. It is hard to decide whether it was what she said or how she said it, that made the difference, but her earnest, sweet simplicity touches the heart strings and stands out in basrelief in these days of affectation and artificiality.

Harry Connell of Brighton left Thursday with a party of friends for Maine where they are to enjoy a two weeks' gunning trip.

Never has Hallowe'en been so widely observed socially in Quincy as this year and the first of the week there were many house parties as well as public functions where merriment reigned supreme until the wee sma' hours.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey have returned from Europe, where they have been spending their honeymoon. They visited many places of interest while away. They now reside on Granite street this city.

Lauris G. Treadway, Dartmouth '08, and Miss Helen Stanwood Fowle of Mountford street, Boston, whose engagement was recently announced are receiving most hearty congratulations from Quincy and Boston friends.

Invitations have gone out this week for the Quincy Assembly to be held at Music hall on Friday evening November the twenty-fifth. On the committee are: Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Mrs. Nathaniel S. The Co-Ed club of Wollaston had a successful opening assembly last evening in Alpha hall. Although disagreeable and drizzly without all was cheerful in the hall and a large number of young people were present to have a share in the good times. The floor was in charge of Herman Allen who was assisted by E. A. Poland, Q. H. S. '09. Campbell's orchestra furnished the music and Wagner of Dorchester was the caterer. There were over a hundred couples on the floor.

The Boston—1915 Pageant—"Cave Life to City Life," will combine all the best features of a festival, a street parade and a play. The music has been all specially arranged and the "Cave Man" music, never before played outside the Bohemian Club "Jinks" in San Francisco will be rendered by Mr. David Bispham, the world famous oratoric and operatic baritone singer. The costumes, with the exception of a few which the girls from the High School of Practical Arts made specially for themselves, will be all genuine garments from the colonial period. The properties, such as muskets, bow and arrows, halberds, sedan chairs, and spinning wheels are all heirlooms which have been contributed by old families of the Back Bay, Roxbury, and Dorchester. Then there are innumerable features, such as the old ox-cart laden with corn for the "husking," an old chaise in which will ride a great granddaughter of good old Benjy. Franklin, many old fashioned "samplers" and the harpischord for the stately minuet. The tribe of Indians who presented the pantomine of "Hiawatha" at New Rochelle, N. Y. have been specially secured to make realistic the Indian encampment, and the desperate attack on the Settler's stockade.

AS ATTORNEY NOT LOBBYIST

Candidate Barnes Replies to His Rival

To the Voters of Quincy:

Gentlemen—I have just had called to my attention an article contained in the Quincy Daily Ledger of an issue of a few days ago which is a political advertisement issued by my opponent the Democratic candidate for the senate from this district.

The article referred to contains some statements which are true and some which are untrue and some so far from the truth that they seem hardly justified even by the excitement of a political campaign.

I have never been a registered lobbyist or legislative agent for any corporation, firm, association or individual. I did appear last year, but solely as attorney, for the Edmund S. Hunt Company of Weymouth who have been clients of mine for years. They are one of industries of my own town of Weymouth which distributes their thousands of dollars annually in wages. I appeared for them as their counsel at a hearing duly advertised and assigned for that purpose on a bill which affected their industry.

I did not oppose, as my opponent says, the passage of the Safe and Sane Fourth act, bt did present to the committee those facts from which they might determine what articles manufactured by the Hunt Company were dangerous and to what extent they ought to be prohibited. I myself suggested to the committee, with the authority of my client, and it was the first suggestion made to the committee, that the cannon crackers ought to be abolished and prohibted in this commonwealth and the legislature did abolish them.

I also appeared, but solely as counsel, for the Coke Company of Everett, and on the following matter, namely:—A petition to permit the dredging of a new channel for a portion of Island End river in Everett and Chelsea, so as to permit the establishment there of a large iron industry and thereby bring to this commonwealth an industry which has long since left it.

The only reason that it was necessary to present this matter to the legislature at all was because the course of the channel for a short distance was the boundary line between the cities of Everett and Chelsea, and it was necessary to ask the Legislature of Massachusetts for permission to change the course of that boundary line. The matter was endorsed by the Boston Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Rothwell, the president of the Chamber of Commerce, appeared in favor of it.

The Coke Company is not the Boston Gas Company which supplies the citizens of Quincy with gas, but is a private company which manufactures coke.

On both of these foregoing matters, I appeared before the committees at hearings specially advertised for the purpose of giving the parties an opportunity to be heard. I entered my appearance at the State House on these matters as does every other attorney who appears before any committee on any matter and the records at the State House to which my opponent refers show my appearance as an attorney and not as "Legislative Agent."

It is true that I was chairman of the committee of the Legislature which reported the "Sliding Scale Act," so-called, which reduced the price of gas in Boston from one dollar to eighty cents and saves the gas consumers of the city of Boston a large amount of money annually. I should be glad to see a proposition similar to that apply to all the gas companies of the state because it inevitably will operate to decrease the price of gas. On this bill I followed the recommendations of Mr. James E. Cotter and Mr. Charles P. Hall, commissioners appointed by the governor to investigate and report on the advisability of its adoption. This was in 1906 and before Quincy's plant was taken over by the Boston Company.

My opponent might also have told you, which he has neglected to do, that Robert Luce of Somerville and myself also appear at hearings before committees for the Boston Chamber of Commerce on all matters affecting the interests of Massachusetts, the development of her industries and the advancement of the interests of the port of Boston. We have received no compensation and neither ask nor expect any for these services, neither are we entitled to any credit for it, because there is a duty on every one who desires to help the state and her industries and her commerce, to do what is in their power in that respect.

To you voters of Quincy I only desire to say further that so far from being in any way ashamed of these facts, I confess and I hope without conceit, that I am proud of them.

George L. Barnes.

LAND FRAUDS OF BIG EXTENT

Said to Have Been Practised In Kayak Mining Field

INDICTMENTS BY GRAND JURY

Names of Many Well Known Men Involved In Alleged Illegal Agreements With Claimants to Coal Lands In Alaska—Claims at Stake Amount to More Than 20,000 Acres and Are Valued at $200,000,000

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 5.—Federal indictments, charging conspiracy to defraud the government of more than 20,000 acres of Alaska coal lands, valued at $200,000,000, were returned by a federal grand jury against six men who control three groups of coal lands in the Kayak mining field in Alaska.

Each group represents 131 claims of 160 acres each. Those indicted are:

Raymond Brown and William L. Dunn of Spokane; Charles M. Doughton, formerly of Spokane, now of Seattle; former Mayor Harry White of Seattle, now living in Los Angeles; Charles A. MacKenzie of Seattle and Donald MacKenzie of Washington, Seattle and Alaska.

The indictments charge that the six men had an agreement with the claimants by which they were to have a half interest in the claims. This would give them more land than they were entitled to legally.

Among those who were assignees of one or more of the claimants were ex-Governor McGraw of Washington, Governor Gillett of California, Congressman McLachlin of California, Henry T. Oxnard of New York and California, president of the American Beet Sugar company, and ex-Mayor White of Seattle.

Of the six men indicted, Charles A. MacKenzie, a real estate and loan agent, is in Seattle. His cousin, Donald A. MacKenzie, is now in Washington, where he is said to be active in Alaskan affairs. Harry White was mayor of Seattle fifteen years ago. He resigned suddenly, after serving a few months. Ex-Governor McGraw died last July. The MacKenzies and the McGraw estate own the Alaskan town site of Nelson, named in honor of Senator Nelson of Minnesota.

The claims were known as the M. A. Green group. Surgeon General Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service is a claimant in this group.

It is rumored that the government purposes to cancel all the coal land filings in Alaska and release land estimated to be worth $1,000,000,000. Counsel for Charles A. MacKenzie said:

"Mr. MacKenzie has been guilty of no wrong-doing. He purchased fifteen coal claims from the original locators and violated no law in doing so."

CHOLERA SCARE IN LONDON

Germs Brought to City by Rats on Steamer From Italian Ports

London, Nov. 5.—A wave of alarm swept London when medical authorities announced that cholera germs had been brought to this city by rats. The bodies of three dead rats found in the London docks showed cholera infection.

They are believed to have been brought here on an Italian ship from the plague infected regions about Naples. All necessary precautions were taken to prevent a spread of the disease to human beings.

Lynn's Mayor Defies State Health Board In Filtration Matter

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 5.—Mayor Rich has announced that the opposition of the state board of health to the scheme of mechanical filtration will make no difference in the attitude of the administration and the plan will be carried out.

The mayor states that expert opinion has been received on the matter and is satisfied that the filtration is proper. The sum of $250,000 will be needed to put the plan into effect.

Trappers Predict Severe Winter

Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 5.—A long winter of unusual severity is predicted by the Berkshire trappers. The furry tribe has already donned its winter coat, and this, they say, points unmistakably to a prolonged siege of rigorous weather.

Suffrage Bill Turned Down

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 5.—The Vermont house of representatives refused a third reading to the bill granting equal suffrage to women that has been under consideration for two weeks, and has been given several public hearings. The bill was defeated 114 to 111.

C. F. ADAMS DISGUSTED

Chief Issue to-day to Keap Out Boston Ring

Charles Francis Adams of Lincoln, formerly of this city, who has voted the Democratic ticket, is disgusted with the party this year and writes as follows to Chairman McLeod in reply to a request for funds:

My Dear Sir: I this morning received a typewritten communication, in the nature of a circular, emanating from the Democratic State committee, and signed, among others, by you, appealing to me for a contribution to forward the Democratic cause in the present canvass.

In the second paragraph of this appeal I find the following: "We should like to call on you personally for your contribution, for we believe that you are as anxious as the committee is to administer a rebuke this year to the Republican machine."

While this is, to a certain extent, true, I am sensible also of a desire to administer an at least equal rebuke to the Democratic "machine." I, therefore, do not see my way to complying with your request for a contribtuion.

From my present point of view, though I may be wrong, there is nothing in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts which at this juncture augurs such political mischief as the existence of the present Democratic municipal machine, engineered from the Boston City Hall. I regard it as being in no single respect better or preferable to the famous Tweed ring of forty years ago in New York city. I believe it to be equally corrupt; I see every indication that it is not less far-reaching in its ambitions. Furthermore, it is manifestly much more cautious, not to say cunning, in its methods. In this respect the New York city experience for the last thirty years has manifestly not been wasted upon our astute Boston managers; as is said to have been pointedly, and with a chuckle, remarked by one well advised in that respect, after an examination: "They didn't find any of the goods on me!"

Under these circumstances, and feeling as I do on this subject, I think you cannot but appreciate the cause of my refusal to comply with your request.

My intention, in the present campaign, is to vote for Governor Draper, of whose public course I fully approve. Personally, I have a high respect for Mr. Foss, and entiely sympathize with him in his views on reciprocity, tariff, etc. Nevertheless, the chief issue to my mind in the present State campaign is to do everything possible to prevent the Boston municipal ring from securing a footing in the State House.

Regretting that this reply should be so much the reverse of what you expected, I have only to add that, should you care so to do, you are entirely at liberty to make it public. I remain, etc.

Charles Francis Adams.

Fred J. MacLeod, Esq., Democratic State Committee, 14 Beacon street, Boston, Mass.

COOMBS APPEALS TO REPUBLICANS.

Republicans of Quincy:—Please let me have your attention for a moment. The Democrats have nominated me for the State Senate, and will support me, not merely because I am a Democrat, but because I served them and YOU faithfully in the Legislature, because I was born and bred in Quincy, educated in her schools, and am doing business among you and with you.

If you will consider the facts, indisputable and undenied, which I have charged against my opponent, namely, that since leaving the Legislature he has accepted employment as a lobbyist from the Coke and Gas company, the concern which supplies gas to the people of Quincy at $1.50 and to Milton through the same pipes at 80 cents, and that he has appeared in the same capacity for a concern that sells fire crackers to oppose the "Safe and Sane Fourth of July bill," and was paid $600 for doing so by the fire cracker concern, YOU also, I think, will vote for me. In a situation like this a party label must make way for the facts.

I am under no possible obligation to any corporation. If elected, I promise you, Republicans, as well as my Democratic and Socialist friends and all others who may be concerned, that I shall do my utmost to extirpate the Lobby, root and branch, from our State House, and that in all things I shall have an eye single to your legitimate interests. The sentiment in the other parts of the district seems to be with me. Will you stand by me? If you do, my election is assured.

Rednor P. Coombs.

BRIEFS

St. Chrysostom's choir is preparing for an entertainment to be given on Nov. 16.

The house of George Bennett on Newbury avenue is being altered over into a two-family residence.

Mrs. Elva J. Paine, who was burned to death at Green Hill, Hull, on Monday night, was mother of Thaddeus M. Paine of this city.

H. Houghton Schumacher of this city a student at the Harvard Theological school is to preach on Sunday morning at First church.

The Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's parish holds a business meeting on Wednesday afternoon at half past two in the parish rooms. The Guild is to serve a supper on Thursday evening.

Mr. Harold Wilder and family have moved from their attractive home on Glover avenue to a recently remodelled apartment on Faxon road.

Galahad club of Christ church is to have a social next Thursday evening.

Rev. Lyman B. Weeks of Ashmont will preach at the Universalist church on Sunday morning.

The meeting of the Boys' club of Christ church on Wednesday will be a game night.

A special service and holy communion is to be held at St. Chrysostom's church Sunday morning at half past nine for members of the Girls' Friendly society.

Lois M. Kendall has won her class numbers on the golf team at Wellesley, and, as the best player in the Sophomore class has been selected to play the best player in the Junior class, the winner to go against the best player in the Senior class on the annual field day.

For the convenience of Quincy people E. J. Murphy the druggist is receiving subscriptions to the Civic Pageant to be given by the Boston—1915 committee.

Box 25, at the corner of Canal and Newcomb streets, was pulled at 2.30 yesterday afternoon for a slight fire in the little store owned by Antonio Petta on Canal street. An oil heater which was in the rear part of the store blazed up and scared the keeper of the store. The fire was extinguished before the fire department arrived.

Rev. Carlton P. Mills, first rector of St. Chrysostom's church, and for ten years pastor, is to preach Sunday morning at the church. He will doubtless receive a cordial welcome from his former parishioners.

The annual meeting of the Anti-Tuberculosis Association is to be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 8, at the office of its president Henry M. Faxon, 17 Granite street. Any person can become a member by contributing annually to the funds of the Association and any one interested in the work is invited to attend the meeting.

Mrs. John Kelley of Billings street is slowly recuperating from her recent accident, which her numerous friends throughout Quincy will be glad to hear.

The Junior Laymen of First church are preparing for a vaudeville entertainment to be given late in December under the direction of Mr. Emery L. Crane.

BUTLER AMES
Congressman Who Seeks to Succeed Senator Lodge

ASKS LODGE TO WITHDRAW

Ames Says Action Would Save Draper and His Party

Boston, Nov. 5.—Congressman Butler Ames, in an open letter addressed to Senator Lodge last night, says:

"The re-election, not only of our governor, but of the whole state ticket is in great jeopardy owing to the opposition of the voters generally to your re-election to the United States senate and to your continued control of the party's machinery.

"In order that our governor may be saved from impending defeat, I suggest that you remove this issue by at once publicly pledging the voters of Massachusetts that you will not be a candidate for re-election."

Mr. Lodge, when shown the letter, declared that he had nothing to say concerning it.

AGED BRIDE FREE OF CONSERVATOR

Can Now Do as She Wishes With Her Large Estate

Hartford, Nov. 5.—By virtue of a decision handed down by the Connecticut supreme court Mrs. Lucinda M. C. Treat Goddard, 72 years old, is free of her conservator and is at liberty to live as wife of Charles M. Goddard, the 21-year-old Yale law student, who married her two years ago.

Moreover, she can do as she wishes with her large estate, and since her only relative is her son, Edward Treat, who has kept her in legal trouble for over a year, it is likely that the young husband will fall heir to his wife's entire fortune. She is given possession of her own property and the Connecticut Trust company is removed as conservator.

Mrs. Goddard's son claimed that his mother's mind was unsound, and he was fearful that she would squander her property and come to want.

CZAR GUEST OF KAISER

International Politics of Importance Being Discussed by Rulers

Berlin, Nov. 5.—A royal political conference of international importance was held by Emperor William and Czar Nicholas of Russia. The czar arrived at Potsdam yesterday and was met with a ceremonious welcome. Troops and secret agents filled the streets. About the railroad station the soldiers were massed so thickly that spectators were unable to get within eyesight of the royal guest.

Emperor William met the czar, and both were quickly driven to the palace. The streets through which the carriage passed were banked with soldiers with uncovered arms.

FALL RIVER'S DEATH RATE

Census Bureau Insists That It Is Highest of American Cities

Washington, Nov. 5.—Census Director Durand issued a statement sustaining the bureau figures placing the death rate of Fall River, Mass., at 19.1 per 1000 inhabitants.

This was the highest of all American cities, and exception was taken by the Fall River board of health. Mr. Durand attributes the high rate to the unusual proportion of deaths among children.

Recognition For Portugal?

London, Nov. 5.—The Lisbon correspondent of The Times says he is informed on the highest authority that the British, American, French, German, Spanish and Italian ministers have been authorized to recognize the republic as soon as the constitution is voted after the elections.

Prince Hatzfeldt Dead

London, Nov. 5.—Prince Francis Hatzfeldt-Wildenburg died here. He was born in 1853 and in 1889 married Clara Huntington, adopted daughter of the late Collis P. Huntington, whose early home was in Detroit.

is not seeking a political "soldier of fortune" to link his name with the names of Greenhalge, Wolcott, Russell, Douglas, Bates, Guild and Draper! Massachusetts stops and hesitates. Her history is precious; her record is proud; she is not ashamed of her past; she must not be ashamed of her future. She has no use for the soup kitchen of England or the bread line of Paris!

How many concerns are in the blower business which you do not control, Mr. Foss? Do you not control at least eighty per cent of the business; three out of four concerns doing business under various names? Tell the people how a bid for work is made. Your three concerns all bid, do they not? Each knows the bid of the other? Heads you win! Tails I lose almost every time! Yet you are crying out against high prices—against monopolies and restraint of trade, and your cartoonists are filling the public press with appealing pictures decrying the very sort of thing you yourself are doing. Massachusetts fears the demagogue allied with corporations with millions of watered stock. She fears the bleating of the man who appears as the wolf in sheep's clothing, taking advantage of every appeal to our citizens.

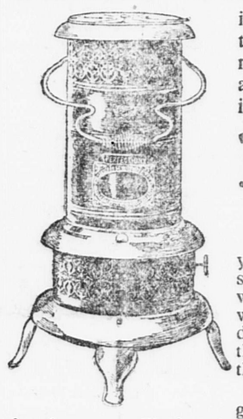

Eugene N. Foss the banker, the speculator, the railroad trust magnate, the employer of non-union labor, the employer of labor now on strike, he of many executive committees, he of the beef trust, he of the stock yards, and the stock ticker, he of rapid transit, comes before you to tell you of your hardships, to make you think America is trust ridden and he will relieve your burdens.

If beef is high remember Eugene N. Foss's interest in the beef. Would Eugene N. Foss complain about the high cost of beef if he did not want your vote? No, and you know it!

The citizen of Great Britain has on the average $25 in the savings bank, while the citizen of Massachusetts has $240. The whole of Great Britain has in her savings banks only three hundred more millions than the whole of Massachusetts, while our population is 3,336,416 and her population more than forty-five million. Mr. Foss does not dare tell you the cost of living is high everywhere, and the price of wages is higher here than everywhere else.

The Republican party can and will make what tariff revision is necessary and wise. But Foss would have you turn to him with his allied interests. He is the Moses! He of the trusts; he, backed by the Boston machine; he will fix the great tariff for you when he is governor. This net carefully spun by skilful politicians must be brushed aside. The real Eugene N. Foss stands before you with mask torn off—a political "soldier of fortune" masquerading behind issues which he himself cannot explain, stirring the broth of discontent as he flies from city to city leaving no remedy save himself and his political heelers. Foss the man of the trusts; the man of two parties; the man of the Boston Machine; the man of selfish ambition.

You Can Work Near a Window

you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Quincy Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, don't wait to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in Quincy. Here is the advice of a Quincy citizen who cured yourself.

Charles Somers, 17 Newcomb Place, Quincy, Mass., says: "It is a pleasure for me to make known to other kidney sufferers the benefit I received from using Doan's Kidney Pills. I had lame back, caused by a spell of weak kidneys for about two years. I could get no relief from the many remedies I tried and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply at Adams' Drug Store. Before long this remedy completely cured me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Biliousness

"I have used your valuable Cascarets and I find them perfect. Couldn't do without them. I have used them for some time for indigestion and biliousness and am now completely cured. Recommend them to everyone. Once tried, you will never be without them in the family."—Edward A. Marx, Albany, N.Y.

VESSELS HANG CLOSE TO PORT

Skippers Fear to Venture to Sea In Hurricane

STORM COVERS WIDE AREA

Damage at Boston and Plymouth Amounts to Thousands of Dollars In Each Place—One Vessel Tries to Round Cape Cod, but Puts Into Provincetown Harbor For Shelter—New England Gets Good Soaking

Boston, Nov. 5.—Tearing along up the coast with almost the force of a mid-winter hurricane a fifty-mile-an-hour nor'easter set mountainous seas running yesterday and last night coastwise shipping hugged ports from Maryland to New Brunswick.

Locally the storm was accompanied by what was almost a tidal wave which caused thousands of dollars' worth of damage to shipping and shore property.

Not one of the steamers in port put out to sea yesterday. The Portland, Bath and Gloucester boats omitted their trips, all remaining at their respective terminals at the other ends of the trips.

But one vessel tried to round Cape Cod, the Maine line steamer North Star, New York for Portland. After being battered about and having her decks swept by terrific seas she ran to Provincetown harbor for shelter.

Steamer Persian, which sailed from here Thursday evening for Philadelphia, and the Norwegian collier Christian Knudsen, for Louisburg, reached the lower harbor, where they poked their nose into a storm which drove them to anchorage at quarantine to await clearing weather.

Yesterday's arrivals were confined to the steamers City of Memphis, from Savannah; Grecian, from Philadelphia, and Camden, from Bangor.

Driving rainstorms prevailed all over New England. In the central states a heavy snow storm impeded train travel, caused several wrecks and a tangle of wires which crippled the telephone and telegraph service.

At Plymouth the gale, blowing at a rate of sixty miles an hour, drove the waves as high as Sandwich street, a high water mark, and did thousands of dollars' worth of damage to dories, small craft and fishermen's property.

At Gloucester nets were swept away and great damage done to rigging and sails. The shore from Cape Ann to Cape Cod was strewn with lobster pots thrown up by the violent seas.

Pennsylvania in spots was under twenty-one inches of snow, while in Binghampton, N. Y., a blanket of white lay eighteen inches deep. In Baltimore the wind raised ructions on Haglethorpe field, blowing down the tents and wrecking ten of the aeroplanes.

SHOE FIRM TO MOVE

Lasters Think They See a Plot, So They Go on Strike

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 5.—Forty lasters employed in the factory of the John H. Cross Shoe company struck because, they allege, they have learned that the company officials have circulated lelitters among the other shoe manufacturers of Lynn asking that no employe of the Cross company be given employment in any Lynn shoe shop.

The John H. Cross company is finishing its work in Lynn and before the new year intends to move its operations to a new factory in Cambridge. The strikers allege that the company wishes to transfer its Lynn operatives to Cambridge and for that purpose has endeavored to prevent its employes from securing work in any other Lynn shops.

ADMITS HIS GUILT

Wenham's Tax Collector Acknowledges Stealing From Town

Salem, Mass., Nov. 5.—Fred P. Stanton, formerly tax collector of Wenham, who was indicted on forty-four counts of larceny involving $5000, retracted his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to two counts when he appeared in the superior court here.

Stanton is alleged to have taken the $5000 from the town while acting as its tax collector. Petitions were presented asking that sentence be postponed until next January, but it was ruled that he be called for sentence Nov. 9. Stanton was tax collector for Wenham for many years and was always active in the affairs of the town.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Rats Put Side Combs Out of Business—Hubbites Still Permitted to Wear Protruding Hatpins—Best Wishes of Boston Newspaper Workers Go to Robert L. O'Brien in His New Work—Dr. George Kerschensteiner to Tell New Englanders How Munich Prepares Its Young People for Life Work—Women's Reasons at Lowell were "Because" but They Got a Respectful Hearing.

After some years of checkered fortunes the Boston Herald is once more in the field of active journalism, under the expert guidance of one of Boston's ablest and most experienced newspaper men, and with a financial reorganization which should insure for it its share of prosperity and success. One is always disappointed to see a newspaper of the standing and character of the Boston Herald go to the wall, and it is, therefore, with sincere good wishes that the citizens and fellow newspaper men welcome the Herald back to its accustomed place in the forefront of clean, virile journalism. Its present editor, Robert L. O'Brien, has been for many years connected with the Boston Transcript, and brings a wealth of valuable training to his new work.

Rats are threatening the comb industry, which has heretofore been a flourishing business in the vicinity of Boston. Not the four-legged kind, however, but the wads of curled hair that women have been wearing on their heads. Previous to the rage for puffs, curls and the like, the comb manufacturers who are mostly located in central Massachusetts, had a lively time keeping up with the demand for side and back combs, but now, they claim, even the factory girls, who are working on short time, insist on following the fashion, though this threatens to deprive them of their daily bread.

Feminine Boston was granted another respite when the City Council at a recent meeting decided, in the absence of Councilman Hale, indefinitely to postpone action upon his bill for the restriction of hatpins. Mr. Hale has been agitating the question of the feminine necessities for some time, maintaining that the dangerous point was reached when the pin extended more than one-half inch beyond the width of a woman's hat. Basing her opinion upon an ugly gash which she recently witnessed on the otherwise charming face of a friend, the Boston girl quite agrees with Mr. Hale that it is time something should be done to protect the public at large. A young man at the Amherst-Harvard football game leaned slightly sidewise toward his lady companion, in order to watch an exciting play. He retreated suddenly under pressure of four sharp reminders which projected in a cluster from the turned up side of the lady's hat. It is needless to say that for the time being he lost all interest in the game, and was about the maddest man in Cambridge. The suggestion comes from a local editor that women be allowed to please themselves as to the length of their hatpins, but that they be covered with cork tips. The hatpin in and for itself is a necessary article, both for utility and for protection against masculine offenders, but let us have some regard for the poor individual who needs both eyes in his business.

After a week of becauses at Lowell the suffragist women returned to Boston with their reasons and their yellow "Votes for Women" banners, satisfied that they had stirred up an interest in the most conservative of New England mill towns. Seven labor unions listened attentively to their pleas. Several of these, including the aristocratic plumbers' union, made a special request for speakers. Six hundred men on the old South Common, where orators and ranters have more than once been greeted with cabbages and bad eggs, made up as attentive an audience as any in the fashionable precincts of Belvidere. Philip Snowden, M. P., delighted his hearers as he predicted the immediate victory of the suffrage bill in the House of Commons. Thereafter the conventioners departed to their homes and work in connection with the election began. The good old Bay State is likely ere long to become accustomed to the woman campaign speaker. At Salem Mrs. Franklin H. Wentworth has taken the stump in behalf of her husband, a candidate for the legislature. In the same part of Essex County, Representative W. H. O'Brien, now running for Congress, gets the support of suffrage women which is his due by reason of his spirited advocacy of their cause at the Statehouse. Four leading politicians of Beverly heard with surprise that Miss Margaret Foley, suffragist of Boston, in Mr. O'Brien's interest was haranguing the employees of the big shoe machinery trust as they came from the mill doors. They hastened to the spot and remained there, respectful and attentive until she had finished. Though non-committal, as befits politicians, one of them observed that she put up a good argument. And some suffrage advocates there are who would like to go out into the Fifth Middlesex and lend a helping hand to young Roger Sherman Hoar, of honored lineage and energetic personality.

The United States in general and Boston in particular is being honored by the presence in this country of the noted German educator, Dr. George Kerschensteiner, Superintendent of Schools of Munich, Bavaria. Dr. Kerschensteiner is here as the guest of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, and is visiting Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, New York and Boston, giving lectures and examining the educational conditions in the various communities. He will be an important factor in the forthcoming convention of the Society, and also in the Vocational Guidance Congress which takes place in the same week, Nov. 14-19, in Boston. What he has to say on the subject of "Continuation Schools of Germany" will be listened to with intense interest.

The widely divergent opinions which a public service corporation constantly faces was illustrated recently. A professional man was inspecting the new East Cambridge aqueduct which is in process of construction by the Boston Elevated Railway Company as part of its plans for relieving congestion and extending the rapid transit facilities which are constantly more in demand. A workman who saw him looking at the interesting processes remarked: "That company sure spends a lot of money! You see they've got so much that they don't know what to do with it, so they just builds bridges, and tunnels, and all that. Now, sir, there's no need of that bridge at all, you know." Ethel Angier.

BRIEFS

Henry Blake Taplin of Hale house, Boston, is to be the speaker Sunday evening at the meeting of the Young People's Religious union of First church and there will also be special music by the young people's choir.

Paul Revere W. R. C. will have its annual inspection on Tuesday afternoon at G. A. R. hall, followed by a supper for the members after which there will be a whist party.

Russell Harding of Weymouth has resigned his position at the George E Keith Co. factory to accept a position at the station of the Quincy Electric Co.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Charitable society is to be held on Monday afternoon at the clubhouse of the Quincy Women's club.

The jury is out at the Superior court at Dedham in the case of Amos L. Merritt of Quincy vs. Ralph W. Coleman of Andover, an action of contract to recover the price of an ulster, coat and vest sold the defendant at Quincy in 1902.

In spite of the severe storm yesterday there was a large representation of Quincy teachers at the Norfolk County teachers convention which was held in Ford hall, Boston.

An important meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening. There are several important orders upon which committees will report.

Commissioner Bainbridge advertised yesterday for bids for furnishing water pipe.

A charities conference is to be held Tuesday morning, Nov. 15, at 10.30 at the clubhouse of the Quincy Women's club, Presidents hill. Miss Alice Higgins, general secretary of Associated Charities, Boston, will speak on "Why do organized charities need a paid secretary?" It is an open meeting and the public is invited to attend.

Unusual interest is being taken in the next meeting of the Men's club of Christ church on Monday evening for the subject to be discussed is "The Annexation of Quincy to Boston." Two prominent citizens are to speak on the question, Col. Henry L. Kincaide, Quincy's most prominent business man and Hon. Russell A. Sears, a former mayor and lawyer of note. Both men are much in the public eye, standing for progress and there should be a large attendance at the meeting.

Although the week night special service at the Hall Place M. E. church have closed, an evangelistic service will be held Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Alexander's song books are still being used at these serivces and enjoyed.

Friends of John Houghton, who has been suffering from rhuematism and unable to work, are giving a whist party for his benefit on Friday evening at Odd Fellows hall, Wollaston.

BRIEFS

Walter H. Cobb, the local Herald correspondent who has been on the sick list for the past two weeks, is on the rapid road to recovery. He is able to be out for a few hours on pleasant days.

Probate court for Norfolk county will be held in Quincy next Wednesday. No session was held in Quincy last month as the second Wednesday was a holiday.

A short meeting of the Boston 1915 committee was held last evening, but owing to the stormy weather the attendance was not large.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Point church cleared $65 on the husking bee, which was held at the home of H. H. I. Smith in Weymouth Heights last week.

Mr. John J. Sherman, father of Dr. C. T. Sherman, is more comfortable than he was early in the week. Mr. Sherman has been ill for several weeks.

Mr. W. C. Smith will speak to the older boys of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon; subject: "The Boy in his Leisure Moments."

At the meeting of Bourne lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U., at Hyde Park this week an umbrella was presented to Gustave Spregel of Quincy.

At Probate Court this week Bridget Kilmartin was appointed executrix of the will of John Kilmartin late of Quincy; and Benjamin H. Barlow, administrator of estate of Elisha J. Barlow late of Quincy.

The subject of Rev. G. W. Palmgren on Sunday evening will be "Card playing, Sunday newspapers, etc;" the second in a series of four special addresses.

Twenty-four additional boxes will soon be installed in the fire alarm circuit.

Among the recent arrivals at the Greenleaf are the following: C. H. Sutgens, New York City; B. O'Meach, Jr., Newark, N. J.; W. W. Blake, Worcester; J. R. Jewett, Boston, and F. A. Fallenbaugh, Boston.

Turned umbrellas were not a novelty during Friday's northeaster. In fact an umbrella was almost useless.

Mrs. Charles H. Hayden of 9 Hancock court is confined to her home with illness.

It seems if this is an entirely gratuitous anxiety about the "extinction of the name of Quincy" following the death of Josiah Phillips Quincy, father of the former mayor of Boston. The present Quincy is only 51 years old, and has a stepson to whom he might easily give his name.—Looker-On in Record.

The union Thanksgiving services of the Wollaston churches will be held at five o'clock on Thanksgiving afternoon in the Wollaston Unitarian church. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Wesley Wiggins of the Wollaston Methodist church.

Final arrangements are being completed for "the college fair" to be held at Atlantic, Nov. 9th and 10th.

There will be special music by a male quartet at the Sunday evening service of the First United Presbyterian church.

BOSTON THEATRE.

"The Speckled Band," an Adventure of Sherlock Holmes by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle enters into its fourth successful week at the Boston theatre Monday night. Additional interest has been shown in this play through Mr. Gillette's revival of Sherlock Holmes at the Hollis Street theatre and many who witnessed the latter's performance have also witnessed the performance of "The Speckled Band." Theatregoer's love of melodrama shows no signs of diminution. It is sometime since we have seen so thrilling a piece of this class or one better played. There are many intense highly dramatic scenes. The interest is aroused at the beginning and sustained to the dramatic climax at the end and there is not a dull moment in the three acts of this sensational drama.

On Sunday evening (Nov. 13) John Philip Sousa and his Band will give a concert at the Boston theatre. A delightful evening's entertainment is promised.

BROTHERS BURNED TO DEATH

Little Fellows Had Built Bonfire In Cellar of Playmate's Home

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 5.—Because they built a small bonfire in the cellar of the home of George C. Knox, Harry and Robert Wheeler, aged 8 and 6 years, are dead, and William Knox, aged 10, son of the owner of the house, is suffering from such severe burns that his condition is critical. The three youngsters were playing house and wanted to see how it would seem to have a fire.

The cellar was filled with empty boxes and excelsior and the boys went there to play. By using the wall of the house as one side, they had built up a small room, and inside this inclosure the bodies of the two boys were found, lying side by side. Their clothing had been burned off.

THE TICKET.

Forty-eight names will appear on the Quincy ballots at the State election of Tuesday, and to mark a complete ticket 15 crosses should be used. There was a small but pleasant gathering of neighbors and friends at the home of Mr and Mrs. Daniel Scouler, Jr., Madison avenue, on Tuesday afternoon to witness the christening of their infant daughter, Charlotte Germain. Rev. Leon H. Austin of the Roslindale Congregational church gave the baby her name and Rev. Charles P. Marshall of the Quincy Point church offered a brief prayer. At the close of the simple service, Rev. L. H. Austin pronounced the benediction. Little Charlotte was christened in a hand-embroidered robe which has been passed down through several generations on the paternal side. Following the christening, a light collation was served. Among those present were: Rev. Leon H. Austin and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Charles P. Marshall and daughter Marion, Dr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bushnell, Mrs. Merton H. Seller, Miss Tirrell, Mrs. Robert Sinclair, Mrs. Charles Carter and son Charles, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. S. M. Otis, Mrs. J. Jones and the members of the family.

Gunboat Princeton and Her Commander Ready to Riddle Valladares' Palace If Foreigners Are Molested—Governor's Seizure of Amapala May Cause United States to Interfere—Great Britain Much Interested

New Orleans, Nov. 5.—The United States gunboat Princeton, at anchor off Amapala, Honduras, is cleared for action. Its guns are trained upon the governor's residence, now occupied by General Jose Valladares, leader of the revolt against the Davila government. This news is contained in a special cable dispatch received from San Salvador.

The dispatch states that Valladares insulted the American consular agent at Amapala, eGorge Schmuck, and threatened to shoot up his residence.

Immediately upon being notified of this, Commander Hayes of the Princeton prepared his warship for action. He sent word to the noted revolutionist that if foreigners were molested he would shoot the governor's palace full of holes. The dispatch adds that chaos reigns throughout the western portion of Honduras and that inflammatory manifestos are being circulated by General Valladares and his followers.

Revolt May Involve England

Washington, Nov. 5.—General Valladares' defiance of President Davila of Guatemala is likely to postpone the loan which a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan has been ready to make. His seizure of Amapala may make necessary interference by the United States, and even lead to complications with Great Britain, which government is now looking to the United States to straighten out the bonded debt of Honduras.

The United States government has taken up this debt among bankers, agreeing to pay it, in return for which Honduras is to issue bonds guaranteed by the customs and turn them over to the bankers. This government is to supervise the collection of the Honduran customs.

Great Britain has a bonded debt of $12,000,000 to collect. It was chiefly to satisfy the British claim that these arrangements were made, that government being willing to leave the entire question to this country. The action of Valladares has now shown that Davila has no power to force Honduras to execute his part of the agreement.

The gunboat Yorktown has been ordered to join the Princeton.

Martial law has been declared in Honduras, the port of Amapala has been closed and the entire island declared in a state of siege. There are few Americans resident on the island, but there is much American-owned property there.

Reports from Nicaragua say that the revolutionary movement begun by Valladares is backed by the principal opposition leaders, which include Dr. Policarpo Bonilla, who controls the Honduran congress, and erstwhile president of Honduras, General Guiterrez, and General Bustillo.

Noted for his hatred of foreigners, Valladares recently publicly announced that he had named his dog "Taft," in order to show his contempt for the American government.

SARNI GETS EIGHT YEARS

Owner of Boston Cafe Sentenced For Killing a Customer

Boston, Nov. 5.—Carmine Sarni, 27, was sentenced to a term of not less than eight nor more than twelve years in the state prison for the killing of Salvatore Rizzo.

Sarni was the owner of a cafe at 19½ Fleet street to which Rizzo with some companions went. They asked for wine and were requested by Sarni, who had no license to sell liquor, to keep the bottle under the table. Rizzo, however, desired the bottle to be kept on top of the table. In the dispute which followed Sarni shot and killed Rizzo.

THOMPSON FOUND GUILTY

San Francisco Doctor Buries Girl In Cellar After Killing Her

San Francisco, Nov. 5.—Dr. Robert Thompson, formerly of Boston, charged with the murder of Eva Swan, was found guilty last night of murder in the second degree.

The body of Miss Swan, who died from an operation, was found two months ago buried under the basement floor of a deserted cottage.

QUINCY PEOPLE ON STATE PAY ROLL

Largest Number Employed in Metroplitan Park, Water and Sewer Departments

Women Near Top in Point of Salary

The highest salary paid by the commonwealth goes to the Governor who receives $8,000. The Lieutenant Governor gets but $2000 unless he is called upon to fill the position of the higher executive. The Secretary, Treasurer, Attorney General and the Auditor receive $5000 each. The bank commissioner, the head of the Insurance department, the Tax Commissioner, the State Forester, the Secretary of the State Board of Health, the Chairman of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, the Chairman of the Massachusetts Highway Commission, the two Railroad Commissioners each receive $5000 a year. The Commissioner of the State Board of Education receives $5,500 and the Head of the State Board of Insanity, the Chief Engineer of the Water Works department and the Chairman of the Railroad Commission get $5000 each.

Quincy has 112 men and women whose names are known on the payroll of the State, beside a number of others employed in hospitals, asylums and other State institutions whose names could not be ascertained. All the employees and officials are well paid. Arthur E. Linnell chief clerk in the Insurance department receives the highest salary of the residents of Quincy employed by the state, namely $2000. The lowest paid men are laborers on the parkways who get $2 a day. The woman receiving the highest salary is Miss Mary E. Dewson superintendent of the Industrial School for girls in Boston. Her salary is $1700. Miss Lillian A. Hicks, an instructor at Bridgewater Normal school receives $1,600.

The majority of the men and women are employed by the Metropolitan Park Commission and the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Commission. There are seven clerks, two visitors, one messenger, one bookkeeper, one marine engineer, one employee in the department of the Sergeant at Arms, two teachers, one inspector, three examiners and one nurse. The nurses and attendants whose names are not konwn would probably bring the total number up to 125. Their wages range

Brass Bed Prices Are Astonishing

"Why really" said a dear old lady to us last week. "I can buy one of these splendid new Brass Beds for less than half the prices we used to pay."

It is true that some of our fall bed prices are astonishing.

You can't form much idea of the saving we can make for you in this department until you see the beds themselves—but they're worth seeing.

Full size Brass Beds $11.49, $12.48, $13.75, $15.50, $19.98, $23.50, $25, $29.50, $35, $41.50, $45, $49.50 and $55.

SCANDINAVIAN REPUBLICANS

Enthusiastic for Election of Draper and Ticket

A largely attended rally of the Scandinavian Republican club was held Saturday evening at Union hall. Councilman Charles A. Ericson presided, and all the local candidates for State offices were present.

Candidate Barnes for the Senate was the first speaker and he took occasion to set himself right on some of the statements that had been made by his opponent. He particularly denied that he was a paid lobbyist.

Candidates William R. Thomas and Louis F. R. Langelier, for representatives, defended their records of the past two years, and told how they had voted on the important labor measures that had come up for enactment. Both claimed that they had not pledged themselves either for or against Lodge. Other speakers were Edward J. Sandberg, William Gelotte and A. N. LaBrecque all of whom are seeking nominations as Councilmen at the coming municipal caucuses. All the speakers urged their hearers to use their efforts to get out a large vote on Tuesday and to vote the Republican ticket from top to bottom.

QUINCY'S VOTING STRENGTH.

The voting strength of the city this year is 6,006, which is over 300 more than in 1908 and 1909, and nearly 800 more than in 1907, which is quite a factor in estimating the result. Here are the figures:

GUILD RECALLS A FEW FACTS

Republicans Have Done More Than Democrats for Quincy

Ex-Gov. Guild has sent the following letter to J. Mitchel Galvin the Republican candidate for Congress in this district, which gives him hearty endorsement:

Office of Commercial Bulletin, Curtis Guild & Co., Publishers,
Boston Nov. 4, 1910.

Dear Mitchel: I am sorry it was impossible to secure the hall in Quincy tonight. If any city would be especially hard hit by Democratic success, it is Quincy.

COPYRIGHT, BY CHICKERING.

CURTIS GUILD, JR.

You recollect that though the Democracy when permitted to change the tariff in 1892, took great care of the marble workers of Tennessee, they struck straight at wages in Quincy by cutting off half the protection on dressed granite for the benefit of foreign workers.

That same Democratic tariff in 1892, in order to please Texas, put a higher duty on beef than the present Republican duty, which is trivial and inoperative.

You will recall the fight made by the Democratic Senator for Texas, Senator Bailey, in the present Congress to prevent the Republicans from making hides free and reducing the duty on beef. We did both.

Good luck to you! I know no man will stand more firmly in Congress against undeserved privileges, no matter who asks it, than you will.

Cordially yours,
(Signed) Curtis Guild, Jr.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Carey was fined $5, Girido Saluiti $10, Michael Connelly $5, John J. O'Brien $5, William Workman $15, Michael Joyce $5, Andrew Hyndman $3, for drunkenness at Quincy.

Lawrence Sullivan was sentenced to three months in the house of correction for assault at Quincy.

Ralph W. Poole was arraigned for threatening to assault his wife at Weymouth. He was put under $200 bonds to keep the peace for two months.

REAL CLEANLINESS

Do You Know What It Means?

After a soap and water scrubbing you believe your house to be clean. You forget that you cannot prevent dust blowing in from the street, and that this dust contains millions and millions of disease germs which should be destroyed. Otherwise you are exposing yourself and family to innumerable contagious diseases. Such a risk no prudent housekeeper would willingly incur. There is an easy and sure way of preventing the growth of these health-destroying germs. It is the use of Carbonol—the harmless Carbolic Acid. In all household cleaning use Carbonol in the water. Sponge the furniture, rugs, carpets, draperies, with a cloth wrung out of Carbonolized water. Only a few drops are needed in each gallon of water. Use it freely in the bathroom, in the kitchen sink, and pour a few drops over the garbage. Its use will do wonders. It is clean, safe and effective and remarkably cheap.

Ants, roaches, bedbugs and all obnoxious insects can also be exterminated by a thorough use of Carbonol.

Carbonol disinfects, deoderizes, cleanses; it is an insecticide, a germicide and a detergent.

Carbonol adds nothing to the labor of housekeeping—just use it as you would soap and water. It is a liquid and can be used wherever water and soap can.

Carbonol is sold by all the leading dealers. Price 10c, 25c, 50c and 75c per bottle. If your dealer doesn't handle same, send name and address and we will send you a liberal Sample free. Write today to the Barrett Manufacturing Co. 297 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass. Nov. 7-1t

ANNEXATION TO BOSTON

Boston's Per Capita Debt Twice That of Quincy

Here are some facts and figures for the gentlemen who are to debate this evening the question of annexation of Quincy to Boston at the Men's Club of Christ church.

According to the monthly report of City Auditor Mitchell of Boston the gross funded debt of the county and city on Oct. 31, 1910, was $114,682,239.33, which shows an increase of $4,522,333.33 since Dec. 31, 1909.

The net funded debt on Oct. 31, 1910, was $74,695,024.38, which is an increase of $3,538,785.26. The city's right to borrow on Oct. 31 was $1,126,545.71.

The auditor's detailed statement of the city and county debt follows:

The total sinking funds on Oct. 31 were $39,987,214.95, an increase of $2,476,569.15 since Dec. 31, 1909.

The net funded debt of $74,695,024.38 is composed of the following items: City debt, $56,274,870.99; county debt, $2,566,160.80; Cochituate water debt, $419,974.82; and rapid transit debt, $15,434,017.77.

It will be observed that Boston's debt per capita is $83, aside from county, water and rapid transit, while Quincy's per capita debt is $56. The county, water and rapid transit debt adds nearly one-third to Boston's per capita debt, making it $110, or practically twice as large as Quincy's per capita.

BRIEFS

Arthur Innis has moved from Gay street to Bigelow street.

Rev. W. W. Dornan of Plymouth was in town today.

Probate court for Norfolk county will be held in Quincy on Wednesday.

J. F. Gleason, former superintendent of the Water department, is in town for a few days.

George L. Gill club is arranging for a dance to be held Nov. 30 at Electa hall.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Charitable society was held this afternoon at the Women's clubhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald of Bigelow street were guests on Sunday of Mrs. McDonald's parents at Worcester.

Many firemen from out of town are expected to attend the annual concert and ball of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association Friday evening at Music hall.

Candidate McDevitt addressed a crowd of workmen at Atlantic early this morning. He intends to make this the last day of the campaign a strenuous one.

Frederick Whitney will be the lecturer tomorrow afternoon at the Arts and Crafts meeting of the Quincy Women's club. Mrs. George W. Stone of Wollaston is to loan her fine collection of Indian baskets and there will be a social and tea.

Mayor Shea has appointed James E. Neary, of the Fore River Industrial school, as one of the delegates to the fourth annual convention of the national society for the promotion of industrial education to be held in Boston Nov. 17, 18, and 19.

The Massachusetts State Federation of Women's club is to hold its autumn meeting tomorrow in the First Baptist church, Central square, Cambridge, the hostess club being the Cantabrigia. Morning session at 10.15 box luncheon at noon and the afternoon session at 2 o'clock. Although the same day as the Quincy Women's club meeting several members are planning to go to Cambridge.

The shoe store opened in Wollaston Saturday night by the Smith Bros. was well patronized. The floral horse-shoe of good luck presented to them by William Patterson, the Wollaston florist, attracted much attention. A shoe store in Wollaston has been a long felt want, and the grades of shoes for men, women and children will undoubtedly be greatly appreciated by the people in this vicinity.

TO JAIL IN DEFAULT

No Continuances to Raise Fines for Drunkenness

Hereafter men arrested and fined for drunkenness, especially those from the Fore River district, will have to pay their fines or go to jail. It has been the custom of Judge Avery when imposing fines for drunkenness to suspend sentence to enable the parties to raise the necessary fine. In some cases the parties come to time and pay up. In many of the cases from the Fore River district the men skip before the end of the suspension, and the fine is never paid. In some cases the parties return to town later and are arrested on default warrants, but in the majority of cases the parties who skip owing fines never return.

Finding that the court is being imposed upon Judge Avery is determined to break up the practice. The new ruling went into effect this morning, and was made public when some of the men fined for drunkenness asked for time. No, said the court, the rule now is, pay or go to jail. As a result of the enforcing of this order, six men went to Dedham to work for the county for the next few days.

ACCIDENT OR SUICIDE.

The body of the unknown man found on the bank of the Weymouth Fore river at East Braintree, Saturday night, has been identified as James Welch of 21 DeWolf street, Dorchester. The body was found by the caretaker of the Wainwright estate and Medical Examiner Fraser said the man had been dead but a few hours. Just how the man came where he was is not known. He was vice president of the A. A. Rowe & Son, forwarding agents of Boston. He left home Saturday morning to go to Meeting House hill, Dorchester. It is thought that he took a car ride, and that while walking along the bank of the river slipped and fell in and was drowned. He was 32 years of age.

To the Officers and Members of the B. M. and P. I. U. of Mass.

Brothers: His excellency, Gov. Draper, read in part, the following circular from a public platform, Tremont Temple, Saturday evening, October 30, 1909:

"Your attention is called to a news item in the Boston Globe of October 19, 1909, as follows:

To the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Section has been referred a report to several Building Trades Unions that Governor Draper has awarded the contract for the rebuilding of his residence, recently damaged by fire, to a non-union Contractor."

The contractor referred to in the above item is particularly unfair to our craft for the past three years.

When a committee approached said contractor to effect a settlement, were informed that William H. Sayward, Secretary of Masters and Craftsmans Association had full power to act for him.

Governor Draper denied the truth of the circular. The records show that contract was signed and work started by a non-union contractor October 27, 1909, two days previous to his excellency's address. Eben S. Draper wonders why organized labor condemns him. The above letter is self-explanatory.

REGISTRATION

CITY OF QUINCY

For the purpose of correcting the Annual Register of voters, and of reserving evidence of qualification from persons claiming a right to vote at the coming City Election, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session in the Council Chamber in the City Hall building on the evening of

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10,

from 7.30 to 9 o'clock, also on

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 16,

from 12 M., to 10 o'clock P. M.

Every applicant for registration must appear in person before the Board. Every male applicant must present either a certificate from the Assessors, or a Tax bill or notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed a Poll Tax as a resident of the city on the first day of April last, or a certificate from the Assessors that he became a resident of the city prior to June 6, 1910. If a naturalized citizen, he must produce for inspection his papers of naturalization.

Persons who have lived in the State one year and in the city six months previous to December 6, if qualified in other respects, can be registered.

No names can be added to the registers except the names of voters examined as to their qualifications between the thirtieth day of April last and the close of registration on Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 10 o'clock P. M. The Board of Assessors will be in session at their office during the same hours.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

"All eyes are on Quincy." As goes Quincy so goes the State and Nation. Let every voter do his duty.

Although it is claimed that the cost of living is high and wage earners are unable to save as much as formerly, the report of the Boston Savings banks just issued shows that the combined deposits are $239,499,000, the largest in their history, and an increase of $7,374,000 or 3.17 per cent. compared with a year ago. Certainly the times are good when wage earners can save over seven million dollars in one year. Yes, and more because many have invested in Cooperative banks, industrial and other life insurance and in homes.

Tuesday it will be the duty of every voter to go to the polls and cast his vote for one candidate or another. To exercise his right of suffrage is not only a privilege but a duty of those who believe in a republican form of government and free institutions. Consider well the men who are nominated, look the history of the different parties over carefully, compare their records, leave out prejudice and cast your ballot as you believe is right, and you will make no mistake. If a man does that he has fulfilled his duty to the state and to himself. Nothing less can be expected of any man who accepts the privileges of our form of government and the protection offered by its institutions. A passing shower, a cold wind, a severe storm even should not detain a man from exercising his right of suffrage. The state expects that much from him. It is too lightly held by many. The lure of the forests and the desire to accomplish something long delayed on this day induces some to forget the duty they owe the state. To have a part in the conduct of affairs is given every man of legal age. Don't hold the privilege too lightly and neglect to exercise it.

DRIFT OF OPINION

The Y. M. C. A. movement owes much to the enthusiasm and the idealism of youth:

Hope is high at one and twenty,
Faith is strong and courage true;
All the world arond is beauteous.
All the sky above is blue.

A great Frenchman said the watchword to success was "audacity—always audacity." The Y. M. C. A. watchword is enthusiasm—always enthusiasm. And it succeeds.—Globe, Toronto, Canada.

In the midst of the turmoil in Massachusetts and the echoes from surrounding states, the Boston Transcript exclaims: "Happy states, that have biennial elections!"

Fact is, Vermont has been particularly pleased more than once that it doesn't have its little agony oftener than once in two years. Elections wear on the nerves here, and must be considerably more wearing in Massachusetts, where the spellbinders make them suffer far more. There is really a great deal to be said in favor of biennial elections of state officials.—Barre, Vt., Times.

WIRELESS INSTALLED.

A wireless telegraph station is being established at the Fore River Ship Building plant. The mast, which is ninety feet high, is located on the annex office building in the yard. Although not in full working order as yet a wireless message from the steamer Governor Dingley was picked up Saturday. Today work commenced moving into the new office building.

MAKARIA MEETING.

An important business meeting of the Makaria Fraternity will be held Tuesday evening, at 8 P. M. Election of officers, basket ball and bowling will be taken up. All members are requested to be present. The annual banquet will be held Wednesday, Nov. 16, C. C. Whittemore the Boston caterer, has been engaged.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The average daily attendance of the public schools of Quincy in October was 5,176, the Cranch, Lincoln and High having the best percentage. Supt. Barbour makes this report:

SKINNER—CHISHOLM.

Mr. Tom Skinner and Miss Bessie E. Chisholm both of our city were married Thursday evening, Nov. 3, at 8 o'clock at the manse, Patterson, New York, by the Rev. Alfred R. Atwood, a former pastor of the Washington St. church, Quincy. The ring ceremony was used. After a wedding trip spent in New York city and New Jersey, Mr. and Mrs. Skinner will settle at 101 Park avenue, Winthrop Highlands, where they will be at home to their friends after Dec. 1.

VISITORS ARE BOARDERS.

A Wisconsin justice has given a a hard knock to that good old adage which says that blood is thicker than water. At the same time he has opened what may be the only way to a little relief from the present burden of buying provisions.

A Milwaukee couple brought suit against two of their second cousins who had come upon them for a little visit and remained five weeks. They asked for $55 for board. The justice held that the claim was just and it had to be paid.

It was of no avail that the visiting cousins pleaded relationship. Futile was their plea that they had not agreed or expected to pay board. Alike unavailing was the fact that they had been invited to "stay longer; please do."

It is proverbially an inhospitable age. But it might seem that invited guests must still have some rights—in law if not in etiquette.

But this justice, who has evidently had experience himself, is of the opinion that the perfunctory "stay longer; please do" must not be taken too seriously. Politeness is one thing, and provisions at prevailing prices are quite another.

If the precedent set by this justice is to become general law, it must behoove all persons contemplating a visit to demand that a receipted board bill be forwarded with the invitation. —Beverly Times.

A QUESTION OF VALUE.

Hogan was playing nurse to the twins on the front porch. The twins were annoyed because each wanted exclusive possession of a solitary kitten and they were yelling.

A neighbor paused at the gate. "Well, Hogan," he asked, "what would you take for them children of yourn?"

Hogan shifted in his chair. "All the money in the wurruld couldn't buy thim," he declared. "But," he added "I wouldn't give tin cents apiece for any more like thim."—Metropolitan Magazine.

Attorney or Lobbyist?

Citizens of Quincy:

You have read the "explanation" of my opponent, George L. Barnes of Weymouth. I want to be absolutely fair in this as in all other affairs. Let us accept his own designation. The essential difference between the work of a "legislative agent" and an attorney who appears for pay to promote or oppose legislation is the difference that ordinarily exists between tweedle dee and tweedle dum. No one but a lawyer would raise such a trivial point.

The stubborn facts, in their essence and substance, remain undenied and proved. Mr. Barnes did appear for the Fire Cracker manufacturer to oppose the "Safe and Sane Fourth of July Bill" and received $600 for it. And he did appear for pay in the interests of the Gas or Coke concern.

He had a perfect right to serve corporations, but you have a perfect right to leave him at home. The entire system of lobbying is marked for swift, deserved destruction. When Mr. Barnes says that his work for the corporations in question was "practising law" he must think he is addressing feeble-minded voters. The noble science of law is practised in judicial courts and law offices; nowhere else. When practice of law embraces lobbying for corporations under any name, then Heaven preserve the Commonwealth.

ALL EYES ON QUINCY

Hull No Longer In It As an Indicator

The Salem Evening News comments editorially as follows relative to the claim "As goes Quincy so goes the State and the Nation."

Quincy has long been famous for its extensive granite quarries—a distinction that bids fair long to continue. There is also another halo to which the natives "point with pride," albeit the light thus shed does not rank very high from the standpoint of candle power. Allusion is here made to the fact that Quincy was "the terminus of the first railway built in the United States," the sole traffic being the transportation of blocks of granite from the quarries to the site of the Bunker Hill monument. But as times change and men change with them, so do communities, while retaining old distinctions, take on new relations. These may be adventitious or material, according to the operation of artificial or natural laws.

And all this leads to the reminder that time was when the town of Hull occupied a peculiar situation in the political line. "As goes Hull, so goes the state," was the familliar cry. The assertion held good for a term of years, and then, by some hocus-pocus the analogy was upset. Hull's place has been taken, if the Quincy Ledger knows what it is talking about, by Quincy.

"As goes the city, so goes the state and nation," is the Granite city's device, or it would be, were a banner to bear the municipal primacy boasted by the Ledger. The claim has been verified, the public is informed, "in every state election since 1889 and in every presidntial election since 1875. State committees of all political parties should make a note of this," observes the Ledger. "Therefore, the Quincy returns November 8 will tell who is elected that day as governor of Massachusetts." As our English cousins in parliament would say, "Hear! hear!"

After bringing this subject to the reader's attention, The News can do no less than cite last year's vote in Quincy for the rival gubernatorial candidates, as follows: Draper, 2,005; Vahey, 1913. The last time the city jumped into the Democratic column was in 1904, when Douglas was preferred to Bates.

NOVEMBER.

Alonzo Rice.

Wailing, trailing,
Clouds above and winds below,
Over earth and Heaven go,
Crying, flying;
Jays begin their noisy chatter,
Beechen-masts to idly patter
Down upon the withered leaves;
While the garden spider weaves
Tangled skeins,
Floating over the fields and lanes.

Sifting, drifting,
Mist and leaves among the breeze,
Tremble on the gentle breeze,
Brightly, lightly;
From the dim and pillaged bowers,
Fall at noon the faded flowers;
While like waifs in saddened fate,
Butterflies drift desolate,
All alone,
When the frost has claimed its own.

Creeping, cheeping,
Birds where shadows softly fleck
Mossy tree boles, dart and peck,
Gliding, hiding;
Lightly on the haggard thistle,
Sparrows gayly swing and whistle;
While upon some upright rail,
Mottled over, sits the quail,
Piping soft
To his mate in orchard croft.

Sipping, dripping,
Musky cups of mirthful wine,
Bacchus trips in dance divine,
Wheeling, reeling;
While the troop of woodland satyrs,
'Mong the dusky oak leaves clatters;
Nymphs are sporting with themselves,
Naiads gazing at themselves,
Mirrors sweet,
In the fountain at their feet.

Failing, trailing,
Muffled now, the sunlight throws
Beams upon the year that grows
Older, colder;
Something fills the atmosphere,
Far off objects seem more near,
Like the lips that have been lying
'Neath the grasses, seem replying
To our own,
In a soft and soothing tone!

POLICE ENGAGE IN A MAN HUNT

Looking For One of Desperate Pair of Foreigners

BATTLE ON CROWDED CAR

Railway Inspector Fatally Stabbed and Passengers Thrown Into Panic—Capture of Dying's Man's Assailant by Plucky Conductor After Fight In Bushes—Switch Stick Proves More Effective Weapon Than Knife

Methuen, Mass., Nov. 7.—Two foreigners, in a crowded electric car on Howe road last night, fatally stabbed Hugh McLean, an inspector of the street railway, scared the passengers into a panic, and escaped from the car into the woods.

The conductor of the car, William H. Crane, on his return trip from Haverhill, where he had taken the dying inspector, at the spot in the road where the foreigners left the car was attacked again, but captured one of the assailants, hitting him over the head with his switch stick and then carrying him unconscious in his car to Lawrence.

The police of Haverhill, Lawrence and Methuen have joined forces and are hunting the woods in the vicinity for the second foreigner. McLean, stabbed in half a dozen places, cannot survive.

The first battle between the railway men and the foreigners occurred inside the car, which was crowded to capacity. The car, due in Haverhill at 10, was running through a sparsely settled part of Methuen when the two foreigners in the centre of the car began to make trouble.

McLean, who has been an inspector on the Southern New Hampshire railway for eight years, and Crane, the conductor, started into the car to quiet them.

Their efforts seemed to arouse the disturbers more. The two railway men then essayed to put the foreigners off the car. Both immediately drew knives. The passengers scrambled clear, while the two officials tried to close with the foreigners.

McLean finally grabbed one and rushed him through the passengers huddled at one end of the car and out on the platform. Then he dropped, exhausted by loss of blood.

Interference by a cool passenger distracted the attention of the other man, enabling Crane to grapple with him and rush him out to the platform.

When the second foreigner saw that the inspector was lying on the floor of the platform he broke away and leaped from the car. Then Crane stumbled over McLean.

A hurried examination showed that McLean was badly wounded and Crane, instead of going after the foreigners, who had taken to the bushes, decided to rush his car to Haverhill to get McLean to the Hale hospital.

At the first signal box he notified the Haverill car dispatcher to have the ambulance waiting for him. When the car reached Haverhill McLean was unconscious and too weak from loss of blood to be operated upon.

After turning McLean over to the ambulance, Crane started back on his regular trip to Lawrence. On this trip also he carried a crowd of passengers.

When he arrived at the place where the foreigners had taken to the bushes he stopped the car and, taking a switch stick, jumped off, thinking he might get some trace of the two men.

Seeing a footpath into the woods, he started in a few steps, stumbling over a man who was crouched in the bushes. The man, drawing a knife, leaped at the conductor. Passengers on the car, hearing him call for help, rushed into the bushes, but only in time to see the conductor beating off the assailant with a switch stick.

A blow from the iron stick knocked the foreigner unconscious, and the passengers assisted the conductor to carry the senseless captive into the car.

Crane than ran his car through to Lawrence and turned him over to the police on duty in Lawrence square. Handcuffed to Policeman Collins, the captive, who had regained consciousness, was hurried back to Haverhill. On the same car was sent a detail of police to assist in the search for the missing foreigner.

At the Hale hospital, when the foreigner was brought to McLean, he was identified positively as the man who had stabbed him. He gave the name of Guiseppe Peti, 27 years old, of Haverhill. He was then taken to Methuen and locked up.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

As a rule the closing of a political campaign has a favorable influence upon values, because uncertainty is removed, and final results are often partially discounted in advance. This probably explains the present strength of the market. The campaign has been accompanied by a good deal of acrimony, much of which should disappear after election day. The country is tired of agitation and is entitled to a period of rest at least until the assembling of Congress a month hence.

In the general business situation there is little change. Confidence has received considerable stimulus from the fact that the farmers are having another good year, but in nearly all departments of industry there is a spirit of hesitation which still keeps the volume of business below a year ago. The question of cost continues to be the great problem in all lines of business, not only among consumers, but equally with producers and distributors. Many staple articles of commerce have shown a declining tendency which is hopeful, and suggests that the country is on the way to readjustment. Declining prices do not usually stimulate business until it is felt a settled level has been reached. As soon as this is realized we may look for more activity in trade. There is already a better feeling in the Iron trade as a result of the readjustment accomplished here. Cotton goods also have been moving more freely for similar reasons. Commodities prices are showing a declining tendency which should be encouraged, as that is the surest way of restoring equilibriums and reducing the cost of living, which is the basis of much present unrest and depression. Our foreign trade is showing better conditions as a result of lower prices for staple commodities. Curative processes are steadily at work, and if nothing occurs to cause a fresh impairment of confidence some improvement in business conditions should develop at no very distant date.

The technical postion of the stock market is strong. Securities are concentrated in strong hands, and unfavorable conditions appear to have been fuly discounted. In some respects the situation is favorable to bullish manipulation, and while the general outlook is not in all respects as satisfactory as could be desired, it would cause no surprise if the efforts on the part of the big interests for a further advance were continued now that political agitation for the present election has run its course. Nevertheless, the market situation is one that requires caution in speculative transactions. It remains to be seen what the attitude of other powerful interests will be to those now leading the market.—Henry Cleus, of New York.

SUNDAY SERVICES

SWEDISH CONGREGATIONAL.

The interest in the course of addresses delivered by Rev. G. W. Palmgren is increasing. Sunday night's sermon on "Card playing and Sunday newspapers" was listened to by a larger congregation than the one previous. Even the balcony of the church which is occupied only on special occasions had to be used to make room. The mixed chorus rendered several beautiful selections which were received appreciatively.

Rev. Palmgren said in part:

A deplorable fact that whist parties have taken the place of prayer meetings to a large extent in certain quarters. Nine-tenths of this country's gamblers have learned the "trade," not in gambler's dens, but in the homes.

The increase of interest in games and sports in the United States during the last 50 years was shown by the statement that there are today 40 weekly papers and two dailies devoted exclusively to that subject, to say nothing of the space given in all newspapers. Half a century ago only two papers published in the interests of this subject and they were monthly publications.

Card-playing is a game of chance even though it has an element of skill. A skilled player might lose to the inexperienced one, and does that at times or the latter would not continue.

The greatest calamity that can befall a boy or young man is to be taught to believe that "luck" brings success in life. Ardent, faithful and persistent work is, next to God, the only safe and right thing to depend upon. But card-playing gives this wrong view of life to young people.

Card-playing is wrong because it leads to an uncontrollable passion. Whole nights given by the Creator for better purposes, are spent in this game. Groups of card-players have been seen by the speaker in the open air when weather was cold and rainy.

It is receiving something without giving anything in return. A case was mentioned where a hard working man told the speaker that he lost $26 in a few hours on a Sunday. It would take this man about two weeks of hard labor to earn this sum. The recipient of the money got it in a dishonest way, whether the game was played fairly or not. A fortune might be squandered during a single night. A calamity to the country if this were permitted.

Relative to Sunday newspapers he said: It is unnecessary. Was excusable when first published—in the time of our Civil war. News from the battlefield was desired by anxious families. Not needed now, however.

It is largely disreputable. Subjects treated in recent issues were reviewed and found questionable morally to say the least.

It increases unnecessarily the amount of Sunday labor. 150,000 persons are robbed of their day of rest, because of the Sunday edition.

The argument that it is an "educator" does not justify its existence. The institutions of learning throughout the land are closed on Sundays. The financial gain by advertisers and readers is a spiritual loss and therefore unwise and dangerous.

"Judgment and resurrection" will be the subject next Sunday evening.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

The pastor took his morning text from the third chapter of Ephesians. The sermon was ably delivered and held the attention of a large audience.

The young people met at 4.30 for their regular service.

The communion service was held at 7.30. The sermon was on a kindred topic.

The Sunday school teachers' meeting will take place Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. The choir will meet for a rehearsal at 8 the same evening.

The regular prayer meeting service will be held Thursday evening at 7.30.

Temperance day will be observed next Sunday. The Sunday school will have a special service at 10 o'clock to take the place of the regular preaching service.

WOLLASTON M. E.

Rev. Wesley Wiggin preached to a large congregation Sunday morning from Luke 19:17. He endeavored to show what a solemn thing it was not to use the one talent because the Lord had not given the ten, or five. We too often think the one of little use in his service, yet if we were faithful in little things He would trust us with more.

Miss Bessie Wilbur was the leader at the Epworth League meeting.

Admission will be free to the annual sale of the Ladies' Aid in the vestry on Wednesday and Thursday from 4 to 10 P. M. Music both evenings by the Cecilian player. Lunch on the European plan Wednesday after 6 o'clock. On Thursday evening a chicken supper.

The regular prayer meeting will be held Friday evening at 7.45.

A Sunday School Institute will be held in Bromfield Street church, Boston, Nov. 14 and 15.

FIRST CHURCH.

There was a large attendance at the morning service at First church on Sunday special interest being taken because of the announcement that H. Houghton Schumacher of Harvard Divinity school was to preach. Mr. Schumacher is a Quincy boy with many relatives and friends here who are much interested in his progress in his chosen profession. He has been active in the Sunday school; is an officer in the Quincy Historical society, was at one time assistant at the Crane Public library and has a wide circle of friends, all l of whom showed their interest on Sunday by their presence.

Rev. E. C. Butler, pastor and Rev. C. B. Ames, assistant pastor, were in the congregation, Mr. Schumacher conducting the whole service. His text was "Keep one's self unspotted from the world," and it was a thoughtful discourse full of good points, and well delivered.

After the service Mr. Schumacher received the greetings of the parish it was the thought of those present that he had made no mistake in chosing his life's work and that his ability and earnestness of purpose would carry him forward to a most successful ministry.

The speaker at the meeting of the Young People's Religious Union in the evening was Harry E. Taplin of Hale house Boston who gave an exceedingly interesting talk.

Friday afternoon at 4.30, in the chapel, Mrs. Huntington Smith, president of the Animal Rescue League will give a talk on the work of the league under the auspices of the boys of Miss Turner's class. The talk will be illustrated with the stereopticon.

SWEDISH METHODIST.

The morning service was conducted by the pastor, who took his theme from the first book of Moses. Sunday school was conducted by Mr. William Gelotte.

At the evening service the young men's chorus contributed to the enjoyment of the meeting, and Miss Olga Olson sang two solos very expressively.

The Epworth League meeting was in charge of Mrs. Carlmark.

The leader and stewards meeting will be held at 7.30 this evening. No other services will be held in the church this week.

Wednesday evening all members of the committee will meet in Union hall to make final arrangements and do the decorating for the bazaar, which will be held Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon and evening. The doors will open at 3 and 7.

CALVARY BAPTIST.

Yesterday was a good day in the church. Large audiences were present at all the services and the Sunday school session was well attended.

In the morning the pastor took for his topic: "Our supreme duty to the church, love for God, and His work here on earth, winning souls and helping our fellowmen." The ladies' quartet sang "In the cross of Christ I glory."

The second meeting of the Christian Endeavor society was largely attended, and was an inspiring service in every way.

The pastor delivered the first of a series of seven addresses on "Young Men" in the evening. The subject was: "A young man's companions and their influence." The pastor considered books and the like companions second in importance only to other young men and women. "Face to Face" was very well rendered by Miss Blodwen Walters.

The Bible Study class will meet at the home of Robert Farquhar, 28 Arthur street, Tuesday evening, at 7.30.

The regular prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7.30.

The Ladies' Mission circle will meet with Mrs. Davis at the parsonage on Friday afternoon at 2.30.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

All Saint's day was observed Sunday at all the services. In the morning the pastor preached on the theme "The gospel is preached from the Mount of Blessedness." Special music was rendered by the choir.

In the evening a Reformation service was held. The pastor spoke on the life of Savonarola, one of the greatest forerunners to the Reformation. Fritz Swanson sang a solo very acceptably.

The Young People's society will go to North Easton on Tuesday evening and present a musical and literary program before the young people of the church of that town.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet with Mrs. Andrew Johnson, Gothland street, Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The Sunday school teachers will meet in the church Thursday evening.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS
FOR BUSINESS GIRLS

There is no safer investment in the way of a Christmas present for any woman, young or old, than a scarf that may be used for afternoon and evening wear. Scarfs are the direct outcome of the vogue for tunics, fichus, berthas and draped skirts that have invaded the fashions this winter. One scarf can serve a number of purposes. It can be used as fichu on a house gown or worn as a shoulder cape under the evening cloak or adapted to serve as a headdress.

An Ivory Toilet Set.

"I've put my silver set away and now use the ivory toilet set Aunt Marion sent me last Christmas," was the very pertinent remark made recently by a girl who is successfully working her way to a good salary if not to fame. Yes, there are such comfort and smartness about the new ivory toilet sets that every girl is pleased with them. It is, however, much better to give one or two pieces at a time of the very best quality of ivory than to try to cover a larger field.

Pocket Writing Case.

Why not give her a stationary writing case? You can buy such a convenience for $2.25 of fine durable leather which holds a quire of paper, envelopes, fountain pen and stamps. Or a good print neatly framed to hang in her room is an acceptable gift, and even a calendar, if artistic, is not to be despised. But do be careful if you give her a book, and don't send an edition of Ibsen to the girl who loves the lightest kind of fiction, or vice versa. Handkerchiefs and gloves she'll flippantly dub as "commonplace," but she'll be grateful for the gift later on. Silk stockings are always winners in the gift line, and pretty combs for the hair, or an umbrella if it has a stunning handle.

POCKET WRITING CASE.

Handy Powder Bag.

The stress and strain of the day's work never seem to make the business girl oblivious to the fact that her nose may be shiny and that a judicious bag of powder will add as much to her well being as the drop of oil given the rod of her typewriting machine. In other words, if you give the business girl a smart little powder bag, such as the one to be seen in the illustration, she will bless you as long as the vanity case lasts. She can conveniently dispose of the little bag in her pocket and surreptitiously give her nose a dab that will add to her satisfaction during the day.

The useful trifle is to be purchased at most department stores and comes in a Christmas box decorated with sprays of holly. There is a glass in one section, and in the other a pocket conceals a tiny chamois bag filled with powder. Small incisions have to be made in the chamois to allow for the outlet of the powder.

NOVEMBER.

November is next to the last month of the year, and, a good many of us think, the beginning of the cold season. It is customary, in November to put on warm clothing, almost as heavy as that required in winter, and to start the fire in the house and put everything in warm places where there will be no freezing. It is a tradition among small boys that there should be skating Thanksgiving day, and coasting soon afterwards.

But is the climate changing, or are people growing more hardy? Here it is November, and a good many persons say that we have been having Indian summer weather, if not real summer weather. Some of the first days of November were quite warm. Baseball and football, tennis and golf were played out of doors, and some persons even went in swimming. In many homes the furnace fires were not started the first of November, and in other homes where they were started, people wished they were out because it was so hot. There are large crowds on the streets pleasant evenings. Perhaps the heat of political excitement is keeping the city warm until after state election. Hardly anybody thinks of skating on Thanksgiving nowadays, and the attention of the public is centered on the football games. It is not improbable that the increased enthusiasm of the people for out of door sports is tending to prolong the fall season and delay the winter season.—News, Salem, Mass.

DUTCH AS IT IS SPOKEN.

We were walking along the shaded street of an eastern Pennsylvania village, where they speak Pennsylvania Dutch, when a girl came to the door of a nearby house and called to a small boy playing on the walk:—

"Gusty, Gusty, come and eat yourself once. Ma's on der table now and pa's half et already!"—Housekeeper.

STRICTLY BUSINESS.

The man who had gone out to hunt for his morning paper hailed the friendly looking stranger who was crossing the street.

"Fine morning," he said. "Wonder if it didn't rain some time in the night?"

"Not since 3 o'clock," replied the stranger, stifling a yawn.

"Were you up at 3 o'clock?"

"Yep."

"See the comet?"

"Comet hades!" snorted the stranger. "I'm a milkman."

—"Isn't there any way" asks a Salemite of the Man About Town in the Salem News "to stop the handbill nuisance? Often the front doorsteps are littered with bills. On a windy day they go flying up the street, unless the distributer stuffs them into the mail box, or thrusts them into the handle of the door and then rings the bell. And doesn't it make a person mad to answer the bell and find just a hand bill there! I never saw anything on a hand bill worth reading. The bills are good only for fuel. But it is a waste of time to pick them up. They are a nuisance. Isn't there any way of stopping them?"

SIXTY HOURS' GRIND ENDS

Bicycle Riders Well Bunched at Close of Race at Boston

Boston, Nov. 7.—Frank Kramer, former sprint champion of the world, displayed a burst of his real form in the race-off between the first five teams in the six-day bicycle race at the Boston Arena, winning by a wheel length from Joe Fogler of Brooklyn.

The total mileage for the six days' racing, or sixty hours' riding, as much as the state law allows, was 1345 miles and eight laps. This breaks the old record of 1324 miles and one lap. Following was the order of finish:

Riders.	Miles.	Laps.
Kramer and Moran	1345	8
Fogler and Collins	1345	8

MRS. ASTOR'S ALIMONY

Lien on Real Estate Which Will Yield Her $105,000 a Year

New York, Nov. 7.—The alimony that John Jacob Astor is to pay to Ava W. Astor, who secured a final decree of divorce in March, 1910, now appears to be $105,000 a year. To secure payment a first lien is given to Mrs. Astor on one of the most valuable plots of real estate in the city.

Recent contracts and leases signed by one of the large realty companies with Astor fix that sum as the annual rental of the block of property at the northeast corner of Broadway and Forty-second street. This rental is to be paid to the divorced wife. This lease has just been recorded as public record.

It is said that this is a final agreement made before the secret divorce was granted by Justice Mills.

—There is a project afoot to dam the waters of the Grand Canyon of Colorado, erecting a dam 700 feet high and developing 1,500,000 horse-power The site for the dam is in rizona near the Colorado line and the project will require $2,000,000.

NAMES THANKSGIVING DAY

Special Reference to Peace In the President's Proclamation

Washington, Nov. 7.—In a proclamation President Taft named Nov. 24 as Thanksgiving day. Special reference is made in it to the fact that as a nation we continue to be at peace with the rest of the world, and on this subject the president says:

"It is especially to be noted that during the past year great progress has been achieved in the cause of arbitration and peaceful settlement of international disputes."

Rich Hermit Has Nearly Thousand Offers of Marriage

Pittsburg, Nov. 7.—Peter Liebach, hermit, who during years of solitude saved $30,000, which he will divide with his bride, has received 952 offers of marriage from women, many of whom fill his ideas as the result of a story published a week ago.

The majority of the offers come from widows, but there are many from spinsters and grass widows, and one from a woman who is now attempting to obtain a divorce.

A PHILANTHROPIST.

WANTED—Woman to wash at her own home.—Advertisement in nearby paper.

And still there are people who say that the days of philanthropy are over. Yet here is a woman, mayhap of wealth and culture, who seeks a woman whom she may wash. And not only that, but she is willing to visit her in her own home, presumably ready to scrub her in her own tub, and perchance, not averse to using her own favorite brand of washing powder, to which her skin has become accustomed. Could anything more beautiful and generous be imagined? We wot not.

BRIEFS

Fair and cool.

Election tomorrow.

Sunrise 6.24 sunset 4.31.

Pleasant weather is predicted for election day.

Thanksgiving day two weeks from next Thursday.

Many important matters are scheduled to come up tonight at the regular meeting of the City Council.

A Grand Army camp fire will be held on Saturday, Nov. 19, at Faneuil hall, Boston. Music will be a prominent part of the program.

The total eclipse of the moon on Wednesday evening of next week will be visible in this city if the sky is clear. It begins at 5.44, is greatest at 7.20, and ends at 8.57.

Mrs. Mary A. Fuller has returned to New Bedford to make her home with relatives after a two weeks visit with her sister, Mrs. A. E. Rhodes of 83 North Central avenue.

The regular November meeting of the Quincy Retail Merchants' Association will be held on Thursday evening at the United States Hotel, Boston. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock. Program advertising will be discussed.

The fine weather Sunday afternoon sent many people out for a walk, and a large number visited Merrymount park and then took a walk over the Quincy shore boulevard others climbed Third hill where the view is unexcelled.

A Boston paper reports that "Mitch" Galvin, republican candidate for congress in the 10th district, has sung the "Old Gray Mare" 13 times, "A Fine Ould Irish Gentleman" 27 times, "Jingle Bells" 21 times and "What Did Dewey Do to Them at Manila Bay" 23 times since he began campaigning against Councillor Curley.

Bethany circle is to give a "provision shower" on Wednesday afternoon in Bethany chapel for the benefit of the Quincy Day Nursery. Those who attended the one last year will remember what a delightful social affair it was and what a big donation was received for this worthy institution. The hours will be from three until five and it is hoped there will be generous donations of eatables, especially dry groceries such as rice, cereals, etc.

—The Southern Power Company at Great Falls, S. C., will begin the manufacture of atmospheric fertilizers on a large scale. $200,000 worth of machinery will soon be installed. Air is to be forced through an electric furnace producing nitric acid and this acid applied to limestone will give nitrate of lime, an excellent fertilizer.

VOTERS MUST MAKE DECISION

Final Appeals For Their Support Have Been Made

THE BAY STATE CAMPAIGN

It Closes With Political Prognosticators All at Sea—Each Side Claims Its Candidate For Governor Will Win—Narrow Margin Indicated For Winner In New Hampshire—Rhode Island Republicans Divided Over Aldrich's Successor—Rival Claims In Connecticut—Democrats Confident, Republicans Hopeful, In New York—How Political Pulse Beats In Other States of the Union

Boston, Nov. 7.—Political prognosticators were all at sea when the Republican and Democratic armies rested after one of the most strenuous campaigns in the history of Massachusetts. Both sides are claiming victory, but indications are that in most cases where confident predictions are made the wish is father of the thought.

Chairman Hatfield of the Republican state committee issued a statement in which he said the reports from city and town committees were "eminently satisfactory, and show conclusively that Governor Draper and the whole state ticket will be elected by large pluralities." He stood by his former forecast of 47,000 to 50,000 plurality for Draper.

Congressman Foss said he would come to Boston with a majority of 25,000, and add 30,000 to that in Boston. He also predicted the election of "a large proportion of the members of the legislature," and "seven, if not eight, of the fourteen congressmen." Foss is looking for a Democratic landslide which will result ultimately in the defeat of Senator Lodge.

The Republican legislative committee issued a statement in which it predicts that the next Massachusetts legislature would be as strongly Republican as it was last year. It is expected that several districts, heretofore Republican, will go Democratic, but the loss thus occasioned is expected to be made up by Republican gains in other districts.

Though rallies will be held in various sections today, the campaign practically closed Saturday night. The last big guns of the Republicans were fired in Boston, where Governor Draper, Senator Lodge, ex-Governor Guild and Guy A. Ham presented the issues and discussed Foss before a large gathering. The Democrats held forth in Faneuil hall and five other places in the city, with Governor Folk of Missouri, Congressman-elect McGillicuddy of Maine, Mayor Fitzgerald, Charles S. Hamlin, James H. Vahey and Congressman Foss as the principal speakers.

Close Vote In New Hampshire

Concord, N. H., Nov. 7.—With the leaders of both the Republican and Democratic parties enthusiastic over the prospect for Tuesday's election, the campaign in this state has closed. Despite the optimism on both sides, however, it is generally admitted that whether Clarence E. Carr, Democrat, or Robert P. Bass, Republican, should be elected governor for the next two years, the winner will have a lead not exceeding a few thousand votes.

"We expect to land Bass by from 6000 to 8000," said Chairman Cook of the Republican state committee. "Both Republican congressional candidates will be elected by about the usual pluralities, and the Republicans will hold all five councillor districts by the usual margin. The senate and the house will also continue largely Republican."

Chairman Jameson of the Democratic state committee said: "Indications point unmistakeably to a political overturn. I confidently state that New Hampshire will elect a Democratic governor and at least one Democratic congressman and that great Democratic gains will be made in the council, senate and house."

Situation In Rhode Island

Providence, Nov. 7.—A division of opinion among the Republicans of Rhode Island over the successor to Senator Aldrich, which threatens to result in a serious split in the party, is the most interesting phase of the campaign in this state. This breach is due to the recent withdrawal of Samuel P. Colt as a candidate, leaving Henry F. Lippitt as the only Republican candidate in the field. Lippitt is known to be the choice of Aldrich for his successor, but he has never been known to make a political speech in his life.

The state campaign has been a very ordinary one, and the Republican state committee looks for the re-election of Governor Pothier and the entire state ticket by a large plurality. The Democrats, headed by Lewis A. Waterman, are also confident of victory.

Goodwin or Baldwin?

New Haven, Nov. 7.—The political campaign in Connecticut, which has been marked by greater activity than any canvass perhaps since the Cleveland fight in 1892, drew to a close with Republican and Democratic party leaders prophesying victory.

Chairman Kenealy of the Republican state committee declares the Republican ticket, headed by Charles A. Goodwin, will have its usual "off year" plurality of about 20,000, while Secretary Thomas of the Democratic state committee predicts Simeon E. Baldwin will be elected governor by something like 8000, with Democratic gains throughout the entire ticket.

BY OVER 100,000

Both Sides Claim New York as Campaign Comes to an End

New York, Nov. 7.—Republican State Chairman Prentice has elected Henry L. Stimson governor of New York by more than 100,000. Democratic State Chairman Happuch elected John A. Dix by from 140,000 to 160,000. Nobody but the voters can tell who is right about it and they will speak Tuesday.

Claims and estimates are forthcoming in large numbers. It may be said they are as numerous as they are unconvincing. It is well known that the managers privately are figuring on something different than their claims for public consumption, and that their estimates as published cannot be taken seriously.

A fair summing up of the situation in New York is that the Democratic management is confident of victory and the Republican management is hoping it will have the good fortune to be saved from defeat. While the Democratic leaders are convinced Dix will be elected, Prentice and his lieutenants are not despairing. They think the hold of Roosevelt and Hearst on the masses may surprise the Democrats yet.

As the time for election draws nearer one hears more and more of the contemplated treachery to Stimson of Old Guard voters who hate Roosevelt and his policies.

Both Claim New Jersey

Trenton, Nov. 7.—Senator Briggs, chairman of the Republican state committee, has given out figures in which he estimates that Vivian M. Lewis, the Republican candidate for governor, will have a plurality of 23,400.

Democratic State Chairman Nugent predicts a Democratic landslide, and says that Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, will be elected by a handsome vote.

The next legislature will have the selection of a United States senator to succeed John Kean.

Harmon Expected to Win

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—Political experts make the prediction that Judson Harmon will be elected to succeed himself by a plurality of about 25,000. The republicans are making a rally, however, and the presence of most of the spellbinders of President Taft's cabinet may swing some of the doubtful back into line.

The campaign has been made largely on the graft issue and the national questions which have swept other states into the Democratic column.

Bets are now being laid pretty generally that Harmon will win at 100 to 60.

Beveridge the Indiana Issue

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—Whether Albert J. Beveridge shall continue to represent Indiana in the United States senate or shall be succeeded by John W. Kern, Democratic candidate for vice president in the last national election, is the question of overshadowing importance to be decided at the polls in this state.

Both parties have tried to reach every voter in the state and the campaign has been crowded with speeches. The candidates have been supported by speakers of national reputation and all have bent their efforts on the legislature.

Control of Next House Is Doubted

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Statements regarding the control of the next house of representatives were given out by the Democratic congressional committee and Chairman McKinley of the Republican congressional committee. The Democratic committee believes its party will have a majority of fifty-one in the Sixty-second congress, while McKinley, speaking for the Republicans, says he is confident they will retain control by a fair working majority.

STRIKE NOT YET SETTLED

Chicago Garment Workers Repudiate Action of Their President

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The outlook for a speedy settlement of the garment workers' strike went glimmering when the strikers hooted down the proposed agreement offered by T. A. Rickert, president of the United Garment Workers, repudiated him as leader and sought the aid of the Chicago Federation of Labor. The Federation of Labor agreed to give the strikers all possible aid.

While the Chicago Federation is debarred by the American Federation of Labor from taking active charge of the strike, delegates voted to place the executive board at the disposal of the garment workers, with instructions to give them every assistance.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Sweet Potato Soup. Boil and mash the sweet potatoes ,then return them to the water in which they were cooked, add salt, pepper and butter to taste, and serve with croutons. A little cream would be an improvement, or a spoonful or two of nut-butter thinned to a cream, and added.

Nut Scrapple. Take two cupfuls Indian meal, one of hominy and a tablespoonful salt. Add sufficient boiling water and cook thoroughly in a double boiler until of a consistency for frying. When done take from the fire and stir in two heaping cups of ground nut meats, and while still hot pour into a butterd bread tin. When cold, slice and fry in butter. This is very hearty and will take the place of meat.

Steamed Golden Pudding. Four ounces of flour, two ounces of sugar, four ounces of finely shredded suet, two eggs, half a lemon, two ounces of breadcrumbs, two tablespoonfuls of golden syrup. Mix the dry ingredients together, then beat up the eggs and stir in syrup, also the grated rind and juice of half a lemon. Pour into a buttered mould, tie down with paper, and steam one hour and a half. Serve with a little hot golden syrup poured round.

Valatia Salad. One bunch of young carrots cooked and shredded, seven cooked radishes sliced, one pared and cubed cucumber, a tablespoonful of minced chives. Make nests of shredded cabbage, dispose the vegetables in the middle of each and add with French dressing; or moisten the cabbage with a thin mayonnaise and marinate the vegetables until wanted.

Ribbon Sandwiches. These are made in different ways, varying both breads and filling according to fancy. For instance, take six thin slices of bread and butter on both sides. Spread layers of deviled ham or chicken between ,then press the entire sandwich. Slice crosswise, making thin ribbon-like sandwiches. Or, use alternate slices—wafer thin—or white and brown bread with a filling of cream cheese and chopped nuts or olives.

Amnesty In Portugal

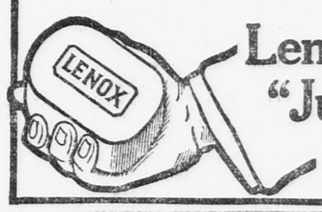

Lisbon, Nov. 7.—Amnesty for all political prisoners was proclaimed in celebration of the founding of the republic one month ago. In addition to liberating all political prisoners, the sentences of incarcerated criminals were reduced one-third.

"Lenox - of course."

That is what most women say when the grocer asks them what kind of laundry soap they want.

It isn't surprising.

Lenox is not a new soap. It is not an experiment. The price is low. The quality is high. The shape is convenient. Best of all, Lenox Soap does the work it is intended to do.

JOHN E. REDMOND

Leader Among Irish, Who Works For Home Rule

PLEDGES OF $150,000

Redmond's Appeal For Home Rule Funds Is Most Successful

New York, Nov. 7.—John Redmond, who has been here with a delegation of his countrymen to collect funds for the cause of home rule in Ireland, departed on board the Celtic of the White Star line.

"We have received pledges for $150,000," Redmond said, "and we expect $50,000 more will be forthcoming. This will come to twice the amount raised on our last trip.

"In departing from America I want to express my thanks to the public press and people for the uniform kindness and friendliness with which the mission of my colleagues and myself, representing the Irish Parliamentary party, has been treated. I wish to express the gratitude of the Irish people for this renewed expression of American sympathy with Ireland's cause."

BELIEVES THE POLE STILL UNCONQUERED

Cook and Peary Claims Not True, Says Rasmussen

New York, Nov. 7.—The World publishes the following copyrighted cable from Copenhagen:

"Neither Cook nor Peary has a shadow of truth in his claims. No living explorer nor Eskimo has been within 100 miles of the North Pole."

This is the startling conclusion reached by Kund Rasmussen, say missionaries to Greenland, who have returned here. The missionaries, who are deemed reliable, say, too, that they bring details of Rasmussen's cross examination of the two Eskimos, Ahwelah and Itukishuh, upon whose testimony Cook relied for corroboration of his claims that he reached the Pole.

After closely questioning these two and other Eskimos, Rasmussen is certain that the Pole is still unconquered.

Rasmussen, an experienced Arctic explorer, is the Danish inspector of Greenland. His mother was an Eskimo, his father a Dane. Whatever Rasmussen says about Arctic exploration is accepted with the greatest faith here.

TEARS STOP MARRIAGE

Girl Saved From Becoming a Bride Against Her Will

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 7.—Mary Olejnik has escaped marriage with a man whom she did not love because she wept continuously for five days.

She was to have become the bride of Edward Jazwieck of Milwaukee. Jazwieck had come on from Milwaukee and persuaded Mary's parents that the marriage would be a good thing. They purchased a bridal gown for their daughter, who remonstrated in vain.

From Tuesday morning until Saturday night the girl wept without stopping, except when she went to sleep. Then the marriage was indefinitely postponed.

BROODED OVER HIS FAMILY TROUBLES

Woman Killed by Husband, Who Then Attempts Own Life

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 7.—Edward J. McNanley shot and killed his wife on the street and vainly tried to end his own life by a bullet that inflicted only a flesh wound. He was arrested a few minutes later.

McNanley had been on bitter terms with his wife for over a year, when she caused his arrest on a charge of non-support. After this difficulty had been smoothed over she again caused his arrest last September for drunkenness, and the case has been put over from day to day, while McNanley's wrath has been gaining greater intensity with delays.

Sunday McNanley drank steadily and repeated to friends the story of the wrongs that he believed his wife had caused him to suffer. Mrs. McNanley left her home with her 18-year-old daughter, Gertrude, to visit a friend yesterday afternoon and McNanley, finally worked up by liquor to the point of madness, waited for her return and began shooting.

WILL SUE ROOSEVELT

Baldwin Says He Will Waste No More Words Upon Ex-President

New Haven, Nov. 7.—Judge Simeon E. Baldwin of this city, Democratic candidate for governor, will sue ex-President Roosevelt for slander as soon as the present campaign is over.

Judge Baldwin said: "I have asked ex-President Roosevelt to retract a statement he made in a speech in New Hampshire, as to my holding a certain view on a point of law. He denied he made the statement in the form in which it was reported by the stenographer and widely published. He also, if I understand his letter of Nov. 2, has written me that the statement, if made, was true.

"I shall waste no more words upon him, but intend, when I have more leisure to attend to it, to bring suit on account of his making the statement, which I have no doubt was, in fact, correctly reported. I should have been better pleased if he had made a fresh retraction.

"As he has refused to do this, I regard it as my duty to bring him to justice."

DOOMED TO DIE ON THE GALLOWS

Order That Dr. Crippen Be Hanged Is Confirmed

CLAIMS OF HIS COUNSEL

Court of Appeals Decides Against Him on Three Points Which Were Raised In Effort to Secure New Trial—Prisoner, Who Has but Few Hours to Live, Maintains Composure, but Appears Very Weak

London, Nov. 7.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, convicted of the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, the actress, has played his last card and lost. He will be hanged on Nov. 8.

The criminal court of appeals heard his appeal from the conviction of the lower court and decided against him on all points. The court refused to grant a new trial and confirmed the order of execution, which will be carried out on Tuesday next.

Save for the office of the executioner, one of the most sensational murder cases with which the English law has had to deal in many years is thus brought to a close. Crippen, who maintained an air of confidence during the trial, was a changed man when he appeared in court for the last time. It was plain that he had failed physically; his face was pale and if he had any hope of a new trial his looks belied him.

His counsel, Alfred A. Tobin, urged that the conviction of his client was not in accordance with the law, but his argument failed to impress Judges Darling, Channell and Pickford.

The prisoner's counsel were the same as appeared for him at his trial. The principal grounds upon which they based their appeal were, first, that one of the jurors, having been taken ill in the trial, was removed from the court by physicians without being in the custody of an officer; second, the identity of the corpse found in the cellar of the Crippen home had not been established; and, third, that the crown's rebutting evidence had been improperly admitted.

Solicitor Tobin said that it was not charged that any one had tampered with the juror while he was temporarily excused, but that an important principle of law was involved.

In reply, the crown offered the evidence of a bailiff that the juror was in his charge throughout his illness. Deciding this point, the court ruled that the temporary separation of the jury did not affect the trial.

Changed as he was physically, Crippen maintained his composure even in the trying moment when he heard his doom pronounced, and did not betray himself, if his air was assumed. At once, when the court's decision was pronounced, a warden touched the prisoner on the shoulder, and the latter, without a word or gesture, turned and left the dock. He was conducted at once to Pentonville prison.

Those who have seen Crippen during his imprisonment say that his bearing has never changed from the moment of his arrest. He sleeps throughout the night soundly and eats heartily. He spends much time in reading. Miss Leneve has visited him in the prison three times.

PLEADS FOR PRIVILEGE

Brockton Youth Gets Custody of His Three Young Sisters

Brockton, Mass., Nov. 7.—A 16-year-old boy was given the partial custody of his three younger sisters by Judge Reed in the police court here. It is the first time in this city that a minor has been intrusted with such a responsibility.

He is Roy Baker, whose mother was last week sentenced to Sherborn. Three girls included the family and the mother's departure left him the head of it. The court intended to send them to a charitable institution, but Roy pleaded that he be allowed to support them. He works in a local department store. They will all live with Mrs. Charles Goucher, a second cousin. The girls are Marion, 11 years old; Mabel, 5, and Grace, 2.

Torpedo Boat Destroyer Sterrett Exceeds Contract Requirements

Boston, Nov. 7.—Completing a four hours' run from Rockland, Me., the torpedo boat destroyer Sterrett came into Boston harbor last evening to put ashore the government trial board and then steamed to the Fore River works, where she will be overhauled for her final acceptance into the navy next month.

The Sterrett easily exceeded the required speed of 29½ knots an hour on the run, making between 30.4 and 30.5 knots.

State Militia May Resign

Dallas, Nov. 7.—The entire national guard of Texas threaten to resign in a body as the result of the conviction of Sergeant Manley, who was tried for killing a spectator while holding back the crowds during President Taft's visit in the fall of last year. Manley ran his bayonet through the man's body.

PRESERVING THE PROPRIETIES.

A traveller in the mountains of Tennessee had been stowed away in the best bed that the cottage afforded. Late in the night he was awakened by the voice of the pater familias addressed to the daughter who was entertaining company by the fireside.

"Mandy," growled the old man, "is that young man there yit?"

"Yep, pap."

"Is he got his arm round your waist?"

"Yep, pap."

"You all tell him to take't away."

"Aw, ye tell him yerself, pap," replied the girl, in a dull, lifeless voice. "He air a plum stranger to me."—From Success.

DUTCHMAN AIR RECORD HOLDER AT AGE OF 21.

Wuynmalen Enthusiastic Over Two Miles Above Earth Mark.

Henri Wuynmalen, the twenty-one-year-old Dutchman who has captured the height record for aeroplaning, obtained his pilot's license only on Aug. 15. He used a Henry Farman biplane, military type, and might have exceeded the height he attained, 9,121 feet, had not his supply of gasoline become exhausted.

He took one hour and three-quarters to ascend and twelve minutes only to plane down. His registering barometer showed that the successive 500 meter stages (1,640 feet) of the ascent took seven, ten, fourteen, fifteen and thirty minutes. In coming down he descended the first 700 meters (2,290 feet) in two minutes (over thirteen miles an hour), then 1,500 meters (4,920 feet) in six minutes, leaving four minutes for the last 600 meters (1,968 feet).

He says: "After my barometer showed me I had passed the 8,000 feet mark the cold got keener and keener. I felt the blood ooze from my nails into my fur gloves and red pearls of blood formed on my lips. I could taste their slight warmth with my frozen mouth.

"What a marvelous spectacle I had! What extraordinary and superb sensations! All alone, hundreds of yards above the clouds and going just where I would!

"Another glance at my barometer—2,700 meters. The record is mine. But it is not enough. I long to continue my dream. Alas, the motor stops abruptly and I have to plane down without engine.

"It was all over and I had secured the record of the world. Then came the delight of having my gloves pulled off, my boots replaced by warm slippers, of rolling myself in a blanket and drinking a cup of tea."

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

The morning preaching and communion services were conducted by the pastor. Three members were taken into the church.

The Bible school had a total attendance of 367 in all departments. Markaria Fraternity had a good session and a large attendance.

The Christian Endeavor society had a very helpful service. Three new active members were welcomed into the ociety. The attendance was large and there was not time for all who wanted to speak to do so.

The monthly musical service in the evening was very much enjoyed by a large audience. The selections by the choir and the solos and duet by Mrs. E. S. Moore and A. L. Hayden were exceptionally good. The music was complimented by a short address by the pastor. Madame Morey's playing of the prelude and postlude as well as of the accompaniments added much to the excellence of the service.

The Bethany Ladies' circle will entertain the friends of Quincy Day Nursery Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5. It is the annual donation party and everyone is invited to attend and to contribute toward the expenses of the Nursery.

Junior Christian Endeavor, Friday afternoon, at 4.15 in the chapel.

The topic for the Friday evening meeting is The Untamable Tongue. The special object of prayer is "The young people and their work."

Next Sunday morning Dr. F. E. Emrich, of the State Home Missionary society will speak.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The afternoon service was very well attended. The pastor spoke from the text,—"Who hath despised the day of small things."—Zach. 4:10.

The Christian Endeavor society met in the manse with the largest attendance of the fall. Over 70 young people were present for the consecration service. More of the Endeavorers took an active part in the meeting than usual, and it was a very helpful and inspiring gathering of young people.

The Ladies' Missionary society will hold their monthly meeting in the manse this evening at 7.30.

The regular prayer meeting will be held Thursday at 7.30.

CHRIST CHURCH.

The regular morning service was conducted by the rector. Sunday school was well attended and a large number of men were present at the Galahad Brotherhood session. In the evening the confirmation address was given by the rector. The topic for the sermon was "The vow of obedience."

The Men's Club will meet this evening to listen to a discussion of the topic, "The Annexation of Quincy to Boston," by Col. H. L. Kincaide and Hon. Russell A. Sears.

The Junior Auxiliary meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3.45. All girls in the Sunday School under sixteen years of age are urged to attend. The net returns from the entertainment given by the auxiliary two weeks ago were $27.28.

Wednesday evening is Game night for the members of the Boys club. Five members were initiated at the last meeting and it is expected that several other boys will join in the near future.

The Galahad club will ho'd a social Thursday evening at 7.30. Three new members were voted in at the last meeting of the club.

The regular confirmation classes will be conducted by the rector on Friday at 4 for juniors, and at 8 for adults.

St. Margaret's Guild will meet at 7.30 on Friday.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

Rev. Lyman B. Weeks of Ashmont occupied the pulpit at the First Universalist church on Sunday. Rev. Mr. Weks is a candidate for the pastorate and his sermon was listened to with marked attention. Music was furnished by the new quartette, and is a great addition to the service.

Alfred Brown has been appointed as sexton to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Arthur C. Merritt.

Rev. Dr. Conklin will meet the parishioners of the church Tuesday evening.

The Dorcas society are busily at work arranging for a Colonial fair to be held in the vestry early in December.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

The morning topic chosen by the pastor was "Nehemiah's Mission."

The consecration meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. was an inspiring service.

At the evening a male quartet from Boston rendered very beautifully two selections "Lead Kindly Light" and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

The fourth of the series of sermons on the life of Joseph was delivered by the pastor. "Joseph from the prison to the palace" was the theme for last night.

The regular prayer meeting service will be held Thursday evening.

A special service will take place next Sunday evening. An address will be given before the Ladies of the Loyal Orange association and the Orangemen on the subject "Martin Luther."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

In order to accommodate all those desiring to attend the Christian Science church at Braintree on Sundays they have added another special car, one leaving Reed's corner via. Norfolk Downs ,the other Barry's corner via. Wollaston.

LOCAL SPORTS.

Jack Crabtree announced on Friday says the Transcript, in behalf of his sister, Miss Lotta Crabtree, the retirement from the turf of the famous brown trotting mare, Sonoma Girl 2.04 1-4. The great daughter of Lynwood W. has been one of the gamiest trotters in history, and her owner has ever been willing to race against all comers, sending the great brown mare after the Harvester, 2.01 the champion stallion, this year upon repeated occasions.

Sonoma Girl was brought over the Rocky Mountains by her breeder and owner, E. E. Springer, who achieved marked success with the mare, when it is considered he was an amateur, and she was finally purchased by Miss Lotta Crabtree for a price reported to have been $26,000 at the time.

The wonderful record of the mare since that time is familiar history to all horsemen. She has raced everywhere and against all comers. It had been reported that Sonoma Girl would be sent to the court of The Harvester at Memphis, Tenn., in the spring, but this fact is by no means assured.

It is probable that Sonoma Girl will soon pass from the ownership of Miss Crabtree to some one of the country's leading stock farms, and her future as a brood mare should be highly promising. At the present time Dick McMahon has Sonoma Girl with his string of trotters and pacers at Dallas, Tex., and is due to go for the closing races of the season to Phoenix, Ari.

Quincy High vs. East Boston High at Merrymount park tomorrow. A close game is expected. This is the last hard contest before the game at Dorchester.

SHE WAS PARTICULAR.

A painfully bashful young man of Stotesbury, Can., says the Tribune, proposed to his girl by means of a phonograph to the waxen cylinders of which he had previously told his love.

The girl was greatly surprised and not displeased to her her lover's declaration, but the idea of this betrothal did not appeal to her. Accordingly she sent her little brother with a note, which read as follows:

"Dear Sir—If you have courage enough you might come over and tell me what you have to say, but if you haven't, stay at home, for I'll be jiggered if I am going to be hugged and kissed by a phonograph if I never get a chance to say 'Yes'"

Malaria Bars Settlement.

It is very doubtful if West Africa proper will ever be settled by Europeans. The whole country for 200 to 500 miles from the coast, except at isolated spots, is saturated with malaria in its worst form.

—The estimated available waterpower in New York State is one and a half million horse-power, of which only two-thirds has been developed.

CONCRETE SPHINX ARISES ON BANK OF ILLINOIS RIVER

Black Hawk, Erected by Sculptor Lorado Taft, Again Overlooks Former Hunting Grounds of the Sacs and Foxes.

Statue Is 48 Feet High and Stands on 250 Foot Cliff, Placing It on Scale of Goddess of Liberty and the Pilgrims.

BY the magic of the sculptor Black Hawk of early Illinois fame has come back a second time to overlook his former dominion from the cliffs of the Rock river.

What may become one of the most famous statues in the world stands above Eagle's Nest, across the river from Oregon, Ill. It has been in process of making three years and is now near completion. The Indian figure, which is forty-eight feet high, stands facing the south, looking down the river. The head and profile and folded arms appear perfect in detail as they are outlined against the sky and forest from many viewpoints around the country.

The claim of the statue to fame lies in three things: First, any one who runs—even any one who autos—may read its message. Those who are rushing by in autos and steam cars and motorboats stop or turn to look as long as they can and fall into a reverie over the former occupancy by the red man of the places they are now in.

The statue's great size, forty-eight feet, without counting either the artificial base or the natural rock foundation 250 feet high on which it is placed, puts it on a scale with the Goddess of Liberty in New York harbor and the great statue of "The Pilgrim" on the New England coast.

The third and greatest claim to fame is that it is built to be permanent. And it is believed that it will outlast the sphinx, the pyramids and even the stones of the druids.

Concrete Key to Future.

It is utilitarian concrete which has unlocked the door to a future which it is hoped will make the statue of Black Hawk overtake the sphinx in age by enduring after time has effaced that grim figure.

So far concrete has not been applied to the art of real sculpture in modern times. Fountains and pergolas and outdoor architecture to which artistic scrolls and designs are added have been made of it. Temporary figures have been erected at exhibitions in which some form of concrete has been used haphazard. In the ruins of Rome the Parthenon statues are found to have been made of it.

When he was on a tour in Europe Lorado Taft, the Chicago sculptor, discovered this, and there came to him his great idea for the means of making an enduring statue. With the process in mind it was not long before an adequate subject presented itself. For thirteen years he has had his summer home and studio at Eagle's Nest, on the Rock river. Standing for the hundredth time at the highest point of the cliff and looking south at the land and river, he never failed to remember that it was from here that Black Hawk was finally driven out of Illinois.

Romantic Story of Black Hawk.

Black Hawk, chief of the Sacs and Foxes, fought on the English side in the war of 1812. He saw sooner than anybody else that the whites would take all the Indian's happy hunting grounds from him. He tried everything from war to treaties to check the whites' advance. As he grew old he became more attached to his home along the Rock river and fought against removal to the Iowa reservation by the government. He even tried living in peace with the whites, but he had achieved such a reputation that any depredations that any Indian committed were laid at his tepee door.

Finally he and his people were driven across the Mississippi by Uncle Sam's soldiers. After that, as an old man, Black Hawk petitioned the government that he might go back and view his old domains on the Rock river. Many members of the tribe were brought with him, and suddenly there was panic among the whites. Whether it was intentional from the first on the part of the Indians or the outcome of suspicion, a war was precipitated. Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis both fought with the whites, and Black Hawk was made a prisoner. Afterward he was ignominiously shown around the country after being taken to Washington to see President Jackson.

Reincarnation In Concrete.

"Now in concrete he again surveys his domain with an air of immutable disdain," as one artist puts it.

"Black Hawk is my greatest foolishness," Mr. Taft said the other day. "I did not study any one type or race of Indians," he said. "It is a composite of the Foxes and the Sacs, the Sioux and Mohawks, and, in short, it represents the Indian personality. I have left off the usual Indian trappings—the feather and buckskin and other conventional signs. There is even a hint of the old Roman in the face, which was necessary to make it suggest a spirit unconquered while still the conquered race. To be suggestive rather than direct is what I aim at—to do that is the great joy of the sculptor."

When the autoist gets to the intersection of Fifth and Washington streets in the little town of Oregon he stops to wonder at the glimpse he catches of the great white statue across the river. When he crosses the long bridge over to the cliff he gets the full front view of it. Riding on the river road, it towers above him on the mountain. When the trains pass over the railroad bridge through Oregon the people on the observation car crowd out on the platform to see this wonder of the green hills. Motorboats fly up and down the river, and from the winding course of this there are many surprise views from far up the river. When the leaves are off the trees the statue can be seen for twenty miles. From the standpoint of association it is the gateway through which the Indian passed on one of his last trips west.

The exact site was obtained by much experiment. First a rough twenty foot model was made and set up, but it was found that height and distances were so great that it had to be enlarged and placed on a more prominent part of the cliff.

For the foundation thirteen feet of soil had to be removed before the bedrock was struck. Here the top of a natural ledge of stone was reached. The ledge, thirty feet deep, is formed of a succession of stones, which have the appearance of being built artificially as they show on the river bluff.

Feat In Expert Engineering.

There have been difficulties in the engineering part, as a great concrete statue has never been made before. A gallon of water a minute was used in mixing the concrete, and a motor had to be installed and a windlass for getting it up. The first model was of plaster six feet high. This was enlarged by careful measurement to a frame of scantlings around an "elevator shaft." When the whole figure had been framed in lumber the surface was made by stretching wire netting over the timbers. Over these forms burlap was fastened with nails. Two pointing machines had to be built, one for the head and one for the body.

The modeling was done by the scantlings and the arms shortened here and there until the proportions of the model were reached. Later the burlap was painted over with plaster of paris, giving the appearance of a plaster cast. Meanwhile the head was modeled in clay and cast by the usual process, the piece mold being saved for use again in casting the concrete. Now the mold is being made in plaster around the model.

The model is about three inches thick and required over ten tons of plaster, with many timbers for support. When complete everything will be taken out of the mold and the space filled with the concrete, all but a shaft seven feet in diameter, running the entire length of the figure. An opening back of the folded arms of the statue will allow of a man passing up the shaft and looking out of invisible windows thus formed.

An assistant had the mechanical work in charge, and a corps of three men was kept busy ever since work started on the concrete. During the first year, which the first measurements were being taken, the wooden structure blew over in a cyclone. Then a whole year's work had to be done over again. It has been a labor of love with Mr. Taft and the work for work's sake.

The expense of the undertaking has been borne by him, although a whole colony of artists at Eagle's Head and Mr. Heckman, on whose land it stands, are more than anxious to assist.

Every care for the solidarity of the structure has been taken by consulting engineers, and the following are some of the items in their calculations:

Cubic contents of statue, 2,275 square feet.

Total weight of statue and foundations, 536,770 pounds.

Total maximum wind pressure acting on statue, 28,980 pounds.

Overturning effort of wind pressure, 673,785 foot pounds.

Total moment of resistance to wind pressure acting through center of gravity on eighteen foot base, 4,830,930 pounds.

The base of the statue is of concrete, 18 by 18 by 3 feet.

What will become of the artist's dream of an enduring American statue if speculators get hold of the land is the natural question asked. The best hope that this will not happen is in the fact that Wallace Heckman, attorney for the University of Chicago, is owner of the land on which the monument stands and for a hundred acres around. It is his desire to hold it during his lifetime as a tract of natural forest, and his enthusiasm in the perpetuation of the statue is so great that it is believed that he will do everything in his legal power to make it enduring.

PANAMA CANAL GATES.

Ordered Made by a Pittsburg Concern. Of Gigantic Size.

The McClintic-Marshall Construction company of Pittsburg, which has the $5,500,000 contract for making 60,000 tons of structural steel work for the Panama canal, has finished installing $100,000 worth of specially made machinery for the job and will begin the work at once. Vice President H. H. McClintic, who will have charge of the work, has given out the first specifications made public on the large canal gates. In part he said:

"There will be forty-six locks or sets of gates in the entire canal. Each lock will consist of two gates or leaves hung from the sides of the canal, meeting snugly in the center of the canal when closed. Each leaf will weigh about 600 tons and will be 65 feet wide by 77 feet high and 7 feet thick. They will, of course, not be solid, but will be diaphragm work and have air chambers to assist in lightening the leaf.

"There will be ninety-two of these leaves, each to be composed of eighteen plates or girders, with a world of diaphragm work, all to be covered with steel sheathing, 7.16 inches thick at the top, gradually thickening until it reaches 13.16 inches at the bottom.

"Hanging these gates will be quite a feat," continued Mr. McClintic. "They will be set in a pintle at the bottom and held by a yoke of massive design at the top. There will be twenty of these sets of gates at Gatun, twelve more sets at Pedro Miguel, and the remainder, fourteen, at Miraflores. About one-half of one of our shops at Rankin will be given over to the fabrication of the structural steel work of the Panama canal."

BARLEY WATER OUSTS WINE.

London Clubmen Have New Fashion of Temperate Nature.

Barley water has become the favorite drink in the clubs of Mayfair and St. James streets, London. It is usually served with a dash of lemon in it, and the charge is twopence a glass. It is not the old fellows with gout and indigestion who take barley water, but the young bloods of society who have shelved port wine. The wine shippers are displeased over the change in the public taste. Barley wine is in favor.

"The peninsular war," said a wine dealer, "was not fought on barley water. Now look out for a speedy destruction of the grand old British empire." On the other hand, the temperance advocates rejoice over the change and hope it is permanent.

BRITISH SOBRIETY INCREASES

Statistics Show Rapid Decrease In Convictions For Drunkenness.

A remarkable showing was made in 1909 in the increase of sobriety in England and Wales. The convictions for drunkenness in 1908 aggregated 187,803, while in 1909 the total was only 169,518, showing a decrease in convictions of 18,285, or nearly one-tenth.

The decrease in Scotland outside of Scottish towns for 1909 as compared with 1908 was 19 per cent. In Scotch towns there was a still greater falling off, amounting to 27 per cent, and in Ireland the decrease was 8 per cent.

Wise Men of Gotham.

A "wise man of Gotham" is a fool, but the phrase arose through the real wisdom of the people that lived in the English town of Gotham. The story goes that King John of England once visited the town with the intention of seeing a castle that he thought of taking for himself. But the Gothamites did not care for the nearness of royalty and the expense they would be put to if the king should have a house there, and so they cooked up a scheme to drive him away. When the king arrived with his company of followers and rode through the town he saw all the inhabitants of Gotham going through the most foolish of tasks, each person with a silly smile on his face. The king was disgusted with them. He would not live among crazy people, and so he rode on through the town and did not stop for the castle. Then the wise men of Gotham, still smiling, but not in a silly fashion, told one another that there were more fools that passed through Gotham than remain in it.

A Comparison.

Several times had little Mary looked wonderingly out of the window, watching the full moon rise. Then a thought seemed to strike her.

"Mamma," she remarked ingenuously, "doesn't it look just like dad's head when you see it over the top of his easy chair back?"

Vol. 25 No. 260 QUINCY, MASS., TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 8, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

GOVERNOR DRAPER.

APPROPRIATIONS VOTED FOR NEW SCHOOLHOUSES

One of the Street Loan Orders Passed by Fifteen Votes The Other Rejected

Movement to Pension Firemen and Policemen

Although the season is getting late and the City Council is entering on its last meetings of the year, several matters of importance were introduced in Monday night's meeting of that body. In addition to the new business, much old business was cleaned up, including the passage of the loan order for $19,000 for new streets, which was passed by 15 affirmative votes, an opinion of the City Solicitor being received, stating that this was a two-thirds vote. In the audience was quite a large contingent of Wollaston people who went away with their faces illuminated with smiles when the orders for new school houses at Megiclair and Wollaston were passed. Councilman Clark and Woodward were absent.

COMMUNCATIONS.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Fred W. Brown a public weigher and Nils Dohberg a constable. Confirmed.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Chief Engineer asking for a transfer of $125.46 from fire alarm to miscellaneous and $83.19 from fire alarm to repairs and fix-

WILL IT BE DRAPER OR FOSS?

Quincy Getting Out a Very Large Vote Today--Expected to Give Majority for the Popular Side

Indications are that Quincy will today cast over 5,200 votes, which will be in excess of the Presidential election of 1908 and about 1,000 more than last year. This tremendous vote is very encouraging to the Republicans, for they feel that the voters are thoroughly aroused and that they will stand by Gov. Draper and the whole ticket. Last year the city gave a Republican plurality of only 92, a loss of 654, but 802 less votes were cast. The Republicans expect to give Draper about 2,600 votes which would allow about 2,300 for Foss. In 1908 Gov. Draper established a new record for Quincy with 2,393. The best Democratic figure was 2,289 by Douglass in 1904.

Prominent Democrats, however, are looking for over 2,500 votes for Mr. Foss today, and confidently expect to carry the city. The vote of Vahey last year was 1,913, an increase from 1,647 in 1908.

"As goes Quincy, so goes the State." If Quincy gives Draper 300 plurality he will be elected by 20,000 to 30,000. If Quincy gives Foss a plurality, Draper will be defeated, and the size of the plurality in the city will indicate his plurality in the State.

Both parties give Galvin a plurality in Quincy, but neither side expect it will be as large as in 1908 when the vote was:

GALVIN	2,800
O'CONNELL	1,407

Candidate Barnes for the Senate is not expected to receive as large a vote as Senator Hultman, who was a Quincy man, but there is no doubt about his election in the district.

Representatives Thomas and Langelier will probably be reelected. Early returns will be bulletined at the Daily Ledger office tonight.

WARD ONE.

The Quincy ward had cast 666 votes at 10.30 A. M., which was only 243 less than the total vote of last year. This ward is sure to cast over 1,000 votes today out of a total of 1,169.

In precinct one the ballot box has not been recording the vote accurately. It went on a strike during the first hour, claiming that eight-hours should constitute a day's work instead of ten, but the election officers often work sixteen hours.

In precinct two the box is working fine. At 7 A. M. just 100 votes had been cast; at 8 the total was 213; at 9 it was 280; at 10, it had increased to 339.

Representative Thomas has a number of young men working for him in this ward and they keep several automobiles busy bringing voters to the polls early. The Democrats also show activity but don't expect to carry the ward.

The Houghs Neck delegation voted early, and some were disappointed because they could not vote for Ross.

Election returns will be bulletined at the Daily Ledger office tonight until 9 o'clock.

WARD TWO

Voting opened brisk in both precincts of the Quincy Point ward. Burthe first hour 59 votes had been cast in precinct one as against 58 in 1909. In precinct two an unusually heavy vote was cast. 147 voted during the first hour and by 9 o'clock the number was 275, or 75 more than last year and about 100 less than the total vote of the precinct last year. In precinct one the voting was slower at 8 o'clock, 130 were registered on the machine, and 30 were added to that number by 9 o'clock.

The first voter in precinct one was Thomas A. Gavin of Nash avenue. Carriages and automobiles were prominent and an unusual feature appeared at precinct two at about 9 o'clock. Atwood, the graphophone man, with one of his machines mounted on the front seat, was mustering voters with martial music. On the sides of the wagon were signs "Vote for the Republican candidates." When the music was first heard by those within the building, it sounded loud enough to be a full military band, and it was thought that unusual means were being tried by some aspirant for office.

Senator E. C. Hultman was at the precinct two headquarters. He was distributing cigars to celebrate the first occasion in five years his name had not appeared on the ballot.

The bulk of the Fore River vote will probably be cast at noon. At precinct two the vote will probably be scattering throughout the remainder of the day since there are only about 100 or 125 more votes to be cast.

The total for the ward at 9 o'clock was 435, out of 852.

WARD THREE.

The voters in the South Quincy ward are alive to the situation. During the course of the morning the vote has been far ahead of last year's particularly in the first precinct. In precinct two the vote is as usual slower than in the larger precinct. At 11.30, a total of 305 votes had been cast in precinct one. This is 70 ahead of last year, and almost within 100 of the total vote cast in the precinct a year ago.

In precinct two, the total at 11.30 was 237, which is about 50 ahead of last year at the corresponding hour. Between 6 o'clock and 7, only 75 votes were cast; at 10 there were 165 registered.

The total at 11.30 was considerably more than half the voting strength of the ward. Out of a possible 997 votes, 542 were cast before noon in this ward. Candidates Thomas and Sullivan are making a great hustle for votes in this ward.

WARD FOUR.

During the first hour 125 votes were cast in precinct two of the West Quincy ward. This is by far the greatest number ever registered as early in the day. At 8 o'clock the number had increased to 170, at 9 to 185, at 10 there were 210 votes cast, and at 11 o'clock, 239. Mayor Shea had not voted at 11, but it is expected that his vote will be cast about 1.

There was a little trouble with the ballot box early in the morning, but the officials soon had it in working order.

In precinct one, the vote was ahead of last year at every hour up to 11 o'clock. A total of 107 votes were cast before 7 o'clock, as against 81 last year. At 8 the indicator showed a vote of 174, or 30 ahead of a year ago. During the next three hours the voters drifted in slowly. At 9 there were 197 votes registered; at 10, a total of 220 and at 11, a total of 237.

The total for the ward at 11 o'clock was 476, about half the voting strength of the ward.

WARD FIVE.

The Wollaston ward, the banner Republican ward of the city, can be depended upon in case of emergency, and the early vote today indicates that a rousing Republican vote will be cast before the polls close. Both precincts are voting in the basement of the Hose house as usual, and while the odor that penetrates the basement is not very pleasing, it will not keep the voters away. Usually a ballot box goes on a strike in this ward, but this morning both boxes were working like a charm, and accurately performing the duties devolved upon them.

At 10 o'clock the total vote of the ward was 670. When it is considered that the total vote of a year ago was but 727 some idea how the voting is going may be had.

It was generally admitted about the

GREATER BOSTON IS FAVORED

Col. H. L. Kincaide and Ex-Mayor Russell A. Sears Tell of Advantages

Address Mens Club of Christ Church

"The annexation of Quincy to Boston" was the subject for Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Men's club of Christ church, and there was a large attendance. It was expected that there might be a debate, as Col. Henry L. Kincaide and Hon. Russell A. Sears were announced to speak on the subject, but they both took the affirmative, presenting strong arguments.

Col. Kincaide said in part:

The question of bringing all the cities and towns now embraced in our Metropolitan district together politically, and merging them into one municipality is a tremendous one. But the question is before the people of those cities and towns, and ere long they must look it squarely in the face and say—yes or no.

A question of such magnitude, requires the greatest wisdom for its proper solution. Wisdom comes from study and understanding. In deciding this question, then, it will be necessary to understand every argument that can be urged in favor of the proposition and against it, to the end that every claim and contention shall have a fair hearing, and that proper weight shall be attached to all that can be said on both sides. In no other way can we hope to get the question settled in such a manner that the losing side may feel that it had a fair hearing and ought to abide by the final decision.

It is therefore gratifying to me, gentlemen, to find that your club has been so early in the field of discussion. Feeling, as I do, that every man who can contribute a thought, an idea, a suggestion to the discussion, ought so to do, I am pleased to accept your invitation, and be with you this evening.

I might as well state frankly at the outset that I am of this proposition and I cannot blame you, if in considering what I say, you discount it upon the ground that I am not what Mr. Sears would call, a disinterested witness. I am prejudiced in favor of one side, but I assure you that I shall try to be fair to the other side tonight, and every day hereafter until the question is decided in the way I claim it should be settled, as it surely will, and until then it will be my constant aim to get the full meaning and force of what is said on the other side.

UNRESERVEDLY IN FAVOR

And by the way, there will be strong arguments put forth by those who oppose the idea. The people who will oppose us, are and will be, in the long run, at least, just as honest, just as patriotic, just as intelligent, just as desirous for the good of Boston and her sister municipalities as those who advocate the idea of annexation.

It will be important to bear that in mind in order that the great discussion that will be going on, with a million and a half people taking part, shall be conducted in good nature and properly. When I say that a million and a half people will take part I mean what I say, for this is a question having many phases, and every man, woman and almost every child can understand more or less perfectly some phase or phases of it. But whether they understand it or not, they will discuss it. You may be sure of that.

WHAT BENEFITS?

Now, why should we be anxious for this great union of cities and towns? What unusual benefits are to be derived from such a union, to jutsify us in asking that it shall take place? I can present only a few of the main reasons in the short time which I feel I ought to take; and of course I am not so vain as to think that I can say all that can be said under those heads; and you would not, of course, expect anything of the kind from me, or, in fact, from any other man—even if he had given years of investigation and thought to the matter. I hope to merely suggest a few thoughts for you to consider and discuss further.

First, and foremost to my mind, as a business man, comes the thought of commercial advantages. At the present time there is not that freedom of buying and selling, that ease and interchange of commodities between the people of two adjoining towns or cities as would be the case if they all lived in one place. And this is true even in cases where there are no natural bounds or divisions, such as rivers or

LITTLE FOLKS IN ARGENTINA.

A new cousin book always attracts the attention of young people and a new author may add to the interest. The writer of the latest volume in this popular series is a new comer among the creators of cousins, and she has chosen an interesting member of the family to introduce. Argentina is one of the great and progressive countries of the world, which this year will celebrate the one hundreth anniversary of her independence. The city of Buenos Ayres is especially attractive to North Americans because it is more like those of this part of the world than any other in South America, and because it possesses to a greater degree the spirit of progress. Francisco, the little hero of the story, however, the great level tracts in the interior, goes far beyond the capital and visits a section somewhat like the western plains of the United States, and some illuminating lessons in history are given to him in the course of his travels. He visits the great ranches and sees the branding of the cattle, as many cousins in the United States have done; but crowning all comes the carnival.

The story combines the usual entertainment and instruction that has made the series so valuable. Published by L. C. Page & Co., Boston. Author, Eva Connon Brooks.

PLENTY OF ASSURANCE.

"Do you really mean it, Mr. Spooner, when you say I am the best girl in the world?" asked Miss Flypp, after the young man had suggested that she should become Mrs. Spooner.

"Indeed I do, Miss Flypp," asseverated the young man. "I say it again—you are the best girl in the world."

"And the loveliest, I think you said?"

"The loveliest, without doubt."

"I think you said something about my accomplishments, too?"

"I did. I said they excelled those of any other girl."

"I believe you called me sweet?"

"'A sweeter woman ne'er drew breath,' quoted the ardent lover.

"You said the word 'perfect,' too, did you not?"

"I did. I also pronounced you the pink of prefection, propriety and modesty, the empress of my heart, the peerless one among the beauteous creatures of your sex, a maiden adorable, enchanting, and worthy of the hand of the best man on earth. Say the word that will make me the happiest man, my own Dora!"

"Before I give you an answer, Mr. Spooner, I should like to ask you one question."

"A dozen, if you like."

"One will be enough. Don't you think you have a good deal of assurance to expect a woman with all those excellent qualities to marry you?"

Then Mr. Spooner went home.

WANTS A CHANGE.

"Maria," said Mr. Smith, as he came in and laid a folded document on the table.

"I have just insured my life for $5000 in your favor. There is the policy."

"Thank you," said Mrs. Smith. "I hope it may be many years before it will be of any use to me, if ever."

"It will be of much use to you if you wish to marry again," he growled. "With $5000 in cash you can pick out almost any fool you like."

"No," she replied affectionately. "I think I should want a change next time."

The Committee on Fire and Police reported the following orders relative to pensions for members of the Police and Fire Departments, which were referred to the Finance Committee:

Resolved,—That whereas Section 29 of Chapter 108 of the Revised Laws, as amended by Section one of Chapter 428 of the Acts of the year 1903, and further amended by Chapter 188 of Acts of 1909 provides as follows:—

"The mayor and aldermen, or the board of police of any city where such boards are established, except Boston, which, by vote of its City Council accepts the provisons of this act, shall at his own request, or at the request of th e chief or superintendent of police if, in the judgment of said board, he is disabled for useful service in said department, retire from active service and place upon a pension roll any member of the Police department of such city, whom the city physician of such city certifies in writing to be permanently disabled, mentally or physically, by injuries sustained through no fault of his in the actual performance of duty, from further performing duty as such member, or any member of said department who has performed faithfully service therein for not less than twenty years continuously, and every member so retired shall annually receive as a pension one-half the amount of compensation received by him at the time of his retirement, such amount to be paid by the city, which shall appropriate money therefor,"

Now, therefore, Be it further resolved, ordered and declared:—That the City of Quincy by its City Council hereby accepts the provisions of said Section 29 of Chapter 108 of the Revised Laws, relative to granting pensions to police officers, as amended by Section one of the Chapter 428 of the Acts of the year 1903 and further amended by Chapter 188 of the Acts of the year 1909.

ORDERED: That Ordinance No. 1, "an ordinance establishing the Fire department of the City of Quincy" be amended by adding the following section:—

Section—The City Council shall, at his own request, or at the request of the Chief of the Fire department, if, in the judgment of said Council, he is no longer able to perform active service as a fireman, retire from active service and place upon a pension roll, any member of the Fire department of the City of Quincy, whom the City Physician of said city certifies in writing to be permanently disabled, mentally or physically, by injuries incurred while in the performance of his duty as fireman, call-fireman, or substitute call-fireman, from further performing duty as such member, or any member of said department who has served faithfully in said department for not less than twenty years and who is either sixty-five years of age, or over, or who in the judgment of said Council is incapacitated for useful service therein, and every member so retired shall annually receive as a pension one-half the amount of compensation received by him at the time of his retirement, such amount to be paid by the city which shall appropriate money therefor.

NEW ORDERS.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order designating the polling places for the City election, Dec. 6. Adopted.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for a light on Smith street. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Moir offered an order for lights on Flynt street. Referred to Executive.

LOAN ORDER PASSED.

On motion of Councilman Smith, the loan order for $19,000 was taken from the table and passed, 15 voting yes, and four no, as follows:

YES—Bolster, Boyd, Bryant, Cantfill, Carey, Cherrington, Ericson, Flynn, Gardner, Histen, Loud, McDevitt, Moir, Smith, Whiton—15.

NO—Branch, Nowland, Richards, Sandberg—4.

NOT VOTING—President Hobbs—1.

ABSENT—Clark, Woodward—2.

President Hobbs in declaring the order passed, said he did so on the ruling of the City Solicitor, that 15 was a two-thirds vote.

LOAN ORDER REJECTED.

On motion of Councilman Smith the loan order for $9,400 was taken from the table. This loan provided funds for Trafford street, Furnace avenue, Brooks street and Crescent street

A discussion started on the order which was cut short by a motion of Councilman Smith that the main question be put, which was voted.

The order failed to pass, 12 voting yes and 7 no as follows:

YES—Bolster, Boyd, Bryant, Cantfill, Carey, Cherrington, Ericson, Flynn, Histen, Loud, McDevitt, Smith—12.

NO—Branch, Gardner, Moir, Nowland, Richards, Sandberg, Whiton—7.

NOT VOTING—President Hobbs—1.

ABSENT—Clark, Woodward—2.

Vote reconsidered and order laid on the table. Later in the evening, on motion of Councilman Loud, the order was taken from the table and amended, by striking out Trafford street and Furnace avenue. The order was then laid on the table again.

REWARD FAVORED.

Councilman Smith offered an order that the $500 offered by the city for the apprehension of Louis Restelli be paid as a reward for the finding of the body.

Upon his motion the order was referred to the Executive with the request for an opinion from the City Solictor as to the right of the city to pay the reward.

On motion of Councilman Smith it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be until next Monday, Nov. 14.

SALARY INCREASE.

Councilman Histen offered an order amending the salary ordinance increasing the salary of the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department from $800 to $1400 per year. Referred to Committee on Fire and Police.

President Hobbs stated that when the vote was taken Oct. 3 on the order for $900 for rebuilding Pleasant street he had ruled the order passed, not knowing that the loan was attached to the order. The order did not receive the necessary two-thirds vote. He was led into this error because Pleasant street was also included in loan order No. 312. As the order as passed was illegal he had a new order prepared without the loan and suggested that if there was any friend of the order that it be introduced.

No one seemed desirous of introducing the order and a motion to adjourn was voted.

Adjourned at 9.34, until Monday, Nov. 14.

CHANGES IN THEATRE TRAINS

Some Other Improvements in Quincy Timetable

The revised timetable of trains between Quincy and Boston, found in another column, shows several important changes in the leaving time of trains. One of the changes in the inward trains service that will be appreciated is the last inward train. Under the new schedule this train will leave at 11.20 P. M. instead of 11.08 P. M. There is also quite an important change in the late outward trains. The last train for Quincy under the new schedule leaves at 11.30 P. M. instead of 11.25, and arrives in Quincy at 11.50.

INWARD TRAINS.

Other changes of inward trains in brief are as follows:

The 7.21 A. M. train will leave at 7.25, making but one stop namely Neponset and arriving at 7.42.

The 11.19 A. M. train will leave at 11.24 arriving at 11.50.

The 4.19 P. M. train will leave at 4.24, arriving at 4.50.

The 5.29 P. M. train will leave two minutes later arriving at 5.52.

A change that will be greatly appreciated by theatre goers, the train heretofore leaving Quincy at 6.59 P. M. will leave at 7.04 arriving at 7.20.

The 6.09 P. M. train from Quincy will make stops at Wollaston and Atlantic.

OUTWARD TRAINS

Changes in the outward train service are but few.

The train now leaving Boston at 5.57 P. M. will leave at 5.55.

The 9.20 P. M. train will leave at 9.30 and arrive at 9.51, and better accommodate students and others.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

On the Sunday train service there are but few changes. In the inward schedule the 7.08 and 8.08 P. M. trains will leave three minutes later, namely 7.11 and 8.11

The only change in the outward Sunday service is a new train leaving at 12.43 and arriving in Quincy at 12.59.

QUINCY POST OFFICE.

Letters unclaimed for week ending Saturday, Nov. 5:

William C. Bagley, Marcelo Cuero, Michael Dailey, William Fratie, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey, Afetoul Goss Hatsafetoul, John Lane, Giovanni Leccaconi, Miss Mary Lyons, John McLean, James McLeod, C. Moir (two letters) Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Smith, Miss Esther Steer.

NEW APPOINTMENT.

James H. Cunningham, formerly tax collector, has been appointed visitor for the State Board of Charity, having charge of admissions to the State hospital at Tewksbury and the State farm at Bridgewater. The appointment was made on merit alone, after a competitive civil service examination. There were 400 applicants who took the examination, and Mr. Cunningham received the highest per cent., being number one on the list of those that passed. Mr. Cunningham has held several positions under the city government, first as inspector of the board of health, then as overseer of the poor, and later as tax collector. He also served the county for a few months as county treasurer.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S MEN'S CLUB.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Men's club of St. Chrysostom's parish was held in the vestries on Monday evening. Steps were taken to put the club on a firm basis by the establishment and adoption of a revised constitution and by-laws. Discussion of these occupied the greater part of the evening. The meeting opened with the reading of the minutes by Secretary Hamilton, and the admission of nine new members. Interest in the club is advancing in leaps and bounds and the membership is constantly and rapidly increasing. From a membership of eighteen a year ago the club has increased until at the present time sixty-seven are numbered upon its lists.

At the next meeting which occurs on the evening of November 21, Rev. Augustine S. Mulley, chaplain of the State's prison at Charlestown will address the members upon "Prison work and impressions of the late prison congress at Washington."

Refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, cake and coffee and a social hour closed an interesting evening.

SUNDAY SERVICES

ATLANTIC M. E. CHURCH.

Rev. Earl Bull of Boston University preached Sunday morning in the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church on the text "I love Him because." The pastor of the church preached in the evening.

Mrs. Fred Kilpatrick, Sr., who has been visiting in Atlantic for the past several months has gone to Waverly to her home. She will be greatly missed by the many friends she has made during her visits to Atlantic. She is very active in church work and attends the Methodist church. In the star contest which consists of filling a star with ten dimes Mrs. Kilpatrick has filled twenty stars in less than two months.

The Sunday school of the Atlantic Methodist church is rapidly increasing under the new campaign, which is known as the red and blue contest. The object is to reach Bethlehem before Christmas Sunday, the distance being 4,000 miles. Each new member counts 100 so that every member of the Sunday school is doing his best to get new scholars. There were thirteen new members taken into the Sunday school on Sunday. Mrs. Arthur Russell Poquett is captain of the "Reds," and Mrs. Charles Arthur Keeler is captain of the "Blues." The number of miles gained for the Reds is 2,711, and for the Blues 2,576.

Lester H. Clee of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. spoke at the Epworth League meeting Sunday evening in the Methodist church of Atlantic and was greatly appreciated as usual. His talk was crisp and full of enthusiasm.

This evening is Young People's evening and all the young people of Atlantic over sixteen years of age are cordially invited. The election of new officers will take place at that time which will be followed by an entertainment and refreshments. No admission.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Rev. Joseph Walther, pastor of the Wollaston Baptist church, gave a very interesting sermon Sunday morning. The text was: Acts 10: 15. Subject—"The glory of the commonplace." Mr. Walther spoke of the need of vision of faith in which we should see things as they are, and see Christ the keeper, the Saviour, the glorifier, the helper in every condition, and in every task. If we have the Christ of God, the blessed Christ in our lives then there would be glory and sunshine in our lives, and we would not consider anything common or unclean that God hath cleansed, hath blessed, hath endorsed. In closing, Mr. Walther said—"May this be the message of the morning, in Christ's name."

The Nearer and Farther Lights' society will meet at the home of Miss Leona Robbins, 30 Beach street, on Thursday evening.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the Hall Place M. E. church was held Monday evening at the home of Miss Mary Jane Williams on Ashland street.

Five new members were admitted to the League, an impressive ritualistic service being used for the first time The new members are Jennie Manhire, Bessie Nichols, Edward Newcomb, Clyde Hannant and Wesley Williams. It was voted to hold the annual election of officers in May instead of in December as formerly. After the business session adjourned a social hour was enjoyed in charge of Miss Maud Hodgkinson. Ice cream and cake were served by the hostess.

EXPERT OPINION.

A Scotch minister and his friend, coming home from a wedding, began to consider the state in which their potations at the feast had left them.

"Sandy," said the minister, "just stop a minute till I go ahead. Perhaps I don't walk steady and the guid wife might remark something not right."

He walked ahead for a short distance, and then called out:

"How it it? Am I walking straight?"

"Oh, aye," answered Sandy, thickly, "ye're a' recht—but who's that with ye?"—Detroit Free Press.

WANTED ANOTHER CHANCE.

Of a political transaction that had a suspicious look, Senator Beveridge said one day:

"Though in the thing there is nothing on which we can lay our hand, it certainly appears fishy. It reminds me of a Washington waiter.

"A gentleman, after eating a good dinner, said to this waiter:

"'I am sorry I can't give you a tip, but I find I have only just enough money to pay your bill.'

"The waiter seized the bill hurridly.

"'Just let me add it up again, sir,' he muttered."

Cookery Points

Pommes Parisennes.—Pare some firm cooking apples and cook them gently in a thin sirup of sugar and water to which several thin strips of lemon rind have been added. Remove the apples and set them aside to drain and cool. When required for table arrange them in a deep glass dish surrounded by abundance of broken lemon jelly piled between and around the fruit. Cover each apple with a cone of stiffly whipped sweetened cream. Serve very cold.

Apple Cutlets.—Make a stiff apple puree, sweeten to taste and stir in a little softened gelatin. Set aside to cool. Meanwhile cut some slices of sponge cake, trim them neatly and lay them on a flat dish. Moisten each with a little fruit juice, and when the apple puree is partly cool cover each sponge slice with a layer of puree, keeping the whole shapely. When quite cold arrange on lace paper doilies or in an ornamental dish. Ornament with cut angelica and crystallized violets.

Pommes Polaires.—Peel, core and quarter some good cooking apples. Cook them gently till tender and set aside till quite cold. Arrange them in a deep glass dish, cover with Devonshire cream, scatter chopped pistachio nuts over all and serve as cold as possible with water biscuits or sponge fingers.

Apple Salad.—Peel and corn some eating apples of good flavor. Cut the fruit into thin slices. Arrange these in a pretty glass dish, sprinkle among the fruit some finely chopped nuts and shredded pineapple, dust with caster sugar, moisten with a little fruit juice and serve very cold.

Good Things to Know.

Watercress mixed with two or three tablespoonfuls of minced crisply fried bacon and dressed with vinegar, salt and pepper makes a tasty supper salad.

Boiled rice dropped by tablespoonfuls around fried chicken or meat ragout makes a dainty border. But the rice should not be pressed down into a solid mass, as many cooks unthinkingly do it. It is as important to lovers of rice that it be light and fluffy as it is that bread should be of such a quality.

For a cheese rice custard for a substantial dish or an entree, mash a cupful of boiled rice to a paste, add an egg and a cupful of milk, season with a teaspoonful of butter, a tablespoonful or two of grated cheese, a little salt and pepper and turn into a baking dish or custard cups. Bake until the custard sets and the top is brown.

After Dinner Coffee.

Cafe noir is a strong decoction of black coffee which is served in small cups and is often partaken of unsweetened or merely flavored with a teaspoonful of brandy, or it may be sweetened with a spoonful of stiffly whipped cream on the top of each cup.

To produce Turkish coffee the coffee is put into its little metal pot in the proportion of two large tablespoonfuls of coffee, two lumps of sugar and half a pint of boiling water. Allow it to boil and bring it to a boil three times, after which pour it off into hot cups. This coffee should be served without milk or cream.

Bird's Nest Pudding.

Pare and core six large, sound apples, then put them into your well buttered biscuit pan; now mix together five heaping teaspoonfuls of flour, one scant teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of milk into a smooth paste, then add the yolks of three well beaten eggs; add the whites and another cup of milk; pour this over the apples, bake one hour; serve hot with hard sauce or sweetened whipped cream flavored with lemon extract.

Peanut Cookies.

Shell and rub off the inner skin of sufficient roasted peanuts to measure one pint when chopped fine. Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter and one cupful of sugar; add three eggs, two tablespoonfuls of milk, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, the chopped nuts and sufficient flour to make a soft dough. Roll out, cut in circles and bake in a moderate oven.

Cream of Celery Soup.

To two stalks of grated celery and one-half cupful of boiled rice add one pint of new milk and simmer all together gently until the celery and rice can be pressed through a sieve. Season to taste after adding one quart of hot milk thickened with a little cornstarch dissolved in cold water. Serve hot with toasted bread sticks.

To Whip Cream.

If the bowl of cream is kept in a pan of ice water during beating there will not be the embarrassment of seeing it come to butter when butter is the last thing that is wanted. The cream should be very cold before the work begins.

GREATER BOSTON

mountains, between the cities and towns. It is a singular fact, but absolutely true, that some people in fact many people, are deterred from purchasing goods in an adjoining town, by the mere simple fact that they are away from home even where the line separating the towns is an artificial or an imaginary one. There is to this rule, the so-called bargain hunting class, composed of women who crowd the trains on Monday going to Boston after advertised bargains. Ever seeking bargains, and never obtaining anything nearer a bargain than fair value for their money, and often, not even that.

Let me digress just for one moment and say that you cannot get something for nothing. That sounds tame and commonplace, but how many are there who fail to grasp the truth of it.

Well, those good ladies who are ever headed for the Boston department stores, and at the same time, many of them at least headed for nerve sanitariums, are only an exception to the rule that I have mentioned. The average woman, the average man, is influenced greatly by a sense of loyalty to home enterprise. Some of them may not even appear to know it, but the sense of loyalty is operating unconsciously as it were. The result of this is—that the man who is doing business near the line of two towns or near the line dividing Boston from another place, has really only one place from which to draw patronage. The woman who lives in Braintree, will not come to Quincy to purchase goods, if she can obtain the desired article for the same price in Braintree, and so with the lady living in Weymouth. Now although this loyalty to is to be commended, encouraged and appreciated, it is undeniable that it makes for contraction rather than expansion of business.

Do not, for a moment, suppose that I have any desire to pay tribute to the Boston bargain hunter, for although she is breaking down those artificial barriers, she is doing so without knowing it, without caring about the matter, and she never receives credit for it. She does not look for anything but bargains, and her abnormal desire for getting something for nothing (that really gentlemen, is the idea) will lead her anywhere.

We must consider the normal woman and the normal man in studying this question, the people whose equilibrium is properly adjusted. Remove the barriers between two places, Quincy and Weymouth, for instance. Merge them into one larger city, and the loyalty of the Weymouth lady to her own town is merged into loyalty for GREATER QUINCY.

Then the man doing business in either place appeals forcefully and successfully to the customer on the other side of the line that has been removed as to his next door neighbor. Then there is a chance for all business men, and the fittest will survive. The customer is benefitted by the competition; larger because fairer. This question of local loyalty, as I call it, is a most interesting one. It is worthy the study of the psychologist and special student of human nature, but for some reason it is never studied except by the merchant, and his conclusions and deductions come through the rough channels of business experience. He gains them or requires them in the college of hard knocks.

Now the same treatment may be given Boston and the other forty cities and towns more or less, that surround it. With greater Boston a political reality, the advertisement of the merchant doing business at Harvard Square would have the same interest for the party living at South Boston, except so far as the expense of transportation and the time spent in travel might diminish it, as it would have for a person living in Cambridge. This point requires no further illustration or elucidations and I pass on.

WOULD HELP BOSTON.

Let us turn our thoughts for a moment to trade outside our borders. Boston proper has a population of less than three-quarters of a million and it is rated accordingly in the markets and commercial centers of the country. Greater Boston has a population of a million and a half. Let Boston once be regarded as a city having a population of a million and a half, and it follows that it would be regarded as an important market. Other great cities in the Middle West would engage in business with us on a larger scale than now. Boston as a customer would be enhanced in dignity and importance and very naturally an increase in trade would bring in its train, general benefits to the people at large.

Then take the matter of trade with foreign countries, the same argument applies with even greater force. Boston under the new condition for which we are going to strive would be rated in the foreign markets of the world as a great city, a great market, a great distributing centre. Of necessity foreign trade would then increase, and the port of Boston would play the part that nature has fitted it to play, in the commerce of the world.

OUR WATER FRONT.

The Quincy water front would be specially developed if we were a part of Greater Boston ,for then it would be the needs of a city of a million and a half that would be forcing themselves upon the attention of Congress. It is one thing to say that the City of Quincy with her 30 odd thousand inhabitants wants an appropriation for her water front, and an entirely different thing when Greater Boston asks for it.

By reason of the great benefits that would flow from the water front development, you can see that the people of this part of greater Boston would be the ones who would reap the greatest benefit. I seriously doubt that we can ever have anything more substantial than water on our coast so long as we are a small city, as we certainly are just now. But the demands of a Greater Boston would be heard with respect in Congress.

We have not time to enumerate the which would be our portion of being a part of Greater Boston: Reduced car fares; better steam and electric car service; cheaper gas and electricity.

Under Metropolitan government our police and fire protection should be better. Then there would be educational advantages for our children, and possibilities for greater ones with the consolidated forces. The city of New York has, as part of its educational system, a college which is as free as the high schools. If Greater Boston were to become a reality there would be, very probably in a short time a similar institution in Boston. The feeling is growing that no city furnishes sufficient educational opportunity which does not enable students to pursue their study through the higher branches of learning. In other words, nothing short of college training will satisfy the young men and women of the coming generation.

OUR AMBITIONS.

We want to be part of the great throbbing city, to feel its pulsation, and take our place in the coil of the field magnets; to feel the electric current generate and pass on; and to vibrate with the strain and stress of the great metropolitan dynamo.

Tennyson expressed our sentiment for this desire to become a part of Greater Boston in his famous lines in "Locksley Hall," when he said:

"Better fifty years of Europe
Than a cycle of Cathay."

The people of Quincy and the other cities and towns in the Metropolitan district should work together for the consummation of this great idea. It is a rich heritage for the citizen of the future to be able to remark that he hails from Greater Boston. He can then say, like Paul of Tarsus, that he is a citizen of no mean city.—Applause.

EX-MAYOR SEARS

Spoke on the political aspect of the question, and argued in favor of a Greater Boston, either as by Metropolitan council or by annexation. A more extended report of his views will be given in the Daily Ledger on Wednesday.

Only two or three gentlemen had questions to ask. A rising vote of thanks was given to the speakers of the evening.

President Merton A. Turner presided, and E. J. Townsend was secretary.

Plans are perfected for the debate of Nov. 16. Another meeting of the committee is called for Friday to plan for the annual show of Feb. 8.

An invitation from the Men's club of Houghs Neck for Nov. 18 was accepted, and the club will take the affirmative on the question,—"Shall woman's suffrage prevail?"

A POOR PUPIL.

The colored boy was up in the children's court for the fifth time on charges of chicken stealing. This time the magistrate decided to appeal to the boy's father, says the Woman's Home Companion.

"Now, see here, Abe," said he to the old darky, "this boy of yours has been up in court so many times for stealing chickens that I'm sick of seeing him here."

"Ah, don't blame you, sah," returned the father. "Ah's sick ob seein' 'im hyah, too!"

"Then why don't you teach him how to act? Show him the right way, and he won't be coming here."

"Ah has showed 'im de right way, sah," declared the old man, earnestly. "Ah has suttenly showed 'im de right way, but he somehow keeps gittin' caught comin' 'way wid dose chickens!"

Bothered 'Em Long Ago.

Euclid—I have something more important. My wife has given me a telegram to send that she wants put in ten words.—Cleveland Leader.

Hard Luck.

Chief—Tell me, sir, why you have so utterly failed to get a clew to this crime. Detective—'Tain't my fault. The reporters are down on me, an' they won't tell me nothing!—Cleveland Leader.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

In Board of Metropolitan Park Commissioners, November 1, 1910.

VOTED that Rule 8 of the Rules and Regulations governing the use of automobiles and vehicles propelled by other than animal power upon the roads, driveways or parkways in the care or control of this Commission, be amended, to take effect November 15, 1910, by inserting after the word "Commission" first occurring in said rule the following language:—

except during the period beginning with the fifteenth day of November in each year and ending with the thirty-first day of March of the next succeeding year so that said rule when amended shall read as follows:—

RULE 8. No person shall have in his control or operate an automobile or motor vehicle which has about or affixed to any wheel or the tire of any wheel thereof either a chain or rope of metal or other material, upon any road, driveway or parkway in the care or control of the Metropolitan Park Commission, except during the period beginning with the fifteenth day of November in each year and ending with the thirty-first day of March of the next succeeding year and except upon that portion of Blue Hills Parkway lying between Mattapan Square in Boston and Brook Road in Milton, upon the easterly driveway of Middlesex Fells Parkway between Middlesex Avenue in Somerville and Middlesex Avenue in Medford, or upon that portion of Nahant Beach Parkway extending from Washington Street in Lynn to Nahant Road in Nahant and lying westerly and in the rear of the Nahant Beach Bath House.

VOTED that Rules numbered 1 to 7 inclusive of said Rules shall remain in full force and effect.

Where Did She Come In?

"Your divorce came out all right, Mrs. Brassy. I congratulate you on your success."

"Yes, but it came off the day of the big fight, the aviator accident in France and that preacher's elopement. What chance did I have?"

BRIEFS

Have all voted who wish?

Not as pleasant an election day as it might be.

Women's club notes in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

Early election returns will be bulletined at the Daily Ledger office.

The Bethany church choir will give a concert Monday evening Nov. 21.

Election extras of the Daily Ledger are issued only at the City election in December.

It felt like snow this morning. Snow was predicted for the northern part of New England.

Thanksgiving proclamations of President Taft and Governor Draper are out for Thursday, Nov. 24.

An open air rally in the interest of J. Mitchel Galvin for Congress was held in City Square last evening.

The new telephone rates will not go into effect until Nov. 1, 1911, unless subscribers prefer to make new contracts.

City Auditor Fairbanks reports tax collections to Nov. 1, to amount to $461,548.99, against $320,195.50 for the same months in 1909, and $288,668.34 for the same months in 1908.

A theatre train from Boston about 10.50 would be appreciated by all the Quincy stations. Passengers dislike to wait until 11.15 or 11.30. When there was a train at 10.50 it was well patronized.

At the Saturday evening whist party held in Clan McGregor hall the souvenirs were awarded to Mrs. Kennedy, John Beaton, Helen Collins, David McLeod, Mrs. Denton and D. McLennon and the consolation to Mrs. G. Craig and Mrs. J. Higgs.

Amana Rebekah lodge of South Braintree will perform the work on several candidates at its regular meeting on Thursday evening, and will have as guest Whitman lodge. The Deputy and suite and several members of George L. Gill lodge will also be present.

Bethany Circle invites members and friends of the Quincy Day Nursery Association to a "provision shower" to be given in Bethany chapel, Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. Tea will be served. Donations of groceries or money will be received at that time. Several donations have already been pledged the first on the list, being a barrel of flour from Mrs. Loring, the matron.

HUBERT LATHAM
Frenchman Performs a Great Flying Stunt at Baltimore

FLIES OVER BALTIMORE

Aviator Latham, In French Monoplane, Captures a Prize of $5000

Baltimore, Nov. 8.—Hubert Latham sailed over the skyscrapers of Baltimore and over the harbor in his Antoinette monoplane, winning a prize of $5000 and giving Baltimore the greatest thrill it has had since war times.

By his flight he covered a distance estimated at twenty-five miles in a round trip flight from the aviation field at Halethorpe and enrolled his name with those of the Americans, Moisant, Hamilton and Curtis, for daring flights over land and water. He covered the distance in 42 minutes 1-5 second.

TAXICAB DRIVERS JOIN EXPRESSMEN

Merchants Making an Effort to End Strike In New York

New York, Nov. 8.—Strong pressure to end the express strike which has so seriously hampered business was brought to bear last evening on the six trans-continental express companies involved, by the Merchants' association of New York.

Protesting that the position of the companies is unreasonable and prevents a settlement, the association, in a letter, demands that they recede from this attitude. This action followed the sympathetic strike by 2000 chauffeurs and cab drivers to aid the express employes.

Copies of the letter were sent to the officers of the companies who have been in charge of the strike situation, while the same appeal was made to every trustee and director of the corporations concerned.

TWO BROKERS ARRESTED

Accused of Trying to Sell Evidence In Boston Divorce Case

Boston, Nov. 8.—Charles A. Hancock of Brookline and George C. Orr of Sunapee, N. H., brokers, were arrested on charges of attempt at larceny by means of false pretences in connection with the Love divorce case, which is attracting great attention in the local court.

The police claim that the two men were trying to dispose of evidence to Love's attorney which they declarec would prove damaging to him if produced in court, but what the nature of the alleged evidence was they refusee to divulge.

The two men under arrest are said to have demanded $1400 for their evidence. The evidence in the case has all been put in, but the prisoners were apparently unaware of this.

FORGETFUL AT CARDS

One Reason For Woman Thinking That Brother Was Insane

New York, Nov. 8.—As evidence that the late William F. Crerand, publisher of a trade journal, was of unsound mind when he made his will, his sister, Mrs. Rose C. Finlay, offered the testimony of a trained nurse that her brother in his closing days continually forgot what was trump when playing bridge whist and had a habit, against all the rules, of turning back through the played tricks to find out what cards were out.

Crerand left about $30,000, of which the sister, who complains, receives by his will only $1500.

Charged With Setting Theatre Fire

Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 8.—Although Lawrence E. Thayer entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of maliciously setting fire to the Orpheum theatre, of which he was the owner, Judge Simpson found cause and held him in $1500 ball for the Essex county grand jury.

Rich Man Killed by Auto

Ipswich, Mass., Nov. 8.—Francis B. Armington, aged 45, president of the Armington Coal company of Marblehead, and one of the town's wealthiest citizens, was instantly killed near here by the overturning of his automobile. His neck was broken and his skull crushed.

Plass Is Arrested and Arraigned at Boston

HE IS HELD IN $3000 BAIL

Using Mails In Scheme to Defraud Is Charged Against Clergyman Who Acted as President of Redeemable Investment Company—Many Persons Became Interested In Alleged "Get-Rich-Quick" Scheme

Boston, Nov. 8.—Rev. Norman Plass, former president of the Redeemable Investment company, of 85 Devonshire street, was arrested by United States Deputy Marshall Rihl and held in $3000 on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

Plass went to the federal building in company with his attorney, Francis M. Carroll. They called at the office of United States District Attorney French and there waited for Assistant District Attorney Garland, who went with them before Commissioner Hayes. Plass' sureties, Robert W. Bartlett of Somerville and Peter F. McKenna of Woburn, were accompanied to the office by John P. Feeney, counsel for Charles H. Brooks, manager of the company, who was arrested on a similar charge recently.

When brought before Hayes a plea of not guilty was entered and Plass was held in $3000, the same amount of sureties as had been required for Brooks.

Plass has been in Victoria, B. C., and it is understood that he returned to Boston voluntarily, after learning that the federal authorities wanted him. A complete investigation of the books and papers of the Redeemable Investment company and it subsidiary companies has been conducted by Postoffice Inspectors Clarahan and Perkins, with the assistance of William E. Hingston, handwriting expert. It is understood that the disclosures were such that it was thought necessary to have Plass to explain some of the transactions.

The federal authorities learned that Plass was in Boston and service was at once made upon him. He asked that time be given him in order to secure bail, and arrangements were made for his going to the federal building yesterday afternoon.

Many persons well known all over the country purchased stock in the Redeemable Investment company on the representations made by Plass. It is said that social affairs at his home in West Newton were made the means for presenting glowing accounts of "get-rich-quick" schemes. It is alleged that he used testimonials from public officials in connection with his schemes. Since the arrest of Brooks it has been shown that Plass secured these letters when he was raising a fund for Washburn college.

The Redeemable Investment company is incorporated with a capital stock of 1,500,000 shares of a par value of $10. In the circulars it was claimed that it owned or controlled mines in Mexico and wheat and timber lands in the northwest of Canada.

NEVER AGAIN, SAYS ABBEY

Famous American Artist Refuses to Paint Coronation Scene

London, Nov. 8.—Edwin A. Abbey, the American R. A., has declined the honor of painting the scene in Westminster Abbey when King George is crowned. He was selected to do the coronation picture for King Edward, which hangs in Buckingham palace, but, says Abbey, "never again!"

The reason he gives is that he is "dissatisfied" after his first experience. It was necessary that he should obtain private sittings from something like 100 distinguished persons who took a prominent part in the pageant.

He had cause to lament unpunctuality in the matter of sittings, petulance and vanity.

Will of New York Man Provides For Feast For Twelve Friends

New York, Nov. 8.—Twelve friends of the late Ratje Sledenburg, a well-to-do business man, who died here last Otober, are directed by the terms of the will, filed for probate yesterday afternoon, to eat a dinner costing $500, or $41.66 a plate, at the expense of the estate.

The selection of the guests and the time and place of the dinner are left to his executor, with the sole provision that the dinner must be eaten within three months of the testator's death.

Little Girl Killed by Car

DICKINSON HOME AGAIN

Enthusiastic Over Results of His Trip to the Far East

New York, Nov. 8.—Secretary of War Dickinson returned from his trip around the world on the liner Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, from Bremen.

The secretary was anxious to get news of the progress of the political campaign and asked for the latest forecasts, but would express no opinion himself. He was enthusiastic over the results of his trip to the Far East.

Describing his trip around the world, on which he traveled about 35,000 miles, he said:

"We left July 28 and went to the Philippines, where five weeks were spent in examining the administration of army affairs and various matters pertaining to the service. On the way there we passed through Tokio. After leaving the Philippines we went to China, and at Pekin I presented a letter from President Taft to the emperor. Thence by way of Siberia we went to St. Petersburg and to Berlin. I certainly am glad to get back."

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Mrs. Averill Arraigned on Charge of Murdering Husband

St. Albans, Vt., Nov. 8.—Pleading not guilty to an indictment charging murder in the first degree, Mrs. Frank C. Averill was arraigned in court here as the result of the death of her husband by shooting.

Averill's death resulted from wounds received on the night of Oct. 20. It is alleged that he told the first persons who rendered him assistance that his wife had shot him. Mrs. Averill maintained that the shooting was accidental and her defense will be conducted along that line.

Traveling Salesman a Suicide

Boston, Nov. 8.—William B. Webster, 44, of South Paris, Me., traveling salesman in the employ of the Oscar Holway company of Auburn, Me., flour dealers, committed suicide at a Boston hotel by shooting himself in the right temple. It is believed that the act was induced by poor health.

New Mills For Brattleboro

Brattleboro, Vt., Nov. 8.—The final steps to assure the location of the New Fort Dummer cotton mills here were taken last night when the town voted to exempt the concern from taxation for ten years. The work of erecting the factory building will be started at once.

THE PERFECT WAY

Scores of Quincy Citizens Have Learned It.

If you suffer from backache,
There is only one way to cure it.
The perfect way is to cure the kidneys.
A bad back means sick kidneys.
Neglect it, urinary troubles follow.
Doan's Kidney Pills are made for kidneys only.
Are endorsed by Quincy people.

W. Charlesworth, 33 Cranch Street, Quincy, Mass., says. "About five years ago I began to suffer from kidney trouble. I had pains in my back which were very severe at times and cold or damp weather aggravated my suffering. I knew that my kidneys were at fault and used everything I could think of in an effort to obtain relief, but to no avail. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, I finally decided to give them a trial and procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. Before I had finished the contents of two boxes, the backache was a thing of the past and I felt better in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement."

LAND COURT

To M. Josie Belcher, Helen A. Dearing and Frank H. Dearing of Braintree, in the County of Norfolk, and said Commonwealth; Etta J. Moses, Carrie E. Darrow, George W. Rackham and Harriet E. Turner of Quincy, in said County of Norfolk; Willis E. Kingsbury of Brockton, in the County of Plymouth, and said Commonwealth; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Gerda Elizabeth Nelson of said Quincy, to register and confirm her title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situate in said Quincy, bounded Southerly by Bay View Avenue forty-five (45) feet, West by land of Carrie E. Darrow one hundred forty-six and eighty-three one hundredths (146.83) feet; northeasterly by land now or late of Etta J. Moses fifty and eight tenths (50.8) feet and easterly by land of George W. Rackham one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet; containing about 6116 square feet.

Petitioner claims as appurtenant to the above described land rights of way in said Bay View Avenue (private way) in common with others entitled thereto.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the twenty-first day of November A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-ninth day of October in the year nineteen hundred and ten.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

DOUBT EXISTS AS TO OUTCOME

Cross Currents In Bay State Political Situation

RHODE ISLAND IS IN DOUBT

Confusion In Relation to Successor to Aldrich In United States Senate—Both Parties Expecting Victory In New Hampshire—Connecticut Is Claimed by Both Parties—Chairmen of New York State Committees Repeat Claims—Progressive Vote In New Jersey Seems to Favor Wilson—All Three Candidates Hopeful In Pennsylvania—Harmon's Chances Considered Good In Ohio

Boston, Nov. 8.—Massachusetts is today electing state officers—a governor, a lieutenant governor, a secretary of the commonwealth, an auditor of accounts, a treasurer and receiver general and an attorney general; fourteen congressmen, eight executive councillors, and forty state senators and 240 members of the state house of representatives, who will elect a United States senator for a six-year term to succeed Mr. Lodge, whose present term will expire on March 4, 1911.

Under the "Walker-Cushing" act, which was passed by the legislature of 1910, the question of electing state senators and representatives by direct nominations will be referred to the voters today in three senatorial and thirteen representative districts.

The name of Eugene N. Foss will appear twice on the official ballot—first as "Democrat" and just below as "Democratic Progressive." This is due to the complications attending his nomination.

Not for a great many years has it been so difficult to forecast with accuracy the result of a gubernatorial campaign in Massachusetts as it is today. The great difficulty in forecasting the result of the election is due to the multiplicity of bewildering cross currents which one encounters. In going about the state, one finds scores and hundreds of Republicans who say openly that they are going to vote for Foss and who predict his election. On the other hand, there are scores and hundreds of Democrats who say they are going to put a cross opposite Draper's name and who assert that he will win. No one can know how these elements will counterbalance each other.

A great deal depends on Boston's vote today. If Foss carries the city by 25,000 to 30,000, as he claims that he will do, he will be elected, for it will also indicate a general Foss wave all over the state. The Republicans claim that Foss' Boston plurality will be kept down to 15,000.

Final arguments in the case of Draper vs. Foss were made last night. The Republicans had rallies in seventeen Massachusetts cities and towns, while the Democrats had rallies in forty-two cities and towns. Both parties had big noonday rallies in Boston. Governor Draper spoke six times in and about Boston. Foss made a "whirlwind tour," speaking at fifty-one rallies in and about Boston.

Chairman Hatfield of the Republican state committee said late last night: "Our campaign was carefully mapped out. Rallies have been held in every part of the state. Governor Draper will win by 47,000 plurality."

Governor Draper would give no figures, but said he was confident of victory.

Mr. Foss had this to say: "After a very careful canvass of the state, I am convinced that we shall come to Boston with 25,000 majority, and we will add 30,000 to that here in Boston."

Hot Contest In New Hampshire

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—The day before election in New Hampshire found the party leaders still in the thick of the fray, a number of rallies being held during the day and evening.

The officers of both state committees maintain an attitude of entire confidence. Chairman Cook of the Republican state committee adheres to his claim that Bass will be elected by between 6000 and 8000 plurality, and both congressmen re-elected easily, while Chairman Jameson of the Democratic state committee is equally emphatic in his declaration that today's voting will result in placing the Democratic party in possession of the governorship and the congressional seat now occupied by Congressman Sulloway in the First district.

The license question, which is also to be decided today, is also an issue in the voting, although of a non-partisan character. The cities of the state declare on the question every four years, and the towns every two years.

Complications In Rhode Island

Providence, Nov. 8.—After one of the hardest fought political campaigns Rhode Island has seen in recent years the greatest uncertainty prevails as to the outcome of the congressional and gubernatorial contests, while the voters of the state are at the polls today with no definite idea as to the identity of the Republican candidate for United States senator for whom the members of the legislature to be elected by them will be called upon to vote at the next session of that body.

Up to less than a week ago it was confidently believed that Samuel P. Colt would be the party's choice of nominee for the office which Senator Aldrich is about to vacate. Then Colt stepped out of the race "for business reasons." An interpretation of that phrase ascribes the "reasons" to a trade with the retiring senator whereby Colt is said to have been promised the berth now filled by Senator Wetmore at the expiration of the latter's term in two years.

Whatever the cause of the rubber magnate's withdrawal, it left the party with only one avowed candidate for the national office, Henry F. Lippitt, a millionaire cotton manufacturer. But opposition to Lippitt's aspirations has appeared rapidly. Sentiment in opposition to Lippitt already has crystalized in a movement in favor of Judge Le Baron B. Colt, brother of Samuel P. Colt.

Both Claim Connecticut

New Haven, Nov. 8.—While Republican and Democratic leaders are predicting safe pluralities for their respective tickets in the election today, neither side overlooked any efforts during the last few hours of the campaign.

The prediction from Republican state headquarters of a pluraity of about 20,000 for that party's ticket and the claim of about 8000 plurality for the Democratic ticket by the leaders of that party, made last week, are unchanged.

Claims In New York

New York, Nov. 8.—Distribution of cash for election expenses in the various districts of the city was on Monday's program of activities at Tammany Hall, while a similar process was followed at Republican city headquarters. Both of the leading campaigners for the Republicans in the state fight had an active day.

No revision has been made of the estimate of the campaign managers at state headquarters here of the results of today's balloting. Democratic Chairman Huppuch rests on his estimates of 140,000 to 160,000 plurality for Dix for governor, while Republican State Chairman Prentice claims the state by 110,000 for Stimson.

New Jersey Likes Wilson

Trenton, Nov. 8.—Both sides are claiming victory in New Jersey. The Democrats, however, are the more confident and their views seem to be sustained by the independent newspapers of the state. The Democrats are depending for their success upon the commuters and the progressive vote in north New Jersey and also upon the independent Democrats who have been voting the Republican ticket in recent years.

The Republicans concede their weakness in these respects, but expect to offset it by drawing heavily from the labor vote in favor of Vivian M. Lewis, their candidate for governor, because of some criticisms Mr. Wilson, the Democratic candidate, passed upon labor unions in some of his addresses while president of Princeton university.

Three Run In Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—The three-cornered fight for governor and two other state offices has produced an interesting situation in this state. Congressman Tener, the Republican candidate for governor, State Senator Grim, the Democratic nominee, and former State Treasurer Berry, a Democrat, who was named as an independent candidate for governor under the banner of the Keystone party, all have expressed themselves as confident of election.

Tener's campaign managers declare he will have a plurality of more than 150,000. Berry says he will split the Republican and Democratic vote to such an extent as to give him a plurality in the entire state of 125,000. Grim says the Keystone party ticket will hurt the Republicans more than the Democrats and he looks for a Democratic victory.

Expected to Return Harmon

Columbus, O., Nov. 8.—No prominent Republicans are claiming a large plurality for Harding, their candidate for governor, in today's election. Their figures run close, about 10,000, but they predict that the rest of the state ticket will have no less than 4000. The Democratic leaders are relying on the development of the same disgruntled condition among the Republicans in this state as has been discovered in all the special and regular elections in other states since the passage of the new tariff law, and say the result will be the election of Governor Harmon by over 50,000, and most of the rest of the state ticket by reduced majority.

Among the impartial but well-informed, the notion prevails that Harmon will be re-elected by a plurality about what it was two years ago, that the state delegation in congress will stand about as it does now, and that the legislature will be close on joint ballot, with the chances slightly in favor of the Democats in the matter.

Turnover In Tennessee?

Nashville, Nov. 8.—Tennessee today is electing a governor, a railroad commissioner from west Tennessee, ten congressmen and a legislature, which in turn will choose a successor to United States Senator Frazier.

The contest is between the regular Democrats and the combined forces of the Independent Democrats and Republicans. United States Senator R. B. Taylor is standard bearer of the regular Democrats, and Ben W. Hooper, Republican, is the Fusionist leader.

On the strength of the judicial race in August, when the independent Democratic candidates, aided by Republican votes, swept the state by 40,000 majority, Hooper has been decided favorite in the betting.

Uncertain In Delaware

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 8.—Election day in Delaware finds the political situation decidedly uncertain, with the Republicans claiming the state and Democrats hopeful. Democrats confidently claim a majority of the legislature.

California Will Be Close

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—Both sides in this state are claiming victory. Theodore A. Bell, the Democratic standard bearer, issued a statement in which he said that he would win from Hiram W. Johnson, his Republican opponent, by 20,000 votes, and that he would carry his ticket with him. Johnson and the managers of his campaign give it as their judgment that the state will go Republican at least 30,000.

HAD PAILS OF EXPLOSIVES

Little Girl Causes Half a Dozen Oil Drillers to Have Bad Scare

Washington, Pa., Nov. 8.—Totally ignorant of her danger, and under the impression that she was carrying water, 11-year-old Mildred Anderson tripped along, carrying with each hand a pail of nitroglycerine which had been prepared for shooting an oil well on the Cameron farm near here.

As she carelessly swung the pails, half a dozen oil drillers stood breathless 100 yards away, fearing every moment to see the child sent into eternity.

At a quiet command from her father the child set the pails down and was taken out of danger. The men, unnerved, suspended work for the day.

FORTNIGHT'S DELAY IN CRIPPEN HANGING

Two Weeks Must Elapse After Dismissal of Appeal

London, Nov. 8.—It is officially announced that Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, will not be executed today as originally arranged, for the reason that the law provides that two weeks must elapse between the dismissal of an appeal and the carrying out of the sentence.

Nov. 23 has been fixed upon as the date of the execution. Meantime Crippen's counsel is drafting a petition for a reprieve.

When the appeal was denied on Saturday, the announcement of the court's decision was coupled with what was taken to be a confirmation of the order of execution, which provided that Crippen should die today.

REMAINS SUMMER CAPITAL

President Leases Large Estate at Beverly For Two Years

Beverly, Mass., Nov. 8.—Beverly is again to be the summer capital of the nation in 1911 and 1912, despite the refusal of Mrs. Robert D. Evans to renew the lease of the Burgess Point house which President Taft leased the last two years, for it is announced here that the president has signed a two years' lease of Parramatta, the magnificent Peabody estate.

The estate covers sixty-five acres of ground, with varied scenery, lawn and forest, upland slopes and dales.

More than a score of houses were offered to the president for leases, but Parramatta appealed especially to Mrs. Taft and she is said to have cast the deciding vote.

WOULD WHIP WIFE BEATERS

Washington Police Chief Thinks It Would Act as Deterrent

Washington, Nov. 8.—"I favor the establishment of the whipping post for wife beaters and pocketbook snatchers. My opinion is that it would act as a deterrent, and that it would seldom have to be put to use."

This statement was made by Chief of Police Sylvester. He said he had held this opinion for years and saw no reason to change it. The statement of the chief was prompted by a debate of the subject by the Washington college of law, in which the affirmative side won.

go about their duties cheerfully—at home, in office or in store, or shop—They find life pleasant and the world full of good; they are attractive and they are able to make things pleasant for those about them. But women often find themselves weak and anemic or run down—maybe, through no fault of their own—Then there is depression—the outlook is dark. With nerves on edge no woman can enjoy life or be attractive to others. At such times, or when conditions cause undue suffering, every woman needs some natural help.

She should then know and use the famous and fully proved remedy—Beecham's Pills, so particularly adapted to the needs of women. Easy and safe to take, they tone the stomach, regulate the bowels and keep the liver and kidneys up to their work.

They improve physical conditions and help all the organs of the body to perform their functions naturally and without suffering. A few doses make a vast difference. Try them and see for yourself how quickly a bright, clear, complexion replaces a sallow skin. If you need to get rid of dullness, pimples, headaches, backaches, lassitude, irritability and extreme nervousness learn the marvelous power for good of the harmless, natural remedy, Beecham's Pills.

BRIEFS

Mrs. John Manhire and daughter, Jennie, spent the week end in Lowell the guests of relatives.

Richard R. Freeman has been renominated as secretary of the Massachusetts Golf association for the coming year.

The cruiser Birmingham, built at the Fore River, sailed from Newport on Monday for Savanah. She will make a stop at New York.

The Ladies' Aid of the Hall Place M. E. church will meet in the vestry of the church Wednesday. An invitation is extended to all ladies of the church to meet with the society.

Water receipts of the city for the first ten months of 1910 are but slightly in excess of last year. The figures to Nov. 1, 1910, are $110,263.13; for the ten months of 1909 they were $109,006.25, and for the same period in 1908, $100,836.71.

The temperature at noon today was a record breaker for coldness, for not in 15 years has the mercury reached as low a point on Nov. 8 as today, when it registered 43 degrees. The nearest approach to it was in 1903 when it was 47 at noon.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Evelyn Baxter Newcomb, daughter of Charles H. S. Newcomb of Woburn, formerly of Quincy Point, and John Joseph Harris, the ceremony to be solemnized at the home of the bride, 20 Cedar street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wood of Independence avenue are building a beautiful new house on Presidents avenue. They expect to move in by Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Wood are well known residents of Quincy and their friends wish them many years of health, wealth and happiness in their new home.

At the whist party held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. C. G. Fletcher, Garfield street for the benefit of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans, nine tables were in play. Souvenirs were awarded to A. J. Williams, M. MacQuarrie, William Jones, Lena Allen, Mrs. E. Sylvester and Mrs. Cora Carmen.

Miss Lois Kendall, daughter of Dr. W. K. Kendall, of Atlantic, Monday won the final match in the Wellesley college tourney. The match was virtually for the championship of the college, in that Miss Kendall was selected as the best golf player in sophomore class to compete against the best player in the senior class.

NEW CONTRACT AT SHIPYARD

Quincy to Build Another Torpedo Boat Destroyer

A dispatch to the Daily Ledger from Washington, this noon ,states that the Fore River Ship Building Co. has been awarded the contract for the building of a torpedo boat destroyer, bids for which were opened this morning.

At the Fore River plant it was stated that the Fore River Co., bid was for one or six boats.

The boats to be built are the same type as the Perkins, Sterett and Walke, all of which were built by the Fore River Co. Their principal dimensions are:

Length between perpendiculars, 289 feet.

Length overall, 293 feet, 10 1-2 inches.

Breadth, moulded, 26 feet, 4 1-2 inches.

Trial displacement, 742 tons.

Trial shaft, 8 feet, 4 inches.

The battery will consist of five 3 inch guns, three 45 c-m torperdo tubes on deck, two 30 calibre automatic guns.

The boats will be equipped with the American Curtis turbine of the improved type. The new type of engine not only weighs less, but will develop more power ,and are more economical in the consumption of fuel. They will be equipped for oil burning.

In the recent trials of the Perkins and Sterett both proved to be very fast, and exceeded in every way the government requirements. The Walke, the last of the three, was launched last Thursday.

DUELS GROWING DANGEROUS.

German Severely Wounded When Bullet Ricochets From Trees.

Duelists will really have to be more careful. It is becoming quite dangerous to intrust them with pistols. For the second time recently a combatant has been struck accidentally by a bullet. It was only by a happy chance that he escaped a wound.

Herr Joachim von Bethmann-Hollweg of Runowo, cousin of the German chancellor, went out in the Grimewald forest to fight a duel with the owner of a neighboring estate, Count Heinrich von der Goltz. The reasons for the combat were not stated, but it is held that they must have been very grave, inasmuch as the conditions were that shots should be exchanged until one the parties was incapacitated.

At the second shot a bullet from Herr Bethmann-Hollweg's pistol ricocheted off a tree and struck his adversary in the abdomen. Count von der Goltz, who is fifty-five, was not wounded, but was so severely shaken by the impact that the seconds decided that he was incapacitated under the conditions agreed upon.

Cutting.

A Scotch lawyer was well reproved when, seated by a lady fully aware of her own plain looks, having bowed to his hostess in giving the toast, "Honest Men and Bonnie Lasses," she rejoined, raising her own glass, "We may both drink that toast, since it refers to neither of us."

DRAPER OR FOSS?

polling place this morning that Candidate McDevitt would not get any phenominal vote in this ward, even though he has flooded the ward with political literature, and has held several open air rallies in the vicinity of the Tubular Rivet plant. This ward gave Langelier a plurality over Flaherty of 285, and he will increase it materially. This plurality will offset the plurality which is certain to be given McDevitt in the West Quincy ward. While it has been reported that there was some opposition to Langelier this year, when it comes down to placing a cross against one of the names the Republicans of the ward will think twice before that cross goes down opposite the name of the Democratic candidate.

Precinct one, that on the westerly side of the railroad track, and the largest precinct of the two, had registered 390 votes at 10 o'clock, against a total vote of 439 a year ago. Precinct two had cast 289, as against a total vote of 288 a year ago.

This shows that the voting was very brisk during the first five hours and means that many voted on their way to Boston. Between 12 and 1 o'clock a large vote is looked for, as it is during this hour that the voters employed at the Tubular Rivet wil exercise their right of franchise. From one well informed as to the sentiment of the employes there, it is learned that with all the hue and cry not many converts have been made for Foss, for they generally consider that Draper is the fairer man to labor of the two.

Numerous carriages are in use at the polls, but they are not being worked over time, as a very large majority of the voters are employed in Boston and voted before going to the city.

WARD SIX.

That Atlantic will poll nearly its full voting strength was evident by the activity that characterized the early voting in both precincts. The ward is nominally Republican and if it remains Republican this year the election of Representative Langelier is assured.

A year ago there was but little doing at either precinct. Then there was not interest enough taken by either party to have carriages at the polling places. Today it is different, for several automobiles and carriages are in use, so that he who wishes may ride.

In precinct one the vote is phenomenally large. At the State election last November the total vote of the precinct was but 277 and at the municipal election 286, yet up to 9.30 this morning 280 had voted. Of course there is some increase in registration, but even then it is very apparent that this precinct will run way ahead of a year ago. This is the precinct in which the larger part of the Democratic vote is located, and where Candidate McDevitt expects to make great gains. While it is generally conceded at the polling place that he will receive a considerably larger vote than did Mr. Flaherty last year, the precinct will give Candidate Langelier a good vote and he will carry the precinct by fully as much as he did a year ago.

In precinct two, Candidate Langelier's own precinct, there is also a large vote being cast ,the vote at 9.30 being 190. A year ago this precinct had a total vote of 274, and the indications are that this year it will be largely in excess of that number. This is the Republican precinct, and was carried last year by Langelier by 90 votes over Flaherty. The precinct will stand by Langelier and he will receive as large if not a larger plurality than a year ago. Candidate Langelier is spending the most of his time at this polling place, and his lieutenants are seeing to it that the usual stay-at-homes get out and vote.

This is also the home ward of Candidate Coombs, and while the ward will give him a good vote, it is believed that Barnes will carry the ward. Vahey carried the ward last year by 47 votes, and friends of Foss claim that he will do even better than Vahey.

1 O'CLOCK VOTE.

The following summary shows that at 1 o'clock today the vote was in excess of the total vote of 1909 in some wards:

	Today at 1 o'clock	Total 1909
Ward One	840	909
Ward Two	607	627
Ward Three	721	787
Ward Four	664	648
Ward Five	805	727
Ward Six	625	548
	4,262	4,246

NEGOTIATIONS ARE AT AN END

Western Railroads and Enginemen Fail to Agree

DEMAND FOR PAY INCREASE

Wage Difference of Seven Percent Standing Between Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Employers Means Approximately $2,800,000 a Year—Strike Will Be Declared Against Sixty-One Companies

Chicago, Nov. 8.—A strike vote will be taken among engineers of sixty-one railroads, west, south and north of Chicago, including the Illinois Central, following the termination of the negotiations between the roads and grand officers of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Difference in wage increases of approximately 7 percent and alteration of working conditions stood between the negotiators.

Grand Chief Stone of the Brotherhood, who has been leading the railroad men in their demands, said he believed the strike vote would be unanimously in favor of suspension of work and that the enginemen would have expressed their desire by Dec. 10.

Immediately thereafter, he said, a last opportunity would be given the railroads to meet the workers and if they ignored that opportunity, within five hours every engine west of Chicago, on all branches of service, would be stilled, the fires drawn and out of the thousands of cabs would step every driver on duty.

The general working conditions of which engine drivers complain include, among other things, the following: Drivers of the Mallett compound engines, which do practically the work of two engines, and entail a correspondingly greater responsibility and capability, receive the same wages as other drivers of high power engines of much lesser capacity. Engineers wish to be relieved of the toil of preparing their engines for travel and of caring for them after runs.

The magnitude of the wage question is evidenced by a statement by the employes that the 7 percent wage difference now standing between the drivers and the railroads means approximately $2,800,000 a year. The cost of alterations of the working conditions, minor considerations in the conference, would not be less than $500,000, it is asserted.

GOOD OLD SCHOOL DAYS!

The conductor on a Western freight train saw a tramp stealing a ride on one of the forward cars. He told a brakeman in the caboose to go up and put the man off at the next stop. When the brakeman approached the tramp, the latter waved a big revolver and told him to keep away.

"Did you get rid of him?" the conductor asked the brakeman, when the train was under motion again.

"I hadn't the heart," was the reply. "He turned out to be an old school friend of mine."

"I'll take care of him" said the conductor, as he started over the tops of the cars.

After the train had made another stop and gone on, the brakeman came into the caboose and said to the conductor:

"Well, is he off?"

"No, he turned out to be an old school friend of mine, too."—Everybody's Magazine.

LOUIS W. FROTHINGHAM

Republican Candidate For Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts

CITY DEMOCRATIC FOR HEAD OF TICKET

Also for R. P. Coombs for Senator But Otherwise Strongly Republican

Frothingham Had Lead Here of 469 Votes

All eyes were upon Quincy, and the city was again the index of the political choice in Massachusetts. "As goes Quincy so goes the State and the Nation." It has been so for 21 State elections, during which time the State has elected five Democratic Governors, and in these five years (and no others) the City of Presidents has given Democratic pluralities for the head of the ticket.

The vote of Quincy on Tuesday for Governor was:

FOSS	2,438
DRAPER	2,302
Plurality	91

Last year the vote was close the other way:

DRAPER	2,005
VAHEY	1,913
Plurality	92

It will be seen that while Draper gained 297 in Quincy that Foss gained 525. It was this percentage of gain throughout the State that elected Foss.

Quincy may still be considered a Republican city by over 800 plurality as is shown by the vote for the balance

BARNES ELECTED TO SENATE

Coombs of Quincy Gave Him Close Run

Ex-Representative Rednor P. Coombs of this city certainly made a remarkable run in the First Norfolk Senatorial district, reducing the usual Republican plurality of 2,000 or more to about 500. George L. Barnes is elected by a vote of 6,547 to 6,015.

Barnes carried Weymouth, Braintree, Holbrook, Milton and Hyde Park, while Quincy, Randolph and Canton were with Coombs.

The vote in detail by towns was:

	Barnes	Coombs	Hess
Quincy	2130	2410	132
Weymouth	1203	911	81
Braintree	634	419	86
Holbrook	217	117	61
Milton	742	434
Randolph	228	375	41
Canton	337	411	7
Hyde Park	1056	938
	6547	6015

The vote in 1909 was:

	Foley	Hultman	Hess
Quincy	1337	2436	155
Weymouth	1182	1112	95
Braintree	283	700	—

SENT TO JAIL.

Genasio Mezzatlt of 123 Sumner street, who made a serious assault on his wife Oct. 27, was arraigned in court this morning and sentenced to one year in the house of correction. It is alleged that Mezzatti became angry when his wife remonstrated with him for drinking and struck her three blows over the head with a piece of joist. Since that time the woman has been confined to the City Hospital. It was brought out this morning that the man had been a sufferer from fits and his sentence to jail was in order that physicians might have an opportunity to observe him.

GURLEY BY 4,562

Galvin Led in Quincy, Milton and Dorchester

The Democratic victory in the Tenth Congressional district was decisive, James M. Curley being elected over J. Mitchel Galvin by 4,562 votes. Quincy, Milton, the Dorchester ward and the Roxbury ward were all Republican but when they reached Wards 16 and 17 with a lead of only 1798 they were soon swallowed up and the South Boston wards put on the finishing touches. Ward 17 was the Democratic stronghold with over 2,000 plurality for their candidate. It may be the last election that Quincy and Milton will be linked up with South Boston.

ARRESTED FOR FALSE ALARM.

Peter Lemner, aged 52 years, of 33 Winter street, was arrested by Officer Therne this morning for sounding a false alarm of fire. The alarm was from Box 173 and was sounded at 1.30 A. M. When the box rang in, Officer Thorne started for the box, and as he did so he saw Lemner come from it, and run into the woods. When it was found that the alarm was false the officer went after the man he had seen running from the box. He found him at his boarding house at 33 Winter street. When the officer entered the house he found his man in bed with his clothes on, and immediately placed him under arrest. Lemner was arraigned in court and was held until Thursday.

REPUBLICANS REELECT BOTH REPRESENTATIVES

Not So Close for William R. Thomas in Fifth As It Was Last Year

Langelier Led McDevitt by Only 92 Votes

Contrary to general expectations the Sixth Representative district was closer this year than the Fifth district. Most people thought that Thomas had the hardest fight, and many expected that he would be defeated, but he increased his total nearly 200 and won by a plurality of 159, which was 61 ahead of last year. Sullivan increased his total but did not gain as many as Thomas.

In the Sixth district, Councilman McDevitt gave Langelier a hard rub. Where the latter had over 400 to spare last year he had a plurality of less than 100 this year. Langelier increased his vote only about 100 over

Election Over

Lets Get Down To Business

To hear some of those chaps talk who were running for office, you'd think this great country was going to the bow-wows. The political storm has now passed, but we'll continue to pay just as much house rent, just as much for what we eat and wear as heretofore.

The sensible thing to do is to get right down to business—look things square in the face and make up your mind your're going to make the best of things as they are. First thing to do is to make your home comfortable for the winter, for it's in your home you'll get about all the real comfort this life affords. Furnish your home in an attractive manner, it wont cost much if you trade in this store where it's easy to buy and easy to pay.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

CORTHELL—ROGERS.

An unusually delightful and interesting wedding took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Miss Alice Caroline Rogers daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Rogers, and John Everett Corthell, of North Abington were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, 18 Washington street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edwin N. Hardy of Bethany church in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white satin messaline trimmed with crystal bands, and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith of Wollaston as the bride advanced, accompanied by her father and the matron of honor, Mrs. Fred G. Barrow. The groom was attended by Walter C. Rogers, Dartmouth '09, a brother of the bride. The matron of honor wore a handsome gown of pink trimmed with pink pan velevet and surmounted by a crystal net yoke. Her bouquet was made up of daybreak pinks and maidenhair. The house was tastefully decorated in green and white with palms and chrysanthemums as a foundation for the color scheme. At the reception which folowed, the ushers were Harry Hale of Lynn, Arthur H. Rogers of Pittsfield, Fred G. Barrow of Cambridge, Alexander Fish of West Somerville and Berthold Rogers of Brockton. The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Arthur H. Rogers, Mrs. Berthold Rogers of Brockton, Mrs. Lewis Sawyer of Worcester, Miss Ethel Riley of Georgetown, Mrs. Alexander Fish of West Somerville, Miss Alice McGown of Wollaston and Miss Rebecca Hinckley of Dorchester. Several very delightful solos were rendered during the reception by Miss Nina Hatch of Roxbury.

A dainty luncheon was served to the guests at the close of the reception.

Another romance connected with this one has been revealed very recently. At 12 o'clock today Miss Iva L. Purrington of Quincy and Fred G. Barrow of Cambridge were quietly married at Christ church by Rev. R. E. Armstrong. The couple were attended by Miss Alice Rogers who at 2 o'clock became Mrs. Corthell, and by John E. Corthell the groom of the home wedding. Mrs. Barrow in turn acted as matron of honor and Mr. Barrow as an usher at the second ceremony.

The reception was for both couples and the cumulative effect of having four people to receive congratulations instead of two made it a doubly pleasant occasion. At the close of the reception the happy couples left for a short weding trip. Upon their return they will make their temporary residence at 18 Wasrington street where they will be at home after Dec. 15.

QUINCY NIGHT.

The management of "The Chocolate Soldier," which is having such a successful run at the Majestic theatre, Boston, announces a series of special nights for out of town patrons. Monday evening Nov. 14, will be Quincy night and the best seats in all parts of the house will be reserved that evening for Quincy patrons. Theatre parties from here intending to take advantage of this splendid opportunity should specially note the coupon in the advertisement announcing this night and it should be shown at the box office or inclosed in an order by mail to entitle you to the special courtesies which are extended by the managment on this occasion.

Arrangements have been made with the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad to have attached to the 7.30 train to Boston, and to the train returning at 11.15 after the performance, special coaches which may be occupied only by those holding Majestic theatre tickets or coupons which have stamped on them Quincy night.

In purchasing tickets, either by phone, letter or in person ,at the Majestic ticket office you should be sure to refer to the coupon in the advertisement and specify that you wish your ticket stamped Quincy night.

EUGENE N. FOSS

Boston, Nov. 9.—Eugene N. Foss was elected governor of Massachusetts. It was a Democratic landslide all over the state. The returns of the state on the political complexion of the next legislature show heavy Democratic gains. Foss' plurality is about 27,000.

The big Democratic victory makes the re-election of Senator Lodge very doubtful, since but few of the Republicans are pledged to vote for him.

Lieutenant Governor Frothingham only led Thomas F. Cassidy, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, by something over 3000 votes.

The Democrats gained two congressional districts. Congressman Washburn went down to defeat in the Third district before John A. Thayer. In the Fourth district, Wilder, the Republican candidate, was defeated by Mitchell. Thatcher was defeated by Harris in the Fourteenth district by 231 votes.

LOUIS A. FROTHINGHAM

In Boston, Murray defeated Kelliher. Curley, Democrat, defeated Galvin, Republican, in the Tenth district, by nearly 5000. In the Eleventh district Congressman Peters was re-elected, defeating Cotton.

The Democrats will gain between 25 and 30 members in the house. This will give the Democrats close to 100 members, as against 69 last year out of a total of 240 members. Together with the progressive Republicans, the Democrats will be in a very formidable position to fight Lodge.

The Democrats will in all probability have 16 members in the senate, a gain of seven over last year, out of a total of 40. The same situation obtains in the senate as in the house. Lodge has not the votes pledged to his candidacy to make his chances of re-election certain.

The victory of Foss was complete. In being elected governor of Massachusetts he has achieved the ambition of a lifetime. Foss was the one Republican in Massachusetts who for years bitterly fought Lodge. His election is regarded as a direct blow against Lodge.

Foss came into Boston a winner. His victory was complete. Despite the talk of disaffection in Boston, he carried the city by nearly 28,000 votes, the second largest plurality the city ever gave to a Democratic governor in the history of the state. Governor Douglas had a plurality of 35,989 in Boston.

The winning candidate for governor carried the cities as did Douglas, and he made tremendous gains in the towns.

The Republicans had based their hope of winning on the reserve vote. This vote came out, but it was Democratic. Over 400,000 votes came out, the fourth time in the history of the state that such a heavy vote was cast.

Vote of Confidence, Says Foss

The following statement was issued by Governor-elect Foss:

"This victory voices the protest of Massachusetts against the Payne-Aldrich act, the present high cost of living and the broken pledges of the Republican party. This was the issue which won the fight in the Fouteenth congressional district last spring.

"Massachusetts, the supposed chief beneficiary of this ultra-high tariff, repudiates it. She demands from the incoming congress an immediate downward revision of the tariff, an untaxed food supply, free raw materials and real reciprocity with Canada.

"I deeply appreciate the great honor and realize the responsibility which it brings. It is a vote of confidence on the part of the people of the commonwealth. We must make good. I shall endeavor to do my part and I ask the co-operation of every citizen."

What Draper Says

Governor Draper issued this statement:

"In a very large vote Mr. Foss seems to have been elected by a substantial plurality. I congratulate him on his election and sincerely trust his administration will be a good one for Massachusetts and a credit to him.

"I desire to thank the people of the commonwealth who have supported me so loyally, and especially the state committee, Mr. Hatfield, the chairman, and Mr. Groves, the secretary, both of whom did so much and as good work as any men could do.

"I shall cheerfully return to the avocations of private life among the best people in the best state in the union."

IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Bass Chosen Governor and Sulloway and Currier Re-elected

Concord, N. H., Nov. 9.—The election as governor of Robert P. Bass of Peterboro, who won the Republican nomiation on a Progressive platform, is indicated by returns from about one-half the towns and wards of the state. These figures, if borne out, will give Bass a majority of 6000 votes over his Democratic opponent, Clarence E. Carr of Andover.

ROBERT P. BASS

From the same returns it appears that Congressman Sulloway of Manchester, the "Tall Pine of the Merrimac," in the First district, and Frank D. Currier of Canaan, in the Second district, both Republicans, will be returned to congress by majorities somewhat reduced over their 9000 votes each of two years ago.

A Republican majority of about 150 on joint ballot in the legislature is indicated. The election of all five Republican candidates for the executive council also appears probablye.

POTHIER IS RE-ELECTED

Republicans Carry Rhode Island by Reduced Pluralities

Providence, Nov. 9.—Rhode Island Republicans re-elected their state ticket by reduced pluralities, the greatest falling off being in the vote for governor, Waterman, Democrat, materially cutting Governor Pothier's plurality.

VICTORY OF DIX IS COMPLETE

Buries Stimson In New York by Plurality of 65,000

ROUTE OF ROOSEVELT FORCES

Colonel's Home District Goes Democratic and His Close Friend Is Defeated—Legislature Will Be Democratic on Joint Ballot and May Elect Senator to Succeed Depew—Republican Machine Which Woodruff Always Swung Is Buried In the Ruins

New York, Nov. 9.—Returns indicate that John A. Dix, Democrat, has been elected governor of New York over Henry L. Stimson, Republican, by probably 65,000 plurality.

Dix made a clean sweep of Greater New York, carrying it by about 110,000, while Henry L. Stimson carried the state outside the city by about 30,000. Before half the returns were received in the city, Stimson conceded the election of Dix by 60,000.

Returns show that every Republican candidate for congress was defeated. In Roosevelt's home district Martin Littleton was elected over William W. Cocks, Roosevelt's friend. Dix received 218 votes in Roosevelt's home district, Stimson 158.

JOHN A. DIX

Dix carried Troy by 1311, and Auburn, the home of Sereno E. Payne, was lost to the entire Republican ticket. Suffolk county, for the first time since Cleveland's election swept the state twenty-six years ago, went Democratic.

The latest returns indicate that the Democrats will have twenty-six out of fifty-one senators and possibly eighty-six of the hundred and fifty members to the assembly. Unless the revised returns show great changes, the legislature will be Democratic on joint ballot and may elect a senator to succeed Depew.

One of the surprising and, from the Republicans' point of view, startling developments, was the defeat of every Republican candidate for congress in all the districts of the entire city of New York. There are at present seven representatives. William S. Bennet was beaten by Henry George and Mr. Parsons by Jefferson M. Levy. In Brooklyn the big Republican districts which the Woodruff machine always swung, were buried in the ruins.

Representative Fassett ("Fighting Fassett"), who went down to defeat as candidate for governor in the last Democratic clean-up in 1891, which defeated him for congress in the Chemung district, was also defeated. He is one of the Roosevelt school, and his defeat adds to the sting of the Roosevelt defeat.

The following telegram was received at Tammany Hall at midnight from a Democrat in Roosevelt's own district in Oyster Bay:

"Roosevelt's own district Dix, 218; Simpson, 158. Beaten to a frazzle."

John A. Dix, governor-elect of New York, said late last night: "The crisis has been met by the sober, common sense of good citizenship. The door has been opened for reform retrenchment and honest administration. As governor I shall adhere to the strict performance of the pledges of the party platform."

Henry L. Stimson, defeated Republican candidate for governor of New York, sent the following telegram to John A. Dix: "Returns indicate your election. I congratulate you and send you my good wishes for the success of your administration."

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall: "The election of the entire Democratic ticket is a signal triumph for decency and common sense. It marks the return to sanity and healthy conditions in our public life, and incidentally shows that the false prophets of loise and of filth are buried together in the same grave."

UNDER CONTROL OF DEMOCRATS

Will Probably Have a Small Majority In Congress

TIDAL WAVE WIDE REACHING

Much Delay In Returns From Western States Where Hot Congressional Fights Were Waged—Dahlman Wins In Nebraska Despite Opposition of Bryan—Roosevelt an Issue In Battles In Many States

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The indications from election returns are that the house will surely be Democratic by a margin possibly of ten or twelve. There were marked gains reported from Illinois, where Cook county was swept by a Democratic hurricane. Five or six new Democratic representdicated by the returns from there. dicated by the returns from here.

In New York city the gains promised to be seven. There were almost certain indications that there would be a gain of one Democrat in Connecticut, three or four in New Jersey and quite a few in other western states.

It is a matter of note, and perhaps significance, that no returns are obtained which are in any way definite on congress in Missouri, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, where hot fights were waged. The general tidal wave of Democracy which overflowed the country, however, led to the belief that there will be strong Democratic gains in those sections.

"Cowboy" Dahlman was elected governor of Nebraska despite the opposition of William J. Bryan. Iowa and Kansas gave their usual Republican pluralities. Tennessee went Republican by a small margin. A Republican governor was elected in Minnesota.

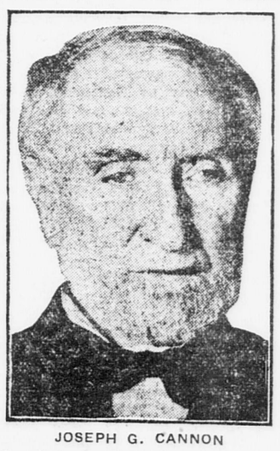

That the chief issue which brought about the Democratic victories was anti-Rooseveltism, a fear that victory by the Oyster Bay resident would immediately start him on a campaign for the presidency, is the belief among politicians. Second in importance was believed to be the high cost of living issue.

The result in New York state and in Ohio are of vital importance, inasmuch as both will have their effect on the next presidential canvass two years hence. The defeat of the Republicans in Ohio must be interpreted as not favoring the political fortunes of President Taft. The election of Harmon also means that he will very likely be the next Democratic nominee for President.

In New York the result is important because as New York goes so goes the nation on occasions.

Uncle Joe "Comes Back"

Danville, Ills., Nov. 9.—Returns indicate the re-election of Speaker

JOSEPH G. CANNON

Cannon in the Eighteenth district by a slightly reduced plurality over William L. Cundiff, Democrat.

Democratic Victory Indicated

Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—Scattering returns from over the state indicate that the Democratic state ticket will be elected, and possibly the legislature will be Democratic. The Democrats have made gains in Indianapolis, Evansville, Muncie, Fort Wayne and other cities.

Powers Wins In Kentucky

Louisville, Nov. 9.—Powers has won his election to congress in the Eleventh district, finally triumphing over the men who prosecuted him eight years ago on the charge of murdering Governor Goebel.

Eight Democratic Congressmen

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 9.—Eight congressmen only were voted for in this state. The Democrats polled the usual majorities.

Democrats Carry Texas

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 9.—Congressmen and a full state ticket were voted for in Texas. The Democrats won by large majorities.

Solidly Democratic

Atlanta, Nov. 9.—Only congressional races were decided in Georgia and a solid Democratic delegation was returned.

WILSON IN NEW JERSEY

Ex-President of Princeton Is Landed In Office by Democrats

Trenton, Nov. 9.—All figures available indicate the election of Woodrow Wilson, Democrat, for governor, the only state office to be filled, by between 10,000 and 20,000 plurality over Vivian M. Lewis, his Republican opponent.

WOODROW WILSON

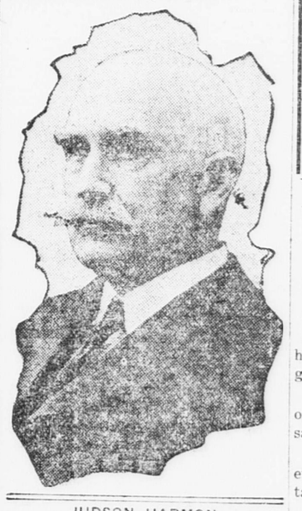

Most of the early returns were from Republican strongholds and, while they showed Lewis to be in the lead, a falling off in the normal Republican vote was indicated, on which the Democratic claims for Wilson's success are based.

Returns on the vote for congressman and members of the legislature are too meagre to give an indication of the outcome. In the First district the re-election of Representative Loudenslager by a small majority is indicated. The political complexion of the legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Kean is in doubt, with both sides claiming a majority on joint ballot.

HARMON CARRIES OHIO

Has Plurality of 30,000, but Legislature Is Republican

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—Definite figures are not obtainable on the result of the general result in Ohio, but the best estimates of the Harmon plurality are 30,000, with the loss of the "rest" of the ticket and the election of a Republican legislature.

JUDSON HARMON

This means that Charles Dick, present United States senator from Ohio, may be returned. It at least assures the return from Ohio of a Republican in the senate.

A largely attended business and social meeting of the Quincy Catholic club was held Monday evening at the rooms of the Knights of Columbus club in the Savings Bank building. After a short business session at which arrangements were perfected for the dancing and whist party to be held next Monday evening the ladies enjoyed a pleasing musical program that had been arranged by the entertainment committee. The program included a piano solo by Miss Anna Heaney, violin solo by Miss Alice Barry, and vocal solos by Miss Esther Dasha. Miss Bertha Trepanier was the accompanist. A social hour followed during which refreshments were served. The dancing and whist party next Monday evening will be held in Alpha and Union halls and promises to be a social and financial success.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Promptly at half past two Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney called the meeting of the Quincy Women's club to order and reports were given by the secretary and treasurer followed by the chairmen of the various committees.

Mrs. Bickford for the Art and Literature committee spoke of the Current Events lectures and hoped there would be a large class this season.

Mrs. Tenney for the Arts and Crafts said with the exception of the embriodery and Irish crochet all the classes were full and had waiting lists. She also told of the success of the classes in the Young Women's club.

Mrs. Shaw of the Civic committee hoped there would be a good attendance at the next club meeting as Dr. O. P. Gifford was an entertaining speaker and well worth hearing. It was an open meeting members and any one could attend, men being especially welcome. The annual Assembly would be held Nov. 25 and her committee was now receiving subscriptions for it.

Mrs. Wade reported the food conference at Jamaica Plain which was largely attended. She said club women should be back of food sanitation. She spoke on conditions found in bakehouses and gave a list of reliable ones in Boston. Subjects discussed at the conference were, markets, milk, flies, etc. Mrs. Tyler's lecture at the clubhouse would be on Nov. 29.

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith in speaking of the work of the Philanthropy committee said an entertainment was given each month through the winter for the inmates of the Quincy Home. Mrs. Badger and Mrs. Drake were in charge of the November one and Mrs. Nickerson December. A charities conference was to be held Tuesday morning at the clubhouse at 10.30 when Miss Alice L. Higgins, general secretary of the Associated Charities of Boston would speak on "Why organized charities need a paid secretary." Every one interested men and women were invited to attend this meeting and urged to interest friends in attending.

Announcement was made for the Program committee of an extra meeting of the club on Tuesday afternoon, Nov 15 at First Church chapel when Mrs. Bumpus, first president of the club would give a talk on early Italian art, illustrated by the stereopticon.

Mrs. Welch told of the work of the Visiting Nurse during October, also made announcement of a "provision shower" to be given for the Day Nursery by Bethany Circle.

The president made the welcome announcement that the city assessors had abated the taxes through the effort of Walter S. Pinkham, Esq., of Wollaston. The club expressed its appreciation of his kindness in applause and by a vote of thanks.

Mrs. Gurney explained about guest tickets for "Pygmalion and Galatea" to be given at Quincy Music hall Dec. 13 by the Art and Literature committee. The club rule of one guest ticket would be in force as it was a regular meeting of the club but if any member did not intend to take a guest she was asked to notify the custodian that her ticket might be used for other guests.

This closed the business session and Mrs. Tenney chairman of the Arts and Crafts committee took charge of the program announcing Mrs. Frank A. Page who sang two songs accompanied by Mrs. Smith at the piano. The cordial greeting accorded Mrs. Page at once proclaimed her a favorite, her sweetness of tone and finish always giving pleasure.

Mrs. Tenney in introducing the lecturer said that she really must borrow a theatrical expression and say she was "presenting two bills" for besides the lecture there was an exhibition of Indian baskets by a club member, Mrs. George W. Stone of Wollaston. It was a fine and valuable collection which Mrs. Stone would explain after the meeting. The lecturer Mr. Frederick Whitney (Mrs. Tenney's brother) was not a stranger to many in Quincy and perhaps needed no introduction. For obvious reasons she would not give an extended one.

Mr. Whitney said Indian art was most interesting for rather than a design their work had meaning when looked into. The present was important to the Indian as he communed with nature and wove his baskets and blankets as he saw it, the design of sun, moon, stars, clouds, rain and events in his life being all portrayed in his work. He wove the personal experiences of life into his designs which were not barbaric but rather the spirit of reverence was put into them especially the prayer and marriage baskets.

Mr. Whitney cleverly interpreted for the club some of the designs most common found in Indian basket weaving. That which appeared merely as a fanciful design of scollops and vertical lines making a border, really told a story of a chain of clouds with rain descending upon man or woman or both according to the addition of a few more lines.

With a few deft strokes of the crayon an Indian tepee is before us on the blackboard with distant mountain range seen through darkening tree trunks, in the fore-ground the river and little canoe.

It was from such scenes as this that the Indian drew his inspiration. Lightning was reproduced, birds in flight, rivers running down the mountain side. One basket tells its story of a bridal with all its fanciful imagery and pretty symbols, and so on through bits of pathos and stars of hope until the audience realizes that an Indian basket is indeed more than a basket—it can become a life story.

The speaker closed with Verdi's poem "The Basket Maker."

The examination of Mrs. Stone's beautiful collection of baskets was especially interesting after Mr. Whitney's description of their making. She has been collecting them for five or six years with the result that it is a particularly fine as well as valuable collection.

A social and club tea brought an enjoyable meeting to a close. The hostesses were Mrs. George T. Magee, Mrs. Charles C. Hearn and Mrs. William L. Russell and they served hot chocolate, and delicious home-made cake. The pourers were Mrs. Herbert T. Whitman, Mrs. John W. Sanborn and Miss Margaret Thomas.

MAKARIA ELECTION

Richard Jones Is the New President

The annual meeting of Makaria Fraternity was held in the Makaria room of Bethany church Tuesday evening. The bowling committee reported that they had secured the Y. M. C. A. alleys and the Granite Street alleys each for one night a week. The teams will be picked shortly, and the schedule will be in working order before very long.

The basketball team will soon be organized. If the plans for the formation of a league in Quincy, materialize some interesting contests can be seen during the winter. Manager Eggleton will get the new uniforms very soon and Theophilus King offered to furnish a new ball.

At the election of officers the following men were chosen for the year: President, Richard Jones; vice president, Matthew Nicoll; recording secretary, George McKenzie; financial secretary, George H. Eggleton; treasurer, Charles Ganzel. Baseball manager, Paul Frehwein; basketball manager, George Eggleton.

The banquet committee reported good progress. The banquet will take place Wednesday, Nov. 16. A three-piece orchestra from Boston has been engaged to furnish the music. Carroll C. Whittemore of Boston is the caterer. The committee have been very fortunate in securing for their speaker Rev. Jay T. Stocking of Newtonville. Mr. Stocking is one of the most brilliant speakers among the younger clergy of today. He is especially fitted for addressing a group of young men and women because of his very successful work in Newton with young people. Mr. Stocking is the favorite preacher with many colleges throughout the country, and each year makes a tour among them. A man that appeals to the most critical of audiences, a college audience, must have a great deal in his favor.

TOTAL VOTE OF CITY.

Quincy cast a phenominal vote on Tuesday the total vote of the city being 5066 votes. This was the largest vote cast by the city for years if not the largest vote ever cast. The voting in all wards was heavy showing that the several ward committees had made great efforts to get out the voters. The vote for each precinct was as follows:

Ward One, Pre. 1,	469

But Quincy Republicans show great independence in voting, and when it came to Senator they swung over to the other side, and as a result Rednor P. Coombs was the choice for Senator. The popularity of Coombs is attributed to the fact that he is a resident of Quincy.

Candidate Galvin for Congress ran ahead of his ticket leading Frothingham by nearly 250 votes, and Draper by over 400.

For county officers the city favored the Republican candidates. The vote for Representatives is given in another column and the vote in detail on another page.

SILVER JEWELRY POPULAR.

Silver jewelry has been raised to an important place in the collection of ornaments possessed by the well dressed woman.

The picturesque costumes of dull, harmonized tones, or those upon which the dark metallic laces are used are much enhanced by silver ornaments that do not clash with the colors of the metal trimmings.

Silver forms a beautiful setting for all semi-precious stones, which give richness without appalling expense.

Filigree and ancient Bohemian ornaments are now being worn, and the barbaric Russian designs occupy a conspicuous place in the jewel case.

With rich velvets or with airy evening gowns silver jewelry is beautifully combined, lending just a required touch of artistic ornament to complete the picturesque, for which so many strive.

IN FASHION'S REALM

Cosmopolitan Taste in Dress Very Pronounced

Individual Ideas in the Ascendency

If any one tried to analize the gowns of this Autumn and Winter and put them under one heading they might find the task impossible. It may be that December will see one style separate itself from the group and be an easy winner. One hopes not.

As long as we keep up this new method that we have begun of having many styles for many people we will be that much better dressed. It is far and away an improvement over the old method.

The smaller the town, the more provinical the society the more apt are the people to law stress upon one style and ignore all others; they follow that style as sheep follow a bellwether. The greater the city, the more cosmopolitan the society, the less apt are people to do this. it is this general idea about clothes that the writer and designers should disseminate from the large centres into small ones.

When all women wear empire gowns half the women are ill-dressed. It is the same when the Directoire leads or plaited skirts have full sway. No one style is becoming to many women, and the sooner we learn this as a Nation the more artistic and individual we become. Paris knows this very well and always adopts it. It is difficult to see many Frenchwomen in a group wearing duplicate clothes. Each figure has been studied separately in its relation to the fashion.

In the latter part of August, when the great houses had their openings in Paris, it was amazing to see the wide variety of styles that were introduced. Each house had out over a dozen dissimilar fashions. A Directoire model with opening up the side showing colored satin would be cheek by jowl with a French Guard costume, with its long coattails of white broadcloth faced with blue, and a slightly full skirt of black and white. An Empire gown of white satin would be shown at the side of a vivid Byzantine frock that was all line and drapery, gold and bead embroidery. An American coat suit would be shown by the side of an Incroyable one with voluminous revers. A Russian peasant costume would be next to an Oriental gown with obi sash.

The French designers say that they put out gowns from many periods at one time in order to catch the attention of many minds. It would be absurd to try to sell Empire styles exclusively, no matter how varied were the trimmings and colors.

The American buyers who reviewed these gowns for three weeks are well aware that their patrons are of different minds about clothes, and that they will not make their expenses if they concentrate on gowns of one style or one period. This is the lesson America has learned from Paris in recent years.

Granting all this variety and wide choice, this point must be acknowledged: that a certain silhouette is decided upon by the great designers early in the season, and they all keep to it, it seems to me that is the main point for the woman herself to comprehend, and to work for. If she would only study out from the gowns she would see what the prevailing silhouette is to be for the season, and teach herself how to acomplish it; all the rest is detail.

The woman who wants to know how to dress this Winter should take a comprehensive view of all the different kinds of clothes that are offered for inspection and make up her mind concerning her limitations in that direction, and then buy her clothes. The trouble is that she usually goes about it the other way. She buys her gowns without comprehensive thought, and possibly gets different kinds, that bear no relation to each other, and no two of which can be becoming alike to her figure.

If she comes to a conclusion concerning the present silhouette it would be about as follows: A large waist line, a narrow hip line, an almost straight line from arms to hem, fullness under the arms, natural shoulders and shortened arm line. She will realize that there is nothing to flare out, yet there is a good deal of drapery; that skirts have no length line on the floor and that trains are eliminated. She will know they are used, here and there, in an eccentric manner by designers who know that grace is gained thereby. Granting that she has mastered all these details of the silhouette, then her plan is to make the clothes she has, and those she will get, follow it out in the best way that her figure will allow.

The clothes of this year should be extremely acceptable because they are varied. And they are really very pretty. It is true they lend themselves easily to caricature, but not as much so as the gowns of the last two years. The sheath skirt, the open Directoire one, the Merry Widow hat, the Moyen age gown, the tight, long sleeve, high topped suede boot, the enormous coiffure are some of the ugly fashions that we have had with us. Those mentioned are the first that come easily to hand, but there were many others.

We have been through three seasons of ridicule, most of it well deserved, and those who went to Paris this Summer to see the exhibition of new styles went with fear and trembling. Those who liked sane and artistic clothes felt a bit nervous over the fact that they might have to face another season of caricature.

Fortunately this was not so. The one garment that raised comment and that will call forth ridicule is the narrow skirt, and yet it is predicted by many who are interested in clothes that the women who wear a moderately narrow skirt will not want to run to full ones. There is so much comfort in a skirt that does not fly with the wind, has no weight and does not have to be held down or up, but left alone, that it is surely a garment that should appeal to the American woman who walks.

Those who dislike the correct width of one yard eight inches or those whose figures are too stout to allow such a hem can easily extend the width to two yards eight inches and still be in the fashion. It is the plaited skirt and the trimmed and gathered skirt that the American woman should avoid, unless she is able to have a wide number of clothes and does not do her errands on foot.

Barring the skirt, with its straight up and down line from above waist to hem, there is no other one garment which should cause ridicule. The short coats, with their quaint little Empire backs, are fetching and becoming, and the soft hat, with its crush top, is not only jaunty but comfortable.

It is true that the correctly dressed woman of today does not take up much space; if her figure is correct she is a mere shadow. All her lines are trig and trim; there is not an ounce of material to catch the wind or impede the progress of the passer by. In this respect she should call forth the hearty admiration of the men. They have laughed at her aeroplane hats and her long skirts enough; they should now admire the fact that she looks as trig as a slim little yacht.

Possibly the most delightful new feature in the modern fashions is the collapsible or pinless hat. It came into popularity quite suddenly, and has a charm that is hard to describe. It is as varied in cut and color, in trimming and texture, as the new gowns.

The Mercury cap and the bonnet of the Russian police are two of the most famous of these crush hats. One is round and partly high, trimmed with a square wing at each temple, and the other is much larger, has a high crown, with a wide brim turned flatly back. It is trimmed with a band of dull gold braid and two tassels. Heavy silk braid is often substituted for the gold kind. There is another shape that looks like an enlarged Panama, made of colored felt which has no trimming. It is usually seen in purple, and in dull art green, also in stone gray and marine blue.

Each of these hats, and all of their kind, is pulled down well over the head, especially over the left eye, and shows only a slight roll of the hair at the right temple. It is very smart for street wear. Not only does it give comfort to other people because it takes up so little space, but it is infinitely more comfortable for the wearer than any other Winter hat invented for some years.—Anne Rittenhouse in New York Times.

BE SOCIABLE THOUGH MARRIED.

To simply live alone, with no provision for the gratification of the social instincts, is apt to prove too severe a strain upon the reserve forces of even the happiest marriage. There is some excuse outside the home wherein no thought is given to social pleasure, while the wife is apt to grow petty and personal, and so less attractive if she shuts herself away from intercourse with others. This dropping out is very easy, but even when prosperity comes, and large social functions are possible, it is too late to gain that most valuable possession, friendship, which is entirely independent of financial success. To have and to hold a place in the social life of the world is not only the right but the duty of the young wife who desires to have a home in its truest and best sense.

CARING FOR PILLOWS.

Few Hours' Work on Them Anything but Waste of Time.

Eight or 10 hours spent upon the family supply of pillows will prove anything but a waste of time. Although the busy housewife may gasp at the thought, if she be as wise as she is busy, she will recognize the truth and act accordingly.

They require beating with a stout rattan beater, which will neither cut the seam nor wear the ticking. If done on a dry, sunny day this will clear out a goodly supply of dust and with it an assorted collection of germs.

Scrubbing is sometimes resorted to when the old ticking covers are still firm and strong enough for continued use. With a hand brush a liberal supply of soapy lather is rubbed into the case, which is spread out on a table, preferably outdoors. After a forceful scrubbing it is rinsed in several clear waters and thoroughly dried in the sun.

So much for the pillow cases, but the stuffing of feathers may be given a similar treatment, with the exception of the complete rinse. These of course are scrubbed indirectly through the pillow case he opened indiscreetly pouf! a couple of pounds of feathers are lost, as well as quite an amount of temper. The pillow should be only lightly rinsed and a quantity of ammonia added for cleansing purposes.

When transferring feathers to a new ticking cover the head should be covered with fine tarlatan also the time-honored custom could be observed of basting the new pillow case to the end of the old one before ripping the seam. This work should be done on a damp day or in a unused cellar, where the damp air will tend to keep down the flying feathers.

Cork dust is a clean and sanitary filling for a couch pillow. Bran and sawdust are too heavy, while excelsior and hair are too hard. Old letter paper torn into tiny bits is said to be a good filling. Rose leaves are delightful and balsam pine needles bring dreams of the forest world with its gnomes and pixies and other little folk.

BULGARIAN PEASANT COSTUMES WORN IN "THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER."

PICTURESQUE EMBROIDERIES.

Garments of the Peasants in "The Chocolate Soldier" Are Heavy with Needlework.

When the twenty-four peasant girls in "The Chocolate Soldier" dance out on the stage of the Majestic theatre, Boston, in the wedding scene enough handwork is represented in their quaint jackets and aprons and petticoats to make an American girl weary at the mere thought of it. They aren't just embroidered; they are massed with embroidery, the kind that no machine could make.

"We picked these peasant costumes up here and there in the Bulgarian mountains, most of them near the very Dragoman Pass where the action of the operetta is supposed to take place," said A. Schoelvinck, who helped to costume the play. "They are what the people wear at their festivals and dances. See each one is different; each girl worked out her own fancy. And how they love red! There is only one blue peasant dress in the twenty-four.

"It was not pleasant, either, getting the costumes in Bulgaria. There are brigands there; I do not care to go again. And it is not easy to find the costumes. At first, when you go to a hut, the whole family declare they have nothing to sell. But presently you hear the father say to a girl: 'Where is that dress you made for your marriage?' Then there is a great bargaining over the dress; they expect you to beat them down. The girl weeps to see her trousseau go, but what can she do? These people work in the summer on the estates of the nobles, but in the winter there is nothing to do and they grow very hungry."

Perhaps the most lavishly embroidered garment in the operetta is the wedding dress worn by Rena Vivienne as Nadina, the daughter of Colonel Papoff. With it she wears a wedding bonnet, a curious affair made of mock fruits, with long, dangling strings of coins.

"These coins represent the Bulgarian bride's dowry," the costumer said. "But if you want to see something gorgeous look at this red overdress which Nadine wears in the third act. A Bulgarian girl worked a whole winter over that garment, weaving it on her little hand loom. The audience cannot half appreciate the details of this dress, for it is impossible to see them from the front."

"We paid a great deal for that red dress," he added."

"How much?"

"In American money $10. You think that is not much? Ah, but a family of Bulgarian peasants can live on $10 for a long time! It is a great deal of money to them."

REVOLUTION

In the Second district ex-Governor Utter, Republican candidate for congress, has a plurality of about 5000 over Cooney, Democrat, who was defeated by more than 8700 two years ago.

That the Democrats have gained a number of seats in the general assembly is indicated, although their gains probably will not prove sufficient to affect the majority which will decide upon the next United States senator from Rhode Island to succeed Nelson W. Aldrich.

ARAM J. POTHIER

The Democrats will have fifty out of 131 members in the general assembly, a gain of thirty members.

Practically every Rhode Island city and town went license, the ten towns which went no-license last year returning to the license column.

BALDWIN IS ELECTED

Democrats Also Carry One District In the Nutmeg State

New Haven, Nov. 9.—Simeon E. Baldwin, Democrat, for governor, appears to be elected by about 5000.

Tilson, for congressman-at-large, is probably safe; Higgins is re-elected in the Third congressional district; Reilly, Democrat, is elected in the Second district, and Henry and Hill in the First and Fourth districts will probably be re-elected.

SIMEON E. BALDWIN

The defeat of the Republican ticket in Connecticut is attributed by both Republicans and Democrats to the attacks made upon the Democratic nominee by Mr. Roosevelt. These bitter assaults upon the judicial record of Judge Baldwin reacted heavily, and in the estimates of the Democrats and Republicans changed several thousand votes. It was in Connecticut that the Democrats invited Roosevelt to "speak again in Connecticut to insure beyond question the election of the Democratic ticket."

It is estimated with most of the returns in that Judge Baldwin's plurality will be about 5000.

Roosevelt's Friend Far Behind

Des Moines, Nov. 9.—Eleven out of thirty-one precincts of Davenport (Second district) shows I. S. Pepper, Democrat, for congress running 2 to 1 over Charles Grilk, to speak for whom Colonel Roosevelt interrupted his New York campaign.

As Usual In South Carolina

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 9.—South Carolina as usual went overwhelmingly Democratic in the state elections. There was no state ticket for the Republicans, though they had negro nominees for congress in three of the seven districts.

Mack Votes Straight Republican Ticket

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, voted the straight Republican ticket. It was an error, but it could not be rectified. Subsequently he told of the joke on himself.

North Carolina's Choice

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 9.—Democrats claim safe majorities in all of the ten congressional districts. Three of these districts, the Fifth, Eighth and Tenth, are now represented by Republicans.

ADAMS CHAPTER D. R.

The November meeting of Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution, was held at the John Adams birthplace on Monday afternoon. During the business meeting it was voted to send a greeting from the Chapter to Mrs. F. C. Granger vice regent, who has been very ill at her home in Randolph. Announcement was made of a series of four whist parties by the State society to be held at homes of members also of the Boston-1915 Pageant of the patriotic matinee on Saturday. Washington Elm chapter of Cambridge has announced a Thanksgiving food sale at state headquarters, Colonial building, Boston, for Saturday, Nov. 19, from 11 A. M. until 4 P. M. Mrs. Titus spoke of the last resting place of Mrs. Flora Adams Darling, founder of the D. R. and D. A. R., at Washington and thought it would be a nice thing for Adams chapter to place a society marker on her grave. It was voted that Mrs. Titus investigate and report at the December meeting.

The whist party in October at the old Adams house proved so enjoyable it was decided to have another one on Saturday, Nov. 19, with Mrs. Frank F. Prescott and Mrs. Osborne Rogers as the committee.

Following the business the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Antoinette S. Paige, Miss Mary L. Hinkley and Mrs. Frank F. Prescott. As voted at a previous meeting Mrs. Titus read two letters of Mrs. Darling from her book of letters written to Judge E. P. Morton after the Civil war and they proved most entertaining. The reading of these letters will be continued through the winter. Mrs. Paige living at Wollaston Park on what was originally the old Quincy place spoke of the death of Josiah P. Quincy and told how on reading notices of his death she saw how some of the names of streets at the Park got their names. Mrs. Quincy was a Huntington and two of Mr. Quincy's daughters married men named Muirhead and Davis. Mrs. Paige closed with a bright poem found in an old New England magazine.

The hostesses served a bounteous repast of hot cocoa, sandwiches and cake.

METAPHYSICAL CLUB.

The Boston Metaphysical club has sent invitations to the eighteen "New Thought" centres in cities and towns in New England to unite in a conference to be held in Boston Nov. 13 and 14.

The speakers will be: Elizabeth Towne of the Natilus magazine; Sophia Van Master, Kansas City Unity magazine; Marian Katherine Brown, originator of the progress system, for teaching morals in the public schools; Rev. Stephen H. Robbin, Boston; Rev. T. DeWitt Van Doran, South Norwalk, Conn., and R. J. Floody of the Worcester Garden City movement. Sunday sessions in Potter hall, afternoon and evening and Monday morning, afternoon and evening, Huntington chambers. This is the first conference of New England interests. All preceding conferences held in Boston have been held by the National New Thought Alliance.

FEDERATION MEETING.

By invitation of the Cantabrigia club of Cambridge the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs held its autumn meeting at the First Baptist church, Central Square, Cambridgeport, on Tuesday. The morning session opened at 10.15 with an address of welcome by Mrs. Charles H. Bonney, president of the hostess club, to which Miss Georgie A. Bacon, president of the Federation, responded.

As has been the custom for some time past the program followed the lines of work of one of the departments of the Federation. At this meeting it was that of Art. Two addresses were given in the morning, one by Morrison Patterson of the University of the South upon "Ideals in Civic Art," and another by John J. Enneking of Boston on "Art from the Artist's Point of View."

Following is an abstract of Mr. Patterson's lecture:

Civic art was at first dismissed by the business man as impractical. The reformers girded up their loins and went to work to prove that it is not only practical but it pays—it brings in money to a community. At that magic word, "money," to which America so humbly bows, a large contingent of the enemy promptly surrendered.

In spite of this encouragement the battle is far from won. Some of our leading business men still hold tight to their former prejudices. It goes without saying that miles of waterfronts are respectfully preserved as the most convenient and picturesque locality for a general dumping-ground. Something is wrong, and the question is what can be done to meet the situation.

It is astonishing what opportunities are lost by civic workers because their outlook is too narrow. Because they omit in their organization some of the most important departments of possible activity. Starting with the idea that they must first clear the ground of obstacles and lay a foundation, they forget that a superstructure is to follow. The only statesman-like attitude is to keep in mind that it pays to look ahead and also to look around.

The statesman-like reformer has a thousand eyes, each trained to a particular vision. This comprehensive vision is the primary condition of complete civic organization. After enthusiasm has been aroused, and after responsible men and women have joined the crusade against congestion and chaos, it will depend upon a few individual leaders to stamp the character of the whole movement, either as petty or magnificent, according to their ability to analyze the scope of proposed improvement, to make clear-cut distinctions between the various departments of the civic interests, and to bring about the establishment of authoritative commissions for each particular department. Without such complete organization, the city to be moulded into form becomes as lop-sided as the minds of its moulders.

But besides restrictive functions a municipal art commission needs to exercise its judgment in regard to announcing movements for the erection of distinctive monuments in the way of fountains, statues, bridges and memorial arches. It is certainly no cause for boasting for a city to bristle with expensive civic bric-a-brac, if this bric-a-brac of statues and fountains violates good taste or express no unified basis of choice. As we are proud of a personal flavor in our literature, our music or our art, so we must look forward to any chance of obtaining such flavor in our civic monuments. As the individual bridges of Venice have to do with the Venetian flavor, so every bridge and arch and statue we erect stamps us according to its spirit and design with a personal distinction.

It seems, however, that in all directions of civic art we have failed to maintain sufficiently radical policies in situations that demand drastic measures. Take the matter of the bill-board nuisance. What do we do in regard to it? Fight it to the death as a disgrace to the nation? No. We start a movement to license the bill-boards or to diminish their size.

What we need is radical action and therefore a radical policy in regard to all such crimes against civic decency, as flagrant advertising in any form, the cluttering up of streets with telephone poles and wires, the soiling of our buildings and monuments and the clogging of the very air we breathe by factory smoke. With similar radical policies in every department, we should be in the proper mood to demand authoritative commissions for each department, and put an end to the figure-heads that at present decorate our municipal offices in various quarters of the United States.

We are weary, perhaps, of being told how ages ago the Greeks developed a sense of poise and elegant simplicity, a general completeness of life that we cannot match as yet—how the Parthenon is a monument to that balance of forces that we have not been able to attain, either as a nation, or as builders of cities, to express the nation's spirit. But fact remains that a stranger from the moon would be forced by the looks of us to judge us harshly.

What we need as the basis for all our efforts at civic art is more of the Greek completeness of life, broader interests, and a more genuine support of all the fine arts. Wherever in America our philosophy of life puts a crown of laurels on the money-getter and a crown of thorns upon the artist, so-called civic art will continue to be a hollow mockery, and our expensively decorated cities a by-word among the nations.

Following Mr. Patterson and Mr. Enneking, Mrs. May Alden Ward presented a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Honorary-President of the Federation, after which Mrs. James G. Harris rendered Chopin's funeral march upon the organ.

After the intermission during the half-hour before the afternoon session Mrs. Harris gave an organ recital. A baritone solo by Albert Edmund Brown opened the program for the afternoon. Alfred W. Martin, associate leader of the New York Society for Ethical Culture, spoke on "Art as an Interpretation of Human Life."

Mr. Martin started with the premise that all art work expresses and interprets the personality of the artist and the dominant ideals of his time and place. He applied this proposition to each of the four great epochs of history—ancient, mediaeval, renaissance and modern—indicating the salient characteristics in the life of each and then demonstrated by reference to typical examples from the arts of architecture, sculpture and painting, how these ideals are expressed and interpreted by the art-work.

Beginning with the ancient Egyptians and the Greeks, Mr. Martin passed to the introduction of Christianity into the Greeco-Roman world, and its influence on the ideals that prevailed in that world, showing the mighty change that was then wrought in civilization and the prompt expression of it in art. Passing to the Renaissance and its birth, (through the influence of St. Francis of Assisi) the lecture dealt with the transition to the modern era, indicating the distinctive features of the new social ideal of today and then showed by a succession of typical masterpieces of painting how these latter are the expressions of that new ideal.

The lecture was illustrated by a special collection of lantern slides. The session closed appropriately with the singing of Mrs. Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic," led by the Cantabrigia Club Chorus with Mrs. Florence Lee Whitman as conductor.

BRIEFS

Miss Elizabeth Fay of Sherborn is the guest of Mrs. Albert W. Fay of Newport avenue for a week.

Mrs. Ama K. Lee of Prospect avenue has gone to visit Madame Lee at Brentwood, Long Island.

The date for the vaudeville entertainment for the benefit of Mt. Pleasant Tuberculosis camp has been changed from December to Jan. 20.

Mrs. George J. Poch of Davison street who underwent an operation at the Homoeopathic hospital two weeks, ago is doing as well as can be expected though not yet able to sit up.

John P. Prichard of Somerville, the first Commissioner of Public Works of this city, died at 2 o'clock this morning of pneumonia, after a few days illness.

William Garrity of Cottage street was undoubtedly the oldest man to vote in the city. He is 95 years of age, and had considerable difficulty in reaching the polling place on the second floor of City Hall.

Mayor Shea left this noon for a brief trip to the Berkshires to get a much needed rest. During his absence it will be Mayor Curtis. Mayor Shea will return for the Council meeting next Monday.

Herbert Johnson was unable to play with the High school team Tuesday owing to an attack of tonsilitis. He was greatly missed on the line and although he will not be needed in Fridays game it is to be hoped that he will be able to don his suit soon.

The bazaar of the Swedish Methodist church, to be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society, will open tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in Union hall, Kincaide building. The committees will meet this evening to make final arrangements.

The annual meeting of the anti-tuberculosis society was held Tuesday evening at the office of the president, Henry M. Faxon on Granite street. Owing to the press of election matter the full report of the meeting will be published in Thursdays Ledger.

The concert of the Bethany church choir which is to be given Monday evening Nov. 21, promises to be an excellent one. The regular church choir and boys' choir will sing several selections. A quartette composed of Mrs. E. S. Moore, Miss Alice Coe, Mr. E. E. Bullock and Mr. A. L. Hayden will have a prominent part in the concert. Madame Ellen Beale Morey will be the accompanist.

The three days' rummage sale of the Unity Circle of King's Daughters opens tomorrow afternoon. The contributions of old clothes, books, music, hats, shoes, dishes, etc., have been generous but there is still an opportunity for those wishing to aid in the good cause. The sale will be in Faxon hall this year where it is expected better results will be obtained than in the location of last year. The ladies are hard at work sorting out the goods and pricing them in preparation for the rush which will be inevitable tomorrow afternoon and evening.

BRIEFS

Today's session of Norfolk county probate court will be reported in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

See Daily Ledger tomorrow for arguments of Russell A. Sears in favor of a Greater Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Spear of 112 Granite street, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

The Norfolk county vote for Governor will be given by towns in the Daily Ledger tomorrow, both for 1910 and 1909.

The fair of the Ladies Aid society of the Wollaston M. E. church opens this afternoon. Christmas articles will be on sale as well as the usual array of candies and so forth. Music will be furnished by the Silician orchestra.

JUMPED OUT OF WINDOW.

The alarm from Box 45 at 10.53 Tuesday night was for a lively blaze in a tenement house at 9 California avenue owned by Mrs. Thomas Havahan and occupied by Donatto Dominico Manadelini Guiseppi, and Nicodemi Guiseppi. The fire caught from a defect in the chimney and caused a loss of $200. During the fire a man supposed to be Nicodemi Guiseppi who had been aroused out of a sound sleep seized a lamp and jumped out of a window to the ground some fifteen feet below. Fortunately he escaped without serious injury.

RETURNS PROMPT.

Never at an election have the official returns been received more promptly than they were Tuesday evening. Commencing at 5.56 when precinct one of Ward Four and precinct two of Ward Five arrived at City Hall, the returns came in about as fast as the City Clerk could handle them, and at 8.47 the last precinct Ward Three precinct one had arrived.

Things were rather quiet about City Hall. There was quite a crowd of newspaper men and friends of the local candidates in the City Clerk's office waiting for the returns, but there was no demonstration on the part of any one. Shortly after 10.30 about everybody had left the hall and gone home. Long before this it had been definitedly settled that Messrs. Thomas and Langelier had been reelected as well as George L. Barnes for the senate and Foss for Governor.

The Daily Ledger was able to bulletin the returns of the city and state very promptly, and held the interest of a large crowd until after 8 o'clock when it was known who was elected to the important offices. As early as 7 o'clock the Ledger announced that Foss had carried Quincy and that he was elected Governor of the State; "as goes Quincy so goes the State." The election of the Quincy Representatives and the result in many towns were posted. Also the returns of the State, beginning with a group of a few towns, and later 120 towns, 150, 200, 250, 300 and finally 320 cities and towns. All showed a steady gain for Foss.

HOUSE PLANTS IN WINTER.

For indoor growth during winter there is little beauty or satisfaction in small slips that are often seen in the only bright windows in an ordinary home. Large, old plants have a dignity and beauty the small plant never has. One good-sized, healthy, well-cared-for plant with plenty of room and light, will give more pleasure than a window full of crowded, sickly looking plants or slips with not more than four or five leaves on each one. Crowded plants are sure to grow tall and spindling.

If fine plants are desired, cover the stand with moss or sand to keep them moist and shower the plants occasionally. They need a moist atmosphere, ut do not make the mistake of keeping the soil in the flower pots constantly wet, never allowing it to dry out even a little on the surface. The soil in the pots should be given a chance to get nearly dry before watering. To keep plants in good condition they must be protected from sudden changes and drafts of cold air. Fresh air must be admitted when plants are kept in a living room to take the place of that whose vitality has been burned out. Like ourselves ,they need healthy air to breathe. To keep in good form plants must be turned often and pruned. Arrange flowers in window garden with regard to contrast or harmony, but do not overlook the importance of placing the sun-loving plants very near the glass and those liking partial shade in the rear. Remember palms grow best out of the sunlight entirely. Another essential with palm culture is the best of drainage.—National Magazine.

MUNICIPAL MISRULE

The Subject at Wollaston Unitarian Club

The Wolaston Unitarian club held its monthly meeting in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Tuesday evening and was addressed upon the subject "Municipal misrule and the remedy," by Professor Joseph H. Beale of the Harvard Law school.

The usual roast beef dinner was served ,the blessing being asked by the Rev. Carl G. Horst.

Way down at the bottom, said Prof. Beale, the fundamental trouble is that voters do not care or know enough about the municipal government to follow it carefully. As a city becomes larger and we get away more and more from the town form of government, the people get out of touch with what is going on and become careless. The voters become unable to distinguish between good faithful officials and those that are not.

It is true that we have organizations to inform the voters of their duties, to tell how many times a certain official has been present, how he has voted on certain bills and all that. But we must realize that all this is but a small part of the action of the city officers. The most work is done in committees and outside the council chamber. It is not merely how honest an official is, but how much time and thought he gives to the city's affairs.

Another effect from which the city is suffering is the ignorance of the voter. For this reason the conduct of affairs almost inevitably falls into the hands of a machine. Machine politics have been given a black eye, and we all would like to smash them, if we knew how. Some think that it is simply necessary to elect the other party, to smash a machine, but this is not so. There are always two machines, and both must be suported It is rather profitable for a party to be out of office for a year for in this manner they get rid of all the dead wood. An occasional defeat does not hurt the machine, and they always come back smiling.

The only way to strike at the machine, is to turn them out of power in their own party, and put in a different class of officers at the caucuses of the party. Most of us do not feel very much interested in city affairs because we think they do a petty and mechanical work. The conduct of a city is however becoming one of the most scientific industries of the present day, along lines of educating the child, stamping out disease, providing places of amusement and social betterment, beautifying the city, building better buildings, all things of utmost interest.

Another great feature of difficulty is the divided responsibility, the actual work being done in a half dozen departments. The mayor should be at the head of everything and receive reports of all work, but he does not do it. He is either interested in getting reelected or getting through with his office and geting a rest.

A mayor begins the day by listening to the heads of departments. Then in turning away office seekers. He goes out to lnch, hides all the afternoon, and goes to dinner in the evening. This is the day of the average mayor. His object is to get along and offend as few people as possible. He is not more than a moderator of contending departments.

Each department earns its salary with as little exertion as possible. The City Council has committees, but what use to learn of the work of the departments? It not only means work with no thanks, but also the making of enemies. The line of least resistance, lies in doing nothing.

A more conservative man than the average member of a City Council cannot be found in a long time. Men who in their own business are most progressive fall into conservative steps in the City Council. This is the way of safety, and while it does not lead to active misrule opens a chance for the man who wants to get something, undiscovered. The fear of displeasing often leads city officials to grant almost anything that is asked.

Professor Beale also dealt with the affairs of the Metropolitan district suggesting changes that might be made with profit. "There is no doubt that while the city government is intricate, said Mr. Beale, all intelligent voters may understand it, and as soon as this comes there will be no question of the government of our cities.

Following questions to the speaker by various members, the club upon motion of Eugene H. Sprague adjourned with a rising vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening.

CLOSE IN THE COUNTY

Draper Led Foss by Only 842 Votes

The vote in Norfolk County was unusually close this year, but still had a small plurality for the Republican candidate. Out of the 29 towns in the county 12 went Democrat, by small majorities. A year ago 6 towns gave majorities for Vahey.

Braintree was strongly Republican last year and as strongly Democratic this year. Dedham gave Foss a small majority in this year's vote, and a year ago had a much larger plurality for Draper. Hyde Park also turned from Republican to Democratic, and Weymouth gave Foss almost as large a majority as it gave Draper a year ago.

Two towns changed the other way. Avon and Foxboro gave Draper a fairly respectable majority this year whereas both went for Vahey a year ago.

Quincy displayed its barometric propensity by going Democratic, but Brookline gave Draper nearly 1,000 majority.

An unsually heavy vote was cast this year in practically every town. Holbrook was the only one that does not show a substantial gain in the total vote. The total vote of the county shows a 12 percent increase over last year. Quincy had 822 more voters at the polls than a year ago and Brookline showed an increase of 745.

The votes of 1909 and 1910 are compared below:

SENT TO NEW YORK.

George Ingalls who claims his home is in Salisbury wandered into City Hall Monday night. Ingalls who is blind said that he wanted to go to New York where he had friends. While coming through Boston he said he had been robbed of $5. He was given a lodging at the police station that night and Tuesday Overseer of the Poor Elcock made arrangements to send him to New York. Ingalls is the man who was hit on the head with a black jack in Pleasant street, Boston, some years ago and it was this blow that caused his blindness.

Pen, Chisel and Brush.

The late Frederic Remington was a writer as well as painter and sculptor.

By a curious coincidence Lester G. Hornby, the twenty-seven-year-old etcher, who has startled the artistic world, shares his birthplace, Lowell, Mass., with the master of etching, Whistler.

Miss Melva Beatrice Wilson of New York city expects to spend four years working upon the great sculptured frieze of the new Roman Catholic cathedral in St. Louis. It will depict fourteen scenes in the life of Christ.

Herman Whitaker, the author, has seen service in the British army and was fencing instructor of his regiment in 1884. Coming to America in 1887, he was a pioneer in the Hudson Bay company's territory for several years.

Facts From France.

France has 266 state owned museums.

France has 7,485 miles of waterways that are regularly used.

Crimes of violence have become so startling and so numerous in Paris that it is now proposed to resort to flogging the culprits.

France is systematically reforesting its barren places to revive the soil, abate floods, mitigate droughts, provide employment for her workers and furnish raw materials for her factories.

Not What He Seemed.

Lieutenant General J. M. Grierson tells an amusing story of some maneuvers in which he took part. Only a small body of troops were being actually employed, and "skeleton forces" were the rule—in other words, small bodies of men represented whole divisions. General Grierson with his staff was riding along a lane when he suddenly came upon one of the enemy's pickets sitting calmly by the roadside. Quickly the general rode up to him and said:

"You are my prisoner; you had better surrender."

The man grinned and pointed to a flag beside him.

"Beg pardon, sir," he said, "but I am a brigade of infantry, so you are all my prisoners."—London Mail.

Wounds of the Heart.

In wounds of the heart itself the escape of blood is never in large quantity, and the lethal consequences are due to the fact that the escape of blood from within its cavity or cavities into the surrounding sac of the pericardium mechanically interrupts the alternate contraction and expansion by which its pumping action is maintained. Accordingly the results of the wound of the heart are usually identical with those of gradual suffocation.

EAST BOSTON SHUT OUT

Quincy High Wins Another Game

In the most spectacular game of the year Quincy High school defeated East Boston by a score of 21 to 0.

The visiting team played a plucky game against odds of weight and speed. At times the backs seemed to be able to gain at will but in the crucial moments Quincy held them for downs. Prout was tried at half back and showed great strength and speed. Hill made a phenomenal run of 40 yards in the first period for a touchdown. The way he dodged and ducked and squirmed out of the clutches of the East Boston boys was the greatest thing seen at the park this year. Prout and Manning made long gains nearly every time they were given an opportunity to carry the ball. Manning's touchdown called forth much applause. Blackmur's forward pass was a beauty. "Bill" received it on the yard line, catching it at arms length, and carried it over for a touchdown.

Prout showed great speed in getting off and several times would have made the length of the field if he could have kept on his feet.

On the line White and Chapman were conspicuous. Rice played very well in his new position, blocked a punt and made a number of good tackles. Arthur was in every play while he was in the game and was a tower of strength both on the offense and defense. Once he intercepted a forward pass very prettily and gained a few yards into the bargain.

Harmon bucked the line very effectively whenever he was given the ball and made several brilliant tackles "Brutus" Chapman proved tackling his long suit also and oftentimes threw the man with the ball back for a loss. He kicked the only goal also and made a very commendable attempt at scoring by means of a drop kick from the 30-yard line. Blackmur played a good consistent game at quarterback.

For the visitors Kelly, Nash and Lane played well. The work of the whole team was creditable considering the fact that they were greatly outweighed and outpunted by Quincy.

The team of yesterday was the fastest of this year. With Prout in the backfield and Manning at end, the ground gaining ability of the team is at its best and probably it will face Dorchester with the same lineup.

The game with Hingham will be easy for Quincy if comparative scores can tell anything.

The Unhumbled Valet.

The Duke of Cambridge was once about to visit Lord Stratford, who had been appointed ambassador to Turkey. At an early hour on the morning of his expected arrival the ambassador went, in slippers and dressing gown, to see if the rooms were in perfect order. He found that the duke's valet had arrived and was arranging his master's trunks and portmanteaus. Stratford gave some directions how they should be placed. The man left off working and stared at the intruder.

"I tell you what it is," he said. "I know how his royal highness likes to have his things arranged better than you do. So you just be off, will you, old fellow?"

Lord Stratford left in a towering passion. Calling one of his attaches, he ordered him to go in and tell the man whom he had addressed in such language. The attache returned with twinkling eyes.

"What did you say?" asked the ambassador.

"I said to him, my lord, that the person he had ventured to address such language to was her majesty's representative to Turkey."

"Ah, quite right. And his answer?"

"He answered, my lord, that he never said you wasn't."—"With Lord Stratford In the Crimean War."

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Vol. 25 No. 262 QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 10, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

WORK OF QUINCY'S ANTI--TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY

Report of Treasurer Price Was Most Satisfactory Maintenance Cost $1,300

An Average of Seven Patients a the Camp

The annual meeting of the Quincy Anti-Tuberculosis Association was held Tuesday, November 8, at the office of the President, Henry M. Faxon, 17 Granite street. Eighteen members were present. It was necessary to appoint a secretary pro tem as Frederic W. Plummer had removed from the city to the general regret of the association. Mrs. Wilson Marsh was appointed secretary pro tem.

The treasurer, Charles A. Price presented a most satisfactory report representing achievement. The building of the camp represents in the administration building and shacks, a plant worth $3,700, its maintenance having cost $1,300. This expense had been met by collections amounting to $4,100, and the cost of patients paid by the city $900.

To certain persons and organizations the Association was indebted for large amounts; the Quincy Women's club $500, Mrs. George W. Morton and Miss Hattie Turner, trustee, giving each $100 of that sum, the Granite Manufacturers $200, the Granite Cutters $150, Mellen Bray $200, Mrs. Nathaniel Hunting and Herbert Lawton each $300 for shacks, while the sale of the Christmas Red Cross stamps brought in $250. All bills are paid though the balance in the treasury was small, there were sums still in the hands of the collectors. A benefit concert is soon to be given by the Knights of Columbus and another entertainment in charge of Mrs. N. S. Hunting and Emery L. Crane will be given in January. It was hoped the public would respond generously in purchasing the Christmas seals and that the annual dues of members shall be promptly paid.

Dr. D. B. Reardon who was physician in charge when the camp opened, and for May and June, gave a report. The number of patients treated at the camp was ten permanent patients and two day patients. An average of seven had been cared for which is the number at the present time. Of these two were admitted to Lakeville, one temporary, one condition remains the same, two cases chronic and four greatly improved with every chance for recovery. Dr. Sargent was in charge during July and August; Dr. Lynch September and October, while Dr. McCausland is now the visiting physician.

Dr. N. S. Hunting gave a report for the building committee, the cost of camp, shacks and furnishings; the engaging of the Superintendent, Mr. Campbell, who is a trained nurse and especially valuable; of the services of a cook, Mrs. Clinton, who serves good food, plenty of milk and fresh eggs for those whose condition requires building up; the expenses of maintenance being about $50 per week. More day patients could be helped at the camp at very little more expense if they could be persuaded to go there.

A letter was read from A. L. Barbour, superintendent of Schools for the Education Committee, stating that ample instruction in prevention of Tuberculosis was given in the public schools but that much good might result from flyers in foreign languages which the pupils might take to their homes.

The chairman of the nominating committee presented the following list of officers:

President—Henry M. Faxon.

Vice Presidents—John A. Gordon, M. D., and Mrs. Joseph A. Dasha.

Secretary—Mrs. Wilson Marsh.

Treasurer—Perry Lawton.

Board of Managers—Mrs. Francis Abele, Albert L. Barbour, F. Ramon Burke, M. D., Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Miss Mabel Gragg, Charles A. Price, Mrs. Charles A. Howland, Wendell H. Hull, Nathaniel S. Hunting, M. D., Elmon R. Johnson, M. D., Perry Lawton, Mrs. R. McLennan, W. J. Middleton, M. D., Thomas B. Pollard, Daniel B. Reardon, M. D., George B. Sheahan, M. D., Hon. William T. Shea, Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham, Robert J. Teasdale, Mrs. W. W. Whitcher and W. L. Sargent, M. D.

On motion of Mr. Price one vote was cast for these officers by R. J. Teasdale and they were declared duly elected.

Letters were read from the Knights of Columbus in regard to the benefit concert and the reply of the President Mr. Faxon, accepting it with remarks.

The Association voted to undertake the agency for the sale of Christmas Seals, in this way to not only secure additional revenue but to keep the camp and its needs before the public whose health and safety are being secured by the work carried on.

A list of donations received at the camp was presented and it was voted to publish it with a list of things still much needed, hoping that these may be supplied. A small table with cover and a large screen are the things most needed at present.

A vote expressing the appreciation of the Association of the services rendered by their retiring officers was unanimously passed; Mrs. Forrest B. Royal by whose enthusiasm and persevering work the fund for building the camp was made possible and to Frederic W. Plummer and Charles A. Price who had served faithfully and well.

Discussion followed as to the possibility of increasing the number of day patients. Dr. Ash and Dr. Gordon both encouraged by the work already done and appreciating the fact that the public, the family and the individual must become educated and accustomed to the idea of camp treatment, Dr. Gordon suggested that a committee of the Association might work with the physicians in encouraging patients to adopt day treatment at the camp. A vote of thanks was also passed for the especial work of the building committee.

The meeting adjourned with the encouragement of a number of annual dues from the members being paid in to the treasurer so early in the financial year.

BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

South Quincy Will Be Ready at Next Hearing

A large number of South Quincy business men gathered at the office of John L. Miller on Liberty street, Wednesday evening, to map out a plan of campaign to be carried out at the hearing before the Railroad Commissioners next Tuesday for better train service for Quincy, but particularly South Quincy.

The original date for the hearing set by the Railroad Commissioners was some days ago, but owing to some misunderstanding no one appeared from Quincy. At that time the situation was explained to the commissioners and they set a new date for the hearing, which as noted above will be next Tuesday.

At Wednesday night's meeting it was planned to have a large representation at the meeting. It was thought best, however, that the demands of the citizens should be presented in a brief concise manner which could be done better by two spokesmen. These two gentlemen will formally present the needs of South Quincy, and what changes in the existing service are particularly desirable to accommodate the patrons from that station. The two gentlemen who will present these wants are John L. Miller and John C. Murray. Many others will be present, however, to show by their presence that they favor the changes.

The Quincy Board of Trade also has a committee on railroad service, and it is probable that speakers from this organization will be present to argue for changes desired in other sections of the city.

KILLED BY DOGS.

Dogs have completely wiped out the flock of six sheep owned by Frank Hodgkinson. The first onslaught on the flock was made Monday night, when one was killed. Wednesday night dogs again visited his premises and this morning he found the remaining five dead. The dead sheep will be appraised by the Chief of Police, and the loss paid by tre country out of the dog license income.

W. R. C. INSPECTION.

Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, No. 3, was inspected by the Division Inspector, Mrs. F. S. Whitney of Worcester on Wednesday evening in G. A. R. hall. A large delegation was present from the Post 88, G. A. R., and Camp 95, S. of V. The auxiliary was complimented on their work and received a marking of 99 1-4 per cent. out of a possible 100. A buffet lunch was served after the meeting. This organization has made a net gain of sixteen members this year.

OLSON—COLIN.

John A. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Olson, and Miss Ruth A. Colin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Colin, were united in marriage Wednesday evening at their new home 121 Glendale road. The ceremony which was confined to the immediate family friends of the bride and groom was performed by Rev. Swan N. Elwin of the Swedish Lutheran church. The wedding which was a quiet affair was followed by a wedding supper and reception. They will reside at 121 Glendale road.

GREATER BOSTON PLANS

Ex-Mayor Sears in Favor of the Scheme

All information on the subject of Greater Boston should be of interest, and the Daily Ledger would like to present in full the arguments of Hon. Russell A. Sears before the Men's club of Christ church this week. But the ex-Mayor spoke without notes and no stenographic report was taken. He was asked to consider the subject from a political aspect.

Mr. Sears placed a map of the Metropolitan district on the wall and referred to the barriers and rivers which now divided the 40 cities and towns. The countries of Europe were separated by natural barriers which were fortified for defense. Here barriers serve no purpose. Communities had sprung up about Boston and now they were converging, and there is no such thing as barriers. Time had been reduced by the railroads, street railways, telephone, etc.

The great Metropolitan district has everything in common—water supply, sewage disposal, parks and parkways, postal delivery, street car service, etc. The time is coming when Boston must expand. Now there are 40 cities or corporations in the same business. Why so foolish? For selfish reasons we have preferred to remain separate municipalities. This reason should not be paramount. Quincy should give up its traditions and enjoy the whole. All the 40 towns have the same ideals. Not one has everything. Brookline might object because of its wealth, but Quincy has its valuable water front.

There are two schemes, one a Metropolitan council, the other annexation without qualification. Annexation is a difficult problem to solve. Quincy and other cities would insist upon local option on liquor licenses and other questions. Brookline should share with its neighbors. Metropolitan sewers were not a benefit to Quincy, but for the good of the district Quincy contributes toward the cost. The purity of Quincy and other cities would help out in the government of Boston. We would purify Boston more than Boston would degenerate us.

Neighboring towns with interests in common should consolidate to save expense. London has a beautiful government. Its council is a model which might well be copied. London has 119 in its council plus 18 aldermen. It is a fine dignified body. It has a chairman but no Mayor. Can we get the men here?

Today Quincy is far from getting what it needs. If taken into Boston no corner of the great city will be neglected. We will have better streets, better schools, better police service, better fire protection. The whole scheme will benefit Greater Boston.

Questions were asked by some of the gentlemen present, and others took issue with the speakers.

One asked if it was not true that increased expense had resulted from annexation to New York city? Was there not a property qualification in London for voters? Political consolidation it was agreed was unlike corporate consolidation. In the words of Brooks Adams business industries would be ruined if conducted as cities are. Expenses had increased 164 per cent in New York since consolidation 12 years ago.

Another explained the qualification for voting in England. He did not think small cities should take a back seat. Quincy's water front will counter-balance Brookline's wealth.

Mr. Sears was of the opinion that New York would not go back to different communities if it could, and maintained annexation would help the whole Boston district.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to the speakers Messrs. Kincaide and Sears.

The opening performance of the great dramatic civic pageant at Boston Arena will be given this evening. From cave life to city life is the subject. It will be continued on Friday and Saturday evenings with a matinee at 2 on Saturday.

FAIR AT ATLANTIC

Each Table Adopted Colors of Some College

The College Fair which opened Wednesday in Atlantic Music Hall was the most novel and effective bazaar ever given by the Ladies Benevolent Society of the Memorial Congregational church. The decorations consisted of college banners and streamers festooned gracefully from the walls and chandeliers and each table bore flags and seals of the college represented.

Especial comment should be given the candy table which occupied a prominent place in the centre of the hall. The dainty coloring of the decorations and the attractive waitresses made a most artistic combination.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Although Quincy ranks 20 in population in the State only 16 cities and towns gave Governor-elect Foss a larger vote than this city, and the same is true of the Republican vote, only 16 cities and towns gave Mr. Draper a larger vote. Fitchburg, Everett, Pittsfield, Waltham, Chelsea, Beverly, Chicopee, Gloucester, Marlboro, Medford, Melrose, Newburyport, North Adams, Northampton and Woburn are some of the cities which did not give either candidate as many votes as did Quincy.

In this city over 84 per cent of the vote was cast, a total of 5,066 out of 6,006. In only one precinct out of twelve were there over one hundred stay-at-homes. Ward One had 205 registered voters who did not vote, Ward Two had 151, Ward Three 146, Ward Four 152, Ward Five 167 and Ward Six but 119. The number by precincts is shown below:

	On Lists	Voted	Absent
Ward 1, pre. 1,	566	469	97
Ward 1, pre. 2,	698	590	108
Ward 2, pre. 1,	340	267	73
Ward 2, pre. 2,	512	434	78
Ward 3, pre. 1,	582	497	85
Ward 3, pre. 2,	448	387	61
Ward 4, pre. 1,	487	424	63
Ward 4, pre. 2,	479	390	89
Ward 5, pre. 1,	603	514	89
Ward 5, pre. 2.	463	385	78
Ward 6, pre. 1,	472	404	68
Ward 6, pre. 2,	356	305	51
	6006	5066	940

It should be noted that Ward One cast by far the largest vote, the other wards being closely bunched, the totals were: Ward One 1059, Ward Two 701, Ward Three 884, Ward Four 814, Ward Five 899 and Ward Six 709.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The Thanksgiving proclamations are out; and, by the way, don't you realize that ,good as they are, they don't really hint even at all the excellent things of life for which most of us ought to be happy? When we feel a little out of sorts, when we have a "grouch' that nothing short of doubling one's salary will shake, when the sky seems leaden and the winds are chill because of some little failure with which we have met, we are pessimistic and downhearted, and the thought of giving thanks for anything in life only brings an ironical and weary smile to the lips. But when at nightfall we sit quietly and think over the events of the day—most of us, that is—and realize what mercy we have shown, and how fortunate we are as compared to those we have read about or know about who have met with accident and failure, or who have lost relatives and friends, or who have been rent by illness and within the shadow of death's wings; as we think it all over we realize that to the mass of the people fate is kind until the last stage of life's journey is reached—kind sometimes even then. To only an unfortunate percentage of the people comes Thanksgiving as the irony of the gods.—Brockton Enterprise.

The bigger the country, the louder the methods required for fame, and the smaller the chance for the individual to stand ot where the whole community can see him. It is natural to mankind to demand limelight and a pedestal. Man is anxious not only to see, but to be seen. It is not vanity; it is not, in spite of Milton, an infirmity; it is a corollary of our sockal nature. The love of fame is a weakness only when it is extreme. Though it will be admitted by his most loyal friends that the recent exploit of Walter Wellman, even if successful, could serve no practical end, and could add nothing to the science of aerial navigation, still that hardy navigator of the clouds is not to be severely criticised for undertaking to cross the Atlantic in a balloon. Edward Whymper has climbed the Matterhorn, that challenging peak of the Alps ,and Prof. John Tyndall has devoted the better part of a lifetime to mountain climbing, both actuated by the same motive that inspired Wellman. And the exploits of Cook and Peary might be included under the same head. It is interesting to know that Mt. McKinley is a mountain in America, but it is not necessary to go to its summit in order to learn that fact. Wellman might have tested his balloon quite as affectively over 2,000 miles of hills and valleys, but people are doing that every few days, and so there would have been little fame to him in such a feat. But to cross the Atlantic in a gas bag—that had never been done before, and success would have made his name shine like a moon. We should all be glad of fame but too much eagerness about it, and to seek it at the end of an unnecessary danger, makes us look foolish.—Haverhill Gazette.

Considering that if the Democratic party of Massachusetts had exhibited sense commensurate with its opportunity, it should have cleaned up about everything in Massachusetts, the Republicans have today occasion to congratulate themselves that they were beaten no worse than they were yesterday. There must be regret, of course, in which well-balanced Democrats must share, that Eben S. Draper was made a victim of a wave of hysteria and of political sophisms. A man who had served the commonwealth as faithfully as he had deserved kindlier treatment. Otherwise, such Republican reverses and narrow escapes as were encountered can be endured with equanimity. The Republican leaders of Massachusetts need the scare which has been administered to them, and perhaps the Democrats will be startled into some sober sense of the appreciation of their responsibilities. It is clear enough today that had the management of the Democratic party displayed genuine capacity in the conduct of its campaign, such capacity as would have commended it to level-headed men who were uncertain as to their duty its candidate for governor would have been elected by a much larger plurality and it would have secured many offices which the Republicans retained. —New Bedford Standard.

ABOUT HURRYING.

I once owned a very handsome, high spirited horse. It apparently never knew what it was to be tired. It was always ready to go, and was always in fact greedy to go, and while not a trotter or fast horse, was able to cover a good deal of ground.

One summer I took a notion that it would be very pleasant to harness up a span, and take the family in the carryall for a long ride. One of my neighbors had a young horse of trotting ancestry, high spirited and a natural roadster. I hired this animal, and in a short time had him harnessed with my own, and found that they went well together, notwithstanding the difference in their heights and in action.

So we started off for our long drive. But I soon discovered that the young horse with his trotting blood could do very easily a number of miles which was simply impossible for my own horse, notwithstanding his vigor and high spirit. His natural speed was not equal to his disposition and his partner fretted him. It was a constant effort for him to keep up and while the journey itself would have been nothing to him, harnessed in the usual way, it was easy for me to see that under the circumstances, the effort was great.

I have often thought that men and women are harnessed up in the same way. The slow one finds it difficult to keep pace with the rapid one, and is unable to do his best work, or do any work with comfort.

It is not always bad to hurry, but there is an uncomfortable sort of hurry which wrecks the nerves and prevents success. If one cannot adapt himself to the conditions which surround him, it will be better and safer for him, in the long run, to start out alone and "gang his own gait."

I have noticed how hurry makes trouble in another way. People often start the day delayed and never catch up.

"I shall surely miss that car," grumbles the man of the house, as he skips his breakfast, and swallows part of a scalding cup of coffee. It is fortunate if he does not use uglier expressions. In thousands of families the breakfast hour is a farce, and the time from rising to the time of reaching the regular daily employment is a tremendous rush. One can hardly do effective work when such is the effort to begin the day. Instead of rising at 7.30 when one is to begin work at eight, how much better to take another half hour from the bed for leisurely dressing, comfortable breakfast and adequate preparation of the mind and body for the hurry and labor of the day. This of course, my mean cutting short of the hours of amusement and recreation, in the evening, but few of us would be injured if we went to bed half an hour earlier.—The Healthy Home.

"I can't pay the bill, doctor. It's exorbitant. I'm no better than I was, either."

"That's because you didn't take my advice."

"Ah—well—of course, if I didn't take it, I don't owe you for it. Thanks. Good morning."

POWER SHIFTS TO DEMOCRATS

They Will Be In Full Control In the Next House

ONE SOCIALIST IS ELECTED

Many Conspicuous Figures Will Be Missing on Republican Side, but Many of Original Insurgents Are Left—Republicans Will Force Legislation as Much as Possible While They Have the Opportunity

Washington, Nov. 10.—Control of the next national house of representatives by the Democrats is decisive. Returns show that the Democrats made a gross gain of 53 members. There was a Republican gain of five members, leaving a net Democratic gain of 48 new seats. If the Democrats maintain their normal representation in districts yet to be heard from they will have an ample majority.

In order to get control of the house it was necessary for the Democrats to elect 24 new members. With a net increase of 43 they appear to have gained 19 members in excess of the number necessary to control. At the same time, the Republican strength has been reduced by the election of a Socialist in a Wisconsin district normally Republican.

The greatest gain in any one state was in New York, where the present delegation of twelve Democrats was increased by 10, making the division as to New York in the next house 22 Democrats, 15 Republicans. The representation from New York in the Sixty-first congress is 25 Republicans, 12 Democrats. The next largest increase was in Illinois, where the Democrats on the face of the returns made a gain of 6. In Pennsylvania the Democratic gains were 5, New Jersey 5, Ohio 4, North Carolina 2, West Virginia 2, Missouri 2, Maryland 2, Maine 2, previously elected, and 2 each in Connecticut, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Oklahoma and Rhode Island.

A number of the most prominent Republicans went down to defeat. Representative Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, had been already defeated for renomination and his young successor at the primaries, Sidney Anderson, was elected.

Some of the more conspicuous losses to the Republican side are Madison and Morley of Chicago, the last named holding the seat formerly filled by United States Senator Lorimer, and Herbert Parsons of New York, who was one of the Republican leaders and in the famous rules fight in congress last March was an "insurgent," but usually was recorded as not voting, and William S.Bennet, who for a while this year was groomed for the Republican nomination for governor of New York. Hamilton Fish of New York, prominent in the house "insurrection," is reported as having been defeated.

Caleb Powers of Kentucky, a conspicuous figure in the prosecutions following the shooting of Governor Goebel, will be one of the interesting figures of the next congress.

Early returns foreshadowed the defeat of William W. Cocks of the Oyster Bay district in congress and known as ex-President Roosevelt's intimate personal friend.

Many of the original insurgents are left in the house, including Henry A. Cooper, whom Speaker Cannon deposed from the insular affairs committee, and who in the riotous scenes of last March excoriated the speaker from the floor; Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin, conspicuous as United States Senator La Follette's representative in the lower branch of congress, Murdock and Madison of Kansas, Gardner of Massachusetts and Kustermann of Wisconsin.

The Socialist gain expected by some of the Wisconsin members resulted in sending to Congress Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee, in place of William H. Stafford, a lieutenant of Representative Mann in the railroad bill fight. Stafford had not been renominated.

The shift of power from the Republicans to the Democrats in the next house, following out the strenuous predictions of Minority Leader Champ Clark, who is not only an open candidate for the speakership, but has been often mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for president, in all probability will result in the Republicans forcing through as much legislation as possible at the coming short session. The present congress expires on March 4.

Democrats Gain Ten In Senate

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Returns indicate that the Democrats may have gained ten seats in the United States senate. The Sixty-first congress had 34 Democrats and 58 Republicans, so the change is not sufficient to give a Democratic majority.

Wales Gets Twenty Years

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 10.—William R. Wales, who was found guilty of assault on and robbery of Miss Katherine A. Kelly, declared, when sentenced to from fifteen to twenty years in state prison, that he was innocent.

HUGH'S HOME-COMING.

My brother Hugh and I were twins, and loved each other with a fervor that grew in intensity as we advanced in years. Perhaps the peculiar affection which is said to exist between twins was strong in us.

Our home, a little cottage of rough-hewn stone, was situated in one of the wild but beautiful vales that lie north of Bala.

We played together, Hugh and I; climbed the rocky hills together; boated on the tiny lakelet together and when we were old enough, tramped over the hills to school together. We were inseparable. The dangers of one were the dangers of the other ;his sorrows were also mine, and my joys were his. He was my bravest, readiest champion, even as I tried to be his. So our lives passed in simple, childlike happiness until we were eighteen, when a thing happened that strained the strength even of our love to its very uttermost tension.

We would either of us have willingly and cheerfully died for her—the girl we loved; but we would also, if there had been need, as cheerfully and willingly died for each other.

Many times we walked together to her home at Bala, and pulled across the lake. Sometimes Hugh rowed, and she and I sat side by side in the stern and steered the little boat; sometimes the position was reversed, and I pulled while he sat by Jenny's side and held the rudder-lines. But it could not go on so always. We knew that she could not make us both happy, though so far, as we thought it over, she had shown no preference for either, unless, as I sometimes fancied, her eyes rested longer, and with different expression, on me than on him. Yet it must come to an end, and so, one gloriously bright summer day, we strolled arm in arm, up the mountain side, and sat down at the turn of the foot-path, from whence we could see the white cottage, and the beautiful lake behind it.

It was there she lived, and, oh, for long did we gaze lovingly, with full, tremulous hearts, at the dear place. That scene; the lake, its wavelets dancing and sparkling like diamonds in the sunlight; the great mountains which encircled it as with a rampart —nay, rather as a gem is encircled by the metal which protects it; and the cottage, with its clinging ivy and jasmine, and scented honeysuckle, and fair roses, which she—fairer even than they—had tended; how it spoke to us that day. Yet it was not of sparkling lake, nor of swelling hills, nor even of the embowered cottage that we thought, but of what we knew was in that cottage; to us the centre of the whole scene, the jewel in its casket.

"Jim," at last said my brother, and his voice sounded far away, so faint was it, and choked with emotion; "Jim, we cannot always be together. She must choose one of us. Promise me that whichever of us she takes, you or me— and we will take no unfair advantage, one over the other—promise me, that you will still be friend and brother, that nothing in the world shall come between us."

I dared not trust myself to speak, but grasped tight the hard, rough hand he held out to me. Then, each with one long look into the other's face, to see perchance the honoring, trustful love mirrored there, silently, with a forboding of a great sorrow, we went down the mountain arm in arm, as we had gone up. And so, for the future, we never went to see her together, but took our little simple presents on different days; and never did either return without the other meeting him on the way, to see by his face whether it had ended.

But there was nothing unfair, nothing below board. We could always look one another straight in the face, give the honest grip of the hand, and walk home together as we had always done. Jenny soon showed that she cared for me most, yet I am sure she shed many tears that she should need to pain him, for I know she was aware that my brother loved her as well and truly as I.

However that be, one bright day, the brightest and most glorious in all that glorious summer, I told her all my thoughts and asked her to be mine—all mine—to live with me always. I could not help it. Something within me, of which I had no control, seemed to be speaking from my mouth, as though all my power and will had been taken from me and given to that strange, throbbing soul within.

But though my heart thrilled with intensest joy, when I folded my arms round her, and she lifted up her face in love and trust, and I kissed her, even then I thought of Hugh, and felt like a mean coward, a sneaking, underhand supplanter, as though I were taking a cruel advantage over him. So, when I went home, my joy was tempered with a feeling almost of shame. For the first time in my life I was unwilling to meet him; for the first time unable to look him in the face, and, as I saw his figure in the purple distance, I felt that I would do anything to avoid the eager scrutiny of his eyes.

It was as I feared, for, even as he came towards me with his arms outstretched, he saw how it was , and stopped, still mechanically holding out his hand to greet me. The while a great sorrow swept over his face, he tried to smile and wish me joy. I took him by the hand and led him into the ash wood, where the shadows lay deepest, and, with much stammering and hestitation, told him all. Never shall I forget the deadly pallor—the look of agony that seemed to have frozen on his handsome, sunburnt face. I saw the tears fill his eyes, and his broad chest heave with his strong, manly emotions, and longed to comfort him. At last, in a low, trembling voice, he said: "God bless, thee, lad—and—Jenny, too;" and then, with his hands clenched and his head low down, he staggered slowly away. And I sat there, feeling that I would rather a thousand times have died than have caused him that cruel pain.

Once only did I see him after that; for when at last I mustered courage to go home, they told me how he had gone in, and kissed them one by one, with tremulous lips, and, while they were wondering fearfully why he was so pale, had gone out and had not come back. I knew.

Three years passed away—three years of happiness only marred by the memory of that last sad scene. I remembered his agony; saw, over and over again, his heaving chest; heard his panting breath, and knew that he could not have forgotten Jenny. I knew not then that the truest happiness a man can have comes from the doing of a noble, self-sacrificing action, and that, surely must have been his. We never saw him. Occasionally he wrote to us, never, however, giving any address, and his letters were posted at widely separated places. He was an engine-driver, and that was all we knew.

But there was one thing he never omitted in his letters, and that, though we knew it was there before we saw it, always made our eyes fill: "Give my love to Jenny."

We are going to be married early in the spring, and I was looking forward with ardent longing to the consummation of my hopes. Happy times they were, and today was happier than that in the summer, when, the farm work being done, she and I went for a holiday to Chester.

On our journey back, a strange, awful thing happened. I was close to Jenny; her hand was in mine; and we were dreaming of the happy time to come, when suddenly we were aroused by the shrill whistle of the engine, and a few seconds after, the carriage began to rock violently from side to side. I cannot say that I was not alarmed, but when Jenny put her arm round me, and clung to me for protection, as trustfully as a child to its mother, my courage returned. For I was proud of that implicit trust, so that I forgot my fear in a feeling of sweet responsibility. Almost immediately the train began to slaken down in speed, and at last came to a standstill, and at the same instant we heard a fearful crash. Then all was silent.

I let down the window and looked up the line. Great soft clouds of steam were rolling silently towards us, their under surface glowing a dull red as though dyed with blood. Our train was without engine, and as the steam slowly drifted away, and our eyes got accustomed to the gloom, we made out, about a couple of hundred yards up the line, two engines locked together as in a death embrace while the fragments of a goods train lay scattered around.

We hurried towards the scene of the accident. The heavy goods engine lay on its side, and jammed between it and the rocky bank was the passenger engine. The fire had been shaken out, and the dying embers glowed with a dull red light, as they lay spread out on the ground, among fragments of wheels and twisted rods. From under the goods engine we dragged one poor fellow with many groans, for his leg was broken, and the escaping steam had scalded him fearfully; and then, with half his body crushed hopelessly under a tangled mass of iron and steel, we found another with his eyes closed.

Oh! 'twas a horrid sight. It turned me sick, and I tried to prevent Jenny seeing it. But she, eager to be of service, pushed me aside and gazed at the poor, wounded figure lying there so helplessly, and then gave a little scream of anguish and clung more closely to me.

"Jim, Jim!" she exclaimed, "don't you see who it is? It's Hugh!"

And Hugh it was, in his rough, en-

YOUNG PEOPLES RALLY.

The poston 1915 Civic campaign is including all branches of work, social, educational and religious. Begining next week there will be a series of meetings and banquets for laymen. On Sunday, Nov. 20, a young people rally will be held in Tremont Temple at 3.15 in the afternoon. The young peoples societies of all denominations will join forces and make this rally one long to be remembered. All young peoples societies in Greater Boston will be largely represented. The East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union, which includes all the C. E. societies of Quincy, and several in Milton, Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook, will send between 200 and 300 members to the rally.

The speakers will be Rev. Clarence Vincent of Roxbury, Rev. Samuel A. Crothers of Cambridge and Hon. Guy Ham of Dorchester. All three men are working for civic righteousness and are well qualified to address an audience of young people on the subject.

The singing will be a feature of the rally also. A chorus of 150 voices will be led by the choir master of Tremont Temple. In addition to congregational singing, an eminent male soloist will render several solos.

Enthusiasm will undoubtedly be present for with 250 young people banded together for a purpose, good speakers and good music, nothing but the highest enthusiasm could prevail. The plans for the meeting are in the hands of Rev. John L. Sewall, formerly of Randolph and now secretary of the Civic campaign and E. A. Gilman secretary chairman of the committee on young peoples' work.

WITH EFFECT

A well-known American press artist was camping in Colorado with his sons. They were living in a tent, and when news came of a nocturnal murder in the near neighborhood there was a good deal of nervousness manifested by the youngsters, who objected to going to bed in the circumstances.

The artist then hit upon an original device. He cut out some silhouettes representing men of the roughest Western type, with long, fierce mustaches, some with cigars, and all with pistols in their belts ,and in the attitude of men intensely interested in a game of cards.

These silhouettes he carefully fastened to the inner canvas of the tent. At night the boys, stepping outside into the darkness to view the result, were entranced with its success.

The shadows thrown from the silhouettes in the lighted interior indicated a tent filled with card playing, pistol shooting desperadoes. It was magnificent.

Thenceforth the family slept in peace.—Chums.

HIDDEN DANGERS

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Quincy Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Quincy proof:

H. A. Vinton, 1366 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me of kidney trouble which had been in my system for at least ten years. I had pains in my back and loins and I believed my trouble to be rheumatism. I consulted a doctor and tried many remedies but found only temporary relief. Being advised to take Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and began their use. They quickly drove away the pains in my back and my health is better today than it has been for a long time."

QUINCY HIGH.

The football season is drawing to a close. Only two more regular scheduled games remain on the list with the possible addition of another to be played after the Dorchester game. The team has done itself proud this year, and every man is to be congratulated. Another thing which oftentimes escapes our notice is the gameness and loyalty of the "sub." He has to put on his togs every day and go down to the field to be battered by the regulars. His chances of getting into the game are slight, and yet he is always on hand ready to do whatever the captain calls on him to do. This we say, all honor to the "subs," for in them we see not only the martyrs of the present but the conquerors of the future.

Bessie Chisholm '07 was married to Thomas Skinner on the third of November in Patterson, N. Y.

The backfield delivered the goods on Tuesday. The line also displayed great power. Johnson was missed at times, but his presence was not sorely needed against the lighter East Boston eleven. In the Dorchester game we can look for several ruffled feathers on Dorchester's right wing with "Herb" in the game.

* * *

The Golden Rod will blossom out during the first week in December. Ye editor and ye quill drivers have their task nearly completed, and will soon start packing their suitcases, preparatory to their departure for another climate.

* * *

The double male quartet is making excellent progress in its preparation for the concert to be given during the winter.

Carl Carlson, Q. H. S. '08, better known as "Sausage," took active part in the flag rush at Tufts. Carlson was well known on the local gridiron as left guard on the '07 and '08 teams. He is big and husky and by using his weight to good advantage, was one of the first freshmen inside the quadrangle.

* * *

The lunch room is still very popular at recess time. During these first ten weeks it has been self supporting and in every way satisfactory.

* * *

The marks for the first term's work will be out next week, since the term of ten weeks closes tomorrow. There is no foundation to the rumor that eight of the football team have been declared ineligible on account of deficiencies in studies. It is true that some of the football men are carrying a pretty heavy schedule, and it would not have been surprising if they had gone below passing grade some time ago. As things stand today the team is intact. Next week may tell a different story but we sincerely hope not.

Among the visitors at the school this week were Mr. Eliot, headmaster and Miss Reed head of the department of mathematics in the East Boston High school.

Harold Gore, '08, played quarterback for the M. A. C. team at Amherst last Saturday.

* * *

Basketball practice will begin in a week or two. The team should be one of the best the school has ever had, and as the schedule includes games with the strongest teams in eastern Massachusetts, the management should have a successful season. The home games will be played afternoons in the gymnasium. The accomodations are just about large enough for the number of pupils who generally attend the games and the team is self supporting under the usual order of things so that no change will be necessary.

* * *

The orchestra is practicing with the music classes in their regular morning sessions. It is probable that a girls chorus will be formed very soon to counterbalance the work of the double male quartette.

* * *

The clocks and bells are in working trim again after a brief vacation.

GRADED SCHOOLS.

The class pins of the Quincy school are expected within a day or two now. All the 8th grade scholars are very anxious to see and to possess one of the new style pins.

Soccer football is commanding the attention of many of the older boys. Regular teams have not been chosen yet, but the boys are learning the rudiments of the game during the recess periods.

The Massachusetts Fields School Teachers and Parents' Association had a very good meeting in the Park and Downs church last week. Supt. Barbor gave a very interesting address.

* * *

Frank E. Parlin, former superintendent of schools in Quincy visited both the Massachusetts Fields and the Wollaston schools last week.

* * *

Interest in the series of games for older boys at the Adams school, still runs high. Twenty games were played last week with the following results: Team 3, James Smith captain—won 11, lost 9. Team 1, John Farquharson captain—won 5, lost 15. Team 4, Peter Williams captain—won 5, lost 15. Team 2, Henry Ford captain—lost 20.

* * *

Mr. Haurd, supervisor of music in the schools of Lewiston, Maine, visited Miss Perkins' class at the Adams school yesterday.

* * *

A great many Boston teachers visited both the Cranch and the Adams schools the first of the week.

* * *

At the Lincoln school ,Mr. Wilson has had a field for soccer football laid out in the yard. Teams practice there during the recesses every day.

* * *

The Wollaston Parents and Teachers' Association will meet at the Wollaston school Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. ,Mrs. Richard C. Cabot of Boston will speak upon the sbject, "What punishments are of moral value?"

* * *

T. W. Kingman, superintendent of the Walpole schools visited the Wollaston and Massachusetts Fields school on Tuesday.

During the four recesses today and tomorrow, teams of the 7th and 8th grade boys will play practice games of soccer football on the grounds of the Washington school.

* * *

Mr. Parlin the former Superintendent, visited the Washington school last week.

* * *

Mr. Brooks, former master of the Adams and Cranch schools, and Mr. Owens, master of the Bishop Cheverus school in Boston, of which Mr. Brooks is now sub-master, were visitors at the Cranch school Tuesday.

* * *

The contests for older boys at the Cranch school during the past week were 19 in number. Team 3, Henry Hall captain—won 8, lost 11. Team 1, Earl Bates captain—won 4, lost 15. Team 4, George Norris captain—won 4, lost 15. Team 2, Harold England captain—won 3, lost 16.

* * *

Great interest is shown in soccer football at the John Hancock school. A field has been laid out on the grounds, and at recess teams chosen by Mr. Wilson play practice games. The field at this school as well as at the Lincoln must necessarily be much smaller than the rules call for, but they are both sufficiently large to give the boys a good chance for practice.

* * *

A committee of the Parents and Teachers Association of the Massachusetts Field school appeared before the City Council Committee on Public Buildings on Wednesday night to urge the purchase of several lots of land adjoining the school for a playground for the school children and public.

* * *

Every Monday morning at the Coddington school, all the scholars and teachers are assembled for opening exercises. The regular prayer and bible reading are supplemented by music and an opportunity is given Mr. Bentley to make any announcements of general interest. Last week Prof. Wrigly, organist at Christ church, played for the children at the opening session.

* * *

The seventh and eighth grade boys are playing soccer football during the recess periods and chosen teams play after school great interest in the game is evident on all sides.

OTHER SCHOOLS.

In a debate of Everett High school pupils last evening the girls team won over the boys team. The subject was —"Resolved, that the present policy of the United States in regard to immigration should be continued" and the girls took the affirmative. On the winning team were: Marion L. Spencer, 1912, Mattie C. Ordway, 1912, Doris C. Sparrell, 1911, and Jane E. Jackson 1913.

WHAT SCHOOLS ARE FOR.

Here is a Canadian view of What Schools Are For, from the Port Arthur Chronicle:—"The public schools are established for the purpose of instructing in the knowledge of subjects that have to do with the affairs of this life, to develop a wholesome mind and enable the pupil to distinguish what is morally right and morally wrong. With creeds and religious divisions it has no part. The principle upon which it is founded refuses to recognize any difference between the children of the Protestant, the Catholic, Jew or any of the other thousand creeds that are in competition in the religious world. If the department neglects to keep ever before its mind the principle it will but crown its blundering management."

CHICAGO SCHOOLS.

The effectiveness of Chicago's espionage of children to see that all who are of school age attend school was set forth in the annual report of President Alfred R. Urion of the School board. The report shows that, thanks to the prevention of truancy, there has been a decrease of illiteracy of minors from 602 to 401; that the enrollment and attendance are now the largest within the life of the public schools. There has been a decrease of 2,236 boys and girls from the roaming population of children between the ages of 14 and 16 looking for work and there has been the return of 3,150 boys and girls to public and private schools through the persistence and alertness of the truant officers.

President Urion paid a high compliment to the woman superintendent of Chicago schools. Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, and declared that Chicago schools are now working under the most effective conditions found any where in the United States. This statement probably will be challenged in many cities but the results in detail show the standard to be high. "The results," he said, "of the work of the education department in the past year showed decided advance over preceding years, harmony and cordial co-operation on the part of the teaching corps," and in general a better outlook for the general good of the children in the school room. Fortunately for the schools of Chicago a person was found within the system who was recognized the country over as an efficient school official, who possessed in addition to a thorough pedagogical training and experience and an intimate knowledge of the needs of the public school system."

HEALTH IN SCHOOL.

Many people who are scrupulously careful of the health of their children in the home are strangely indifferent to the conditions prevailing in the school. Hygiene in the public schools is a subject that is yearly receiving more and more attention, with the result that new school buildings in the larger towns and the cities conform generally to sanitary standards, but this is not true of many of the old buildings and of many schoolhouses in small places. It is the duty of all parents to know how far they fall short, and why, and what is needed to make them healthy.

The rules as to contagious diseases should be more strict, or rather more strictly enforced ,and parents should remember that danger may lurk in complaints often considered of slight importance. Whooping-cough, for instance, is thought by many people to be an unimportant and necessary trouble of childhood which it is better to get over and have out of the way. They do not know ,or they forget, that while whooping-cough is not a dangerous disease for older children, it is dangerous and often fatal to very young children, and is easily carried by the children attending school to the babies in the nursery.

Too much attention cannot be paid to the question of light in the schoolroom. Many children are made premature wrecks from unrecognized eye-strain, and school visitors may often see small, helpless children sitting blinking in the sunlight which streams through a large window in front of them, making frowning efforts through the glare to read from a blackboard, and using up in a few hours the nerve force of a week. Light should be abundant and should come from the left side, so that no shadow is thrown on slate or book, as is the case when the light comes from behind or from the right.

Another most important matter is the properly constructed desk, which will prevent undue stooping, contortions, or impediment to correct breathing.

In considering the subject of ventilation, there should, of course, be some system in every schoolroom by which air can be introduced from outside and then allowed to escape without using the windows ,which cannot always be depended upon on account of drafts and storms. These and many other points should be insisted upon by parents.—Youth's Companion.

For the Children

A Hippo Very Patiently and Quietly Waiting For His Dinner.

Above is the portrait of the largest hippopotamus in the New York zoo. He is hungry and waiting for the attendant to bring his dinner along. You can see by his open smile that he is able to take a pretty large mouthful. In captivity the hippopotamus is fed grass and hay, bread, carrots and various other vegetables. When the keeper feeds bread the hippo simply opens his mouth and lets the man pitch the loaves into his cavernous maw.

In their native habitat, Africa, hippos are sometimes found as much as fourteen feet long and nearly five feet high, but they usually are much smaller. They delight in water, living in lakes and rivers and feeding on water plants and the herbage growing near the water. They are good swimmers and divers and can remain under water eight or ten minutes.

A Roland For an Oliver.

"A Roland for an Oliver" is an expression that dates from the time of Charlemagne. Roland was his nephew and, like the great Charles, was eight feet high. Oliver, a celebrated knight of the same period, was quite a match for him, and they agreed to test their respective strength and skill in a combat on an island in the Rhine. The contest lasted five days without the slightest advantage to either. If Roland got in a well directed blow his opponent gave him quite as good a one in return, or if Oliver performed a feat of extraordinary skill Roland was sure to match it with a movement quite as adroit. It was a remarkable and altogether unsettled combat, and it gave rise to the saying "a Roland for an Oliver" when a person who has attacked another receives a blow or a retort fully equal to what he has given. Whatever it may be that is received, a return in kind is often called "a Roland for an Oliver."

Elephants Good Workers.

Elephants are used in every department of sawmills in Burma. In the work of piling logs they show great intelligence. One elephant will drag a log out of the water to the saw bench and place it with his tusks on the table, while his mate waits at the other end, ready, as soon as the buzzing circular saw has converted the round tree into a four sided log, to lift it off the bench, place it on the ground and drag it out to the storage yard, where he puts it carefully into position, placing one log exactly on top of the other. Elephants can pile logs as high as their foreheads. When the squared logs are wanted for shipment the elephant picks out the required number and drags them down to the waterside. If it is necessary he enters the river and holds the logs in position while they are being bound together by the raftsmen.

Portrait—A Game.

In the game called portrait one person leaves the room while the others choose the name of some one they all know. The person on re-entering the room has to guess the name selected by asking questions, which must be answered only by "Yes" or "No." For instance, "Is it a man?" "No." "Is it a woman?" "Yes." "Is she married?" "No." "Is she tall?" "Has she fair hair?" "Are her eyes blue?" "Is she in this room?" and so on till the portrait is recognized.

Sometimes the company choose the one who went outside to be the portrait, which naturally makes the guessing rather more difficult.

What Feet Are These?

There's a foot that's played all over our land.
There's a foot that is often seen in the sand.
There's a foot that crosses many a stream
And a foot we sometimes strike in a dream.
There's a foot that marches in rain or shine
And a foot that has measured many a line.
There's a foot which makes for our feet a rest
And a foot which is heard from east to west.

When Representative Thomas visited the rooms of the Granite City club Wednesday evening he was warmly congratulated on his reelection at the polls on Tuesday. Congratulations over, and one of Bill's cigars lighted, play was resumed.

DONATION PARTY.

The annual Donation party of the Bethany Ladies' Circle was held in the ladies' parlor Wednesday afternoon. The contributions consisted principally of groceries and money. There was some bedding and a variety of miscellaneous articles. A goodly number of ladies had assembled at 3 o'clock to share the hospitality of the circle. Mrs. Loring, the matron of the Day Nursery, was present to receive the donations. During the course of the afternoon light refreshments were served. Everyone seemed to have a good time, and the list of contributions is very large so the party may be called a great success.

MAKE A CLEAN SWEEP IN OHIO

Democrats Give Harmon a Plurality of Over Sixty Thousand

RHODE ISLAND'S CLOSE VOTE

Pothier Runs Behind Rest of Ticket, Being Re-elected by Only 903—Insurgents In Massachusetts Said to Be Ready to Defeat Lodge—Connecticut Democrats Win Governorship and Local Contests—Republican Ticket Successful Throughout New Hampshire—Tennessee Elects Republican Governor

Cleveland, Nov. 10.—The Democrats swept Ohio and in addition to electing Judson Harmon for a second term as governor have elected the remainder of their state ticket and a majority of the legislature. In consequence Senator Dick, Republican, will be succeeded in 1911 by a Democrat.

Returns indicate that the Democrats will have 69 seats in the house and 17 in the senate. The total of 86 is nine more than the number required to select a United States senator to succeed Senator Dick.

Harmon's plurality over Harding is the largest ever given by Ohio to a Democrat. The latest estimates give Harmon a margin of 60,000.

The next Ohio congressional delegation will contain 13 and possibly 15 Democrats out of the 21, as Congressman Goebel, in the Second district, and Paul Howland, in the Twentieth, are being hard pressed by their Democratic opponents.

CLOSE IN RHODE ISLAND

Pothier Is Returned to Governorship by Less Than Thousand Votes

Providence, Nov. 10.—Elected a year ago by the largest plurality ever accorded a candidate for governor in Rhode Island, Governor Pothier, Republican, was re-elected for a third term by one of the smallest votes ever known in the history of gubernatorial contests in the state. Pothier defeated his Democratic rival, Lewis A. Waterman, by 903 votes. The total vote was:

Aram J. Pothier, Rep.	33,492
Lewis A. Waterman, Dem. ..	32,589
Nathaniel T. Green, Pro.	953
James Herrick, Soc. Labor ..	599

The remainder of the Republican ticket was elected by a larger plurality than the governor received. The Democrats emerged from the contest with one congressman, George F. Shaughnessey, and a larger representation in the general assembly than ever before, though not a majority.

A new element was added to the election of a successor to Senator Aldrich, who refused to run again, by the election of enough Republicans opposed to Aldrich's choice of a successor, who was Henry F. Lippitt, to cause a split and possibly a deadlock in the next assembly, so that the election may go over a year.

There will be 25 Republicans and 13 Democrats in the next senate, a gain of 6 Democrats. In the house there will be 61 Republicans and 38 Democrats, there being a tie over one representative. This is a gain of 28 for the Democrats.

The state went overwhelmingly for license, Westerly, Warren, Portsmouth and Charlestown going from dry to wet.

LODGE'S SEAT IN DANGER

Senator May Be Defeated by Men of His Own Party

Boston, Nov. 10.—Senator Lodge is now a concrete issue. General interest is shown in his chances of reelection. They are uncertain. Suggestions of his withdrawal are made in some quarters, and there is no doubt that a strong effort to retire him will be made in the legislature if his name is offered for re-election. He cannot be defeated on a straight party vote, as the Democratic party will have only 126 votes to the Republicans' 152; but there is an anti-Lodge element of unknown quantity in the Republican rank. That Lodge himself is not fully determined to announce what will be his course is evidenced by his delaying a formal statement.

Mayor Fitzgerald has taken a hand in the situation already by suggesting that the Democrats would suport either Bates or Guild for Lodge's seat in congress. The mayor may use his influence in this direction when the legislature assembles, counting on a substantial Republican support for either of the ex-governors.

The Democrats made heavy gains in the legislature, many of their candidates riding in on the crest of the tidal wave which swept Massachusetts who would otherwise have stood but slight chance of an election.

BALDWIN'S PLURALITY 3600

Other State Officers Chosen In Connecticut Are Republicans

New Haven, Nov. 10.—Simeon E. Baldwin, a Democrat, was elected governor of Connecticut by a plurality of about 3600 over Charles A. Goodwin, but the lieutenant governor, state treasurer, secretary of state, comptroller and attorney general, are Republicans. Congressman-at-Large Tilson was re-elected by a plurality of 7000, in place of over 41,000 two years ago, and Congressman Henry has only 1300 plurality; Congressman Higgins has a bare margin of 334 instead of his previous 5700, and Congressman Hill has 2800 plurality in place of 28,000 in 1908. Thomas L. Reilly, Democrat, who has won the seat so long filled by N. D. Sperry, has about 3000 margin.

The Democratic victory is more impressive in its local contests, the gain being 57 seats in the house and 10 in the senate. Democratic sheriffs were elected in four of the eight counties.

The complexion of the legislature remains Republican and the prediction is made that ex-Governor McLean will win the contest for the United States senatorship from Senator Bulkley, as the latter suffered quite severely in defeat of candidates for the house who were known to favor the senior senator.

NEW HAMPSHIRE'S VOTE

Shows 7022 Plurality For Bass and Democratic Gains

Concord, N. H., Nov. 20.—Complete unofficial returns from the 290 towns and wards in New Hampshire for governor give:

Robert P. Bass, Rep.	44,465
Clarence E. Carr, Dem.	37,383
Bass' plurality	7,022

The scattering vote is not fully reported in the unofficial returns, but will not exceed, in all probability, 2000 votes, leaving Bass' majority over all at least 5000.

Currier and Sulloway, both Republicans, have been returned to congress, the former by a plurality of 5000 and the latter by a plurality of somewhat less than 1000.

The next legislature will be overwhelmingly Republican. In the senate the Republicans will have 16 members and the Democrats 8. The lower house will contain a large preponderance of Republicans, although a slight Democratic gain is shown. The executive council will be solidly Republican. The Republican state ticket was entirely successful in almost every town in the commonwealth.

SOLID SOUTH BROKEN

Hooper, of Unknown Parentage, Will Be Governor of Tennessee

Nashville, Nov. 10.—The latest advices show that Hooper has defeated Taylor for governor between 12,000 and 15,000. The Fusionists have elected the lower house by a safe majority. The senate is close.

Ben W. Hooper, the newly elected governor, was found on the streets of Knoxville less than forty years ago and was committed to the care of an orphan asylum. His parentage is unknown. When he was 10 years of age he attracted the attention of Captain Hooper of Newport, Tenn., who gave him an education and his name, and before he was 21 years of age Hooper had graduated in law with distinction.

He is a successful lawyer and is considered wealthy. He will be the first Republican governor Tennessee has had in many years and the third in the history of the state.

EARLY IN THE FIELD

Speaker Walker Defies Custom and Seeks the Governorship

Boston, Nov. 10.—Joseph A. Walker, speaker of the house of representatives, has announced himself a candidate for governor of the commonwealth next fall, and has practically declared war on Lieutenant Governor Frothingham, who is the logical candidate, following the custom of Republican succession.

It has always been the practice in the Republican party of Massachusetts for a man with gubernatorial aspirations to first serve an apprenticeship as lieutenant governor, before seeking the nomination for governor. This Speaker Walker does not intend to do, and, in an announcement made yesterday, he states he will appeal directly to the rank and file of the Republican party.

Landslide In Illinois

Chicago, Nov. 10.—The result of the election in Illinois and Chicago furnished one of the greatest surprises in the entire country. Although pictured as in the best shape of any state in the middle west from the Republican standpoint, nowhere was the Democratic landslide more pronounced. The Democrats made a clean sweep in Cook county. For the first time in fourteen years the long-time minority party reigns supreme here. With pluralities ranging from 15,000 to 25,000 the Democrats captured county offices. For the first time in its history a Democratic member was elected to the board of review.

Vote Is Cut In Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—John K. Tener's plurality for governor of Pennsylvania may be as low as 20,000 or even much less when complete figures are in. The missing counties are expected to show pluralities for William H. Berry, the Keystone party candidate for governor. Webster Grim, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, ran far behind his two opponents.

Beveridge Will Lose His Seat

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—Sufficient returns are in to show that the next general assembly of Indiana will be Democratic on joint ballot by a good working majority, which probably will be from 12 to 16 votes. This insures a Democrat to succeed Senator Beveridge.

All Republican In Minnesota

St. Paul, Nov. 10.—While Republican candidates were going down to defeat before a Democratic landslide elsewhere, conditions were reversed in Minnesota, where Adolph O. Eberhart defeated his Democratic opponent, James Grain, for governor by an old time majority.

For three state elections prior to this, the late John A. Johnson (Democrat) carried the state by overwhelming majorities. The latest figures show that Eberhart has been elected by more than 50,000. The legislature is Republican.

Figuring on Depew's Successor

New York, Nov. 10.—With a safe Democratic majority assured in the next state legislature, which will select a United States senator, political prophets are picking a probable successor to Chauncey M. Depew.

Already the names of four men who make this city their home have been advanced by their friends as haying performed party services meriting this reward. They are William F. Sheehan, Alton B. Parker, Edward M. Shepard and John B. Stanchfield.

Women May Vote In Washington

Seattle, Nov. 10.—The most interesting result of the election in Washington is the ratification of the woman suffrage amendment to the state constitution. The amendment will become law as soon as the governor proclaims its ratification. At least 130,000 women will be added to the electorate in Washington by the ratification of the amendment.

Turnover In Maryland

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—Although the returns from the Fifth congressional district are still incomplete the election of Thomas Parran, Republican, is conceded. The remaining five districts went Democratic, a gain of two seats for that party.

Clark Wants to Be Speaker

Bowling Green, Mo., Nov. 10.—Champ Clark declares that the Democratic landslide was due directly to the tariff and the fight on the rules in the house. He announced his candidacy for the speakership in the next house.

Aldrich Wins In Nebraska

Omaha, Nov. 10.—Chester H. Aldrich, Republican, has been elected governor of Nebraska over James C. Dahlman, Democrat, by a plurality of between 5000 to 10,000. The entire Republican ticket seems elected.

MONSTER OIL TANK FLARES LIKE TORCH

Explosion of 40,000 Barrels of Oil Shakes Countryside

New York, Nov. 10.—Forty thousand barrels of kerosene oil in a tank of the Tidewater Oil company at Bayonne, N. J., blew up with such a roar last night that the countryside trembled for miles around.

One man, working near the tank, is missing and is believed to have perished. Five others were seriously bruised and burned.

The fire, confined by hard work to the one tank, burned all night, illuminating the harbor like a giant torch.

In Bayonne, considerable damage was done. In a store half a mile from the tank, a kitchen range in the show window was hurled by the concussion through the glass into the street.

Hundreds of plate glass windows were broken in store fronts almost to the Jersey City line, and pictures were knocked down and dishes broken.

SOUSA IN A HOSPITAL

Noted Bandmaster Is Suffering From an Attack of Malaria

New Haven, Nov. 10.—Pohn P. Sousa, the bandmaster, was taken to the New Haven hospital, suffering from what is said by the attending physicians to be an attack of malaria. Sousa was taken ill the fore part of the week in Danbury, while conducting a concert, and fainted. He was taken to his hotel, where he remained for two days.

Yesterday he was seized with a similar fainting spell and was removed to the hospital. His physicians state that his condition is not serious, but that he will be confined to his room for at least a week.

Paulding Joins Naval Fleet

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 10.—The torpedo boat destroyer Paulding, the fastest of her type in the world, has sailed for Newport to take her place with the fleet. She was recently commissioned, and is commanded by Lieutenant Stirling.

Death of Actor Lee

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Henry Lee, for a score of years a well-known character actor, died here of pneumonia. For the last twelve years he was engaged in a number of theatrical ventures, his last public appearance being in vaudeville.

Sixty-One Killed In Revolt

Lisbon, Nov. 10.—Sixty-one persons were killed and 417 wounded at the time of the revolution.

DESECRATION OF OLD GLORY

Torn to Tatters After Being Trampled and Spat Upon

WORK OF MEXICO CITY MOB

Assaults Made Openly on American Citizens While Police Calmly Look On—Windows In Business Places Smashed—Our Ambassador Makes Vigorous Protest Over Excesses Brought About by Lynching In Texas

Mexico City, Mex., Nov. 10.—Owing to insults to the American flag and assaults made openly on American citizens in the streets, a demonstration against Americans, beginning with the stoning of the Mexican Herald offices, developed yesterday into an affair of international importance.

A vigorous protest was registered by the American ambassador with the Mexican department of foreign relations, and at the same time the facts were telegraphed to Washington.

Last night the attack was renewed. Windows in a dozen American business places were smashed. All about town shutters were hurriedly drawn and establishments were closed. Forces of police appeared in the streets and kept the crowds moving.

While the police looked on and seemingly made no effort to prevent it, an American flag floating in front of a candy store in the business quarter was torn down by several hundred medical students and others, who trampled and spat on the stars and stripes.

The mob then tore the flag to tatters. Photographs were taken of the flag desecrators before the office of the Dia Rio Del Hogar, a Mexican newspaper, showing many individuals waving bits of the torn American flag.

The demonstration yesterday was a continuation of the affair of Tuesday night, caused by the burning at the stake of Antonio Rodriguez at Rock Springs, Tex.

Publication yesterday by several Mexican papers of violent attacks on Americans Tuesday night tended to incense the medical students, who were the promoters of the demonstration.

El Dia Rio Del Hogar was particularly violent in the expressions of animosity toward the people of the United States, characterizing them as "giants of the dollar pigmies of culture and barbarous whites of the north," and asking "where is the boasted Yankee civilization?"

CLIMAX NOW DUE IN EXPRESS STRIKE

Settlement May Be Reached Through Action of Gaynor

New York, Nov. 10.—Mayor Gaynor issued two characteristic letters last night which promise to bring the strike of express company employes to a head today.

Briefly, he forbids the operation of wagons by unlicensed drivers, thus eliminating the strike breakers upon which the companies have depended. Mayor Wittpen of Jersey City had already taken this stand and a test case is now in the Jersey City courts.

More than 10,000 drivers and helpers, augmented by most of the taxicab chauffeurs in New York, are still on strike and rioting is unabated. Packages numbering millions are awaiting delivery.

John Williams, state commissioner of labor, is due here from Albany today and with Gaynor's action and promise of state intervention, it is hoped that a settlement will be reached.

TWO YEARS IN PRISON

Sentence Imposed on Embezzler of Wenham Tax Funds

Salem, Mass., Nov. 10.—Frederick P. Stanton, formerly tax collector at Wenham, was sentenced to two years in the house of correction on the charge of embezzlement.

His wife appeared in court before sentence was passed and stated that her husband was about her only support, and that they have six children, ranging in ages from 3 to 20 years of age.

It was charged that Stanton's embezzlement amounted to $5400. He pleaded guilty to some of the counts in the indictment. He claimed that faulty bookkeeping rather than dishonesty got him into the predicament.

Maine Hunting Fatality

Gilead, Me., Nov. 10.—Henry Alexander of Portland was killed while hunting for deer. The bullet was believed to have been fired by a Mr. Pope of Massachusetts, who was hunting and did not know Alexander was in the vicinity.

To Ask For Airships

Washington, Nov. 10.—Congress will be asked by Secretary of War Dickinson to buy aeroplanes for the army.

HUGH'S HOME-COMING.

gine-driver's clothes, with a deadly paleness showing through the soot on his face, and great drops of perspiration on his brow. We thought him dead at first, but, at Jenny's exclamation, he opened his eyes and smiled faintly at us. We were powerless to help him; we could not move that great mass of steel, nor could we draw him away from it, for, even as we but touched him, with a vague idea of saving him, he groaned in agony. And so, though it made us faint with horror, we knelt by his side and watched the tide of life quickly ebbing.

His right hand was crushed under him, but his left was free, and as Jenney tenderly and gently stroked it—all greasy and sooty as it was— his fingers closed over hers and held them. It seemed to give him relief, for a smile, more beautiful than I have ever seen on the face of man either before or since, lit up his face with a great joy.

"Jim," he panted, and his voice was faint and low, so low that I had to place my ear close to his lips to catch the whispered words, "I cannot last—many minutes—pray God—it may be short. It was—for your—sakes. I saw you—on the train. Kiss me, Jim—kiss me, Jenny—only once—the first—and last—I'm coming home again."

In silence, with eyes brimming over, we kissed the pale lips, and gently wiping the death drops from his forehead, waited for the end. It was not long. We saw the film fast dimming his eyes, the eyelids gently closing. We saw the lines of agony on his face gradually softening, the panting of his heart quieting, and knew that the end was come.

With one sweet smile—in which it seemed to me there was more of heaven than of earth—one last convulsive effort he placed Jenny's hand in mine, and whispered, "Jim, make her happy."

That was all. The poor, bruised body lay still—the spirit had flown. Hugh had "come home" at last.

I know not how long we knelt here, reverently, not daring to speak, but with the tears, streaming down our faces— tears of which I have never been ashamed. But, as I helped Jenny up, and was leading her away, still sobbing, some one touched me on the shoulder, and turning round, I saw a man whom I recognized instantly as the stoker of our engine. His left arm was hanging loosely and helplessly in a rough sling which some thoughtful passenger had extemporized. He drew his right hand across his eyes, and looking not at me, but at the dead, said: "You're his brother, sir, aren't you " I nodded—I could not speak, for at the moment any words would have choked me.

"Sir," he said, "I know all about you and the young lady. Him"—it did not need anything to tell me that he meant Hugh—" Him and me were pals. I went to the shed, sir, just two months after he did, and we've just stuck together like brothers ever since. And, sir, he has told me many a time about you. He was never jealous of you; he always said that you deserved her, and would make her happier than ever he could. But I was certain that beneath his kind, quiet manner, he must often have been miserable, for I could tell that he never ceased to love her. Do you know, sir, very often when he's fallen asleep off duty I've seen him smile as sweetly as a child, and murmur, Jenny, Jenny!' Don't cry, miss, he's a lot happier now, where he is, than he ever would have been—

"We've never been on this line before, sir, and shouldn't have been tonight, only just as they were getting the engine ready to bring your train, she went off the turnstile, somehow or other, and the driver was thrown off and his head hurt. Of course, you wouldn't hear of it, sir; there's many a hundred accidents that people never hear of, because a railway man's life isn't of much account, and if one's killed they can easily get another. At any rate, that's why we were told to take the excursion back.

"We didn't like it. Its awkward, you see, sir, when you are on a strange line, because you don't know exactly when to look for the signals, nor where the curves and inclines come. However, it had to be done, and so we backed down in good time, and waited for the signal. Just about two minutes before we were due to start, you went up the platform, and I saw you and the young lady get into the carriages. I didn't know how it was, but somehow your faces seemed strangely familiar, and I was wondering who you were, when suddenly he saw you and gave a great start, and the blood rushed into his face. Then he looked at me with such an appealing miserable look, that I felt quite scared.

" 'Bill,' he said, in a hoarse whisper, 'it's them.' I knew in a minute who you were then, but I didn't like that look it was just as though he was going mad. However, there wasn't much time to think of it; for just then the signal was given and we were off. We went splendidly, and rattled past the station in fine style, until, just as we got on the single line, we saw this goods train slipping along towards us at a fearful rate down the incline, and knew that in two minutes at most there'd be a smash. She was a long way off, but, then, you see a goods train has no brakes, and we hadn't any worth speaking of.

"It's awful, sir, when a thing comes to you like that, just when you are least expecting it. You feel choked like—as though you must do something, and don't know what it is. Hugh turned off steam and whistled, while I screwed down the brake until I heard the wheels grinding on the rails, but we both knew that we could never stop in time, or, if we could, the goods train would be smashing into us before we could reverse.

"Suddenly Hugh sprang on the tender, yelling out like mad: 'Bill, she's in, she's in!'

"I didn't know what he meant, but I saw him fling himself over the back of the tender, in front of the carriages, and a few seconds after, I heard the clank of iron, and knew he had unlinked the couplings. How he did it, sir, I don't know. He must have laid himself over the buffers somehow and leaped over, lifting the heavy links.

"In ten seconds he was back, shouting madly: "Off with the brake, man, off with the brake.' I began to understand what he wanted to do, and unscrewed the brake; and then, under a full head of steam, the engine left the carriages behind. 'Bill,' he shouted, 'jump off! jump off!" Of course, I wouldn't, and said so. He didn't stop to argue, but turned to attend to the lever, pushing as far open as it would go, still shouting, 'Jump off! jump off!'

'I thought of my little ones at home, sir, and all in a twinkling, like a flash of lightning, I saw them fatherless and my wife weeping bitterly for me; and, for an instant, I thought of jumping off. But it was only for an instant, for even as the thought came, something told me my duty was to stop. And there I stopped, and now I'm glad I did.

" 'Bill,' he cried, turning to me, with a wild light of triumph in his eyes, 'Bill, we shall save the passengers; and—Jenny and Jim. Don't you see, lad, how it will be ?We shall stop the goods train, by throwing it off the line; and the carriages are nearly stopped now—look!" I glanced behind. The train carriages was a hundred yards away, and slowing down rapidly; the passengers were saved.

"In silence, save for the panting of the engine, we gripped each other's hand and waited. Oh, that waiting! I felt—nay heard—my heart thumping like the engine itself. I tried to pray, but by brain was in a whirl I longed for the tension to cease; for the end to come. Just then the goods train reappeared round the curve. They hadn't seen us, for steam was on, but instantly we heard the sharp whistle and knew they were doing their best to stop. I saw Hugh glance quickly from the goods train to the carriages, and his eyes lit up once more with a great, triumphant joy, as he gazed up to the sky; then, before, I could say a word, or lift a finger, he seized hold of me, and crying. 'It's your chance, lad!' lifted me clean off the engine and swung me on to the bank. I remember falling and hearing a dull crash and a fearful scream, and then all was silent.

"That is all, sir," he continued, turning from me to the crushed figure under the engine. "He gave his life for you."

Then kneeling down, he took Hugh's cold hand into his own, and tenderly caressed it, the tears—no shame to him—rolling down his cheeks, and said: "God bless thee, Hugh, my best and only friend. Good-bye!" and walked slowly away. —John D. Sykes.

Weds Her Adopted Son

SWORN IN AMID POMP

Sir Vessey Strong Takes Office as Lord Mayor of London

London, Nov. 10.—Sir Vesey Strong, the first prohibition lord mayor of London, in a historic gilt coach, rode from Guild hall to the palace of justice and took the oath of office.

The ceremony was carried out with all the pomp and glory that characterized the inauguration more than five centuries ago. The lord mayor's show is one of the features of ancient British pageantry. The weather was clear and bright. Vast crowds lined the streets.

A military escort surrounded the lord mayor's coach and he was preceded and followed by outriders and groups dressed in the garbs of Shakespearian characters. The coach in which Sir Vesey rode was introduced in 1757 and cost over $50,000.

AIR DIVE OF 3000 FEET

Aviator Hoxsey Stunned, While His Aeroplane Is Wrecked

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—Twenty thousand persons rose to their feet and held their breath when Arch Hoxsey seemed about to be dashed to death as he made a sensational dive of 3000 feet to earth at the aviation meet here.

Hoxsey was up 5330 feet, a little over a mile, in his Baby Wright, when his engine balked. At a height of 3000 feet it stopped. The aviator was a half-mile high when he started to glide downward at an angle of 45 degrees. The machine gathered momentum as it plunged downward.

Airship and aviator sped swiftly into a woods three miles off the course, the machine striking the ground with such force that it was wrecked.

Hoxsey was tossed out, stunned and dazed. He and the machine had just missed a barn by twenty feet and struck near a farmer calmly plowing his field.

MEEGAN BROTHERS HELD

Under $2500 Bail Each to Answer to Holdup Charge

Boston, Nov. 10.—Henry T. Meegan and Walter Meegan, brothers, were held in $2500 bail each in the Brighton district court on the charge of having held up and robbed Miss Mary McDougall of Brighton.

Miss McDougall identified the two young men, one of whom is 16, as her assailants.

"Henry, the older one," said Miss McDougall, "grabbed me by the throat and called to the other one to come and take my handbag in which there was a small sum of money. The boy did not want to do it at first, but finally he did. I got a good look at them and I'm certain of their identity."

The defense put no witnesses on the stand. The boys deny that they robbed the girl. Their father is a contractor.

OFF FOR PANAMA

President Taft Sails From Charleston on Cruiser Tennessee

Charleston, Nov. 10.—President Taft left here on board the armored cruiser Tennessee for Panama. His Panama trip will be limited to twelve days, according to present plans. This will give him four days in the canal zone.

The president sailed from Charleston at 10:30 o'clock this morning and the Tennessee will be convoyed to Panama and back by a sister ship, the Montana.

People Who Work Indoors With Their Hands

Seamstresses, watch-makers, artists, draughtsmen, and many others, cannot properly handle their tools with cold, stiff hands. Many a lost hour or two on cold winter mornings results from the delayed heat of furnace or stove.

The Perfection Oil Heater in a few minutes gives the temperature that assures the worker warm hands and pliable muscles. The quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so the wick can be quickly cleaned.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

It has a damper top and a cool handle. Indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain, and cannot get lost.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

BRIEFS

City caucuses next Tuesday.

Next Monday evening will be "Quincy night" at the Majestic theatre.

Mrs. John C. Chamberlin of Hancock street, Wollaston, is in New York on a brief visit.

Bills for house connections made with the public sewer the present year are being sent out by the Sewer department.

Marceau of Quincy is on the freshman team of Dartmouth college which will meet Andover, Yale and Harvard at Andover in a cross-country run.

Frederick H. Mitchell of Cushing street Wollaston left Saturday on a brief vacation trip to Savannah, Atlanta and various southern cities. He returns the last of the month.

James H. Webb, who was unable to be present when the officers of St. Stephen's Royal Arch chapter were installed a month ago, was installed into the office of secretary at the regular convocation Wednesday evening.

The banquet committee of the West Quincy Improvement Association meet tonight to arrange for the second annual affair. The association will also hold a whist party tonight at St. Jean's hall.

It looks now as though Houghs Neck would be represented in the City Council next year by John R. S. Ross. Mr. Ross is one of the three Republican candidates seeking nomination and the Democrats have made no nomination.

The Massachusetts Horticultural society, the leading organization of its kind in this country, has conferred one of its highest honors on Dr. W. G. Kendall of Atlantic by awarding him its first prize silver medal for best large or small fruit garden.

The annual ball of the Firemen's Relief association takes place tomorrow evening. The committee has worked harder than usual this year to be sure that everything is just right, the decorations, the music, the refreshments and the crowd. Its success is assured. Be sure to have a share in it.

MURDER AT COURT HOUSE

Police Sergeant and Another Man Killed

Walter G. Fall, a clerk in the State House shot and killed Frederick Schlehuber, a police sergeant of station 11, and a man named Rees at 10 o'clock this morning in the office of District Attorney Pelletier in the Boston Court House. Fall, it is said, was recently arrested on complaint of Rees for assault on his step daughter, Esther H. Fogg. The case was to come to trial today, and all of the parties were in the District Attorney's office, discussing the case.

Suddenly Fall entered, and drawing a revolver begun to shoot. Sergent Schlehuber fell and Rees fell on top of him. A hurry call was sent for physicians, but both men soon died. Fall was placed under arrest by Inspector Pelton and he was immediately rushed to police headquarters.

A great crowd collected and the Court House building was swarming with police officers from headquarters across the square, headed by Supt. Pierce, Chief Watts and Capt. Dugan.

When questioned, Fall at first refused to talk, and it was some time before anything could be obtained from him. It is said that Fall who was charged with a statutory offense was trying to fix up the matter. Hot words followed the argument, when Fall drew a revolver and began to shoot. The revolver was found in Fall's pocket.

News of the murder was received by the Daily Ledger immediately following the shooting and was bulletined at 10.05 or five minutes after the shooting.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Ann C. Wright is ill at her home on Saville avenue.

Miss Catherine Saville of Saville avenue is recovering at her home from an operation preformed the first of the week.

Senator Eugene C. Hultman, Tech '96, has been chosen by the nominating committee as one of the members of the executive committee of the Technology alumni association.

A largely attended dancing party was held at Hibernian hall, South Quincy, Wednesday evening under the auspices of Division 10, A. O. H., Auxiliary. The dance was preceded by a concert.

A very pleasant farewell surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Christopher at their home on Elmwood avenue, Wednesday evening. Games and refreshments were enjoyed and a token of esteem was presented to the ex-tempore host and hostess just before the gathering broke up.

The annual rummage sale of the Unity Circle of King's Daughters opened this afternoon at 2.30 in Faxon hall. A large assortment of clothes, books, shoes, hats and other useful articles can be found there in charge of a number of the ladies. The millinery department is the largest and most attractive. Before the doors were opened quite a crowd had assembled. Each one wanted to be the first inside and get the best of the bargains.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The standing of the Employed Boys' teams to date is as follows: Carlisle—18.1; Harvard—14.6; Dartmouth—14; and Yale—13.1. Although Carlisle still leads, the other teams are pulling up fast, and the Crimson or the green or the Blue may lead before the end of the month.

The monthly handicap meet will come on the 26th. Cups for the winners are on exhibition in the display case at the desk.

The South Quincy Extension club will give the two plays "Slasher and Crasher" and "Turn him out" on Monday, Nov. 21. Mr. Osgood, the trainer, assures us that they will be something great and we can believe him.

—Gen. Allen, chief signal officer of the army, in his annual report says that "at least 20 aeroplane airships are needed for the United States government services." Perhaps they may be needed, but not just now, and the purchase had better be delayed until further improvements in their construction appear, otherwise, like many of our sea ships, the airship will be sold for old junk to make room for more modern inventions.—Athol Chronicle.

—The vacuum process is now used to clean railway coaches.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The high scores ran very close at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club Wednesday evening. W. E. Hingston was high man with 43 points won and 21 lost which gave him a percent of 67 plus. The second best score was remarkably close between J. H. Penniman and John W. Bell. The former won 43 points and lost 22 giving him 66.15 percent while the lafter won 41 points and lost 21 giving him 66.12 percent. The usual lunch was served after the tournament.

Miss Lois Kendall of Atlantic, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Kendall of Atlantic, was on the Sophomore golf team in the Wellesley College sports on Monday. The Sophoniores won from the Juniors, but lost to the Seniors. The class of 1912 won tre meet by 24 to 18 for 1911, and 8 for 1913. A Boston paper says: Miss Kendall is a player with a future if she continues to play the game. She has excellent playing form and her temperament is an ideal one from a golfing viewpoint. Her brother was one of the most promising young student golfers in and about Boston up to the time he gave up golf for the more strenuous and vigorous sports. Dr. Kendall is a member of the Wollaston Golf Club, and a consistent follower and promoter of all clean amateur sports.

—There is a company with headquarters in Chicago which is interested in heating buildings, and the advertising man in his efforts for business often sends out circular letters concerning the subject, and this week he sent one to Plymouth addressed to a well known citizen who passed on a few years ago. The letter was handed to one of his relatives who had been connected with the settlement of the estate. The relative opened it and was surprised to read as follows, the name being omitted: "Mr.—, Plymouth, Mass. Dear Sir. Are your present heating arrangements satisfactory?" The writer did not proceed farther with the letter as the query opened up all sorts of suggestions in his mind.

RULED WHALERS AND CANNIBALS

British Governor of Falkland Islands Now on Vacation.

25 YEARS AMONG THE FIJIS

Man Eating Stopped by This Englishman to Prevent Serving of Himself as Piece de Resistance—Left Tropics to Serve Union Jack on Edge of Antarctic.

Twenty-five years in the south sea islands and six years on the border of the antarctic are enough to fill a person with a desire to see something of the rest of the world, and that is possibly one reason why W. L. Allardyce, his Britannic majesty's governor of the Falkland islands, is making a tour of the world.

From 1879, when he first went out to the south seas as a junior clerk, until 1904 Governor Allardyce spent most of his time in the various islands in the Pacific, notably in Samoa, Tonga and the Fijis.

"I first went to the Fijis when King Thakombar was alive," said Governor Allardyce in New York recently. "He was the original 'king of the cannibal isles' who has been sung about. Thakombar was a tall man with a big white beard, and his hands were so big that if you put one of yours in his it would disappear. He always wore the native garb, somewhat modified, for he insisted upon the white shirt of civilization and a necktie, which first he wore tucked into a kilt of native cloth. His legs were bare. He also wore a headdress of some kind of white or smoked native cloth.

Fiji Etiquette Severe.

"Thakombar always insisted upon the observance of the outward forms of respect. As a rule, the native Fijian doffs his headdress when he comes into the presence of a higher chief, but this was not enough for Thakombar. The man who met the king on the road had to sit down in the road and clap his hands or smite his thighs and shout 'Woh, woh!'

"The missionaries thought the Fijians were civilized in that early day, and the natives had nominally accepted Christianity, but as late as 1894 they were not up to all the forms of Christianity and civilization, for they were still eating one another. In that year, however, it was stopped by force.

"There had been an outbreak in the interior. I was native minister at the time and with the governor, some 2,000 native allies and a few hundred of our own men went up and called upon the cannibals to give up those of their number who had not long before eaten two native missionaries.

"To our amazement the leaders replied that if we did not go away they would put the governor and myself in the oven also. We tried to call them to reason, but they would not entertain our truce envoys. Finally we had to attack them. We captured some 200 of them in the fight, and the licking they got taught them we meant what we said, and there has been no more man eating since then.

White Population Growing.

"In the early eighties there were not more than 1,500 white men in all the islands. They were mostly Anglo-Saxons, some being Americans. The white population of the country is now over 4,000. In addition some 40,000 East Indians have been imported into the country from Bengal to work the sugar plantations. The sugar industry has grown so that the exportation is now approximately 80,000 tons.

"We try to preserve the communal system of government among them as far as possible. The people are ruled by their chiefs, the something like 90,000 Fijians having several dozen head chiefs, and these have many petty ones under them. The heads of provinces are paid salaries ranging from $2,000 a year downward. These chiefs have not the power of life and death.

"There is never any summer in the Falklands," continued Governor Allardyce; "but, on the other hand, the thermometer hardly ever goes down to zero. But what gets to you is the cold wind with a low temperature. Most of the people there are engaged either in sheep raising or whaling. The whole country is a sheep farm, and the holdings range from 700,000 acres, running 200,000 sheep, to small runs that carry only 3,000 to 4,000. There are 800,000 sheep in the Falklands. In the Falklands group are some fifty or sixty islands, the largest being East Falkland, which is about 90 by 50 miles, and West Falkland, which is 20 by 30 miles.

"The whaling industry is very remunerative. The whalers are mostly Norwegians, and they fish around the Falklands and South Georgia, also going as far south as the South Shetlands and the South Orkneys.

"There are five different kinds of whales in those waters. Of them the right whale, or the nord kappa, as the Norwegians call it, is worth from $7,500 to $10,000, principally on account of the whalebone. Then there is the blue whale, which is the biggest of all, often running to 90 or 100 feet in length. The sperm whale, of course, everybody knows. Then there is the humpbacked whale, so called from an enormous hump, and the sei whale, which is not so important."

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

FOR MOTHER AND FATHER

Everything has its place in the great economy of things, and the useful Christmas present is not barred out. In the great array of gifts spread out to choose from it is not well in every case to be led away from the useful by the mere glitter of brass and crystal.

There are other useful gifts besides collars and pajamas, bathrobes and corset covers. Each person's home life suggests hundreds of needs which do not touch too closely on the personal and which yet may be numbered among the useful.

Why Not Buy Mother a Bag?

Mother can never have too many shopping bags, for they have an unpleasant habit of wearing out very rapidly. Then if she is a mother who likes to keep up to the minute in her fashions she will appreciate a shopping bag such as the model seen in the illustration. Light gray velvet is the fabric used, and it is hand painted in soft colors. The appearance is much like suede, but it is ever so much newer and smarter than the average bag of commerce. The handles are also of the velvet. It is fitted with a long purse between two open compartments.

Gifts In Mourning Jewelry.

When mourning is worn there are useful and attractive gifts to be found in the shops. Among them are black onyx beads, a necklace or a lorgnette chain in gun metal. An umbrella with one of the new gun metal handles is always appreciated. Or what do you think of a dull jet comb for the hair?

For Elderly Women.

If she is an elderly woman a Spanish lace scarf or fichu would be a nice gift. These scarfs come all the way in price from $4 to $15. Down comfortables, whether of silkoline or real silk, are a good choice, also a pretty shoulder shawl. If she is a really old lady a lace dress cap or a pair of black kid gloves will suit, or a folding knitting stand may be purchased from $3 up. And for grandma this present is indeed a useful one. Silk or satin for a waist is another gift to be labeled useful.

Furniture Gifts.

A lamp, a mirror, a sewing stand, a magazine rack, a desk and chair, a great easy chair or perhaps a sewing chair, a handsome library table, one of the beautiful bookcases, any of the beautiful rugs offered, a jardiniere or a vase for flowers, a cabinet to hold an overflow of treasures, desk or writing table fittings to harmonize with other furnishing, a framed photograph, an old print or a fine reproduction of a famous painting.

For Soiled Handkerchiefs.

A handkerchief bag is fashionted from half a fringed towel twenty-three inches long and twelve inches wide. This is first embroidered in with small flowers, such as violets or forgetmenots. Damp and iron on the wrong side, then sew it up and stitch across the bottom. The hoop at the top is half of an embroidery frame six inches in diameter, which is hemmed in by hand. To suspend it use inch wide satin ribbon.

GREAT REJOICING ON MILLER STILE ROAD

Two Daughters and a Son Born to Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wentworth

Happy Father Was Formerly Draughtsman at the Shipyard

John F. Wentworth of Miller Stile road did not draw any new designs on the trestle board at the Boston Navy yard today, for he had much more important duties at home. In fact he had a tremendously busy time between midnight and sunrise, and has hardly had time to breathe since. Talk about surprise parties, none of them will compare with the surprise that the stork gave the Wentworths, and all the neighborhood is excited. There was even talk of postponing the rummage sale at Faxon hall in which so many women are interested.

But to the point, Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth welcomed to their family this morning two daughters and a son, a gain of 100 per cent in one day. They had but one child, a son, a bright and popular student of eight years at the Coddington school, who is the hero of his playmates today.

All the new arrivals are living and are husky little fellows, weighing about five pounds each. And Mrs. Wentworth is reported as doing nicely. Whether the babies look like their papa or their mamma has not yet been made public, and they are not yet on exhibition. It is hoped they may all live and flourish, and be a credit to their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth have been residents of Quincy about six years, living first at 31 Bigelow street, and more recently in F. C. Packard's house on Miller Stile road. Mr. Wentworth when he first came to the city, was employed as a draughtsman by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, but he later secured a position as a government draughtsman at the Navy yard. His native place was Rochester, N. H., where the family have large estates. Such is his attachment for New Hampshire, that he has always retained his legal residence there, and on Tuesday went to Rochester and voted the straight Democratic ticket. He was not successful that day, but Friday will here-

ADVICE TO MERCHANTS

Told How to Advertise and the Necessity

The Retail Merchants' Association listened to a valuable heart-to-heart talk on "Advertising" on Thursday evening at their regular November meeting. It was the annual "blow out" of the association, and may be known in the future as the annual banquet. The United States hotel presented a very satisfactory menu.

Ben. S. Jacobs, a director of the Pilgrim Publicity Association, and the advertising man of Conrad & Co., was the guest of the evening, and spoke for an hour on the subject of "Advertising," telling several good stories to emphasize his points. He said in part that advertising was really salesmanship, but it goes further and reaches out. All advertising is talking. The subject was considered under several sub heads.

Program advertising he considered a waste. They were altogether too common, as every club which got up a little show issued an advertising program. They must go. Only those approved by a program committee of your association should be supported. Program advertising has no cummulative value.

Dodgers or hand-bills were necessary in some places, but over 90 per cent were so poorly got up that they lacked convincing power.

Newspapers next received attention. Local merchants do not support the local papers in the right way. Papers ought to be encouraged. Generally the newspaper man is a decent sort of a fellow. The paper should cater to the advertisers and the merchants should cooperate to the mutual advantage of both. Local newspapers are usually willing to do what they can. A city ought to have civic pride to have clean newspapers, with modern type and neatly printed. Get in touch with the newspaper man. He and you are in business for a profit.

Outdoor display has its usefulness, and many good progressive campaigns have been conducted by their use. But there was a feeling and some arguments against billboards.

Appearance of stores is advertising, also the treatment of customers, store service, etc. Advertising is not purely an expense but an investment, and successful merchants set aside a fixed percent for it.

Preparation of copy did not absolutely need a trained man. Tell your story. And it is necessary to be truthful. It will win in the long run. Don't be discouraged because the big stores advertise so heavily. Their advertising expense is often too heavy, and is worrying some of them. Adopt a plain simple wording in your "Ads." It was a mistake to call everything grand, or a sacrifice, or to make tremendous claims.

In closing Mr. Jacobs told of the activity of the Pilgrim Publicity Association in boosting New England, and the importance of the National convention of "Ad" men to be held in Boston next August. Prosperity of New England helps all its cities and towns, and also the merchants in those towns.

H. P. Dowst told what he thought Quincy needed; including cooperation, loyalty, more social intercourse, a country club, industrial development, better support of newspapers, etc.

Henry L. Kincaide, A. L. Whitman, President E. W. Sheppard, F. L. Zoller, Mr. Kennedy, Frank F. Prescott and others followed.

A committee of three was appointed to consider program advertising and another committee of three on Christmas advertising.

☞If you do not read the Quincy Market special prices for Friday and Saturday you will be apt to miss a chance to economize on your housekeeping expenses. They have a long list of staple goods in their advertisement today at most reasonable prices.

SALE LARGELY ATTENDED

Many Attractions Presented by Ladies Aid Society

The annual two days' sale of the Ladies' Aid society came to a successful close in the vestry of the Wollaston Methodist church on Thursday evening. Admission being free large numbers were attracted and the many articles met with a ready sale.

On Wednesday lunch was served on the European plan under the auspices of the Epworth League, with Mrs. E. V. Estes as chairman. A chicken supper was one of the attractions on Thursday evening, a bountiful repast being served by the following committee: Mrs. Samuel A. Kay, chairman, Mrs. H. B. L. Dimmick, Mrs. Harry Collett and Mrs. W. Williams.

A pleasing entertainment was given on both evenings with the Cecilian player piano, while on Thursday night additional features of readings by Miss Ida Bland ,and vocal solos, were enjoyed.

The decorating committee in charge of E. H. Ewertz accomplished their work effectively and a pleasing arrangement of the national colors, red, white and blue, surmounted by the flags of all countries was the result.

The various booths were in charge of the following:

Fancy Goods—Mrs. Carrie Durgin.
Aprons---Mrs. Lupton.
Candy—Mrs. O. N. Estes.
Utility Table—Mrs. C. M. Given.
Preserves—Mrs. Robinson.
Neckties—Mrs. George Crothers.
Toys—Mrs. W. L. Pease.

—An interesting result of the election in Washington is the granting of suffrage to women. There are said to be over 130,000 women ready to vote.

☞Make the dining room attractive for thanksgiving—we have the newest furnishings at popular prices Kincaide & Co.

GALAHAD CLUB SOCIAL.

A very pleasant group of "brave knights and fair ladies" was gathered in the parish house of Christ church Thursday evening, for a social under the auspices of the Galahad club. The early part of the evening was devoted to the playing of games. Later dancing and music were enjoyed. The decoration and illumination were excellent under the direction of Gibb McDonald. William Richards made some punch which vied with the nectar of the Gods.

There were several moonlight dances during the evening, during which the work of the illuminator proved very effective. The moon cast its rays down upon the dancers from her aerie high above the platform. Miss Nellie Drummond and Miss Ruth Gardner furnished the music. The young people were having such a good time that all were decidedly reluctant about going home when the time came for closing.

Mrs. Byron C. Miller and Miss Robina Hall acted as chaperons of the party. Ellis Young, as game warden and chief megaphone man, was kept busy with his duties throughout the evening and his efforts met with success.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The superintendents of Boston's schools recommend that thrift be regularly taught. This can scarcely be reckoned a "fad" of the present hour. Where, except in the home, can the fundamental virtue be better taught? Where are there instructors more habituated to the practice of economy than the teaching force of the country, with their enforced personal code of "high thinking and plain living"? Parents who live in luxury can scarcely expect to be impressive oracles on this score. With books and supplies freely furnished to the child, he must be exceptionally well grounded in regard for property if he is not tempted to deal less carefully with them than if he knew that his parents had paid for them directly, perhaps from hard won earnings. A large sum could be saved to the taxpayers if the children were made to understand that the books and apparatus they use, in the last analysis, are paid for by some one, and that they do not proceed miraculously from some source of supply as unfailing as the widow's cruse of oil.---Boston Herald.

Latest returns seem to bear out fully the first impression that the next national House of Representatives will have a safe working Democratic majority. There is another way of putting it, and one having a stronger and a more serious meaning for the Democratic party. That is to say, from all appearances it will be a majority which, whether it likes it or not, must assume the responsibility for legislation. True it cannot, without consent of the Senate, enact legislation; but it can prevent the enactment of undesirable laws, and it can, by doing its own part, place the burden of responsibility for the defeat of desirable legislation upon the Senate and upon the White House.

All this is contingent on a clash between the Democratic House and the Republican Senate and executive. There need not be a clash over ordinary legislation; a clash is deemed unavoidable in case the House insists upon putting into operation the more radical of Democratic policies, free trade and income tax, for example.

The House elected on Tuesday, it should be borne in mind, will not sit until one year from the coming December. President Taft will first have to deal with it in its long term of 1911 and 1912, and he will be called upon to communicate with it again in the short term of 1912 and 1913. It will expire, with his own term, on March 4 of the year last named. By that time the decision of last Tuesday may be reversed. On the other hand, by that time the Senate may have become Democratic. Even the presidency may have passed out of the hands of the party which has controlled it, save for two four-year intervals, for more than half a century.

It would seem to the impartial observer to be wise for the Democratic party to be content with nursing the small advantage it has already gained until such time as the country shall have increased its strength and its opportunities as a governing force. It will accomplish more by cooperating with the Senate and the President than by antagonizing them. The country has never taken kindly to a congressional deadlock, and the Democratic party will gain nothing by becoming a mere hindrance to legislation. If it is cool headed, conservative, patient, it may be able to continue in power until it shall have more freedom of action, but it will make a grave mistake if it forgets at any time during the next two years that it is serving on probation.—Christian Science Monitor.

PLEASANTLY SURPRISED

Large Party Call on Wollaston Couple

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Christopher were most pleasantly surprised at their home on Elmwood avenue, Wednesday evening when about fifty of their friends from the Wollaston Baptist church and Christian Endeavor society trooped in upon them.

Deacon and Mrs. Brown paid a social call earlier in the evening in order to keep the couple at home and when the multitude trooped in their surprise was complete.

The party met at the Wollaston station and proceeded to the house in a body headed by Rev. Joseph Walther the pastor, who introduced them as some of his family. A pleasing program was enjoyed consisting of piano duets by Mrs. Charles Roach and Miss Louise Thatcher, solos by Mrs. E. V. Estes, recitations by Miss Etta H. Holmes, and piano solos by Miss May Critchley.

After some felicitous remarks by the Rev. Joseph Walther, the pair were presented with a beautiful gas lamp in behalf of their many friends, to which Mr. and Mrs. Christopher fittingly responded.

Games in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Roach and William Bullock were enjoyed and ice cream and cake were served. The party was in charge of a committee consisting of Mrs. Lena Talbot, Mrs. Charles Roach and Miss Gertrude Barbour.

Among those present were: Rev. Joseph Walther, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Durgin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roach, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Miss Ida Brown, Miss Winifred Church, Earl Church, Irving Church, Miss Madge Hatfield, Chester Barlow, Miss Eleanor Dunne, William Bullock, Miss Grace Schermerhorn, Miss Gertrude Barbour, Miss Cora Titus, Miss Edith Armstrong, Miss May Critchley, Mr. and Mrs. Nickerson, Nathan Drew, Edward Bullock, Hollis Black, William Talbot, Miss Ethel Hatfield, Miss Kingsley, Miss Clara Porter, Mrs. E. V. Estes, Miss Holmes, Miss Charlotte Scarborough, Miss Lottie Trenholm, Miss Lucy Coolidge, Miss Grace Schermerhorn, Revere Dresser, Mr. Pritchley, James Cahill, Lester Porter and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher are well known in Wollaston and have been, active in church affairs. Mr. Christopher is past president of the Christian Endeavor society. They are moving next week to Brookline, where Mr. Christopher's business as partner of Christopher Bros., contractors, takes him. With them go the best wishes of the community.

EASTERN STAR DRAMATICS.

A large audience enjoyed the presentation of "Mrs. Briggs of the poultry yard" at Quincy Music hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Order of Eastern Star.

In the cast were:

Mrs. Briggs, a woman of business — Mrs. Susie Furnald
Ralph — Mr. Merton A. Turner
Jimmy — Mr. William Tarbox
Alvira — Miss Clara E. Call
Melissa — Miss Bessie E. Roberts
Silas Green, "a near relation" — Mr. Roy Prout
Mr. Lee, a wealthy neighbor — Mr. Henry Grindell
Virginia Lee, his daughter — Miss Mildred Crowley
Daisy Thornton, her friend — Miss Annie E. Rose
Mrs. O'Connor with no liking for goats — Mrs. Clara R. Catarius
Mandy Bates, whose tongue will stumble, — Miss Elizabeth Furnald

The plot of the drama is too well known to need comment. All those taking part did so with credit, but special mention is due Mrs. Furnald. It was given under the direction of Mrs. Isabelle Davis. Dancing followed the entertainment.

RUMMAGE SALE.

The rummagers I rummaged at Thursday afternoon and evening in Faxon hall seemingly and the never-ending supply of goods had a large hole eaten out of it. The committee in charge consisting of Mrs. A. L. Melcher, Mrs. Gilbert Miller and Mrs. E. W. Branch have been ably assisted in their work by other members of Unity Circle. This morning they were busy straightening out the goods which had been displayed already and undoing many bundles which had not been touched. The doors opened at 2.30 this afternoon and the bartering was started once more. The proximity of the hall to the Italian district, on Canal street, has increased the number of purchasers and rummagers.

GREAT DETECTIVE SHIFT

Half of New York Force May Be Replaced by New Blood

New York, Nov. 11.—The biggest shakeup in the detective bureau since Theodore Roosevelt was commissioner is expected to take place when one-half of the force will be removed and replaced by the new blood.

Scond Deputy Police Commissioner Flynn, recently in charge of the federal secret service here, has been quietly examining 250 young patrolmen, with the view of making detectives of them. To these men the deputy commissioner is said to have held out the lure of increased salary as an incentive.

The idea of Flynn, who is the new head of the central office, is to put the detective bureau on the same basis as Scotland Yard, where the uniformed men are separate and distinct from the plain clothes police.

MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE OCCUPIES JAIL CELL

She Is Charged With Trying to Poison Her Husband

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenck, wife of John O. Schenck, a millionaire pork packer of this city, was arrested and locked up on a warrant issued by the prosecuting attorney charging attempted murder of her husband by administering poison in his food.

Schenck was taken to the North Wheeling hospital two weeks ago and since that time repeated attempts of Mrs. Schenck to have him taken back to their palatial home in Wheeling have been contested by Mr. Schenck's relatives.

Schenck is in a critical condition. Mrs. Schenck is in jail and is not admitted to bail.

TONIC MISBRANDED

Was to Be Rubbed In "Roots" to Grow Hair on Bald Heads

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Gervaise Graham was fined $50 and costs by Judge Landis in the United States district court on a plea of having misbranded hair tonic. The label read "Guaranteed to Grow Hair on Bald Heads," and then, under instructions, it directed "Rub in the roots of the hair."

Judge Landis asked for an explanation of "roots of hair on a bald head," but none was forthcoming. The prosecutor told the court that an analysis of the product showed that it did not, and perhaps could not, contain the necessary elements to bear out the statement on the label.

Pullman Company to Revise Rates

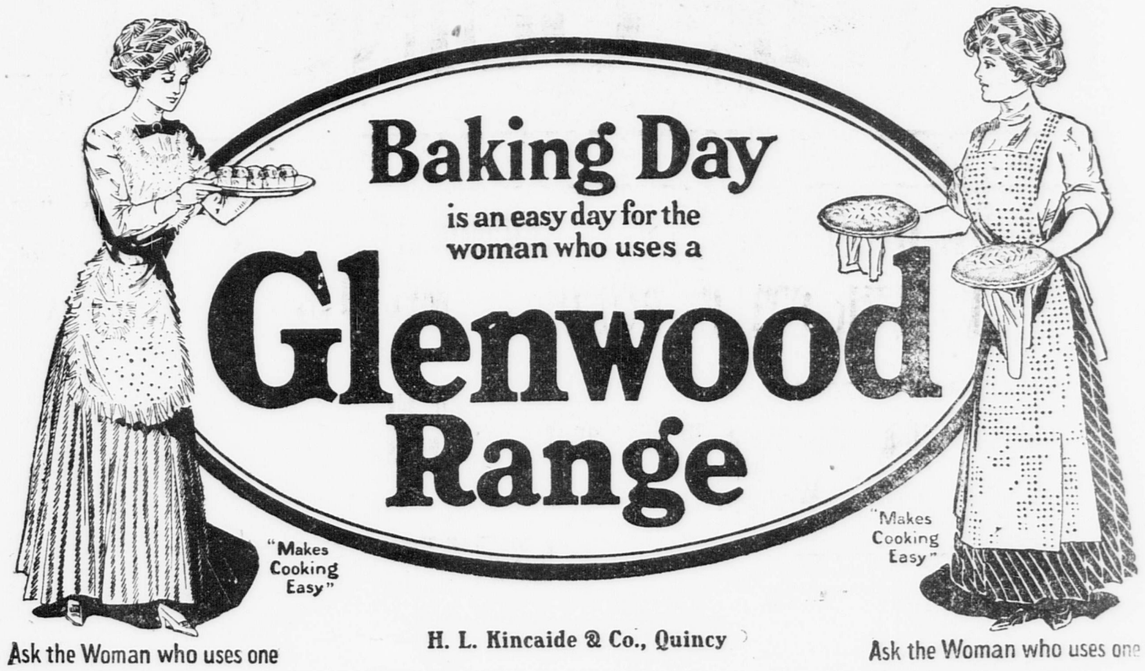

Washington, Nov. 11.—The Pullman company has notified the interstate commerce commission that it is prepared to submit a sweeping revision of sleeping-car rates calculated on the basis of the decision in the Loftus case. This was the case wherein the commission said that if the charge for a lower berth was $2 only $1.50 should be charged for an upper.

Kentucky Murderer Says He Will Not Be Captured Alive

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 11.—Aided by heavily armed relatives, Jake Noble, who killed Wesley Turner, jailer of Breathitt county, is entrenched on Lost creek, far back in the mountains, according to advices received here from Jackson.

Noble has defied the authorities to arrest him and fully 200 men either in official posses or in private hunting parties, organized under the lure of a $500 reward for Noble's capture, have started for the mountains.

Noble has sent word that he would not be taken alive and if the sheriff was sent for him that official should bring two coffins with him.

Rhubarb.

The rhubarb of our gardens is a native of Siberia and the basin of the Volga, and its name recalls its Russian origin. The ancient name of the Volga was the Rha, and the name came to be applied to the root of the plant imported from thence. So the Romans called it Rha barbarum, the foreign root. From this come the French rhubarbe and the English rhubarb.

Father and Son Drowned When Leaky Boat Goes to Bottom

Portsmouth, R. I., Nov. 11.—Joseph St. Germain, 59 years of age, and his son, Peter St. Germain, 32, both piano makers of Fall River, were drowned, and Arthur Duhamel, 35, a blacksmith of that city, barely managed to save himself last night when the boat in which they were fishing sank a quarter of a mile from shore in the Seaconnet river.

The men had been fishing all afternoon. Shortly after nightfall it was noticed that the boat, which had been leaking, was filling faster than before. Soon the water, which entered from several places, began to fill the bottom of the boat.

The elder St. Germain manned the single pair of oars which the party had carried, and while his two companions bailed madly, he exerted himself to the utmost to reach the shore. Working in a foot of water, the two men bailing soon realized that the invading waters were beyond them and shortly after the boat settled and all were thrown into the water.

Neither of the St. Germain men could swim, and, according to Duhamel, sank almost immediately.

IGNORES THE RULES

Lady Johnson Smokes Cigaret In Saloon of Ocean Liner

New York, Nov. 11.—Lady Alen Johnson, wife of the British minister at Copenhagen, arrived on the White Star liner Adriatic for a short stay in this country. Lady Johnson caused a mild sensation in the saloon after luncheon, which was served while the ship was coming up the bay, by producing a silver filigree cigaret case, selecting a cigaret and sending a steward for a match.

"Isn't it against the rules for smoking to be allowed in the saloon?" asked one of Lady Johnson's fellow passengers, as she blew a cloud of blue smoke ceilingward.

"Well," said the chief steward, in a conciliatory manner, "you see, we're so nearly in port now that a rule more or less doesn't matter." So Lady Johnson finished her smoke in peace.

WASHINGTON HEARS OF MEXICAN RIOT

Protest Is Made by American Ambassador Wilson

Washington, Nov. 11.—Official dispatches giving details of the anti-American demonstration in Mexico City have reached the state department from United States Ambassador Wilson and Arnold Franklin, the American consul-general.

Mr. Wilson confirmed the press reports that he had protested to the Mexican department of foreign relations against the insults offered Americans and that the riot grew out of the lynching of a Mexican, Antonio Rodriguez, at Rock Springs, Tex.

Mr. Franklin's dispatch said that the riotous students who paraded the streets, cried "Death to Americans," and threatened the consulate. He also told how these students had pulled an American flag from a business house and had trampled it under foot.

The department is awaiting further advices from Wilson before taking any action in the matter.

EVENT OF THE SEASON

"The Deacon's Second Wife" Presented at Wollaston

One of the season's events at Wollaston was the presentation by the Wollaston Dramatic club of "The deacon's second wife," in aid of the Wollaston Free Kindergarten in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry on Thursday evening.

The farce was attended by a large and appreciative audience. The ushers were of Wollaston's younger set, and consisted of Misses Caroline Sprague, Gertrude Lacey, Ninon Lacey, Caroline Lewis and Helen Seavey.

During the intermissions vocal selections by Mrs. Herbert Y. Follett were enjoyed.

The plot of the play centres around the departure of the deacon's wife on a visit and the arrival of a niece, who, discovered by some summer boarders in the theatrical makeup of an old lady, plans to keep up the deception as "the deacon's second wife," much to the bewilderment of a neighboring village gossip and others.

The play culminates with the wining of Miss Dorothy Bullock a New York society damsel by her artist lover. The play was in three scenes giving two interiors and one exterior of the home of Deacon Fitz.

Willard E. Keyes made a fine character study as Deacon Barachias Fitz, a typical countryman and owner but not master of the farm house. Miss Theodora Luard took the part of his wife Malvina Fitz, with a will of her own.

As Milton George Washington Fitz and Nancy Melissa Fitz, Aylmer M. Hatch and Miss Lucy D. Luard were inimitable in the characters of two country children going into all sorts of pranks and capers.

Miss Grace A. L. Parker took well the part of Mrs. Brown a meddling neighbor and gossip with a pessimistic view of everything. Kate Rollins, the niece and also "the deacons second wife," was gracefully assumed by Miss Ella Packard, who carried off the dual part in a most praiseworthy manner.

Leon D. Browne as John D. Bullock a pompous and well-to-do Wall street broker looked and acted the part. As Mrs. Bullock, Miss Louise N. Fleming had the poise of a New York society matron. Miss Margaret Hall as their daughter Dorothy made a charming and vivacious society belle.

Hartley Bullock, their son, fresh from Oxford was taken by Leslie G. Garland. His sociological investigations of farm life caused him to meet with many rustic experiences and dilemmas of a most amusing nature.

Ernest Rench of the Aero club and travelling with the Bullock's was well taken by John Norrie. His development as the admirer of the niece Kate Rollins was interesting.

Ernest W. Arnold as Philip Gamboge the artist lover of Miss Dorothy completed the cast, his action and mannerisms doing much to portray the temperament of the artist.

The club has in preparation two plays "A case of suspension" and "A bachelor's banquet" which will be presented early in January.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

Miss Alice L. Higgins will speak at the Woman's Club house tomorrow morning at 10.30. The Associated Charities of Boston find the need of a good secretary to superintend the work of distribution among the needy, and to ascertain where and by what means the greatest good may be accomplished with the money at their disposal. Miss Higgins will tell the representatives of all the charitable organizations in Quincy how the work is conducted, and why all the cities need such a secretary. The public is invited to attend the meeting and it is desired especially that all the organizations which have any charitable purpose within or outside their membership should have a delegation there to hear what Miss Higgins has to say.

SUPPER AT WOLLASTON.

A large number were present at the church supper on Thursday evening in the vestries of the Wollaston Congregational church. A generous supper was served by an efficient committee composed of Mrs. Charles F. Bates, Mrs. Albert Sayward, Mrs. Walter Poore, Mrs. Charles Campbell, Mrs. James Broughton, Mrs. Eugene Bonney, Mrs. Charles Farwell, Mrs. Leon Besse and Mrs. George F. Perry.

The evening's entertainment consisted of readings by Miss Elsie Broughton, and selections by the Girls' Choir club, including the toy symphonies which were given with so great success at their recent concert.

SWEDISH METHODIST FAIR

Pleasing Entertainment on the Opening Night

The opening night of the Swedish Methodist fair on Thursday was very successful despite the gloominess of the weather and Union hall was in beautiful disguise.

With national colors and autumn foliage in background, and tables of attractive and tempting articles not to mention the people, in the foreground, the scene was very pleasing.

During the evening a short musical program was given under the direction of Miss Emma Witting. Among those who contributed to the entertainment were Miss Olga Olson, Miss Emma Witting and members of the male chorus.

The different organizations of the church furnished committees which had charge of the tables.

The Stewards—Andrew Anderson, Charles Edgren, Alfred Olson, A. Y. Anderson and Rev. Carl E. Rydstrom.

The Ladies' Aid Society—Mrs. Andrew Anderson, Mrs. John Nilson, Mrs. Andrew Lindberg, Miss Anna Gronvall, Mrs. Peter Johnson, Mrs. C. E. Rydstrom, Mrs. A. Lagugren, Mrs. Oscar Olmquist, Mrs. William Gellotte, Mrs. Felix Johnson.

Sunday School—Mrs. Charles Edgren and Miss Edith Olson.

Epworth League—Mrs. John Wigren, Greta Anderson, Walberg Peterson, Mary Witting, Edla Mattson, Olga Anderson, John Wigren, Elmer Carlmark, Oscar Johnson.

after be known as his lucky or unlucky day. Were Mr. Wentworth an admirer of Col. Roosevelt the attention of the ex-President might be called to the big event in Quincy today, but he is not, so that the boy may be named Cleveland or Eugene Foss.

Mr. Wentworth is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and has many trophies of success at sports. He has also established a reputation as an inventor, having secured patents for a marine engine. He is a member of the Masonic lodge at Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth are both members of Bethany Congregational church, and prominent in the activities of the society. Many have been blessed by their charities. Previous to coming to Quincy they resided at Washington, D. C.

Mr. Wentworth's father is not living, but his mother at Rochester and sister at Pawtucket will unite in welcoming the little strangers.

QUINCY'S RECORD.

Only on one date in the years 1907, 1908 and 1909 were triplets born in Quincy. On Dec. 31 last to Cristino and Lorcta Antonellis, two sons and a daughter. There is no record of births during the year 1910.

In 1907 there were born five pair of twins; in the year 1908 there were eight pair, and in 1909, a banner year, 13 pair, including 19 girls and 7 boys, as follows:

Dec. 7—son and daughter to Pasquale and Francesca.

—There are 39 persons to every square mile in Vermont, as compared with 37.6 in 1900 and 36.4 in 1890. Manifestly there is elbow room enough in the state yet, and will be for considerable time. Rhode Island is a good deal cluttered up with 515.4 persons per square mile and Massachusetts with 418.7 persons. People who like elbow room will come to Vermont.—Barre Times, Vt.

CIVIC PAGEANT WAS GRAND

"From Cave Life to City Life" Presented

An audience of upwards of 4000 were interestingly entertained Thursday evening at the Boston Arena at the opening night of the long talked of pageant given under the auspices of the Boston-1915 movement. The pageant was presented in tableaux and moving pictures with prologue showing the evolution of home life from the days of the cave dwellers to the colonizing of New England, and then looking forward to the conditions that are hoped for in 1915.

The army of performers numbered fully 1200 young men and women in addition to a chorus of several hundred girls from the Boston High schools, who sang a number of high-class choral pieces. In addition to these there was a large orchestra whose music was of a descriptive nature and highly impressive. The methods used to show the marked contrast between the early and modern home New England life were ingenious and full of interest, and contained many spectacular features, the costumes of the performers adding greatly to the effect.

Assisting the performers was a band of thirty real Indians including some squaws and children and their war dances and various pictures of aboriginal life were enthusiastically applauded.

The pageant opened with the appearance of Father Time, and a scene from the cave dwellers. This was followed by a faithful representation of life in an Indian village with real wigwams and numerous Indian dances. The next episode presented the Colonists settling in the new land showing their struggle for existence, Thanksgiving and resistance of tyranny, their wealth and prosperity and a Governors reception at which the minuet was executed by half a hundred young ladies and gentlemen in true Colonial costume.

Episode four, the last, was a very pretty affair. In this episode Father Time shows Boston her neighbors, and it was during this that all the performers were in the arena at one time, presenting a scene that beggars description. Here the present and future Boston was shown. It opened with a majestic procession headed by a new idea of "Miss Boston" a stately dame, crowned with a minature gilded State House dome. Following her were a group of young women symbolizing the suburbs and principal cities of Greater Boston, each bearing some symbol typical of the community represented. All being escorted by armed knights who in turn attacked the dust pest with its burden of disease germs of many kinds, fire slavery, crime and insanity—which were represented by young women in suitable costumes.

Then came the assimilation of the nations, each group dressed in native costume who executed their national dances. Then a group of 100 school girls garbed in white and wearing broad sashes of American national colors, who rendered a dance typical of America. This was followed by a grand spectacular scene during which the pageanters passed in review of Boston and her neighbors.

During the interludes here was some particularly pretty fancy dancing by Miss Virginia Tanner.

The prologue during which Father Time invites Labor, Progress, Success, Prosperity, Peace and Happiness to assist man in his work, was written by Frederic A. Tupper a former master of the Quincy High school.

BEDROOM IS IMPORTANT.

Not only do you spend more hours in the bedroom than in any other room in the house, but it is more necessary that this room should be hygienic in its conditions than any other, because you are asleep for much of the time you spend in it, and while you are asleep, you are peculiarly liable to the attack of disease germs, which you would throw off unharmed if you were pursuing actively your ordinary duties in the daytime.

Microbes make successful attacks during sleep, and to make the chamber a safe place certain conditions must be complied with. It seems rather awkward, does it not, that a physician who passes unharmed through smallpox and diphtheria epidemics should succumb to consumption chiefly because of the close and unhygienic condition of his own bedchamber?

MILTON NEWS BUDGET

Carpenter Falls from the Roof of a House

James Goodwin of Needham met with a serious accident Wednesday afternoon while working on the roof of the house owned by J. T. Goodwin, his nephew. This house, which was occupied by Mr. Hammons, was burned recently, and Mr. Goodwin was starting repairs. In attempting to get down from the staging he lost his balance and slid down the roof landing upon the ground on his shoulder. Very fortunately his neck was not injured but his collarbone was fractured. The auto ambulance from Quincy was called and Dr. Reynolds arrived with it. Mr. Goodwin was taken to the Quincy hospital, where the bones were set. He is reported as more comfortable today although it will take him some time to recover from the severe shaking up he received.

A very successful dance was held at Cunningham Gym Wednesday evening. At the first dance of the year the management were unable to clear expenses, but this second one was successful financially as well as socially.

A panoramic picture taken at the outing of the United Drug company is displayed in the window of Hammer's drug store. This picture is about five feet long and probably includes five or six hundred people. All the faces are wonderfully distinct, and it would be worth while to take a look at it just for the sake of seeing what up-to-date photography can do. If one had half an hour to spend he might utilize it in trying to find Mr. Hammers' face in the picture.

The game between Woburn High and Milton High scheduled for last Saturday was cancelled on account of the rain. Natick High school defeated Milton High on Tuesday by a score of 10 to 9.

Alfred J. Martin of Adams street will return to Bokus, Panama, on the 17th of this month after a two months' visit with his parents. Mr. Martin is manager of a large plantation owned by the United Fruit company.

Workmen are busy connecting up the new fountain with the main water pipes.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Wollaston club had its regular meeting Thursday evening. Mr. Kelsey of Boston spoke on the subject: "The boy and his money." The audience was large and attentive and every boy present was impressed by the practical common sense talk Mr. Kelsey gave.

The Boy Scouts meet in the Association building this afternoon at 4.30.

R. B. Tobey of Wollaston will speak at the Saturday morning meeting for younger boys this week.

The Quincy Intermediates will play the Lynn Employed Boys in the Association building Saturday afternoon. This afternoon they go to Weymouth for a game with the team there. The team is composed of the following: S. Prout and Trask, forwards; Estey, centre; and Sutermeister and Holmes backs.

The seven men chosen for the first Senior team are as follows: Morris, Dackers, and Glover, forwards; Jenkins, centre; Bates, Brooks and Parker, backs. The first games will be played on the 19th on the home floor. Abington Y. M. C. A. will be the opposing team.

There has been a scarcity of candidates for the second team. Only three men reported up to last night. Mr. La Rose called for volunteers and four or five others signified their intention of trying for the team.

Physical examinations are being given every day, and in many cases the result acts as an incentive for harder work in the gym and in the pool. Swimming is the best possible exercise for the development of the lungs and work in the gym gives the muscles their needed exercise.

A READING LESSON.

It is a well-established fact that the average school-teacher experiences a great deal of difficulty when she attempts to enforce the clear pronunciation of the terminal "g" of each present participle.

"Robert," said the teacher of one of the lower classes during the progress of a reading exercise, "please read the first sentence."

A diminutive lad rose to his feet, and amid a series of labored gasps breathed forth the following,—

"See the horse runnin'."

"Don't forget the 'g,' Robert," admonished the teacher.

"Gee! See the horse runnin'."—Lippincott's.

Mrs. Walter Ewell is seriously ill at her home on Foster street.

George W. Jones, the City Square shoe man, is seriously ill at his home on Saville avenue.

A civil service examination for Metropolitan Park policemen will be held Feb. 2.

Miss Edith Randall is to speak on Switzerland tomorrow night at the meeting of the Young Women's club.

John Adams Commandery, K. of M., worked the first degree of the order on a number of novices Thursday night in Greenleaf hall. At their first regular convocation in December a large class of companions will be raised to the hospitallaer degree.

Special nights this week at the Majestic theatre have proved a great success, and will be continued until all the people of Greater Boston have had an opportunity to see "The Chocolate Soldier." Quincy night will be on Monday.

A pleasant evening is promised for the grand ball of the Quincy Firemen's Relief association, which will be held tonight at Music hall. A fire alarm gong will start the grand march moving which will be led by Chief Engineer Peter J. Williams.

There is considerable interest being taken in "Quincy Night" at the Majestic theatre, Boston. Monday evening is reserved for Quincy people that they may have an opportunity of seeing "The Chocolate Soldier," the hit of the season. Cut out the coupon in Wednesday's Ledger and send in your order for seats. Special cars are to be reserved on the theatre trains to and from Boston.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN.

The commission to determine whether it is expedient or practicable to establish and maintain a state hospital or sanitorium for the cure of cases of nervous breakdown, and for patients who are suffering from nervous or mental disturbance not amounting to insanity, will hold a hearing in Room 440, State House, Boston, on Wednesday, Nov. 16th, at 11 A. M. All persons, whether in favor or against this proposition are earnestly invited by the commission to be present and voice their sentiments.

DECLARATION CLEARS FIELD

Walker Opens the Way For Gubernatorial Candidates

OVERTURN OF REPUBLICANS

Idea of Promotion of Lieutenant Governor Which Has Prevailed In Massachusetts Many Years Meets Opposition—Defeat of Lodge Appears Probable, Some Republicans Joining Democrats In Revolt

Boston, Nov. 11.—Speaker Walker's announcement that he will be a candidate for governor of the commonwealth next fall has been the leading topic of discussion among politicians.

The election of a Democratic governor has made easily possible the breaking of the succession rule by which the lieutenant governor is chosen governor. For some time past there has been talk of breaking the succesion, and while many members of the party regretted that it must come with Lieutenant Governor Frothingham as the victim, yet the demand within the party for an open field and a chance for everybody to run for governor has been growing.

It has been well understood that Walker, was a tentative candidate, and many of his friends have urged him to declare himself. Since the election of Foss as governor they have been more insistent than ever, and as a result he made his announcement.

This announcement opens the way to the whole field of Republican aspirants for the governorship. Congressman Weeks has had aspirations, and Robert Luce is another who has been urged to try for the head of the ticket. When Frothingham was first nominated, it was after a warm preliminary contest with Luce and John N. Cole. Cole was then speaker, and purposed to become lieutenant governor and then governor, as did Luce, but the party leaders at that time securely intrenched in power, would have none of it, and both withdrew. Now both have a chance.

Some friends of Frothingham criticised Walker for "jumping into the race." In reply to them Walker's friends stated that while they knew he had the highest admiration for the lieutenant governor and felt that if he could be nominated and elected he would vote for him, he felt sure that in any event somebody else would come in as a candidate for governor. In such a case Walker, if he announced his candidacy, would be a candidate against two instead of one. They felt that Walker's ambition to be governor was honorable and justifiable and that if others wish to try a contest they would stand on the same basis.

A canvass of the members of the new Massachusetts legislature made by the Boston Globe, the Boston Journal, Republican, and the Boston American indicates the defeat of Senator Lodge for the United States senate.

The senator is working hard in an attempt to count the unbroken wheels in his heretofore seemingly perfect state machine. He finds that of 128 Republican representatives-elect, 10 are openly against him; 44 are for him and 74 either refuse to discuss their preference or cannot be found.

Of the 25 Republican senators-elect, 19 have been heard from. Only seven are frankly for Lodge, two are for Butler Ames and 10 are keeping silent as to their future action.

To gain re-election Lodge needs 141 votes in the legislature. Only 51 senators and representatives who have been interviewed are frankly for him. This agrees with Butler Ames' claim that only 60 are pledged to Lodge.

The great fight is already on and the political atmosphere is alive with rumors.

Senator Lodge started to fight in real earnest yesterday. By nightfall his efforts had borne startling fruit. One by one men picked as his opponents among Republicans withdrew and announced they were in favor of Lodge's re-election.

Ex-Governors Guild and Bates, Governor Draper and Speaker Walker are now eliminated. Guild, who was looked upon as the strongest man in the state to win over Lodge, formally withdrew last night.

This leaves Congressman Ames Lodge's sole opponent among the Republicans. The Lodge men will demand a caucus, and thus by a process of elimination of other candidates plus a caucus, Lodge expects to win.

SAYS VOTES WERE BOUGHT

Judge Page Charges Bribery at Polls In New Hampshire

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 11.—Judge Calvin Page, ex-mayor and ex-senator, caused a sensation in political circles throughout the state by an open letter to Governor-elect Bass in which he states that he will furnish proof of bribery and open buying of voters in the interest of Republican candidates on the state ticket on election day.

He tells Bass that in one of the wards beer was on tap and everybody was welcome. In other wards men under indictment for crime assisted in the election of the Republican candidate and money and liquor was handed out from a back window by the bosses. In the leading ward of the city people who wanted to sell their votes were led like cattle to the booths by the party of Bass.

Judge Page asks Bass to meet him privately and he promises to give him information that will convince him that his election, as far as Portsmouth is concerned, is tainted with crime.

Judge Page was a Democratic candidate for the house of representatives and was defeated by eleven votes. He is the city's wealthiest resident and is attorney for the Boston and Maine railroad.

BEVERIDGE IS REJECTED

Democrats Control Indiana For First Time In Thirteen Years

Indianapolis, Nov. 11.—Senator Beveridge will not be re-elected. Late returns show that the Democrats have elected a majority of the members of the Indiana assembly, which will choose his successor. Democrats will have a majority of thirty-two on a joint ballot. John W. Kern was indorsed last spring by the Democrats for senator. The Democratic state ticket has a plurality of about 15,000. Of the thirteen Indiana congressmen twelve will be Democrats. Crumpacker of the Ninth district was the only Republican elected.

For the first time in thirteen years, the Democrats control every branch of the state government, both United States senatorships and all but one congressional district. Governor Marshall's term has two years to run.

COLORADO IS DEMOCRATIC

Four Women Are Elected Members of the General Assembly

Denver, Nov. 11.—Returns are still incomplete, owing to the enormous number of scratched ballots, but figures so far compiled point to the election of practically the entire Democratic state ticket and the three Democratic candidates for re-election to congress. The election of Governor Shafroth, Democrat, is conceded by the Republicans.

Four women will sit in the Eighteenth general assembly of Colorado as a result of the election. They are Alma Lafferty, Louise U. Jones and Louise M. Kerwin, all elected to the house of representatives from Denver districts on the Democratic ticket, and Agnes Riddle, Republican, elected from three outside counties.

In the last general assembly Mrs. Lafferty, who was re-elected, was the only woman representative. There are no women senators.

HARMON'S PLURALITY GROWS

Official Count Expected to Swell It to More Than 100,000

Cleveland, Nov. 11.—Governor Harmon, Democrat, rolled up a plurality of 98,000 over Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate, according to figures compiled by The Plain Dealer. That when the official count is completed Harmon will have over 100,000 plurality is probable. The success of the remainder of the Democratic state ticket is no longer in doubt.

The campaign for the seat in the United States senate, now held by Charles Dick, has been taken up by the Democrats.

Warren G. Harding, defeated Republican candidate for governor, who for twelve years has been active in state politics, has announced to friends his complete retirement from politics.

CHAMP CLARK'S MULE TEAM

Missourian Intends to Drive It Down Pennsylvania Avenue

Washington, Nov. 11.—Already Washington is making preparations for the triumphant entry of Champ Clark into the national capital next year, when he comes to preside over the house as the first Democratic speaker since Crisp.

The Missourian promised before the election that if the house went Democratic he would drive down Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol to be sworn in behind a span of Missouri mules. A Republican constituent told him he would make him a present of the mules if he would drive them and Champ accepted.

Burke Leads In North Dakota

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 11.—Returns from every county in the state, some of them incomplete, show that Governor Burke, Democrat, has a lead of 1627 votes over Johnson. The incomplete returns are from counties which are admittedly Johnson counties.

PEACE DAWNS ON BIG STRIKE

Trouble of Express Drivers In New York About to End

MEN WILL BE TAKEN BACK

Companies Reserve Right to Decline Services of Men Who Have Committed Hostile Acts—Questions at Issue to Be Settled by Arbitration Before Dec. 1—Settlement Due to Good Offices of Mayor Gaynor

New York, Nov. 11.—The most unruly day of the drivers and helpers' strike against the five transcontinental express companies ended with what seemed a trustworthy promise of peace.

A committee representing the employes—not the union, which has organized and conducted the strike—and the executive officers of the five companies, met in Mayor Gaynor's office last evening and signed an agreement for presentation at a mass meeting for ratification. With the agreement accepted by the men, the strike will end today.

The agreement, in the form of a letter to Henry R. Towne, president of the Merchants' association of New York, follows:

"We are willing to take back our employes who are on strike, whether or not they have joined a union, reserving the right, however, to decline to take back any of them, whether they be members of a union or not, who may have committed or incited acts of violence and hostility against us.

"Those of our companies whose employes have raised a question concerning their hours of employment or rate of wages will agree, after the men resume work, at once to take up these questions with their employes, or with committees of them, for the purpose of reaching a settlement which shall be just and satisfactory to both parties, with the understanding that the former hours and rates of wages shall continue in effect until Dec. 1 next, and that on that date any changes mutually agreed upon shall then become effective."

Before the agreement was signed the day had been turbulent, confused and full of statements and counter-statements. There was more rioting than at any time during the strike.

It was directly due to Mayor Gaynor that the agreement was drawn up and signed. Wednesday night the companies issued and yesterday printed in the advertising columns of the newspapers a long statement defining their position.

"When I came to the office," said Gaynor last night, "and was shown the published statement of the express companies, I saw that if boiled down it meant the same as the terms the men agreed to last week on my request. I sent for Mr. Towne and asked him to reduce it to such a short form and see if the express companies would not sign it. He did so and they all signed."

CHAMPION CORN RAISER

Farmer Davis Gets Hundred and Three Bushels on One Acre

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 11.—Perley G. Davis of Granby, a town in central Massachusetts, was given the distinction by the New England Corn Exposition judges here of establishing a new world's record for corn production. In addition Davis was also awarded a prize of $500.

The new record was made on one acre of land, from which Davis harvested 163¼ bushels of crib-dry, yellow flint corn. His yield at harvest time was 127 bushels of shelled corn, which was reduced to equal 163¼ bushels on a scientific basis.

Fifty-nine farmers entered the corn-growing contest, and twenty-seven of them remained in it to the finish. Each acre was measured by disinterested persons, and the crop was harvested, weighed and measured in the presence of three witnesses.

STEAMER LONG OVERDUE

Fears That She May Have Been Lost With Two Hundred Men

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 11.—Great anxiety is felt here for the safety of the steamer Wolverine, having on board 200 fishermen returning from northern fishing stations on Lake Winnipeg.

The steamer is supposed to have been caught in the ice which formed earlier than usual this year and prevented the steamers from entering the harbors.

The Wolverine has not been heard from in ten days.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

The most important announcement of the year to date in connection with B. F. Keith's theatre is the appearance of Gus Edwards, the song writer and composer of "School Days"; "Sunbonnet Sue"; "Good Bye Little Girl Good Bye"; "See Saw"; and hundreds of others that have been whistled and sung all over the country, who will appear in a big production called Gus Edwards' "Song Revue." In this number Mr. Edwards will be supported by a company of thirty-three singers and dancers, and he has one of the most elaborate productions ever made in vaudeville. There is a constant change of scenery, seventeen different pictures being shown during the progress of the act, and the company includes a number of soloists who sing Mr. Edwards' latest songs. One of these that is bound to be whistled all over Boston is "Look Out For Jimmy Valentine," a song travesty on the drama now running in New York. This will be Mr. Edwards' first appearance in vaudeville in Boston, and an opportunity will be offered to hear him sing his own songs in his own way. The surrounding bill will be in keeping with this feature, and will include Laddie Cliff, the famous English boy dancer and comedian; Harry Tighe and his collegians in a new sketch called "Thursday Night"; Sammy Watson's Farmyard Circus with the trained roosters, ducks, dogs, donkey, and the educated pig; Leonard and Whitney in a new comedy sketch; Spencer Kelly and Marion Wilder in a new comedy sketch; Karl, the famous one string violinist; and the Krinkla Sisters in a novelty act.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"Going Some," which John Craig will produce at the Castle Square next week, is a farce that will produce no little laughter at its comic scenes and characters. Its authors are Rex Beach and Paul Armstrong, both of whom are favorably known as writers of plays and novels, and it tells a merry tale of life in the Far West. The plot centres about the adventures of one J. Wallingford Speed of Yale and his trainer. They find themselves at the Flying Heart Ranch in New Mexico, where Speed is forced to run a footrace against one Skinner of the neighboring ranch in order to win back a phonograph which plays "The Holy City." Considerable money is wagered upon the result, and for three acts the play pursues its way through the liveliest of comic exploits. After all, Speed wins, as of course he should, being the hero. There are Indians, cowboys, college youths, pretty girls, and a multitude of characters that give merriment to every scene, and as a whole "Going Some" is a decided novelty in farces, few of which take the audience into the wild and woolly regions of the west. Picturesque scenery will add to the interest of Mr. Craig's production of "Going Some," and the fact that the role of J. Wallingford Speed will be played by Donald Meek will be sufficient evidence of the laughter that it will arouse. Mary Young will play the heroine, and all the rest of the John Craig players will be in the cast. The run of "Going Some" will be for only one week.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The first production on the stage of Debussy's one act opera "L'Enfant Prodigue" will mark the second week of grand opera at the Boston Opera House. Claude Debussy, the master of modern French music won the much coveted Prix de rome with the work. The repertoire of the week commencing Monday the 14th will be as follows:—The production of Gounod's "Faust" scenically entirely novel to American audiences, will be given on Monday night. It is an exact reproduction of the scenery and costumes of L'Opera in Paris. The performance will start at 7.45. Alice Nielson will appear for the first time this season, she will sing the role of Margarite. Wednesday evening at 8 "L'Enfant Prodigue" with Alice Nielson as Ria will be given its first American production. This opera will be followed by Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci" with Florencio Constantino as Canio. "La Boheme" will be presented on Friday evening at 8 and Alice Nielson will sing Nimi. At the Saturday matinee Nov. 19th at 2, Rossini's "Barber of Seville" will be presented. Lydia Lipkowska will sing the role of Rosina, and Florencio Constantino the role of Count Almaviva. Leon Sibirskoff will sing Basilio. Saturday evening, at 7.45 at popular prices, Verdi's "Aida" will be presented with the following cast. Carmen Melis as Aida, Janka Czaplinska as Amneris, Ruby Savage as Una Sacerdotessa. Enrico Arason will make his American debut as Radames, and George Baklanoff will sing Amonasro. Ramfis will be sung by Jose Mardones, Howard White will sing Il re and Ernesto Giaccone will be Messaggiero. Normanzoni will conduct.

ON THE STAGE.

Francis Wilson is booked to appear at the Hollis Street theatre in "The Bachelor's Baby," the week of Nov. 28.

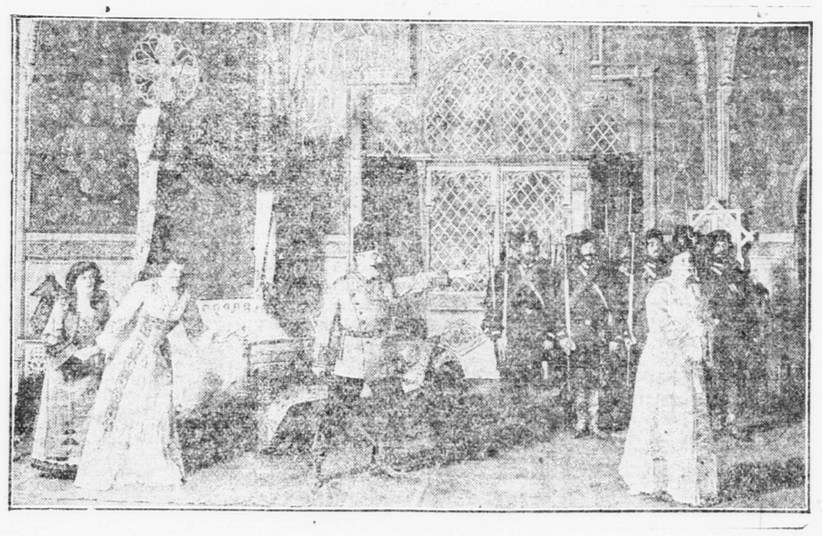

"Two men and a Girl" a new aerial musical play, will come to the Globe theatre soon, with a cast of favorites, headed by Bailey and Austin, late stars of "The Top o' the World," supported by Elsa Ryan, Belle Gold, Olga Stack, Rena Santos, Maurice Brierre, George Pauncefort and an ensemble of 50. The book was written by Charles J. Campbell and Robert M. Skinner and the music by Julian Edwards. The story of "Two Men and a Girl" deals with the winning of a big trophy in an aeroplane race by an American girl, who impersonates her brother when the latter fails to arrive in time.

Thomas Meighan, the minstrel man in "The Family," at the Globe theatre, claims Boston as his home. He was educated at Boston college and he frequently sees across the footlights many of his college chums who are now officiating in a ministerial capacity in local churches. Boston knew him well a few season ago in a leading role in "The College Widow."

Among the leading features of the current theatrical season in Boston will be the three weeks' engagement of Miss Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern in their Shakespearean repertoire at the Shubert theatre beginning Nov. 14.

"The Speckled Band," the new Sherlock Holmes drama, which Boston is seeing for the first time in America, at the Boston theatre, continues its indefinite engagement, and is greeted at every performance by a large audience. The plot is a most exciting one.

"The Fortune Hunter" with John Barrymore in the leading role continues the attraction at the Tremont theatre.

BRIEFS

Dr. John H. Anderson has been appointed assistant eye surgeon at the Massachusetts Homoeopathic hospital at Boston.

A candy sale was held at the Massachusetts Fields school on Thursday afternoon for the benefit of the Parents' and Teachers' association.

A stereopticon lecture was given this afternoon by Mrs. Huntington Smith in the interest of the Animal Rescue League.

Fourteen names were added to the voting lists by the registrars Thursday evening. Of this number, Ward One, contributed 2; Ward Two 2; Ward Three 9 and Ward Four one.

The meeting of the banquet committee of the Ward Four Improvement association and whist party planned for Thursday evening were not held. The reason was lack of attendance.

Young people's night this evening at the Bethany church prayer meeting. Special object of prayer—"The young people and their work." Topic for the meeting, "The untamable tongue."

An old fashioned barn dance will be given in Bett's barn Saturday evening. Square dances and barn dances will be the principal features. A gentleman of the Point well acquainted with the old-fashioned dances will call off the figures.

An address will be given by the pastor of First United Presbyterian church Sabbath evening to the ladies of Loyal Orange institution and the Orangemen of the city, including the members of Quincy L. O. I., No. 194, and Bay View L. O. I., No. 184, and all visiting sisters or brothren of other Loyal Orange lodges. The topic will be: "Martin Luther as a Reformer." Special music will be provided.

An interesting place to visit is the kennell recently built by George F. Elcock. Here he keeps his famous hunting dogs, his guns and other hunting paraphenalia occupying prominent positions on the wall. Arrangements are provided for heating the building, and nightly congenial spirits gather about the blazing wood fire and live over again some of their gunning experiences. It is a place worthy of a visit.

The palm for absent-mindedness should be accorded to a learned German professor. On day he noticed his wife placing a bunch of flowers on his desk. "What do they mean?" he asked.

"Why," she exclaimed, "don't you know that this is the anniversary of your marriage?"

"Ah, indeed— is it?" said the professor politely. "Kindly let me know when yours comes round, and I will return your attention in kind."—Collier's Weekly.

City Clerk Issues List for City Caucuses

The City Clerk today advertises a list of candidates for elective offices to be voted for at the joint caucuses next Tuesday.

The Democratic ticket shows one candidate for Mayor, but no nominations for Councilmen at large or School Committee at large, and School Committee from Ward One. Ward One has one caniddate for the City Council, Ward Two, 3; Ward Three 1; Ward Four, 5; Ward Five, none, and Ward Six, 1. Candidates are also on the ballot for School Committee from Wards Two and Three, but no contest.

The Republican ticket shows numerous contests. There is one candidate for Mayor, but eight for the five positions as Councilmen at large. There is no contest for School Committee at large. Ward One has three candidates for Ward Councilmen, and one for School Committee. Ward Two three candidates for Ward Councilmen and one for School Committee. Ward Three has five candidates for Ward Councilmen and one for School Committee. Ward Four has but one candidate for the Council. In Ward Five there is puite a contest for Ward Councilmen, six seeking the three nominations. Ward Six also has a contest, four candidates seeking the three naminations.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S SUPPER.

The supper given by the members of the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church in the parish rooms Thursday evening was fully equal to the high standard set in the past, and largely attended not only by parishioners but others, several coming from Quincy. Mrs. Alice J. Bainbridge was chairman of the committee in charge and was assisted by Mrs. Arthur Stanley, Mrs. Elisha D. Atkins, Mrs. George A. Bean, Mrs. William J. Croucher, Mrs. Edwin Coleman, Mrs. Herbert C. Lightfoot, Mrs. E. F. Parlee, Mrs. George D. Rundlett, Mrs. Sarah E. Shultz, Mrs. Federick H. Steenstra, Mrs. George A. Vibert, Mrs. John E. Walters.

Mrs. Daniel C. Miller had charge of an efficient and attractive corp of waitresses. The young ladies were: Miss Mabel L. Anderson, Miss A. Maud Briggs, Miss Ruth W. Bean, Miss Helen L. Croucher, Miss Irene Coleman, Miss Lydia G. Hennigar, Miss Alice E. Hennigar, Miss Lillian M. Purdon, Miss Amy Lois Rhodes, Miss Louisa A. Ross, Miss Louise Wilkinson.

The menu included: Scalloped fish, sliced ham, sliced shoulder, baked beans, potato chips, chicken salad with mayonnaise, rolls, piccallili sauce, mince pie, squash pie, apple pie, young American cheese and coffee.

CULTIVATE TACT.

If a woman is blessed with tact she has the supreme gift. It will bring her all the things she needs. To her it is a much more valuable asset than beauty or even genius. Tact is certainly the greatest of all gifts to a woman.

The girl's school in some far-distant Utopia is going to include a course in tact to correlate with its curriculum from the primary grades on through the post-graduate work. For when the day of enlightenment does come the sensible mother and the astute father will realize that a working knowledge of how to get along with people is more to be desired than much wisdom in so-called higher branches. Tact is more important than trigonometry. It stands a girl in place of beauty; it takes her further than talent; it brings the world to her feet to do her homage.

Tact! Speed the day when we shall appreciate the importance of this unconsidered trifle! Help us to realize that with it woman can wheedle the world out of anything it has to give; but with her feeble strength she can't wrestle with it and get anything!—N. Y. Times.

German Gleanings.

Agriculture in Germany supports about 19,000,000 of the population.

There are in Alsace-Lorraine thirty-five champagne factories. Of these Metz has fifteen.

The payroll of Krupps in May last numbered 68,905 men, an increase of about 5,000 in two years.

The German toy manufacturers, knowing that their juvenile customers demand the "very latest," are now flooding home and foreign markets with toys suggested by the present interest in airships.

THE MAYORS INTERESTED

Conference Relative to Boston 1915 Movement

Ex-Mayor John O. Hall, secretary of the Massachusetts Mayors' club, represented Quincy on Thursday at the conference of Mayors and other city officials of cities in New England, to discuss matters of interest in connection with the Boston—1915 movement. Mayor John F. Fitzgerald was chosen president and extended the welcome of the city of Boston. Addresses of welcome were also made by James P. Munroe of the Boston—1915 movement, and Bernard A. Rothwell for the Chamber of Commerce.

During the discussions, Mayor Ashley of New Bedford claimed the $12 tax law was a farce, as the cities make up what they are prevented from raising by taxation by borrowing. This statement was seconded by a number of mayors.

After lunch at the Boston city club the afternoon session opened in the aldermanis chamber. The first topic was "The city's inspection of its milk supply." The discussion was participated in by Dr. Maloney of the Fall River Board of Health, Prof. W. D. Sedgwick of the Institute of Technology, Dr. Holden of Malden and Prof. James O. Jordan of Boston. In Fall River, Dr. Maloney said, that but one out of 27 cases of typhoid fever could be traced to milk.

"Old age pensions" was explained by Prof. F. Spencer Baldwin, head of the Boston statistical department. The recent act demanded three conditions, age, length of service, amount of salary and compensations. Mayor Fitzgerald and Mayor Ashley thought that the act in some form should be adopted by every city. It was claimed by H. Leonard Brown that it was absolutely necessary.

NOT WITHOUT FRIENDS.

An unique burial service was held at Hull on Thursday, when John Kittredge an aged chair mender, who was killed by the cars Sunday, was laid at rest. The man had no friends and the body seemed likely to be buried without service. Learning this Miss Floretta Vining and Mme. A. E. Arcan came forward and provided services. As all the regular pastors were out of town, Edward G. Knight, formerly town treasurer and selectman, officiated and read the scriptures. Miss Vining and Mme. Arcan attended the services and placed flowers on the grave.

College and School.

St. Andrews university, Scotland, is making preparations for the celebration of its five hundredth anniversary next year.

School children are encouraged to visit the art museums of New York city. Last year 7,896 children and teachers visited the Metropolitan.

The University of Berlin has nearly 8,000 students, Munich nearly 7,000, Leipzig 4,600, Bonn 4,000 and Heidelberg 2,400. In the principal universities of the empire about 55,000 students are now enrolled.

He Made Good.

Lord Lansdowne once had a remarkable prophecy made concerning him while he was an Oxford graduate. Jowett, his tutor at Balliol, greatly admired him and always said that he would do great things.

"There goes a man," remarked Jowett, "who is as certain to be foreign secretary in due time in whichever party he chooses as tomorrow's sun is to rise."

Of course at that time Lord Lansdowne had not the least idea of filling such a distinguished post, and yet in 1900, after a brilliant political career, he found himself at the head of the foreign office.—London M. A. P.

Old Mexican Beliefs.

Some old Mexican tribes believe that the spirit is carried to the moon by a coal black, monkey faced owl; that upon arriving there it is met by its thousands of ancestors, who come with a long train of white donkeys; that the spirit is then escorted to a large cavern in the center of the moon, where joy reigns supreme.

Gold Pens.

The first gold pens made in this country were all manufactured by hand, the gold being cut from strips of the metal by scissors and every subsequent operation being performed by hand. These handmade gold pens cost from $5 to $20 and were far inferior to the machine made article of the present day.

FOOTBALL TOMORROW

Several College and Soccer Games Scheduled

The Wollaston A. A. will meet the Revere A. A. Saturday afternoon at Merrymount Park. The home team has not been defeated this year, and the visiting team has a reputation for being speedy and powerful, so the game promises to be a good one. MacDonald's men have been putting up a gilt edged game this fall and have a good chance to win the championship of the Bay State league. The game is one of the regular league games, and with weather conditions right the spectators will be given one of the best contests of the season.

The Fore River soccer team plays the Boston Americans at Quincy Point Saturday afternoon.

* * *

The McGregors go to Brockton Saturday for another tussle with the Shoe City men.

* * *

Probably several practice games of soccer will be played Saturday by the grammar school boys who are taking hold of the game in dead earnest. The game at the Point will give those who are not going to play a chance to see the best team in the league play the game. For points watch Elliot, R. O. F., and McDonald, R. B.

* * *

A football team known as the Goalproof A. C., composed mostly of Quincy High alumni, will play a team of Thayer Academy and Braintree High school alumni on French's Common Saturday afternoon. The Quincy team will line up as follows: Findley and Rich, ends; Ganzel and Michaels, tackles; Mundie and Rogers, guards; Leonard, centre; E. Prout, quarterback; Abbott and Veale, halfbacks, and Higgins, fullback.

* * *

The Globe says: Frothingham and Hardwick, the two stars for Groton in the game with St. Mark's Wednesday, have strong Harvard affiliations. Frothingham is a brother of the two varsity halfbacks of that name, while Hardwick has a brother on the Harvard second team ,and his father, a Quincy man, played at Cambridge in the early '80s.

Wild Geese.

The leaders of a flock of migrating wild geese become tired sooner than others and are frequently relieved by their fellows.

St. Helena.

St. Helena is a great place for caves and hills. Geologically speaking, the island is largely if not wholly volcanic, and a lot of extinct craters are apparent. Some of the pinnacles have queer names, such as Lot's Wife, the Man and Horse, the Asses' Ears and Holdfast Tom.

Interesting Norwegian Custom.

Men attending state balls in Norway are not left in doubt as to whether or not the women can be counted on for dancing. The custom of the court decrees that those women who intend to dance shall wear white, while those not desiring to trip the light fantastic toe shall appear in black.

A Christmas Pie.

A customary feature of a Christmas dinner in old England was an immense pie of some kind. It was usually composed of fish and flesh and fowl. Vol. 25 No. 264 QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 12, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

ANNUAL BALL OF QUINCY FIREMEN

Veteran Firemen and Out-of-Town Departments Among the Guests of the Evening

A Success That Can Be Spelled With a Capital "S"

The most brilliant affair of the season took place last night in Music hall when the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association gave their annual concert and ball. Nearly 1,000 people were gathered on the floor and in the gallery to listen to the opening concert by the orchestra.

At the sound of the gong and the Chief's call, three blows on the fire alarm, the grand march began. Chief Williams led the procession unattended. Next came Assistant Chief D. J. Nyhan and Captain Costa followed by the aids and the department members. After the firemen, the guests had a grand march and executed a number of figures under the direction of Elmer E. Baker.

The hall was appropriately decorated in bunting, flags and union jacks. Palms, ferns and flowers were used profusely in giving the hall its gala day appearance. The firemen were clad in their best uniforms, with glistening buttons and decorative badges, the marshal's of purple and white, the reception committee's of blue and white, and the aids' of lavender and white.

Many of the firemen enjoyed the dancing by participation in it, a number enjoyed it as spectators, and some were too busy to give it any attention. Among these last mentioned were Assistant Chief Nyhan, president of the association, and Herbert Griffin, who acted as dispenser of programs.

The guests of honor were many and most of those who were invited appeared in person. Benjamin King of Wollaston, a veteran fireman of over 50 years' standing was present to renew his youth and those who saw him in the opening quadrille can vouch that he did it. Former District Chief Rollo Newcomb, Chief Whitmarsh of the Braintree department, Chief Choate of Milton, ex-Chief Ripley of West Quincy, William H. Smith of Engine 13, Boston; Ralph W. Hobbs, president of the City Council; William R. Thomas, representative from the 5th district; Theodore Hay, government draughtsman at Fore River, and Mrs. Hay, and so on ad infinitum.

The committee of arrangements consisted of the following: D. J. Nyhan, president; Frederick S. Bent, recording secretary; Henry M. Hughes, financial secretary; Edmund G. Hayden, treasurer; W. F. Powers, C. Martin, J. Malone, J. Joyce, C. P. Costa, J. P. Dillon, J. C. Gallagher, M. C. McDonald, C. Oliver, W. J. Sands and F. Billings.

On the reception committee were: Chief Peter J. Williams, Vice President William F. Powers, Assistant Chief D. J. Nyhan, Assistant Chief Frank C. Packard, Assistant Chief James P. Dillon, Captain Charles P. Costa, Treasurer Edmund G. Hayden, Clerk James C. Gallagher, Herbert Griffin and Fred L. Bent.

Those who had charge of the floor were: Marshal, Peter J. Williams; assistant Marshal, D. J. Nyhan; floor director, William F. Powers; assistant floor director, James P. Dillon; chief of aids, Frank C. Packard; and these aids: C. P. Costa, Walter P. Hill, Henry M. Hughes, Herbert Griffin, I. P. Bent, J. R. Ross, James C. Gallagher, Edmund C. Hayden, James T. Malone, J. F. Metheral, S. P. Hanson, Charles Anderson, Charles H. Hayden, Edward Drohan, M. P. Barry, C. O. Connell, John J. Joyce, Richard J. Colbert, Christopher Oliver, W. J. Sands, F. L. Bent, Charles Martin, John Murphy, M. C. McDonald and . C. McDonald.

Although there were nearly 200 couples on the floor in the round dances, there was not such a jam as might have been expected. The program was about equally divided between square and round dances. It was pleasing to see the older people getting into the square dances which were more familliar in their day than they are now. Occasionally a white head would be seen bobbing up and down in a set way down the hall, and when the owner thereof approached one was surprised to see the apparent youthfulness in step and action. The music was an inspiration, and we cannot describe it any better than by use of that stolen expression "Wilson's, that's all."

During the intermission refreshments were served in the dining hall by H. J. Seiler, caterer. Several hundred took advantage of this opportunity to sit down and cool off, with the aid of the following menu: Escalloped oysters, chicken salad, frozen pudding, sherbet, vanilla, strawberry and chocolate ice cream, assorted cakes, rolls and coffee.

After the inner man and the inner woman had been satisfied, dancing was resumed with greater enthusiasm and the strains of "Home Sweet Home" and the sound of the clock striking 2 came all too soon for those who were revelling in the pleasures of terpsichore.

The ball was by far the best ever held by the association both in point of numbers and in the excellence of arrangements. The committees worked hard in making preparations for it and reaped the fruits of their efforts. The whole affair may be characterized by the word success spelt with a capital S.

SMALL BOY AND MATCHES

Start a Serious Fire in Parlor at Atlantic

The alarm from Box 67 at 5.32 yesterday afternoon was for a lively blaze in the house of Herbert Carter on Webster street, Atlantic. Combination 2 of Atlantic had responded to the fire on a telephone call and by quick work with its chemical stream had the fire practically out when the alarm was rung in by some excited individual in the street, who thought the local department was not capable of handling it.

The fire was started under the couch in the parlor by a grandson of Mr. Carter playing with matches. The boy had been dicipined several times this week for playing with matches, but all to no purpose. That afternoon, securing more matches, he crawled under the couch to play, and a fire was soon in progress. When Combination 2 arrived on the scene the blaze was burning good and fierce and it was only by the prompt work of the firemen with their chemical stream that the fire was confined to the parlor. The parlor was handsomely furnished, and three valuable chairs, two rugs, oil paintings, book case and couch were ruined. A hole was also burned in the hard wood floor and one wall was quite badly scorched. The damage will amount to several hundred dollars. Combination 2 company received many words of praise for its efficient work.

WILL APPEAL.

A case that grew out of a dancing party held this week was heard in the district court this morning, when Friedolf Johnson was arraigned for assault on Emma Gustafson. The girl testified that she attended a dance at Protection hall, Thursday evening, and while in the ladies' room Johnson came in and lifted her from her feet. She slapped him in the face, and he stepped back knocking her down. She then ran for her hat pin and tried to defend herself with this. Johnson testified that the girl was setting in another fellow's lap, and that he pulled her to his lap, at which she slapped his face. He then let go of her, and she geting a hat pin tried to stab him. The court said a technical assault had been made, and that it would impose a fine of $10. Sentence was supended, however, until Wednesday that Johnson might obtain surety to protect his appeal.

☞A unique and attractive scheme is planned for the grand sunlight dance in Alpha hall Thanksgiving afternoon and evening. The price of one ticket admits the bearer to both dances. The proprietors, W. E. Browne and Charles W. Munroe, have gained a reputation for select parties at their Houghs Neck Bungalow and this party will be no exception to their good reputation.

TRIPLETS FLOURISHING

Very Welcome in Family of Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth

The Quincy triplets born yesterday are flourishing, and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wentworth of Miller Stile road, the happy parents are being showered with congratulations and gifts. One neighbor sent two large pinks and a beautiful rosebud, others pins and jewelry and flowers.

Many when they first heard of the event were incredulous and some said they did not believe it, but facts are facts, and a few persons have seen the two little daughters and one little son quietly resting and getting accustomed to their new surroundings.

In some families such a large addition, all at once, would not be welcomed, but it is not so with the Wentworths. It was an open secret that twins would be welcomed, and they say the two baby girls and the baby boy just even up the family which now includes two sons and two daughters.

It is probable that the new arrivals will be christened Elizabeth, William and Barbara, all good old-fashioned names which had been borne with credit by their ancestors.

Some one has suggested that a new census should be taken of the city. Another says he should hesitate to move into the neighborhood, for there are twin girls now under two years of age on Bigelow street, as well as triplets on Miller Stile road. A couple now living on Bigelow street, however, had twelve children before they moved onto the street.

Mrs. Ezekiel Wentworth of Rochester, N. H., the happy grandmother, lost no time in leaving for Quincy, arriving last night. She concluded that her services might be needed and therefore responded promptly. She regards it as one of the greatest events in her family.

Mr. Wentworth concluded this morning that he must get to his work as a draughtsman at the Boston Navy yard. Perhaps he realizes that now he must keep busy to support his

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Prices on meat in Quincy must be rock bottom, as low as Boston and Brockton prices, and this was brought about by competition. These markets which are drawing the trade from all parts of Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth are offering tempting prices while the people are seeking to reduce the cost of living. It does make a difference with your finances whether we pay $1.00 or $1.50 for a beef to roast, or 13 or 20 cents per pound for best leg of spring lamb. The first duty to ourselves is to buy right.

Well the election is over and the air ships and automobiles are for the most part housed for the winter. There are some football games to be recorded and then the scribes on the big dailies will have to seek other fields for news. The past six months, t he news has been of more than passing interest, some important things having transpired in the world's history. The next six months will undoubtedly be as interesting only perhaps along different lines. It is a busy world and none realized it more than the newspaper man. If he calls, aid him all you can and by so doing help make up an interesting paper.

Thanksgiving day will be here soon and though the high cost of living is the prevailing cry, still we predict that the tables will be loaded with good things as heretofore. It is a great home day and like many other great and glorious days is a New England institution. It is the day when the wanderers of the family return and old friendships and family ties are more strongly cemented. It is a fine old day and though we had nothing but bread and water the sentiment is there and people are better for the charity and good fellowship which it brings. New England has originated many holidays but none is more important or deeper rooted in the sentiment of the people than Thanksgiving day.

No tariff law is at first satisfactory to the people. The party that enacts it meets with defeat at the next election. It was so with the McKinley bill and the Wilson bill, and the Dingley bill was only saved by the war we had with Spain at the time when a Congress was to be elected. The Aldrich-Payne bill follows the usual course. Opponents to the measure see their opportunity, and embracing it, they ride into power which is sometimes short lived. To arrange the tariff schedules by themselves, after careful consideration by a scientific commission, is the proper method for the handling of the tariff. The protection principle is too firmly embedded in the American system for it ever to give way to free trade. Originally conceived as a protection of infant industries, it has grown to be the protector of the laboring man, giving him a living wage and raising the American workman above the line of living that his foreign competitor is compelled to follow. The present tariff law provides for a sytematic and scientific arrangement of the various schedules, and when it has had time to demonstrate its usefulness many of the objections that were raised against the tariff in the recent campaign will be overcome. Protection to labor is the strong point of the American economic system, and while the arts of the demagogue are too often employed to induce the beneficiaries of the system to vote against those who would support a law regulating the customs duties, the permanency of a protective tariff is the mainstay of the wage earner. The vote of Massachusetts on Tuesday will not disturb it, and if, as is claimed ,the next Congress is Democratic, a change of the tariff as promised by some of the partisan orators would cause another overturn. The tariff will stand as a whole, and schedules that have made it show an inequality that is oppressive will be amended. The outery against the tariff has served its purpose, and those who have benefited by it will do no more about it than did the congressman from the 14th district when the political overturn on the Cape occurred. A year or two of free trade would make protectionists of every man who labors with his hands.—Lynn Item.

DRIFT OF OPINION

The election has come and gone. Some are greatly pleased at the results and some disappointed. 'Twas ever thus. All could not be on the winning side. The political battle is over for the year. It was a lively one and had a red-hot finish. Now let the winners and the losers shake hands and be as good friends as ever. It matters not which party is in power the country is safe, and the fellows who lost Tuesday may be the victors next time. Politics is a see-saw game. The outs seeks to get in and the ins try to keep from going out. It's up and down. That's all there is to it. So smile a little and let us all be happy.—Dedham Transcript.

BRIEFS

It is reported that Representative Louis F. R. Langelier of the 6th Norfolk district has refused to state his preference for senator or his attitude toward a caucus of republican members.

Rev. G. S. Butler, D. D., of Newton, is to address the Men's club of the Wollaston M. E. church on Thursday evening.

The Men's club of Christ church is one of the most active and progressive in the city and at its debates discusses important topics of the day. On Wednesday night the subject will be Resolved: That the present rapid increase of foreign born population in this country is detrimental to the best interests of its political and social institutions.

Much credit is due Mrs. Charles R. Safford for successfully reorganizing the Book club in Atlantic. The latest and most popular fiction has been secured and the books passed for the first time.

Miss Edith Stedman is to speak on Social Service at the meeting of St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church on Friday evening.

Friends of William J. Leslie of Highland avenue are very confident that he will receive the Republican nomination for Councilman for Ward Five. He has been a resident of Quincy thirty years and has lived in Wollaston eight years. He held the position of Lieutenant in Massachusetts Volunteers Militia and was a member of Company K. 5th Massachusetts Infantry in the Spanish war. Mr. Leslie holds a responsible position as foreman in the cutting department of the Talbot Clothing Company.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening. The meeting is held largely to declare the result of the election in Quincy last Tuesday although the council may act on any business.

There is to be a service for Christian instruction through pictures on Sunday evening at seven o'clock at the Wollaston Congregational church. The 1910 Passion Play at Oberammergau will be illustrated by 52 stereopticon views and the story told by three people who saw the play. Miss Poore will speak of the tableau and the music; Mr. Hogue, the place and the people and Mr. Tobey, the story as shown by the pictures.

Women's Guild of Christ church has not only given money to the Hospital Aid Association with which to buy materials but at its meeting is to make up the stuff bought into garments and articles for the Hospital. The first sewing bee for this work will be held Wednesday afternoon at half past two.

The ladies of the First parish are to have an apron, cake and candy sale in the chapel on Wednesday afternoon t four o'clock to be followed by a supper at half past six and an entertainment at eight o'clock.

AGREE WITH COMPANIES

Striking Express Drivers Accept Old Rates of Pay Until Dec. 1

New York, Nov. 12.—Favorable action by the New Jersey section of the striking express company employes on the settlement agreement is all that is wanting to bring the express strike to a definite end.

Terms of settlement agreed upon by representatives of the strikers and of the companies were indorsed by the meeting of express company men in Manhattan called to consider the peace compact.

The settlement provides that the express companies take back their striking employes without discrimination against men who belong to a union and that conferences begin at once between employes and companies looking to an agreement on wages and hours. The old rates of pay will prevail until Dec. 1, when the new terms agreed upon shall take effect.

MR. TOBEY GUARDIAN.

Rev. Rufus B. Tobey of Wollaston, a representative of the Watch and Ward Society, has figured prominently in the Boston Court House tragedy, as guardian of the girl betrayed by Walter G. Fall, the assassin. In a letter to the press Mr. Tobey says in part: "Her betrayer insisted that he wished to make all possible reparation, and though her family physician advised against it, I persuaded her mother, who was her legal custodian before I became guardian, to consent to marriage. I have in my possession the marriage license with which Mrs. Rees and myself went to the probate court to get the consent of Judge Grant, the girl being under the age of consent. The petition presented to his honor is also in my possession. The fact to be emphasized is that without the consent of the judge the marriage could not be legally performed. All through my connection with this sad affair this refusal of Judge Grant to the marriage has been persistently ignored, and the responsibility has falsely been put upon others."

DOING A GOOD WORK

Annual Report of Quincy Charitable Society

At the annual meeting of the Quincy Charitable society held Monday, Nov. 7, at 3 P. M., Mr. Arthur W. Newcomb was elected president and Mr. Horace F. Spear vice president.

Reports of the secretary and treasurer were as follows:

The Quincy Charitable society entered upon its seventy-third year of activity Dec. 3, 1909, with the following officers and directors: President, Mr. Frederic W. Plummer; vice president, Mr. Arthur W. Newcomb; secretary, Mrs. Thomas A. Addison; treasurer, Mrs. Helen L. Bass; directors, Mrs. E. G. Pratt, Miss Amey Newcomb, Mrs. Arthur L. Mitchell and Mrs. Thomas Fenno.

The first business presented for consideration was the vacancies made by the resignation of three directors, Mrs. Robert Teasdale, Mrs. Frederick Jones and Mrs. Frederick Peirce. By request Mrs. Teasdale withdrew her resignation, for which the management were exceedingly grateful. Names of several philanthropic and generous women, were recommended. Upon motion it was voted: That the secretary be instructed to confer with them in turn, and report at the next meeting. The names presented at the following meeting for election were Mrs. Harry W. Read, and Mrs. Hannah E. Burns, making your board of directors as follows: Mrs. E. G. Pratt, Ward 1; Miss Amey Newcomb, Ward 2; Mrs. Arthur L. Mitchell, Ward 3; Mrs. Robert Teasdale, Ward 4; (the vicinity known as the railway) Mrs. Hannah E. Burns, Ward 4; (known as the vicinity of Brewers corner) Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Ward 5; and Mrs. Harry W. Read, Ward 6.

Mrs. E. G. Pratt was elected to represent you, at all the meetings of the new society, known as the Conference of Charity Workers, and we esteem it most fortunate, that your society has this means to co-operate with them in their work, so efficiently.

The meetings of the board, six in number, have been held regularly with the president, the first Thursday of each month from December to May inclusive at 3 P. M. At these meetings all the routine work of the society is gone over; questions relating to its objects and purposes discussed; monthly bills approved before payment, and always working for the betterment of those assisted, until they are independent of your help, a fundamental principal, with all genuine workers of philanthropy. Twenty-nine families have been assisted, and tided over critical periods. Eighty half tons of coal have been distributed to the great relief and comfort of those needful.

The membership is now 101. This closes the records of another successful and profitable year of work for the Quincy Charitable Society. When the management considers the efforts put forth by other allied societies in the city, to obtain the amount of money for their necessities, they cannot fail to appreciate more strongly than ever the substantial gifts, which have been made to this society from time to time by legacies or otherwise.

Let us work together, trusting that the next year, with its needs and demands, may be as cheerfully met, and willingly granted.—Mary E. Addison.

QUINCY NIGHT AT MAJESTIC.

Theatregoers from this vicinity are to be given a rare opportunity of witnessing a performance of "The Chocolate Soldier" by the F. C. Whitney Opera Company at the Majestic Theatre Boston, where it is running to crowded houses nightly. The management is giving a series of special nights and they announce Monday evening Nov. 14 as Quincy night. It is such an extraordinary big production, the cast so expensive and Boston seems determined to keep it for such a long time that there seems no possible chance of its playing elsewhere in New England. So the next best thing seems to make it as easy as possible for patrons from out of town to witness it while it is running at the Majestic. Accordingly special arrangements have been made with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad to attach to the theatre train leaving here at 7.30 on that evening, special coaches which may be occupied only by those holding theatre tickets with the seat coupons for Quincy night. The management of "The Chocolate Soldier" announced through a display advertisement in Wednesday's Ledger this special night and called particular attention to a coupon in the advertisement which should be shown at the Majestic box office or enclosed in an order by mail so that purchasers may have their tickets stamped Quincy night. Only holders of these tickets will be permitted to ride on these special coaches. These coaches are attached to the train leaving Boston after the performance at 11.15. Nearly everyone knows "Arms and the Man," and it is welcome news that although the libretto was first made into German by Bernauer & Jacobson, the Viennese writers, and then into English by Stanislaus Stange, it has retained much of the Shavian incisive humor. It has been said in London and in Vienna, the well as in New York, that Oscar Straus who wrote the music and who has been looked upon as the best musical satirist of this day, has caught the humor of Shaw so completely that the music in itself carries the story of the mock heroics of Bulgarian warfare in a degree not obtained since the old collaboration days of the Savoy in London. For this production Mr. Whitney has provided an entirely new investiture of scenery and costumes, the latter as well as the furniture in the first act, having been made by the peasants in the Dragoman Pass in Bulgaria where the action of the opera is supposed to take place. The company comes direct from New York where it played a year and all reports are to the effect that it is one of surpassing excellence. The largest orchestra that ever interpreted comic opera in this country is a part of the Whitney organization. It consists of 40 soloists and is under the direction of Signor A. de Novellis of whom Oscar Straus said that his musicianly handling of the intricate score has much to do with the success of the opera in this country.

Fresh Air in Winter

In winter, it is hard to get fresh air in certain rooms. Some rooms in a house are usually colder than others, and if you open the windows it is hard again to heat the room properly.

If you keep the windows closed you don't get fresh air; if you keep them open you cannot quickly reheat the room. The solves the difficulty. You can leave the windows in a room open all day in winter, and when you close them apply a match to a Perfection Oil Heater and heat the room to any temperature you desire in a few minutes.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel. It burns for nine hours. It has a cool handle and a damper top. It has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be quickly cleaned. An indicator always shows amount of oil in the font

The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down. It is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection Oil Heater is strong, durable, well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

The remembrance of little Billie Lombards' first birthday, Oct. 28, will long be in the minds of the town's children, as well as many ladies, as a most delightful event says the Maine Calais Advertiser in its Meddybemps news. Little Billie is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lombard, also grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jenness. He has filled 12 long months with happiness for many and few babies are more welcome or loved. On the afternoon of Oct. 28 the minature host accompanied by his aunt Miss Maud Lombard led the march for 22 children who followed. Mrs. Netie Card played an apropriate march on the piano for the wonderful procession. The young company wore tissue caps of assorted colors and each was presented a box of candy and pasteboard animals to take home.

The presents were many and costly besides large sums of money, quite beyond the little one's mind at present but will serve as a most pleasing event in after years to know that it did occur. The birthday cake was a creation of the most wonderful concostions surrounded by 12 wax candles, lighted. Refreshments were served by Misses Ina Stuart, Maud Lombard, Grace Lombard and Miss Eva Marden.

The afternoon was a very pleasant one to teh ladies as well as the children and all join in wishing the little one who was the cause of so pleasant a function many years of happy prosperity. Mrs. Lombard will be remembered as Miss Grace Batson of Quincy.

THE D. A. R. MUSICALE

Pleasing Program at Residence of F. O. Wellington

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Wellington of Quincy avenue opened their beautiful residence last evening for a musicale for the benefit of Susannah Tufts chapter, D. A. R. Over 100 ladies and gentlemen of Quincy, Wollaston, Braintree and Weymouth were among the guests, who were graciously received by the host and hostess. We know of no other residence in this vicinity so well adapted for a musicale. The music room was commodious enough to seat all the guests, and it has a large church organ as well as a piano. Hand paintings by Mrs. Wellington on the walls, and other works of art, as well as plants and flowers added their charm.

The opening number on the program was on the organ and piano, William Ellis Weston of Wollaston presiding at the organ and Miss Ethel Freeman Raymond of Weymouth at the piano Toccata in D by Reni Becker was the number and it was beautifully rendered. Later Mr. Weston rendered a meditation by Chaminade and an idyll by Josef Weiss, and Miss Raymond an intermezzo by West, and a capricco by Dugois, all with great merit.

G. Roberts Lunger, the popular baritone was down for three selections, but was recalled and recalled, and contributed several. "The Rossary" by Nevin was greatly appreciated.

Interspersed with the musicale numbers were charming readings by Miss Mildred Sheldon Bass of Wollaston, who covered a wide repertoire, including "The happiest time" by Mary Stuart Cutting; "The milliner's bill," "The last word," an Italian dialect, "Papa in the barbers chair," and others.

The closing number on the program was a finale for organ and piano by Lemmens. The hospitality extended vied with the program in making the evening complete and delightful.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY.

The November meeting of the Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A., was held Friday, with a good atendance. Devotions were in charge of Rev. Thomas W. Davison.

William C. Smith, State Educational Secretary, gave a most instructive talk about "Wastes and Conservation." The most important thing today is industrial education. The problem now is the fitting of a boy for what he is fit, and not trying to hold up before him ideals we know he can never reach. Ninety-five per cent. go into industries untrained. No nation of such resourcefulness is so wasteful as ours. The Y. M. C. A. is doing much work along industrial lines.

Report was given by Mrs. E. R. Beal of the Newport convention. Report was also given by Secretary Gay of the Toronto convention. After which business was transacted. A seven cent social and supper was announced for the 7th of December. Notice to be given later.

COCHATO CLUB, BRAINTREE.

The next concert, in the Cochato entertainment course, to be given on Friday evening, November 18th, promises to be of unusual interest as it will mark the first appearance in Braintree of the famous "Hayden Trio." These musicians have established an enivable record by their many successes until today they are recognized as leading exponents of high class popular music.

The committee take equal pleasure in announcing the engagement for that evening also, of Helen Fiske Westgate the soprano soloist. Miss Westgate is one of Boston's younger singers, whose wonderfuly sweet and charming voice has already won for her a secure place in the affections of music lovers in and around the "Hub" as witness the Boston Transcript which said in a recent issue "Helen Westgate sang as beautifully and charmingly as ever, delighting her audience with the Polonaise from "Mignon" and a group of songs.

Last but not least, in Catherine Cole Steele, the committee has secured a reader of exceptional ability, one who for four years has been under the management of the "Redpaths" as one of their leading attractions and is now making her first apppearance in the East.

The club members will make a mistake if they allow anything to prevent their attendance at this concert as the character of the talent is guarantee of a delightful evening not only for the grown ups but also for the younger members of the family.

PLANS FOR INSTITUTE

Quincy Sunday Schools Will Be Represented

"The Sunday School Institute," under the auspices of the board of Sunday schools of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in the Bromfield Street Methodist Episcopal church, Boston, Monday and Tuesday November 14, and 15. An interesting program has been arranged for both days. The services will begin at 2 P. M. with devotions. There will be addresses at 2.30, on "Building bigger schools"; at 3.15 on "The primary pupil"; at 4, on "Methodism's greatest opportunity."

A half hour will be given for devotions at 7.30. At 8 P. M. an address will be given on "The child in the midst," and at 8.45, an address on "Those irrepressible boys."

On Tuesday the services begin with devotions at 9 A. M.. At 9.30 an address will be given on "The worth and work of the Sunday School"; at 10.15 on "The junior pupil," and at 11 P. M. on "Winning the Men." After the devotions at 2 P. M. addresses will be given on "Equipping the teacher," "The intermediate pupil" and "Jesus' teaching concerning childhood."

Tuesday evening devotions will be as usual at 7.30. At 8 P. M. an address will be given, and also at 8.45, one on "Holding our own." The speakers are to be Bishop John W. Hamilton, D. D.; Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, D. D.; Rev. David G. Downey, D. D.; Rev. Edgar Blake, D. D.; and Mrs. Antoinette A. Lamoreaux. Everyone attending is asked to please register. A library consisting of forty-two volumes is to be given to the Sunday school having the largest aggregate attendance at the five sessions. Another corresponding library goes to the school having a total attendance at the five sessions that will be the largest percentage of members above sixteen years of age. It is hoped that a large number of interested people from Quincy may attend.

large family. At his home are nurses and assistants, who are cheerfully administering to the wants of the mother and the little ones. But just think of it, he will have to purchase milk by the gallon; little stockings, socks, mitts, etc., by the half dozen. He should not only have an increase in salary but a good discount on all his purchases. In Marblehead and other towns there are funds for parents of twins and triplets.

Physicians say that the percentage of triplets to the number of births in a city is very small. In three years—1907, 1908 and 1909—Quincy had 2736 births, but only one set of triplets and only 26 pair of twins. Many physicians have never had a case of triplets while they have been practising, but most of them have had cases of twins. One doctor thinks the percentage is about 1 in 25,000, but Quincy has had 2 in 3,500. But then Quincy is always above the average in everything.

One of the triplets born to Cristina and Loreta Antonellis of South Quincy on Dec. 31 last is living, the boy. One girl died in about two weeks, and the other girl during the summer.

The World's Almanac reports that on Sept. 19, 1889, that Mrs. Snell of Malad, Idaho, gave birth to six children, and in August 1906, at Hilo, Hawaii, Mrs. Hanaw Kallna gave birth to seven children.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued cases of Herbert DeCoste, John Collins and James Sweeney for asasult on Officer Malone at Quincy were heard. De Coste and Collins were found not guilty and discharged; Sweeney was fined $50. He appealed.

Liedolf Johnson was arraigned for assault on Emma Gustafson at Quincy. Case continued until Wednesday when a fine of $10 will be imposed.

The liquors seized from Alexander Samrah at 156 Sumner street, Quincy, were ordered forfeited to the Commonwealth.

—At the meeting of the Cemetery circle on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. F. Beals, North Weymouth it was announced that the recent fair netted over $400.

RECOGNITION OF PORTUGAL

Several Governments Ready to Do Business With Republic

Washington, Nov. 12.—The state department received a cablegram from Henry T. Gage, United States minister to Portugal, stating that Great Britain, Italy, France and Spain had notified the provisional government of Portgual that they were ready to transact business with it.

Mr. Gage adds that these countries had not recognized the republic formally, but merely had accepted the provisional government as being in de facto control.

This, it is declared at the state department, is exactly what the American government has done. The United States will not recognize the republic, it is said, until it is convinced of its stability.

BRIEFS

Rev. Edmund S. Rousmaniere, D. D., rector of St. Paul's church is to preach at the evening service at St. Chrysostom's church on Sunday. This is the first time parishioners have had a chance to hear Mr. Rousmaniere at home, and no doubt the church will be filled.

The Sunday school of First church is to have a harvest concert on Sunday, Nov. 20 at four o'clock which will take the place of the regular session. The fruit, vegetables, etc., will be distributed for the Thanksgiving dinner of needy persons under the direction of Miss Mary Holden.

Quincy women attending the opening meeting of the Current Events class at the Women's clubhouse on Thursday afternoon are much pleased at the insight into the recent political issues given them so concisely and clearly by Mrs. May Alden Ward. It is doubtful if our men voters understand the problems of the recent elections as well as some of the women who heard Mrs. Ward's lecture. It was a revelation and most interesting. Not since the Civil war has there been such a political upheaval.

With the passing away of Mr. Lord of Appleton street a familiar face will be sadly missed in his neighborhood. Mr. Lord was one of Atlantic's oldest and most respected citizens and the sympathy of the community is extended to his family.

The second vesper service of organ music will be given in the Wollaston Congregational church on Nov. 20 at four o'clock by Ernest L. Mehaffey. F. Lyman Hemmenway, tenor will be the soloist.

Mrs. Huntington Smith, president of the Animal Rescue league is to give a stereopticon lecture in First Church chapel on Friday afternoon, under the auspices of Miss Elsie Turner's class of boys in the Sunday school. The proceeds are to be used for charitable purposes. Last summer this class sent a child into the country for two weeks.

Miss Laura Tolman master's assistant at the Quincy school is making her home with Mrs. Dame of Botolph street.

At the recent fair held in Atlantic the exhibition of hand painted china called forth many favorable comments. The painting was executed by Rev. T. A. Davison who gave very generously of his handiwork.

MAKES WORK EASIER

It's pretty hard to attend to duties
With a constantly aching back;
With annoying urinary disorders.
Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.
They cure backache.
They cure kidney ills.

James P. Daugherty, Hammond Place Quincy, Mass. says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let other sufferers know what they have done for me. I was bothered a great deal by backache and had but little strength or energy to get through with my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures, but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at the Cox Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified by the prompt way in which they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better in every respect. I would go to considerable trouble to get anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills, as I have so much confidence in their merit."

SPEEDY TRIAL IN FALL CASE

Grand Jury Hears Story of Double Murder In Courthouse

FACTS LEADING TO CRIME

Fourteen-Year-Old Mother of Child of Whom Slayer Is the Father Had Told Story Which Caused His Indictment on Charge of Abuse of Minor Child Some Time Ago—Was Anxious to Marry the Girl

Boston, Nov. 12.—The tragic story of the murder of Police Sergeant Schlehuber and Frank A. Rees in the office of District Attorney Pelletier was presented to the grand jury by the district attorney and one of his assistants. It is a dramatic story, tinged with pathos. It is a story of love, wrongdoing, an attempt at reparation, misunderstanding, murder.

The following men who were in the district attorney's office at the time of the double shooting or who rushed in soon afterward were ushered into the grand jury's rooms: Chief Inspector Dugan, Aranos Odabashian, William Armstrong, a photographer; Inspector Pelton, James G. Wolf, a messenger in the district attorney's office; Medical Examiner Magrath and Police Officer Young.

The indications are that this case will be tried and disposed of quicker than any murder case in the annals of this state. As the crime was committed in the courthouse while the grand jury was in session, and many of the witnesses were a part of the county's force of employes, the witnesses for the grand jury hearing were readily obtainable.

Fall is already under indictment charging abuse of a minor child, Esther H. Fogg, stepdaughter of Rees, one of his two victims. Schlehuber was the officer who arrested the young man on the charge the girl's mother made against him last April. Esther Fogg is but 14 years of age. Last Saturday at Winthrop, Me., a baby boy was born to this child-mother. It is not denied that Fall is the father of this child.

Fall for some weeks boarded at the home of the Rees family in Dorchester. During this time, Mrs. Rees, who had been divorced from Esther Fogg's father, and later married Rees, was sent to a hospital. When she was able to return from the hospital Esther told a story which caused Fall's being ordered to leave the house.

Fall, it is declared, pleaded his devotion and love for the girl and declared he wanted to marry her. Esther was taken from the Oliver Wendell Holmes school, where she was a pupil in the seventh grade, and sent to Winthrop, Me., where she was housed and has been since, in the home of an acquaintance of the Rees family. She was not permitted to see Fall again.

Fall, who inherited a $3800 house from an aunt, was arrested. He was released in bonds of $2000 and, according to Attorney Haines, his lawyer until the shooting, tried to secure consent to wed the girl. It is declared that he deposited $1200 with Rev. Rufus G. Tobey of Quincy, a director of the Watch and Ward society. Tobey was appointed the girl's guardian.

According to Haines, Fall urged repeatedly that he be given permission to wed Esther. Haines says that the case was taken before Judge Grant of the probate court, but that when Mrs. Rees, the girl's mother, and Tobey, her guardian, objected, the judge refused permission.

District Atorney Pelletier says that he will urge upon Governor-elect Foss and the next legislature the passage of a law whereby the purchase of firearms will be made difficult and to irresponsible persons impossible. He said:

"Vendors of firearms should be required to have a special license, and should be forbidden to sell to any person until the police have reported favorably and granted a license to carry the weapon to the proposed purchaser.

"The exhibition of firearms in show windows and in showcases should be forbidden. If a druggist should exhibit the best and quickest life-taking poisons in his windows and on his shelves, public opinion would soon force him out of business.

"Now any citizen may legitimately purchase firearms. The trifler, the vicious man, those laboring under nervous excitement and strain, the would-be avenger of wrongs, such persons should not have the power to obtain firearms without question and at the discretion of some clerk.

"I ask the press of this commonwealth to agitate this question till the much-needed law is passed."

BLACK CAT PARTY.

One of the most delightful of Hallowe'en parties and long to be remembered by the participants was that given by Mrs. Ida Waterhouse of 94 Squantum street, Atlantic.

The dainty invitations with a Black Cat's head painted in one corner, the Black Cat banners with the Black Cat's head occuying the centre fourteen of which decorated the parlor walls, the full sized cat with her tail and back up in some instances in a belligerent attitude with the fur rubbed the wrong way very much in evidence on the walls of the dining room, the Black Cat lanterns of various unique Black Cat designs suspended from the chandeliers and resting on the mantels and side-board, the illustrations on the covers of the tablets presented to the guests for use in the Cat puzzle game and representing the Black Cat sitting on a fence, the Black Cat heading the slips used in the eyes and nose exhibition, the Black Cat ornamentation on the cards of the twelve puzzles themselves, the place cards with tooth-pick attached, the latter surmounted by a Black Cat's head with the tiniest of yellow satin bows at the neck, the Cat-shaped card with tooth-pick thrust through to serve as a modelling tool, the Ghost Cake and other ornamentations were all of high-skilled artistic merit.

A large cut glass bowl was specially noticeable surrounded on all sides by Black Cats' heads whose eyes glared with most natural brilliancy from the candle-light within the bowl.

The guests were greeted at the door by the hostess who wore a Black Cat head-dress most effective, ingenius and original.

After all had arrived and admired and become familiar with their characteristic surroundings they were invited to test their ability in drawing. From this time on there was a plenty of fun each game eliciting a good measure and a grand overflow at the supper table.

In this first game each one was blindfolded in succession, placed before an easel on which was a square of drawing-paper, given a pencil and requested to draw a figure of a cat. The results were laughable enough.

Miss Mattie Clean secured the prize for the best looking production, a lovely passe-partout picture of a family of Angoras.

The next game required answers to a series of word puzzles on twelve cards finely ornamented with the inevitable Black Cat and numbered.

Each of the guests received a tablet lifting up the ornamented cover of which was a list of numbers to twelve against which to write the answers. Mrs. Roger H. Wilde was the successful winner of the prize a box of delicious chocolates.

Then a sheet was mounted on the doorway between two of the rooms with a Black Cat's head upon it at about the height of an individual, apertures being left at the eyes and nose. The guests were then divided one-half remaining in the darkened room and presenting their noses and eyes, one guest at a time, at the openings in the Cat's head to be inspected by those in the lighted room to whom slips and pencils had been supplied with which to record the names of the individuals to whom belonged the eyes and noses exhibited.

After all had been put on exhibition in the darkened room the guests changed rooms and the former guessers presented their eyes and noses for inspection.

Mrs. Charles Coe captured a very pretty candle-stick with a very interesting Black Cat standard for her power of facial discernment.

Supper was then served with the hostess's daughter, Miss Lillian, and Mrs. Marble acting as waitresses. The place cards were pretty and novel with the Black Cat's neck-tie so exquisitely adjusted.

Before leaving the tables cards shaped like the head of a cat with a tooth-pick thrust through one side were given out and a dish containing packages of chewing gum was passed with a request that each one take a package, chew it and attach it to the card where skill must be shown in modelling a cat with the tooth-pick as an aid. Three of the cats thus modelled were thought by the judges to be of equal merit so that by lot one of the three received the prize of a lovely tabby in passe-partout. For the worst looking cat Mrs. Elijah Hall received the consolation prize of a very pretty mantel Black Cat ornament.

This closed the evening's entertainment which had been one continuous course of enjoyment and the guests at past twelve o'clock took their leave, taking with them the numerous favors and prizes and the memory of one of the happiest evenings they had ever experienced.

They invoked many blessings on the heads of the hostess and her gifted daughter, Miss Lillian, whose combined skill, and genuine hospitality had planned for their guests' benefit such an enjoyable occasion, so perfect in every detail.

Wrecked by Mexicans In Town Near Texas Border

"DEATH TO THE GRINGOES"

Cry Raised by Rioters as American Flag Is Burned at Guadelajara—Damage to Property of Americans Continues Until Demonstrators Wear Themselves Out—More Trouble Is Feared as Result of Texas Lynching

Mexico City, Nov. 12.—According to private telegrams received here, the American consulate at Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, state of Coahuila, and just across the border from Eagle Pass, was wrecked by a mob of Mexicans. The message stated that no one was injured.

According to a dispatch from Guadalajara, an American flag was burned there amid cries of "death to the Gringos" during riotous demonstrations against Americans, because of the lynching of a Mexican in Texas. Depredations committed by the rioters were not made known until late yesterday, when the danger of a further outbreak seemed unlikely.

Conservative estimates place the damage to property of Americans at from $5000 to $10,000. The rioters wore themselves out about midnight.

Although the efforts of the government officers to preserve order have prevented further rioting, a spirit of unrest prevails and renewed violence is feared.

Manuel C. Gallardo, candidate for governor, is doing everything possible in conjunction with the commander of the federal troops to maintain order. American Consul Gill has been assured that there will be no further trouble.

A high iron fence, surrounding the Methodist Missionary institute, was torn down by the mob and the windows in the building were smashed. Glass doors and windows in the homes of C. N. Strotz, W. L. Kline, Rev. R. C. Elliott, C. E. Coruthers and Dr. W. H. Swaysee in the American colony were demolished.

Plate glass fronts in the American Banking company building, the German drug store, the Commercial Banking company officees and the National Candy company, the West End Realty company, the hardware stores of Carlos Hering and the American Drug company's stores were broken. Windows were also demolished in the Cosmopolitan hotel and an American restaurant.

C. E. Myers of Joplin, Mo., and Cliff Munger of York, Pa., railroad employes, were beaten and kicked by rioters, but not seriously injured.

LYNCHING OF A MEXICAN

Inquiry Into the Matter Instituted by Governor of Texas

Washington, Nov. 12.—Complying with a request made by Secretary of State Knox, an inquiry has been instituted by Governor Campbell of Texas into the lynching of Antonio Rodriguez at Rock Springs on Nov. 3. Until the result of the inquiry is learned definite reply will not be given to the request of the Mexican government that official explanation be made of the incident.

Fifty-one men are now in jail in Mexico City for acts of vandalism during the riots there, according to advices received by the state department from United States Ambassador Wilson. The ambassador says the streets are being patrolled and he does not anticipate any further acts of violence. The Mexican authorities have furnished ample protection for the American embassy.

TO INSPECT CANAL ZONE

Congressmen and Commerce Commissioners Sail For Panama

New York, Nov. 12.—Representatives Tawney, Burleson, Sherley and other members of the house committee on appropriations, together with members of the interstate commerce commission, left New York today on the steamer Ancon for Panama to inspect the canal zone.

Mr. Tawney is chairman of the appropriations committee, but was defeated for renomination at the September primaries, and Burleson expects to succeed him as the head of the committee. Tawney said the trip to Panama was necessary because the committee has to pass upon estimates for apropriations.

Missouri Is Republican

St. Louis, Nov. 12.—Late unofficial returns indicate that the Republicans elected the state ticket. Brown, Republican, is leading Gantt for the long term in the supreme court by 5365. The total majority in the state against the proposed prohibition amendment to the constitution is brought up to 200,672.

Lynched Negro Bothered Wires

Macon, Ga., Nov. 12.—Telephone "trouble" men looking for wire trouble near Montezuma found the body of a negro dangling from a pole and tangled up in the telephone wires. This was the negro, lynched by a mob, charged with the murder of Marshal Bush of Montezuma.

BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Whole Hub is Seeing Red or Some Other Color These November Days—The Christmas Face is beginning to Shed its Gloom in the Streets—An English Painter Shows Devotional Work Which Captivates Religious New England—Vatican Musical Books Come from Rome to Modern Athens—Many Women Survey Election Returns.

Boston, bibulous or otherwise, is seeing crimson, green or blue, according to its individual leaning and, with the political dope out of the system, one hears little else but talk of tickets for the great games, interspersed with speculations as to Yale's coming back. Bets are being laid by sober minded citizens who heretofore never took the slightest interest in the football results. The girls are wearing the smile that won't come off whenever a young man appears who is likely to have an extra ticket in his pocket, and the university graduate has attained a height of importance and distinction to which, it is safe to say, he never in his wildest dreams dared to aspire. The only trouble is that there are too many of him to suit the undergraduates and not enough of him to suit his friends.

It was notable during the flashing of the election returns in Newspaper Row that hundreds of women were in the densely packed throng and evinced as much enthusiasm in the results of the voting as did the men. Women are evidently doing more than wave yellow banners and talk.

The Christmas face is seen on every downtown street nowadays and, in the words of Jennie Allen, "it's worse than the bysickle face or the motor face. It's the worst face there is." The stores are filled with gorgeous displays of gifts reasonable and otherwise, and as the crowds increase every lay one hears the same old cry of regret that the Christmas gifts were not decided on and purchased weeks ago. It seems to be a lesson that is never learned.

A New England public, of the kind that does not necessarily care so much for the current art of the age, based on Parisian technique and disregard of subject, are enjoying a treat in the works of the famous English painter, Thomas E. Mostyn, who, though he has attained an enviable reputation throughout England and the continent is, like many estimable British artists, not so well known on this side of the Atlantic. Mr. Mostyn's much discussed masterpiece, "The Temptation, or Christ in the Wilderness," has held many a visitor from the hinterland fascinated on entering the darkened ante-room off Copley Hall where this work is hung in impressive solitude. The sincerity of the work is felt from the first, while its dignity and simplicity accentuate the depth of thought and imaginative power of the artist. Preachers say that rarely have Bostonians seen a religious painting which embodies a more noble conception and that imaginative power is the keynote of much of Mr. Mostyn's more recent work. In his visionary landscapes, at all events, are found a departure from the hide-bound conventions of British Art. The misty gray-blue mystery of "The Wood beyond the World;" the city of dreams growing out of the white, rolling clouds far out over a hazy sea, in "Atlantis"; the deep purples and high lights softened by a filmy veil in "The Prayer"; the remarkable work entitled "The Cardinal";—these are only a few of the canvases which have opened the eyes of the public of this section to possibilities of art which American painters often neglect. Mr. Mostyn himself adds a charming touch to the unique exhibition, as, with a delicious English accent, he modestly explains the works.

An incident which occurred in Rome not long ago illustrated the American enterprise in capturing ancient prizes for educational institutions in this country. George Whitefield Chadwick, dean of American composers, while riding in a Roman trolley car noticed a small placard announcing the sale at auction of a library of musical works collected by Signor Meluzzi, formerly chapel master of the Sistine Chapel. The opportunity to secure for the library of the New England Conservatory of Music, of which he is director, a lot of rare and valuable books long housed under the roof of the Vatican was too good to lose, and Mr. Chadwick left the car at the next stop. An inspection of the works at the Roman auctioneer's showed that the billboard had not in any way exaggerated their importance. The head of the New England Conservatory, though thoroughly familiar with French and German, was so imperfectly versed in Italian that he at first hesitated to get into the bidding. The auctioneer, however, who was immediately interested in the prospect of having an American among his buyers, made it easy for the customer by interposing little delays which gave time to count and ascertain whether or not further bidding was desirable. The upshot was that the American musician became possessor of some of the most valuable offerings at the sale. Besides various works bearing upon the history and theory of plainsong, there were such musical rarities as the original score of Gluck's "Iphigenie" o the first edition (1726) of Fuchs' "Gradus ad Parnassum", the father of all contrapuntal text books; an original copy of the Violin School of Leopold Mozart, father of the famous composer and many others. The initial payment for these treasures of course had to come out of Mr. Chadwick's own pocket, but the luck which attends American enterprise took care of the financial obligation in a surprisingly short time. The very next day in one of the galleries Mr. Chadwick encountered a well to do Boston woman, always liberally inclined toward music and the fine arts. In the course of conversation she asked him if he could use a little money for buying some books while in Rome that would be useful to the students of the big American school. The story was soon told, a check written covering the principal items of expense for the works bought at the auction, and in due course these were on their way to take their places among the volumes of rare works already in the Conservatory library. BRIEFS

Mrs. Fennimore S. Andrews of Arlington street is improving from her recent illness.

The second production of the Boston—1916 pageant last night was another great success.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union is soliciting for the Boston Mission Workers, flowers, fruit, jellies, malted milk, plants, cocoa or money. All who are interested in this beautiful charity work and would like to remember the hundreds of destitute sufferers who are deprived by reason of their infirmities from participating in the usual enjoyment of these happy days, and are willing to help the shutins are requested to leave their donations at 59 Spear street, before the 16th with Miss A. L. Bumpus, treasurer of W. C. T. U.

At a regular meeting of Manet encampment, I. O. O. F., last evening, the patriarchal degree was worked on five candidates.

The funeral of John P. Prichard, formerly Commissioner of Public Works at Quincy, who died Wednesday, will be held Sunday from the First Universalist church, Somerville.

The choir of St. Chrysostom's church is doing excellent work under the direction of Prof. Wrigley and next Wednesday evening is to give an entertainment in the parish rooms.

The Quincy Yacht club has given mortgage of $11,000 on its clubhouse property.

Queen Esther circle of the Wollaston M. E. church meets Wednesday evening at eight o'clock with Miss Ida Bland of 245 Newbury avenue.

A very general invitation through the press, pulpit and charitable organizations has been extended the public to attend an organized charity meeting at half past ten Tuesday morning at the club house of the Quincy Women's club, Goffe street Miss Alice Higgins, general secretary of the Boston Associated Charities will speak on "Why do organized charities need a paid secretary. "An effort will also be made to arrange for the Thanksgiving donations so as to prevent duplication and see that the needy are helped.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U. will hold its November meeting Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Smith B. Harrington of 54 Grand View avenue. The subject is, Sunday school work, with Mrs. Wesley Wiggin, leader.

The Wollaston M. E. church is interested in the Sunday School Institute to be held Monday and Tuesday in the Bromfield Street church, Boston.

The first snow of the season fell today shortly after 1 o'clock. The sun was out brightly at the time, so that what little snow there was melted as fast as it fell. The temperature was 46.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The younger boys heard a fine address this morning in their meeting. R. B. Tobey of Wollaston recounted some of the thrilling experiences he has had during his life and pointed out the lessons that went with them. The meeting was largely attended and every boy gave the best of attention to the speaker.

The second athletic contest for Junior teams was held this morning.

A group meeting for older boys will be held in the association building tomorrow. The week of prayer starts tomorrow, and this will be one of the prayer meetings for association work. Tomorrow is Association day all over the world. Special prayer will be offered for Y. M. C. A. work in every nation.

The Intermediates defeated the Union A. C. of South Weymouth on their home floor last evening by a score of 62 to 6. Trask shot 15 baskets, Sutermeister, 7, S. Prout, 5, and the other players one each. It is needless to say that the opponents were inexperienced and slow. The summary:

S. Prout, rf.	lf., Gallagher
S. Hunt, lf.	rf., Richardson
Sutermeister, lf.
H. Trask, c.	c., E. V. Gallagher
R. Estey, lb.	rb., Tirrell
D. Gearwar, rb.	lb., McBride
Robertson, rb.

Score—Quincy Intermediates, 62; Union A. C., 6. Referee—Gaffney. Umpire—Clee.

All arrangements for the ladies' night of the College club have been made. Friday, Nov. 18, is the eventful day.

GIFTS TO DAY NURSERY.

A cloud burst over the Day Nursery on Wednesday of this week and not only showed its silvery lining but brought with it showers of provisions from many contributors. Many who were unable to attend the party in Bethany chapel have sent in generous contributions since and the store room at the Nursery has the complexion of a newly stocked grocery store. There is rice enough to supply the guests at a score of weddings and sufficient sugar to start several confectionery stores. The list of contributors will appear the first of next week.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

A People's Forum is to be held in Braintree during the months of November, December and January. It is the first movement of its kind that has ever been instituted in that community. The character of the meetings is to be precisely like that of the well-known Ford Hall meetings in Boston and the Cooper Union meetings in New York.

The meetings of the Forum are to be held Sunday afternoons at 3.30 o'clock in the assembly hall of All Souls' church ,two minutes' walk east from the Braintree station. Everybody will be welcomed. The meetings are to be entirely public, non-partisan and non-sectarian. Questions and discussion will follow each address.

The first meeting will be held Sunday afternoon, Nov. 13. Franklin H. Wentworth, who was recently defeated for congress on the Socialist ticket will speak on "Socialism and Trades Unionism."

INFANT PARALYSIS PUZZLES DOCTORS

No Definite Symptons of Approach of the Disease

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The medical profession of the world is still handicapped before the scourge of infantile paralysis. This statement was made at the meeting of the Chicago Neurological society by Dr. Robertson, assistant professor of pathology in the University of Minnesota.

"We are up against it," said Robertson. "We have not been able to cultivate the germs in laboratories. We cannot learn anything from animals. We cannot even diagnose the disease, because the first certain symptom is the paralysis of the patient. This disease attacks the strongest and most active children. It is not confined to infants. Many victims are adults.

"The high fatality is caused by reaching the acute stage in three or four days. Up to that time the symptoms might indicate any infectious malady. There are no definite symptoms and the first warning the practitioner has is the paralysis of his patient."

—We wonder how the democrats and independents of Milton, Quincy, Dorchester and the other city wards of Boston, included in the tenth district will enjoy the reputation of having elected as their representative in Congress a man who will be known there as the ex-convict congressman from Boston.—Milford Gazette.

FINE OF FIFTY DOLLARS

Imposed for Assault on an Officer

After much delay the cases of John Collins, Herbert DeCoste and James Sweeney, three West Quincy young men, charged with assault on Officer Malone, were settled in the district court this morning.

The alleged assault took place some months ago, about midnight. A man named Harris had been put off the late train for drunkenness and placed under arrest by Officer Malone. When he took his prisoner to the patrol box he was surrounded by a crowd of forty or fifty men. The officer testified that the three men tried to take the prisoner away from him by placing their hands on the prisoner as well as himself. Sweeney, he testified, was particularly aggressive. The first time he stepped between the officer and prisoner, and tried to wrench them apart, and when pulled away by friends, Sweeney again rushed in and made a second attempt to get Harris away. In the meantime others in the crowd kicked the officer in the back and a rock knocked his helmet off.

After the government evidence had gone in, Congressman O'Connell, who appeared for the defendants, raised the point of law that Malone was not an officer. This question halted the trial until last Saturday, when the court practically settled the question of Officer Malone's standing, and ordered the case to proceed today.

The three defendants denied all allegations and the evidence of the government and defendants was contradictory. In summing up the matter Congressman O'Connell argued that it was a trivial matter, and that the officer was excited.

J. J. McAnarney, counsel for the government, took an entirely different view. He claimed that the officer was simply enforcing the law, and that the courts should back up the officers. There had been too many cases of mobs attacking an officer enforcing his duty as such, and we wanted no repetition in Quincy such as had been frequent in Boston. The prisoner would have made no trouble if the defendants had not interfered.

The court said that Sweeney was the aggressive party, and that technically an assault had been made. He then imposed a fine of $50 on the complaint against Sweeney, and discharged Collins and DeCoste.

FLEISCHMANN'S FREE COOKING SCHOOL.

Harriette Louise Jennings Will Demonstrate to Women at Union hall, Kincaide Bldg., Quincy.

The subject of hygienic cooking is of greater interest today than it has ever been in the past. Mrs. Harriette Louise Jennings combines with her thorough knowledge of the art, an ability to present her subject in an interesting and comprehensive manner. The demonstrations, which begin next Tuesday at 2.30 P. M., should attract genuine interest, and will undoubtedly be attended by many whose interest in the art of cooking rises above the commonplace. Mrs. Jenning's scientific methods are a revelation in the manner and ease with which she produces results. This course of free cooking lessons is one of a campaign of cooking education conducted by the Fleischmann Company. Mrs. Jennings has a thorough knowledge of her subject, and has had many pleasant experiences in her work. During a demonstration in Ossining, N. Y., with the aid of several young women volunteers, she contributed her time to a charity lunch for the Christ Child Day Nursery, the Fleischmann Company of course furnishing the needed supplies, while here Mrs. Jennings would be glad to co-operate with the Quincy Day Nursery in giving a benefit tea. The handsome gas range used in the demonstration has been kindly loaned by the Citizens Gas Light Co.

85TH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mr. Elisha Thayer was born in East Randolph, now Holbrook, Nov. 5, 1825, but since his boyhood days he has made South Braintree his home. Although his many friends now miss meeting him walking about our streets, they are pleased that he still takes his almost daily drives around this, and nearby towns.

On Saturday, Nov. 5th he invited his two daughters and their families to an 85th birthday dinner. Although without the day was stormy, the seventy friends who called to congratulate Mr. Thayer on his long life, good measure of health, and prosperity, found within his home a pleasant greeting and warm welcome. Refreshments were served by his daughter and grandchildren.

One of the pleasant features of the celebration, and the one from which Mr. Thayer derived the most pleasure was the sending of ice cream and a piece of his birthday cake to each of his friends who were either too aged or too ill to come to his home.

On his office table were noticed two birthday cakes, 85 white carnations, besides many other flowers, a "November" spoon engraved with the dates 1825-1910. boxes of confectionery and many other remembrances from kind friends.

One letter was received expressing the congratulations and best wishes of the whole Crathern family, another from Rev. Edward O. Dyer, and many more letters and cards from out of town friends who could not be present.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The Quincy Rod and Gun Club will hold their annual Thanksgiving hunt at Hudson, where camps have been engaged for the week. The executive committe who will have charge of the hunt report fox and other game very plentiful at the camps and with fifteen well broken hounds on the grounds some exciting chases are anticipated. Following the outing a reception will be held at the club rooms and a game supper served.

HIGH SCHOOL VICTORY

Take Hingham High Into Camp 13 to 0

In a game replete with long runs and brilliant tackling Quincy High defeated Hingham High yesterday afternoon by a score of 13 to 0. The visiting team put up a much better game than was expected and although the Quincy goal was never in danger the line was punctured quite frequently for good gains. In the opening period after a series of gains by the backs through the line and around the end, Chapman made a pretty drop kick for a goal from the 25 yard line. During the remainder of the time in that period Quincy had the ball in the Hingham territory most of the time. The Hingham halfback, Rich got off some long punts at intervals which had much to do with the small score.

SECOND PERIOD.

Early in the second period Prout got away from the scrimmage and it looked as if he would score a touchdown but in attempting to dodge he fell and the ball was called down by the referee. Chapman dropped back for another try at a field goal. The kick went low and was blocked by the Quincy team. Chapman himself recovered the ball. A few moments later Hill threaded his way through the Hingham team from the 20 yard line and scored a touchdown. Chapman failed to kick the goal. Manning's interference for Hill was a wonder to behold. He put three men out of the way and ran with his team mate to the goal line.

THIRD PERIOD.

Quincy was still in the ascendency in the third quarter. Manning cut loose after receiving a punt and got by all but one man, Bolton, who tackled clean and hard. Harmon began to be effective with his line bucking in this period. Every time he was given the ball he found the hole and gained anywhere from 3 to 15 yards. Chapman came very near scoring on a forward pass but he fell and was stopped on the 15 yard line. Rich got long punts in this period, two of them going nearly fifty yards. Hill muffed two of the punts and Hingham was given the ball each time but their rushing was ineffectual. Time was called before Quincy could get the ball within striking distance again.

LAST PERIOD.

The fourth period like the third was a short one but Quincy made better use of her opportunities. Prout reeled off a long gain without any direct intereference. Hill made one of his slippery dashes through the Hingham team for another substantial gain. Harmon brought the ball to the 25 yard and Pfaffmann scored a touchdown on a forward pass. It was one of the finest pieces of work seen this season and deserves great commendation. Church who supplanted Chapman at end did some great tackling in this quarter. Twice in succeeding plays he threw the runner back for a loss by means of hard clean tackles. Pfaffmann's touchdown came in the last 10 seconds of play. The goal was not kicked and the final score stood 13 to 0.

SPECTACULAR PLAYS.

Although the opponents in yesterday's game were not very dangerous, they played a good enough game to keep the home team up to its best standard. There were many spectacular runs by Hill and Prout, some good hard line bucks by Blackmur and Harmon and an opportunity for good defensive work by the linesmen. Once or twice the Hingham men got by, however, and nipped off the plays before they were started. Before the Dorchester game the defense will have to be strengthened and backs will have to make themselves a little surer on catching punts and on hugging the ball when they are carrying it. Next Saturday the final game will be played and we can depend upon the men to do their best. On to victory.

QUINCY COMPARED WITH OTHER CITIES

Placed in Group with Fitchburg, Taunton and Everett All Larger in Population

Quincy's Expenditures Larger Than Two of These Cities

The Bureau of Statistics of Massachusetts has just issued its second annual report. The figures are for the year ending between Nov. 30, 1907, and April 6, 1908 and seem a little old, but it takes a long time to get complete returns from the State and print the book of 300 pages.

They are chiefly valuable for comparison. In a summary of financial transactions Quincy is placed in a group with Fitchburg, Taunton and Everett all a little larger in population. Yet the Quincy receipts and expenditures were larger than Taunton and Everett and practically the same as Fitchburg which has a population nearly 5,000 in excess. This summary is published in full. In a later issue other figures will be presented:

AN ADVISORY COUNCIL

Would It Improve Greater Boston?

The Boston Globe today publishes a two-page symposium written by the editors of the suburban newspapers on the question—"Would an advisory Metropolitan Council improve Greater Boston? Twenty-five or more editors have contributed from 300 to 600 words each on the subject, and a picture of the author accompanies the article. It would not be easy to summarize these editorial views, but we quote from the Globe:

"The Globe presents herewith the opinions of the editors of the leading newspapers in the metropolitan district on the proposed council. They are chosen because presumably in touch with the attitude of the respective cities and towns. It will be seen that many approve of the measure in theory but are afraid that in practice it will be less useful than expected. Some strongly attack it, others heartily endorse. Stripped of the fear that back of the council lurks a movement for a physicial greater Boston most of the opinions are favorable. Whether the views express a welcome to the plan, or distrust of it, they are interesting. Some suggestions of importance may be gained from an examination of the symposium."

Accompanying the symposium are three summaries, one showing the growth of each of the 40 cities and towns in the district, another the Metropolitan debt of the towns in the district, and a third the Metropolitan assessment of 1910 upon the towns. The debt of Greater Boston is really very much larger than is given by the Globe for Boston has a gross funded debt of $114,682,239.33; the city of Quincy a funded debt on Jan. 1 1910, of $1,858,005; and so on through the list, aggregating a very large sum.

Frank F. Prescott, the editor of the Daily Ledger expressed these views in the Globe symposium:

"The cities and towns which consitute the Metropolitan district are between two evils. They certainly do not wish to be annexed to Boston, but they would like to escape from the extravagant and non-representative Metropolitan commissions.

I am inclined to favor a new apportionment of the counties about Boston; a new Suffolk, or Boston county, to include all the cities and towns that are now in any of the metropolitan districts, park, water and sewer, with the possible exception of Dedham. The new county to become the metropolitan water district, the metropolitan sewer district and the metropolitan park district. All assessments for the Boston county as well as present metropolitan assessments to be levied as a county tax solely on valuation.

"The board of Boston county commissioners could consist of one person from each city or town in the district except Boston, which should have 10 members. All business of the commissioners to be transacted in the open.

CANDIDATE AT LARGE

John R. Nelson Presents Claims to Nomination

(Advertisement.)

To the Voters of the City of Quincy:

I beg to announce that I am a candidate for the nomination of Councilman-at-large to be voted for at the caucus Tuesday, Nov. 15.

I have no long record either to be proud or ashamed of:

Member of Ward Committee in 1908.

Member of City Council in 1909.

With the experience of a year of service in the Council and with the past year as an impartial observer of the conditions and needs of our city, I feel that I could enter the Council this coming year and be of some degree of usefulness.

As a taxpayer of Quincy, assessed for $85,000, and having devoted the past two years in the development of a section of the city, whereby about $100,000 additional taxable property has been added to the Assessors list, I believe that I have the city's financial interest deeply at heart.

I am a thorough believer in a business administration, in deed as well as in name, and if elected shall endeavor to carefully consider every measure introduced with a view that every dollar appropriated will mean that the City will get an honest dollar of value in return.

With this brief statement and purpose in view, if my qualifications meet with your approval, kindly give me YOUR vote.

JOHN R. NELSON.

Quincy, Nov. 14, 1910.

—The late king of Siam leaves 300 widows and 520 children. He must have had a liberal salary or else the 300 wives had to earn their keeps unless the cost of living in that far off glade is considerably less than it is in Mansfield. One wife can usually boss the house and its occupants. We can't imagine what a state of affairs 300 spouses and 520 children would create.—Mansfield News.

OIL PAINTING A WORK OF ART

The art connoisseur will find much to admire and nothing to criticise in the oil painting of the late Charles A. Howland, for many years president of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Which has recently been hung in the director's room at the Insurance building. The painting, which is a life size portrait bust is the work of Allen S. Howland, of Cambridge, a son of William Howland, and a nephew of the subject. The likeness is remarkable and the coloring true to life. So life like is it, that it seems as though he was about to speak. It has a plain gilt frame, and looking at it from any point of view, it seems as though his eyes were directed upon you. Hung in the same room is also another oil painting by the same artist, this subject being the late Israel W. Munroe, for many years treasurer of the company.

There are three other paintings by the same artist in Quincy, but the last, that of Mr. Howland is called his masterpiece. The other paintings are those of the late Edwin W. Marsh and Horace B. Spear which hang in the main office of the Quincy Savings Bank, and that of the late Henry H. Faxon, owned by his son Henry M. Faxon.

Mr. Howland has been a student for the past six years at the Boston Art Museum, and has recently opened a studio in the Back Bay, Boston, and bids fair to soon take his place among the famous artists of the country. He is a nephew of Miss Howland of Quincy, who it will be remembered made the first valentine, and art is a second nature to him. All who have seen his latest work pronounce it beautiful.

GREAT CONTEST AT THE JOINT CAUCUSES

Eight Nominations for Five Candidates at Large For City Council

Two of the Men Have Never Held City Office

The one contest that is creating interest in the joint caucuses to be held tomorrow is that over the nomination of Councilman at Large. There are five candidates to be nominated. No nominations have been made by the Democratic party, but the Republicans have enough and some to spare. The Republican ballot contains eight names and they will appear on the ballot in the following order:

*George A. Bolster, Ward Three.
*Ernest W. Branch, Ward One.
*Charles M. Bryant, Ward Five.
*Charles E. Cherrington, Ward Six.
Percy H. Holman, Ward Two.
Alfred N. LaBrecque, Ward One.
John R. Nelson, Ward Six.
*Edward J. Sandberg, Ward Four.

*Members of present Council.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Well the campaign is over. Let's get down to business.

M. Briand, of Paris has been made chief of the French Government, but M. Briand of Lincoln, Neb., is still waiting.

Champ Clark will have a hard time driving his Democratic members through the house with "Uncle Joe" Cannon watching every minute to hunch him in the flanks.

"The boast of St. Louis that its preachers are the best paid in the country," suggests that considering the toughness of the material they have to work on, they ought to be.

The plan of Secretary Meyer to abolish a lot of gold-lace sinecures in the navy for the purpose of economy may not please the easy livers, but it sounds good to the people who pay the freight.

"Too many people are trying to lead automobile lives on wheelborow incomes," says the Hon. Charles B. Landis. Not always altogether their fault, either, with automobile prices on all the necessities of life.

A poetess in an insane asylum in Minnesota has won a prize from a magazine for a poem. Possibly the incident serves to throw some light upon the origin of some queer poems that appear in the magazines.

Most Governors have to wait until they are elected before receiving honorary college degrees. Woodrow Wilson's LL. D. from Princeton was conferred while his campaign was on, but with excellent assurance that it would be worn in office.

HOW HE DOUBLED THE NUMBER.

"Such a change," said Senator Tillman, apropos of a certain bill, "would be about as satisfactory as the change that a landlord once made. A woman came to see this landlord. She wanted to look at a house that was to let. The man sent a clerk to show her over the house, and on her return she said:

"'I like the house very well. There is only one thing I object to.'

"'Well, madam, any reasonable alteration,' the landlord murmured suavely, 'would provided yo took a three years' lease——'

"'I'd take a three years' lease,' said the woman, 'if only the house had more closets.'

"'The number of closets shall be doubled,' said the landlord.

"'Very well,' said the woman, in a pleased voice, and she signed the lease then and there.

"After she was gone, the landlord called in his clerk again.

"'John,' he said, 'take a carpenter over to No. 37, and have him divide each of the closets in two.'"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

TODAY AND TOMORROW.

William Stanley Braithwaite.

Today and tomorrow and the days that come after,
Springtime and summer and two seasons more;
The night full of tears and the day full of laughter
And dreams that come in and go out of the door,
O Time that is fleeting too fast for our capture,
While the heart of our dreams beholds it pass by—
The yearning and burning, the desire and the rapture
Till we home to the earth and we home to the sky.

O harvest of dreams! when the sowing is over
And fulfilment of growth gives over all playing,
Ah, down the long sunset of life the heart-rover
Turns twilight to weeping and darkness to sighing,
We gather the harvest of dreams and we store them
Deep down in our hearts for the hunger that craves,
When springtime and summer, the laughter that bore them.
Sail away like a ship that we watch

BARN DANCE OF PILGRIMS

A Very Enjoyable Party by Quincy Point Fraternity

A little less than 300 years ago the Pilgrim Fathers landed on "the stern and rock-bound coast" and straightway set about their task of erecting a barn for their first annual barn dance. And each successive generation has followed their example in so fas as holding the dance is concerned. A group of the present generation of descendants, known as the Pilgrim fraternity, in accordance with the ancient custom, held the dance in Bett's barn on Washington street Saturday evening.

About 30 couples were present to enjoy themselves in executing various figures, including a certain number of those to be had in a plain quadrille, a Virginia reel, barn dances and round dances. The quadrille caused much amusement, since the younger generation seems to have lost the cunning of its forefathers in "tripping the light fantastic," but all entered into its execution with an unlimited degree of enthusiasm. As was to be expected the real barn dances were the most popular, owing to their appropriateness as well to their propensity for making the dancers forget the crispness of the air outside.

During the evening refreshments were served by members of the Fraternity. Brook's orchestra furnished some very excellent music. Quite a number of the older people were present to participate in the good times and Mrs. P. H. Holman and Mrs. Newcomb acted as chaperons. Jack Melville was floor director and general supervisor whose duty it was to see that every one had the best time possible. The evening passed all too quickly to suit the guests, and many inquiries were made as to when the next dance was to be held. Thus it would seem that although the younger generation has lost certain of the attributes of its forebears, it has not forgotten how to have a good time in carrying out the old custom.

PLANTS IN SLEEPING ROOMS.

The old notion still holds among many people of this and other lands that flowers are not wholesome in a sleeping room. Certain plants, among which are the geranium, the lily and the begonia, are supposed, for some unexplained cause, to give off an odor at night especially obnoxious. Scientific knowledge and numerous experiments have repeatedly disposed of these delusions, and it is a great pity that people should deprive themselves of the pleasure and satisfaction to be derived from flowers for reasons which are not reasons at all. It is true there are a few tropical plants which give off a perfume unhealthful to breathe at any time, but these plants are rare and only number a few out of tens of thousands at the most. The green leaves of all flowers are, on the other hand, most beneficial, since they purify the air. Even the doctors are beginning to recognize that they may aid in the cure of disease, and a hospital in New York has a flower ward which is used for the treatment of suitable cases.

Suppose one is confined to his bedroom with a bad cold, an attack of influenza, bronchitis, or even consumption, he cannot do better than surround himself with pots of any kind of plant that has a profusion of green leaves. Geraniums are the least valuable in this respect, and strong-smelling flowers, like musk, should be avoided. How the leaves act as therapeutic agents is easily explained. What renders the air of a room stuffy and unwholesome is the carbonic acid we breathe forth. Green leaves, however, breathe it in, consume the carbonic acid, and breathe forth pure oxygen. Moreover, they give off in vapor the water taken up by the roots, and thus act the part of a bronchitis kettle. Consequently the patient is refreshed, and, provided there is a sufficiency of plants, he is exhilarated. Even people in health would do well to give this pleasant cure a trial, especially during the months when so much time is spent indoors, and when ventilation is at its worst. They would find themselves suffering less ennui, fewer headaches, fewer colds, and would also better resist the attack of serious lung diseases.—Leslie's Weekly.

Claim of Photographer Who Says He Met Professor James' Spirit

New York, Nov. 14.—Professor William James, who at the time of his death was instructor in psychology in Harvard university, and who said just before he died that he would try to get into communication with the material world from beyond the grave, has appeared in the spirit and has been photographed in that state by Soren Lindgren, according to a statement by the latter.

Lindgren, who is a professional photographer, was at work in the dark room of his studio developing pictures when he felt, he says, a strange sense of another presence in the room, and, on looking around could see a wraith slowly taking form, but the lines never became distinct. But almost every day thereafter, he said, the wraith was present. His efforts to engage it in conversation were futile until finally he asked: "Are you Professor James?"

The answer was "Yes," and Lindgren asked the spirit if he would pose for a picture. "Not here," was the reply, according to Lindgren; "I will see you at your house tomorrow night at 9 o'clock."

Lindgren prepared a camera and, true to his promise, he says, the spirit appeared and the picture was taken. Lindgren says he was unable to engage the ghost in conversation.

OIL CAN IN PROPELLER

Mars' Flight From Steamer Made Impossible by an Accident

New York, Nov. 14.—J. C. Mars of the Curtiss staff, substituted for J. A. D. McCurdy, did not make the proposed 50-mile aeroplane flight from the deck of the Hamburg-American liner Pennsylvania. An oil can, sucked into the propeller, put the craft out of commission, but Mars' luck might have been worse, bad as it was.

Squalls and snow flurries played tag with each other across the lower harbor and, as the sun went down the wind rose. Either Mars must have risked his life against heavy odds, or have confessed that his task was beyond him.

EXPRESS DRIVERS' STRIKE AT AN END

Recognition of Union Is Not Granted In New York

New York, Nov. 14.—The strike of drivers and helpers employed by the transcontinental express companies has been formally declared off and the men returned to work today. This ends one of the most serious labor disputes the metropolitan district has experienced in years, resulting in serious rioting and the practical tie-up of express business for more than two weeks.

The close of the strike was brought about by the New Jersey strikers, who voted Saturday night to accept the terms upon which the companies offered to take back the men.

The agreement provides the men shall be taken back without discrimination except for acts of violence during the strike. Each company will take up with its employes the adjustment of wages and hours.

Recognition of their union, the chief issue for which the strikers held out for several days, is not granted, however, but the open shop policy is to prevail.

CONDUCTOR FINDS $2500

Returns It to Owner and Receives $10 For His Honesty

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 14.—Ten dollars in gold as a reward for finding $2200 in real money inclosed in an old shoe box is what Harry Stevens, conductor on an electric car, received from the owner, who claimed the contents of the package at the Uxbridge carbarns.

Although the owner would not say why he had carried the large amount of money in such an odd way, it is believed that the contents of the shoe box was the amount of a week's payroll of one of the nearby mills, and the paymaster in his hurry to get off the car on his way back from the bank left it behind.

Hotel Burned In Maine Fire

Anson, Me., Nov. 14.—Owing to the absence of wind and with much needed assistance from Madison, the business section of Anson was saved from destruction by fire. Hotel Howard and stable and a livery stable, blacksmith shop and dwelling were burned. The loss amounts to $13,000.

Prince Henry as Manbird

Darmstadt, Nov. 14.—Prince Henry of Prussia made several flights alone in a military aeroplane Sunday. Prince Henry has been devoting considerable time to learning the operation of the machine and his flights indicate that he has made rapid progress in acquiring the art of control.

Steamer Wrecked on Rocks

Cordova, Alaska, Nov. 14.—The Alaska coast steamship Portland struck a submerged rock off Katalla, tearing a hole in her bottom. She was beached and the passengers were landed safely. If a storm arises the Portland will be a total loss.

ADVISORY COUNCIL

At first the Boston county commissioners should perform all the duties now performed by country commissioners outside of Suffolk, including courts, jails, highways, etc., and also such duties as are now performed by the Metropolitan commissions on parks, water and sewers.

"A Metropolitan council with all these and other powers I should favor, but there are objections to the Bennett bill. A purely advisory council would amount to little."

NAVAL SCHOLARSHIP.

It is good news that the "naval scholarships" in George Washington University, founded by the late Admiral Powell, will soon become available for American youth. These scholarships, providing for a year's study in special subjects at the University are intended to fit young men to enter the Naval Academy or the merchant service, or to prepare them for taking appointments as warrant officers in the Navy. The year's work enables the student to specialize in mathematics, navigation, drawing, English, French, German, Spanish, international law, commercial geography, admiralty law and several mechanical subjects immediately related to the profession of the sailor. Some such training as is thus provided ought to give us in the navy and the merchant service young men with a special interest in some of the subjects here enumerated, an interest that will lead them to perfect their technical or other knowledge so that they shall prove especially valuable men in their profession.

In so far as the navy is concerned, the course at Annapolis is short enough for shaping crude boys, many of whom have never seen tidewater, for the serious career that falls to every naval officer even in time of peace. Woolwich, we believe, begins the special military and naval training of youth at a much earlier age than we do at our two national academies. We accomplish marvels not only in the technical training of our young soldiers and sailors, but in the social polish that we provide; but an intelligently directed preparatory year ought to lighten the task of the teaching force and enable the instruction and discipline to be more effectively stressed at points of special need. Our officers of the old navy were sometimes recruited from the merchant service, and frequently educated solely aboard ship from the time they were ten or twelve years of age, like the middies whom Marryat has pictured so vividly in a half a dozen novels that young folk no longer read. It is not to be denied that many of our earlier heroes wore a rough bark, and even in the navy of today the coarser tradition of that time has no little influence. Every naval officer now, however, must have at least a technical education such as the men of 1812 and later never dreamed of. Indeed, an American naval officer can hardly be overeducated, for he may be caled upon at almost any time to decide a delicate point in the law of nations, to translate a document in French, Spanish, German or Italian, to investigate complicated accounts involving great sums of money, or to exercise semi-diplomatic functions at the court of an Oriental potentate. The warrant officer also has need of the best education he can obtain, and his career as such is not unworthy of an educated man, while he has the chance, somewhat remote to be sure, of promotion to the ward room, where he needs exactly the kind of education that is given to the cadets at Annapolis. The Powel scholarships are needed, and it is a pity that we cannot have other such foundations. No doubt means will be found to make appointments to Annapolis a year in advance of the entrance time, in order that candidates may take advantage of the instruction at George Washington University.—Boston Herald.

WHAT IS IT TO BE?

A horse show will take the place of the meeting of the young Peoples Social society on Next Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church. There will be judging on work horses, carriage horses and trotting horses while high bred stock will be on exhibition from famous Wollaston stables. The invitations state that Governor Draper has promised to be present. There will be a $5,000 horse race in the 2.10, 2.20 and 2.27 class. The committee in charge of which Clifton Baker is chairman, has promised to outdo the great track meet of last spring.

—The land on Quincy avenue, East Braintree, of the Plymouth County Light and Power Company, and on which the company has expended, it is said, over $20,000 in improving as a site for its plant, is advertised to be sold at sheriff's sale, Dec. 10, at Brookline.

A NATION-WIDE BATTLE

Strong Blow to Be Delivered at White Slavery In United States

Washington, Nov. 14.—With one sweep of its long arm the department of justice hopes to annihilate organizations of white slave traders and to stop traffic in women in the United States.

The machinery which the attorney general and his assistants will use in this nation-wide battle consists of a corps of legally trained sleuths who have long been in the service of the department and engaged in running down the worst kind of criminals, and breaking up the most extensive fraud schemes.

This corps of agents will soon be turned loose in every city in the country. Every employment agency, every dive and rendezvous in each of the cities will be fine toothcombed by these human ferrets. For months several of these agents have been in the field making preliminary investigations.

YOUNG FOR THE SENATE

Popular Iowa Editor Named by Carroll to Succeed Dolliver

Des Moines, Nov. 14.—Governor Carroll has announced the appointment of Lafayette Young, editor of the Des Moines Capital, as United States senator from Iowa, to succeed the late Senator Dolliver.

"Lafe" Young is a pioneer newspaper man of Iowa. He was "printer's devil" as a boy and afterwards became editor of a Stalwart paper at Atlantic. About twenty years ago he bought the Iowa State Capital, an afternoon paper. About that time he was made state printer and was thus able to keep the newspaper afloat.

The Capital is devoted to the standpat element. It was Young who placed Roosevelt in nomination for vice president at the Philadelphia convention of 1900. He is a witty, genial man, a splendid speaker and very popular.

PASTOR PROMOTER CAUGHT IN A RAID

Banana Boomers In Alleged Get-Rich-Quick Scheme

New York, Nov. 14.—Frank G. Watrous, president of the El Progreso Banana company, financed by the International Finance company; O. W. Simmons, secretary-treasurer of the company; H. L. Harvey, the company's vice president; William L. Saunders, the secretary and treasurer of the International Finance company, and Rev. Claude M. Severance, a director of the banana company, were arrested by postoffice inspectors on charges of using the mails with intent to defraud.

Commissioner Shields held the five in bail in sums ranging from $2500 to $10,000. Harvey and Simmons furnished bail. The other three were unable to furnish bail and were locked up.

It is estimated Watrous and his associates sold half a million dollars' worth of stock in this country, or rather havo received that money from the stock.

Through Severance the company interested ministers and men prominent in the Y. M. C. A. The concern alleged to have an extensive banana plantation in Honduras and big profits were promised investors in the stock of the concern.

CEMETERY MEN OBJECT

Dying Woman Wanted Pet Dog to Share Grave With Her

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 14.—The dying request of Mrs. Frances E. Langdon, wife of F. Langdon, was that Teddy, her pet spaniel dog, be mercifully put to death and buried with her.

The life of the canine was ended with chloroform, but the cemetery trustees refused to allow the interment of the dog beside his mistress.

He had been a constant companion of the woman for fourteen years and in her last days he refused to leave the sick chamber. After her death, he remained beside the casket, where he kept up a continual whining and no efforts on the part of the family could make him take food.

ATTACK ON CATHOLICS

Socialists Create Serious Disturbance During Parade In Italy

Modena, Italy, Nov. 14.—Catholics and Socialists came into collision here Sunday. A serious fight ensued and police detachments had difficulty in restoring order. Several persons were badly injured.

Catholic delegates who are holding their national congress here formed a procession in which several thousands joined. The paraders were attacked by bands of Socialists, crying "Viva Ferrer!" "Viva Nathan!" The Catholics responded with cries of "Viva Italy!" "Viva Bruchesi!" (the archbishop of Montreal).

Dovey Sells the Doves

Pittsburg, Nov. 14.—An important baseball deal was consummated here when John S. C. Dovey sold his entire interest in the Boston National League Baseball club to John P. Harris.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Quincy Sunday Schools Represented in Boston

Several of the Sunday schools of the city were represented on Sunday in the second annual parade of Bible schools in Boston followed by mass meetings.

First Universalist.

Rev. Ernest H. Carritt of Tufts Theological School occupied the pulpit at the Universalist church Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Carritt is a candidate for the pastorate and his sermon was listened to with marked attention. Music of exceptional good quality was furnished during the service by the new quartette.

The Dorcas society will meet with Mrs. John Smith of Baxter street Tuesday evening and the Ladies' Aid Society will meet in the church parlor Thursday afternoon.

All Souls' day exercises were held by the Sunday school following the church service.

First Church.

The morning service at the First church was largely attended. Rev. Ellery Channing Butler occupied the pulpit, his text being "Signs of the times."

The regular Sunday school service was held in the chapel following the regular service.

The Alliance meets this afternoon in the chapel.

First Presbyterian.

Large congregations were present at all the services yesterday. The pastor took as the text for his sermon, II Kings 4:7, "Go sell what thou hast and live on the rest."

The young people had an excellent meeting with the regular temperance topic. All four rooms of the manse were filled with Endeavorers.

An announcement was made at both services that the meeting would be held in the church beginning Sunday, Nov. 27. All the members were very much cheered by the news because with winter coming on, a need is felt for the home church. The United Presbyterian church has been very kind in offering the use of its auditorium for the afternoon services and the members of the sister church deeply appreciate it.

Bethany Congregational.

The pastor took for his morning theme, "The old dynamic with new efficiency." The sermon was a very able one and the congregation was large. Quite a number of people from other churches were present as well as a good representation of the membership of the home church.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting was led by Mr. Corthell. The regular temperance topic was used.

In the evening the pastor gave an address on "Modern Knighthood." The boys' vested choir furnished the music.

The Intermediate Christian Endeavor society will meet with Miss Esther Beckford, 300 Washington street, on Tuesday evening at 7.15.

The annual banquet of Makaria Fraternity will be held Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. Rev. Jay T. Stocking of Newton will speak on "The American type."

The Junior Christian Endeavor society will have a pledge meeting Friday afternoon at 4.15.

The regular church prayer meeting will be held Friday evening at 7.45. Topic, "The Seeming Impossible."

Mr. Branch announced that the Bethany Bible school had been awarded first prize for "the best system of Sunday school records" at the mammoth exhibit in Park street church at the time of the National council.

United Presbyterian.

The pastor preached on a temperance theme at the morning service. Text, "Woe to him that giveth his neighbor drink."

The Y. P. S. C. E. had a good meeting and the temperance topic aroused a great deal of enthusiasm for work among the members.

At the evening service the pastor spoke of Martin Luther, his work as a reformer. The church was filled to its utmost capacity by the church members and their guests. The Ladies of the Loyal Orange association and the Orangemen of Quincy lodge No. 194 were present, also a large delegation from Bay View lodge No. 187. This special service was in honor of Martin Luther's birthday which came on Nov. 10. In addition to the special address there was some excellent special music. Mr. H. Marr of Weymouth sang two solos and the choir rendered an anthem.

The officers and teachers of the Sunday school will meet in the church Wednesday evening.

The regular prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening.

HALL PLACE M. E.

The text of the morning sermon at the Hall Place M. E. church was taken from Romans 15:3—"Even Christ pleased not himself.'

There was a noticeable increase in the attendance at the Sunday school. The pastor is doing a great work among the juniors. There were thirty-four present at the Junior League. Four new members were admitted.

Richard H. Moyle led the Epworth League service at 1.15, and gave many interesting and helpful thoughts.

The text for the evening service was taken from Acts 26:19—"I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision," the subject being. "The Heavenly Vision." At the close of the general service an after service of song, testimony and prayer was held in the vestry. All the services of the day were well atended.

A good number are planning to attend the "Institute" service Tuesday in the Bromfield street church, Boston.

Prayer meting wil be held as usual Friday evening at 7.30.

SWEDISH CONGREGTIONAL.

The third of the series of four special sermons was preached to a crowded house last evening. Resurrection and Judgment was the theme of the address. The pastor said in the beginning that he would make no attempt to set the date when this judgment would come because no human being knows anything about it. That there will be a day of final judgment and resurrection is a certainty. Even science admits that fact. The scientists say that an earthquake or a collision with some great celestial body will cause a conflagration, which will bring about the end.

At the end of all things the final judgment will surely come and there can be no deferring it and there will be no second judgment.

This final judgment is necessary because human judgments are so unjust.

The athcists are the only sect which do not accept the idea of resurrection. We should accept it as naturally as we accept the changing seasons. With the spring comes the reawakening of plant and vegetable life. At the final day we can expect a reawakening of human life. And this resurrection will be the last scene in the great drama of the world.

CALVARY BAPTIST.

At the morning service the pastor delivered the second of a series of sermons of the letter to the seven churches.

The Sunday school had the largest attendance of the year and the Davis class admitted three new members.

The Christian Endeavor society had an excellent meeting which was well attended. Several new members were received into the society.

Tuesday evening the Bible Study class will meet with Mrs. MacDonald, Pleasant street.

Friday afternoon and evening the pastor and his wife will celebrate their seventh anniversary by keeping open house. All the members of the church and the organizations connected with it are invited to go to the parsonage and help Mr. and Mrs. Davis observe their anniversary.

WOLLASTON M. E.

Sunday morning an excellent sermon was preached by the pastor Rev. Wesley Wiggin subject—"Christianity and Citizenship." It was the first time in the history of the world for the two christian nations, England and the United States to join, in having temperance Sunday. The pastor told a very pathetic story in connection with his sermon showing what strong drinks will do.

Sunday school was held at the close of service, where everyone was welcome.

The subject of the Epworth League was "The Father's house and the Father's business" leader, F. G. Bennett.

The theme of the evening service was "The unselfish Christ."

The Ladies Aid and Women's Missionary society will meet Wednesday at 2 with Mrs. Crothers, 149 Beale street.

This church is interested in the Sunday school institute which opened in Boston today.

The Queen Esther circle will meet Wednesday evening with Miss Ida Bland, 245 Newbury avenue.

Rev. John Galbraith, D. D. will preach next Sunday and hold the quarterly conference.

—A southern woman visiting in Chicago has introduced a new species of prizes for the winners of card games. The first prize is a steak for four, garnished and ready for the cooking. The second prize is a basket of fruit and vegetables. The steak is considered a novl substitiute for a cut glass bowl, and at the present time probably costs a good deal more. —Milford Gazette.

The Sun's Temperature.

The sun's temperature has been lately estimated at 5,373, 5,800 and 5,400 degrees C. Millochau, a French astronomer, has compared the thermal and optical results with those of an electric furnace of known temperture.

An Enlightening Diagram.

"How shall I represent this railway that has become noted for erratic dividends?" asked the map maker.

"Put it down as a short and crooked line," replied the chief.—Washington Star.

GREAT CONTEST

was that the ward that had the candidate for Mayor did not have any candidate for Councilman at Large. But this was during the days when nominations for tris office were made at a convention. The adoption of the joint caucus act, made it possible for any one, no matter what ward they resided in, to be a candidate, which in reality follows out what the framers of the charter intended. This was that the Councilmen at Large should be to Quincy what the board of aldermen are to other cities, namely a sort of balance wheel. It was not intended that they should come from any particular ward, but should be men who would go to the City Council and act independent of ward affiliation.

This being the case voters should disregard the ward sign and vote for the men they think best fitted for the position.

Of the eight candidates seeking nomination five are members of the present city council and one a former councilman. The other two are new men without previous experience. A study of the names shows that there are two candidates from Ward One, one from Ward Two, one from Ward Three, one from Ward Four, one from Ward Five and two from Ward Six.

Of the Ward One candidates, Ernest W. Branch is a member of the present Council and is serving his first year. During the present year he has served on the Committee on Licenses and Sewers. He was also a member of the special committee on financial investigation and is therefore well posted on the financial condition of the city. The other candidate from the ward is a resident of Houghs Neck and without previous experience in the council. He is however connected with a local newspaper which business keeps him in touch with what is going on at City Hall.

The candidate from Ward Two is likewise a new man without previous experience in the Council. The candidate from Ward Three, George A. Bolster is a member of the present council and during the year has served on the standing committees on Sewers and Health. The Ward Four candidate is Edward J. Sandberg, a member of the present council at large. Mr. Sandberg served the city as its representative in the General Court for two years, and the present year in the Council has served on the committees on Streets and Public Buildings, two of the most important committees on the council.

The candidate from Ward Five is Charles M. Bryant, a man who has had more experience in the administration of city affairs than any other citizen of the city. Not only has he been a member of the City Council for several years, but he was also for three years Mayor of the city, and therefore a valuable member. During the past year he has been the chairman of the Committee on Finance, which is acknowledged to be the most important committee in the Council.

The candidates from Ward Six are Charles E. Cherrington and John R. Nelson. Mr. Cherrington is a member of the present Council serving at large. In addition to this he has also served two years as a member from Ward Six. The present year he is chairman of the Committee on Fire and Police and also a member of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds. John R. Nelson has also had previous experience having served during the year 1909 as a member from Ward Three.

In view of the many important matters that will come before the Council next year, it would seem wise that the members to be elected at large should be men of previous experience.

The other contests on the Republican ticket are confined to wards and therefore of local interest. Ward Three has three candidates seeking nomination, six from Ward Five and four from Ward Six.

Among the Democrats the main contest is in Ward Four where there are five candidates seeking the three nominations to be made.

The polls will be opened at 12 o'clock noon and remain open until 9 o'clock in the evening.

SIX RULES FOR YOUNG MEN.

Here are a few simple rules for keeping one's youth and energy for many years, given by C. W. Lyman, M. D., of New York.

To live rightly and after truth.

To bathe in cold water every morning, and breathe fresh air except when circumstances prevent it.

To eat moderately of the best and simplest food obtainable, taking no stimulants or narcotics.

To spend a maximum of two hours a day in active outdoor exercise, including a minimum of ten minutes' rapid running.

To sleep eight hours every night, and go to bed early.

To be always employed, either in mind or body.

FAR-REACHING AFFECTION.

Hal and Donald, little lads of five and seven years, would sometimes manifest their affection for their parents by engaging in a dialogue of this kind:

"I love papa and mamma clear to New York."

"Well, I love them clear to Chicago."

"I love them from here to Omaha."

Thus they would go by gigantic strides until they reached San Franciso, when one of them would cross the Pacific at a single bound and say triumphantly,—

"Well, I love papa and mamma clear to Japan."

This would "stump" the other boy, because both lads seemed to think that Japan was the end of all space. One evening when the older boy had defeated his brother by saying that he loved his parents "clear to Japan," the younger boy put on his thinking-cap, and presently he announced with a ring of triumph in his voice:

"Well, I just don't care if you do love papa and mamma clear to Japan. I love them to hell!"—Lippincott's.

AN UNREASONABLE REQUEST.

Mrs. C. was ordering the day's lunch over the telephone.

Brains were on her menu and she had tried a number of butchers without success.

"Is that 266?" anxiously.

"Yes."

"Have you any brains?"

"What?"

"Have you any brains today?"

"No, no, no!" came the testy reply. "Madame, you have made a mistake, this is Dr. Smith's telephone."—Lippincott's.

BRIEFS

Ambrose Poland has returned from a two weeks' visit in Rockport, Me.

Two residences are being erected for John Granahan, Wollaston Park's popular letter carrier, on Philips street.

Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook has gone to New York for two weeks. She will visit friends in New York City and Brooklyn.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst have resumed their custom of being "at home" to their parishioners and friends on Monday evenings of each week.

Jasper Curtis, who has been the guest of his cousin Charles M. Thompson of Beach street for the past month, has returned to his home in Maine.

Lester Rollins of Beale street was among those dancing the minuet in the civic pageant of the Boston 1915 committee "From cave life to city life" held in the Boston Arena.

The Atlantic Railroad Station has been put on the two shift plan. Hereafter two operators will be employed instead of one as formerly. The hours are from six to three and from three to twelve.

Reports of the surprise party tendered Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Christopher neglected to state that the affair was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Christopher where the couple formerly resided.

Grand preparations which are expected to eclipse all previous efforts are being made for the annual fair by the ladies of the Park and Downs Congregational church to be held on Wednesday and Thursday.

Frank Rees who was shot at and killed by Walter G. Fall in District Attorney Pelletier's office in Boston on Thursday formerly lived in Atlantic. Mr. Rees moved from Atlantic to Dorchester about two years ago.

Miss Mary Anderson formerly of Wollaston has been elected State secretary of the Woman's Temperance Union. Miss Anderson was one of the United States delegates to the World's convention in London this summer.

The Unitarian church helpers will hold a children's dancing party on Friday afternoon, and a dance for grown folks on Friday evening in Wollaston hall. Mrs. W. E. Rowe heads the committee for the afternoon and Mrs. R. W. Oldham for the evening.

SENSATIONAL RAID AT BOSTON

Police Descend Upon an Alleged Cocaine Joint

JOB IS CAREFULLY PLANNED

Supposed Headquarters of Illicit Traffic Attacked by Large Squad, Who Smash Doors and Windows to Gain Entrance—Opium Layouts and Nearly $1000 Worth of Drug Seized—Several Arrests Are Made

Boston, Nov. 14.—Swooping down on the house at 9 Williams terrace, believed to be the headquarters of the cocaine traffic in the South End, a squad of police from Station 10 made a successful raid on the place and captured several of the alleged leaders in the notorious trade, as well as nearly $1000 worth of cocaine in its various forms and a complete layout of pipes. With those taken in by the police at the house was Annie S. Manley, the 28-year-old negress whose sensational suit against Professor Marcou of Harvard was tried two years ago.

Irving Bostick and his wife, the proprietors of the joint, were taken as they tried to make their escape from one of the rear doors. The raid was conducted under the direction of Agents Parker and Taylor of the Watch and Ward society.

The lights in the house were put out the minute the police broke in, and during the first minutes of the general melee which followed the police were unable to see with how many and with whom they had to cope.

A search of the house revealed opium pipes and outfits. Further search of the house brought to light great quantities of cocaine in all its forms. In another room an arsenal of firearms was discovered. All were hustled into the waiting wagon and taken to police station 10.

In command of Sergeant O'Neil of Station 10, five patrolmen surrounded the house. Clad in citizen's clothes, O'Neil approached the front of the house cautiously and whistled the signal known to the inmates of the house. In a moment the door was opened and a black face peered into the night.

Sergeant O'Neil's face was not familiar to the dusky doorkeeper and the door was slammed and bolted. Without waiting a moment, O'Neil gave the signal to the officers and simultaneously from all sides of the house the officers attacked it. Doors and windows were broken in and so carefully had the cordon of police been placed that not a person in the house escaped.

While this raid was being conducted by the police of Station 10, the police of Station 9 were also ferreting out other alleged dope fiends. Louise Bishop, 23; John Johnson, 25; John Bishop, 27, and Mabel Bishop, all negroes, were arrested, trying to dispose of cocaine on Washington street, by Sergeants Chandler and Fitzgerald, with the assistance of agents of the Watch and Ward society.

It is alleged that some of those arrested were in the habit of meeting at the house and on leaving took with them small vials of cocaine which they disposed of on the street.

"BEARDED LADY" A BRIDE

As Farmer's Wife She Ends Her Career as Circus Curiosity

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 14.—Romance has entered the tent of the circus side show and carried off one of its star attractions. Miss Grace Gilbert, the famous "bearded lady," has become a bride.

The romance had its beginning in rural Michigan, where Miss Gilbert's home is, in Kalkaska county. She is now Mrs. Giles E. Calvin. The bridegroom is a farmer of her home county. He is 53 years old and was a widower. The bride is 34.

Following the services Mrs. Calvin donned a heavy veil she wears when traveling to conceal her 18-inch beard. She said that she had been before the public for sixteen years, and that she would now retire from circus life.

GREAT DAMAGE BY FLOOD

The Seine Expected to Continue to Rise Until Thursday

Paris, Nov. 14.—There has been no abatement of the flood from the River Seine, which still continues to rise. The gauge at Point Royal marks a height of twenty feet, which is thirteen feet above the normal.

The river authorities estimate that the rise will continue until Thursday, when it is expected the flood will reach a maximum of twenty-nine feet.

The suburbs are suffering immense damage. It is feared that a number of factories will be forced to close down, throwing thousands out of work.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS PARADE

Five Thousand Christians March Through Streets of Boston

Boston, Nov. 14.—Boston saw 5000 men—with a large open Bible resting on a blue velvet cushion for a standard—marching through the streets when the Men's Bible Class clubs paraded yesterday.

It was the greatest street demonstration of the young manhood of the Protestant churches ever seen in this city. There were beautiful banners, and great choruses delighted the thousands of spectators as the marching column joined in some favorite Christian hymn.

As the column swung down Berkeley street to Columbus avenue it is estimated that there 10,000 men, women and children and half a dozen bands joined in the chorus of the hymn "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

The showing of the men in line was brought to a fitting climax when, on reaching Tremont Temple, enough divisions of the marchers flocked into the building to comfortably fill both Converse and Lorimer halls, others proceeding to Ford hall, while others filed into the Park street church.

FOOD FOR DEAD CHINAMAN

Strewn on the Water From the Coast of Brazil to Boston

Boston, Nov. 14.—There is a trail of rice all the way from the coast of Brazil to Boston harbor, but it doesn't indicate that a hare and hounds game has been played on the ocean, but merely the superstitious nature of a crew of Chinese, who reached here on the British steamer Chatham.

The steamer came from the west coast of South America. When off Brazil Li Chow, one of the crew, fell overboard and was drowned, and all the rest of the way up the South American coast the other members of the crew threw overboard rice and other choice foodstuffs that the drowned man might not feel the pangs of hunger while toiling onward to another world.

MRS. SCHENCK PROVES WOMAN OF MYSTERY

Alleged Poisoner of Husband Still Maintains Her Silence

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 14.—Mrs. Laura F. Schenck is still a prisoner, while her husband, John O. Schenck, multimillionaire pork packer, is slowly recovering from the effects of arsenical poisoning, alleged to have been caused by his wife, a former servant girl.

Maintaining an impenetrable silence on all phases of the case which has so far baffled local authorities, Mrs. Schenck is as yet a complete mystery to the men who are seeking to connect her definitely with the crime of whom her husband is a victim.

The illness of Schenck, which has resulted in his transfer to the hospital and his wife's removal to the county jail, has been one of several weeks' standing, and, after fruitless examinations by physicians, it has only just been diagnosed as arsenical poisoning.

GRAND JURY INDICTS FALL

Trial of Double Murderer Will Be Speedily Pushed Forward

Boston, Nov. 14.—Walter G. Fall was indicted on two counts by the Suffolk grand jury for the first degree murder of Frank A. Rees and Police Sergeant Frederick Schlehuber in District Attorney Pelletier's office Thursday. He will be brought to trial in two months at the latest. This will establish a new record for murder trials in the courts of Massachusetts.

Fall will be arraigned in the superior criminal court early this week. The reason for the rapid working of the law in indicting the youthful slayer lies in the fact that the grand jury was sitting at the time of the murder and the prompt arrest of Fall made the indictment possible.

TIME FOR CHEAPER FOOD

Falling Prices Insured by Heavy Crops, According to Wilson

Washington, Nov. 14.—Lower prices for meats and other foods should be the result of the bumper crops which the United States has produced this year, in the opinion of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson.

"We have had bumper crops," he said, "and meat prices should come down; that is if no combine is formed among the dealers. My views apply to all kinds of meat. The crops have been such that a faling in price is the inevitable result. The only thing that can defeat this will be if too great a toll is taken after the product leaves the hands of the farmers and before they reach the consumers."

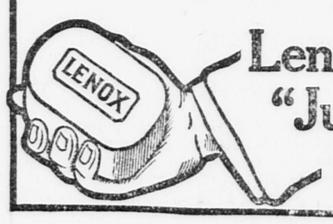

—The profits of the Brockton fair were $19,345, the total receipts being $116,587.

COUNT TOLSTOI

Famous Author Reported as Mysteriously Missing

WIFE FORLORN AND DESERTED

Tolstoi's Flight From Home Makes Painful Impression

BEGS COUNTESS' FORGIVENESS

Tells Her In a Letter That He Wishes to Complete His Life In Solitude—Woman Who Shared Novelist's Trials and Victories For Fifty Years Twice Tries to Drown Herself While Overcome With Grief

Tula, Russia, Nov. 14.—The mysterious disappearance of Count Leo Tolstoi, the Russian novelist and social reformer, which took place Oct. 10, but which has just become public, has made a painful impression.

That he should desire to spend the evening of his days in solitude surprised no one acquainted with his strange career, but that he should deliberately desert his wife who had borne him nine children is difficult of belief, even in the light of his well known eccentricities of character.

The suggestion of a failing mentality is accepted by many in explanation of the count's sudden leave taking.

Coincident with the announcement of the mysterious disappearance of Count Leo Tolstoi Countess Tolstoi twice attempted to commit suicide by drowning through a hole in the ice. She was prevented by servants who have been watching her.

The countess has been in despair since her aged husband left suddenly, and in a letter to her declared he wanted to remain in solitary confinement until his death should come. The letter said:

"I cannot continue longer to live surrounded by luxury and, like many other old men, I retire from the world to complete my life in solitude.

"I ask that you do not seek my place of sojourn and that you do not come to it if it is discovered. I beg forgiveness for the grief that I may cause you."

The novelist's reference to living amid luxurious surroundings is significant of his state of mind, as he has long lived the life of a peasant, while his family occupied a mansion on the Yasnaya Poliana estate.

The first news of Tolstoi's disappearance came from Prince Dimitry Oblensky, who says that the count left his home several days ago, accompanied by Dr. Makovetsky, his physician. That the doctor should be a party to the affair is another strange feature.

In his writings Tolstoi has condemned suicide as immoral and irrational and as indicating a perverted view of the significance of life.

It is believed that Tolstoi proceeded to an old monastery in the government of Kaluga, which adjoins the government of Tula on the west.

The picture, suggested by the cable dispatches, of an old man in his 82d year wandering off into the woods to die alone, and the wife who has shared his trials and victories for a half-century, forlorn and deserted, and watched over to see that she does not end her life—this is the tragedy of Count and Countess Tolstoi.

Countess Tolstoi is a woman of fine breeding and education. Tolstoi's vagaries and his peculiar mode of life were a great strain on his devoted wife, but she remained by him throughout.

Noted "Black Horse" Rider Dead

Washington, Nov. 14.—Brigadier-General Beverly H. Robertson, a Virginian, one of the few survivors of the famous "Black Horse Cavalry," that distinguished the Virginia campaign during the Civil war, died at his home here, aged 83.

Italy's First Skyscraper

Rome, Nov. 14.—Milan will be the first Italian city to have a "skyscraper." Such a structure seems somehow out of the picture in Italy, but one is about to be built in Milan, of fourteen stories and with hundreds of rooms.

The above designs are by The McCall Company, New York, Designers and Makers of McCall Patterns.

NEW YORK STYLES.

New Touches that bring a Costume Up-to-Date. Long Coats and Lovely Fur Creations—China Beads the Rage.

If you are making over a last year's party frock—if you want your chiffon waist to be specially elegant—if you desire the latest trimming on almost any dressy garment, do a pattern simple or elaborate in small white china beads. Other beads are modish but these are a long way in the lead. A waist of gray chiffon over black and white striped silk, has a dainty little vine pattern at the neck of the chiffon tucker and at the bottom of the half long sleeve, just where the cuffs and white lace chemisette join on, and scattered beyond the pattern at half inch intervals a lot more of the milk white beads, so that the whole band is some four inches in width. Two pipings, one of cerise and one of black silk finish the top of the collar and bottom of the lace cuff.

FUR TRIMMINGS.

Tiny bands of fur trim even the edges of bows and sashes, and the lightest tulle gown's have bands of skunk or other dark, long haired furs at the bottom of the tunic or skirt. Everyone has gone fur mad in designing, but so charming are the results that one only desires to do likewise. Every bit of fur one owns can be utilized to increase the style and attractiveness of one's wardrobe in one way or another.

COMBINATIONS.

Combinations are the order of the day in fashion's realm, not only color arrangements that rival the rainbow, especially for evening frocks, but melanges of odd materials—cloth and velvet, brocade and chiffon and satin. Even upholstery tapestries have been brought into play and make some of the very most attractive hat and dress trimmings. Fur sets are rarely of one pelt, except for the most substantial usage. For dressy wear pelts of all sorts are combined with one another, and with silks, satins, brocades, velvets and chiffons making up an endless array of fascinating novelties for my lady's adornment. Very beautiful and varied were the sets seen recently at C. C. Shayne's where a wonderful stock of this sort is carried. Some of the most attractive had the neckpiece in long scarf form and the big flat muffs that draped themselves in fascinating folds with every movement of the wearer, made practical in a new way having big pockets front or back of the size and capacity of a handbag, and with an inner change pocket securely clasped, to add to their convenience.

ERMINE AND CHINCHILLA.

A set of ermine and chinchilla, had the pure white tailless fur with bands of the gray fur arranged at intervals, and a lining of white satin brocaded in medallions of violets. A set of seal and the same white fur had the dark fur used for the under part while the ermine animal skins formed the trimming. More practical and not less attractive, were sets of handsome skunk and opossum skins—the new Australian opossum that resembles chinchilla closely in color and texture. Raccoon is a fashionable favorite for general wear, and bear in luxurious long soft pelt, makes muffs, scarfs and collars for fur and cloth coats.

LONG COATS.

Long coats were never so much worn as this season, for dresses are decidely more in style than coat and skirt costumes, so the extra coat is a necessity. Fur coats lead in fashionable favor, and a really excellent garment may be had at a very moderate figure taking into account the service rendered. One of the novelties, this year is "Smoke" colored squirrel skins, that make up charmingly into warm and comparatively light weight garments. These are a late French idea.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Long wristed gloves are worn for all dress purposes, for sleeves are nearly all three-quarter length or shorter. For walking, the heavy chamois or dogskin with spear point finish are leaders. The velvet neck bow continues ubiquitous. Lorgnettes of gold, silver, gun-metal, or shell, are used even by very young girls. Hats are small, high as to crown, and meagre in trimming. The bolster skirt has succeeded the hobble, with extreme dressers, and is even uglier than its predecessor, so its wearers are in the small minority as the average woman refuses either to "bolster or hobble."

Harvard Defeats Dartmouth

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 14.—Superior skill and bewildering versatility gave Harvard the victory over Dartmouth in the annual football game in the Stadium. The score, 18 to 0, fairly represents the difference between the two elevens in the finer points of football. In strength, weight and conditions the teams were well matched.

Football Captain Killed

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 14.—Rudolph Monk, captain and left halfback of the West Virginia university football team, died Saturday night of concussion of the brain received in the game with Bethany here Saturday. The teams played for the state championship.

Six Passengers Killed

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 14.—Six persons are dead and twenty-six injured, four of whom, it is thought, will die, as the result of a street car being run down by an express train. All of the dead and injured were passengers on the street car.

BANDIT HUNT IS FRUITLESS

No Trace of Trio Who Robbed Paymaster of $15,000

ESCAPED IN AN AUTOMOBILE

First Walked Off Into Swamp With Money Stolen at Point of Shotguns In Presence of Two Armed Guards Who Are Compelled to Hold Up Their Hands—Three Hundred Men Engage In Man Hunt Without Result

Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 14.—With $15,000 in cash and checks the three daring masked bandits who on Saturday held up Paymaster Hine of the Woronoco Construction company at the point of shotguns in sight of hundreds of workmen on the Egremont street railway extension are believed to have made a clean getaway in a big limousine auto which sped through Ashley Falls Saturday night, headed for the New York state highway.

Tales of Jesse James and his bold road agents of the wild west are outdone by the exploit of the masked trio who stepped out of the woods, compelled Hine and his two armed guards to put up their hands, and coolly walked off into the swamp with the money the paymaster was to distribute among his company's 500 employes.

In a blinding snow storm, suffering greatly from exposure, the posse of 300 armed men who had guarded all night the wild territory of twenty-five square miles into which the bandits disappeared, beat through the lonely tract Sunday without finding the slightest clue.

Encouraged by the miniature blizzard in the belief that tracking the fleeing robbers would be an easy task, State Officer Bligh marshalled his army of man hunters in a long cordon about the Egremont swamp.

As the posse covered mile after mile of treacherous marsh lands and rugged hills without so much as a footprint to reward their search, Bligh began to suspenct that the bandits had slipped by the armed guards thrown about the unsettled district into which they escaped immediately after the holdup.

Then came the news from Ashley Falls of the speeding auto and the belief grew that the three men made their way a mile or more through the bushes and swamp, carrying the heavy bags of plunder, to the machine waiting in a little used crossroad.

Scores of automobiles raced for Egremont from every direction shortly after the robbery occurred, bringing the armed men summoned by the alarm sent out over the telephone by Deputy Sheriff Truesdale.

Officials of the Woronoco Construction company are checking up the time slips to ascertain just how much has been lost.

General Manager Robinson believes that $15,000 was in the suit case and handbag which contained the payroll. Of this about $10,000 was in cash. The rest was in "pay checks," which are supposed to be negotiated only by the men to whom they are issued, although many of the men are accustomed to cash these checks at the stores of tradespeople, who in turn get the face value back from the construction company.

Paymaster Hine started out from Great Barrington Saturday to pay off the men employed on the Egremont extension. He was escorted by Deputy Sheriff Truesdale and Manager Robinson. Hine is almost heartbroken over his loss. Truesdale seems to feel the worst over the affair, however, as he was sent along to protect the money and didn't get a chance to do anything except put up his hands when ordered to do so.

MRS. LOVE WINS DIVORCE

Boston Broker Found Guilty of Misconduct With Two Women

Boston, Nov. 14.—After one of the most sensational divorce trials in the history of the Suffolk county courts, Mrs. Virginia A. Love, daughter of former Mayor Aldridge of Rochester, N. Y., was granted a decree nisi from her husband, Henry H. Love, the State street broker.

The court found that Love was guilty of misconduct with two women who were named as co-respondents by Mrs. Love in her libel alleging statutory offenses. Love's cross-libel, charging confirmed habits of intoxication and the habitual use of drugs, was dismissed.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Stewed Tripe. Cook honeycomb tripe in boiling water for 20 minutes, drain and cut into inch squares. Put two level tablespoons of butter into a saucepan, add a rounding tablespoon of onion chopped fine and cook until brown. Add two level tablespoons of flour, one-half level teaspoon of salt and a saltspoon of pepper. Pour on two cups of boiling water, stir until smooth ,then put in the tripe, cover and simmer for half an hour.

Gretchens. Cream together one-fourth cupful butter and one and one-half cupful granulated sugar; add the grated rind of a medium-sized orange and one tablespoonful of the juice, the beaten yolk of two eggs, pinch of salt. Sift one-eighth teaspoonful of soda with one and two-thirds cupful flour; sift twice and add to the butter mixture, then add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Fill small greased cups two-thirds full and bake in a moderately quick oven. Ice when cold.

Caramel Icing. Put together one and one-fourth cupful of brown sugar, one-fourth cupful granulated sugar and one-fourth cupful of hot water; stir until dissolved, then let boil until it spins a thread. Pour slowly on the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, beating until cool.

Fig Custards. Cook quarter of a pound of figs until they can be chopped to a paste and pressed through a coarse sieve. Heat one cupful of water, to which add half a cupful of orange juice and sugar to make very sweet. Stir in the fig pulp and then add two heaping tablespoonfuls of cornstarch wet to a thin paste with cold water; cook until transparent. Beat the whites of four eggs until stiff and pour the hot mixture on them, adding a level tablespoonful of butter to it before taking from the stove. Beat until the eggs and starchy mixture is incorporated, then pour into small cups or molds. Set in a cold place and serve with plain cream or a custard sauce flavored with a little of the orange peeling grated.

Mrs. Charles F. Derby was the guest last week of friends in Whitman.

Miss Anna Torrey of Montello was the guest of Quincy relatives last week.

Andrew W. Gardner who has been confined to his home by illness is about again on his route.

Miss Mary Keene of Whitman is the guest for a few days of Quincy friends.

Roy Prout and his mother, who have been living on Spear street for about a year moved last week to Foster street.

A rearing will be held before the Railroad Commissioners Tuesday at 10.30 on the petition of the residents of South Quincy for improved train service.

L. S. Richards of Marshfield Hills has generously again offered another prize, a silver medal to the student in the high or grammar school of that town who prepares the best essay on "Total Abstinence.' The essay to be delivered at graduation in June.

A committee of Wollaston citizens of which A. N. Murray is secretary is urging the nomination of charles W. Bailey as one of the three candidates for councilmen from that ward. Mr. Bailey is connected with the Boylston National bank and is vitally interested in civic affairs.

John C. Bestgen who for several years has been a prominent resident of the Montclair district has moved to Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Bestgen was in the cutlery business in Boston for many years, but a great deal of his business was in the west. He was the inventor of the Bestgen razor sharpener.

Miss Lulu M. Cochrane of Wollaston and Joseph L. Gifford of Taunton were united in Marriage on Friday afternoon, Nov. 11, by Rev. Carl G. Horst at the home of the minister. Miss Cochrane is the daughter of Charles W. Cochrane of Hamilton street, and is well known in Wollaston having resided here many years. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs William L. Gifford of Taunton. After a wedding trip, the happy couple will make their home in Roxbury.

HOUSE WARMING.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Grant were given a house warming Saturday evening by a large number of their friends at their new house on Elm place. Mr. and Mrs. Grant, who have been boarding since their marriage, having decided to commence housekeeping, have taken a new house on Elm place and here their friends gathered. The evening proved to be one of rare enjoyment to all. There was a pleasing musical program consisting of both vocal and instrumental music. Mrs. Grant contributed several pleasing vocal solos. Various games were enjoyed and refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Grant received many pleasing gifts from their friends which will serve to help beautify their home.

Mr. Grant who is employed at the Fore River shipyard was also pleasantly remembered by his fellow workmen. Mrs. Grant who before her marriage was employed at Jordan Marsh & Co., at Boston, was also remembered by employes from that store, several of whom were present.

TRIPLETS DOING WELL.

Mr. John F. Wentworth had a large number of callers on Sunday, and several were permitted to view the triplets born Nov. 11, as they slept peacefully side by side crosswise in ordinary crib. All three are flourishing and Mrs. Wentworth is also doing nicely. Mr. Wentworth had considerable courage on Sunday to attend church at Bethany Congregational, and everybody wanted to shake his hand three times. A large number of men have enjoyed a good smoke on the triplets.

BRIEFS

Wadsworth & Co., are making a specialty of Thanksgiving linen.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans, hold a whist party at G. A. R. hall tomorrow afternoon.

Maple lodge, K. & L. of H., are to hold a whist party on Wednesday evening at Protection hall to be followed by dancing.

The Quincy markets are quite active just now and are getting out the buyers. Each day special inducements are advertised in the Ledger and big sales are the result.

George Kiernan who is to give a reading from Rip Van Winkle tonight at the Quincy Mansion school is a most talented public reader and is booked to appear in the principal cities at many women's clubs.

The intermediates of tre Y. M. C. A. were defeated by the Lynn Employed Boys Saturday afternoon by a score of 35 to 27. Trask of the Quincy team had his nose twisted and one of the Lynn players sprained his ankle.

Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus gives a talk on Italian art tomorrow afternoon at First church chapel for members and friends of the Quincy Women's club. It will be illustrated by stereopticon. Club and guest tickets will be necessary for admission.

James Duncan, secretary-treasurer of the Granite Cutters' Union ,and first vice president of the American Federation of labor, is one of the delegates to the National convention of the A. F. of L., which begins its sessions at St. Louis this week.

It is hoped there will be a large attendance tomorrow morning at the charities conference at the Women's club-house as Miss Higgins is a speaker who will have much to say of interest to Quincy people. The meeting is called for 10.30 and the public is not only invited but urged to attend.

DR. EVERETT'S BOOKS

Two Valuable Libraries to Be Sold This Week

Book lovers, as well as the many former pupils of Dr. William Everett, are to be given an opportunity to possess one or more of the valuable books contained in his library at Quincy, as they are to be sold at auction Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday by C. F. Libbie & Co., at 597 Washington street, Boston.

Not only are the books of Dr. Everett's library to be sold, but those of his late father the Hon. Edward Everett as well. These two libraries contained many rare and valuable books including a copy of Eliot's Indian Bible. This is the finest copy of the rare first edition that has been offered for many years.

In addition to this there are Greek and Roman classics, political histories, autographs and manuscripts of lectures and novels by Dr. Everett, Broadsides, Literary addresses, seven volumes of the original edition with colored plates of Audubon birds, early voyages of Ramusio, rare State histories and historical publications without number.

It is well known that Dr. Everett had one of largest and most valuable private libraries in the State and now trat trey are to be put on sale a fine opportunity will be had to possess one or more volumes of his favorite books.

McGREGOR VICTORY

Fore River Game With Americans Postponed

The game between the Fore Rivers and the Boston Americans scheduled for Saturday did not take place at Quincy Point.

At Brockton the McGregors of Quincy won from the Brockton team 2 to 1. Malcolm's great work at goal accounted largely for the small score of the home team.

KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO

Man Rushed Across Street to Take a Car

There came near being a fatal automobile accident this morning on the Weymouth side of the Quincy Point bridge. As it was Narcisse Goldbrou is at the Massachusetts General Hospital suffering from a fractured right arm and leg. Mr. Goldbrou, who resides on Bridge street, came out of his home shortly before 8 o'clock to take a car for his work. The car was approaching as he came out of the house, and he started to run across the street to the car and evidently did not see the fast approaching automobile. The automobile struck him a violent blow throwing him quite a distance. Dr. Drake of North Weymouth was called, and found that the man had a fractured arm and leg. He was removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital in an ambulance. The automobile is said to have been owned by a Mr. Fearing of Dorchester, and the accident was unavoidable.

WOLLASTON WIN.

A touchdown by McDonald won a victory for Wollaston A. A. over the Arcadia A. C. team on Saturday at Merrymount park. Carlson Woods and Gourlie also did great work for the home team. It was a close hard-fought game.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS
FOR MOTHER AND FATHER

Silver Eyeglass Cases.

A silver eyeglass case would be a happy offering either to father or mother. If father is to receive the case a black leather affair with his monogram done in silver on one side would be most appropriate. Mother would doubtless rather have an all silver case. If the head of the house goes in for athletics give him a golf bag—the one he has may be worn out—or a dozen golf balls and perhaps a new putter; if he's fond of bridge or whist, some packs of handsome cards; watch fob or a brass desk set—and in plain dull brass they're stunning. For the motorist there are auto records and if money's no object piano players and talking machines are on the market waiting for a purchaser.

A Nut Set For Mother.

Mother would be pleased with a set of six paper ice cream cups covered with red crape paper and tied with red ribbon and a spray of holly. These, filled with homemade salted peanuts or candy, would make a charming addition to the Christmas dinner table.

—It can't be possible that this new law affecting drinking cups and other receptacles really abolishes the "old oaken bucket!" It is true, of course, that in several towns of the state the well and its bucket are still in public use, and a man with an inordinate thirst prefers the bucket to the tin cup that generally accompanies it. But for sentiment's sake somebody should have been shrewd enough, when the law was enacted, to exempt the well-sweep from the clutches of scientific progress. Hail to the disappearance of the public drinking cup, but "weeps" for the exiled oaken bucket!—Lowell Courier-Citizen

LOAN ORDERS OF COUNCIL

May Be Turned Down by Boston Brokers

It is very doubtful if any attempt is made tonight at the adjourned meeting of the City Council to pass the two street loan orders over which the Council has wrangled for several weeks, it being generally conceded to be wise to await the fate of the $19,000 street loan order.

This order was passed last week by a 15 vote which the City Solicitor had ruled was sufficient. Mayor Shea promptly signed the order and City Treasurer Curtis promptly put it up to the bankers, who immediately referred it to their counsel to pass upon. Should they rule it not legally passed it would be useless to pass any more loans by a fifteen vote.

Nothing had been heard from the bankers up to Saturday, and City Treasurer Curtis said that he did not expect definite word before late today or Tuesday. It would therefore be just as well for the City Council to await the outcome of this order before passing any more in the same way.

The general opinion among those who have looked into the matter is that the bankers will turn the order down, on the ground that it would establish a bad precedent.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

Temperance Sunday was observed in the service yesterday morning. Short addresses were given by Mr. Lundin and the pastor. The Sunday school united with the church in the service and contributed much to the program. Alice Gustafson and Alice Nelson of Bethel Beach gave recitations, Miss Ella Verme's class sang and an orchestra led by Mr. Hellstrom played several very fine selections. In the orchestra Chester Moyle, Carl Ahlstrom and John Sterne played violins and Miss Ella Verme played a guitar. A large map of the country was hung in the front of the church. The prohibition states were indicated by flags. The states which had local option were pointed out also.

The meeting was largely attended both by children and adults.

The pastor went to Norwood to preach in the evening and Mr. Lundin ,the superintendent of the Sunday school, took charge of the evening service.

The Sunday school teachers meeting will be held Tuesday evening from 7 to 8. The choir will rehearse the same evening from 8 to 9.

The King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. Gus Weeden, Albertina street, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The regular prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening.

The Busy Workers will meet with Miss Agnetta Hedman, Common street Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

SWEDISH METHODIST.

All the services were well attended yesterday. At the evening service there was special music consisting of solos and selections by the male chorus.

The Epworth League meeting was especially helpful to the young people.

The three days fair which was concluded Saturday evening left the ladies of the church tired but happy over the great success of their enterprise.

The regular prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

A communion service followed the regular service yesterday. A large congregation was present for divine worship. The Sunday school had an exceptionally large attendance including quite a number of children from families outside the church.

The Dorcas society will meet with Mrs. Christina Nilsen, Granite street, on Tuesday.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM.

At the evening service Rev. Edmund S. Rousmainere of St. Paul's church, Boston preached a very able sermon.

Mr. T. Parker and Mrs. H. J. Landry were chosen delegates to the Sunday school union meeting.

The choir entertainment will be held Wednesday evening at 7.45.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Rev. Joseph Walther, pastor of the Wollaston Baptist church, took for his text Sunday morning, Luke 18: 14—Subject—"Self Exaltation and Self Abasement." "For everyone that exalteth himself shall be abased, but he that rumbleth himself shall be exalted."

Men are apt to be very proud over their own achievements. The man who is morally up-right and good and generally respected in the community, but who it not a Christian, needs to be careful about Self Exaltation. The prevailing temptation is to compare himself with some weak Christian in the church who has failed.

We read that "Pride goetr before a fall." Sometime God has permitted us to all, to go into distress that self exaltation might be taken away from us. Sometimes we are passed by and an honor bestowed on someone else when we thought surely it would be ours.

CHRIST CHURCH.

The confirmation address yesterday evening was on the subject: "The Character and the Moral Law."

The Woman's Guild hold a work meeting Wednesday afternoon at 2.30.

The Men's Club debate will take place Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Miss Edith Stedman will address the members of St. Margaret's Guild at their meeting Friday at 7.30.

NOT THE SAME MAN.

A thin, nervous looking man stepped up to the pastor as the latter came down from the pulpit.

"You have had a good deal to say this morning," he observed, "about a feller that killed a man named Abel."

"Certainly," replied the pastor. "'The Sin of Cain' was the subject of my discourse."

"I wish you'd do me the favor next Sunday," said the thin man, in some excitement, "to tell the folks that the man you were talking about this morning, ain't no relation to the Kane that keeps a livery stable down by the mill. I don't want none of my friends to think that I had a hand in that killing. That's all. Good-day!"—Exchange.

—Better begin your holiday shopping. It won't be many days before the rush will be on and then assortments will be broken. Shop early should be the aim of every woman.

BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

Quincy Adams People Want a Few Expresses

South Quincy residents appeared before the Railroad Commissioners this morning in the interest of better train service from Quincy, particularly from the Quincy Adams station. The patrons of this station claim that while Quincy has 17 express trains there are but 3 or 4 which stop at Quincy Adams so that the majority of its trains are of the huckleberry variety.

The hearing was attended by a large delegation from Quincy including Mayor Shea.

John L. Miller was the spokesman for the petitioners, and he started off by referring to the depot, which years ago he said was a shed for hogs and cattle, later it was turned into a depot. Mr. Miller then dwelt at length upon the growth of this section of the city, which was being discriminated against. There were many visitors to the "Adams Houses" and many people who visited the granite industry, who objected to waiting for a long time for a train at such a station.

The petitioners wanted no new trains, but that present express trains should stop as follows: Inward express trains at 9 A. M., 1.10 and 7.04 P. M.; outward express trains at 9.45 A. M. 12.40, 2.45 and 4.03 P. M., also that the 11.30 P. M. train stop at Quincy Adams.

Supt. Martin of the railroad replied that the timetable was made up and could not be changed. That it took no longer between Quincy Adams and Boston now than a year ago.

REGISTRATION

CITY OF QUINCY

For the purpose of correcting the Annual Register of voters, and of reserving evidence of qualifications from persons claiming a right to vote at the coming City Election, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session in the Council Chamber in the City Hall building on the evening of

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10,

from 7.30 to 9 o'clock, also on

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 16,

from 12 M., to 10 o'clock P. M.

Every applicant for registration must appear in person before the Board. Every male applicant must present either a certificate from the Assessors, or a Tax bill or notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed a Poll Tax as a resident of the city on the first day of April last, or a certificate from the Assessors that he became a resident of the city prior to June 6, 1910. If a naturalized citizen, he must produce for inspection his papers of naturalization.

Persons who have lived in the State one year and in the city six months previous to December 6, if qualified in other respects, can be registered.

No names can be added to the registers except the names of voters examined as to their qualifications between the thirtieth day of April last and the close of registration on Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 10 o'clock P. M. The Board of Assessors will be in session at their office during the same hours.

Nominees Today for Mayoralty of the City

Polls opened at 12 o'clock today in all wards of the city for the Municipal joint caucuses, to nominate candidates for Mayor, the City Council and School Committee, but during the first two hours the voting was extremely light. Each party is entitled to nominate a candidate for Mayor, five candidates at large for the City Council, and three candidates in each wards for the City Council; also a member of the School Committee at large, and a member of the School Committee in Wards One, Two and Three.

There is seemingly but little interest in the caucuses today as far as the Mayoralty question is concerned, for with no contest by either party for Mayor it is a foregone conclusion that Ralph W. Hobbs, president of the City Council, will be the Republican standard bearer, and that Mayor Shea will again lead the Democratic and Independent forces. Both gentlemen are well versed in the affairs of the city.

President Hobbs has been a member of the City Council for a number of years serving on all the important committees before he became the President of that body. He has made a study of the many financial problems that have come up, particularly during the current year, and during the campaign that will follow today's caucuses it is probable that he will have much to say on this all-important question. While the general public has been made acquainted in a way with the finances through the report of the expert accountant employed by Mayor Shea, and the work of the special committee on financial investigation, of which President Hobbs was chairman, it is probable that the meat of these reports will be set before the citizens in a manner that all can understand.

Mayor Shea will stand on his record for the past three years. While his election the first year did not take place until after a hard-fought political battle, his election the past two years has been almost without effort. When he took office his slogan was for a non-partisan administration, and his host of friends claim that he has lived up to that slogan. Increased pluralities in his second and third year seemed to indicate that the great mass of voters were satisfied that he had made good, and it has not unfrequently been said that he could be Mayor as long as he desired. During the past two years he has made some enemies in his own party by keeping aloft from taking any part in the State campaigns, but what he lost there he more than gained by recruits from the Republican ranks.

Three terms has been all that any Mayor in the past has served and ex-Mayors Fairbanks, Bryant and Thompson were the only ones aside from Mayor Shea to serve for a third term. It is therefore something new for a mayor to seek a fourth term and the outcome of the coming struggle will be awaited with interest.

Although the polls for the joint caucus opened at noon today there was no excitement about the polls and a stranger would have little cause to think that a caucus was in progress. This was not unexpected, as no great rush was anticipated at any of the polling places during the afternoon

PRESIDENT HOBBS.

A BOSTON COUNTY

Is Favored by Brookline Editor for Greater Boston

The editor of the Brookline Press agrees with the editor of the Daily Ledger in recommending a new Boston county for the government of Metropolitan Boston. A. S. Arthur writes as follows:

"The impression obtains in Boston, as well as in some of the towns in so-called Greater Boston that Brookline is "agin" annexation to Boston by whatever plan proposed and from purely selfish motives. I feel justified in saying that this is far from being a true consensus of opinion existing in Brookline.

"Brookline is justly proud of its simple democratic form of government and proud of what the citizens have seen fit to expend in improvements for the public weal. Our town government is admirably managed by trusty servants.

"For this reason is it any wonder that the citizens rise en masse and close the gate when the proposition approaches which, if accepted, would sound the knell of individual independence?

"Brookline, however, takes a broad view of the problem and, it is safe to say, would welcome a "Metropolitan Boston council' similar in scope to that outlined by the March G Bennett bill.

"My opinion however, is that the same or better results would follow the uniting of all the municipalities under consideration into one county, to be known as Boston county. Now they are components of several counties, while for obvious reasons every distinct burg would be better served were the business of the courts, etc, centered in Boston. This I offer simply as a suggestion for those who are

NEW INDUSTRY FOR CITY OF QUINCV

Corporation Capitalized at $100,000 Will Build Monoplanes and Biplanes

Will Also Conduct a School to Teach Navigation

A Boston paper says New England's first school for aviators is soon to be established on the aviation field at Quincy, made famous by the recent Harvard-Boston aero meet. The school will be under the control of H. Angus Conners, the Boston man who has made several successful aeroplane flights in a biplane of his own invention at Meredith, N. H.

Associated with Mr. Conners are several of Boston's leading automobile dealers, who are forming a $100,000 corporation, $25,000 of the capital stock being already paid in. Mr. Conners has purchased the "Banshee," the Curtiss biplane used by Charles F. Willard, the Melrose boy who holds the world's passenger and wheel accuracy records, and plans not only to teach the science of the navigation of the upper air, but also to build both monoplanes and biplanes.

Negotiations are already under way for the rental of the magnificent aerodrome on the shores of Dorchester bay, and builders will soon be at work erecting a large wooden hangar and workshop. The field is being plowed and harrowed preparatory to levelling it and putting it into first-class condition.

The date of opening the school is not yet ready for announcement, nor are the prices and complete details of the curriculum. In addition to the Curtiss machines, it is expected there will be machines of the leading types for pupils' practise.

The Conners school will be the second in America, the other being at the Mineola, L. I., aerodrome, where many prominent Manhattanites are learning the operation of biplanes and monoplanes.

Mr. Conners has been an enthusiast on aeronautics since 1904, and has made several balloon flights with Leo Stevens of New York. In an ascension at North Adams Aug. 25, 1907 Stevens and Conners were caught in a whirlwind and were tossed about for several hours, finally landing but a few miles from where the ascension was made. He built a biplane modeled along the lines of the Farman, and made his first successful flight over the ice of Lake Winnipasaukee Feb. 1, 1910.

Manager Adams D. Claflin of the Harvard-Boston aero meet said Saturday that while plans for the subrental of the field were not entirely concluded, matters were progressing favorably and he believed the school would be in operation in a very short time.

OVER 8,500 TONS.

Returns from the two railroad shipping terminals for the month of October show that the amount of rough and finished granite shipped that month to have been 17,047,595 pounds, an increase of 5,200,804 pounds over the previous month. The October figures were: Quincy Adams, 7,827,362 pounds; West Quincy 9,220,233 pounds. A total of over 8,500 tons.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Politics won't meddle with business for a day or two, anyhow.

Explain, and the world laughs at you.

Aviation will soon be dropped as a front-page feature and turned over to the sporting editor.

Evidently the Massachusetts Democrats had a hunch that this time the nomination was worth fighting for.

Now that it is all over, you can look in the shop windows and notice that Thanksgiving and Christmas are not far away.

It was suggested at the last meeting of the Merchants' Association, by one of the speakers, that Quincy should endeavor to secure the establishment of aeroplane industries. Now it seems that such an enterprise was then well underway and will be capitalized for $100,000. Thus Quincy grows and flourishes.

Boston has 176,288 persons who were assessed this year for poll tax only. The total number of persons, firms, corporations, etc., assessed was but 66,551, about one in four of the taxpayers. Less horses and less dwelling houses were assessed in 1910 than in 1909, there being 15,833 horses and 68,590 houses. The number of acres of land assessed was 17,193, where Quincy has 6,689. Boston has 454 cows, 176 less than in 1909, and 255 less than Quincy.

The comparison of the finances of Quincy, Everett, Taunton and Fitchburg in the Daily Ledger of Monday is worthy of a careful study, having been prepared by the Bureau of Statistics of the State. All the cities are larger than Quincy by the census of 1905 and 1910, yet a larger revenue is raised annually in Quincy. We raise more in taxes than Everett or Taunton, but less than Fitchburg. We receive a smaller corporation tax than all three. Our water receipts are over $21,000 in excess of Everett, over $30,000 in excess of Fitchburg and over $100,000 in excess of Taunton.

Quincy's recipts by loans are largely in excess of each of the three cities, in fact larger for "general purposes" than either two together. Everett did not negotiate any loan for public service enterprises, but Taunton raised $25,000, Quincy $30,000 and Fitchburg $80,000. Quincy's temporary loans were in excess of Everett and Taunton, but less than Fitchburg.

The total payments of Quincy for the year were $1,416,294.01, largely in excess of Everett and Taunton, but a little less than the $1,471,184.73 in Fitchburg.

For "current charges against revenue" Quincy led all the cities, but this was because Quincy paid more toward debt and interest than all three cities put together. They however contributed from $11,000 to $66,000 toward sinking funds while Quincy contributed nothing. The payments of Quincy for "outlays" were $269,407.47, while Taunton paid but $109,352.08, Fitchburg but $107,818.54 and Everett but $71,919.39.

The report of the Bureau of Statistics has many summaries as to municipal finances which will be touched upon later by the Daily Ledger.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Many people seem to regard the political work of the newspaper as an effort to boss the voters and control elections. Nothing could be more absurd. The newspaper is under tacit understanding with its readers, both to print the news and to discuss politics. All such discussion, if fair, is a public service. It is only thus that public questions get thorough consideration. Often when the newspaper has a friendly regard for both candidates, it would be much pleasanter to keep out of the scrap. But the newspaper that does that loses public respect.

If an honest conviction has been frankly stated by a newspaper, it wins general respect from tolerant minded men. In addition to that, the public has read its utterances with interested attention. The good newspaper man asks little more than that. These ends achieved, his work, professionally speaking, is well done, whether his candidates win or lose.—Beverly Times.

DAY NURSERY HELPERS.

The list of contributors to the "Provision Shower" given by the Bethany Ladies Circle last Wednesday is given below. The ladies were unusually generous this year although in previous years it was thought that little more could be desired. That the children and those in charge of the nursery will be well supplied during the winter goes without saying and increased comfort and a more attractive home will go with the abundance of provisions.

The contributors:

Mrs. Herman McIntire box of butter; Mrs. McFarlane, tapioca, cracked wheat and jelly; Mrs. Walter F. Rice, 5 pounds sugar and corn flakes; Mrs. Frank Davis, apples and corn; Mrs. J. F. Welch, 4 cans of cocoa and fancy crackers; Mrs. Kribbs, $1; Mrs. W. E. Alden, $1; Mrs. A. Hill, Atlantic, peck of potatoes, cream of wheat, 5 pounds sugar; Mrs. Francis Abele and son, apples and crackers; Mrs. C. W. Guy, cracked wheat; Mrs. W. G. Shaw, crackers; Mrs. Julia Little, pictures; Miss Marcia Hatch, $1; Mrs. W. F. Arnold picture books; Mrs. Annie Badger, rice; Mrs. A. C. Stanley, pail of lard and jelly; Mrs. C. M. Bryant, 1 dozen cans tomatoes; Mrs. Thomas Fenno, box of apples; Mrs. Pfaffmann $1.

In addition to these gifts a number of friends from Wollaston sent over a large basket of provisions and some money. The donors were: Mrs. Arthur Sibley, Mrs. E. L. Gannett, Mrs. E. J. Houge, Mrs. T. S. Bailey, Mrs. J. H. Johnston, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Chandler Smith, Mrs. J. S. Whiting, Mrs. Gorham Nickerson; Mrs. Russell; Mrs. N. G. Nickerson; Mrs. W. G. Curtis; Mrs. Mary S. Taylor, Mrs. Edward Badger, Mrs. Wellington Record, Mrs. Corthell and Mrs. Joseph Lewis.

The matron, Mrs. Loring, it at a loss for words to express her appreciation of the generosity of the contributors. There are 30 children being cared for at the Nursery each day and by means of all these provisions, many needs can be attended to all through the winter.

Mrs. Loring would like to thank each lady in person but since that is impossible she is doing the next best thing in thanking them through the paper. Provisions, money and the other useful gifts came as a veritable shower of blessings to all those who will participate in the enjoyment of them.

TOLSTOI DEAF TO PLEADINGS

Russian Novelist Will Continue His Self Imposed Exile

STORY OF HIS PILGRIMAGE

Clad In Peasant's Suit of Rough Material and Wears High Boots—Still Accompanied by His Physician—Unexpectedly Leaves Convent Where He Was Guest of His Sister—May Go to Colony of His Disciples

Moscow, Nov. 15.—Count Tolstoi, the self-exiled novelist and philosopher, in the sanctuary of a monastery, spurned the pleas of his wife and refused to return to his home. Pathetic appeal was made by his daughter, Alexandra, who followed her father to the monastery, but the count refused to yield.

Count Tolstoi's family will make no further effort to induce him to abandon his self-imposed exile and return to the peasant hut at Yasnaya Poliana which he secretly deserted last Thursday with the avowed purpose of spending the remainder of his days in solitude. His wishes are sacred to the countess, who, however, has sent a message to her husband imploring that she be permitted to join him and share the hardships which he is determined to experience.

Little by little the story of the author's pilgrimage to date has become known. In company with his physician, Dr. Makovetsky, he went from Tula to the ancient cloister of Shamardino in the province of Kaluga, where he was the guest of his sister Marie. The latter for many years has been a nun in the cloister which was founded 500 years ago. The nuns mingle with the world, devoting themselves to good works.

On the way to Shamardino Count Tolstoi stopped over night at the monastery of Optina. Before entering the place he announced:

"I am the excommunicated and the anathematized Leo Tolstoi. Is there any objection to my staying here?"

The reply was: "It is both a duty and a pleasure to offer you shelter."

Tolstoi spent the day in the discussion of religious subjects with an aged monk, whom he met on a visit to the monastery seventeen years ago. The following morning the count resumed his pilgrimage. He is clad in a peasant's suit of rough material and wears high boots.

Count Tolstoi and Makovetsky unexpectedly left Shamardino yesterday afternoon, announcing that they were going to Moscow. However, they left the train upon which they started at a junction and boarded another train for the south. It is conjectured that the count intends to join the colony of Tolstoians in Caucasia.

The Petersburger Zeitung publishes a statement from an intimate friend of the Tolstoi family to the effect that Tolstoi's decision to seek solitude was impelled by the disagreeable relations between the peasants on his Yasnaya Poliana estate and Countess Tolstoi and her second son, to whom the count deeded his estate. The countess recently introduced high land rent and secured cheap labor and followed the ordinary commercial methods to raise revenue.

Count Tolstoi was severely tried by this procedure and was often driven to tears as he observed the increase of poverty and beggary in villages which formerly were well-to-do. He was further aggravated by disputes which arose over his refusal to copyright an unpublished novel for which he was offered a large sum of money.

That Tolstoi intends to seek refuge with the Doukhobors in Canada is the report from St. Petersburg by a news agency at London. The Doukhobors follow the teachings of the aged philosopher.

Countess Tolstoi at her home at Yasnaya Poliana is in a state of collapse. She declares that Tolstoi's mind had been wrecked by the machinations of the Russian government.

DIRECTED AT CLERKS

Charges of Brutality In Poor Department of Boston

Boston, Nov. 15.—Charges to the effect that some of the employes of the city's overseers of the poor department are using brutal and threatening methods to collect payments for treatment at the City hospital, were made by Councillor Curley at a meeting of the city council.

After Curley had scored these methods at length, the council passed an order requesting the mayor to make an investigation.

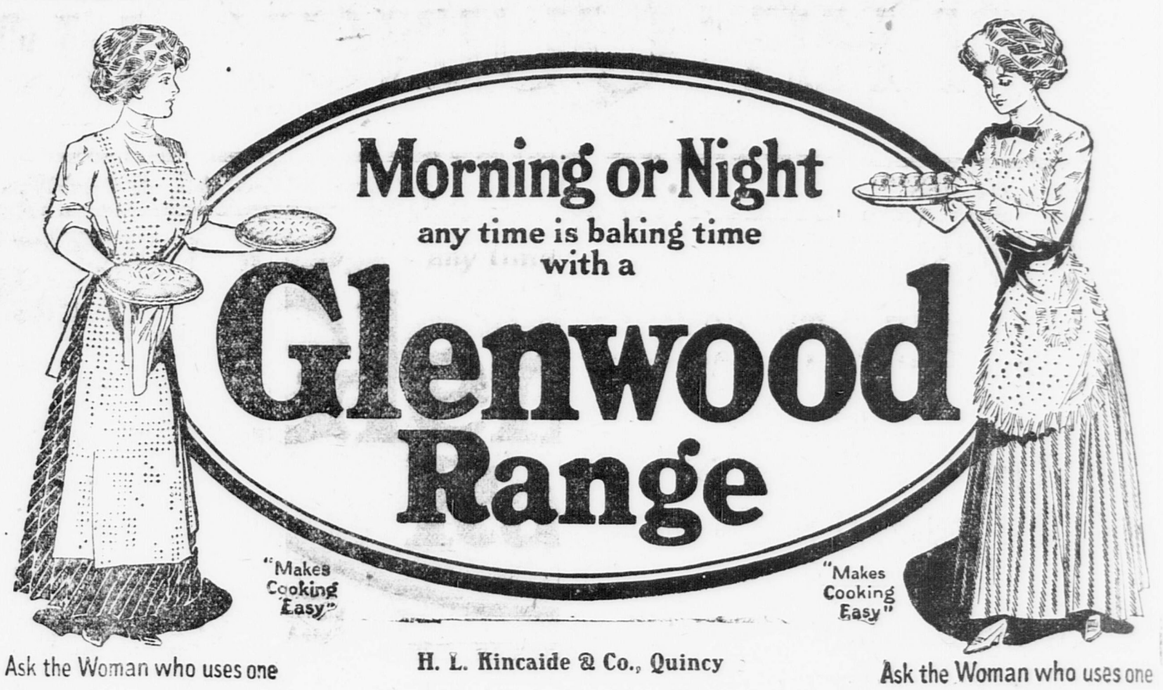

Curley's criticisms were directed at the settlement clerks of the overseers of the poor.

CALLS AWARD EXCESSIVE

Lawyer Appleton Will Fight Jury's Decision Against Him

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 15.—Claiming that the jury's verdict of $20,000 awarded to Miss Sadie Waters, a stenographer, in her suit of breach of promise against Lawyer Frank A. Appleton of Boston, was excessive and against the weight of evidence, John S. Richardson, attorney for Appleton, gave notice at the clerk of court's office that he would appeal.

In his notice of appeal Richardson gave as his reasons the excessive verdict, the lack of evidence on the part of the plaintiff and the influencing of the jury by an interview published in a Boston paper.

Miss Waters was a stenographer in the office of Appleton, and sued him for $20,000, claiming that he had promised to marry her, but failed.

CALF FEEDS ON CASH

Veterinary Extracts Mutilated Bills From the Bovine's Stomach

Spartanburg, S. C., Nov. 15.—While going milking, Mrs. Luther Calvert, who lives at Clinton, dropped a pocketbook containing five twenty-dollar bills, a ten and a five and three ones, besides a silver quarter. The money was missed an hour later and thorough search revealed the quarter, which showed signs of having been chewed upon by a calf.

A young heifer in the yard had a guilty look and a veterinary surgeon was summoned. The roll was extricated from the stomach of the calf in a badly mutilated condition. The bills were taken to a local bank cashier, who sent them to Washington to be redeemed.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Quincy People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Quincy cures are the proof.

Mrs. J. Boyle, 8 Marsh St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and can say they are unequaled for curing kidney disorders. They built up my system and in six weeks, freed me from kidney complaint from which I had suffered for a long time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster—Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

HANDS AROUND.

Judd Mortimer Lewis

A little bit of laughter,
A little bit of song,
A little bit of frolic,
How it helps the world along!
A little bit of kindness,
A word of hearty cheer—
Oh, hands around, my brothers,
The little while we're here.

A little of good fellowship,
A little "go and win,"
To the man that's on the ladder,
To the fellow going in.
A smile of consolation,
A word of hearty cheer
To the fallen one, my brothers—
It isn't long we're here.

A helping hand to raise him,
To put him on the mend—
Oh, just a hand to help him,
It isn't much to lend.
A step or two beside him
Until his way is clear,
A godspeed at the parting—
It isn't long we're here.

A stooping by the wayside
To train a wayward bloom,
A light a-down the pathway
To lighten up the gloom:
A song and double shuffle,
A ringing laugh and clear—
Oh, hands around, my brothers,
The little while we'er here!

WHIST AND DANCING PARTY

Given Under the Auspices of Catholic Club

Seldom has there been a prettier party than that which assembled for whist and dancing given by the ladies of the Quincy Catholic club Monday evening at Alpha and Union halls. Many exquisite gowns were worn by the ladies their various colors blending into a picture that was pretty to look upon.

From 8.30 to 10.30 there was whist in Union hall, and in this some thirty tables participated. It was in charge of Mrs. Edward J. Murphy, vice president of the club, who was assisted by Miss Esther Dasha, Miss Alice Mahoney, Miss Anna Heaney, Miss Carmel Brogan, Miss Helen Brogan, Miss Stella Brown, Miss Agnes Reardon and Miss Emily Dinegan. The contest for supremacy was a keen one, and at the conclusion it was announced that souvenirs for the best scores had been awarded to Mrs. J. J. McAnarney Miss Bouchard, Miss Bertha Trepanier, Mrs. E. D. Barrett, George Bliss, Joseph A. Dasha, Andrew McPherson, and Edward Sullivan. The souveniers were very handsome and the winners were the envy of all. The consolation prize a bouquet of handsome yellow chrysanthemums was awarded to Mrs. G. T. Magee. Frappe was served during the entire evening in this hall.

While the whist was in progress those whose taste led them to the upper hall enjoyed dancing to the inspiring music of Cuff's orchestra. The dancing opened with a german and the more modern dancing prevailed until the conclusion of the whist when several square dances were introduced into the program.

Lawrence W. Lyons was the floor director of the dance, and he was assisted by George B. Gavin, Edward J. Murphy, D. J. Deasy, T. J. Dunphy, J. A. Doyle, Charles C. Hearn, John W. Walsh, Leo J. McMaster, J. J. Deasey, Edward L. Bean, J. J. McAnarney, R. E. McDonnell, William J. Carey, E. D. Barrett, W. E. Elcock, W. L. Russell and W. J. Biganess. Their distinguishing mark was a yellow sash, the club colors.

The patrons of the party were: Hon. William T. Shea, John W. McAnarney, Thomas H. McDonnell, Henry McGrath, John H. Dinegan, Eugene W. O'Connor, Dr. George M. Sheahan, Edward J. Parker, Dr. Daniel B. Reardon, Dr. James H. Mahoney, Dr. C. J. Lynch, Frank F. O'Rielly, John A. McGowan, E. J. Fegan, Dr. J. P. Murphy, Michael T. Sullivan, Robert E. Foy, John Heney, John Lyons, John O'Hara Joseph D. Griffin, Michael J. Walsh, Maurice P. Spillane, P. F. Talbot, G. B. Powers, Timothy J. Collins, T. J. O'Connell and John Mahon.

Much credit for the success of the party was due to the untiring efforts of the president of the club, Miss Mary L. Gavin, who was ably assisted by the officers of the club.

VANDALS IN QUARRIES.

It was reported this morning that vandals had been at work Monday evening on Quarry street, and that they had done considerable damage. Their particular feat of vandalism seemed to be the smashing of windows in some of the office buildings. At the office of John Fallon & Son the shutter was pulled off and the windows smashed, and at the office of C. H. Hardwick & Co., all of the windows were smashed. The windows in the office of Falconer & Co., were also smashed. It looks as though the work was more in the nature of pure devilry than anything else.

VIOLATION OF LIQUOR LAW

Liquor "Ads" on Billboards Are So Regarded

The Women's Christian Temperance Union of Quincy has taken up the cudgel against the liquor signs that occupy conspicuous places on some of the bill boards in Quincy. The city is a No-License city, and it seems like a slap in the face to have whiskey and beer "Ads." set forth in bold type on the billboards erected on the public thoroughfares of the city. It is claimed that these liquor advertisements are in violation of the law. The liquor law among other things prohibits the soliciting of liquor sales in an unlicensed city like Quincy, and it is claimed that liquor "Ads" on billboards are soliciting sales of the particular brand of liquor advertised.

It is understood that the owners of these billboards have been given an opportunity to remove these objectionable advertisements, but up to the present time nothing has been done.

The next step that the Women's Christian Temperance Union will take is said to be to apply for warrants against the parties for violation of the liquor law, by soliciting sale of liquor in an unlicensed city.

A GUNNER BOLD.

Percy deRochemont of Upland road, who has been at Wonolancet, N. H., for the past fortnight, returned on Monday much improved in health. He brought back with him a large buck deer which is the admiration of his friends who are however skeptical and ask too many questions. For instance they insist on knowing whether the hunter bold brought down his game with lead or silver shot. Now we wonder which?

MISS EVELEEN McGRATH.

The funeral of Miss Eveleen H. McGrath, daughter of Mr. William H. and Mrs. Mary G. McGrath, who died Saturday evening at her home 213 Willard street after a lingering illness, was held from her late home this morning being followed by a high mass of requiem at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church.

Rev. Henry T. Grady was the celebrant and the Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir under the direction of Miss Mary McKay organist. Mrs. James L. Fennessey sang "Domini Jesu" at the elevation, and Mrs. Louis Walters and Miss Rena Bizzozero sang "De Profundus" at the libera.

The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery, the bearers being, Stephen McGrath, Paul McGrath, Philip McGrath, Charles McGrath, William Corcoran and Jirald Paolucci. E. L. Bean was the director.

Miss McGrath who was in her 20th year, was very popular with the young people at West Quincy and the many and beautiful floral tributes at her funeral testified in a measure to their high regard for her.

Do—Say.

Two brothers once lived down this way,
And one was Do and one was Say.
If streets were dirty, taxes high
Or schools too crowded, Say would cry,
"Lord, what a town!" but Brother Do
Would set to work to make things new.

And while Do worked Say still would cry:
"He does it wrong. I know that I Could do it right." So all the day
Was heard the clack of Brother Say.
But this one fact from none was hid:
Say Always talked; Do always did.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

FOR BUSINESS MEN

MAN'S KIT BAG.

A fitted kit bag—what man doesn't long for one? There is no risk to be run for a woman buying one of these traveling necessities if she goes to a reliable shop—no such risk as in purchasing cigars, neckties and the like.

The kit bag pictured is in English russet leather and is sheep lined and fitted with ebony military brushes, comb and whisp, hook, file and scissors, flask and toothbrush tube, tooth powder bottle, soap box and cologne flask, with fine nickel tops. Fitted it costs $35 and unfitted $19. Cheaper bags are, of course, to be had that answer the same purpose, but they are not nearly so good looking.

Cannon to Hold Cigars.

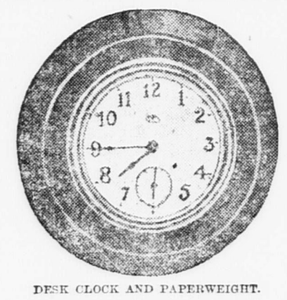

The woman in search of a useful Christmas gift for husband or brother need not ponder further if the man to be pleased is a smoker.

Some attractive articles in brass answer the question for her. One of these represents a mortar mounted on a gun carriage. It is eight inches in length, six in height, and by means of the sturdy wheels can be conveniently moved around the table where several are enjoying the fragrant weed together. The mouth of the cannon is designed to hold cigars, while elsewhere are attached match safe and ash receiver.

Another new arrival worth describing is a well made brass box for cigars or cigarettes, according to the size of the box selected. There is a drawer in the bottom divided off into compartments for matches, etc. This is mechanically connected with the lid, so that when the former is raised the latter slides out of itself, closing mechanically too. In the cigar size this box costs $10. A smaller one, for cigarettes, sells at $3.

Gift For the Newspaper Man.

For the news editor or for the business man whose time is divided into an allotted space nothing could possibly be more practical and at the same time more attractive in appearance than a desk clock and paperweight. This little clock comes either framed in gun metal for $4.25 or in silver at the same price. The diameter is three and one-eighth inches.

Comfort For the Weary Man.

When the business man gets home at night after a hard day's work the first thing he wants is a good dinner, the next a good cigar, and probably the third move will be toward the couch for forty winks before he is wide awake enough to hear about the cook who, etc., and the children's naughty ways, etc. So give him a cushion for his weary head to rest upon. Stenciled designs on tapestry, linen or leather are much admired. There should be no fussiness about a man's cushion, and don't make it at home, for the shops are full of attractive cushions that are as cheap as any woman can make.

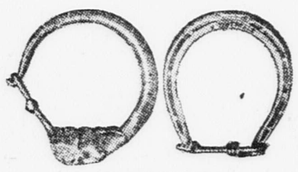

For the Average Man.

If the lawyer of the family needs a new brief case get him one for Christmas. Shaving stands are fine presents for men who shave themselves. Handy bill folds may be bought from 50 cents up. Riding crops for the man who rides horseback, playing cards of some odd design or a cribbage board are all fine things to give the masculine sex.

Silk slumber robes or bathrobes make useful presents, and a half dozen initial handkerchiefs with the new slim drop letters are not to be overlooked.

The Latest Key Rings.

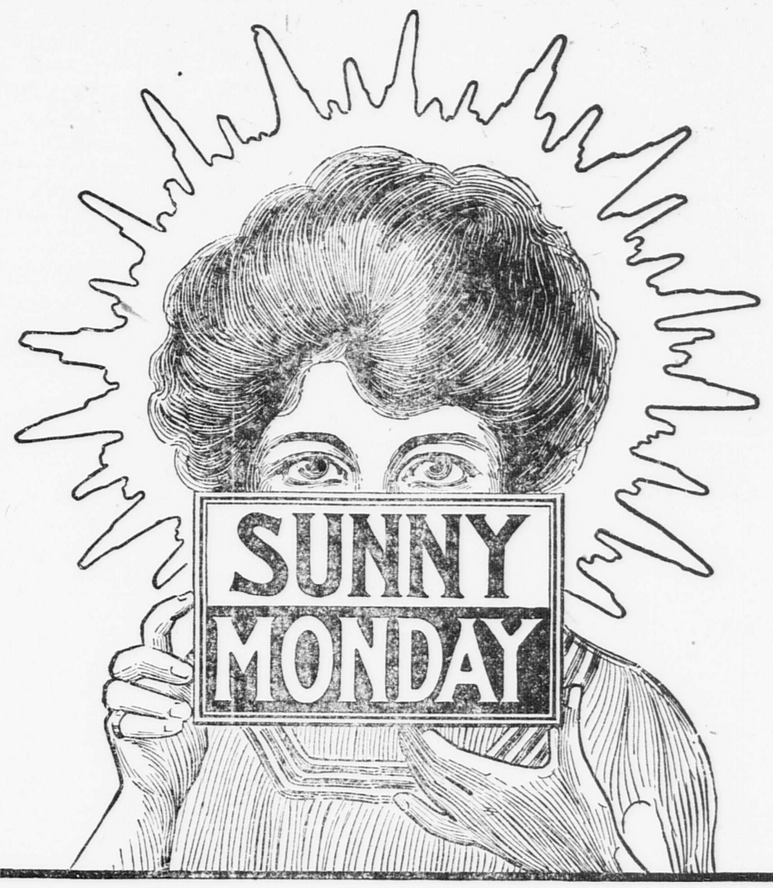

Key rings are not new gifts, but there are some new designs this year that are extremely swagger. The horseshoe pattern will appeal to the man with sporty tastes. The loop on the "whip" fastens over one end of the horseshoe, making a clever device.

The elephant key ring is very new. It has a hinged loop, which goes over the end of the trunk.

Benny on the Ibex.

The ibex is a singular, taciturn animal inhabiting iron cages and the inaccessible portions of the Alps, which are high mountains situated between two or more countries on the other side of the broad briny ocean. It resembles a goat and is intensely wild, fleeing far from the haunts of man on the slightest provocation. Its horns are extremely rugged. The ibex is not carnivorous, but eats grass and vegetables freely. Once there was a man who shot an ibex, but could not carry it home because he lived 9,000 miles away, and he left it for the wolves and vultures to devour, which was not a nice thing to do, for we should always be as kind as possible to the works of creation and obedient to our parents and guardians. The ibex has a short, obstinate beard, but makes no use of it.—Benny in Chicago Tribune.

Twist Rhymes on Women.

Some women walk in hobble skirts,
While others sew and cobble shirts.

Equipped with pan for cake and book,
The prudent learn to bake and cook.

Though many, seaward hurling care,

But all, though coyly seeming chill,
For simple youths are scheming ill.

With every eye glance mangling ten,
They weave their webs for tangling men.

"So Erma is engaged," said Eleanor, with a curl of her lip. "Well, I'm sorry for the man, that's all. She doesn't know the first thing about keeping house."

"Oh, yes, she does, though," was Fannie's assuring reply.

"Well, I'd like to know what it is," was the doubting response.

"The very first thing, which is to get a man to keep house for."—Judge.

—Metaline, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Keefer, the first white child born in Metaline Falls, a new town in Stevens county, Wash., 100 miles north of Spokane, has started her career with $250 in the bank, the gift of Lewis P. Larsen, founder of the town. The money will be invested in a gilt edge security to provide an education fund for the child. Mr. Larsen has set aside several thousand dollars to be distributed as presents to babies born before the end of 1910. The next baby will have $100 in gold placed to its credit, the third receiving $50 and all others arriving before midnight on Dec. 31 will be presented $25 each. Metaline Falls, where a $1,500,000 cement factory and several other industrial concerns are under construction, will have a population of 2,000 when the plants are in operation early next spring. Every business and office building and dwelling in the town is built so that a veneer of cement blocks can be used. The sidewalks and curbs also are of cement.

COLT OUT FOR SENATE

Federal Judge a Candidate For Seat to Be Vacated by Aldrich

Providence, Nov. 15.—Judge Lebaron B. Colt of Bristol, judge of the United States circuit court of appeals, which sits at Boston, has consented to have his name presented to the legislature as a candidate for United States senator to succeed Nelson W. Aldrich.

This announcement makes two avowed Republican candidates for the office in the field, Henry F. Lippitt, a wealthy textile manufacturer of this city, who is popularly supposed to be Aldrich's choice, having announced his candidacy last Friday.

A three-cornered contest for senator is now presented, the Democratic assemblymen being pledged to support Judge Arthur L. Brown of the United States circuit court of this city. Judge Brown, however, has not announced that he would accept the senatorship if elected.

NO TRACE OF HIGHWAYMEN

Trio Who Stole $15,000 May Have Been Employes of Contractors

Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 15.—The three robbers, believed to be Italians, who stole $15,000 from R. J. Hines, paymaster of the Woronoco Construction company, are still at large.

Athough continuing the scouring of the swamps and woods, those directing the hunt have turned more to outside inquiry in the possibility that the men might be located in a nearby city or town, and to a thorough investigation of all the laborers employed by the construction company on the trolley line which it is building from Great Barrington to Canaan, Conn.

This will be a long and tedious task, but certain features of the case indicate in the minds of the officers strong possibilities that the highwaymen may be members of the construction gang.

GAINED FAME FROM MURAL PAINTINGS

Artist La Farge Passes Away After a General Breakdown

Providence, Nov. 15.—Artist John LaFarge died at the Butler hospital here last night. He was brought to the hospital about three months ago from Newport, following a general breakdown. His wife was at the bedside when death came.

John LaFarge was born in New York in 1835. He early began the study of architectural decorations and then took up painting and devoted himself to religious subjects, flowers, portraiture and many landscapes.

After a period of book and magazine illustrating he gave his attention to mural paintings of a religious and eccesiastical character. Many years ago LaFarge invented new methods for the making of stained glass windows which reformed and entirely changed the art of the glass stainer.

He was married to Margaret Perry in Newport, where he had made his residence of late years while having his studio in New York. He was the author of various works on art subjects.

MARSHALL IS BAILED

In Jail Five Months In Connection With the Coleman Case

Boston, Nov. 15.—John R. Marshall, who has been in jail about five months, under indictment on the charge of conspiracy with William J. Kelliher in aiding and abetting George W. Coleman in the misapplication of the funds of the National City bank of Cambridge, was bailed yesterday afternoon in $1500. Marshall's bail was reduced from $10,000 by Judge Dodge of the United States district court because the government was not ready to give him trial.

Marshall left the federal building in the company of his wife, to whom he was married in Philadelphia immediately after he was located there.

LITTLE GIRL'S BODY IS FOUND

Evidence of Horrible Crime In New Jersey Town

HEAD RIVEN WITH A HATCHET

Throttled With Hair Ribbon Which She Wore and Further Crime Committed After Her Death—Child Disappeared While on Way Home From School—Negro Under Arrest Is Threatened With Lynching

Asbury Park, N. J., Nov. 15.—To protect him from determined men bent on executing summary vengeance, Thomas Williams, a negro pugilist known as the "Black Diamond," arrested after the mutilated and burned body of 10-year-old Marie Smith had been found in the Manasee woods, is surrounded by a heavy guard in his police headquarters cell. The negro worked for Mrs. Delia Jackson, aunt of the murdered girl, and he disappeared after the girl was lost, last Wednesday.

The body was found by W. S. Benson in woods that had already been searched over. It lay in the brush only a few feet from where a fire had been put out by firemen on Friday. Her head was riven by an axe and hatchet and her face was torn by her assailant, who had choked her cries by throttling her with the hair ribbon which she had worn when she started home from school on Wednesday. After her death a further crime had been committed. Where the crime was committed was not far from her home and only a few hundred feet from the cottage occupied by her aunt.

Shortly after the body had been found two policemen burst in on Williams in a hovel in the negro settlement. He jumped up but went with them quietly enough as he confronted two heavy revolvers.

The negro told a story which he stuck to despite the most searching examination the police could give him. His clothes were stripped from him to be examined for stains. A towel in the house where he was taken is considered important evidence, but it belongs to another negro. The police are looking for this man, but will not admit that they intend to arrest him.

When the body was found word was taken to the mother. She ran bareheaded through the woods and collapsed as she saw the mutilated face. She fell unconscious.

Deal lake, when Benson made his discovery, was being drained. The soft mud at the bottom was being raked as a last resort and if the body had not been found yesterday search would have been abandoned today.

After Coroner Purdy had given a permit for the removal of the body the autopsy was performed by Drs. Ackerman and Wagner. A coroner's jury viewed the body. An inquest will be held today.

When the girl failed to reach her home after school last Wednesday it was thought she had stopped to play, but when night fell and there was no trace of her the family became much alarmed and a search of the neighborhood was started. This was extended on Thursday, when it was suggested that a general search of the woods and of the lakes be made.

The Smith family looked for Williams to get him to assist. It was then learned that he had been sent into the woods by Mrs. Jackson on Wednesday to cut down a certain tree. Investigation showed that the tree had been cut down and that cuts further up on the trunk showed peculiar marks, later found to correspond with the blade of an axe which was found in the woods near where the body lay. Williams was not found until after the discovery of the child's body.

FORMER CONVICT IS HELD AS SUSPECT

Eighty-Five-Year-Old San Francisco Woman Murdered

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Beaten beyond semblance to a human form, the body of a woman was found in a vacant lot next to the Savoy theatre, in the centre of the business district of this city. John Knapp, former convict, is in jail, charged with murder.

The murdered woman was identified as Mrs. Julia Cary, aged 85 years. Identification was made by Mrs. Love, matron of the city prison, who said Mrs. Cary had been in prison a number of times for petty offenses.

Detectives found Knapp standing in front of a stable, where he is employed, not far from the place where the body lay. He was placed under arrest, and in his room in the stable the officers found a window weight smeared with blood and knotted gray hairs. Some of Knapp's discarded garments were covered with blood, and the collar and waistcoat and waistcoat he wore when arrested were spotted with bloody finger prints.

A trail was discovered over which the woman had been dragged from the stable to the lot where the body was found.

Knapp is 57 years old and served thirteen years in the penitentiary for the murder of James Quinn in a gambling quarrel.

Government Troops Sweep Rioters From Streets in Nicaraguan City

San Juan Del Sur, Nic., Nov. 15.—Troops called out to suppress a political demonstration at Leon and meeting with resistance swept the streets with grape and canister. Many persons were killed or wounded. The excitement is intense.

The government recently prohibited political demonstrations. In the face of this prohibition, the Leon Liberals gathered in the streets and attempted to hold a meeting. The police interfered, but were unable to disperse the crowd, which attacked the officers. Troops were then summoned and, reaching the scene, drove the rioters to cover by a furious charge.

LAND COURT

To M. Josie Belcher, Helen A. Dearing and Frank H. Dearing of Braintree, in the County of Norfolk, and said Commonwealth; Etta J. Moses, Carrie E. Barker, George W. Rackham and Harriet E. Turner of Quincy, in said County of Norfolk; Willis E. Kingsbury of Brockton, in the County of Plymouth, and said Commonwealth; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Gerda Elizabeth Nilson of said Quincy, to register and confirm her title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situate in said Quincy, bounded Southerly by Bay View Avenue forty-five (45) feet, Westerly by land of Carrie E. Darrow one hundred forty-six and eighty-three one hundredths (146.83) feet; northeasterly by land now or late of Etta J. Moses fifty and eight tenths (50.8) feet and easterly by land of George W. Rackham one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet; containing about 6116 square feet.

Petitioner claims as appurtenant to the above described land rights of way in said Bay View Avenue (private way) in common with others entitled thereto.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the twenty-first day of November A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-ninth day of October in the year nineteen hundred and ten.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

KIDNAPPING SUSPECTED

Eleven-Year-Old Boston Girl Is Missing From Her Home

Boston, Nov. 15.—Marion Larkin of Humboldt park, 11 years old, is being sought for everywhere. She was last seen on Saturday afternoon.

The circumstance that a woman dressed in black with a heavy black veil had spoken to the girl, telling her that she was a Sunday school teacher and wanted Marion to come to a party where she would have ice cream, cake and other dainties, has given rise to fears that the child has been kidnapped.

Marion is very well developed physically and is also considered to be bright and pretty.

ST. JEAN SOCIETY IN LEGAL CONTEST

Move For Permanent Receiver Is to Be Contested

Providence, Nov. 15.—A hearing was begun in the superior court in the receivership proceedings against L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique, the largest French-Canadian organization in the country. The society is an insurance and fraternal order, with a membership of 85,000.

Recently the association was severely censured by the insurance commissioners of Massachusetts and New York for irregularities in its insurance business. The resignation of Supreme Secretary Caron of Woonsocket and the appointment of a temporary receiver followed.

The corporation is now cited to show cause why a permanent receiver should not be appointed, on the petition of John B. Brindamour, a member of the finance committee which found deficits in the accounts of several of the supreme officers, and as both sides have engaged able counsel a stubborn legal contest is expected.

TAFT IN CANAL ZONE

Will Devote Four Days' Visit Wholly to Business Affairs

Colon, Nov. 15.—The armored cruiser Tennessee, bringing President Taft, and its convoy, the cruiser Montana, arrived here Monday. The president plans to be here four days. His visit is one of business and it is expected that his time will be fully occupied with matters involved in the construction of the Panama canal.

President Taft did not delay here. Soon after his arrival he boarded a train for Culebra, the site of Culebra cut. The start for home will be made on Thursday. En route President Taft will stop at Guantanamo, Cuba, for a brief time to inspect the American naval base there.

MAINE SENTENCE STANDS

Jurisdiction In Liquor Case Denied by United States Supreme Court

Washington, Nov. 15.—Charles Martel of Lewiston, Me., lost his appeal to the supreme court of the United States against imprisonment as an outcome of his alleged violation of the Maine liquor laws. The supreme court held it had no jurisdiction to review his appeal from the sentence.

Martel was convicted in 1907 of having for the second time violated the liquor laws of Maine against "common sellers of intoxicating liquors." He was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and to be imprisoned four months in the county jail.

FROM DECK OF SCOUT CRUISER

Ely Makes Successful Flight to Coast of Virginia

WEATHER WAS UNFAVORABLE

Biplane Hits Rolling Sea and Driver Is Blinded by Salt Spray, but He Travels Two and a Half Miles Through Air—Importance of Feat In War Time of Value—Prophesy of Future Development

Norfolk, Nov. 15.—In a rainstorm, under circumstances so unfavorable that they could hardly be expected in time of peace, the first aeroplane ever launched from the deck of a war vessel glided safely away shoreward until it disappeared like a tiny speck on the horizon.

It was the Curtiss biplane, the same "Hudson flier" that made the trip from Albany to New York. It was piloted from the forward deck of the scout cruiser Birmingham by Eugene B. Ely, who gave as near a hair-raising exhibition of daring as any of the spectators had ever witnessed.

Determined to make the attempt despite rain and wind, which had been coming in squalls throughout the afternoon, the aviator glided from the inclined platform which had been improvised on board the Birmingham, before many of the officers on board that ship knew what was happening.

Swooping off clear of the ship's bow, the aeroplane first dropped lower and lower, and then, with a splash, seemed to dive directly into the water. It rested on the surface momentarily, while bluejackets of four naval vessels stood ready at the lifeboats.

Then it rose little by little until it had reached a height of 150 feet or more, when it made a straight flight toward Norfolk.

It landed on the beach safely two and a half miles from the Birmingham, as learned later when a launch with Captain Chambers and a party of naval officers aboard went out from the scout to pick up and bring back the aviator.

Only the splendid control with which Ely extracted himself from his difficulty after starting argued that he undoubtedly was safe.

As a matter of fact the biplane, when it struck the water, had its propeller somewhat damaged, while the splash temporarily blinded Ely with a spray of salt water, which made useless his goggles and prevented him from seeing altitude or direction.

"I was simply completely lost," Ely explained later. "It was a very dark day, anyway, and the rain and mist, added to the salt water spray, had blinded me. By the time I had wiped my goggles and could get my bearings I found myself making for a beach, and choosing a convenient spot landed. I landed with no trouble. Had it been necessary I could have started the machine up again and tried to fly back to where I came from."

Ely's intention had been to make a flight from the Birmingham while the cruiser was in motion. This was also the plan of the navy department. But the weather was so squally and uncertain that the aviator profited by the lause between squalls to get under way, fearing that if he waited the start might have to be postponed for the day.

Captain Chambers and others spoke particularly of the advantages of the aeroplane for use with the swift scout cruisers of the Chester, Birmingham and Salem type.

From such observations as had been hurriedly made, Ely's flight had covered about two and a half miles. He had been in the air between four and five minutes, and had remained at a consistent altitude of about 200 feet.

Ely, now that he has flown from a ship at sea, is very anxious to try the reverse experiment—that is, landing on a ship steaming at cruising speed. He is confident this can be done without difficulty, and in fact believes it would be not very difficult to leave the deck of a ship in motion, fly around as long as convenient and then return to the ship's deck. Captain Chambers agreed that this might be expected in the near future.

TAKES CHILD-BRIDE WEST

Rich and Aged Chinaman Released by Immigration Authorities

Boston, Nov. 15.—Moy Tong Hoy, a Chinese merchant from Chicago, and reputed to be one of the wealthiest Chinese in the country, who with his child-wife, Wong She, has been held by the immigration officials here until their case could be investigated, was released yesterday afternoon.

Shortly after his release Moy Tong Hoy took the limited for Chicago, accompanied by his wife. The merchant is 59 years old. His wife is 16. The marriage was contracted in China through correspondence.

Woman Preacher Seriously Hurt

Malden, Mass., Nov. 15.—The Rev. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Bruce, the aged woman pastor of the quaint Wayside chapel on Windemere road, was severely injured in a fall at the rectory yesterday, and grave fears are entertained for her recovery.

AFTER THREE YEARS

Indictment Returned Against Rhode Island Man For Manslaughter

Providence, Nov. 15.—Within three days of the date when the case would be outlawed under the statute of limitations, a special grand jury returned an indictment late yesterday against John O. Allen of Pawtucket, charging him with manslaughter.

Allen is accused of having run down and killed Elmer Buck, a young boy, in Central Falls, on Nov. 17, 1907. He was not arrested, however, until a few days ago, and as the case would be outlawed on Nov. 17 next, a special grand jury had to be summoned.

Pretender Disinherits Daughter

Vienna, Nov. 15.—The will of Don Carlos, the late pretender to the throne of Spain, contains an injunction to his son, Don Jaime, to maintain the claim to the throne. Princess Elvira, his daughter, who eloped some years ago, is disinherited.

Uruguay Rebellion Ends

Montevideo, Nov. 15.—The rebellion came to an end with the unconditional surrender of the rebels, who gave up their arms and trust to the magnanimity of the government in the matter of their punishment.

BRIEFS

City election three weeks from today.

The rain or snow predicted for last night did not materialize.

Thanksgiving day comes next week Thursday.

High course tides on Friday at noon and midnight.

Mayor Shea returned Monday afternoon from the Berkshires where he has been seeking a few days' rest.

The triplets of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wentworth, born Nov. 11, continue in good health.

Mrs. F. J. Moore of Dysart street is entertaining her father, J. G. Shufeldt of Walpole, who is 85 years old, but hale and hearty.

For five years Quincy's No-License majority has been in excess of 2000 in a total of less than 4,800. The total vote will be larger this year.

The afternoons will reach their shortest Dec. 3 when the sun will set at 4.12 ,eleven minutes later than today.

Handsome new furnishings have been installed in the drug store of E. J. Murphy, giving the store a very handsome appearance.

The choir of the Finnish Congregational church went to Allston on Sunday and took part in the services at a church there.

Beecher H. Poquett who underwent an operation at the Massachusetts General hospital Saturday is reported as comfortable as could be expected.

The free cooking lecture of Harriette Louise Jennings at Union hall this afternoon was well attended, and the number will increase each day as one gets valuable information.

The eclipse of the full moon tomorrow night is at a very seasonable hour. It is a total eclipse which should be visible all over New England. It begins at 5.44 P. M. Middle at 7.20. Ends at 8.57. The moon rises about 4.30 P. M.

Councilman Bolster who has been connected with the drug store at South Quincy for several years has purchased an interest in the drug store of L. G. Murray at Brewer's corner. Councilman Bolster will take charge of this store Wednesday morning and Mr. Murray will look after his other store at Cambridge.

The auction sale of the library of the late Dr. Everett opened in Boston today, from 10 and 2, at 597 Washington street. C. F. Libbie & Co., are the auctioneers. Many of the pupils of Dr. Everett are glad of the opportunity offered to obtain some of his books. The sale will continue through Wednesday and Thursday. Books of his father, the late Edward Everett are also being sold.

TRAIN SERVICE

In reply to questions by Mr. Miller, it was brought out that last year the running time was 20 minutes, and now it was 27 minutes.

Also that changes were made in the train service two weeks ago, but Quincy Adams was not considered. Mr. Miller wanted to know why this discrimination?

Supt. Martin, in reply, intimated that it would have been better to have come to him first.

Mr. Miller replied they did go to his office first, but got no satisfaction.

Supt. Martin said it was impossible to put on additional trains on account of changes being made in grades. In reply to this Mr. Miller said, additional trains were not asked for, but that some of the present express trains should make stops.

It was not fair said Mr. Miller to forget Quincy Adams. Mr. Miller, by further questioning, brought out that the freight and passenger business from Quincy Adams made it one of the best paying stations on the road.

The hearing was replete with sharp sparing between Supt. Martin and Mr. Miller, and many interesting points were brought out.

After the hearing the Railroad Commissioners took the matter under advisement.

CAUCUSES

hours. This evening, however, things will be different, and busy caucuses are looked for in every ward. A larger part of the voters are busy following their regular business, and there is not interest enough to cause them to give up business to vote, especially when they can readily exercise their right of suffrage during the early hours of the evening. The polls remain open until 9 o'clock. As far as can be learned no candidate for nomination has carriages at the polls to bring voters to vote, so that it is shanks mare for all. In some wards, however ,efforts have been made to get out voters by a personal solicitation made during the past few days. How much good this will result in remains to be seen.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Rachel Winship and family have moved from Newton street to 50 East Elm avenue.

The Charles E. Goodspeeds are now located in their beautiful new home on Grand View avenue.

It is probable that the Seventeenth of June will be the opening date for the second annual aviation meet in Quincy.

The Topedo boat destroyers Perkins and Sterett building at Quincy were over 92 percent finished on Nov. 1, and the Walke over 66 percent. The submarine boats Skipjack and Sturgeon are over 57 percent finished. No other government work was underway Nov. 1.

Mrs. Mary L. Wade of Elm avenue is giving a lecture at Providence Wednesday afternoon on the "Standards of Living." It is the Y. U. C. A. course in which Mrs. Ellen Richards, Miss Arnold of Simmons college and Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln have lectured. Miss Wade repeats the lecture Thursday at Bedford before the Parents and Teachers' association.

DIDN'T KNOW THE SLANG.

An Englishwoman who not long ago moved to Kansas City, Kan., met a friend on the street the other day, says the Times and startled her by asking:

"Do you know where I can find a joint?"

"A joint?" gasped the friend. "What on earth do you want to find a joint for?"

"Why, just a natural craving. I've been looking all over town for one."

"Goodness!" exclaimed the other, who belonged to the W. C. T. U. Then, to be sure the Englishwoman was not joking she asked:

Do you mean a liquor joint?"

"Never heard of such a thing," was the reply. "I mean a joint of mutton, of course."

"You say that figures don't lie. Well, permit me to flatly contradict you."

"May I ask your business?"

"I'm a dressmaker."—"Cleveland Plain Dealer."

FORE RIVERS AT THE TOP

McGregors Also Making a Good Showing

The Fore River team still leads in the Boston Association Football league, and it is a coincidence that the three leading teams have played fewer games than the other seven. Fore River has not been defeated; the General Electrics have been defeated twice, once by the McGregors. The game with Fore River resulted in a draw. The McGregors have been defeated once by Fore River. Charlestown which is tied with the McGregors for third place has been badly walloped by both Quincy teams. With such a situation among the leaders, and several other teams but little less formidable to contend with the close of the season should border on the exciting.

In the summary "G" stands for number of games played, "W" for games won,"L" for games lost, "D" for draw games and "P" for points won, which determines the standing:

	G.	W.	L.	D.	P.
Fore River	8	6	0	2	14
General Electric	9	6	2	1	13
McGregors	7	6	1	0	12

DRAFTSMEN'S GAME.

The Engineering draftsmen defeated the Hull draftsmen of the F. R. S. Co. in a game of Soccer football Saturday afternoon at Ward 6 Two playgrounds to the tune of 5 to 0. Both teams displayed good form throughout the game. The features of the game was the splendid defence of the Engine team, and the offensive work of the forwards Moffat, Mahoney and Hendry. Mr. McVicar presented the winners with a massive cup, a gift of Mr. Barnes.

ELMENDORF TRAVEL TALKS.

Dwight Elmendorf, the noted traveltalker, will inaugurate his fall series of lectures next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon at Symphony Hall, Boston. The course includes lectures on five successive Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons. The first will treat of "London." Mr. Elmendorf has spent much time in this great English metropolis that he has come to look upon it as his second home. This year he tells a new and interesting story of London life. With a few exceptions the illustrations were made by the lecturer during the past summer, and will include views of all interesting and historic places.

The following Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons will be given over to "Berlin," "Vienna," "Famous Paintings" and "Paris." The Saturday courses are the same as the Friday evening course. We know of no greater force for genuine culture and wholesome amusement in America today than the Elmendorf lectures.

SAFE PROPOSITION.

She was trying to persuade her husband to give up smoking and she had pointed out to him one day the exact amount of his expenses for tobacco during the course of a year.

"Besides, my dear," she persisted, "you will be better off mentally, physically and financially without the pipe and the cigars."

"Well, maybe so; but all great men have smoked," he argued.

"Well," she sighed, "just promise me, dear, that you'll give up smoking until you are great. Then I'll be perfectly satisfied."—Philadelphia Record.

FRANCE PRAISES HORSEFLESH DIET

Poverty and Science Fast Overcome Popular Prejudice.

HOSPITALS LIKE SUBSTITUTE.

Eaten Raw by Patients as Being Tender and Easily Digested—Donkeys and Mules Also Utilized—Freedom From Tuberculosis Strong Point, Say Physicians.

The dearth of meat in nearly all European countries has revived the controversy about horseflesh, which, with black bread, is still alleged by free traders to be the staple food of the working classes in protected countries. In the Paris Journal Dr. Pascal warmly recommends horseflesh, which he says is very good and relatively cheap.

"The prejudice against horseflesh has had to give way before now to poverty, scarcity and hunger," says the doctor. "The first horse butcher's shop in Paris opened in 1866, and there are now 800 in France, of which 550 are in Paris and its vicinity.

"There are two special slaughter houses in the department of the Seine, and 60,175 horses, 1,141 donkeys and 463 mules were killed there in 1907. One-third of the horseflesh in Paris is, however, made into sausages, which suggests that there is still a very strong prejudice against horseflesh as such."

Age Only Drawback.

There is only one real objection to the use of horseflesh, thinks Dr. Pascal. The animals that are slaughtered are old and worn out instead of being well fed with a view to the meat market.

The public health department in Paris buys every day upward of 1,700 pounds of horse meat to be chopped up and eaten raw by delicate patients at the hospitals. Horse meat is said to be not indigestible, and the flesh, even of aged animals, is tender.

"Vieux boeuf, mauvaise viande—vieux cheval, bonne viande," was a saying often repeated by a famous French authority on food values. So rarely is tuberculosis found in horse meat that out of 53,000 animals slaughtered in 1905 only four were rejected on that account, while in the following year out of 57,000 only seven were pronounced unfit for food for the same reason.

Cooks Seize Profits.

Cooks almost invariably do the marketing in Paris, and observers have sometimes amused themselves with watching the number of those who supply themselves at shops that only sell horse, mule and donkey meat, buying well trimmed joints for less than they would pay at the regular butchers, but no doubt charging their employers as much as beef would have cost, the difference in the taste never being detected.

Choice pieces of horse meat fetch from about 10 cents a pound wholesale and may be sold in the retail trade for as much as 18 cents a pound. Donkey meat and mule meat have their own special patrons, and the votaries of horseflesh firmly believe that if horses were treated like oxen and well fed horse meat would soon be generally preferred to beef.

SUPPORTED HERSELF AT 106

But Vienna Woman Finally Died Six Years Later.

Frau Katharina Lustig, the oldest woman in Austria, died recently in Vienna in her one hundred and twelfth year. She belonged to a Hungarian Jewish family in which longevity was hereditary.

Her grandmothers on the mother's and father's side attained their one hundred and thirteenth and one hundred and tenth years respectively. Two of her sisters lived to be over ninety, and she leaves two children who are well over eighty.

Her husband, who was a tailor, died some years ago at 105, after they had celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of their wedding. After his death Frau Lustig maintained herself until she was 106 by covering umbrellas and was able to see and thread needles up to the last without spectacles.

She attributed her long life to early rising and to drinking a glass of beer with all meals instead of tea or coffee.

POLICE HAVE AERIAL PATROL

Bordeaux Roundsman Covers Route Pleasantly and Quickly.

The first aerial police party has made its appearance. During the Bordeaux aviation week an airship was chartered by the police, and shortly before President Fallieres was due to arrive the chiefs of the special detective service went up with Aviator Vandenborn to satisfy themselves that all the police posts were duly occupied.

The experiment was a complete success, for ocular observation gave them in a few minutes far more detailed information than could have been secured by ordinary methods.

Argentina Leads Sister Republics.

Of South American countries Argentina comes first from a railway point of view with a mileage of 16,000. Brazil follows with 12,000. Chile has 3,000 miles and Peru 2,500.

* Nominated.

Over 1200 votes were cast at the Republican caucuses and President Ralph W. Hobbs of the City Council received over 900 as the party nominee for Mayor. He had a walkover, as no one else was in the field.

Members of the present City Council who were candidates for nominations at large had the call, for Charles M. Bryant, George A. Bolster, Charles E. Cherrington, Edward J. Sandberg and Ernest W. Branch led the field in the order named. Councilman Bryant was the popular candidate in Wards One and Five, and was second in Wards Two, Three and Four. Councilman Bolster was the favorite of Ward Three, but ran well in all wards. Councilman Cherrington led in Ward Six and was second in Ward Five. Councilman Sandberg can always depend on Ward Four. Councilman Branch was second in Ward One. Mr. Holman led in his ward but a very small vote was cast there by the Republicans, and he was low man in the city. Mr. Nelson ran well, but Mr. LaBrecque made a sorry spectacle.

Dr. Nathaniel S. Hunting was renominated without opposition for candidate at large for School Committee for three years.

WARD ONE.

There was no contest either for ward councilman, school committee or Ward Committee in this ward and the regular ticket was nominated. Of the three nominees for the Council, John S. Ross the Houghs Neck candidate lead the list with 175. Councilman Ericson was second with 165, and Councilman Nowland third with 154. The nominations were:

COUNCILMAN SANDBERG.

Councilman,—Charles A. Ericson, James M. Nowland and John R. S. Ross.

School Committee—John D. McKay.

Ward Committee—Harry S. Crane, John O. Hall, Henry P. Kittredge, Charles H. Johnson, Ira M. Whittemore, Frederick E. Tupper, George T. Westland, Arthur L. Thomas and Andrew Johnson.

WARD TWO

There was no contests in this ward and the nominations made were:

COUNCILMAN BOLSTER.

Councilmen,—John B. Bass, Sylvester D. Rich and Harry G. Studley.

School Committee,—Arthur B. Foster.

Ward Committee—Harry G. Studley, Daniel Scouler, Jr., Edgar F. Hayden, Arthur W. Newcomb, Albert L. Whitman, Joseph Carruthers, John B. Bass, Eugene R. Stone, Eugene C. Hultman.

WARD THREE

As usual this ward had its contests both for ward councilman and ward

SUDDEN DEATH AT BRAINTREE

Prominent Business Man Victim of Pneumonia

C. H. Hobart of South Braintree passed away this morning at his home 845 Washington street after an illness of only a few days with pneumonia. He was a member of the Old Colony Grocers' and Provision Dealers' Association, having served as its secretary, treasurer and president, and he was one of the best known business men of the Old Colony district.

Mr. Hobart was born in Braintree and started in the grocery business in a small way, delivering his orders with a wheelbarrow. He worked hard putting in about eighteen hours a day, and by careful buying and close attention to his business forged ahead. Adding continually to his stock of groveries, he also received calls for other goods, and his general store contained groceries, dry goods, boots and shoes, hardware, paints and oils, and recently added an elaborate soda fountain.

In addition to this large business he was very much in the insurance business, the Braintree Insurance agency, C. H. Hobart & Son, looking after the interest of policy holders. Losses caused by fire were settled with unusual promptness. This agency held the insurance on nearly every house on Washington street, Braintree, for over a mile.

Mr. Hobart was also treasurer of the Braintree Savings Bank, a position he has held for years and the bank is located in his business block, South Braintree square.

He leaves a wife and two children, Mrs. Plummer C. Spring of Braintree and H. Parker Hobart, who though married has always resided with his parents. The deceased was seventy years old and until last Thursday was enjoying the best of health. On Saturday, Nov. 5, he called to congratulate Elisha Thayer of Crescent avenue, South Braintree on his 85th birthday, and in talking with a friend said "Do you expect to live to be as old as Mr. Thayer is?" The reply was "No." Mr. Hobart, who looked as if he would live to be 100, said: "If you think you will not then you will not."

SMALL—MERRILL.

Miss Annette L. Merrill of Auburn, Maine, was married on Monday evening to Mr. Edward M. Small of Lewiston, Maine. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. F. J. Merrill of Pilgrim Congregational church, North Weymouth, at his home. Harold Blanchard of Portland was best man and his wife, Hazel Blanchard, was matron of honor. Master Frederick Merrill was ring bearer. The house was beautifully decorated and lighted by candles. A reception followed the ceremony.

SHEA RENOMINATED FOR FOURTH TERM

Some Doubt As to Whether Any Nominations Were Made for Councilmen at Large

Councilman Smith Won His Fight in Ward Four

FOR MAYOR

	One	Two	Three	Four	Five	Six	Total
*Shea	19	21	36	212	13	28	328
Blanks	3	2	5	38	0	2	50

* Renominated.

But 379 votes were cast at the Democratic caucuses, and 250 of these in the West Quincy ward. Mayor William T. Shea received 328 votes and is renominated as the party candidate for a fourth term. He has but little party support in candidates for Councilmen at large.

There were no names on the Democratic ticket for Councilmen at large or School Committee at large and in some wards no nominations for ward councilmen. The result was that in nearly every ward names were written in. Whether the names as written are correct so that they can be counted is not known. It will take some time for the Registrars to go over them and straighten them out. The probabilities are however that Alfred N. LaBrecque who ran on the Republican ticket, and was defeated, will get the Democratic nomination at large. There will probably be others, but just who will not be known for several days.

WARD ONE

In this ward there were six names written in for councilman at large and Timothy J. Collins the well known Globe correspondent received one vote for Mayor. There was but one candidate for Ward Councilman, and no candidate for School committee from the ward. The nominations made were:—

Councilman—Daniel J. Deasy.

Ward Committee—James C. Grant, Thomas E. Connelly, Philip D. Cook, Walter M. Packard, William Kelley, DANIEL J. DEASY.

John J. Murphy, John J. McDonnell, Alfred J. LaCroix and Augustus F. Murphy.

WARD TWO

In this ward five names were written in for Councilmen at large. There was no contests of any kind. The vote for councilmen ran from 19 to 21. The nominations made were: Councilmen—Michael F. Corbett, Frank J. Duffy and Edward P. Histen.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The only satisfied Republicans are the genuine Progressives.

It is better to have claimed and lost than never to have claimed at all.

Just the same, the man who abhorred muck-raking seems to have done a lot of it this campaign.

It is well to remember that President Taft didn't plunge into the campaign.

If some of those aviators don't stop going up so high that they cannot see the earth, they may not be able to find their way back.

A woman in Illinois boasts that she has an eleven-foot snake as a pet. When a man acquies those things he tries to keep quiet about them.

After all, the issue is between the few who clamor for privileges and favors and the many who ask nothing but the right to enjoy the proceeds of their own toil under the laws which guarantee equality.

The present Congress will probably determine the basis of apportionment for representative districts under the new census, at a special session in December. Quincy will be interested later in the Massachusetts apportionment.

Tuesday was a great day for Lawyer John D. Mackay. He was not only renominated without opposition as candidate for School Committee by both parties, but it was the ninth anniversary of locating in Quincy, and the sixth anniversary of his marriage. Perhaps next year on Nov. 15 he will be nominated for Mayor.

DRIFT OF OPINION

One of the significant facts in connection with the announcement of census returns is the uniformity of growth that is indicated. There has been a popular notion, particularly in the west, that the real development and the land of opportunities are in the newer regions of the country. The northwest and the west have grown rapidly. Settlers and others have come in and built up towns during the last decade. There have been great prosperity and progress. Figures given out before indicate rapid growth not only in the west and south, but in New England. Prosperity is not a local condition, but is national. We not only are filling up the unoccupied areas of the west and developing the natural resources of the country, but the towns and areas less favored are making the most of their oportunities as commercial or industrial centres.—Framingham News.

"The idle rich must go," says a gentleman named F. T. Martin in an outburst. But where? And, if you stop to think, why isn't his idleness almost an asset to the rest of the people in the world? He idles and spends his money. He gives employment to a lot of people as a rule. Supposing he has a fad like horses, or a yacht or the raising of fancy cattle—it means the expenditure of much money on the stock or the yacht, and it means that a lot of experts are to be well paid for their work. Which do you think really does the most good for the word— a Russell Sage or a Hetty Green or a freely spending millionaire like a Vanderbilt? You may say that Mrs. Sage is now spending money on good works, but it goes to organizations and to organized forms of charity largely, and the mass of people never get any material benefit from it. The money spent by a Vanderbilt goes hither and yon, and merchants, dealers in commodities of all kinds, and manufacturers and their employes, all share in the money that is spent. The general spending of an income benefits a lot of people. The idle rich distributes freely. The rich man who is in business and hunting for more money all the time may withdraw money from circulation rather than give it out. Perhaps we'd all get along better than otherwise if we let matters progress in this line about as they have gone in the past.—Brockton Enterprise.

Good Prices at Sale of Dr. Everett's Library

As was anticipated, the auction sale of the libraries of the late Dr. William Everett and his father Edward Everett attracted a large number of buyers of Boston, New York and elsewhere, and also several of the former pupils of Adams Academy in Quincy where he was for many years master.

The Post reports the sale of Tuesday in interesting style. A copy of John Eliot's famous Indian Bible, one of the few in existence, was sold for the sum of $1,250. The Bible was bought on order by C. F. Libbie for a customer, whose name was not given out, but is believed to be the New Hampshire State Library.

The highest price paid in the morning was $231.50, for John James Audubon's "Birds of America," the original edition, with all the plates, in royal octavo, half Russia.

A leaflet of two pages, containing a poem of Oliver Wendell Holmes for the dedication of the fountain at Stratford-on-Avon, presented by George W. Childs, started at 25 cents, but was eventually knocked down at $27. This was the only copy known, and bore on the back an additional verse by Dr. William Everett in his own handwriting.

On the other hand the order of exercises at the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims, which had a hymn by William Cullen Bryant, was sold for 50 cents to P. K. Foley, who also acquired the Holmes dedication poem.

Ackerman's "History of the University of Cambridge; its colleges, halls, and public buildings," was sold to Charles E. Lauriat Company for $29, also Ackerman's "History of the University of Oxford; its colleges, halls and public buildings," for 30.

A Bible of Oxford, 1821 (broken), with the book plate of the Bishopthorpe Palace and inscription by Edward Everett: "This Bible lay upon the table in my dressing room at Bishopthorpe Palace and was given me, at my request, by the archbishop of York, 1842," brought only $10.50 while the "Biographical Memoir of Daniel Boone," by Timothy Flint, Cincinnati, 1833, was sold for $14.

A paper copy of Drake's "History and Antiquities of Boston," 1857, was sold to Charles E. Goodspeed for $15, the same buyer securing a volume of Boston Massacre Orations, 1772-79, for $13, while the Murray edition of Lord Byron's works, 1815, in tree calf, went for $16.

In the afternoon session, the highest price paid, with the exception of the $1,250 for Eliot's Bible, was $16, for the works of Sir William Davenant, first edition, published from the author's original copy.

A volume on early printing, dated 1482, from the Duke of Sussex's collection, was sold for $15.

The complete works of Dryden, with notes by Sir Walter Scott, in 18 volumes ,antique calf, with gilt backs brought $210 a volume.

Dryden's Fables, Ancient and Modern, were sold for $5, his "Works of Virgil," $10.50 and his "Spanish Fryar," $4.

The works of Joseph and Simon Cottle, with autograph of Henry Kirke White on title and a note on the fly leaf: "This volume was given me by Mr. Southey at his house in Keswick July 2, 1880. The binding is Mr. Southey's own—Edward Everett," was disposed of for $11, while Herman Cortes' "History de Nueva-Espana," sold for $7, and the works of William Cowper, in three volumes brought 25 cents a volume.

"The Idle Man," first edition by R. H. Dana (few margins water stained), containing five original poems by W. C. Bryant, went for $2.75. Dante's "L'Interno el Purgatoria el Paradiso" (few leaves stained), made-up copy from the editions of 1502 and 1515, brought $6.50, his "Divine Comedy," translated by Henry W. Longfellow, bringing but $1.

MAYOR SHEA RENOMINATED

School Committee—William A. Carey.

Ward Committee—William A. Carey, Joseph J. Kelley, Edward P. Histen, Thomas Griffin, Peter M. Sullivan, George W. Fallon, Henry W. Mullane and Frank J. Duffy.

WARD THREE

In this ward eight names were written in for Councilmen at large but as in other wards they must be verified. There was but one name on the ballot for ward councilmen but the names of David M. Warner and Robert B. Craig were written in and they were also nominated. The name of George M. Sheahan was also written in for School Committee at large. The nominations made were:

COUNCILMAN SMITH

Councilmen—James M. Faircloth, David M. Warner and Robert B. Craig.

School Committee—Daniel B. Reardon.

Ward Committee—James M. Cantfill, Daniel J. Donahue, Michael Donahue, Richard J. Gray, Dennis P. Donahue, James M. Faircloth, Patrick Crimmins, Samuel A. Dougherty and William A. Kelly.

WORD FOUR.

The one contest in West Quincy was for ward councilmen and it was a warm one. There were five candidates, and as each worked hard at the polls a total vote of 250 was gotten out by the party. There seemed to be a certain element after Councilman Smith, but he was fully aware of the situation and won out. Harry T. Boyd received the largest vote 193;

COUNCILMAN BOYD

Daniel F. Forde had 177 and John D. Smith 120. The vote of the other two candidates was James F. Edwards 108, Richard Williams 50. There was also a slight contest for ward Committee.

The nominations made were: Councilmen—Harry T. Boyd, Daniel F. Forde and John D. Smith.

Ward Committee—William T. Shea, Thomas J. Sullivan, Richard H. Joyce, John D. Smith, William C. Martell, Harry T. Boyd, Charles C. McCue, James M. Flaherty and Daniel F. Forde.

WARD FIVE

Save for the candidte for Mayor the Democratic ballot in this ward was a blank, no nominations having been made for any office. For ward councilmen, however, three names were written in, and the following therefore got the nomination.

Councilmen—Arthur W. Loud, Elis McTeer and Michael E. Cook.

WARD SIX

There was but one candidate in this ward for councilman from ward, and he had a walkover.

Councilman—Peter J. Colligan.

Ward Committee— Rednor P. Coombs, Martin W. Cuniff, Peter J. Colligan, John F. Dolan, Bernard Cullen, Lawrence Curtin, Thomas H. Hayes and Hugh Gilmartin.

SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

Mental Condition of Former Bank Cashier to Be Investigated

Boston, Nov. 16.—After a hearing of three hours, Judge Dodge suspended sentence indefinitely in the case of George W. Tufts, former bank cashier of the Rockport National bank, who pleaded guilty of making false entries in the bank accounts. The question of Tuft's mental condition is to be determined by direction of the court before the case is finally settled.

Attorney White, representing the defendant, called to the witness stand several citizens of Rockport who told of the eccentricities of Tufts.

Tufts himself took the stand and denied the truth of the statements he made to Assistant District Attorney Garland after his arrest. He said he never embezzled money, but that there was an original shortage of $2000. He said he did not know where the money went, but that he covered up the shortage by forged notes.

MEAT PRICES FALLING

Beef and Pork Cheaper by Three to Five Cents a Pound

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The price of beef and pork are falling. Within the last week the price of beef has been reduced between 4 and 5 cents a pound by the meat packers. The price of pork has declined about 3 cents from the price of a week ago, and wholesale meat dealers say that mutton and veal and other products of the packing houses will take a downward turn within the next few days.

Boston, Nov. 16.—Prices on meat in Boston have dropped. The decrease ranges from 2 to 5 or 6 percent. Potatoes also are lower. Sugar has dropped, likewise.

New York, Nov. 16.—Reports from various parts of the country indicating a fall in the price of meats are reflected by similar reports from local dealers. The decline has already begun.

INSURANCE SUIT IS ABRUPTLY ENDED

St. Jean Society's Troubles to Be Settled Out of Court

Providence, Nov. 16.—The receivership proceedings against L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique were brought to an unexpected termination in the superior court when the attorneys for both sides agreed to settle the case out of court. A decree was drafted for submission to the court, under which a commissioner will be appointed by the court to supervise the affairs of the society until another convention can be held.

L'Union, the largest French-Canadian society in the country, and which does a large insurance business throughout New England and New York, was recently criticized by the insurance commissioners of New York and Masachusetts for irregularities in its business, and the appointment of a temporary receiver followed. The hearing was on the petition for the appointment of a permanent receiver.

M'COY IS CLEARED

Not Responsible For Death of Captain of Football Team

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 16.—The inquest held by Coroner Rogers into the cause of the death of Captain Rudolph Munk of the West Virginia university eleven, during the game here Saturday with the Bethany college team, resulted in a verdict by the jury that Munk came to his death accidentally.

The warrant for the arrest of Thomas McCoy of Canton, O., the Bethany player charged with causing the injuries that caused death, was withdrawn at the instance of the coroner.

McCoy was not present at the inquest, nor was his father, but they were represented by attorneys from Canton.

VISIBLE IN NEW ENGLAND

Total Eclipse of the Moon Will Occur Early Tonight

Boston, Nov. 16.—New England will have one of the best opportunities to witness a total eclipse of the moon in the early hours of tonight. Weatherman John W. Smith has promised fair weather.

The moon will enter the shadow of the earth at 5:44 o'clock, Boston time, and during the next hour and 11 minutes the moon's light will be gradually merged in the shadow of the earth until 7:47, when it begins to emerge, and the eclipse will be over at 8:58 o'clock. The eclipse lasts more than three hours.

John Brown Juror Weds at 80

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 16.—William Martin, aged 80, the oldest surviving member of the jury that convicted John Brown of treason before the Civil war, married Bettie Ferguson yesterday afternoon at Legato. The bride is 79 years old.

Two Balloons Missing

Essen, Nov. 16.—Two balloons, the Hessen and the Saar, have been missing since they started in a race here Monday. It is feared they have been driven out over the North sea. The seven other participants in the race have landed.

PRESIDENT HOBBS NOMINATED

committee. Robert B. Craig led with 196 for the Council. John R. Richards had 156, Murdock A. Campbell 129, Richard Bishop 123 and William Gelotte 52.

For ward committee, the first list won, the votes ranging from 188 to 117 while the votes of the second list ran from 114 to 46. The nominations were:

JOHN D. MACKAY

Councilmen—Robert B. Craig, John R. Richards and Murdock A. Campbell.

School Committee—John L. Miller.

Ward Committee—John Capaccioli, John R. Richards, George Gauthier, John R. Bissett, Murdock A. Campbell, Alexander Clark, Edward D. Marnock, Robert B. Craig and Daniel F. Tinney.

WARD FOUR

The West Quincy ward had no contests and the only candidate for Councilman received the full party vote. The nominations made were:

Councilman—John Evans.

Ward Committee—Edward J. Sandberg, William H. Teasdale, Louis K. Badger, August Williams, Victor E. Serberg, Charles H. Owens, Merton A. Turner, T. Willard Burke and J. Leonard Ferguson.

WARD FIVE

The hot contest in this ward was over councilmen from the Ward. There were six candidates seeking the three positions. During the evening automobiles were brought into use, and the campaign committee for Chas. W. Bailey got out a large vote, as was shown by the returns. He received 323 votes and was easily the high man. William J. Leslie was second with 255 and Arthur C. Gardner third with 205. The vote of the other three candidates were Arthur W. Loud 155, Charles L. Bean, 125, and James Muller 34. It was rumored about that some of the voters were after Councilman Loud's scalp, and the result showed that they got it. Although defeated for the Republican nomination Councilman Loud got the Democratic nomination by having his name written in.

The nominations made were:

Councilmen—Charles W. Bailey, William J. Leslie and Arthur C. Gardner.

COUNCILMAN BRYANT

Ward Committee—Walter S. Pinkham, Richard R. Freeman, William J. Leslie, Arthur C. Gardner, Arthur W. Rohn, Charles F. Austin, William J. Jones, Edward A. Bean and Hamilton Flood.

WARD SIX

The contest in the Atlantic ward was confined to Ward Councilmen. The candidates were all new men and it was a shake up who would win. Edward F. Parlee was high man with 141; Horace T. Jenkins had 131, Ernest E. Sodergren 117 and Carl E. Carlson 116. The vote for the third candidate is so close that a recount may be asked for. The nominations:

Councilmen—Edward F. Parlee, Horace T. Jenkins, Ernest E. Sodergren.

Ward Committee—Herbert S. Barker, Frank E. Badger, Lyndon D. Gurney, Ralph W. Hobbs, Horace T. Jenkins, Robert E. Jones, Louis F. R. Langelier, Ernest E. Sodergren and James Thomas.

SHOOTS UP A SALOON

Unidentified Man Gives Owner Wound Which May Prove Fatal

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 16.—An unidentified man drew a revolver without provocation in the saloon of Joseph Oliver at 62 Lafayette street last night, shot the proprietor in the mouth, causing a wound that may prove fatal; shattered two panes of glass with two other bullets and an arc light with another and then made his escape while fifteen men in the saloon were still dazed by the sudden onslaught of bullets.

The man made no attempt to rob any of the men standing at the bar or the proprietor. The sudden volley of bullets seemed like the freak of a madman. The man was unknown to anyone in the restaurant, appeared to have money and shot coolly and deliberately.

After he had dashed out of the saloon two men followed him, but he had a good start and easily escaped.

LARCENY OF $65,000

Charged to Hide Man, Who Is Released nI Bail of $40,000

Boston, Nov. 16.—Isaac H. Porter, treasurer of the Massachusetts Hide company, who was arrested following his indictment on charges preferred against him by Brown Bros., bankers, of this city and London, of the larceny of about $65,000, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the superior criminal court. Bail was fixed at $40,000, which he obtained before the court adjourned for the day.

Porter, who is about 50 years of age, was arrested a short time ago and the case was continued in the municipal court. The grand jury took up the matter last week and found an indictment charging eight offenses. The lower court proceedings were therefore dropped.

COST FOSS $37,000 TO WIN ELECTION

Second Largest Bill Ever Filed by a Bay State Candidate

Boston, Nov. 16.—It cost Eugene N. Foss $37,000 to wage his successful campaign for governor, according to the sworn statement which he filed with the secretary of state and the Boston city clerk yesterday.

Governor-elect Foss' campaign expenditures amounted to just $20,000 more than the amount which Governor Draper swore that he spent for his campaign, and was the largest campaign expense statement ever filed at the Boston city hall, with one exception. This was the campaign statement of James J. Storrow, who swore that it cost him $103,000 to make his fight for the mayoralty in the last city campaign.

Yesterday was the last day that candidates for office at the state election had to file their statements of campaign expenses under the corrupt practices act. Several candidates failed to do so and thus violated this law.

Maine Not Growing Fast

Washington, Nov. 16.—The census bureau made public the following population returns: Maine, 742,371; last census, 694,466; increase, 6.9 percent.

Twenty-Three Killed by Explosion

London, Nov. 16.—A dispatch from Shanghai states that twenty-three persons were killed by an explosion in a cartridge factory at Paoting.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

Melrose public school children have saved $631 by the stamp saving system since the summer vacation, showing it to be a success as it has already proved to be in Quincy since it was established by the Women's club a few years ago.

* * *

The November meeting of the Hospital Aid Association is to be held tomorrow afternoon at half past two at the residence of Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, Goffe street.

Wollaston Alliance is holding an all day sewing meeting today.

* * *

Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick of Chestnut street is hostess this week for the Friday club meeting in place of Mrs. Page as scheduled on the program and Mrs. George G. Saville is the committee with Gilbrater and Modern Spain as the subject.

The next meeting of the Quincy Women's club will be open to the public and men and women especially men will be welcome. The meeting will be at the club house on Tuesday afternoon at half past two in charge of the Civic committee. Dr. O. P. Gifford an able and interesting speaker will speak on "Points of Contact."

* * *

Waltham Woman's club has a most appropriate name for its annual musicale it being called "Treat Day." If it is anything like or as good as the program given each season by the Music committee of the Quincy Women's club the name is certainly appropriate.

* * *

The Natick Women's club has been so fortunate as to secure Judge Ben Lindsey for a lecture. After each member has been supplied there will be an opportunity for the public to purchase tickets.

* * *

There will be only one meeting of the Quincy Women's club in December but that is full of promise for it is to be a play to be given at Quincy Music hall under the auspices of the Art and Literature committee. "Pygmalion and Galatea" will be presented by a notable cast of well known women and there is considerable enthusiasm thus early.

* * *

Junior Friday club will be entertained on Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Georgiana C. Lane, Presidents hill. Miss Abigail B. Wood has the program in charge which continues the study of France with Napoleon and the Buonopartes, Josephine, Chateaubriand and David as special subjects.

* * *

Charitable Ten Circle of King's Daughters will hold a meeting Monday, November 21st, at 2.30 P. M. at the home of Mrs. Thomas Fenno, 538 Hancock street, Wollaston. The work will be sewing on articles for use of the City Hospital.

* * *

Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution is to give another of those delightful card parties on Saturday afternoon at the birthplace of President John Adams. Mrs. Frank F. Prescott and Mrs. Osborne Rogers have the affair in charge and already there is a long subscription list of those intending to be present.

* * *

The Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. is arranging for a seven-cent social to be held in Association hall on Wednesday, Dec. 7. The entertainment will be so unique in its arrangement of sevens that a large attendance is anticipated.

D. A. R.

The Abigail Phillips Quincy Chapter, D. A. R., was entertained Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Kimball, 83 Grand View avenue, Wollaston. Mrs. Walter F. Jones, regent was in the chair.

The program consisted of piano selections by Mrs. Kimball and a very interesting paper by Mrs. William E. Hingston on the old Quincy Homestead on Muirhead street, which was built in 1770, and in which many famous people have been entertained, Lafayette among the number. This was followed by the reading by Mrs. A. S. Paige of a "Ballad of Old Boston" and an anecdote of the present Josiah Quincy.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Barber, 92 Elm avenue on Dec. 12.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Kimball, Misses Helen and Frances Jones assisting.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Under the heading of "The comeback of a has-been" or the new outlook of the Women's club Miss Helen M. Vinslow the all-round club woman discussed a most interesting topic a few weeks ago in the Boston Herald which we reprint below:

Somebody wrote a football story of few months ago under the title already quoted. This led me to think of the appropriateness of it to the club movement among women. Most people look upon this form or organization as exceedingly modern; but it is not. There were small reading clubs for women in the middle of the last century. Immediately after the civil war the formation of such clubs as the New England Woman's Club and Sorosis of New York began. Still, it may be confessed that the real progress of the movement has been made in the last 25 years. And the general federation, the first union of these clubs, is now almost 21. Why, then, the significance of "The Come-Back of a Has-Been"?

Because the splendid women who were the active workers of a quarter of a century ago are today for the most part, by their own confession, "Has-Beens." They worked many years for the establishment of their ideas and were rewarded by seeing their "middle-aged women's unversities" grow in numbers and popularity. Only the most visionary among them dreamed of a great and thoroughly organized movement that should affect the morals, the education and even the legislation of their own communities. In those days the clubs were necessarily sponadic and formed for self-culture only. "The improvement of ourselves and our community" was the avowed object as stated in their first bylaws: and that was all and sometimes more than those first workers accomplished. But as time went on these little clubs multiplied and spread through large cities and small towns until the idea of "unity in diversity," that motto adopted by the G. F. W. C. at its inception in 1890 and now almost outgrown—that idea was conceived in the brain of Mrs. Croly the founder of Sorosis, and the beginning of federation became a fact.

When I became editor of a women's club department in one of the woman's magazines early in 1898, there was little to record beyond the workings of individual clubs. In those days, although the states had begun to form their own federations and organize some sort of systematic work, it was all too heterogeneous and chaotic, except as to plans, to make much account of in a department read by women who want to know about actual accomplishment, not vague plans. And so the story was told of individual clubs and what they could do, and sometimes did, for the betterment of their own communities. But any writer of club departments in those days found herself greatly hampered by the fact that the club member was interested only in her own club. Of the progress of the great movement which was already gathering force the average club woman in the nineties knew little.

And so the "Has-Been," who perhaps was active in the eighties, in leading her club; who was president for a time and accustomed to being looked up to as being far ahead of the lay membership on account of that position, whose word, in a sense, was law to her little club, if she gets back into harness today finds that she is still in the very A B C of the movement; that is unless she has kept step with the growth of the organization and the development of its members. She will find that she really knew nothing of parliamentary usage, for instance, although she was accredited at the time with its mastership by timid women who composed the club because they knew even less than she. In those days the average woman would have suffered almost anything rather than let her voice be heard in open meeting. She felt an admiration for any woman who dared handle a gavel and put a motion; she looked up to the leader because she had not found herself and her own voice. But now all clubwomen have been trained by parliamentary classes, current events classes and literature classes until they have not only found their voices, but their own minds; they have learned to form an intelligent opinion and to voice it. It is perfectly safe to say now that the average club woman knows far more about the rules of parliamentary procedure than did the presidents of clubs 20 years ago; and the same is true in principle of every department of club work.

But the real progress of the club movement is to be noted not alone in the club member, but in the systematic and intelligent accomplishment evident in every state where women's clubs have been at work for any length of time. Today almost the first thing an organization of men of a national scope for the public good does, is to set to work to interest the clubwomen in their plans and obtain their co-operation. Judge Lindsey says openly that he could never have succeeded in his fight to establish and maintain the juvenile court of Denver if he had not had the earnest and loyal support of the Colorado clubwomen. And that meant something, because other states were waiting to see what Denver did before taking hold of the juvenile court problem themselves. Clubwomen all over the country did more than the public will ever know to get the pure food bill put through Congress.

Let us take a look at the committees of the General Federation and so well are the states now organized that they have practically the same in every federation. There are large and efficient standing committees of the national body on art, civics, health, civil service reform, education, food sanitation, forestry, waterways, household economics, industrial and child labor conditions, legislation and last now instead of first as formerly, literature and library extension. That these committees are not honorary or merely ornamental is evidenced by the names of the women which compose them, women who are known workers like Mrs. Sarah Platt-Decker, Mrs. Imogene B. Oakley, Miss Laura Drake Gill, Sarah Louise Arnold, Caroline Hazard, M. Carey Thomas, Mary E. Woolley, Helen Varick Boswell of New York, Ellen Spencer Mussey of Washington, and May Alden Ward of Boston, with many more, just as efficient and capable. What these women are accomplishing would take a much longer article than this can be to enumerate.

Take the subject of food sanitation, for instance. The committees have worked vigorously to get women appointed as food inspectors in many cities and towns and have succeeded in hundreds of cases. The chairman of this department for the past two years was Mrs. Amidon, wife of Judge Amidon of North Dakota, and the attention given to better sanitation in the manufacture, storage and distribution of food products shows that her committee has accomplished wonders. They have enlisted the assistance of food commissioners in several states who are trying in every way to enlighten the public and the grocery man as well; for as one of the commissioners says, "distributors of food products are generally willing to comply with reasonable requirements of the law when they know what they are"; and it is a part of the work of club women to see that they are enlightened. A score-card has been prepared by means of which the condition of every store can be checked off and marked according to its rating. A description of a "Sanitary grocery" has been sent out by the committee, covering the necessary points—which will perhaps be given in a subsequent article. This alone would justify the existence of the pure food committee, even if they had not done a deal of other valuable work, inasmuch as it will raise the standard of grocery stores all over the country; for when the women of any community demand that the markets and grocery stores which they patronize must be sanitary, they will be.

Then, too, there is the health department wherein Mrs. Rufus Williams of Cambridge has been doing a great work. For a number of years she has devoted her time and thought to this subject, and has done more than any one woman would hardly undertake (if she were any one else) to awaken the public mind as to the dangers of tuberculosis and other diseases. She was earnestly responsible for the first ordinances in Massachusetts against spitting in public places and her interest has grown so that she has been speaking and writing on the spread of tuberculosis for years. Through the efforts of her committee a "health library" has been collected and placed in the G. F. W. C. Information Bureau at Portsmouth, N. H. These books have been carefully selected and may be borrowed by any woman's club at no expense save postage. The clubs have been induced, too, all over the country to establish a "health day" at least once every season when a program is provided which shall lead the men and women of a community to study local conditions and see what they can do to improve them. This committee has made an arrangement with the Playground Association of America whereby speakers on playgrounds will be supplied to clubs for travel expenses only; also they are doing much to spread the distribution of the United States department of agriculture's bulletin on "Nutrition."

The committee on child labor has worked hand in hand with the national committee on child labor and has been endeavoring recently to show the injustice of the contract system, and how thousands upon thousands of women are affected in their work and wages by its evils. The industrial conditions of working women are under close supervision by these women, headed by Miss Boswell, and effort is being made to secure necessary legislation to eliminate serious matters which affect the welfare of working women.

One has only to study the work of the home economics committee to realize the preponderance of home-loving women. At the biennial last May in Cincinnati, 85 per cent. of the women in attendance were wives and mothers and it was with singleness of heart and purpose that they were there; for eight days these women gave their attention to problems of social service, administration, development and conservation of vital forces relating to humanity. Was that of no importance in the present day history of our race? The making of better homes and better homemakers is the province of the home economic department and the training of girls who are growing up, so that they shall have an intelligent understanding of how to manage a home on small incomes if necessary, is the most important and vital thing we can accomplish; and those people, if any are left, who have cried out against the woman's club as a factor for the disintegration of the home, should study what has been accomplished along this line among the homes where clubwomen rule. Diet, nutritive value of foods, preparation of food healthful at low cost, sanitation, the training of children, household management, and all kindred subjects, are the province of this department, a section of club study, which is duplicated in every state in the Union.

Fire wardens, forestry laws, public parks, preservation of our native wild flowers and birds, are some of the objects of the forestry departments and committees. One of the subdivisions of the work is "water-ways" and one might wonder what possible interest club women could take and what they might do to help the cause of "waterways." But put it another way—"conservation of our natural resources"—and there you find the kernel of a reason. Conservation is economy and who is better fitted to plan and work with economy than the average wife and mother. One of the greatest enemies of this country is waste—careless, unthinking waste. We have wasted enough water-power in the last century to run the whole earth a long time. We have the greatest system of lakes, rivers and harbors in the world and we are only just waking up to the need of preserving and developing them. What part club women have in this work belongs to another paper; but they are doing something. And if they accomplished nothing but teach the proper understanding of this subject and all the others mentioned here to the rising generation, they would be doing a tremendous deed for the future of their country.

And all this is but a tithe of what the "Has-Been" would notice if she came back into modern club life after a retirement of a decade or so. She would look and listen with delight, mingled with awe, at what her comrades who have kept steadily on with the work have done. The entire spirit of the modern woman's club is a wonderful evolution from the simple beginnings of 50 years ago. Not even Julia Ward Howe or "Jennie June" would have believed in the sixties the things that are common knowledge today. And the best is yet to be.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

The address by Miss Alice L. Higgins, general secretary of the Associated Charities organization of Boston was delivered before a good-sized audience at the Women's clubhouse Tuesday morning. When we say that the audience was large it is said with a feeling at the same time that it was pitifully small considering the character of the work which was unfolded by the speaker. It is unfortunate that so many will have to get their conception of the address, second hand, because the forcefulness of the arguments must necessarily diminish in the process of assimilation by a second individual.

The following is an attempt which we must confess is not very successful, to reproduce the essential details of the address. Charitable work like all other professions has been developed gradually until it has at length become a science by itself. In a certain town there was a precipice over which numerous inhabitants used to fall. At first it was accepted as inevitable, the people fell over and that was the end. After a time an effort was made to remedy the situation. A person was stationed at the bottom to carry the injured to the hospitals. Finally the idea of prevention was hit upon and a watchman was stationed on the brow of the precipice to see that no one fell over.

Charitable work has gone through these same stages. First, fatalism, the needy must remain in need, then alleviation and cure. Prevention is generally accepted as the summit of charity, but we must go still farther and promote a vital welfare among the poor and needy. In order to do this there is a need of two things. First a trained worker and second, a united community.

All must work together for the upbuilding of a common humanity. Voltaire said: "You do good to your fellow men so that you can go to heaven. Rather you should do good to your fellow men because they are your fellow men." There is a deep seated need for work among the unfortunate and the educated. Much work is being done by many organizations but most of them lack two essentials, system and knowledge.

In London, the associated charity work began with a few men and women with ideas and a knowledge of what they were doing. A doctor must have great skill to mend a broken leg. So must a charity worker have great skill to mend a broken purpose. In a great industrial plant the raw material so shapless and unresponding at first is moulded into the finished product.

The associated charities take the raw materials of manhood and womanhood and mould them into the finished product of citizen and home maker. To do this a trained worker is needed. It was not very long ago that the idea of having a trained nurse was laughed at by the majority of people. The kind hearted soul who was born with an ability to administer was considered capable enough. Today the trained nurse is considered almost as necessary as the doctor. So the trained social worker has had to win her way.

At present the demand is much greater than the supply although there are training schools in many of the large cities of the country. The worker is taught to penetrate the real cause of a difficulty and solve the problem for the individual much better than the indivdual could do it for himself. When a patient calls the doctor he tells him his theories as to the cause of the trouble. Then the doctor asks a few questions of the patient and determines the real cause.

A social worker went to a family where the cry was for old clothes. She found out that the frail daughter of the household was trying to support the family but owing to her physical condition could do but little. The girl was sent to school and afterward had a year at college thus equipping her to earn a livelihood and support the family by means of her brains. At present the girls is doing excellent work as a secretary of a charitable organization.

The trained worker rehabilitaes the family, lifting its members from their state of degeneracy up to their best selves. In doing this, cooperation is the keynote. The worker must study conditions, discover the likeness between the individuals, find a means of exchanging ideals with them and try to elevate the ideals which are low. There must be cooperation among the workers and the organizations which she represents. Each individual must be a cheerful mourner at the funeral of her own ideas.

Another important need is progressiveness. The people must get out of ruts in their ideas of charity. A newspaper editor was asked to change the size of his paper "What, change the size of my paper," he said, "why every pantry and kitchen in the country would have to be changed to fit it." Each year the organizations should scrutinize their platform, see what it is made of, who built it and how it can be improved.

In Quincy there is a large foreign population and all kinds of people. The central idea of charitable work is to promote and advance American citizenship. The task is as great as any we can think of, to assimilate the large foreign element and train those who form its component parts in good citizenship. It is as much the duty of the Board of Trade as it is of the churches and the Women's club and kindred organizations to lend a hand in this great work. The framers of the Declaration of Independence had a duty to perform in obtaining the freedom of America.

We of the present generation must work to preserve America. The task is much greater than that which confronted the revolutionary heroes.

Quincy as a city is just the right size to be managable and to give the best results under the direction of a trained social worker. This paid official could get in touch with all classes ,those who would help and those in need. The teachers and principals would be asked to cooperate by telling about the pupils and their homes. The worker would go to the homes and remedy the situation there. She would find out what sort of work the boys and girls fourteen years old enter into when they leave school and direct them toward an occupation in which there is a chance of advancement and a good influence upon the morals of the youth.

In the second place the worker would encourage those children of poor parents who had special talents and help them in their development.

Another very important phase of the work is removing the possibility of duplication. In the north end of Boston one old maid with two cats, received twelve turkeys from different organizations before the associated charities organization was started. But the worst evil is the advice which families receive from contributors. The solicitious questioning and well meant advice of half a dozen or more persons each with different ideas do more harm than good.

The organizations which support the worker should have a weekly conference, read the lists of people who need help that have come within the notice of the different societies, and turn over the work to the social worker. In this conference, a man's point of view will be needed. The women sometimes have a tendency toward getting sentimental or over severe. There should be men on the general committee to keep the balance.

This conference method has proved to be the best means of systematizing the charitable work of a city. The members of the conference should be representative men and women from all denominations. This group would make a special study of Quincy society where it is weak. The need would be ascertained and the cure decided upon. The individual will be helped and the type of citizenship thus elevated. The committee would have to get the point of view of those they were helping and thus get the best means of making them better citizens.

Down in Panama many men are working on the great canal. The work means different things to different individuals. To some it means simply digging a big ditch, to others, to those who can see beyond the little horizon of the present, it means uniting two worlds. And so it is in charitable work. Many look upon it as merely giving a meal to a hungry family, but to those who have the broader horizon and have been trained in the work, it means uniting two great classes of people.

After the address there was a discussion for the purpose of localizing the question. All those who expressed an opinion believed that Quincy needed a paid social worker to direct the energies of the various charitable organizations in the city. At present about 12 societies out of 80 are represented in the charities conference.

The idea of organizing more extensively is to enable all the organizations to do more efficient work. Each society would keep its individuality but the paid secretary would act as a connecting link between the workers and the needy. The overseer of the poor should do his work in connection with the private charitable organizations and there should be an understanding between the public and private workers on the question of finances and with regard to the people who were to be helped.

The work of training citizens must be approached with a great deal of wisdom and only a trained worker could do the work properly among the classes with which the associated charities deal. The day of cheap administration has passed in all kinds of work, but the system which is perfected by the trained worker saves more than the salary she receives. In one town, the budget is $9,000. The secretary receives $1,200. Without the worker, two or three thousand of the nine would be wasted and the additional $9,000 which she collected from indivduals would never have been obtained.

The work should be carried on as non-sectarian and thus avoid the danger of proselyting. With a secretary representing all the organizations of all denominations this would be made possible. Quincy is said to be the most charitable city in New England and with the right individual to direct the work, more wonderful results could be accomplished. Each organization would have more work to do if the secretary were obtained. She would give all her time to the one purpose and thus find many worthy cases which escaped the notice of the organizations working separately and lacking that unity of purpose which is one of the essential qualifications of success.

ART LECTURE.

Friends and members of the Quincy Women's club had the pleasure on Tuesday afternoon of attending a lecture on art in the hill towns of Italy given at First Church chapel by Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus, first president of the club. The lecture was under the auspices of the committees on art and program and was complimentary to the club.

Mrs. Bumpus has three Italian lectures and for Tuesday took Perugia and the Etruscan Tombs. Her talk was illustrated with lantern slides which added much to the interest of the lecture. The Etruscan gates, old walls, the Mediaeval character of the city, the palaces and churches were described and the artistic reproduced in the illustrations. Masterpieces of the city's famous painters Bonfigli, Perugino and Raphael were shown. The romance of Perugia's Palazzo Publico, the cathedral San Lorenzo and the Pisani fountain, the Gonfaloni and the environment of richness and art of early Italian days was all most interesting.

RIP VAN WINKLE RECITAL.

Every seat was taken in Livermore hall, Quincy Mansion school Monday evening for the lecture recital of Rip Van Winkle by Mr. George Kiernan. He was introduced by Prof. Marceau and spoke first of Joseph Jefferson whose name is inseparable with that of Rip Van Winkle, of his personality and lovableness. How men went again and again to see him in the play. Knowing him personally Mr. Kiernan was able in his recital to bring the favorite actor vividly to the minds of his audience.

Before each act he described the scenes so that one could almost see the lightning and hear the thunder the night Rip left home for his long sleep, and as he changed his voice from Rip to Meanie ,his little daughter, it did not take imagination to think you heard the child speaking,—and the last act with half a dozen people one could shut their eyes and easily imagine them all there in real life. The funny little episodes like Rip describing trying to shoot the rabbit, when he shot the bull and when he got the lad to read him the legal paper that Dextrick wanted him sign, were all cleverly done and the sympathetic parts extremely well portrayed.

Words can hardly describe the pleasure of the evening. To many it carried them back twenty years or so when Jefferson played the part and was at his best. It was a thoroughly delightful evening and every one present felt much indebted to Mrs. Willard for the pleasure.

TODAY'S COURT.

Charles A. Leo and Charles McCarthy were fined $5 each and Edward Howley and Edward Dacey $3 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

Mabel Johnson and Marion Peck were arraigned for breaking and entering at Milton.

The continued case of Friedolf Johnson for assault on Emma Gustafson at Quincy was called and the case placed on file on payment of costs amounting to $5.

IN FASHION'S REALM

Great Year for Furs Sable and Seal Popular.

Fur Trims Gowns as well as Suits.

Every woman sighs twice when she hears that it is to be a fur season, once for pleasure and once for envy. The latter quality comes about because she fears her dress allowance will not let her get new furs.

It is quite true that the milliners can do wonders with the furs that one has, but this does not keep a woman from wanting new ones. Lovely things is the shape of coats, evening wraps, hats and muffs have appeared that have all the charm of novelty. Women want these. Why shouldn't they?

It is just as hard to do without the new thing in furs as it is the new thing in gowns. The drawback is that one can afford the latter more easily than the former. One feels in buying furs that one is buying gems. They must last forever. Yet they don't and even if they did the furriers have seen to it that the styles change so rapidly that a woman is uncomfortable in wearing a fur garment that is not altered each year.

The lightning change method in fur fashions came about through the introduction of semi-precious furs, the kind that had their origin in the common garden cat and the ordinary rabbit. Pelts that were of no importance in the world before suddenly become glorified, were made up by master hands, given new names and projected into a fashionable world.

The beginning of such economy on the part of the furriers began with the Russian colts. These wild ponies have been used for food for a century or more by the Russian peasants, and the skins are thrown away as impossible to use. A promoter of pelts saw their possibilities and sent them into the great market places to be used for coats.

These skins become so fashionable that the value of a Russian pony coat was steep. The thing that a peasant had thrown away had become the covering of a smart woman. So great was the demand for them that the American calfskin was made up to look as much like the original as fashion demanded, and so they became the style.

After this success furries began to see the possibilities of everything that had a hide. Nothing, from a mole to a moose, escaped notice. These semi-precious furs were not expensive, as furs go, and they were so plentiful that the furriers took the opportunity afforded by the demand to change the style so rapidly that their purses would not be depleted. When it became the fashion to change fur every minute, the precious pelts suffered with the semi-precious ones, and women began to despair of ever keeping up with the style in furs.

There is one comfort about the furs of this season. The garments, like coats and wraps and neckpieces, are so narrow and scanty that one will have enough to make them from garments that have gone before. Another reason for relief is that two or more furs are combined on the most fashionable garments, and this gives one a chance to use up all the household furs in one new and astonishing garment.

Even the best furriers have no hesitation in combining sealskin and Russian rat, sable and skunk, ermine and fox. Unless one has a long garment to begin with, there is trouble in store for one who would remodel. It is a contrary rule that has made every jacket short but a fur one, and insists that it reaches nearly to the hem of the gown.

It is this length that makes the new coats expensive. They make up in length what they are denied in width. When the garment is of sable the cost proclaims itself, but fortunately there are lesser furs that are in good taste and high fashion. There is a seal plush that is widely used and is exceptionally pretty. It cannot depend on itself for a lovely result, but must be combined with a deep hem and front border of black fox or brown skunk.

The latter is a more fashionable choice. One sees it on everything from breakfast caps to ball gowns. It is used on all manner of other furs except sable and ermine. Usually there is an eight-inch band of it at the hem, as this especial fashion is very much to the front.

One rarely sees a long garment of any kind that is not finished off in this way. There are leaden weights sometimes put in this band to drag the heavy garment into straight and narrow lines. The band is put on for the purpose of keeping the rest of the garment trig and narrow around the knees.

This narrowness is a main feature of the new fur garments, as it is, in fact, of all the garments that are long enough to come under that fashion. Somehow the narrowness below the hips seems more accentuated in the fur coats than even in the skirts of the day. And there is a great art in wearing the coat so that it will show off this tightly drawn line.

The Paris women, even the models in the dressmaking establishments, are being taught with great care and attention to pull the fur coat well across the body just below the hips, and to fasten it over on the left side in such a way that it will remain.

At Bechoff-David's one morning nearly an hour was spent by two artists arranging a wonderful wrap again and again cross the figure, in order to get the large fancy button at exactly the right spot. This work was to insure the wrap being worn in exactly the right way.

In all the new fur coats that have dash and style to them the right side is crossed far over toward the left hip and lifted a little where it is gathered into soft folds and fastens over one large buton in the form of a rosette. This sometimes makes the hem a bit uneven, but if the right side hangs well and the effect is not ungraceful the unevenness is not important.

The dressmakers here are not quite sure that they can persuade women to carry their coats in this fashion. They may prefer to fasten them straight down the front in the usual way, but one thing is certain, that the coat will be narrow and straight from the waist to hem.

It is said by those who are well versed in the experiments of the future that the fact that expensive fur coats are cut on such narrow lines is the best argument that the slender contour will continue in favor until Spring. It is to be earnestly hoped that this is true, but the pessimists say we shall have plaits in January. It would take philosophy and an angel disposition combined to stand with equanimity another about-face in fashion in six months.

It is quite true the Paris, which eliminated plaits in May, can begin to talk about restoring them in the near future, but the narrow skirt is just coming into widespread use over here and we are beginning to consider it a comfortable fashion. Dressmakers are advising one to retain an extra width of the goods of each gown unless one is found in a predicament by the first of the year.

This may be advisable with skirts, but it certainly cannot be taken up seriously with fur coats. It is not practical. If we invest money in expensive fur garments that demand a narrow silhouette beneath, 10 to 1 we will refuse to even admit the fact that full skirts could come in until the cold weather is over.

Probably the so-called Russian muff and neckpiece is the brilliant novelty of the season. The former could serve as a laprobe on bitter days. It is so huge that it covers the entire front of the skirt and not only keeps the hands warm but most of the arm.

It is not necessary to make it all of fur. This can be done if one has a liberal allowance. Many of the best muffs are concocted from Persian gauze or silk overlaid with a dark color of chiffon, then trimmed with fur and bands of gold and silver brocade. The latter are six or eight inches wide and they are put in the form of a Greek cross and then edged with sable, fox or skunk.

The edges of the muff are bordered with three or four-inch bands of fur, and the effect of the whole is brilliant, daring, and original. This Greek cross motif, which is strongly Russian and which was borrowed from that country, is carried out on many pieces of fur.

A sable coat, for instance, which has a sailor collar of black fox, and fastens double-breasted, has a Greek cross in heavy gold lace and braid. These are quite tarnished to give the appearance of age and are sewn with small turquoises and jet beads. This cross is placed just over the bust at the end of the collar.

The Russian muff, with its combination of chiffon, metal braid and fur, is the novelty of the season. It is preferred to the plain muff no matter how handsome the pelt. One of the most daring ideas that has been developed is of night blue chiffon cloth over fur, with a design in tiny blue and black ostrich tips. There are wide bands of black fox at the sides and across the middle.

To go with this muff is a Victorian mantle made of the blue chiffon over black satin with an edge of ostrich tips and a border of black fox. This gives an idea of the elaboration of the new muff It makes the small affair of other days look trivial and insignificant. There is no way or altering it except to cut it into bands and put on a large pillow foundation of black or dark-colored chiffon, with a bit of old gold braid.

None of these muffs is suitable for morning wear, so one is not quite sure just what to get to keep the hands warm when one is trotting up and down the street. It is possible that this warmth will be supplied by a moderately large square muff of pointed black fox or seal plush bordered with skunk.—Anne Rittenhouse in New York Times.

HANGING PICTURES.

In hanging pictures there must be a scheme to which the general tone of the pictures should conform.

A dark carbon must not hang close to an etching drawn in delicate lines and bordered by a broad white mat.

If water-colors with their soft tints elbow oil paintings with their bolder tones, the former will be faded, the latter coarsened, by the proximity.

Etchings, photographs, drawings, azure engravings, water-colors, pastels, may be assembled on friendly terms.

Even then, however, there must be judgment exercised in the way they are placed.

Dark, heavily shaded pictures should not always hang in the strongest light, but should in some cases seek a sheltered position, away from the glare of the windows.

Near the light belong the pictures in fainter tints, the subdued watercolors, the line engravings, whose best points need illumination.

This order may sometimes be reversed when the corner farthest from the window shows a decided need of brightening by light pictures, but always the gradation of tints should be borne in mind.

In a well-planned room the darkest color is found in the carpet, and melts from that through the shades of the curtains and furniture to the lightest nuance in the wall; similarly the lower pictures should be more sombre in hue than the upper, and should lead the eye unconsciously from the deepest hue to the highest light.

A dark corner may be brightened by a brilliant water-color or pastel, perhaps, but its position must be studied, for if the general tone of a room is low, it is risky to accentuate it at too many points by spots of color.

When a group of photographs or etchings of outdoor scenes is broken by a full-length figure piece, the effect is inartistic in the extreme.

Oil paintings rarely mingle well with other sorts of pictures, save occasional engravings.

One or two oils of high merit may have a reserved corner in the drawing-room, removed from comparison with pictures of other classes. Unless the paintings are remarkable in their excellence they should have a more retired position in the library or dining-room, which is the retreat for family portraits, which are distinctly out of place in the drawing or reception-room.

No counsel concerning the hanging of pictures would be complete without a word regarding the wall on which they are to appear. The general subject of wall hangings is too large to be dwelt upon now at any length, and can thus be treated chiefly in its relation to the pictures that are to go upon it.

It goes without saying that a cartridge or flock paper of a solid color is the best background for pictures of any kind, and that even the slightest figure in a wall paper is a distraction to the eye.

It is especially harmful to the effect of pictures of an inconspicuous order and framed simply in wood, or a narrow setting of any kind.

Oil paintings in heavy gilded frames or large, broadly framed engravings show to better advantage upon a figured wall paper than any other kind of picture, but it is safe for the person who chooses a figured wall hanging to make up her mind to depend upon that for ornament and put most of her pictures in some other part of the house.

It is safe to advise soft olive greens and browns or certain subdued shades of terra cotta for well-lighted apartments, and clear buff or old rose or even old blue for darker rooms, although the last is a shade to be handled with caution.

A brilliant red is often a danger signal and must be approached with care. It should rarely be selected for a living room, unless much of the wall space is covered by bookcases and cabinets or broken by doors and windows.

For restfulness there is no hue like a deep green in workroom or sitting-room and probably no other tint brings out to greater advantage the good points of pictures of any kind.

The happy aspect of both pictures and wall depends to a large extent on the framing of the former.

The solid gilt frame that was once thought the only one for any and every work of art has been superseded in most cases by the natural wood.

The choice of this and of the mat is almost as important as the first selection of the picture itself.

Some cleverly artistic women take their pictures to a wall-paper dealer, select from his stock of flock or cartridge papers the tint they wish, buy a roll of it, and from this they have their framemaker cut a mat of the required size and shape.

Such mats, mounted with a frame chosen to suit, are charming.

STRICKEN WITH A HIGH FEVER

Doubt Expressed as to Recovery of Count Tolstoi

TRAGIC ENDING OF CAREER

Said to Have Been Foreseen by Count, Who Wished to Spare Family Trouble Because of Excommunication of Greek Church—Devoted Wife, Who Is Also Dangerously Ill, Hastens to His Bedside

Tula, Russia, Nov. 16.—The conditions of both Count Leo Tolstoi and the countess are reported as critical. The count appears to be succumbing to a fever brought on by mental distress and exposure incident to his voluntary exile from home, while his deserted wife is dying of a broken heart.

The imaginative mind of the novelist scarcely could have conceived a more tragic ending of two lives that have been interwoven for half a century. Tolstoi, overcome with fatigue while attempting to continue his pilgrimage from the monastery at Shamardino to the Caucasus, where he had hoped to spend his last days in the Tolstoian colony on the shores of the Black sea, lies in a miserable hut at the railroad flag station of Astapova, at which point he was removed from the train when his physician and companion, Dr. Makovetsky, realized that a continuation of the journey would result in certain death. Makovetsky and consulting physicians declare that the state of Tolstoi is very serious.

On the Tolstoi estate at Yasnaya Poliana less than eighty miles from Astapova, the countess yesterday received the last sacrament. When her husband disappeared last Thursday she attempted to commit suicide. Since then one nervous crisis after another has followed. For four days she had not touched food. The two physicians in constant attendance say that their patient is prostrated mentally and physically.

Those in close touch with the novelist say that Tolstoi felt the approach of death and that his disappearance from home was influenced by a desire to spare his family pain and the complications that might ensue regarding his funeral because of his excommunication from the Greek church.

Yesterday afternoon Countess Tolstoi astonished her friends by asking that she be taken to her husband. She would not listen to objections and became so insistent that arrangements to remove her to Astopova were made. Later in the day the party proceeded to Astapova, the countess being accompanied by two sons and a friend, M. Tchertkoff.

Less apprehension was felt later for the countess, who exhibited marked improvement, following the receipt of a touching letter from her husband. It was written at Shamardino, after the count had learned from his daughter Alexandra of her mother's distress.

Less encouraging news came from Astapova. Tolstoi apparently is approaching his end. The fever has not abated and occasional severe chills are experienced. The aged man is most of the time in a stupor or delirium, when he calls out the names of old-time friends.

Tolstoi's daughter Alexandra is acting as his nurse. Telegraphic reports of his condition are far from favorable. Indeed, they are considered extremely pessimistic. His temperature is 104, indicating probably a serious congestion, and of itself an alarming symptom in one of Tolstoi's years. Moreover, the mental anguish of the patient handicaps the efforts of the physicians to reduce the fever.

FIVE YEARS FOR FAXON

Embezzler of $7300 From Bank Is Sentenced at Boston

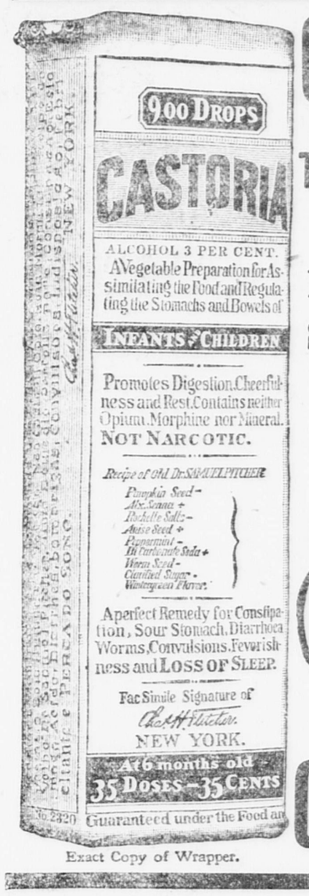

Boston, Nov. 16.—Harold B. Faxon was sentenced to five years in the Greenfield jail by Judge Dodge in the United States district court. The defendant pleaded guilty to the embezzlement of $7300 of the funds of the People's National bank of Roxbury.

The embezzlement was committed several years ago and the indictment to which Faxon was allowed to plead guilty was one returned two years ago.

Faxon was brought back from Nevada recently, having been located there under the assumed name of John Morgan.

VOLLEY FROM MAGAZINE GUN

Fired by Highwaymen Near Scene of Big Robbery

ONE MAN SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Laborers Employed on South Egremont Railroad Extension Scamper For Shelter as Shots Ring Out—Bandits Return and Dig Up Loot, Incidentally Seeking Vengeance on Those Who Were Active In Pursuit

Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 16—Bandits yesterday afternoon fired a volley of rifle shots from the woods at laborers employed on the South Egremont railroad extension.

Veto Martanelli, who has been active in the search for the highwaymen who held up and robbed Paymaster Hein and his two armed guards of $20,000 last Saturday, was shot and seriously wounded.

Other shots whistled about the heads of the workmen, just missing Foreman McCormack and Nelson G. Tillman, the day working boss. Daniel Burgess, the boss of Martanelli's gang, jumped a fence and escaped a bullet aimed at him.

The fusillade came from a dense thicket within a rod of the point where the robbery of Hein was accomplished by three armed and masked men.

The shots were fired at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, just after the discovery of a freshly dug hole in the woods nearby, from which it is believed the robbers had just removed their booty.

State Detective Bligh, who is in charge of the armed posse in pursuit of the robbers, believes that the robbers broke through the cordon of pursuers, came back to dig up their loot and then opened fire on the construction crew to settle scores with some of the most active leaders in the chase.

When the ripping explosions of four shots from a magazine rifle rang out, Martanelli, who was the nearest of a gang near the thicket, screamed and dropped across the ties, shot through the left hand and in the abdomen.

Frenzied with terror, the laborers fled down the cut across the fields and out into the Mt. Washington road. The panic spread from gang to gang for three miles along the extension and 500 frightened men were soon in full retreat.

Later, some of the braver men armed themselves from the stacked rifles and shotguns in the bunk houses and went into the woods in pursuit of the bandits.

Several times men were heard plunging through the thick brush and an occasional shot was fired when the pursuit pressed too close.

The hole where the bags of money were dug up was found yesterday afternoon by Harry Black and Gilbert Hawver, who have been searching the woods since last Saturday. Snow fell yesterday morning, but there was none in the excavation, which was eighteen inches deep and two feet wide, and the soil that had been dug out was dry and fresh.

Black and Hawver were led to the spot under a hemlock about half a mile through the woods from the scene of the robbery, by bits of cloth tied to trees, marking the trail for 100 yards from an old woods road.

Just as they reached the spot and realized the importance of their discovery they heard the four rifle shots. They are positive that the bandits had just dug up their booty and were settling scores with some of the Italians before making their getaway.

It is believed that Martanelli was shot because he had been very active in searching the woods during his time off duty and seeking to earn the reward of $700 offered by his employers.

Martanelli was rushed to the hospital in Pittsfield and is in a serious condition. He denies all knowledge of the identity of the hold-up men and says he saw nothing in the brush when the shots were fired.

The detectives believe the bandits were trying to kill someone they feared might betray them and discourage the other Italians from further searching in the woods.

NO GREAT CANAL PROBLEMS

Construction a Matter of Magnitude Rather Than Difficulty

Panama, Nov. 16.—President Taft was delighted to find that the engineers here do not regard any of the canal problems as serious. They say that the whole question of construction is one of magnitude rather than of engineering difficulties and that many more obstacles than are presented here have been overcome in construction work in New York city.

Mr. Taft was last night entertained by the Young Men's Christian association and the Red Cross society at Culebra.

Broker Fails For $174,000

Boston, Nov. 16.—Frederick E. Brooks of Quincy, a real estate broker, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with the clerk of the United States district court. His liabilities are $174,010.96, with no assets.

WILLIAM A. GASTON

Democrats Favor Him as Lodge's Opponent

GASTON BEING GROOMED

May Be Named by Democrats to Oppose Lodge For Senator

Boston, Nov. 16.—The 127 Democrats who are to be members of the next legislature have it in their power to bring about the retirement of Senator Lodge, according to the latest analysis of the election returns, and they will be asked to do it by nominating a candidate of their own, and this candidate in all probability will be William A. Gaston.

There are thirteen Republicans who say that under no circumstances will they vote for Lodge, and a majority are non-committal.

As the legislature stands today it will be impossible to re-elect the senior senator provided the Democrats refuse to vote for him.

T. R. HAS NOTHING TO ADD OR RETRACT

Makes His First Comment Since the Recent Elections

New York, Nov. 16.—The following statement by Theodore Roosevelt, his first comment since the recent elections, will appear in the forthcoming issue of The Outlook:

"On every hand, personally and by correspondence, I have been asked to make a statement regarding the election. So far as I am concerned, I have nothing whatever to add to or to take away from the declaration of the principles which I have made in the Ossawatomie speech and elsewhere, east and west, during the past three months. The fight for progressive popular government has merely begun, and will certainly go on to a triumphant conclusion in spite of initial checks and irrespective of the personal success or failure of individual leaders."

WAR ON SIDEWALK SPITTERS

Intelligent Offenders to Be Picked Out by the Boston Police

Boston, Nov. 16.—Police Commissioner O'Meara last evening issued a general order to the police department of the city ordering the arrest and prosecution of sidewalk spitters, beginning on Thursday of this week.

It is the idea of the commissioner that the crusade against spitting on sidewalks be a systematic one. Therefore he orders that at least one prosecution in each division be made on Thursday of this week, two on Friday and three on Saturday and on each day following until further orders. Only grown persons who look intelligent and able to pay their fines are to be arrested at first.

GIRL NOT KIDNAPPED

Marion Larkin Voluntarily Returns to Her Home at Boston

Boston, Nov. 16.—Marion Larkin, the 11-year-old girl who was believed to have been kidnapped from her home in Roxbury on Saturday, returned to her home yesterday afternoon, and explained why she had been away.

The girl had taken some money from the house to go to a moving picture show. After that, she said, she saw some children playing on a veranda. She joined the children. She told a fantastic story to the mother of the children. She remained with them from Saturday night until yesterday afternoon.

Father and Son Were Tried For Murder of Carmack

ROBIN DECLARED NOT GUILTY

Verdict Recommended by Attorney General of Tennessee—Colonel Had Been Convicted, but Pardoned by Governor—Story of Political Tragedy In Which Former Senator and Newspaper Man Was Shot Down

Nashville, Nov. 16.—Robin J. Cooper, charged with the murder of former United States Senator Edward W. Carmack Nov. 9, 1908, was given a verdict of not guilty in the criminal court here on recommendation of Attorney General Anderson. This has brought to a close one of the most celebrated court cases in the annals of Tennessee.

With the acquittal of Robin Cooper, the curtain is rung down on a political tragedy that two years ago stirred all Tennessee. Colonel Duncan B. Cooper, though pardoned by Governor Patterson, stands convicted of the murder of Carmack; his son, Robin, found guilty once before, is now exonerated by a second trial ordered by the highest tribunal of the state. The men who sent Carmack to his grave are thus both free.

On March 19, 1909, the two Coopers were found guilty of murder in the second degree and were sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment for killing the former statesman and editor of the Nashville Tennesseean.

Carmack ran for the gubernatorial nomination on a statewide prohibition platform in the primaries held a few months before his death. His opponent, Malcolm R. Patterson, who was strongly supported by the Anti-Prohibition party, had the support throughout the campaign of Colonel Cooper. Feeling ran high, and when Patterson won the nomination and the election, Carmack referred editorially to Cooper in a manner which angered Cooper greatly.

Several times Cooper sent warnings to the office of The Tennessean, demanding that editorials in which his name appeared should be discontinued. Carmack took no notice of Cooper's warnings and on the day of the tragedy there appeared in Carmack's paper an editorial which held Cooper up to ridicule. Upon the appearance of this editorial Cooper's intention was to write a personal letter to Carmack, demanding an apology and a promise of editorial exemption in the future. He was dissuaded from sending the note, which he dictated in belligerent terms. Later in the afternoon, accompanied by his son Robin, he started to walk to the state house to see Governor Patterson.

John D. Sharp, a friend of Cooper, accompanied the two. On one of the main streets of Nashville Carmack was encountered. According to the testimony of both Colonel Cooper and his son they walked across the street with the intention of meeting Carmack and of talking over with him the subject of Cooper's grievance. As soon as he caught sight of them, the Coopers later said in their defense, Carmack drew a revolver from his pocket and opened fire upon them.

Robin Cooper drew his revolver, but not until he had received one of Carmack's bullets through his shoulder, so he testified at his trial. Robin Cooper only fired at Carmack, and he fell dead. Though the defense of the Coopers was that they fired only after Carmack had begun to shoot at them there were witnesses for the state who testified at the trial that they had heard Colonel Cooper say, "We've got the drop on you, Carmack," just before the shooting commenced.

Intense interest centred about the trial of the two Coopers and of Sharp, who was jointly indicted with them on the charge of murder in the first degree. Great difficulty was experienced in getting a jury, but when the box was filled the trial moved forward briskly. During the course of the trial Patterson appeared as a witness for the Coopers. The governor told of efforts he had made before the tragedy to prevent trouble between Cooper and Carmack, and his testimony was strongly favorable for the defendants.

As stated above, the Coopers were found guilty, but Sharp was acquitted on appeal. The state supreme court affirmed the verdict in the case of Colonel Cooper but ordered a retrial for Robin Cooper on the ground that Robin acted in self-defense and that he had no criminal intent. Last April Governor Patterson pardoned the elder man.

BRIEFS

The City Council Committee on Finance meets tonight.

The Prosit club held a very successful dance in Alpha hall Tuesday evening. About 100 couples were present.

Sam Melville, who came on from Canada last week to be operated upon for appendicitis, is convalescing rapidly. He is at home to friends during the visiting hours at the city hospital.

The Ramblers will hold their first dance in Alpha hall Friday evening. Many High school pupils are expected to attend since the hosts are mostly in the High school, and are representing the school on the athletic teams.

The South Quincy Extension club is putting the finishing touches on the plays to be given next Monday in Alpha hall under the direction of Erastus Osgood. "Slasher and Crasher" and "Turn him out," are both screamingly funny farces.

Great plans have been made for "College night" at the Y. M. C. A. by members of the College club. Henry Trask, president and Herbert Sutermeister, chairman of the social committee, have been exceedingly industrious, and a large and happy gathering is assured next Friday evening.

Quincy housekeepers are becoming much interested in the free cooking lessons given each afternoon by Harriette Louise Jennings at Union hall. Today's menu was whole wheat bread and rolls, hot cross buns and peach baskets and tomorrow's will be tea rolls, German coffee, cake and jelly roll. The ad in today's Ledger gives a full list of the menus.

A concert of unusual merit is to be given on Monday evening at Bethany church, one in which Quincy musical people are much interested. Those to take part are Emma Shufeldt Moore, Alice Gertrude Coe, Edward E. Bullock, Albert L. Hayden, Madame Ellen Beale Morey, Bertha Louise Hanson, the church choir and the boys' choir. The program as arranged, for variety and excellence, is sure to bring out the seating capacity of the auditorium.

Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., always has ideas of its own in its degree work, and many lodges were represented at the meeting Tusday evening and pleased with the first work of the new first degree staff, of which Past Grand C. S. Jones is degree master. Not only were the Wollaston and Neponset lodges in the district represented but many lodges from Boston, Roslindale and other places. The lodge also has a reputation for hospitality.

COOKING LESSONS

Everything Free for Ladies at Union Hall

The free cooking school at Union hall, Kincaide building, merits the attention of every housekeeper in Quincy. Afternoons at 2.30, demonstrations will be given during the remainder of this week and on Monday and Tuesday of next week. Every woman who wants to know how to make good bread, cake, cookies, buns, etc., should plan to attend these sessions. Everything is free, including handsome recipe books, samples of the cooking and the valuable instruction given by the teacher of domestic science who is in charge.

The menu for today is whole wheat bread and pastry basket. Yesterday the session was well attended and all profited greatly by the suggestions and instruction of the teacher, Harriette Louise Jennings of New York. The Fleischmann yeast company sent her down here to give this series of demonstrations for a two-fold purpose, first of keeping the company's names and their product before the public, and second, of teaching housekeepers the best means of fashioning the staff of life and other wholesome necessities. All the methods and utensils used are thoroughly up to date, and it would pay any one who does home baking to attend these lectures given by a capable teacher.

BRIEFS

The Scottish dance will take place in Electa hall this evening.

The Sacred Heart associates of Atlantic are to hold a concert and dance tonight at Music hall.

Harry S. Cummings has returned to his position in Cox's drug store after several months' absence.

The Knights and Ladies of Honor will meet in Protection hall this evening.

There is to be a supper and entertainment this evening at First church chapel.

A special meeting of the Amalgamated society of Carpenters and Joiners is called for this evening in room 24, Johnson building.

Mayor Shea this morning signed the two orders appropriating money for new school buildings at Wollaston and Montclair. The former carried an appropriation of $75,000 and the latter an appropriation of $45,000.

Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, will exemplify the first and second degrees at Greenleaf hall Thursday evening and the third degree at St. Mary's hall Nov. 22. The council will also give a grand concert at Alpha hall Nov. 28 for the benefit of the Tuberculosis camp.

W. E. Blanchard and family have gone to Sherborn, Mass., to occupy the old Blanchard homestead. This was Mr. Blanchard's birthplace and the home of Dr. Blanchard, his father, for over 50 years. With the exception of his five years of service as army surgeon during the Civil war, the doctor followed his practice in the village continuously from the time of his graduation from Harvard medical school until his death a year ago. Thus it seems quite fitting that another generation should take up their residence there and preserve the family name in the community.

AIRSHIPS FOR SCOUT DUTY

Aviator to Make Test For United States Naval Officials

Washington, Nov. 16.—The next step United States naval officials will take in the study of airships will be to test the possibility of an aerial craft landing on a warship.

This is indicated by officials of the navy department, who are convinced as a result of Aviator Ely's flight from the deck of the scout cruiser Birmingham that the airship could play an important part in naval warfare in the future.

Officers of the navy generally believe that its present usefulness to a fleet in time of war will be for scout duty.

FALL OF VALLADARES

Foreign Naval Forces Are Withdrawn From Honduras

Washington, Nov. 16.—The foreign naval forces have been withdrawn from Amapala, Honduras, and General Valladares, who has been holding the port in defiance of President Davila, has been relieved by his successor. The formal fall of Valladares was accomplished without disturbance.

These advices were received by the navy department in a dispatch from Commander Anderson of the United States gunboat Yorktown.

MORE TRIPLETS.

Albert Sanders of New York, met James McLoughlin also of New York, and "Mac" announced that the stork was soon expected to visit his home. He was sure the bird would bring a boy this time. He even offered to bet Sanders a case of champagne the baby would be a boy. Sanders took the bet. A day or so afterward Sanders heard McLoughlin had a son, and sent up the champagne. That afternoon he got this message from McLoughlin:

"Send three cases of wine. It's triplets and all boys."—Boston Herald.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The North Quincy A. A. elected these officers Tuesday evening:

President—David Davis.
Vice President—Joseph Cox.
Secretary and Treasurer—Samuel Cleaves.

House Committee—Frank Merrill, Frederick Thornley, Herbert Curtis and Frederick Bent.

After the election supper was served at the club. The club is in a flourishing condition and is getting ready for a series of whist parties and dances for the winter.

THE FORCE OF A GOOD EXAMPLE.

It mattered not at all that the two sporty-looking youths who were with him were laughing noisely when the car stopped to let him on, nor did it matter that he looked strong and big and well nurtured, with a countenance that bore unmistakably the telltale evidence of the easy liver and jovial blade. Misery may, indeed, love company, yet physical suffering in these days of knifeless chiropody and painless dentistry makes a universal appeal, and when the effort made by the newcomer to lift his stiff leg to the level of the car floor shot twinges of pain across his drawn face there was more or less hubbub among the homehurriers. An elderly lady clinging to the foremost strap made way for him, glancing with significant severity at a man seated in front of her, who was deeply absorbed in his evening paper's story of what Tony Biddle had been doing to Jack O'Brien.

When the motorman's preliminary jerk to start the car caused the lame man to gasp and lean heavily on his furled umbrella, another woman—this time middle-aged—rose from her seat next to the absorbed student of the Biddle biography, brushing his newspaper aside as she did so.

"Here, young man; I see you're lame; take my seat," she said.

"Oh, madam, I really couldn't think of it," said he of the stiff leg.

"Sit down here," said a gloriously beautiful young woman, as she jumped up from her seat across the aisle.

"I hardly like——," began the cripple, as he inadvertently rested the point of his umbrella on the toe of the man who was reading.

"Oh, please!" said the girl. Whereupon he sat down.

"Now, wouldn't you like a photograph of that!" exclaimed the outraged strap-hanging old lady, and she moved in such a way as to cut off the light from the page describing the conroversy of Messrs. Biddle and O'Brien.

Thereupon the reader, looking up and realizing a good part of what had happened, though he had seen none of it rose from his seat nad offered it to the beautiful girl and she took it.

As the lame man carefully adjusted his evidently painful leg, giving it a partial support with his umbrella, a look of relief, with some appreciation of the humor of the situation, came over his features and the incident was apparently closed.

But the force of good example began to manifest itself.

"Git up and give that lady your seat," whispered a woman to the small boy sitting beside her on the first cross seat, and the child reluctantly rose to make place for the old lady who had expressed a desire for a photograph.

Two seats down the aisle another man rose and offered a standing woman a seat and within the next few minutes all the women who had been standing were seated and half the men who had been sitting were standing. They were also glaring at the man with the stiff leg seated in the corner.

He looked more comfortable. All signs of suffering had left his face and he even seemed amused at the scene. The car ran three squares without a stop and then an old woman with a big bundle entered by the front door. The man with the stiff leg drew it up as nimbly as he did the other, sprang to his feet without any lameness whatever and offered his seat to the bundle carrier.

"Well, whaddyer think of that!" exclaimed the ex-student of the newspaper who had given his seat to the pretty girl. "Nor more lame than I am."

"That's a fine game," declared another man further down the aisle. "If obtaining money under false pretenses is against the law, obtaining a seat ought to be just as much so."

But every one of the women and all the men that were seated smiled at the joke that had been played.—Philadelphia Record.

GIRLS THE DEFENDANTS

In Case for Breaking and Entering Houses

A rather complicated breaking and entering and larceny case was heard before Judge Avery this morning. The defendants were Mabel Johnson, aged 16 years, and Marion Peck, aged 18 years. The two houses entered were those of Fred Eustis and William E. C. Eustis. The two families went away for the summer June 29, and on the return of the servants Oct. 5, the break was discovered. Entrance had been gained to the Fred Eustis house by smashing a window, and at the William E. C. Eustis house by a key. The Johnson girl's father was employed on the place. The value of the goods taken is said to have been $300, and included jewelry and a quantity of women's clothing. The clothing was packed in trunks in the attic. After some detective work of the police, the two girls were arrested, and it is alleged the Johnson girl confessed. It is said that the two girls arrayed in the stolen garments cut quite a dash last summer at Derry, N. H., where they stopped two weeks, and some of the clothing was found there. All of the jewelry has not been received as it is thought to have been pawned in Manchester, N. H.

It also came out in the testimony that previous to the trip to Derry, N. H., that frequent visits had been made to one of the houses of which the Johnson girl's father had charge, and that some high old times were had, in which sparkling wine flowed like water.

Also that just before the Johnson girl left for her summer outing that she had abstracted $11 from the pockets of some of the men. This she admitted on the witness stand. The testimony of the two defendants was somewhat contradictory each accusing the other of being the guilty party. The tale told by the Johnson girl on the witness stand would furnish sufficient material for a highly sensational story for some yellow journal. She also admitted some of the thefts. The hearing in the case was not concluded until after 1 o'clock, at which time the court continued the cases until next Tuesday for disposition.

DON'T NARROW YOUR LIFE.

A woman said: "I'm getting so I just hate to meet strangers. I would rather walk around the block a dozen times than meet some one whom I would have to talk to for half an hour. I like my family and friends, but I don't want any outsiders about."

She was only about 30, but she was acquiring an earmark of age. And that is unwise for any one, and particularly the woman in business.

The matter of making new friends and acquaintances has two sides. And it is a subject not to be dismissed lightly.

No one can afford to give all her time even to friends. And to fritter it away on casual acquaintances is deplorable. Time is the gold that is given us freely.

But, on the other hand, it is unwise to shut one's self away entirely from making new acquaintances, to live so content with one's present circle of friends that no message from other worlds can reach you.

The woman who does this is going to narrow her life. Whether she is the mother of a family, a business woman or a young girl just facing the world, she will shut out interests that may mean help, inspiration, happiness Every life is a little world. And you do not know what message may come to you from the stranger you welcome to your gates.

One grows or stagnates. Stagnation is not good for any one. To be in touch with the progress of the world one must keep in touch with the life that makes it progress, and every man and woman play some part in this.

One may not make a friend of the casual acquaintance. One may not have time for all who cross one's path. But to deliberately shut out every one is unwise.

If there is the least inclination to do this, the tendency is apt to grow on one until it becomes a fixed habit. It may come in the beginning from inertia, from morbidness. Whatever the cause, if you find you are facing in that direction, pause a while and see if you want the narrow, isolated, few-interests life to which it will surely lead you.

The fuller the life with human kindly interests the happier. Few have such resources within themselves that all the riches of this wonderful life is theirs in their own experience.

PROPELLER IS LOST

Big Freighter Is Creeping Across the Ocean Under Sail

Washington, Nov. 16.—The big Hamburg-American line steamer Cheruskia is creeping along under sail about 600 miles east of the Bermudas, with her propeller gone, according to a report to the navy department.

She was on her way from the Persian gulf bound for New York when the accident happened. The Cheruskia is a freighter.

The navy department had reported the facts to the Hamburg-American steamship offices in New York and it is presumed the company will dispatch tugs immediately from the nearest port to bring in the steamer.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Vol. 25 No. 268 QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 17, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

SOME OF THE CITIES MAKE LARGE GAINS

By the New Basis of Apportionment of the Corporation Taxes

Quincy One of Eight to Lose but Not Heavily

Quincy is one of the eight cities of the Commonwealth to lose by the new basis of apportionment of the corporation tax distributed by the State, the figures for three years being:

1908, ... $7,780.47
1909, ... 8,472.04
1910, ... 7,496.72

This change however is not as revolutionary as in Brookline, Newton, Malden, Somerville, Dedham, Manchester, Winchester and Northbridge. Here are the figures for three years for Brookline:

1908, ... $120,329.48
1909, ... 73,988.00
1910, ... 3,776.66

For Milton the loss is quite heavy as will be seen:

1908, ... $38,760.92
1909, ... 20,923.50
1910, ... 21,451.58

Up to last year the franchise taxes collected from business corporations were distributed to municipalities according to the residences of stockholders in each corporation; then a change was made, giving half to the place of residence and the other half to the place of business. At the last session of the legislature a second change was made, giving the entire tax to the municipality in which the corporation's business was located.

Naturally, the great industrial centers ,such as Boston, Lowell, Lawrence, Fall River and New Bedford, have gained tremendously, Boston leading with a gain of $125,000, followed by Lawrence with $124,000 and New Bedford with $120,000. The purely residential communities, on the other hand, show the losses.

Here are the sums distributed by the State in 1908 and 1910 to the different cities, the cents in each case being omitted. The changes in Quincy, Northampton, Springfield, and Marlboro are slight. Those with an asterisk show losses:

BUSINESS MEETING.

Wednesday evening a meeting of the Old Colony Grocers' and Provision Dealers' Association was held at the Hampton House, South Braintree. At this time the regular monthly business was transacted and plans for the future formulated and discussed. Arrangements were made relative to holding the annual banquet of the association ,the date to be announced later.

Mr. H. W. Mansfield and Mr. A. J. Dyer of South Braintree and Mr. Humphrey of East Weymouth were appointed a committee to draw up resolutions on the death of Mr. C. H. Hobart, the well known business man of South Braintree and a member of the association.

ENJOYED THE GOOD THINGS.

For business reasons the young ladies at the Ledger office have not been able to attend the cooking lecturs at Union hall but it did not debar them from enjoying some of the results of Wednesday's demonstration for Mrs. Jennings the teacher called on them after the lesson with plates of goodies. The delicious hot cross buns melted in ones mouth and as for the peach basket it looked too good to eat and tasted even better than it looked. Tomorrow Mrs. Jennings is to cook bread and rolls, apple cake and cookies.

ARPON SALE AND SUPPER

Followed by a Pleasing Entertainment

The apron sale, supper and entertainment at the First Church chapel Wednesday evening brought out a large attendance. The sales tables were but two in number. One of these had a large and varied display of aprons which met with a ready sale. Mrs. Fenno had charge of this table and her assistants were Miss Holden and Miss Spear. Adjoining this table was one on which was displayed a variety of home-made confections of a toothsome nature, and the ladies in charge had no difficulty in disposing of their supply at good prizes.

The confectionery table was in charge of Miss Maria Whitney, Mrs. A. H. Remick, Mrs. Lawton and Miss Nightingale.

At 6.30 Rev. C. B. Ames announced that supper would be served in the basement, and the seats about the long tables in the dining room were soon filled. The menu consisted of cold meats, rolls and butter, escalloped potatoes, baked beans, hot coffee, pies in great variety and cake. The supper was an exceptionally fine one, and the ladies in charge saw to it that the service was prompt. The attractiveness of the tables was greatly enhanced by handsome bouquets of large white chrysanthemums.

The ladies in charge here were Mrs. E. G. Pratt, Mrs. Edward Russell, Mrs. Osborne Rogers, Mrs. George T. Magee, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Miss Etta Prescott, Mrs. R. L. Lovell, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. James H. Slade, Mrs. C. P. Tirrell, Mrs. H. G. Crocker and Mrs. S. T. MacQuarrie.

Supper over an adjournment was made to the chapel where after a short social hour the curtain on the platform was rung up for the entertainment which was in charge of Mrs. Isabelle Davis.

First was a two-act comedy "Doctor Cure-all," with the following cast:

Dr. Cure-all, who has a remedy for everything, Albert Parker
Maria, maid of fourteen, who has a peculiar gait, Margaret Magee
Mrs. Brown, who wants to reduce her flesh, Marjorie Brooks
Miss Jane Scrimpins, who desires to bleach her hair, Marion Edwards
Mr. Alphonso De Jones, who wishes to raise a mustache, Robert Davis
Mrs. Rotchkins, a fond mother, Edith Ames
Miss Kate Rotchkins, her daughter, who is bashful, Blanche Hayden
Miss Seraphina Paddington, who wants to be tall, Laurice Penniman
Mrs. Scrawny, who is anxious to be plump, Alice Arnold
Mrs. Blooming, handsome widow in search of a husband, Dorothy Edwards

The young people were capital and

FARCE AND MUSICALE

Presented by Choir of St. Chrysostoms

The entertainment and sale given by the choir of St. Chrysostoms church, Wednesday evening was a successful affair both socially and financially. The first of the program was a farce entitled "The greatest plague in life," with the following cast:

Mrs. Bustle A. Maud Briggs
Mary Bustle Ruth Parker
Grandmother Bustle Ruth Bean
Biddy O'Raffety Robina Akins
Kitty Clover Helen Ketchum
Miss Moonshine Dorothy Bean
Miss Bridget McGuire Nettie Parlee
Hazy Black Susie Nichols

The outcome of the father of the house writing a note to his wife, saying that guests were coming to dinner and requesting her to have a Tipsy pudding for desert, just as Bridget had left in a huff, was made a laughable affair by the different ones from the intelligence office ushered in by Hazy, and when questioned as to their ability to make a Tipsy pudding leaving in disgust. Kitty saying all her folks were temperate, and the idea of asking an honest country girl who lives where the Maine liquor law was made, if she could cook such things.

Each one looked and acted their part well, including Grandmother Bustle who talked too much.

The balance of the program included:

Orchestra selection, Fowler orchestra
When Allen A-Dale,—Choir.
Soprano solo "If my little girl was a tiny star," Susie L. Nichols
Duet,—"A thousand greetings take from me,"
Edwin Geyer and Edward Gallup
Recitation,—"How the elephant got his trunk" Miss Marion Webster
Soprano solo—"Sweet spirit in my prayer" Edwin Geyer
Bass solo—"The kings of the road" Fred Lundburg
Soprano solo,—"Love the pedlar" Jessie Fowler
Soprano solo,—"Lilac time," Edward Gallup
Recitations,—"The Catechist" and "The lovely scene" Miss Webster
Arion waltz,—Choir.
Miss Louisa Allison Ross, pianist

The choir has shown for several weeks marked progress under Prof. Wrigley's direction, and they were heartily applauded after each number. The program all showed careful preparation, and the audience gave hearty expressions of pleasure and appreciation, and were especially enthusiastic with the numbers rendered by Masters Geyer and Gallup who kindly responded to encores. They were accompanied by Prof. Atwood of Hyde Park, under whose direction they sing at Christ church.

In the choir were:

Sopranos— Maud Alletzhauseer, Robina Atkins, Dorothy Bean, Maud Briggs, Edna Fowler, Jessie Fowler, Helen Ketchum, Eileen G"urwin, Adelaide Nichols, Susie Nichols, Ruth Parker, Nettie Parlee, Amy Rhodes, Eleanor Roberts, Gertrude Sanford, Roger Allen, Frank Fulton, Horatio Holland, Carrol McTear, Ellis McTear Elsmere Smith, Charles Vibert, Geo. Vibert.

Altos—Ruth Bean, Leah Hennigar, Lydia Hennigar.

Tenors—H. H. Albee, George Campbell, Ray Fowler.

Bass—G. E. Allen, A. H. Briggs, H. D. Fowler, A. E. Holland, Malcolm Stewert, Charles Wade.

Miss Eleanor S. Roberts and the Misses Hennigar were in charge of the candy table, and Messrs Parlee and Roberts sold photographs of the choir.

HORSE SHOW AT WOLLASTON

Huge Burlesque at the Unitarian Chapel

Members and guests of the Wollaston Social society enjoyed a novel evening at the "horse show" held on Thursday in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry. Although the affair was a huge burlesque those present joined in making it an evening of merrymaking.

The vestry was decorated to carry out the effect of the show, one half being fitted up as a race track with the judges stand and the other half as the grandstand. Various advertisements of horse remedies adorned the place, while W. A. Mann as ring master, in the regulation plug hat, frock coat and whip added to the effect.

The one disappointment of the evening was the announcement by Clifton Baker, the chairman, that Governor Draper who was scheduled to attend, would not be present, as he was detained in Boston by the eclipse.

The other officials consisted of Paul E. Brodbeck, as timer, and Louis B. Weston as stable boy, while the aides consisted of Mrs. Clifton Baker, Mrs. W. A. Mann and Mrs. Paul E. Brodbeck.

The first event was the judging of horses which resulted in the award of blue ribbons to "Lou Dillon," Mrs. B. F. Bowles owner, in the work horse class; "Croesus I," Miss Abbie Penley owner, in the carriage horses, and "Red Feather," owned by Miss Lillian Clapp in the class for trotting horses. These awards were made on the merits of the various drawings submitted by the members.

Next in order came the saw horse contest for mares and fillys, the blue ribbon being awarded to Miss Lillian Clapp, owner of "Red Feather," with Miss M. L. Bates, owner of "Maud," in second place. This contest consisted of the sawing of laths by the ladies, and the manner in which some of them handled the implements of the woodpile was amusing to say the least.

The blacksmith contest for horses and colts was won by A. G. Nelson, owner of "Chanticler,' with W. M. Southworth owner of "Relic" in second place. This event consisted of pounding tacks in paper horse-shoes, causing however quite a little excitement.

The last and crowning event was the race for the $5000 purse in the 2.10, 2.20 and 2..27. Out of a large field at the finish, "Mutt," Miss Elsie Moulton owner, nosed out a victory at the tape. Second was "Don John," Miss Bertha Saunders owner, while third and fourth came "Rickety Jim" owned by Dr. B. F. Bowles and "Plac Beauty" by Miss Clara B. Totman respectively.

On view in the stables in an anteroom were choice exhibits of horseflesh. "Awlsoran," time 3.19 4-23, consisted of a toy horse. "Agamemnon," 2.06 1-4, was a hobby horse. "Bonyparte II," 2.63 1-2, was an ordinary wood horse. "Tom Sawyer," 2.08 3-2, a saw horse. "Adryen," 2.12, was a clothes horse.

Light refreshments completed an evening in which there was "something doing every minute."

BLOW TO GAS ENTERPRISE.

Braintree and Weymouth may not get their $1 gas after all, for the Plymouth County Gas Light and Power Company may not be permitted to carry out its plans, even if it wants to. Rights in several towns have been secured, the company incorporated and land purchased on Quincy avenue at East Braintree for a plant and office buildings. About $20,000, it is said, has been expended on this plant.

On Sept. 23, however, Deputy Sheriff D. Edward Beede of Brookline put an attachment on the property, and has advertised at sheriff's sale on Dec. 10, all the right, title and interest of the company not exempt by law from attachment, or levy on execution.

The title of the property stands in the name of Patrick J. Nevins of Haverhill, the president of the company. The parcel is bounded by Weymouth Fore river on the north, Smelt brook on the east, land of Warren Stetson southwesterly, Quincy avenue northwesterly, and land of S. F. Whitmarsh westerly.

ANNUAL BANQUET MAKARIA FRATERNITY

About 150 Young Ladies and Gentlemen Attend The Festivities at Bethany Chapel

Rev. J. T. Stocking Talks on the American Type

The annual banquet of Makaria Fraternity took place Wednesday evening in the Bethany church dining room. The room presented a very attractive appearance with its decorations of red and blue and red, white and blue. Behind the head table there was a very large "M F" banner and in the corners of the room pictures of the teams and smaller penants were hung on screens which formed a cosey corner. Potted plants and cut flowers added the finishing touch to the decorations.

Before the guests were summoned to the banquet room a reception was tendered to Rev. J. T. Stocking the speaker of the evening in the chapel of the church. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy and Charles Grassick, president of Makaria, were in the receiving line with Mr. Stocking.

Promptly at 6.30 the guests started to file down to the dining hall to the accompaniment of Goulston's orchestra. To avoid the usual method of saying it, that the tables fairly groaned with food, we will say that the abundance was only exceeded by the excellence of the food, and everyone was more than satisfied. Carroll C. Whittemore of Boston was the caterer.

During the dinner hour the orchestra played numerous selections, all of which merited the applause they received. A solo was very well rendered by the voilinist.

The guests were confronted by the following menu:

Roast turkey Cranberry sauce
Ham Tongue
Mashed potatoes
Escalloped oysters
Celery Chicken croquettes and peas
Banana fritters Sauce
Chicken salad
Fancy creams:
Vanilla strawberry chocolate
Strawberry mousse Raspberry bisque
Sherbet:
Lemon Orange Raspberry
Cake
Almond Pound Frosted
Macaroons Lady fingers Kisses
Rolls and coffee

President Grassick opened the post prandial exercises. He told of the work Makaria was doing, and emphasized the motto "Happiness a by product." By service to our fellowmen and for our Heavenly Father we gain the highest happiness. Makaria is the Greek word for happiness. Some scholars tell us that it means blessedness, and another way of putting the motto is by using the Bible quotation: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Delcevare King was introduced as toastmaster. Before the speakers were called upon he read a telegram from his father, Theophilus King, who was to have been toastmaster. He regretted very much that a business engagement made it impossible for him to attend the banquet. But he assured the fellows that he was with them in spirit if not in body.

During the period given over to the reception Mr. King had been placing blue buttons on many of the guests. The red and blue membership contest has been stirring up a great deal of enthusiasm among the members and the Reds who are 8 points ahead taunted the Blues with the remark that they would be beaten to a frazzle. Mr. King had been stirring up an insurrection of the Blues, and at a word from him practically all the guests stood up and shook their fists at Mr. Ganzel the leader of the Reds, saying: "We'll frazzle you." Mrs. Ganzel was among those who were true blue.

Harry Brooks, the first speaker, said he was able to sit down with his wife and enjoy the banquet for the first time in four years. Always before he has had charge of the arrangements. The keynote of his remarks was the word "boost." Boost Makaria and make it a still greater power for good in Quincy.

Richard Jones, the president elect, was introduced as a worker and not a talker. He said that when he argued with the nominating committee that he was not the man, they insisted that he would have to take it for "it would make a man out of him." "The usual method," he said, "is to make a man the president. In this case they will have to make a man of the president."

Charles Ganzel, the former national leaguer spoke on the athletic side of Makaria. The fellows were urged to play the game fair. "Honesty is the best policy in baseball as well as in business" he said, and if you play mean you'll surely get found out sooner or later."

Rev. R. J. Davis, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, brought the greeting of the Davis class and later in the evening William Walker of the Galahad Brotherhood spoke. C. W. Coombs a new member of Makaria spoke very enthusiastically of the work and the Makaria spirit.

Dr. Edwin N. Hardy was obliged to go out immediately after the banquet to perform a wedding ceremony. He returned later in the evening and when called upon to speak remarked upon what he had been doing and assured the guests that he always arranged a wedding at the proper time in connection with an affair of this sort.

The two points which were brought out most prominently in his speech were (1) "always persistently endeavor to live up to your best" and (2) "Never say no to God."

Rev. J. T. Stocking was introduced as the principal speaker of the evening and in the limited amount of time he was given delivered a wonderfully clear and thoughtful address on "The American Type."

"Many people find it difficult to conceive," he said, "how there can be an American type with so many nations contributing to the population." But he went on to show how the peoples of other land have been assimilated and have contributed their best national characteristics to the American type. Irish, Scotch, Scandanavian, talian, all nations have sent thousands and in some cases millions of their peoples over here to the land of the free to become part of us. An Irish

Eat drink, and be merry, for tomorrow it will cost a great deal more.

Forget the election and think of turkey and cranberry sauce as soon as possible.

Of course, Mark Twain's heirs get that $600,000 but he left the rest of us a pretty good legacy, too.

The soldiers of Portugal are demanding their pay and threaten disorder. A republic cannot be run without funds any better than a monarchy.

"Universal peace is marching on." Japan is spending for that purpose $40,000,000 on dreadnaughts. Looks more like it was steaming on, doesn't it?

Well this is not the first time the people have voted against progress, but they will have plenty of time in which to repent, which they surely will do.

At the short session of Congress in December there are two recommendations of great local interest, one is for two additional battlships, with destroyers, colliers and other auxiliaries. The other is ship subsidy through subsidized mail carrying lines which will help shipbuilding.

It becomes more and more evident as the sale of Dr. Everett's books continues that Quincy had one of the most valuable libraries in the State at the death of its distinguished townman. On Tuesday one of the books sold for $1250 and on Wednesday, according to the Transcript, all records for book auctions were broken. A few of the prices paid are quoted in todays issue of the Daily Ledger.

An unlooked for result of the new basis of apportionment of the corporation tax received by the State is the fact that Quincy is classed among the wealthy cities and towns. More corporation stock must have been held in Quincy than was generally supposed. It is only the cities of Newton, Beverly, Malden, Somerville, Springfield, Medford, Northampton and Quincy that have lost, and such towns as Brookline, Milton, Dedham, Winchester, Manchester, Hamilton, Nahant and Lincoln. But the new apportionment is the most equitable to all concerned, and as Quincy becomes more and more a commercial city it will benefit rather than lose by the corporation tax.

DRIFT OF OPINION

The more that the papers of the commonwealth express themselves in regard to the bill-board nuisance, the more does the fact appear that sentiment is decidedly against these blots upon the lanscape and eye-sores in cities and the larger towns. It would not be surprising if the forthcoming session of the Massachusetts legislature witnessed attempts anew to put a stiff tax upon these means of publicity, as the bill-boards are sometimes termed, by which the number might be materially decreased, even if there were failure to wipe them out altogther. If farmers and others living along the lines of railroads are content to have barns and out-buildings disfigured by signs, the concern is primarily their own. They are either hard up for money, or else they are wheedled into the notion that they get their buildings party painted, in one way, for nothing, whie deriving a cash profit. But there are logical ways in which the bill-board nuisance in cities can be modified, and the reform is worth seeking.—Salem News.

Daniel H. Burnham of Chicago in his address before the town-planning congress in London, stated one admirable principle to which civic centre and other bodies engaged in making a city over should conform. He said: "Plan nobly. Make no little plans: they have no magic to stir men's blood and will not themselves be realized." The Chicago Post, commenting on this calls attention to a similar statement made by John Stuart Mill: "Small remedies for great ills do not produce small results; they produce no results whatever." These are certainly valuable guiding ideas for city planners and city plan critics. While they are doing it, let them do it right even if all the details cannot be carried out by one generation. The plan is on record, and, as Mr. Burnham says, the very fact of its grandeur "has magic to stir men's blood." And with that feeling in the air it sooner or later gets itself carried out.—Haverhill Gazette.

Mrs. Howe was the model leader of the suffragists. She came slowly to belief in the need of votes for women, but once a convert to that view she advocated it to the end. More influential than anything she said in behalf of women suffrage was her own personality as a suffragist. It counted for a great deal that she was a lady, and as notable as a lady as she was as a woman. In her life and in all its relations there was everything to admire and scarcely anything to criticise. To the very end she was a splendid figure of a woman—able, gentle, modest, faithful; devoted to the best things of life; never upset by her own distinction nor the honors and affection that embowered her.—E. S. Martin, in Life.

Last week at this time you were living in a Republican district. Now you're in a Democratic part of the country. But if the Democratic leaders muss things up as foolishly as the Republican leaders have been, doing another year or two at most may see the Republicans running everything north of Mason and Dixon's line again.—Brockton Enterprise.

QUINCY INTERESTED.

The World in Boston, a vast missionary enterprise, will be instituted in Boston next spring. Owing to the immensity of the task a year of preparation is necessary. Work has been progressing steadily under the direction of Rev. A. M. Gardner, who came over from England for the purpose of taking charge of the great undertaking. Mr. Gardner will speak at Bethany church in this city Sunday evening. Most of the churches in Quincy are planning to take part in the exposition, and all those who are thus directly interested will surely want to hear the address Sunday evening. The public is invited, and as a preliminary announcement it might be well to say: Come early and be sure of a seat. All of the Metropolitan district is interested in the movement and it is very probable that there will be delegations from out of town. Those who heard Mr. Gardner at Christ church last month will be sure to attend in a body. The service begins at 7.30 Sunday evening.

PRESENTATION.

John Smith had worked for the Valve corporation for 42 years and decided to quit. The company in consideration of his long and faithful service arranged to give him a monetary recognition. The superintendent of the works, a German and an extra good mechanic, was asked to present it. He was advised to use a little sentiment in making the presentation speech, and this is the way he did it.

"John, you haff work for the company over 40 years!"

"Yes."

"You are going to quit?"

"Yes."

"Vell! They are so tam glad of it that they asked me to hand you this hundred dolalrs."—Monson Register.

JOHN'S TURN LATER.

She stood there and glared at him.

"And you mean to stand there and ask me to press your trousers?" she demanded with all the sternness she could muster.

"Why, certainly, my dear," responded Mr. Stubb, affably, "is that asking too much?"

"Well, I should say it is, John Henry Stubb. "I'd have you know that when you married me you did not marry a sad iron."

That evening his turn came.

"John, dear," chirped Mrs. Stubb, just after supper. "I wish you would do me a favor before you go. Button my waist up the back, that's a good man."

But Mr. Stubb merely puffed his cigar and chuckled softly.

"Nay! Nay! Maria. I would have you know when you accepted me you did not say 'Yes' to a buttonhook."

And, picking up his cane, he strode out.

BIG PRICES FOR BOOKS

Interesting Sale of Library of Dr. William Everett

Book auction records were broken at the continued sale Wednesday, says the Transcript, of the libraries of the late William Everett and Edward Everett of Quincy.

John Haywood's "Natural and Aboriginal History of Tennessee, up to the First Settlements therein by the White People in the year 1768," printed by George Wilson, Nashville, 1823, was the gem of the sale. It was a fine copy, bound in three-quarters levant. The previous record price of the book was $35.0 paid for an inferior copy in 1907. A copy in sheep, broken and stained, was sold in 1908 in New York for $25.50. There was spirited bidding on the copy offered but it was finally bought on order for $153.

Another copy of Haywood's "Civil and Political History of the State of Tennessee from its earliest settlement up to the year 1796; including the boundaries of the State. Printed for the Author, by Heiskel and Brown; Knoxville, Tenn., 1823," the second issue of the work, was also purchased on order for $40.

Another new record was made for the first edition of Oliver Wendell Holmes's "Oration delivered before the New England Society, N. Y., Dec. 22, 1855," in original wrappers. This was bought by P. K. Foley of Boston for $52. It had particular interest from the fact that it was a presentation copy with the inscription, "Hon. Howard (sic) Everett, with the respects of O. W. Holmes." A copy in the Chamberlain sale last year, with an a. l. s. of the author laid in, brought $45.

Even for the cheaper class of books, the prices were high. A Franklin imprint, "Letters in the spirit of patriotism," by Lord Bolingbroke, reprinted and sold by B. Franklin and D. Hall, Philadelphia, 1749, presented by George Livermore to Edward Everett, was bought on order for $26.

Another Franklin item, the "Catalogue of books belonging to the Library Company of Philadelphia," 1749, was also bought on order for $10.50.

George W. Humphrey paid $16 for a Trinity College prize copy of Gibbon's "Roman Empire," London, 1855, presented to Mr. Everett by the university.

P. K. Foley bought for $11.50 the "Letter from Phocion to the Considerate Citizens of New York on the Politics of the Times," Philadelphia, 1784, said to have been written by Alexander Hamilton.

Hennepin's "Voyages curvieux," of Amsterdam, 1711, the same as the edition of 1704, with a quarto title page, was bought on order for $28.

Antonio de Herrara's "Historia General de los hechos de los Castellanos en las Islas i Tierra firme del Mar Occano. Engraved titles and maps." Madrid, 1726-1730, brought $85 on an order.

The Basherville imprint of Horace, Birmingham, 1770, went for $10.75. George W. Humphrey paid $18.50 for the London, 1775, edition of Adair's American Indians, the copy having the margin water-stained, and $18 for Catlins's North American Indians Portfolio, London, 1844. Jackson and Alger's "Mineralogy and Geology of Nova Scotia," Cambridge, 1834, brought $13, and the same price was paid for Juvenal's Satires, S. Gueynard, Leyden, 1498.

A Jesuit Relation, "Relations des Jesuites, contenant ce qui s'est passe de plus remarkable dans les missions des Peres de la Compagne de Jesus dans la Nouvelle France. Public sous les auspices du gouvernement Canadien," went to Fred W. Morris of New York for $10.50.

The Elzevir Press edition of Heyschins's Lexicon, 1746, brought $10 and Hazard's Historical collections $14.

Some interesting Harvard items were in the sale, among them being the "Med. Fac. Catalogue" of 1830. This was bought upon an order for $10.50. Another item of Harvard interest was "The Constitution of the University of Cambridge, with an Appendix, Cambridge, 1812—the History of Cambridge, by Abiel Holmes, Boston, 1801," bound together. This was a presentation copy from Edward Everett to Paul Svinin. This copy concontains a very beautiful sepia drawing of "The Edifices of the University at Cambridge, Mass." evidently drawn especially for Edward Everett.

EXPERTS GIVE THEIR OPINIONS

Various Reasons For Sudden Drop In Prices of Meats

PLENTY OF CORN AND OATS

Secretary Wilson Thinks That Full Bins, Together With Drought, Are Important Factors—Packers Say Tendency of Prices Is Still Lower—Dr. Wiley Sees a Deliberate Manipulation of the Market

Washington, Nov. 17.—Full bins of corn and oats have had much to do with the fall in meat prices, in the opinion of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. The present break in prices, said Wilson, in discussing the reports from various cities, "is hardly a normal market development. While it is true that we should expect a downward trend of prices because of the great crop of corn and oats we have had, the present sudden drop in meats is too pronounced to be an effect from that cause altogether.

"I believe the drought in the southwest and the consequent shortage and high prices of hay are responsible for an unusual movement for this season of farmers rushing to market with their stock. They see it pays better to sell now than to feed through the winter. They probably are also influenced by anticipation of a lower market. It's too soon after election to connect politics with the decline of prices. The country is full of corn and oats—that's the reason fundamentally for a lowering of prices."

J. O. Armour, head of Armour & Co., said that the whole tendency in the price of livestock was lower. He also declared that the descent would be gradual, and warned the public from expecting too hastily the belief that a drop from the highest to the lowest prices was due.

"The packers' prices to the retailers are based entirely on what we have to pay for the live animals," said Armour. "Generally speaking, prices are lower, and I believe they are working toward a still lower level. The present situation is the result of enormous corn crops and of previous high prices that stimulated everybody to raise livestock. The public is getting the benefit of present conditions, and should get further benefit as the increased supply of livestock reaches the market.

"The recent high price of meats and packing house products cannot be attributed in any way to the packers, or to any combination of persons or firms engaged in the packing industry. It has been due to conditions that developed from a scarcity and a high price for corn, which is the basis of the supply of livestock."

A decline in prices at the Chicago stock yards was followed by a reduction of fresh meats and staples. Commission men there predict lower prices still on everything except eggs, which they say are high and going higher.

The decline since the first of October is from 50 to 75 cents on cattle in the bulk, and the market in general is 50 cents lower than it was a week ago. Hogs have dropped from $9.65 a hundred, Oct. 18, to $7.82½.

Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, refuses to grow cheerful over the broadcast announcement of a general drop in the prices of foodstuffs, notably meats.

He said: "The interests which manipulated the prices upward temporarily have released their hold on our throats for the purpose of getting a fresh grip. The so-called reduction in meats is fictitious. Its manipulation was deliberate, just as the increase in prices was unjust, unreasonable and uncalled for conditions prevailing throughout the country. The prices were fictitious at the top notch because they were forced there arbitrarily by the interests.

"Developments will show that the interests are after someone. It may be some independent movement they hope to drive from cover."

MURDERER WAS KILLED

Claim of Lynn Bandit Who Testifies In His Own Behalf

Salem, Mass., Nov. 17.—Andrei Ipsen, 18 years old, who is accused of being one of the murderers of Thomas A. Landregan and James H. Carroll in Lynn last June, was placed upon the witness stand in his own defense and declared that he, personally, did not fire a single shot from his pistol at any person, and that "Joe," the bandit who was killed, was the man who was responsible for everything.

With the butt of the Mauser pistol which he carried on the day of the murder cuddled into his palm, Ipsen explained its mechanism to the jury through an interpreter.

Hotel Clerk an Alleged Thief

Washington, Nov. 17.—At the request of Eugene Birmingham, chief of police of Bridgeport, Conn., the local police arrested Sherman K. Hill, who had been employed as a clerk at the Atlantic hotel in that city. Hill is charged with the theft of $1000.

"New England Stuffing—Remove the hard, outside crusts from a small stale loaf of baker's bread," says Fannie M. Farmer in Woman's Home Companion. "Cut in slices and toast until delicately browned, then put in chopping bowl and chop while adding hot water to moisten. Add one third of a cupful of finely-chopped fat, salt pork, one egg well beaten. Salt, pepper and sage to taste.

"Bread-and-Celery Stuffing—Remove hard, outside crusts from a stale loaf of baker's bread and break in pieces. There should be three and one half cupfuls. Pour over bread one cupful of boiling water and let stand twenty minutes, then squeeze out all the water that is possible. To bread add one tablespoonful of poultry seasoning, one and one half teaspoonfuls of salt and one fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper, then add three fourths of a cupful of finely cut celery and one half cupful of melted butter.

"Potato Stuffing—Mix two cupfuls of hot mashed potatoes, two cupfuls of cracker crumbs, one third of a cupful each of melted butter and sausage fat and one half cupful of cooked giblets finely chopped. Moisten with hot water and season with salt, pepper and sage."

COMPARED WITH CHINAWARE.

A little girl and her mother were walking down the street, when they came to a place where straw had been spread over the pavement to deaden the noise because of the illness of a woman living in that square.

"Oh, look, mamma," cried the little girl, "what's all the hay doin' out in the street?"

"That's because Mrs. E— has a tiny baby, which God just sent her," said her mother, gently, and after a moment's pause the little girl said slowly:—

"Gwacious, she must have been packed well."—Philadelphia Times.

—The proposition to postpone changing the rates for telephones to Nov. 1, 1911, is a most satisfactory one and shows that the telephone company is ready to meet all reasonable public demands. If, as many believe, the new contracts would result in higher rates than are now paid by the majority of users, the change would be of no benefit to the company as agitation for a revision of rates would at once arise, while on the other hand if the experiment works satisfactorily with the large number that change to the new contracts, it will be demonstrated after a year's trial.

SCHOOL CHILDREN.

A meeting of the school superintendents, probation officers, truant officers and chiefs of police of the city of Quincy and towns comprising the East Norfolk district was held this morning with Judge Avery and Judge Pratt in the court room. The questions under discussion were those relating to juveniles and the meeting is to discuss and if possible devise some plan so that a stricter watch may be kept on boys and girls of the school age.

The idea that it is desired to carry out is in the nature of a preventative one. If a young boy or girl is brought into court it always places a stigma against them, although their cases are heard in a private room. Judge Avery desires if possible to prevent their being brought into court, and believes that if the school superintendents, truant officers, chiefs of police and probation officers can work together much of the malicious mischief now committed by juveniles will cease.

The two cases in court from Milton on Wednesday where two young girls were brought in on a charge of breaking and entering is one of the cases where the court believs the preventative scheme could well have been applied.

It is a well known fact to newspaper men and others whose business keeps them out late at night, especially in Quincy, that there is every night about City Square in the vicinity of midnight scores of young grls and boys that should be in bed at home, instead of roaming about the streets learning things that have a tendency to corrupt their morals and lead them to a criminal life.

For some reason parents do not seem to have the least control over these young people, and often when their children are hailed into the juvenile court the parents claim that they have no control over them.

If the police would take a hand in these cases, and when they find young people who are in the habit of being on the streets late at night and frequenting restaurants and other places, send them home it might have a wholesome effect.

a surprise, so well did each carry out his part. It was thir first apparance on the stage but none were stage struck or self-conscious. The longer parts of the Doctor and his maid were well sustained throughout and all came in for much praise and applause as did Mrs. Davis, who drilled them.

In quite a different vein was the last part of the entertainment which Mrs. Davis announced as not "motion" but "emotion pictures." These were very beautiful, five young ladies in flowing white drapery giving several artistic poses expressing repose, animation, hope, faith, etc., all being very expressive and each a graceful picture. The young ladies were: Misses Ruth Penniman, Ruth Packard, Margaret Heaney, Blanche Morrison and Beatrice Morrison.

MADISON HOUSE FIRE

Damage of $800 Early This Morning

The alarm from Box 72 a few minutes before 3 o'clock this morning was for a stubborn fire in the old Baptist church building on South street, Quincy Point, now known as the Madison House. The house is run by a Mrs. Severence who has six boarders. The fire started in the basement near two large stoves, and was caused by a defective flue. The fire must have been burning sometime before the smoke aroused the inmates. The house was filled with smoke and the occupants beat a hasty retreat. The fire worked up through the floor and the heavy smoke penetrated every part of the building. It took quite a battle on the part of the firemen to get the fire under control. Chief Williams estimates the loss at $800.

Have a New Secretary and a New Treasurer

The Citizens No-License League, at a meeting held in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian Association on Wednesday evening, elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

President—George Sidelinger.
Vice president—William F. Cummings.
Treasurer—John F. Hunt.
Secretary—J. A. Sedgwick.

The president and vice president were re-elected. It was with considrable regret that the League learned that it would lose the services of Arthur W. Hall as scretary who has served in the office for many years in an efficient manner. The retiring treasurer is Wendell Hull of Wollaston who has held the office for the last two years.

BANQUET

American, Dennis McCarthy has voiced the sentiment of all these in that magnificent little poems. A song of the Flag.

Green though the flag my fathers bore in the days of their ancient wars,
Men of my race full many have died for the flag of the stripes and stars Bearing the green my fathers battled and bled in the olden fray;
But you, O beautiful flag of the free,
are the flag of our hearts today.

Native or foreign we're all as one when cometh the day of strife
What is the dearest gift we can give for the flag but a human life?
Native or foreign are all the same when the heart's blood redens the earth,
And, native or foreign, 'tis love like this is the ultimate test of our worth.

Native or immigrant, here is the task to which we must summon our powers:
Ever unsullied to keep the flag in peace as in war's wild hours.
Selfishness, narrowness, graft and greed and the evil that hates the light,—
All these are the foes of the flag today; all these we must face and fight.

Symbol of hope to me and to mine and to all who aspire to be free,
Ever your golden rays may shine from the east to the western sea;
Ever your golden stars may shine, and ever your stripes may gleam,
To lead us on from the deeds we do to the greater deeds that we dream.

Here is our love to you, flag of the free, and flag of the tried and true;
Here is our love to your streaming stripes and your stars in a field of blue;
Native or foreign, we're children all of the land over which you fly,
And, native or foreign, we love the land for which it was sweet to die.

All these comingling races have formed an American type which has many essential characteristics. The most prominent are these: 1. A democratic spirit. 2. Self reliance. 3. Youthfulness. 4. Humor. 5. Idealism. 6. Religion. Of course there are dangers of overstepping in some of these. The democratic spirit might become too intense an individualism, self reliance could turn into boastfulness, the irresistable energy of youth might tend toward overreaching itself and the sense of humor of which we Americans are so proud carries with it the possibility of bigotry and conceit. Even the religion and idealism might degenerate into a sordid love of money.

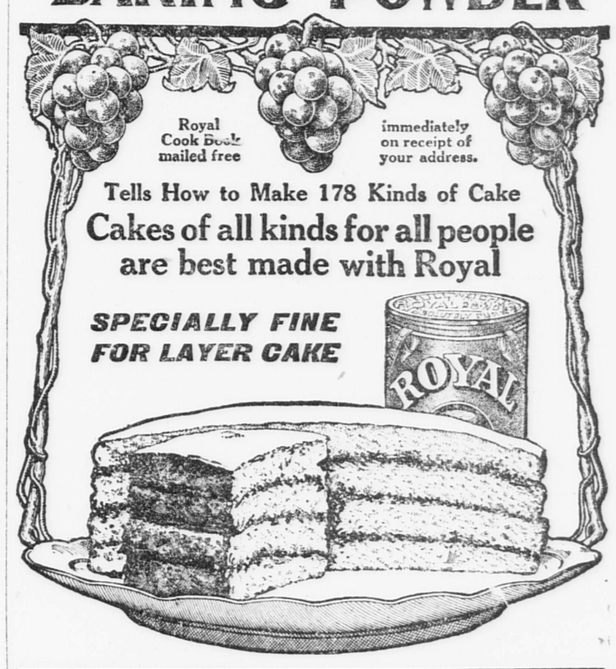

All these are dangers but the very possession of characteristics which make for progress prevents any such degeneracy among this progressive people.

There is a distinct American type and it is made on a noble pattern. The love of money must go along with the spirit of enterprise but it is not the big thing. High ideals and a deep rooted religious basis are the corner stones of our American manhood and womanhood and on them rests the fundamental cause of our progress among the nations. These are the crowning characteristics of the American type.

BAKING POWDER

WHY HE WAS BASHFUL.

A Hutchinson girl declares this story is true. She was visiting at a small Kansas town recently and while there her hostess gave a party in her honor and invited the pick of the whole countryside. Among the guests was a boy who had been to Topeka, so she had heard. She had some acquainances in Topeka and tried to draw him out, inquiring, "How did you like Topeka?" The young fellow blushed and looked down before he murmured, "Oh, pretty well." "Do you know many people there?" she continued, trying to get him interested, and attributing his reticence to bashfulness. "Why, not many," he said, tugging at his collar as if it were strangling him. "I suppose you went to the park when you were there?" she asked. "No," he replied, "I did not attend any of the affairs at the park." She talked about other things, and later, when an opportunity came, asked the hostess why that boy had been so reticent about talking about Topeka. The hostess threw up her hands "We simply had to invite him," she replied. "He belongs to a good family. As a matter of fact, he has just returned from Topeka, where he has been in the reform school."—Kansas City Journal.

ONE ON THE AMERICAN.

A native born American member of a party of four business men who often lunched together ,took great delight in joking the others on their foreign birth. "It's all very well for you fellows to talk about what we need in this country," he said, "but when you come to think of it you're really only intruders. Not one of you was born here. You're welcome to this country, of course, but you really oughtn't to forget what you owe us natives who open our doors to you." "Maybe," said an Irishman in the party ,thoughtfully. "Maybe. But there's one thing you seem to forget: I came into this country wid me fare paid an' me clothes on me back. Can you say the same?"—Tit-Bits.

—Prominent retail dealers in all lines in Spokane have united to wage a fight against the introduction of trading stamps, which representatives of New York and Chicago houses are attempting to place with small stores. A lively fight is in sight. The dealers object to the stamps on the ground that least 10 per cent of the buyers' money would go out of the country to concerns that have no interest in the northwest. R. E. Bigelow, manager of an outfitting store and president of the Pacific Coast Ad Men's association, said that no store can stand this added expense, hence the consumer must pay the cost. Persistent efforts were made to introduce eastern trading stamps in Spokane seven years ago, but the campaign failed. The buyers realized the fact that they could buy the premiums for less money than by trading stamps, which, Mr. Bigelow said, are always doubly paid for by consumers.

AT TOLSTOI'S BEDSIDE

Dangerously Sick Author and His Wife Become Reconciled

Moscow, Nov. 17.—Count Tolstoi and his wife are reconciled. The count and countess lie ill in the residence of the station master in the village of Astapova, not far from Tula. Pneumonia threatens the aged writer, and Dr. Makovetsky admits that his patient has only a fighting chance for his life.

Although Countess Tolstoi was so ill that the last sacrament of the Greek Catholic church was administered before she left her home, she insisted upon making the journey to her husband's bedside. The greeting between the aged couple was most affectionate.

The count was lying in bed in a semi-delirious state, so bad mentally in fact that at times he did not recognize his daughter Alexandra, who was acting as his nurse. His wife, pale, agitated and trembling, entered the room. Tolstoi stared at her dully for a moment, then a look of warm affection overspread his face. His wife fell on her knees at his bed, weeping. The count gently took one of her hands in his while the rest of the family turned away, leaving them alone.

CONVICTED OF FORGERY

Career of German "Count" Is Temporarily Checked at Hub

Boston, Nov. 17.—Otto F. Schroeder, a dashing "count" of the German empire, was found guilty of forgery and is now held for sentence. The bogus count is credited with being a heart-breaker, particularly where young women had money.

His career for the present came to an abrupt end yesterday when he was found guilty of forging the name of R. E. Heath, a State street broker, to a check for $139.50.

Judge Stevens was so touched by the story that Schroeder told that he suspended sentence pending further investigation.

THE YEAR'S BLESSINGS.

Frank J. Bonnelle.

Once more broad fields of golden grain
We've reaped and harvest safely stored:
Of yield of tree and earth and main
We have a vast and precious hoard.
Like mighty river, deep and strong,
Whose tide extends beyond its banks,
So have our blessings come along.
And now our hearts o'erflow with thanks.
We look on nature's varied scene,

And gratefully we sing her praise;
What pictures pass upon the screen
She hangs up yearly to our gaze:
First spring, in softest tones of green,
Then summer in array more bright,
Fall next in brown and gray is seen,
And winter last in purest white.

Each season brings it own delight,
Made greater by the constant change
Monotony ne'er holds us tight—
Our senses have the freest range.
And while upon us joys attend
In summer, winter, spring and fall,
Oft daily do our thoughts ascend
In thanks to Him who gives us all.

Once more we note the world's advance
Toward the goal where all is good;
On either side, where'er we glance,
We see a closer brotherhood.
There is more love and less distrust,
More thought of worthy deeds than ranks;
Give forth his best, each feels he must—
For help in this we render thanks.

No outlook ever shone more fair
Than that which lies before us now:
Success seems sure for all who dare
Go forth with hand upon the plow.
The fields are fertile, wide and free
In this most highly favored land:
Our thanks we give, O Lord, to thee
For opportunities so grand.

LEARNED CRIME IN PRISON

Youth Tells Judge That Reformatory Is a Fagin School

Boston, Nov. 17.—That the Massachusetts reformatory at Concord is a school for the education of criminals was the declaration made by Henry Diggs, a 19-year-old graduate of the reformatory, to Judge Stevens.

He was on trial with three other young men for burglarizing clothing stores. He said he had, by association with men under reformatory treatment at the institution, all older than himself, been imbued with the glory that comes to the man who can rob and escape detection. He told the judge that his fellow-prisoners had given most of their leisure time to planning criminal work to be done when released.

Judge Stevens sent Diggs to state prison for from five to seven years. His companions, Vincent Moore, who is but 16 years of age, was sent to the reformatory; James Cavanaugh, aged 20, was sent with him for five years and two months, and James McIntyre, the oldest of the quartet, for five years and three months.

BREAKS WOMAN'S WRIST

Negro Robber at Lynn Attacks Two Women on Streets

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 17.—Police of surrounding cities and towns have been warned to watch for a negro who tried to rob two women and who attacked Mrs. Mary A. Dorr so savagely when she tried to keep him from seizing her handbag that he broke her wrist in twisting it.

Mrs. Dorr, who is 50 years old, was walking through Parrott street when the negro seized her handbag. The man twisted her wrist so savagely that the bones snapped under the strain.

About an hour later the negro tried to seize a bag which Miss Margaret Smith was carrying on Federal street. So many people hurried to aid the girl that the man fled.

M'COLL'S REMEDY FOR HIGH COST OF LIVING

Business Depression Would Be a Lesson to People

Boston, Nov. 17.—Fifty-three members of the Home Market club sat in Wesleyan hall and applauded James R. McColl of Providence, retiring president, when he told them that there is one most effective way by which the cost of living can be reduced, and that is by bringing about a long period of business depression in which there is no return to capital and labor is largely unemployed.

"People will then learn to do without many things that they have thought necessities," he said. "Capital will not have the means and the courage to push ahead with new enterprises, supply will exceed demand, wages will decline, prices will go lower, the cost of living will be reduced, and soup kitchens will be in order."

The members sat in silence while Speaker Walker pleaded for the adoption of resolutions advocating scientific revision of the tariff, schedule by schedule, after reports by a permanent tariff commission, as advocated by President Taft—and then voted the resolutions down. A resolve for the policy of "hands off" was carried by a vote of 37 to 5.

MRS. STEVENS RE-ELECTED

Maine Woman Continues to Be President of the W. C. T. U.

Baltimore, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me., was unanimously re-elected president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Temperance union, at the annual convention of the union here. Mrs. Stevens reappointed Miss Anna A. Gordon of Evanston, Ills., vice president at large. Her appointment was promptly ratified.

The use of "third degree" methods in extracting confessions from persons accused of crime was condemned by the convention. Those in authority everywhere are urged to bring about its immediate and final abolishment.

BANK TREASURER KILLED

His Brotther Seriously Injured In an Automobile Accident

Lenox, Mass., Nov. 17.—George N. Root, treasurer of the Lenox Savings bank, was instantly killed, and his brother, Willis E. Root, was seriously injured when the automobile in which they were riding skidded on an icy road and was overturned.

The two brothers and Miss Florence Mahanna, who was soon to have been married to George N. Root, went to Pittsfield by automobile, where they attended the theatre. They were on their return to Lenox when the accident happened.

Women who are polite in practically all other places sometimes are positively rude at card tables. It would perhaps help them to be self controlled and civil when the game is going against them to remember that, after all, it is only a game and, though they lose, their defeat is only temporary.

However different one may be in fact when one is losing, and few persons are as interested when the cards are against them, it is a matter of good breeding to pretend as much enjoyment as when success is on her side. It is not politic to be snappy and dull just because one is losing. Such conduct makes the winning couple extremely uncomfortable.

Courtesy, at all times desirable, at cards should be regarded as imperative. To comment unfavorably upon the playing of a hand is the height of ill manners and need not be excused on the ground of instructing the ignorant. A woman who might sincerely wish to play a better game does not care to be criticised and drilled in public, and the one giving information is a self appointed teacher who is not desired.

At a bridge luncheon recently the players at one table were amused to hear at the completion of every hand a lecture by one of the guests. The woman who talked played well—all admitted that—but the afternoon was not a class in card playing. It was a social meeting where each woman was supposed to stand upon the merits of her game. The woman who did the talking was not disagreeable, nor did she select one person for her victim. Impartially she instructed the whole table, with the result that when she had gone at the end of the afternoon those remaining later declared that she had almost spoiled their game.

The correct thing for her to have done was to remain quiet, no matter how poor the playing of others might be. If she were asked any questions as to what to do she might have answered briefly and courteously, but she should have remembered that the afternoon was one of relaxation and amusement, not of instruction.

The woman who loses her temper with her partner commits an unpardonable breach of good manners. No is it enough to control the tongue alone at such times. Manner as well must be courteous, and one who cannot regard these dictates of good breeding should never play cards.

Automobile Etiquette.

It looks unconventional for a young girl to go automobiling with several young men unless they are relatives, for somehow it is suggestive of a "sporty" tendency on her part, and so the one girl in a group of men is never quite as delicately treated by the world as is the maid who has somebody of her own sex in her company. Therefore, all things considered, the chaperon is a useful personage, and if she is a good deal older than the rest of the party everybody is likely to behave in the best possible manner.

Proper dress for motoring depends upon the excursion itself, whether taken in town or in the country or if the trip is to be long or short. For wear in town the coquettish little bonnets with wide strings and side rosettes or flowers sometimes accompany the daintiest dinner frocks, for the spin may come after dinner in a restaurant, but over the gown must go a rajah or pongee coat cut with kimono sleeves and fastened smartly at the waist with two huge buttons of gilt or white embroidery. The long chiffon veil is a necessity for a smart look, and of course there are all sorts of gimcracks designed especially for motor wear—bracelets, watches, brooches, hatpins, etc. The country getup, especially if there is to be a long spin, is less elegant, coats, hoods, gloves and veils all looking to a great extent as if designed purely for usefulness.

Invitations to Children's Parties.

Good form requires that all invitations of both girls and boys shall be issued in the names of their parents or of one of the guardians with whom they live. The very obvious reason for this is that did one of the minors give invitations it might be done without the knowledge of elders.

Rarely do birthday parties need invitations other than formal notes to be written by the mother. It is not to parents of the others that the communications are addressed, but to the young people themselves, in notes something after this fashion:

My Dear Mary—Will you not give Anna and me the pleasure of your presence at a birthday party we are giving for her on Thursday, the 25th? We are asking some of her young friends to be here about 8 o'clock and hope you will be among them.

A Social Duty.

To send a box of candy, a book or a box of flowers after having made a short visit is a tactful act which costs little either in time or money. Only a visiting card bearing no writing may be inclosed.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Mrs. Averill Convicted of Killing Her Husband by Shooting

St. Albans, Vt., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Josephine Averill, who for the past week has been on trial charged with the murder of her husband, was late yesterday afternoon found guilty of manslaughter. The jury was out four and a half hours.

When Mrs. Averill heard the verdict she collapsed. She will be sentenced later in the week. The penalty is imprisonment from one to twenty years.

Frank Averill was shot on the night of Oct. 20 at his own home. He was about to go to bed. He and his wife were alone at the time. Averill appeared at a neighbor's house about 9:30, bleeding from a gunshot wound. He died a few days later. Mrs. Averill said he had been showing her how to use the gun when it exploded.

FOURTEEN YEARS' MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Solomon Island Cannibals Feasted on Austrians' Bodies

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 17.—A mystery of fourteen years concerning the fate of the Austrian scientific expedition from the ship Albatross in the Solomon islands is cleared up by the finding of the remains of the expedition in the Solomon islands.

The discovery was made by Dr. Norteott Deck of the South Sea Evangelican Mission. The expedition from the Albatross was headed by Baron von Norbeck and included Lieutenant Bubick, Midshipman De Beaufort and nine sailors.

Dr. Deck found evidences of a massacre on Tatuve island, and from the natives learned the details of the slaughter. The Austrians, according to the natives, were surprised by the blacks and only three of the men escaped. They made their way to the coast without learning the fate of their fellows, who fell into captivity.

Remnants cast aside after the cannibal feast leads Dr. Deck to believe that the captives fell prey to the tortures of the savages.

ABSORBS "NARROW GAUGE"

New Haven Road Seeks Legislative Sanction to Ownership

Boston, Nov. 17.—President Mellen of the New Haven and Boston and Maine railroads has filed a petition asking the legislature for authority to purchase the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad.

This action of Mellen is taken in banking circles as a public admission of the ownership of the "Narrow Gauge" by the New Haven. While it may be news to the general public that the New Haven owns the "Narrow Gauge," this ownership has been known in railroad circles for months. It is pointed out as "not good business." So the New Haven is now seeking legislative sanction to an ownership and consolidation that already exists.

Girl Saves Baby's Life

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 17.—Ray Jencks, 4 years old, owes his life to the bravery of 11-year-old Addie Pratt, who, when the baby had gone through the thin ice of a pond, waded in and pulled him out, then took him home and after rubbing his feet, put him to bed.

Plot Feared Against Minto

Calcutta, Nov. 17.—Three young Bengalis were arrested at a farewell function organized by the Indian community here in honor of the Earl of Minto, the retiring viceroy, and his wife. Two of the prisoners were pressing close to the earl when they were seized.

Danderine
Grows Hair and we can PROVE IT!
The Great DANDERINE Never Fails to Produce the Desired Results.

It enlivens and invigorates the hair glands and tissues of the scalp, resulting in a continuous and increasing growth of the hair.

Letters of praise are continually coming in from nearly all parts of the country stating that Danderine has restored the growth of hair to cases that were considered absolutely hopeless.

A lady from Brooklyn writes: "After a short trial my hair stopped falling, and I now have a lovely head of hair, very heavy and over one inch longer than before."

Danderine stimulates the scalp, makes it healthy and keeps it so. It is the greatest scalp invigorator known. It is a wholesome medicine for both the hair and scalp. Even a small bottle of it will put more genuine life in your hair than a gallon of any other hair tonic ever made. It shows results from the very start.

Now on sale at every drug and toilet store in the land; 3 sizes 25c, 50c and $1.00

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Quincy women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail, headaches, dizzy spells, disordering urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the early approach of diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Quincy woman's words:

Mrs. Deborah Prouty, 39 Quincy street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I am in a position to speak in the highest terms of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back ached nearly all the time and caused considerable trouble. Any sudden movement or an attempt to stoop, sharp pains through my loins. My kidneys was much run down and I had little strength or energy. I was much alarmed about my condition. When Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store, as I knew of many other people who had used them with success. The contents of the box convinced me that they were the best kidney remedy to be had, and now in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

TRIP TO CANAL IS PROFITABLE

President Taft Secures Much Valuable Information

POSTAL BANKS IN THE ZONE

May Be Asked For In Message to Congress—Complaints of Labor Not Well Founded—Canal Will Not Be Officially Opened Until a Year After Completion—President Is Familiar With Details of the Work

Panama, Nov. 17.—President Taft's visit is bearing fruit in the matter of first-hand information secured which will help him to deal with the problems involved in the construction, maintenance and control of the Panama canal. Officials on the ground are urging the president to recommend to congress a single-headed government for the canal zone and full and permanent government control of the waterway and the supply depots.

President Taft is gratified over the results of his three days' inspection. Yesterday he went deep down in the Culebra cut, giving especial attention to this, the most difficult part of the construction.

The president was surprised to learn that the zone was not included in the operations of the postal bank law and that some of the workmen believed that Wall street influence had robbed them of the benefit of this legislation. As a result of representations made to him it is probable that Mr. Taft in his special message to congress will recommend that provision be made for the establishment of postal banks in the zone, where they are much desired to care for enormous deposits of salaries and wages.

The president heard delegations of mechanics and laborers who are asking increased wages, based on increases in the United States. Conditions here, however, differ from those in the United States, as the government commissary has been successful in preventing the increased cost in living that has been general elsewhere. It is doubtful if larger wages will be paid in the zone.

The Panama canal will be completed in 1913. The official date of the opening remains Jan. 1, 1915, Colonel Goethals desiring one year in in which to train the canal tenders and get the machinery working smoothly. Ships in the meantime will be granted the privilege of the canal, but at their own risk of delays incident to inexperienced operation.

In addition it was announced by Goethals that the report that President Taft's visit was the forerunner of a request for another $100,000,000 from congress was unfounded. The canal will be completed in 1913, he said, within the $375,000,000 already authorized.

The president was pleased at the outlook for the early completion of the great work and congratulated Goethals. He expressed amazement at the amount of work accomplished since his visit to the isthmus in February, 1909. He displayed a knowledge of the technical details of the canal that surprised and delighted the officials, his familiarity dating back to the time he was secretary of war, when he advocated a lock canal as against a sea level system.

He was greatly surprised, however, at the immensity of the dam, some idea of which can be gained from the fact that the special train was under way nearly three hours on the spur tracks overrunning the great fill.

Last night President Taft left United States territory to enter Panama City, where he was the guest of President Arosemena at a banquet.

GASTON BOOM GROWS

Now Said That Successor to Lodge May Not Be Chosen This Year

Boston, Nov. 17.—The boom of William A. Gaston for United States senator took on big proportions yesterday when it was announced that practically every prominent leader in the state had expressed himself as favorable to the candidacy of Gaston.

The entrance of Gaston into the senatorship fight has led to the doubt if any senator at all can be chosen by the legislature this year. An analysis does not give either to Gaston or to Lodge at this time a majority of the votes of a convention of both branches of the legislature.

Men Have Right to Bleach Hair

Worcester, Mass,. Nov. 17.—"If women bleach their hair, I don't see any reason why a man has not the right to do likewise," said Judge Utley, when evidence was given that Fred Whittier, charged with larceny, had used peroxide on his raven locks to disguise himself. Whittier's case was placed on file.

'Frisco Gains Despite 'Quake

Washington, Nov. 17.—The population of San Francisco is 416,912, according to the statistics of the 30th census. This is an increase of 74,130, or 21.6 percent over 342,782 in 1900.

RICHARD C. MACLAURIN

Says Many Children's Careers Are Misfits

MISFITS IN CAREERS

Dr. Maclaurin Thinks Many Are Due to Ambitions of Parents

Boston, Nov. 17.—Parents alone are not competent to select careers for their children, in the opinion of Dr. Maclaurin, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was the principal speaker at the closing session of the First National Vocational Guidance conference held here last night.

Dr. Maclaurin said that parents should naturally have a part in selecting careers for their children, but that they were too close and too often guided by their personal ambitions to be the sole arbiters. He thought that one outside influence necessary should come from a teacher.

Still another should come from public spirited business men who were more competent than anyone else to tell young women and men of actual conditions and requirements that go to make success. He said that the human waste that takes place daily owing to misfits in choosing careers is the greatest waste of all.

ALL STARS DEFEAT CARLISLE INDIANS

Two Men Do Heavy Work in a Fine Football Game

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 17.—The Harvard All Stars proved they are well named by defeating the Carlisle Indians in an interesting contest. The game kept the 3000 spectators on edge throughout.

Practically two men furnished the sensational features of the contest and did the playing for their respective elevens. They were Philbin, the old Yale back, and Wauseka, the fullback of Carlisle. Philbin's playing might practically be said to have won the game for the law school men, as he not only kicked the goal that scored the three points, but it was his dashes and kicking that brought the ball within striking distance.

Only at times did the Indians show their old form and the last two periods they outplayed the All Stars time and time again. The final score was 3 to 0.

WEBB HEIRESS ARRIVES

News of Stork's Visit Kept From the Public For Eleven Days

Chicago, Nov. 17.—For eleven days Chicago has been the home of one of the richest heiresses in the United States. It has just become known that the hurried visit to Chicago of Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, widow of the "Sugar King," and Mrs. W. S. Webb of New York, was not to nurse their daughter and daughter-in-law, Mrs. James W. Webb, back to health from an attack of pneumonia, as announced, but to be present at the presentation to the world of an heiress to the Webb-Vanderbilt-Havemeyer millions.

At 155 East Division street the heiress made her debut in the world while Chicago society thought Mrs. Webb was seriously ill with pneumonia.

NEGLIGENCE IS DENIED

Cambridge Bank Officers File Answer to Complaint of Receiver

Boston, Nov. 17.—An answer to the bill of complaint filed by John L. Bates, receiver for the National City bank of Cambridge, which was wrecked by George W. Coleman and others, was filed in behalf of Edwin Dresser as president and G. W. Gale and Sumner Dresser as directors of the bank.

The three make a general denial of the charges made by Bates to the effect that they were negligent in their duties.

Morocco Pays Spain $13,000,000

POSSE HUNTING FOR ROBBERS

Orders to Shoot If They Make Resistance to Arrest

LABORERS NOW HAVE GUARD

Construction Gang, Frightened by Shooting of One of Their Number, Refuses to Work Unless Protected by Armed Men—Bandits Who Robbed Paymaster of $20,000 Believed to Be Hiding in Mountain

Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 17.—Protected by a dozen armed men, the Italians employed by the Woronocco Construction company, whose paymaster was held up by three masked bandits and robbed of $20,000 in cash and checks on Saturday night last, work away unmolested. This action was taken following the shooting of Vincenzo Martinelli Tuesday.

Fearing that another attack might be made upon them while they were at work constructing the line through the swamp, the Italians refused to work unless they were given the protection of armed men. Accordingly the officials of the company assigned twelve men to guard the workmen.

It is stated at the hospital where Martinelli was taken shortly after the shooting, that the man is resting comfortably and that he will recover. At first it was feared that he was fatally wounded.

The shooting of Martinelli has given new life to the search through the several square miles of swamp lands for the bandits and their booty, and twenty men left this place in charge of two detectives who are conducting the search.

The officers now believe the bandits are hiding in the mountain fastnesses of the Taconic range, awaiting their opportunity to slip down to a railroad station and make for New York.

New York detectives joined the large posses that went into the woods and swamps yesterday in the hope of rounding up the bandits. Orders have been issued to the officers and men of the posse to take no chances with the bandits should they be discovered. The bandits will be shot down if they make any resistance to arrest.

Far up on Fray mountain in a desolate wilderness of woods there was found yesterday an abandoned cabin which is believed to have been their rendezvous. Embers of a fire recently extinguished and other things indicating that the cabin had been occupied Monday night were found. From the cabin the trail led over the precipitous mountain slopes and rugged hills toward South Egremont. It was lost in the bushy swamp near the point from which Martinelli was shot.

PROBE OF GRANGE HEADS

Called For at Opening Session of the National Grange

Atlantic City, Nov. 17.—The adoption of a resolution calling for an investigation of charges affecting the integrity of the present administration of the organization was a feature of the opening session of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry. The resolution called upon insurgent members to present any charges they have in writing, together with their proofs.

Federal aid for road improvement, parcels post laws, conservation of national resources, a national income tax and a non-partisan tariff commission, were advocated by Grand Master Bachelder in his annual report. He opposed ship subsidies and an amendment to the oleomargarine laws in the interest of imitation butter.

Professors Observe Eclipse

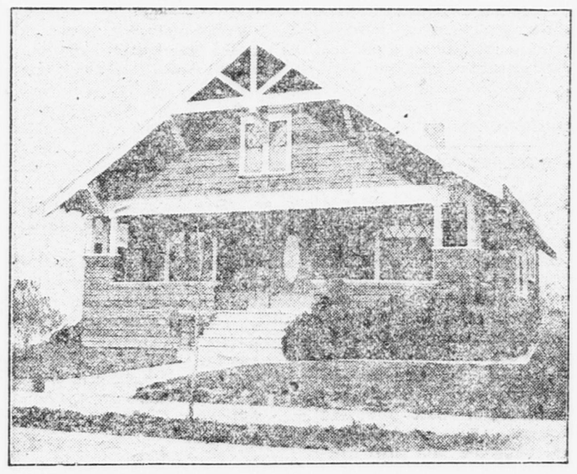

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 17.—The total eclipse of the moon last night hardly occasioned more than "a passing glance." At the Harvard observatory astronomers gave every minute to their telescopes or photographing lenses. Professor Pickering said that the weather conditions for observing the eclipse and making photographs were about ideal.

Submarines For Hong Kong

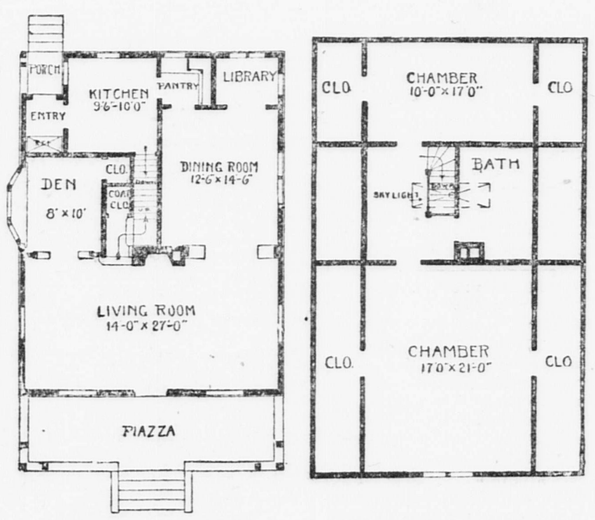

London, Nov. 17.—Early in 1911 a British flotilla of submarines will be sent to Hong Kong and permanently stationed there. Other flotillas of the same craft will be sent later to Gibraltar and other stations.

NOVELTY AT A MODERATE OUTLAY.

Design 862, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Here is presented a plan having a large living room reached by a porch entrance direct. At the center of the room is an open fireplace, at its left a stairway to the second story and an archway opening into a very pleasant den with a Dutch window. At the right is another archway opening into a large dining room. At the back is a small library or sewing room. Through a butler's pantry access to the kitchen is gained. In the second story there are two chambers and a bath. In place of the skylight one could put on a couple of dormers, which would not only furnish light, but would break the monotony of the roof. The first story is finished in Washington fir, the second in pine to paint, with birch floors in both. Size twenty-eight feet wide and thirty-six feet deep over the main part. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $2,400.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish complete plans and specifications of design No. 862 for $20.

CHINESE GRAB AT FAIR

Given at the Park and Downs Church

A large number attended the opening of the two days' fair by the Woman's Missionary society in the vestry of the Park and Downs Congregational church on Thursday. A feature of the fair was the setting of the grabs in the form of a Chinese laundry. In front was a sign "No checkee, no shirtee," and behind the counter were those in charge dressed in oriental costumes.

In the evening, piano solos by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith added much to the enjoyment of those present.

A delicious roast beef supper was served from 6 to 8 o'clock in the ladies' parlor, by the following young ladies in charge of Mrs. Chester Boynton, Miss Flora Sass, Miss Freda Klingenhagen, Miss Bessie Hunter, Miss Mary McCall and Miss Elizabeth Torrey.

At the donation table were Miss Grace Hunter in the costume of a Dutch girl, and Reginald Shaw. The fair which was in charge of Mrs. Burpee A. Banks was a big success.

Tomorrow afternoon will be devoted to the children and in the evening a prize will presented the boys' class that has sold the most tickets.

Following are the names of those serving on committees:

Supper committee—Mrs. Clarence Hunter, Mrs. Herbert Tucker, Mrs. Frederick Torrey, Mrs. Norman Northrop, Miss Mary Tobey, Miss Marion Brown and Mrs. E. V. Brown.

Candy table—Mrs. John Given, Mrs. C. L. Gilliatt, Mrs. A. H. Waitt, Mrs. A. Bissett.

Fancy goods—Mrs. Frank C. Knowlton, Mrs. Reginald Shaw, Mrs. L. A. Steffens, Mrs. William Kershaw, Mrs. Herbert Irving.

Children's table—Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. James A. Macdonald, Mrs. G. M. Daniels.

Apron table—Mrs. Herman Forsyth, Mrs. W. A. Thompson, Mrs. C. C. McKay, Madame Knowlton.

Grabs—Mrs. A. J. Podbury, Mrs. Charles Richardson and Mrs. T. C. Hay.

Ice cream—Herman Forsyth and Mrs. Lilla Ewen.

SMITH—BLACK.

A very pretty home wedding took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Alexander Black, 110 Glencoe place, when her daughter, Elizabeth Jane, was united in marriage to David Anderson Smith by Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy of Bethany church. The single ring service was used. Edward E. Myers presided at the piano as the bride and groom advanced accompanied by Mrs. Black, Catherine Black, as maid of honor, and George Klein, as best man. The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of white silk trimmed with Irish point lace. Her bouquet was made up of white pinks and asparagus fern. During the reception which followed, Belle Haddon and Margaret Kemp acted as ushers. The guests were given an opportunity to see the presents which were beautiful and numerous. After the reception a bounteous supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside at 110 Glencoe place after they return from their wedding trip.

PRESENTATION.

J. T. Cogan, chief steward of the torpedo boat "Sterett" was waited upon by a committee appointed by the crew that successfully ran and made such a fine record for the Fore River Ship building Co. with the "Sterett" on her recent official trial trip at Rockland, Maine.

Chief Engineer George Manuel in a few well chosen remarks presented Steward Cogan with a beautiful morocco covered case of shaving implments, and also returning to him, until the next trial trip the cork screw and bottle opener he gave them just before leaving Quincy on the last trial of the "Sterett." Mr. Cogan was taken completely by surprise, but as the sun was over the "yard arm" he found one last shot in the locker. He also responded with a few remarks telling them he was proud to be able to cater to such a crowd of good fellows, and only hoped that the Fore River would always have as good a crew on their future trials.

—A Maine state official, just displaced, is out of office now for the first time in thirty-nine years. Perhaps, however, says the Somerville Journal he has saved up enough money so that he won't have to go to work.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Quite a hustle was made Wednesday evening to get voters registered and several automobiles were in use. The names of 48 men and 1 female were added to the lists.

From now on the local political pot will boil. Some hot shot are looked for before the campaign is over.

It was the automobiles that did the business for C. W. Bailey in Ward Five. He had a citizens committee working in his interest, and their work told. At 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon but 40 had voted, yet when the polls closed at 9 o'clock the total vote was 420, showing what was done in the evening to get out the voters.

It has been reported in a Boston paper that Councilman Arthur W. Loud was defeated at the Republican caucus in Ward Five for reelection because of his friendship for the present administration at City Hall. Wollaston people who were out against Mr. Loud deny this. They say Mr. Loud was defeated because he was too much interested in contracts which the firm of W. F. Loud & Son have with the city. They believe that Councilmen should not be personally interested in such work, and that other men would better protect the interests of the people.

That there will be enough candidates and some to spare at the Municipal election is evinced by the fact that although the caucuses were only held Tuesday several nomination papers have been taken out.

Mayor Shea has taken out papers for a Citizen's indorsement for Mayor.

Archie Thayer has taken out papers for a Citizen's candidate for Councilman from Ward One.

Charles E. Gill has taken out papers for an independent candidate for Councilman from Ward Five.

Carl E. Carlson, who was defeated by one vote for councilman from Ward Six, has taken out papers as Republican Independent candidate for councilman from Ward Six.

EIGHT CHILDREN LIVING.

Mrs. Mary Pollock of Bigelow street observed her 70th birthday on Wednesday. Mrs. Pollock is in remarkably good health for her age. Of her twelve children eight are now living: Frank, who resides in Weymouth; Walter, ames B. Allen and Fred who reside in New York; Madeline, Alice and Mrs. George H. Brown. Of her sons, James B., is a travelling auditor for the New York Central railroad, and Fred is general manager of the freight department of the New York Central. Today Mrs. Pollock visited Mrs. John F. Wentworth and saw the famous triplets, born last week.

SHERWIN—TROUPE.

A wedding of much interest to South Quincy people took place Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Sangster Troupe, when his daughter Helen Cordiner was united in marriage to Alden Arthur Sherwin of West Townsend, Mass. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. D. Ringrose of the 1st Baptist Church of West Townsend. The bride was attended by Miss Georgie Michael and Carl B. Willard of West Townsend was best man. The bride wore a gown of white silk with pearl trimming and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

At the reception the four brothers of the bride, John M. Troupe, William Troupe, Walter D. Troupe and A. Wallace Troupe acted as ushers. The parents of the bride and groom assisted in receiving. Decorations consisting of autumn leaves, palms, and yellow and white chrysanthemums added much to the attractiveness of the scene.

After an extended wedding tour through New York, Philadelphia and Washington Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin will reside at West Townsend. They will be at home after January 1.

LOCAL SPORTS.

Although there were several affairs on the social calendar Wednesday evening seven tables participated in the weekly whist tournament at the rooms of the Granite City club. Scores as a rule ran somewhat lower than at the previous tournaments this year. Dennis F. Crowley secured the top score with 43 won and 21 lost, which gave him 67 plus percent. The second best score was made by John Curtis, with 37 won and 23 lost, or 61 plus. A lunch was served at the conclusion of the tournament.

The Roanoke A. A. will face one of the fastest teams of the city on Thanksgiving morning at the Ward Two playgrounds, when they line up against the Kelleys Squad of Quincy Point. Capt. William Harkins of the Roanokes with his men, are putting in hard practise daily and are confident of a victory.

On Wednesday Malden High defeated Brockton 32 to 0, and Melrose won from Somerville 12 to 0.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS

Complete Ticket for Councilmen at Large

As a result of names written on the ballots used at the joint caucuses Tuesday, the following Democratic nominations were made:

Councilman at large—George A. Bolster, Charles M. Bryant, Alfred N. LaBrecque, Rednor P. Coombs and Thomas J. McGrath.

School Committee at large—Joseph R. Curley of West Quincy.

Councilmen from Ward Three—David M. Warner and Robert B. Craig.

Councilman Ward Five—Elis McTeer, Arthur W. Loud and Michael F. Cook.

Councilman from Ward Six—Horace Jenkins.

It was reported this morning that Charles M. Bryant, Rednor P. Coombs and Thomas J. McGrath intended to withdraw, also Mr. McTeer in Ward Five.

SOCIAL AND DANCE.

The social and dance of the Sunday school and choir of the Church of the Sacred Heart held Wednesday evening at Music Hall, Atlantic was largely attended and a very enjoyable party. There was a pleasing entertainment during the first part of the evening, the program including selections by Cuff's orchestra; soprano solo, by Miss Clara L. Nelson; readings by Miss Bertha McDonough; violin, cornet and piano trio, by James Collins and sisters; tenor solo by J. A. Morrissette; Irish jig and reel, by the Misses McDonald; contralto solo, by Miss Clara Duggan; selections by the Granite City quartette composed of Edward C. Donovan, Peter Sullivan and Russell Sullivan; and character sketch by John McKenna. Following the entertainment there was general dancing.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL.

Quite a number of tickets have been sold for the Dorchester game but there are still more. The sale of these tickets is the only means of revenue in this game. Inasmuch as it comes Saturday afternoon many will be able to go who otherwise could not. The team has done good work this year and deserves the support of the citizens as well as the pupils in this last conflict with the best team in greater Boston.

It was though that some of the regular team would be debarred on account of scholarship but now every man is practically sure of appearing in the lineup.

The game is called at 3 o'clock. A member of the reportorial staff of the Daily Ledger will accompany the team and a full account will appear in Monday's paper.

The girls of the Senior and Junior classes held a meeting last week to make preliminary arrangements for the football reception. The date is set for early in December.

THAYER ACADEMY.

The senior class will hold a dance Friday evening in the gymnasium.

Thayer defeated Braintree High by a score of 7 to 0.

* * *

Basketball practice was started this week. A large squad came out in response to the call of the coach and prospects for a fast team are very good.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Wollaston club meets at 7.15 this evening. F. J. Hammel will tell of his experience in a trip around the world on the battleship Vermont.

The ladies' night of the college club promises to be a great success. There will be a musical program ,a short play and last but not least refreshments.

At the Saturday morning meeting Theophilus King will speak to the younger boys. A large attendance should be there to hear him and to get in touch with his big hearted nature.

H. C. Leggett of Worcester will speak at the Sunday afternoon meeting for older boys. Subject: "Fight."

Only Her Face.

"Only to see her face," he said—
"Only to see her face!
To gaze at her beauty, rich and rare,
Would make the world sublimely fair,
Instead of a dismal place.

"Only to see her face," he said,
"Would make my heart rejoice."
But that which he wished never came to pass,
For he never could see her face, alas,
Without listening to her voice.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Objection.

A woman writer says, "A beefsteak may be just as much a token of affection as a bunch of American Beauty roses."

But when you come to think of it, there are so few gowns and so few complexions that would harmonize with a first cut of sirloin.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE PLATFORM OF CANDIDATE HOBBS

Takes Issues with Present Administration in Financial and Other Matters

Councilman Richards Also Fires Some Hot Shot

The opening gun in the Municipal campaign was fired at Music hall, Atlantic, Thursday evening in the interest of Ralph W. Hobbs, the Republican candidate for Mayor. The hall was well filled and there were a number of ladies in the audience. On the wall at the right of the hall was a diagram showing a row of paving laid on Hancock street Oct. 18. The diagram which was made by Ernest W. Branch civil engineer, showed but one of what is known as city paving blocks. The others were sad looking specimens of blocks.

Ex-Councilman Herbert W. Barker presided, and on the platform were Candidate Hobbs, Councilman at Large Cherrington, Councilman Richards, W. M. Chase, Chairman of the City committee, Representative Langeller, and Messrs Parlee, Jenkins and Soderqren, the three candidates for Councilman at the coming Municipal election.

Chairman Chase said the city was normally Republican by 500 and that 500 had elected Mayor Shea. It is well recognized that every champion falls sometime, and he hoped our present Mayor would meet that rule. Whether it will be this year or next remains to be seen. When these 500 Republicans come back into the fold, as they surely must, we will have a Republican Mayor. There must be something besides personality to hold these 500 voters. If our public works department is efficient and economical he did not know the meaning of the word. The administration of that office has illustrated absolute inefficiency and waste. He hoped we would be able to elect a Republican Mayor this year.

WARD THREE ROOSEVELT.

Councilman Richards was then introduced as "the Roosevelt of Ward Three." He said that he had been so often misquoted that he would read his speech, so that he might not be misquoted. He said he was not present to expound wisdom, but would leave that to his fore-flusher friends. He was awakened three years ago by the cry of civic rightousness and his dull faculties commenced to adjust themselves, and he was amazed to find the Moses selected to lead the people from political bondage was one in close touch with political machines of other cities. He found that those of the Council who had used discretion and good judgment as opposed the machine were quietly trimmed at the next caucus. The Mayor under our

CANDIDATES ON RECORD

Speakers at the Mens Club at Wollaston

One of the most successful meetings in its history was held by the Wollaston Methodist Men's club in the vestry on Thursday evening. Besides having the attendance of a large and enhusiastic audience including many visitors, and hearing a good speaker, those present witnessed the first public appearance of the three Republican nominees for Councilmen from Ward Five: Messrs. Gardiner, Bailey and Leslie.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. George S. Butters, D. D., of Newton, who took for his subject,—"A good man to have around."

In a heart to heart talk filled with personal recollections and anecdotes, Dr. Butters proceeded to describe what sort of a man this should be. First of all, he should be a comfortable sort of a man—one who is companionable. Some of us are not as agreeable in our homes as we ought to be. We should be as careful of our home manners as we are of our manners in public. More than all the world means to us is the cheer in our home, and it is never too late to begin.

Next he should be a man of intellectual aspiration. We have a mind as well as a soul to save. We have faculties that should be used for the help of our fellowmen.

In the last place he should be a grateful man. The besetting sin of the generation is a lack of gratitude. We should show appreciation for the work of the singers in our choirs, the ministers, the school teachers none of whom we can repay in money alone.

Councilman Gardiner was the first of the candidates to speak. He dwelt on the license problem and emphasized the need of judiciously regulating the number of express licenses. He thought it a good idea if organizations such as this club looked into the question in order to obtain as broad a view as possible.

Charles W. Bailey said that while he was not going to make any pledges he thought he understood what was expected of the man that filled the office. He is expected to be honest and put enough time and study into matters in order that he may act intelligently honestly and sincerely. He must not dodge, duck, or sidestep the issues and must do no foreflushing.

William J. Leslie turned his attention to the financial conditions of the city. He had seen Quincy grow from a town free from debt to its present condition. Of late the aim has been to get all we could without considering expense. It is all right to have sidewalks, lights, and the like, but the question is can the city afford it? He pledged himself to do all in his power to see that Quincy kept within its means. In his opinion Wollaston needed an organization that would further the benefits of the community and where men could get together and thrash out the questions of the ward and city's needs.

The evening opened with the reports of the secretary and treasurer, followed by the reading of the Wollaston Herald by its editor-in-chief, J. A. Sedgwick. As usual its pages contained many knocks on the members which were enjoyed with keen relish as well as material of a more serious nature.

At the close of the program those present adjourned to an elaborate spread, a Welch rarebit, the work of A. N. Murray, forming the piece de resistance.

TODAY'S COURT.

George B. Hawkens of Boston and Richard H. Bullock of Worcester were fined $10 each for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

NOTABLE GATHERING OF MASONS

Rt. Wor. Hartley L. White Accompanied by Largest Suite That Ever Visited Rural Lodge

Nine States and Foreign Lodges Also Represented

As usual, the annual visitation of the district deputy to Rural lodge is the big event of the year, and over 300 members and visitors were out Thursday evening. Right Worshipful District Deputy Grand Master Hartley L. White, who is a past master of Rural lodge, had the largest suite that ever accompanied a deputy, numbering over 30 masters and past masters, and including:

Wor. Bro. Walter S. Pinkham of Wollaston lodge as grand senior warden.

Wor. Bro. Peter Curtis of John Cutler lodge as grand junior warden.

Wor. Bro. J. W. Porter of Norfolk Union lodge as grand treasurer.

Wor. Bro. M. S. Gurney of Paul Revere lodge as grand secretary.

Wor. Bro. Joseph P. Prout of Rural lodge as grand marshal.

Also Rt. Wor. Herbert W. French of Randolph, past D. D. G. M. of the 24th district; Rt. Wor. Walter Hilliard of Arlington, past D. D. G. M. of the 6th district; Worshipfuls Stanley, Cook, Allen and Goodwin of Puritan lodge; Worshipfuls Dickerman and Hyde of John Cutler lodge, Worshipfuls C. J. Merter and C. P. Lewis of Fellowship lodge; Worshipfuls Shaw and John Adam of Satucket lodge; Worshipful Samuel Howard of Paul Revere lodge; Worshipful S. F. Copeland of Wollaston lodge; Worshipful Robinson of Meridin lodge of Franklin, N. H.; Worshipfuls Estes and Hall of Adelphi lodge of South Boston; Worshipful John F. Roache of Olive Branch lodge of Millbury; Worshipful Albert Leslie Barbour of Mt. Mariah lodge of Rhode Island; and Worshipfuls Whiton, Whitney and Sampson of Rural lodge.

Among the other visitors of the evening were Masons from lodges in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Washington, Nova Scotia and Scotland. Some of the Massachusetts towns represented were: Boston, Somerville, Braintree, Weymouth, Brockton, Scituate, Cohasset, Whitman, Abington, Dedham, Randolph, Medway, Duxbury, Malden, Lynn, Rockport, Lawrence, Everett, Foxboro, Hanover, Natick, Athol, Waltham, East Bridgewater and Falmouth.

Rt. Wor. White and suite were received with the honors of the order, and after the official business of the evening, witnessed the work of the M. M. degree upon five candidates, which was warmly praised. Deputy White also spoke of the progress of the Masonic Home, and complimented Rural lodge on its share of the work.

The Beethoven Quartet of Boston including Brothers W. H. Rose, D. E. Newland, E. L. MacArthur and A. H. McKee, added impressiveness to the ceremonies of the evening.

A banquet of salads, escalloped oysters, rolls, ices, cake and coffee followed, Bro. Henry P. Furnald serving bountifully. Cigars were then passed. Worshipful Albert M. Parker also called upon the deputy, members of the suite, and others, for speeches, and good fellowship reigned.

POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED

Inquest on Body of Louis Restelli, the Murderer

An inquest was held before Judge Avery this morning on the death of Louis Restelli the murderer whose dead body was found in the quarry hole by Officer Milford of Quincy and Officer Qualey of Braintree. The witnesses were Medical Examiner Jones. Officers Milford and Qualey and Gaspere Restelli, one of the parties who was shot on that fatal July day.

After the inquest Judge Avery said that the inquest had been held so as to establish the identity of the body that he might report to the District Attorney, so that he latter might dispose of the indictment now pending before the grand jury.

Judge Avery said that there was no question as to the identity of he body His brother Gaspere had fully identified it by the missing toe, and that he had identified the brush hammers which Restelli had used to weight himself with as belonging to his brother Louis. He also identified the photographs taken of the body by Medical Examiner Jones as that of his brother. Officer Milford who knew Louis Restelli had also identified the body. Judge Avery also said there was no question as to the suicide, and that he should report these findings to the District Attorney.

WE wish to call the attention of our customers and to the buying Public of Quincy and surrounding towns, that after a careful inspection and comparison, we consider that, taking the quality and genuine value of our goods, that we are the lowest priced store in Massachusetts.

Now, this may seem to be a broad statement to some people but we stand ready to PROVE our statement. We claim that nowhere in Quincy or any part of Massachusetts, do they sell better QUALITY or do they charge lower prices for the same QUALITY of goods than we do. We have been noted for years for the QUALITY of the goods we sell, and are ever ready to make good when the goods are not just as represented, and nowhere can you get such a guarantee of Quality. You all know that there is a certain value to High Quality Provisions as well as other commodities that you use; and when you go along the street and read the advertisements of different dealers who are selling you something at a ridiculously low price, you can depend upon it that you are surely buying a gold brick, for you cannot buy something that is absolutely worth thirty cents for fifteen cents and expect Quality any more than you can buy a three thousand dollar automobile for fifteen hundred and expect it to be just as good.

Now we have posted ourselves on the different grades of the other dealers and we say once more that we are the lowest priced Quality Store in Quincy or Massachusetts, and we ask you, if you want proof, to call and compare our goods and prices with what you are paying.

Just now the market has eased off considerably and we were one of the first dealers to give our customers the benefit, showing you that we are WITH the people, our customers, at all times.

Thanksgiving will be here soon and we wish to inform our customers that we shall have a grand display of DELICIOUS fresh Goods for the trade. No cheap trash, but fresh, wholesome, clean stock—the only kind FIT TO BUY, TO EAT, and the prices will be hammered down just as hard as possible for them to be and for us to live; so we invite you to our store, where you can see that our statements are all absolutely true in every respect.

Space will not permit us to quote at length our prices but below will be found the prices of a few things that we know to be of more than special value.

Curtice Bro's Family Tomatoes 12 1-2c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Cut, String or Wax Beans 10c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Maine Sweet Corn 12 1-2c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Small Peas (that fresh sweet flavor) 17c a can
Regular Value 20c

" " Champion of England Peas 15c a can
ONE OF THE BEST GROWN Regular Value 18c

" " May Duke Peas (a winner) 10c a can
Regular Value 13c

QUEEN LOUISE FLOUR at 90c a bag

We ask you to use some of this flour and if you do not find it to be the best you ever used, return the empty bag to us and receive your money back. This is the guarantee that goes with the FLOUR.

We sell the famous La Touraine Coffee for 35c a pound. The EQUAL of any 40c coffee on the Market.

With each pound of La Touraine Coffee we give FREE any 5c bar of soap you wish.

Our line of Teas are the BEST in Quincy, carefully selected and chosen to suit the heavy and light tea tastes of our customers. One special Tea at 60c we wish to call your attention to, a regular $1.00 Quality. Try some.

Our Market—always the best, always the LOWEST PRICED, and the VERY HIGHEST QUALITY. This part of our large business speaks for itself. It needs no debate, as it is in a class all by itself; but of one thing you may be sure, considering the Quality, we are surely cutting the prices on GOOD SUBSTANTIAL CORN FED BEEF.

We have our prices on MEAT on our price Board in plain sight of every one who enters our store, and all we ask is, compare Quality and then compare Prices, and you will see that we are not selling you NOTHING for SOMETHING, but for every penny you spend with us, you get your penny's worth in return, in WEIGHT and MEASURE and QUALITY, to say nothing of HEALTH and HAPPINESS in your HOME because a poor QUALITY of cheap meats never promotes HEALTH and therefore little HAPPINESS.

Inspect our poultry department, before you buy elsewhere and see what a splendid line of fresh killed chicken—fowl and turkeys we have to offer, and we will guarantee that the prices will be cut as close as it is possible to cut them, for we wish to sell every one a Thanksgiving Turkey or Chicken. Once again we invite you to our Store to inspect our goods and prices.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Perhaps Senator Lodge would like to write the life of Eugene N. Foss for the statesman series.

Senator Beveridge says that no man can make a million dollars honestly. Most men are safe from suspicion.

There is one thing to be said for South Dakota's seven-foot ballot. It renders ballot-box stuffing next to impossible.

It is safe to guess that that Chicago woman who declared that men are useless creatures never called on a husband to button her up the back.

If President Taft is looking for a suitable receiver for the Republic of Panama, he would doubtless find any one of the Guggenehim boys in a receptive frame of mind.

The State of Massachusetts paid this week all outstanding temporary loans in anticipation of taxes. Up to Nov. 1, Quincy had paid but $25,000 of the $445,000 temporary loans of 1910.

An Indianapolis councilman is about to introduce an ordinance to suppress, "giggling, gushing, garrulous girls" in theatres. Our hearts go out in pity to the man. It is deliberate suicide.

The death of Ralph Johnstone, America's foremost aviator, comes as a shock to the world and especially to those who have had the privilege of witnessing the daring flights he has made in the meets in Quincy and in New York city. Born with the blood of the Vikings coursing through his veins, nothing that required physical courage could daunt him. Bicycle riding and automobile racing failed to satisfy his craving for the thrill which comes with feats of daring, and he welcomed the aeroplane most heartily as the means of satisfying his thirst for excitement. In Quincy he commanded the respect and admiration of everyone by his intrepidity. At Belmont park his record flights brought the world to his feet and now Denver has seen his last attempt to get and to give the thrill.

The Quincy meet was most happily concluded without an accident to any contestant, at Belmont park there was no fatality, but the third great meet could not pass by without its toll of death. To most of us death is a frightful thing to face. Life is too dear to be opened to any great risk. But ours is an age of achievement and achievement means risk, and a willingness to pay the price. The science of aeronautics is in its infancy, and men of achievement are giving their time, their thought, yes, and their lives, to develop and strengthen it until it shall assume its full stature and take its place among the things which have been mastered by mankind. The question in everyone's mind is this: "Is it worth the price?" Few would consider it so, and yet if Mr. Johnstone has rendered an invaluable service to science and to mankind, does it not remove a little of the horror from the disaster? By the sacrifice of one life, a big price to pay to be sure, thousands of lives may be saved, and mankind will reap untold benefits. Mr. Johnstone died a hero, and when time has healed the wound in our hearts, we can see more clearly the philosophy of the thing and feel more secure in our belief that it is but a part of the great plan of life.

DRIFT OF OPINION

College football seems to be conducted at times very much like other sports that are played by "lowbrow" citizens who have no college educations. Here is what they say about a feature of the Yale-Princeton game of Saturday: "The jabber of Capt. Hart of Princeton was continuous during the game. It rivalled baseball coaching. Hart is said to have gone so far as to shout out misleading codes of signals when Howe of Yale was giving his signals for the Yale eleven, with the alleged idea of trying to confuse Howe and the Yale team." This is in its way about as bad as a feature in one of last season's big games, when two men as soon as play started rushed for a player on the opposite side who was regarded as dangerous, and by a preconcerted plan hit him, knocked him over and hurt him so he had to quit the game then and there. It appears that there are several things about football that need to be reformed if the game is to be considered on a plane higher than that of the baseball played on town lots or the ordinary roughhouse "scrapping" of the back alleys where "the lower element" enjoy their little pleasures.—Brockton Enterprise.

New Fountain, Personals, Fire Alarm and Notes

David W. Bearse went to South Chatham the first of the week to visit his father.

Mr. Goodwin, who was injured while working on the house on Huntington road belonging to his nephew, is recovering rapidly from the ill effects of his fall. It was found that there were no internal injuries and the broken collar bone is mending nicely.

H. E. Sheldon's house on Edgehill road is nearing completion and when finished it is going to present a very fine appearance.

The Manahan house on Edgehill road is receiving a new coat of paint.

Francis Robinson, who for the past twelve years has been working for the town as a scavenger, died at his home on Randolph avenue on Tuesday. Mr. Robinson was an amiable old gentleman, well liked by all who knew him. He lived in the town of Milton for nearly 30 years. Before he was employed by the town he was gardener for two or three of the old families. Mr. Robinson was in his 78th year.

Alfred Martin of Adams street returns to Panama today after a two months' visit with his parents.

The still alarm Tuesday morning at 10.45 was for a fire on Willard street just beyond Clark's shop. The billboard which has been erected recently was found to be blazing pretty briskly but it was only a matter of a few minutes' work for the department to subdue the flames.

Mullen's old store at the corner of Adams street and Granite place is in use as a storehouse for provisions. Mr. Mullen will open the small store directly opposite for the convenience of old customers in that neighborhood.

There will be a dance at Cunningham gymnasium next Wednesday evening.

There will be two games at Cunningham field on Saturday. Milton High school will play against Woburn, and the Cunningham gym team will play the Wollaston A. A. Both games give promise of being closely contested.

The water was turned on at the East Milton fountain on Tuesday, for the purpose of testing its efficiency. Many of the townspeople who had a drink there pronounced it a success.

Milton is to have a rare treat in a little less than three weeks. F. Hopkinson Smith, the noted author, will give a reading from his own works on the eighth of December in Milton Town Hall under the auspices of the Milton Women's Club. Those who have learned to love such books as "The Tides of Barnegat" and "Peter" will surely want to come in touch with the personality of their author. Mr. Smith has travelled extensively and has a wide reputation as a reader and lecturer as well as for his remarkable ability as an author.

DEBATE OF MEN'S CLUB.

The second debate of the Men's club of Christ church gave evidence of increasing interest in the scheme of the program committee. The question at this debate Wednesday evening was: Resolved, that the rapid increase of foreign born in this country is detrimental to the best social and political organization. The negative side headed by A. C. Marr won the debate over the affirmative with Alexander Fryer as principal. Many interesting and instructive points were brought out by speakers on both sides.

WORLD'S LARGEST LINER

New Cunarder Will Be Nearly Nine Hundred Feet In Length

London, Nov. 18.—A gigantic ocean liner, the largest in the world, and one that is expected to stand for fifty years unequalled in splendor and dimensions, will be built for the Cunard line.

The new leviathan will be 885 feet long and will cost $5,000,000. She will accomodate 3790 passengers, the apartments being arranged for 650 first-class passengers, 740 second-class, and 2400 third-class.

The new liner will ply in the Atlantic trade between Liverpool and New York.

Death In Crash of Cars

Northboro, Mass., Nov. 18.—James Mansfield, a motorman, was killed, and three passengers badly injured in a head-on collision between two Worcester Consolidated electric cars here. The collision occurred at a blind curve about a mile and one-half outside this town.

THANKSGIVING APPEAL

Overseer of the Poor in Need of Funds

James H. Elcock, the Overseer of the Poor with a thoughtfulness for the needy of the city has issued the following appeal for funds for Thanksgiving:

"Thanksgiving is coming and many are the appeals to this department from the poor of our city to send them a basket on that day. Last year we delivered over ninety baskets, the size of the basket depending on the number of persons in the family. Each basket contained a turkey or chicken, potatoes, celery, cranberries and turnip.

"December 24, 1887, Cotton Centre Johnson bequeathed to the Town of Quincy, two thousand dollars, the interest of which was to be used to supply turkeys to the worthy poor of Quincy. The interest amounts to eighty dollars and this sum is very inadequate, owing to the growth of our city. I, therefore, appeal to your charity for aid to make the poor people happy on Thanksgiving day."

NEW TELEPHONE RATES.

The following statement has been issued by the commercial department of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company:

"To correct a somewhat prevalent mistaken impression, it seems desirable to state that the new telephone rates are still in effect. The mistaken belief that they have been suspended or postponed probably arose from the request of certain petitioners representing four party and six party suburban subscribers asking that such subscribers be given the privilege of retaining their service under the old rates until November 1, 1911, in order to give them ample opportunity for understanding the new schedule.

"The company acceded to this request. The new schedule is in effect, however, for all classes of subscribers who desire service thereunder.

"Of the 22,000 subscribers whose applications under the new schedule have been received thus far, more than 4,500 had either the old four party or six party service. The great majority have elected some form of two party service and from them have come many expressions of satisfaction. Their reports of 'busy' lines or of party line interference have been reduced to a minimum, while the divided ringing (which signals only the subscriber actually wanted) has given relief to those disturbed by a multiplicity of bell calls.

"As these four party and six party subscribers voluntarily applied for service, and at the time of making applications had the rates fully explained to them, there is no reason to believe any misapprehension exists as to their scope and effect. If any subscriber to either of these classes of service applied because of his belief that the change would shortly be made compulsory, the company will retransfer him if he makes application on or before November 21, 1910.

"The new service will be continued to all who are satisfied with it, however, and will be offered not only to new subscribers but to present subscribers who desire to change to the new schedule."

The Famous Rayo

Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflickering light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickeled, and easily polished.

ENAMEL WARE CAUSES CANCER, SAYS DOCTOR

Tells Homoeopaths Particles From Dishes Start Growths in Stomach.

Special Dispatch to The North American.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 11. INTRODUCTION of modern enamel ware in the kitchens of the country is responsible for many cases of cancer, was the striking theory advanced by Dr. William H. Dieffanbach, of New York, in a paper entitled, "Observations on the Etiology of Cancer," read before the Bureau of Sanitary Science and Public Health, at which leading experts of the International Homoeopathic Congress met today to discuss questions of public health.

The argument advanced was that chipping of the hard-coated dishes used in preparation of meals allowed minute but dangerous particles of foreign matter to become mixed with the food. These are taken into the stomach, where the cancerous growth is caused by abrasions which they make in the walls of the organ.

—Clipping from Philadelphia North American, Sept. 12, 1906.

Here at last is the ideal kitchen and cooking utensil—"The Ware That Wears"—made from Pure Spun Aluminum, and guaranteed by the makers to last 25 years with average usage. "Spun" Aluminum, mind you, not cast Aluminum, which will sometimes crack and scale. Spun Aluminum Ware will never crack, peel, scale or break.

Enamel ware is iron coated with colored glass. Iron expands with heat. Colored glass does not, but chips off into the food with dangerous results to those who eat it.

"1892" Pure Aluminum Ware Saves Doctors' Bills.

It enables you to bake bread, pies, pancakes, etc., without grease, which is the great cause of dyspepsia and indigestion. Aluminum gridles require no grease; hence are smokeless and odorless.

"1892" Pure Aluminum Ware Will Not Scorch or Burn

—is easily cleaned, will not rust or corrode. Handsome in appearance. Looks like silver, but weighs only about one-fourth as much, and is light and convenient to handle.

The original and only genuine Spun Aluminum Ware is made by the Illinois Pure Aluminum Co. at Lemont, Ill. Every piece bearing their trade-mark, the Maltese Cross, and marked "1892" Pure Aluminum Ware is absolutely pure, wholesome and hygienic—guaranteed for 25 yrs.

THREE FIRE ALARMS

Quincy Renders Midnight Assistance to Braintree

The fire department was called out twice by Quincy alarms on Thursday and once to a fire in East Braintree. The two alarms from Quincy were both from Box 48. The first alarm was sounded about 3 o'clock and was for a slight fire on Willard street that had started from a grass fire and had worked near two houses. The second alarm was sounded at 5.13 and was for a fire in the store of William Corcoran & Son on Grove street. It seems that for some reason the lights went out and a young man went into the store with a large lamp. This he sat down on a counter beneath some brooms. The heat from the lamp set fire to the brooms, and the sparks from the brooms set fire to a lot of charcoal. A lively blaze was soon in progress. The loss on the building is estimated at $25 and on the contents at $75.

About midnight the firemen at the Central station were aroused by Dr. John D. Churchill, who informed them that a big fire was in progress at East Braintree near the Quincy line and that no one seemed to know where the fire alarm box was. Capt. Costa put some chemicals into the automobile and sent fireman Herbert Griffin to the scene and he pulled in the Braintree alarm. The fire was in a large Italian boarding house in Haywards grove and started from some unknown cause. There were forty boarders in the house, and they soon got out. They were running about the place in a frantic manner, not knowing where the fire alarm box was. Just at this time Dr. Churchill of Plymouth came along in his automobile on his way from Boston to Plymouth. Taking in the situation, he turned about and hastily ran to the Central station in Quincy where the firemen were aroused. The fire had been burning half an hour when the department arrived and the loss is estimated at about $1,000.

MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

The Quincy Retail Merchants' Association held an adjourned meeting Thursday evening to hear the report of two committees, one to consider methods to check program advertising, and the other to make plans for Christmas advertising.

The commitee on concert advertising reported a draft of an agreement for the merchants to sign. The committee on Christmas advertising submitted a written agreement of the publishers of the Daily Ledger, which after discussion met with favor. The Ledger contemplates printing 5,000 extra copies, probably one day each week, for free distribution.

GAS EARNINGS.

Since July 1 the net earnings of the Citizens Gas Light Company have amounted to $9,560 an increase of $8,-554 over the same four months of 1909. In October the net earnings were $2,-556, which would be at the rate of $27,-672 per year. In October, 1909, they were but $130.

NEW STEAMER.

The new 10,000 ton Sant Anna of the Fabre line, to run between Boston and Mediterranean ports, will be open for inspection of the public next Wednesday from 10 to 2. Tickets will be issued by Charles V. Dasey & Son of Broad street, the agents.

REGULATIONS NEEDED.

THE PLATFORM

charter is the manager, and the Council the deliberative body which have no control on appropriations after they are made. He then touched upon the Coddington school building and Lincoln addition, both of which he said were protested by the Commissioner and Inspector of Buildings but were accepted over their protest.

He then touched upon the street paving contracts particularly that last year of Brook road, and the Hancock street job this year. He contended if the order called for first class city blocks we should get them. If our order calls for 24 to the yard, and we are getting inferior blocks that measure 30 to the yard, it stands to reason that if paid for by the thousand in place of the yard we would be paying on $40,000 worth of contracts one fifth more than we get in measure which would be about $8,000. He then pointed to the diagram on the wall.

On permanent sidewalks the Commission has admitted that the work is not done in accordance with the order. The question for the citizen to decide is, "do they desire these contracts carried out in accord with the orders, or are they satisfied to pay for first class work and take what is passed out to them."

Section 48 of the charter provides money appropriated for one purpose shall be expended for no other purpose. April 29, 1909, an order was passed by the Council for $40,000 for water extension and water meters. Not one dollar was expended for water meters. For this reason the city has been made liable to a large fine for neglect to install meters. He then touched upon the grade crossing matter, and asked what had become of the $2,500 for the conservation of the peoples interest.

Candidate Hobbs was then introduced and spoke as follows:

I have lived among you for many years as neighbor and friend. You have always treated me well, and I come to you after five years of what I think you believe to be faithful service in your behalf in the Councils of the city and ask you for a further promotion in your service. It has been my effort to so conduct myself that no act of mine should bring discredit to our ward or our city. Whether this has been accomplished you best know, and I come before you to ask you to recommend me to the voters of the rest of the city.

I want to ask the people a few questions in this campaign.

INCREASING DEBT.

First—Have you watched the debt grow?

The Democratic candidate when first seeking office made the usual promises, with the usual measure of result.

The people of today are not so eager for promises as results, and the best measure of a man's intentions is what has he done to carry out his promises, or were his promises mere idle words meant for vote catching purposes with no real intention of performance.

In a circular which I have in my hand he says: "I took the Mayor's chair and found the city burdened with debt." If that has any inference it means that he would take measures to reduce it.

In 1907 the last year of the administration of the late Mr. Thompson, which the present Mayor has so roundly scored in the past, the city debt was: $1,815,540

Under the regime of economy in this year 1910 it is $1,886,295

An increase of $69,755

And this does not include $19,000, authorized for streets or over $120,000 for school buildings.

The temporary loans in 1907 were $313,000

The temporary loans in 1910 are 425,000

An increase of $112,000

Making a total increase of debt of $181,755

And as I said before this does not include something like $150,000 authorized but not borrowed.

INCREASED EXPENSES.

Again I ask. Have you watched the expenses of the city grow?

He further says in the circular which I quoted "I have conducted the city on an economical basis." The cost of running the city under the burdensome conditions mentioned by my Democratic opponent in the year 1907 the year before he took office were $210,845

Under the economical regime of 1910 $252,264

Making an increase in the running expenses in a short three years $40,419

TAX BURDEN.

Again I wish to question. Have you watched the tax burden grow?

This burden affects all, even to the smallest taxpayer, for the burden on the small taxpayer is harder to bear than to the larger one, and the small taxpayer gets less in return.

This is a city of homes, and the added burden of taxation is sorely felt.

The tax levy under extravagant conditions in 1907 was $553,548

The tax levy under the aforesaid economical regime $668,823

The added burden to the taxpayer in three years is $114,775

This is what we might call economy in the inverse ratio.

BOND ISSUES.

I recently had a little experience with the method of bond issues by the present administration. I think the city has been paying too large a rate of interest and so expressed myself in the City Council. I asked that the rate of interest named as "not to be exceeded" be reduced from four and one-half per cent, to four per cent, and the City Treasurer said money could not be borrowed at 4 per cent. I understand he had a letter from the Old Colony Trust Co. making that assertion. If so more the pity that he did not inform himself that municipal bonds bearing a rate of 4 per cent at that time were selling at a premium. Before getting the rate reduced I had to agree to see that the bonds were placed at 4 per cent and the Treasurer agreed to place the bonds at as low a rate of interest as was obtainable.

Relying on the letter which he had, and thinking that I was bluffing, he offered me some bonds the following morning which averaged but two years to run, and are not the best sellers in the market at 4 per cent and interest accumulated, which I declined to take unless the public were given a chance. I knew that they could be sold at a premium. They thought sure they had called my bluff, as they thought it to be. To make a long story short the bonds were sold after public advertising at about 3.75 per cent, and the satisfaction of adding a few dollars to the city treasury even if the party whom I represented did not get a bond issue at less than the market rate.

LOG ROLLING.

It is farthest from my purpose to defend any past administration. Their virtues and short comings have in the past been too well presented to the public view by my opponent, and are in no way an issue in this campaign and except for comparison mean little, and it surely is no defence of the present one to say that a predecessor was bad. Two wrongs have never yet made a right.

The question is, has anything been done to stop log rolling and political financial methods?

Has the bonding of the city for current expenses been stopped or extended?

The spectacle of the chairman of the Democratic City Committee leading the fight to unseat a member of the City Council, so that the city might be further bonded for current expenses, is a sufficient answer.

Does the leading of the forces for further onslaught on the treasury by the aforesaid chairman leave any doubt in your mind who the man behind the gun was?

The Mayor calmly calls for economy and the chairman before mentioned leads the fray.

The hand of Esau and the voice of Jacob is once more presented to hoped for unseeing.

NO VETOES.

I might continue and give you further statistics, but will not weary you on this line further except to say that I do not remember a single veto of an appropriation by him. The only veto I remember, no matter how extravagant the order or whether the burdensome conditions he mentions existed, was a veto of the amendment passed by the Council regulating the management of the Woodward Fund and designed to remove it from politics, prevent the waste of the principal, and unfold to the public to whom the fund belongs the method of its administration and methods have at times been used, which I doubt if any man would or ought to use in the management of a trust fund left to his individual keeping. That magnificent endowment for the benefit of the girls of Quincy should be removed from any possible political interference and safeguarded for the future generations.

Nevertheless this ordinance was vetoed, and the fund is still liable to the wiles of future political activity.

CIVIL SERVICE.

I suppose every man and woman in the reach of my voice and elsewhere, unless they have a friend looking for a job, will agree that the civil service rules properly administered are the greatest safeguard we have for good public service.

There is an office supposed to be under civil service rules in the Assessors' department held by a man that has been unable to pass the civil service examination. In fact he took the examination and failed. There were others that did not, but he holds the job. Why?

You know what they call this in Boston when they try to do it there.

CITY FINANCES.

That reform and rational finance is needed, I present as a witness to you the evidence of the City Treasurer, who replied when questioned by me in Council meeting in January of this year if the finances did not need to be straightened out. Replied something should be done, and later before a committee of the Council, of which I was chairman, he further expressed himself and hoped that something might be done to relieve the continued anxiety on the Treasurer either he or his successor.

CANDIDATE HOBBS.

Upon investigation of city finances we have found "that for ways that are dark and for tricks that are plain" municipal finance is peculiar.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN.

I intend to conduct a vigorous campaign free from personal allusions but believe that the administration of city affairs are proper and legitimate argument.

If you were a stockholder in a corporation you would want to know how your money was being spent and whether the management of your affairs was business-like and for your best interests.

Is not your personal welfare more at stake in the management of this municipal corporation than in any other you might name?

If I am elected I shall see that the people of this city are thoroughly informed as to the financial condition of the city from time to time, and the books of the city shall be open for inspection of any citizen at all times.

I believe that all city contracts should be placed on file in the Auditor's office that they might be inspected by you at any time.

I believe that the construction of school buildings should be removed from any possible political entanglements, and believe there are men in this city self sacrificing enough to give of their time and experience to see that school buildings are properly erected, as the consequences of poor construction to our children is too great.

I believe that political financial methods should be eliminated that the city should get a fair return for money expended.

I believe the time has arrived when the city and the consumer should have better rates for gas, and will use every effort to see that this is accomplished.

In your hands is the evidence. It is for you to say what shall be the result. Your verdict is mine and to you I entrust my future.

EIGHTY CENT GAS.

Representative Langelier was introduced as the champion of 80 cent gas. He thanked the voters for their support at the recent election. Also those who voted against him. When the time came he would be found on the firing line for 80 cent gas for Quincy. He urged the voters to take a vital interest in city affairs, and give Republican candidates loyal support.

The last speaker was Councilman Cherrington who urged unanimous suport for the party candidate for Mayor.

ALTAR AND THRONE UNITED

Kaiser Pleads For Religion In Address to Church Dignitaries

Berlin, Nov. 18.—The kaiser, while visiting the Benedictine monastery at Beuren, to which he had previously presented a crucifix, addressed the abbott and a number of Roman Catholic dignitaries. He said:

"I look to you to help me keep my people religious. This is very important, as the twenteth century has set loose ideas which can only be successfully combated with the help of religion and the support of heaven. The governments of Christian princes can only be carried on according to the will of the Lord. The altar and throne are closely united and must not be separated."

NOTICE TO BIDDERS.

Sealed bids for furnishing about eight (8) hundred five-eighths (5-8) inch disk water meters will be received at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Room 1, City Hall until 10 oclock A. M. Friday, Nov. 25, 1910 at which time they will be publicly opened and read.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for the sum of Two hundred (200) dollars payable to the order of the City of Quincy, which check will become the property of the City if the bidder fails to sign the contract within six (6) days after it may have been awarded to him.

The City of Quincy reserves the right to increase or decrease the number of meters to be purchased under this advertisement by an amount not to exceed twenty-five (25) percent of the total.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the City.

Special Notice

We are now equipped to handle, with reasonable expedition, applications for changes to the new schedule or for service to new subscribers.

Four-party and six-party Surburban subscribers desiring to retain their present service until next November may do so.

Such advantages of the new schedule, however, as divided ringing, fewer parties on a line, or the special economies of measured service or coin box service to small users are still open to those who desire them.

For detailed information call at 119 Milk Street or 165 Tremont Street, Boston, or make a Free Telephone Call to Fort Hill 7600 and ask for the Rate Department.

NEW OFFICERS.

The officers of Wollaston lodge of the American Benefit society were installed on Tuesday evening by visiting Deputy, Dr. M. Morey Pearson and suite of Athena lodge of Boston:

President—Dr. E. R. Johnson.
Vice president—Cora M. Merrill.
Orator—Gertrude E. Atkins.
Secretary—Nina J. Miller.
Collector—Rosa M. Taylor.
Treasurer—Samuel P. Hanson.
Chaplain—Caroline Croucher.
Marshall—Algernon S. Gardiner.
Warden—George H. Church.
Sentry—Charles R. Brown.
Trustees—L. C. Merrill, W. G. Young, and F. S. Tribou.

Supper was served in the hall. The menu was excellent and enjoyed by all. Much merriment was manifested at the different tables. A complete surprise was given the secretary Mrs. Nina J. Miller by the visiting deputy who presented her with a past president's jewel, she having completed five years of service and entitled to all the honor of the lodge, and eligible to the Supreme lodge. The sad feature of the evening was the completion of official proof of the death of Brother Frank A. Rees, who was shot on November 10 at the Court house, Boston.

PLAIN CLOTHES MEN OUT

New York Detectives Work Independently of Uniformed Police

New York, Nov. 18.—The big shakeup in the police department that has been predicted ever since Mayor Gaynor took office has occurred and the new order will go into effect tomorrow morning.

The plain clothes man, the handy man of captains and inspectors, the ready errand runner for "The System" has come to the end of his rope, and the city will hear no more of him.

Detectives will be no part of the precinct command and will work independently of the uniformed police. This is the policy of the English detective force, which works under Scotland Yard, a centralized control; and it is also in line with the policy of the secret service in this country.

$200,000 FRAUD ALLEGED

Said to Involve Many Woolen Manufacturers In England

New York, Nov. 18.—"This is the biggest case of its kind the government ever had. The frauds involve almost every woolen manufacturer in England and the total amount of revenue lost to the government through fraudulent importation of woolen materials will outrival that lost through the great sugar frauds."

This statement was made by Assistant United States District Attorney Whitney, in connection with thirty warrants of attachment issued to serve on persons holding property and cash belonging to the firm of Joseph Brooks & Co., manufacturers and importers of Bradford, Eng.

The firm is accused of defrauding the government of $200,000 by undervaluation of woolen imports.

Bandit Lands In Jail

Deadwood, S. D., Nov. 18.—An unidentified robber entered the First National bank here, pointed a pistol through the cashier's window and commanded him to turn over the money. The cashier dodged and the robber fired, but missed his aim, and the others in the bank overpowered him. The bandit is now in jail.

"SPIRAL GLIDE" BRINGS DEATH

Johnstone, World's Champion Aviator, Instantly Killed

MACHINE COLLAPSES IN AIR

Holder of World's Altitude Record Drops Five Hundred Feet, Nearly Every Bone In His Body Being Broken—Disgraceful Fight For Souvenirs Over His Body—Popular Airman Once a Trick Bicycle Rider

Denver, Nov. 18.—With one wing tip of his machine crumpled up like a piece of paper, Ralph Johnstone, the brilliant young aviator, holder of the world's altitude record, dropped like a plummet from a height of 500 feet into the inclosure at Overland park aviation field and was instantly killed.

When the spectators crowded about the inclosure reached him, his body lay beneath the engine of the biplane, with the white plane that had failed him in his time of need wrapped about it like a shroud. Nearly every bone in his body was broken.

He had gambled with death once too often, but he played the game to the end, fighting coolly and grimly to the last second to regain control of his broken machine. Fresh from his triumphs at Belmont park, where he had broken the world's record for altitude with a flight of 9714 feet, Johnstone attempted to give the thousands of spectators an extra thrill with his most daring feat, the spiral glide which has made the Wright aviators famous. The spectators got their thrill, but it cost Johnstone his life.

The fatal flight was the second Johnstone made yesterday afternoon. In the first flight, when he was in the air with Hoxsey and Brookins, he went through his usual program of dips and glides with the machine apparently under perfect control. Then he rose again, and after a few circuits of the course to gain height, headed toward the foothills.

Still ascending, he swept back in a big circle, and as he reached the north end of the inclosure he started his spiral glide. He was then at an altitude of about 800 feet. With his planes tilted at an angle of almost ninety degrees he swooped down in a narrow circle, the aeroplane seeming to turn almost in its own length.

As he started the second circle the middle spur which braces the left side of the lower plane gave way, and the wing tips of both upper and lower planes doubled up as though they had been hinged. For a second Johnstone attempted to right the plane by warping the other wing tip. Then the horrified spectators saw the plane swerve and plunge straight toward the earth.

Johnstone was thrown from his seat as the nose of the plane swung downward. He caught one of the wire stays between the planes and grasped one of the wooden braces of the upper plane with both hands. Then, working with hands and feet, he tried by main strength to warp the planes so that their surfaces might catch the air and check his descent. For a second it seemed he might succeed, for the football helmet he wore blew off, and fell much more rapidly than the plane.

The hope was momentary, however, for when about 500 feet from the ground, the machine turned completely over and the spectators fled wildly as the broken plane, with the aviator still struggling bravely in its mesh of wires and stays, plunged among them with a crash.

Scarcely had Johnstone hit the ground before morbid men and women swarmed over the wreckage, fighting with each other for souvenirs. One of the broken wooden stays had gone almost through Johnstone's body. Before doctors or police could reach the scene, one man tore this splinter from the body and ran away, carrying his trophy with the aviator's blood still dripping from its ends.

The crowd tore away the canvas from over the body and even fought for the gloves that had protected Johnstone's hands from the cold.

Physicians declare death must have been instantaneous, for Johnstone's back, neck and legs were broken, the bones of his thigh being forced through the flesh and the leather garments he wore.

Johnstone's courage, his cheery nature and his desire to please made him many friends. His death will be regarded as a distinct loss to the science and the sport of flying.

Johnstone had done many great things with the biplane. Back of the days of aviation he was a marvellous bicycle rider, and was the first man to do the famous "loop the loop" on a wheel. He was a daredevil by instinct and a fatalist by training, believing that when a man's time came to go he must. He was born in Parsons, Kan., Sept. 18, 1880.

TAFT ASSURES THE PANAMANS

He Redicules the Rumors of Contemplated Annexation

NTEGRITY OF THE REPUBLIC

Guaranteed by People of United States, Who Will Always Take Great Interest In Its Welfare—Statement Highly Appreciated by Native Officials—President Delighted at Progress In Construction of Canal

Panama, Nov. 18.—Denial that the people of the United States ever thought of annexing the republic of Panama, or that his visit to the Canal Zone had anything to do with such a movement, was made by President Taft at a banquet held here, and it is the only topic of discussion among the Panama officials. The president's speech was made at a dinner given in his honor by President Arosemena of Panama, at which all the high government officials were present.

In making a general denial of the rumored project of annexation of the Central American republic, Mr. Taft said that the people of the United States have only the kindliest feeling toward the citizens of that country and have no desire for jurisdiction in any part of the isthmus outside the Canal Zone.

The people of the northern republic guaranteed the integrity of Panama, he continued, and they will always take great interest in its welfare and do all they can to aid in its progress. The government cannot be too strong or too prosperous to please the men of the United States, he said.

President Taft aroused the greatest enthusiasm, when he declared that the American people would feel utterly dishonored in annexing Panama, unless some conduct by the Panaman people left no other course. This contingency, Mr. Taft was sure, would never arise.

Mr. Taft's speech was received with cheers, and it was followed by speeches by native officials of a most laudatory character, praising Mr. Taft, his country and his fellow countrymen.

This is the second time since his election that President Taft has left the United States, the other time being when he visited President Diaz of Mexico.

President Taft sailed for home delighted at the progress being made in the construction of the Panama canal and with the cheers of the Panamans ringing in his ears. The president embarked upon the cruiser Tennessee at Colon last night for Charleston. He will stop at Guantanamo, Cuba, Saturday afternoon, for a brief inspection of the American naval base there.

On his way home the president will dictate his general message for the approaching session of congress, having read the reports of all departments during the voyage here.

The president has received no general news from the United States during his stay and is anxious to get home and again get in touch with affairs at Washington.

PLEA FAILS TO CONVINCE

Alleged Burglar and Forger Says That He "Inherited Dishonesty"

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 18.—"Inherited dishonesty" was the plea made by Leroy Roush of Pittsburg, when arraigned in court to explain charges of burglary and forgery made against him.

"I remember nothing of the occurrence," he told the recorder. "I was drinking. My grandfather, when drinking, would commit crimes unwittingly, and I have inherited the tendency to be dishonest when drinking."

The plea did not save him from being held for the grand jury.

TO APPEAL TO CONGRESS

Knights of Labor Will Make Demand For Revision of Tariff

Washington, Nov. 18.—The Knights of Labor of America, the oldest labor organization in the United States, at the close of its thirty-fourth annual convention here, decided to go to congress at the coming session with a sweeping demand for tariff revision.

While the text of the resolution has not been made public, it is said to place the blame for the cost of living solely on the tariff.

COUNT TOLSTOI'S LIFE IS IN THE BALANCE

Heart of Novelist Responds But Feebly to Restoratives

Astapova, Russia, Nov. 18.—Although hope has not yet been given up, the attendants of Count Tolstoi recognize that his life is in the balance and that although his strong constitution has carried him through other grave struggles against disease, his system has become so weakened and his heart has responded so feebly to restoratives that it will be next to a miracle if he recovers from his present attack.

During the earlier stages of the inflammation of the lungs, from which he is suffering, it was the temperature which gave cause for anxiety; now it is the heart. The patient's temperature is not particularly high, but the heart action is extremely bad. Tolstoi alternates part of the time between unconsciousness and delirium.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

BOSTON THEATRE.

For the first time in years playgoers of Boston and the patrons of the Boston Theatre will have an opportunity to see Kyrle Bellew in the most attractive of his stage parts, "Raffles," the greatest play about a thief that has ever been written and one of the most ingenious, surprise-full and dramatic plays of any kind produced within the last ten years. Mr. Bellew comes to the Boston Theatre as Raffles for one week only beginning Nov. 21. In the William Gillette play, "Sherlock Holmes," all Boston has been flocking to see the most delightful of detective plays; and it is a safe guess that ,with the arrival of Mr. Bellew, playgoers will as enthusiastically rush to see the most absorbingly interesting of their plays. Raffles is a first class cricketer, a charming companion, a squire of dames, and incidentally, a burglar. His story is a duel between the amateur cracksman and Curtis Bedford, an American detective. Raffles is a guest of Lord Amersteth, and with the help of Harry Manders, or "Bunny" as he is called, steals Lady Melrose's diamond necklace. Crawshay, a burglar of the ordinary type, has been arrested through the cleverness of Raffles, but he is allowed to escape by Bedford, the detective, who wishes to buy his assistance in running Raffles to earth. Crawshay finds his way to the rooms in Albany St., where Raffles lives, and armed with a revolver, becomes master of the situation. But Raffles turns the tables on him by sheer courage and wit in a remarkable scene which is the strongest feature of the play. Finally, having escaped his enemies, the amateur burglar makes his friend "Bunny" happy by uniting him to the woman he loves. During the week's engagement in Boston there will be matinees on Wednesday, Thanksgiving Day and Saturday.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Lion and the Mouse," which is to be given for the first time at the Castle Square on Monday, is an admirable and intensely interesting drama of American life today. Its plot concerns the financial and political schemes of a wealthy man. He is John Burket Ryder, and he dominates the play from beginning to end. He has contrived to ruin honest Judge Rossmore, and the excitement of the plot centres around his schemings, his endeavors to gain his own ends at all costs, and the love of a daughter. He also has a son who plays a large part throughout the action of the play, and the love interest provides plenty of romance to offset the more serious and emotional scenes. As written by Charles Klein, who is also the author of "The Music Master" and several other successful plays. "The Lion and Mouse" has had a great career. It has been played both in this country and in England, and it aroused no little sensation in London for its stirring portrayal of American life. The role of Ryder, the great financier, will be played at the Castle Square by John Craig, who will make the plutocrat a strong representative of the get-along American spirit. Mary Young will appear as the heroine, Donald Meek will have a characteristic humorous role, and the other Castle Square players will be well cast. There will be special scenery that will give an added effect to the drama.

PARK THEATRE.

It took "Seven Days" just about seven-sevenths of a second to catch on at the Park Theatre in Boston, and from that time it has been packing the play house with audiences that laugh and scream and roar over what most persons agree is the funniest and best comedy ever seen in that city. It has sent all Boston into merry hysteria and fully justified the reputation it won in New York where it ran into a second year. One eminent writer on theatrical matters for a popular magazine said, "Once in a long time, say every twenty years, a play comes along that is so far ahead of all others of its kind that it marks an epoch. Such a one is 'Seven Days.'" It is really astonishing that the authors could have packed so much fun into one play. There is enough to make a dozen truly excellent comedies, and have some left over. Imagine a party of New York's smart set being imprisoned in a house for a week by a quarantine. Possibilities for the comic are endless, and the authors have employed every one of them. The play is capitally acted by the identical cast that scored the record run in New York. See "Seven Days" at the Park Theatre and store up enough merriment to insure against any gloom the future may bring forth.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

It was expected that such a mammoth production as that of Gus Edwards would hold over for a second week at B. F. Keith's theatre, where it has proved to be one of the strongest attractions seen at that house in many years. The supporting bill will be even stronger than that of last week, and will include a number of novel features seen here for the first time. There have been many companies of trained seals in recent years, but none that have been able to perform the wonderful feats of Treat's Seals, that are announced as one of the leading features of the bill. Carson and Willard, the German comedians, also return with something entirely new and a newcomer will be Harry L. Webb, who is one of the greatest favorites the West has ever had in blackface minstrelsy. Another "scream" will be Grant Simpson and Lulu McConnoll in a comedy sketch called "A Stormy Hour," which is a succession of laughs from start to finish. Verona Verdi and her talented brother will also appear, and another important feature will be Le Dent, the King's Jester from the Folies Borgere in Paris with his remarkable feats of juggling.

RAILROAD WAS NEGLIGENT

City Censured and State Officials Criticised For Trolley Disaster

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 18.—The coroner's jury inquiring into the wreck here last Saturday night, when a Michigan Central train crashed through an interurban car, killing seven persons and injuring many, places the blame upon the railroad company. The verdict also censures the city authorities and the state railroad commission. The car conductor is completely exonerated.

The verdict states the wreck was caused by the Michigan Central's negligence in not giving proper protection at the crossing and exceeding the Kalamazoo speed ordinance. The city is censured for not enforcing its ordinances, and the railroad commission is criticised for not looking after such a dangerous crossing.

QUIT THEIR STUDIES TO CHEER PROFESSOR

Five Thousand University Students Declare Holiday

Philadelphia, Nov. 18.—In an outburst of enthusiasm over the election of Dr. Edgar F. Smith as provost of the University of Pennsylvania, 5000 students paraded the campus in West Philadelphia, broke into class rooms, separated students from their professors, dealled upon the deans for speeches and declared a holiday.

It was the first time in years that all the students were assembled in one throng. Dr. Smith was in the chemical laboratory, and when the crowd stampeded into the big assembly room he was too overcome to speak.

After Dr. Smith finished expressing appreciation the freshmen were sent to collecting material for a big bonfire.

GIFT OF RAILROAD BONDS

It Causes a Stir In Contest Over Estate Valued at $20,000,000

Providence, Nov. 18.—A sensational turn occurred in the contested Newell will case when it was brought out in testimony before Probate Judge Jillson that Sterling E. Norman, one of the witnesses, who was in Newell's employ at the time the will was drawn, had recently received two railroad bonds of $1000 from the attorneys for Mrs. Newell. Efforts are being made to discover why these bonds were transferred to him.

The same witnesses also testified that he obtained repeated prescriptions for Newell which he thought contained morphine. The Newell estate is valued at about $20,000,000.

PLEAD IGNORANCE OF LAW

Seven Men Arraigned In Court For Spitting on Boston Sidewalks

Boston, Nov. 18.—Seven men were arraigned in the police court, charged with spitting on the sidewalk. All but one paid fines and all pleaded that they were ignorant of the law.

Andrew Cefalo, a business man of York Corner, Me., had a revolver in his possession when he spat upon the sidewalk. He was fined $2 for expectorating and added $25 to the county funds for carrying a revolver.

Commissioner O'Meara has instructed the police not to give out any personal information regarding the men arrested for spitting.

New York Banker Admits Forgeries of More Than $23,000

New York, Nov. 18.—"Wall street got me." Sobbing this in his cell, Charles A. Belding, third vice president and director of the Bronx National bank, confessed that he was guilty of forgeries amounting to more than $23,000. Speculation, he declared, caused his downfall.

The banker was arraigned and held in $20,000 bonds for examination. His friends are arranging to raise funds to get him out of jail.

IT IS A MISTAKE FOR ANY WOMAN

to permit herself to suffer—to go off in looks—and take the chance of greater suffering—when relief can be obtained easily and in a thoroughly safe, reliable and natural manner. Headaches, lassitude, backaches and depressions hinder work and prevent enjoyment of the reasonable pleasures of life—yet at times many women are needlessly afflicted with these and other distressing symptoms. If required help is not obtained—at proper times—health will be undermined. It is a pity for any woman, subject to peculiar feminine ailments

NOT TO KNOW

the benefit to be found in timely use of the thoroughly tried Beecham's Pills. This famous, effective and harmless remedy has helped thousands and thousands of women—the whole world over—to make themselves stronger and happier—to restore their good looks—enabled them to enjoy a larger share of happiness and to be more attractive. Beecham's Pills tone the stomach, stir the liver to its proper work, clear the bowels. The whole bodily system is put in condition to resist the attacks of the germs always ready to assail. All the organs of the body are helped to perform their functions naturally. Brighter eyes, clearer heads, better complexions and a more cheerful disposition follow the trial of a few doses of Beecham's Pills. It is impossible for any woman to find a safer—truer—aid to physical well-being than the old-established proved remedy

NOT GUILTY VERDICT ORDERED BY JUDGE

Government Loses In $30,000,000 Suit Against Oil Men

Jackson, Tenn., Nov. 18.—In a ruling which required just twenty minutes to read, Judge John E. McCall, in the United States circuit court, wrote finis to the efforts of the government to have assessed against the Standard Oil company of Indiana penalties aggregating in excess of $30,000,000.

The rulings of the court instructing that a verdict of not guilty be returned took place on the conclusion of the chief case of the prosecution, and in substance holds, with the contentions of the defense, that after four years the United States failed to build its structure of evidence other than on sand.

The suit at issue was probably the most important litigation against one of the greater corporations ever fought out in the south. The Elkins law, regarding interstate commerce, was violated, it was alleged, by "scheme and device," the specific offense charged being the receipt of freight rate concessions.

ASKS FOR NEW TRIAL

Counsel For Wife Murderer Jordan Claims a Juror Was Insane

Boston, Nov. 18.—Arguments in behalf of Chester S. Jordan, the convicted wife murderer, who is seeking a new trial on the ground chiefly that Willis A. White, one of the jurors on the panel which convicted him, was insane at the time verdict was rendered, were made by his counsel before the full bench of the supreme court.

In his argument Harvey H. Pratt referred to the testimony of jurors who sat on the Jordan trial as to what they observed regarding White.

District Attorney Higgins contended that Jordan was not entitled to a new trial, as a matter of law, and that the superior court judges had found that White was mentally qualified to discharge his duties as a juror.

The ladies of the Quincy Catholic club will hold a gentlemen's night next Monday evening at Colonial hall.

Rev. R. J. Davis and wife of the Calvary Baptist church are celebrating their 7th anniversary by keeping open house this afternoon and evening.

Theophilus King will address the younger boys of the Y. M. C. A. in their Saturday morning meeting. Every boy will want to hear what this friend of all young people has to say.

The free cooking school in Union hall is preparing a tea for the ladies of Quincy and especially for those who are interested in the Day Nursery. Monday afternoon at 2.30 is the date set.

At the Rambler dance this evening "Put" Murphy will be floor director. Vivian McCarthy and John Conley will appear as Vivian and Viola. "Peany" Paine is coming with a 15-yard line of Bigelows.

The seventeenth annual gathering of Sons and Daughters of Nantucket is being held today at Ford building, Boston, with a social gathering in the Kingsley parlors from five until half past six followed by supper.

Rural lodge of Masons will attend on Sunday the funeral of C. Harrison Hobart at South Braintree, who was one of the oldest members of the lodge. Services will be held at 2 P. M. at the South Congregational church.

The silver collection which was to have been taken at demonstration cooking lecture in Union hall next Monday afternoon in aid of the Quincy Day Nursery has been given up owing to the fact that the ladies of Quincy have recently responded very generously to this worthy charity.

BRIEFS

Dr. E. H. Bushnell of Washington street is recovering from his illness.

James H. Elcock, overseer of the poor, is in New York on a brief business trip.

Mrs. Joseph Rizzi of 49 Wilard street passed away at her home this morning after a short illness.

The officers of Quincy lodge of Elks elected to fill existing vacancies will be installed at the regular meeting next Tuesday.

The funeral of Miss Mary A. Garvey of Liberty square was held Thursday morning at St. John's church. The burial was at St. Mary's.

The triplets born to Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wentworth of Miller Stile road, Nov. 11, continue to flourish, although the son had an ill turn on Thursday.

Harry Connell of Brighton returned Wednesday from Patten, Maine, where he has been gunning with a party of friends for two weeks. He brought home with him three deer.

Mrs. Mary Bailer, wife of Friedrich Bailer, the West Quincy carpenter, dropped dead at her home on Travers avenue Thursday night. The husband is left with six children.

There was a very large attendance at the meeting of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, Thursday evening. The first and second degrees were exemplified on several candidates.

The annual memorial service of the Elks in memory of departed brothers will be held Sunday evening, Dec. 4, at Alpha hall. The exercises will consist of religious invocation by one of the local clergymen, music by quartet and an eulogy by a prominent member of the order.

The funeral of Mrs. Joseph Coupal of 178 Highland avenue, Atlantic, was held Thursday morning. Mass was celebrated at the Sacred Heart church by Rev. John P. Cuffe. The Gregorian chant was sung by the regular choir, under the direction of Miss Louise Costello. Burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

DR. EVERETT SALE.

The sale of the books of Dr. Everett's library conducted by C. F. Libbie & Co., closed Thursday. The highest price paid during the day being $153, brought by John Haywood's "Natural and Aboriginal History of Tennessee up to the first settlement therein by the white people in the Year 1768," printed by George Wilson, Nashville, 1823. Another copy of one of Haywood's histories sold for $40. The first edition of Oliver Wendell Holmes' "Oration deliveed before the New England society, New York, Dec. 22, 1855," was sold for $52. Prices held up well, also, on the cheaper class of books, Hennepin's "Voyages Curieux" bringing $28, while $25 was paid for Antonio de Herrara's "Historia General de los hechos de los Castellanos en las Islas Tierra firma del Mar Oceano," with engraved titles and maps.

PALMIST HELD IN $25,000

He Is Charged With Fleecing Boston Woman Out of $23,000

Boston, Nov. 18.—William H. Kohler, a palmist, was held in $25,000 when arraigned before Judge Stevens upon the charge of fleecing Mrs. Dora T. Coffin out of $23,000.

A delusive controlled spirit addressed by Kohler as "Lu" is said to have aided the palmist in inducing Mrs. Coffin to put her money into a stock pool which the police allege never existed.

Kohler is said to have promised $20 for every dollar put into the pool, and it is believed that there may be many other victims of the pool divulged as soon as the trial starts.

Kohler was brought back from New York, where he was arrested last week. Kohler fought extradition and was accompanied here by his counsel.

FINE FOR EX-ASSESSOR

Cambridge Man Is Convicted of Larceny From Taxpayers

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18.—Daniel B. Shaughnessy, who has been connected with the assessor's office in Cambridge for twelve years, the last eight of which he was a principal assessor, was fined $50 in the superior criminal court on the charge of larceny in connection with the abatement and collection of taxes while he was an assessor.

On the original charge, there were five counts of larceny, the total amount being $172. Shaughnessy was found guilty in the Cambridge district court, and appealed. After his conviction he resigned as principal assessor

LOAN ORDER WAS LEGAL

So Decides Lawyers of the Bonding Company

It has now been pretty well established that the passage of the loan order for $19,000 by fifteen votes was sufficient. There has been quite a discussion as to whether that number was a two-thirds vote of the City Council and the answer of the bonding company has been awaited with interest. The Old Colony Trust Co., to whom the loan was sent, referred it to their lawyers, Messrs. Ropes, Gray and Gorham. Their ruling on the legality of the order was received by the City Treasurer this morning, and is as follows:

Boston, Nov. 17, 1910.

Old Colony Trust Company,
Court Street, Boston.

$19,000 Quincy, Mass. Street Improvement Bonds, Dated Oct. 1, 1910.

Gentlemen:—We have examined the papers submitted with reference to the above issue, including attested copies of the proceedings taken to declare the membership of Councilman Snow in the City Council vacant. From these papers it appears that the membership of Councilman Snow became vacant within three months prior to the end of the municipal year. There is no provision in the city charter for filling such a vacancy. The membership of the Council was therefore reduced for the remainder of the municipal year from 23 to 22. Revised Laws, chapter 27, section 8, which requires a two-thirds vote for the incurring of indebtedness, merely requires a vote of "two-thirds of all the members of each branch of the City Council." There is no requirement that the vote shall be by two-thirds of all members elected, as is required by the laws of some states.

Our conclusion is that Order No. 262, which was voted on by the Council November 7th and approved by the Mayor on November 9th, 1910, was duly passed by a two-thirds majority within the meaning of the statutes.

Yours very truly,
Ropes, Gray and Gorham.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

Several matters of local interest were discussed at the meeting of the West Quincy Improvement association Thursday evening, but no definite action was taken. Sometime ago at the request of the Board of Trade, a committee was appointed to have a conference with the Board of Trade reative to the local gas question, but as the Board of Trade had not as yet called the conference nothing could be reported.

It was decided to hold the annual banquet at St. Mary's hall, Thursday evening, Dec. 8. It is possible, however, the date may have to be changed on account of conflicting with other events. There will be a banquet during the first part of the evening, to be followed by speaking. There will be a number of prominent speakers.

The matter of one fare between West Quincy and Milton Lower Mills was again brought up and discussed at length. There is a committee that has this in charge, but they were unable to report at this meeting.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The local Y. M. C. A. will open its basket ball season Saturday night with the strong Abington first team as their opponents. Last season the Abington boys gave the Quincy team one of the hardest games of the year, the local team finally winning out by the score of 31—29. This year's Abington team is practically the same as that of last season the only new man being Smith who played center on the Dean Acadmy team for two years. A great contest may be looked for when Jenkins of the local team and Simth get together.

The second team will play a team from Winthrop composed of former Winthrop High school players. As the Winthrop High always turns out strong teams this game ought to be closely contested.

The first team will line up as follows: Forwards—Glover, Morris and Parker; Centre—Jenkins (Capt.) Guards—Brooks, Dakers and Bates.

Abington will line up with Cook and Onott as forwards, Smith and Merritt as centers and Wales and Marten as guards. The game commences promptly at 8.15 o'clock.

The crowning contest of the football season will take place Saturday in New Haven. John Harvard is confident that he can sit down hard on the Yale bulldog, but the bulldog has teeth which he can use sometimes event when he is down. So in our opinion the defeat will not be as overwhelming as many people have been led to beleve. The results of the game will be bulletined by the Daily Ledger. Watch for the bulletins.

Charles E. Dornan continues to mystify large audiences. On Wednesday night, says the Brockton Enterprise, he accepted the challenge of Woods and Conley to escape from a casket they had sent to the theatre. The local undertakers appeared on the stage and personally placed Dornan in the casket, which was from their warerooms, fastened it themselves and then placed it in a regulation coffin box, which they screwed together. The casket was then placed in the cabinet and in five minutes Dornan stepped to the footlights. The local men were not satisfied till they looked over the box, unscrewed the cover and opened the casket, which was shown to be empty.

TRYING TO SAVE CRIPPEN

Twenty Thousand Persons Sign Petition For a Reprieve

London, Nov. 18.—Twenty thousand persons, including members of wealthy and aristocratic families of England, have signed the petition which is aimed to save Dr. H. H. Crippen from execution next Wednesday for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen.

This is the largest number of names ever attached to an English petition praying for a commutation of a death sentence. The bulk of the signers are English, although Crippen is an American. The petition recites that, in view of the doubt in the evidence which convicted Crippen, he should not be put to death.

PASTOR KEPT OPEN HOUSE

Wedding Anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Davis

The home of Rev. R. J. Davis Pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, at 206 Franklin street, was the scene of a very pretty informal reception yesterday afternoon and evening. In celebrating their seventh wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Davis kept open house to members of the congregation and friends. Throughout the day friends called to extend congratulations and to give remembrances of the anniversary. In the evening a large number of the church people, young and old, gathered at the parsonage and had a very jolly time. Games and puzzles, apple eats and bobbing cranberries, not to mention the "Battle of Manilla" and refreshments, kept all the guests engaged until a late hour. The evening was very enjoyably spent by all, and the fine hospitality of the good pastor and his wife inspired everyone with the spirit of fellowship. Early in the evening just after the guests arrived, each was given a souvenir of the occasion, a ribbon bow bearing on the single ends the dates 1903 and 1910. In the short time they have been in Quincy Mr. and Mrs. Davis have been doing a good work in building up the church and in broadening and deepening the spiritual life among the members of the congregation. Both the pastor and his wife have the interest of the work at heart and by means of their helpfulness and earnestness have quickened the life of the church.

INDEPENDENT NOMINATIONS

Withdrawals, Vacancy Filled, a Recount, Etc

Councilman Charles M. Bryant and Rednor P. Coombs, who were nominated for Councilman at large on the Democratic ticket at the caucuses have withdrawn.

The Democratic City Committee has filled the vacancy in list of candidates for Councilman at Large by nominating Councilman John J. McDevitt.

Councilman Ralph W. Hobbs Republican candidate for Mayor, has taken out nomination papers as a "Citizen Voters" candidate.

Now that the fire has been started under the political pot, it is expected that it will soon reach the boiling point.

Nomination papers have been taken out by Thomas H. Hayes as Democratic candidate for Councilman from Ward Six. At the caucus Mr. Hayes received thirteen votes for councilman but as his name was written in as "Thomas Hayes" and there was no such name on the voting lists, it could not be counted.

Carl E. Carlson, one of the Republican candidates at the caucus for Councilman from Ward Six, has petitioned for a recount. The vote between Mr. Carlson and Ernest E. Sodergren was very close, Mr. Sodergren receiving 117 votes and Mr. Carlson 116. The recount will be held Monday evening. Mr. Carlson has also taken out nomination papers as Republican Independent candidate for Councilman from Ward Six.

A petition was filed last night asking for a recount of the votes cast at the recent caucus in Ward Four for Councilman and ward committee on the Democratic ticket. The petition alleges that they have reason to believe the records as returned by the election officers were erroneous. The recount will be held Monday evening.

Rallies in the interest of candidate Hobbs are to be held in every ward of the city. Dates for these rallies have not been fixed as yet however.

A meeting of the Republican City Committee was held Friday evening to arrange for the Municipal campaign.

—Snow four feet deep was reported in Hinsdale, Mass., yesterday.

SUCCESSFUL MANUFACTURER

Angelo Malnati, Well Known Granite Man, Dead

Angelo Malnati, one of Quincys best known Italians, and for many years a prominent granite manufacturer at South Quincy, died at his home on Intervale street last night after a lingering illness. Mr. Malnati came to Quincy many years ago and after working at his trade for some years went into the granite business for himself. His specialty was monuments that called for carved work, and some of the handsomest carved monuments ever turned out in this city came from his plant. His business was a success from the start and he did a large and profitable buiness. He was the owner of considerable real estate in Quincy one parcel of which is what is known as Malnati's block on Brooks avenue. He was 52 years of age and leaves a widow two sons and two daughters.

TWO CONCERTS.

The Quincy Choral singers are showing the value of their two years' study in the ease with which they are learning, "The Creation" choruses. This work is progressing so rapidly that it is probable the concert will be given as early as January 3, and on account of this the executive board is considering the advisability of giving a second concert the last of March to consist of secular music, probably some one of standard operas, Gounod's Faust perhaps. This will make an ideal season's study for the singers and submit to the public two concerts of great worth and of entirely different character.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE.

The usual Thanksgiving service will be held by First Church of Christ Scientist, Braintree, in its hall, Post Office Block, opposite Braintree Railroad station, November 24th at 10 A. M. All are welcome.

—A man who has lived and paid taxes under a commission form of government in the west said to me the other day: "You would be surprised at the saving of money and improvement of public facilities under a commission form of government. You pay less money and you get more for it. Civic improvements are carried on as if they were affairs of a large corporation. Waste is checked. The public gets the benefit of the saving."—Salem News.

BRIDE OF FITCHBURG MAN

Miss Kathryn Burch and Robert Littlehale Married

At her home on Squantum street, Miss Kathryn Burch was united in marriage to Robert Littlehale of Fitchburg, Wednesday evening.

Promptly at 7.30 o'clock before a large gathering of friends from Fitchburg, Brookline, Dorchester and Quincy, the bride entered the artistically decorated parlor on the arm of her father. Miss Burch was charmingly attired in a gown of white chiffon over messaline and carried a shower bouquet of roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Burch, gowned in corn-colored silk. The groom was accompanied by his brother, Leon Littlehale.

The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Thomas Davison of Atantic Memorial Congregational church. Following the service the bridal party received the congratulations and good wishes of all present.

A dainty bridal supper was served and the guests enjoyed the moments until the couple departed in an automobile to catch the midnight express for New York. After a sojourn of a few weeks in that city, Mr. and Mrs. Littlehale will make their home in Cambridge, where there is a prettily furnished appartment awaiting them.

—One of the best features of the cleanup of New York's Chinatown, says the Old Colony Memorial, is the prohibition raised against "slumming" parties.

LOVING CUP PRESENTED

Admiral Bowles Honored by Naval Architects

Two hundred and fifty members of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers closed their deliberations with a banquet at the Waldorf Astoria says a New York dispatch to the Journal. Stevenson Taylor was toastmaster and the speakers were: Charles E. Littlefield, C. H. Sherrill, United States minister to the Argentine Republic; Admiral Garcia of the Argentine Republic navy and H. B. Franklin of Pittsburg.

During the evening a silver loving cup was presented to Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles, of Quincy retired, former chief constructor of the navy and the first secretary and for four years the president of the society. One of the panels of the cup bears a raised etching of the battleship North Dakota, the first American Dreadnought, which was designed by Admiral Bowles which was built at Quincy.

COLLEGE CLUB.

The first fall social of the College club of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the assembly hall of the Association building last evening. Delcevare King was in charge of the games and as may be expected be "whooped 'em up" in great shape.

Over 50 young people were present to take part in the games and to do justice to the refreshments which were served in the latter part of the evening. The hall was very tastefully decorated with festoons of red and blue leading from the chandelier in the centre of the room to the pillars at the sides. Beside the members of the college club, and the young ladies who accompanied them, there were: Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Gay, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. LaRose, Mr. L. H. Clee and Miss Catherine Steele of Worcester.

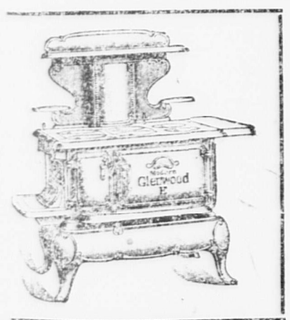

Everyone seemed to be having a delightful time, and nothing but a good time could be possible under such favorable auspices. The social committee of the club who had charge of the gathering were: H. Sutermeister, H. Cantley and R. Estey.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Thanksgiving Day, next Thursday, will be observed by the Daily Ledger as a holiday. No paper will be issued and the office will be closed all day. See Friday paper for holiday and political news.

It is reported all along the line that turkeys are to be cheaper this Thanksgiving. It's good news—hope it's true.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture says the bumper crops this fall should mean that the price of meat and other foods should come down. But will it?

Automobile tires going down 15 per cent. Now isn't that good news for the man who is saving his money for Christmas presents?

The woman who waltzed with her husband for nearly 16 hours, so long that police stopped them, has challanged Chicago waltzers to enter a marathon race with her. Ethel Hartman says waltzing properly done is scarcely exercise at all.

It costs $4,000, $5,000 and $6,000 for a page advertisement in one issue of the Butterick trio. A page "Ad" in the Daily Ledger, at a discount from these rates, would pay the Quincy merchants better.

A message through the air from Italy to Nova Scotia, some 4500 miles is surely a wonderful feat for Marconi. This invention is certainly developing, thanks to Marconi, and the best of it is it is a useful one and sure to be of benefit to humanity.

Brockton churches have started in on work for the No-license cause in that city several holding services on Sunday and others are to have special speakers tomorrow. The No-license league in Quincy reorganized this week and is contemplating a vigorous campaign. Temperance forever is the watchword for Quincy.

One likes to see a good show and one well conducted like the Brockton Fair prosper. There can be no doubt of its prosperity when the balancing of accounts for this year's fair shows total receipts of $116,587 with a profit of $19,345. With the usual generosity $500 was given to the Brockton Hospital and $500 to the Wales Home.

Public bequests of over $100,000 provided by the will of Miss Carrie P. Underwood of St. Johnsbury, Vt., has brought good news to Universalists all over the land. Twenty thousand dollars is given to the Universalist General Convention; $10,000 to the Universalist State Convention, Vermont, in trust for church work; $10,000 to the Universalist publishing house, and $10,000 to the Universalist state convention of Vermont and Quebec, the income to be used for the support of the St. Johnsbury Universalist church.

The benefits to local merchants of a parcels post system in the United States, quite contrary to arguments advanced by promoters of organizations of retail merchants, now are urged by the Farmers National Congress as one of the reasons for action by Congress. This new turn to the argument was given by John M. Stahl of Chicago, a representative of the Farmers Congress, who declared: "The parcels post privilege certainly would benefit local merchants everywhere in the country for it will make trading with them by the rural people so convenient. Merchants are really injuring themselves by opposing the limited, rural route, parcels post, for as the farmer is now compelled to go to the village to deliver or to receive packages he very frequently takes the train to go to the larger town or city to buy the goods he needs. Any close observer in the western states, where mail order trading is perhaps the greatest, knows that what takes most from the trade of the local merchants is not the mail order houses but the low railway fares to the larger cities. If the merchant could send by rural carrier goods ordered of him by mail or telephone, as result of a parcels post system millions of dollars of merchandise now bought of the big mail order houses would be bought of or through the merchant. A complete modern parcels post would benefit town and city people even more than farmers, but it certainly will benefit millions of farmers, will increase trade of local merchants and soon would wipe out the postal deficit." Contrary to supposition, the big mail order houses in recent years have opposed rather than advocated the parcels post for they are well satisfied with present arrangements with the express companies and long ago realized that a parcels post system would put local merchants on a parity with them in the delivery of goods by mail.

The large supply of turkeys throughout the country, according to reports to Chicago, is one fact to remember on Thanksgiving day. The dry weather which amounted to a drought in many states was a blessing to the young turkeys whose greatest menace always is rain-soaked jungles of grass through which their energetic mothers always insist in taking them on expeditions after the elusive bug. The cranberry crop is the best, largest and cheapest that has come on the market for a number of years. Therefore this Thanksgiving dinner will be an old-fashioned feast at no prohibitive expense. Amost annually for several years reports have gone out from the middlemen in Chicago and other cities that the turkey shortage is acute and that prices probaby will be high. These shortages have not been relieved any by the enterprising efforts of the dealers to buy up every available fowl well in advance of the feast and either market them during the Thanksgiving demand or hold them for even larger profits at the Christmas season. The potato and also sweet-potato crop will also be plentiful to help reduce the cost of that one great occasion of Americans when over-eating is the rule and the reason for the feasting is all but submerged in the modern interest in football.

Now that Ropes, Gray and Gorham, the Boston law firm who pass on all loan orders for the Old Colony Trust Co., have said that 15 votes were two-thirds of the City Council and enough to pass the $19,000 street loan order, it is more than probable that attempts will be made at the meeting of the City Council on Monday to pass the two street loans now on the table. One of these is for $9,400 and the other $4,800. In addition to this there is an order for $1,700 to rebuild Merrymount road, which is being held up for the same reason.

Because it may be legal to pass these loan orders, is no reason why they should pass, and now that the attention of the voters has been called to the "high cost of the city government," the Councilmen may think twice before they disregard the interests of the taxpayers and further mortgage the city. The amount of the loan orders of 1910 is already excessively large. This year the people were taxed to pay off Municipal debt to the amount of $107,375.00, but the October statement of the City Treasurer showed that new Municipal loans aggregating $128,465.00 had been negotiated, and this does not include about $150,000.00 authorized for school-houses and other improvements, authorized but not borrowed, and here are $15,000 more. The City Council was so scary of its record on loans that it dated the schoolhouse loans in 1911. There has also been an increase of the Sewer debt and the Water debt this year, and in ten months the City Treasurer has expended $76,752.32 for interest. Councilmen who protect the taxpayers are the ones who should be reelected.

DRIFT OF OPINION

The voters of Beverly have decided to change the form of their charter having but one governing body and making a two years' term for the mayor.

Under the new charter the old council will be abolished and the city's governing body will consist of nine members chosen for one year. Six of these will be chosen from the wards and the others will be members at large.

The chief of police will be chosen by the mayor without confirmation by the aldermen, the chief executive being thus made responsible for law and order. He may also remove the chief at will. All committees of the board of aldermen will be chosen by the mayor, and the latter may suspend any officer appointed by him, whether the appointment was made with the consent of his council or not.

The new charter, besides providing for salaries, makes public service corporations responsible to the people, provides for a building commission and contains other innovations.—Chelsea Record.

LISTS FOR CITY ELECTION

About 300 More Voters Than in December 1909

The revised voting lists show that there are now 6,059 registered voters for the municipal election, as against 5,792 at the Municipal election of 1909 a net increase of 267. A comparison with the number on the list in December, 1909, with the list today shows that every precinct but Ward 2, Pre. 1, and Ward 6, Pre. 2, have made gains.

The number on the lists in Ward Two, Pre. 2, remains the same, while the second precinct of Ward Six shows a loss of 17. The whole ward, however, made a gain of 65. The largest gain of any one precinct was precinct one of Ward Six, the gain there being 87. Both precincts in Ward One made a gain of 38 each.

Taken by wards every ward shows a gain. The net gain by wards was: Ward One, 76; Ward Two, 11; Ward Three, 48; Ward Four, 23; Ward Five, 62; Ward Six, 65.

A comparison of the two years by precincts follows:

	1909	1910
Ward One, pre. 1	531	569
Ward One, pre. 2	668	706
Ward Two, pre. 1	341	341
Ward Two, pre. 2	505	516
Ward Three, pre. 1	562	589
Ward Three, pre. 2	454	475
Ward Four, pre. 1	468	487
Ward Four, pre. 2	485	489
Ward Five, pre. 1	571	604
Ward Five, pre. 2	440	469
Ward Six, pre. 1	391	473
Ward Six, pre. 2	376	359

DANCE OF RAMBLER CLUB.

The first annual dance of the Rambler club was held in Alpha hall last evening. Vivian and Viola were there as well as about 49 other couples.

William Murphy acted as floor director. Ray Fowler, Nil Chapman, William Manning, John Conway, Bennett O'Brien and Vincent Stevens were the aids. The committee in charge, which worked in conjunction with the President Milton C. Burton, were: Frank Harmon, Philip Rice, William Caine, Vivian McCarty and Harold Hill. Wilson's orchestra furnished the music. The football men arrived early and very wisely went home early. At 9.30 a rather mournful procession filed out and started for home so that Quincy High might be represented by a team at its best in the game against Dorchester today.

The dance was in every way a success, and the committee is to be congratulated. The president of the club, Milton C. Burton, had much to do with the successful outcome of the affair.

SOCIAL CLUB DANCE.

One of the largest and most successful dances of the season was that given by the Manet Social club in Quincy Music hall last evening. About 200 couples participated in the enjoyment of the dancing. The music was furnished by Wilson's orchestra. Daniel Mahon was in charge of the floor, George Mullen was assistant floor director and the aids were: Thomas Sullivan, Murray Kerr, Gunner Johnson, Arthur Wentworth, Arthur Warrington, Thomas Manning, Frederick Hayden, John Neagle, Walter Mattie, William McCarthy and Joseph Tierney.

HEALTH AND SANITATION.

Since the greatest of our National Assets is the health of the American people, our efficiency must depend on national vitality. Four-fifths of our population are supplied with water from perennial springs and streams and wells. The unsanitary condition of the source of water supply is largely responsible for many epidemics which have resulted in great loss of life. According to the census of 1900 there were 35,379 deaths from typhoid fever throughout the United States. Based on an estimated mortality of 10 per cent, we assume a yearly prevalence of 353,790 cases of this disease. That the water supply plays the most conspicuous part in desseminating this disease has been clearly proven. The state of New York reduced the death rate from typhoid in ten of its cities 53.4 per cent by improved water supply. Water is the medium for organic circulation, the plants and animals of the country require an amount many times exceeding their aggregate volume. On an average the plant tissue of animal growths is three-fourths and of perennial growths three-eighths water; of human and stock food over 80 per cent is water, the same ratio in animal tissue.

BRIEFS

The Sons of Veterans met in Grand Army hall Friday evening.

The Men's club of St. Chrysostom's church meet in the parish rooms at eight o'clock Monday evening. Rev. Augustine D. Malley, chaplain of the Massachusetts state prison will speak on his work among the prisoners and the impressions gained at the convention on prison work held recently in Washington, D. C.

A very large number were present at the younger boys' meeting in the Y. M. C. A. this morning. Theophilus King spoke very interesting on the topic "An objective."

The funeral of C. Harrison Hobart will occur Sunday at 1.30 P. M Rural lodge of Masons will take the 50 car for South Braintree.

Thanksgiving day services are to be held at St. Chrysostom's church, with morning prayer and address at ten o'clock.

Mrs. Ann McAloon died last evening at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. John Harkins of 86 Main street. She had been a resident of the city about 50 years, and leaves three daughters and a son, Mrs. Arbuckle of Cranch street, Mrs. Travis of West Quincy, Mrs. Michael Cook of Hancock street and John McAloon. Funeral services will be held at St. John's church Monday morning.

Union Thanksgiving services at Wollaston are to be held on Thursday afternoon at five o'clock in the Unitarian church.

The Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church will hold its regular monthly business meeting on Monday, at 2.30 o'clock instead of the usual day Wednesday.

The Daily Ledger report of the address of Ben. S. Jacobs to the Quincy Retail Merchant's Association, has been sent by the Pilgrim Publicity Association to the newspapers of New England with a request to publish.

The funeral of Charles F. Lord of 36 Appleton street was held Saturday, the services being conducted by Rev Frederick H. Steenstra, rector of St Chrysostom's church. Many friends were in attendance and the floral tributes were numerous. Mrs. Page contributed solos. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

N. B. Furnald has received a handsome silver badge as special agent of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. He has served since 1879, and a note accompanying the badge says "very few have served longer and none more faithfully." For 15 years he was the Norfolk county representative. There is no salary or perquisites connected with the office.

William K. Chubbuck of Washington street, Quincy Point is renovating the old house at the corner of Hersey place and will move into it when completed.

Wollaston people have pleasant anticipations of a stereopticon lecture on the Passion Play to be given soon by one who was present this summer when the play was given at Oberammergau.

Rev. R. E. Armstrong will give a lecture on the Philippines, Tuesday evening. Mr. Armstrong has many interesting experiences to relate as he lived at Zamboanga for two years. The pictures illustrating the lecture give much of the atmosphere of the Islands, showing both the places and the people, and the evening cannot fail of being both amusing and instructive.

PROMINENT AT WEST QUINCY

Former Member of School Committee Passes Away

William D. Burns, a well known resident of West Quincy, passed away last evening at his home on Cross street, aged about 53 years. Mr. Burns was born in Quincy and has always made his home in this city. He served his ward as a member of the School Committee during the years 1895-1897. He was also for several years an inspector in the Sewer department of the city, which position he was obliged to give up on account of rheumatism of which he has been a sufferer for several years. He was one of the charter members of St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. society, and a member of St. Francis court of Foresters. He leaves a widow and daughter Mary E. Burns, a teacher at the John Hancock school. He also leaves two sisters who are teachers in the public schools.

The funeral will be held Monday morning, with services at the house at 8.15, and high masss at St. Mary' church at 9.

BRAINTREE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Last Sunday, the first in the series of meetings known as the Braintree People's Forum was held in the assembly hall of All Souls' church, Braintree, at 3.30 P. M. There was a very good attendance and it is more than likely that the audiences will so increase in size that the meetings will have to be transferred to the Town hall in the near future.

In his opening remarks Rev D. Roy Freeman explained the purpose of the meetings saying that they were of, by and for the people and would provide a platform for the discussion of live questions of personal and public ethics. He said that he would not aid the people welcome but it was fitting that each should welcome the other. Mr. Freeman introduced as the speaker of the afternoon Franklin H Wentworth who adressed the meeting on "Socialism and Trade Unionism."

Mr. Wentworth was a candidate for Congress in the recent election, on the socialist ticket and is an authority on his subject having studied its various aspects in the United States and also in Italy, France, Germany, England, Holand and Switzerland He spoke for nearly an hour, presenting his views in a clear, concise and logical manner and setting forth some strong arguments. His remarks were listened to with the closest attention. At the conclusion of his talk an opportunity was given to any one to ask questions of the speaker on topics connected with his talk and quite a number availed themselves of the privilege. A lively discussion was the result, as a number of very pertinent questions were put to the speaker.

A collection was taken to defray the expenses and this will be done at each meeting and a weekly report read of the receipts and expenditures so that the people may know exactly how the money is being expended. The forum promises to be both interesting and instructive.

In some quarters there has been misapprehension regarding the Forum. It has been suposed that only men are admitted to its meetings. Such an impression is absolutely erroneous. The democracy of the movement disregards distinctions not only of political affiliations, of religious belief and of age, but emphatically of sex as well. The meetings were inaugurated to serve not a part but the whole of the surrounding community. Every one, without restriction, is entirely welcome, who desires to make use of their enlightening influence. The speaker on next Sunday afternoon will be Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston. The meeting opens at 3.30 o'clock.

SWEATERS

All Styles at Lowest Possible Prices for Reliable Goods

GEORGE W. JONES,

No. 1 Granite Street, Quincy

WE wish to call the attention of our customers and to the buying Public of Quincy and surrounding towns, that after a careful inspection and comparison, we consider that, taking the quality and genuine value of our goods, that we are the lowest priced store in Massachusetts.

Now, this may seem to be a broad statement to some people but we stand ready to PROVE our statement. We claim that nowhere in Quincy or any part of Massachusetts, do they sell better QUALITY or do they charge lower prices for the same QUALITY of goods than we do. We have been noted for years for the QUALITY of the goods we sell, and are ever ready to make good when the goods are not just as represented, and nowhere can you get such a guarantee of Quality. You all know that there is a certain value to High Quality Provisions as well as other commodities that you use; and when you go along the street and read the advertisements of different dealers who are selling you something at a ridiculously low price, you can depend upon it that you are surely buying a gold brick, for you cannot buy something that is absolutely worth thirty cents for fifteen cents and expect Quality any more than you can buy a three thousand dollar automobile for fifteen hundred and expect it to be just as good.

Now we have posted ourselves on the different grades of the other dealers and we say once more that we are the lowest priced Quality Store in Quincy or Massachusetts, and we ask you, if you want proof, to call and compare our goods and prices with what you are paying.

Just now the market has eased off considerably and we were one of the first dealers to give our customers the benefit, showing you that we are WITH the people, our customers, at all times.

Thanksgiving will be here soon and we wish to inform our customers that we shall have a grand display of DELICIOUS fresh Goods for the trade. No cheap trash, but fresh, wholesome, clean stock—the only kind FIT TO BUY, TO EAT, and the prices will be hammered down just as hard as possible for them to be and for us to live; so we invite you to our store, where you can see that our statements are all absolutely true in every respect.

Space will not permit us to quote at length our prices but below will be found the prices of a few things that we know to be of more than special value.

Curtice Bro's Family Tomatoes 12 1-2c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Cut, String or Wax Beans 10c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Maine Sweet Corn 12 1-2c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Small Peas (that fresh sweet flavor) 17c a can
Regular Value 20c

" " Champion of England Peas 15c a can
ONE OF THE BEST GROWN Regular Value 18c

" " May Duke Peas (a winner) 10c a can
Regular Value 13c

QUEEN LOUISE FLOUR at 90c a bag

We ask you to use some of this flour and if you do not find it to be the best you ever used, return the empty bag to us and receive your money back. This is the guarantee that goes with the FLOUR.

We sell the famous La Touraine Coffee for 35c a pound. The EQUAL of any 40c coffee on the Market.

With each pound of La Touraine Coffee we give FREE any 5c bar of soap you wish.

Our line of Teas are the BEST in Quincy, carefully selected and chosen to suit the heavy and light tea tastes of our customers. One special Tea at 60c we wish to call your attention to, a regular $1.00 Quality. Try some.

Our Market—always the best, always the LOWEST PRICED and the VERY HIGHEST QUALITY. This part of our large business speaks for itself. It needs no debate, as it is in a class all by itself; but of one thing you may be sure, considering the Quality, we are surely cutting the prices on GOOD SUBSTANTIAL CORN FED BEEF.

We have our prices on MEAT on our price Board in plain sight of every one who enters our store, and all we ask is, compare Quality and then compare Prices, and you will see that we are not selling you NOTHING for SOMETHING, but for every penny you spend with us, you get your penny's worth in return, in WEIGHT and MEASURE and QUALITY, to say nothing of HEALTH and HAPPINESS in your HOME because a poor QUALITY of cheap meats never promotes HEALTH and therefore little HAPPINESS.

Inspect our poultry department before you buy elsewhere and see what a splendid line of fresh killed chicken—fowl and turkeys we have to offer, and we will guarantee that the prices will be cut as close as it is possible to cut them, for we wish to sell every one a Thanksgiving Turkey or Chicken. Once again we invite you to our Store to inspect our goods and prices.

Government Places Keeper In Charge of Big Woolen Mill

Boston, Nov. 19.—An action to recover from the Joseph Brooke company, woolen manufacturers, $200,000 alleged to be due the government for undervaluation of linings imported at the port of New York from foreign countries, was begun in the United States circuit court here when, at the request of United States District Attorney Wise of New York, United States District Attorney Garland of Boston instituted a civil suit against the Joseph Brooke company and placed an attachment of $200,000 on the Neponset mill, one of the company's factories, located at Canton Junction.

The plant is valued at $150,000. It employs 150 hands, and at the present time the factory is running overtime in order to keep up with the volume of business. Casket linings are manufactured at the Canton Junction factory.

It is understood that although the Neponset mill has been attached and a keeper placed in charge, the factory will continue in operation, but all receipts will be turned over to the government until the case is finally settled.

TOLSTOI'S END SEEMS NEAR

Novelist's Condition Compels Use of Oxygen to Prolong His Life

Astapova, Russia, Nov. 19.—The condition of Count Leo Tolstoi took an unfavorable turn late yesterday. Oxygen was administered to the patient, who frequently lost consciousness. It is not believed that he can long survive.

Great anxiety is expressed by those at the bedside of the stricken novelist, although hopes have not been entirely abandoned for his ultimate recovery.

Dr. Usoff, professor of internal diseases at Moscow university, and Dr. Thtchurosky, who treated Tolstoi for bronchitis in the Crimea in 1901, have been urgently summoned to Astapova.

WOMAN INDICTED AS HUSBAND'S POISONER

Continuance of Case of Mrs. Shenk Refused by Court

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 19.—Mrs. Laura F. Schenk, charged with administering arsenic to her rich husband, John O. Schenk, was indicted by the grand jury of Ohio county.

Before the grand jury was sent out to consider the case, attorneys for Mrs. Schenk urged that a continuance be granted because no preliminary hearing had been held. The court overruled the motion, however.

During the hearing Schenk, who is recovering from the effects of arsenic poisoning, was most anxious to learn the result of the jury's findings. As he was wheeled about the corridors of the hospital, he made frequent inquiries and had a friend in frequent communication with the prosecuting attorney's office.

He had no comment to make when he learned of the indictment. The date for the trial has not been set.

THAW'S PETITION FAILS

Sought to Secure Arrest of Attendant In Matteawan Asylum

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 19.—County Judge Hasbrouck refused to sign an order for examination of inmates of the Matteawan state hospital, in a suit brought by Harry K. Thaw to show that William McDonald, an ex-pugilist, who is an attendant at the hospital, is cruel to patients.

Thaw's ultimate desire is to cause McDonald's arrest, but the court insists that the papers in the case be strictly in accordance with the law before he will order the patients' examination.

McDonald makes the counter charge that Thaw cursed and beat his fellow patients.

MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Verdict Returned Against Two Russians Who Murdered Shoe Manufacturer and Policeman In Streets of Lynn—To Be Electrocuted Next March For Cruel and Sensational Crime—Pal of Doomed Men a Suicide

Salem, Mass., Nov. 19.—Guilty of murder in the first degree was the verdict returned by the jury which sat in the trial of the two Lynn bandits, Andrei Ipsen and Wassili Ivankowski, who have been on trial in the superior criminal court here. They are to be electrocuted during the week of March 5, 1911.

Neither of the prisoners appeared in the least disconcerted by the jury's finding. When the interpreter notified them of the verdict both smiled, but aside from that gave no evidence of feeling.

Both of the convicted men made statements when Chief Justice Aiken asked them if they desired to say anything. This was preliminary to imposing the sentence of death. Ivankowski was the first to respond. Through an interpreter he said that the verdict was all wrong, and declared that he and Ipsen had not had a fair chance, because they had had no witnesses. Ipsen's statement was brief and seemed to indicate that he had not expected acquittal: "Let it be as it is."

Justice Mason then pronounced sentence. As the prisoners were being led from the court room Ivankowski said: "You will be sorry sometime that you did not investigate better."

Ipsen and Ivankowski were with a third bandit, known only by the name of "Joe," who took his own life when he was surrounded by the police shortly after he and his companions had mercilessly shot down and robbed Thomas A. Landregan, a well-to-do shoe manufacturer, and James H. Carroll, a patrolman, who was guarding Landregan and helping him carry the $4000 required for the weekly payroll of the Welch & Landregan shoe concern from the bank to the factory, on June 25 last.

While the two Russians admitted that they had been with "Joe" at the time of the shooting and robbery and that they had later shared in the plunder after getting to a place of temporary safety, they denied that they shot either of the two men killed or that there had been a concerted plan for the attack.

The hold-up in which these men were concerned was one of the most sensational and cruel that have taken place in Massachusetts in the past few years. Not only did the trio shoot down Landregan and Carroll, but they fired three bullets into the former's body and ten into the latter's body, most of them after their victims had fallen mortally wounded on the sidewalk.

The affair took place within a short distance of the principal square of the city in the forenoon, and when there were many people on the streets. The automatic pistols which the bandits carried and their large supplies of cartridges were used freely, not only to kill the two men who held the coveted money-bag but also to drive off pursuers, who quickly gathered in large numbers. One innocent pedestrian was seriously wounded during the hunt conducted by policemen and thousands of Lynn residents.

Policeman Loses Supreme Court Fight to Regain His Job

Boston, Nov. 19.—Napoleon Bergeron, formerly a reserve policeman in Fitchburg, failed to get the Massachusetts supreme court to order him put back on the force from which he was dismissed after a hearing upon the charge that he had used insulting language to a woman.

Bergeron petitioned the supreme court to issue a writ of mandamus to compel Mayor O'Connell to put him back, but after O'Connell had testified that Bergeron had had a fair hearing and was not a victim of bias or prejudice, Judge Braley dismissed the petition.

Fire Destroys Railroad Property

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 19.—Seventy-five thousand dollars' worth of railroad locomotives were destroyed in a fire that broke out in what is known as the "old round house" on the Boston and Maine railroad here. The fire was caused by the explosion of a tank used in generating gas for the locomotive headlights.

JUST IN TIME

Some Quincy People May Wait Till It's Too Late.

Don't wait until too late.
Be sure to be in time.
Act in time with kidney ills.
Means curing the back.
Before backache becomes chronic;
Before serious urinary troubles set in.
Doan's Kidney Pills will do this.
Here is Quincy testimony to prove it.
Nicholas Albanese, 16 Gilmore St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I was annoyed by attacks of backache for some time, often while at work, sharp, shooting pains darted through my loins, causing me great misery. I also had dizzy spells and my sight seemed to be affected. I tried many remedies, but did not receive relief and as a last resort, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store and in a short time after using them, I was helped. I have no hesitation in giving Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for my cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MAKES MILE A MINUTE

Hoxsey Makes Sensational Flight Despite Johnstone's Tragic Death

Denver, Nov. 19.—A lone aviator, soaring eagle-wise against the dazzling background of the snow-clad Rocky mountains, grimly reminded 10,000 spectators at Overland park yesterday of Thursday's reckless rivalry which culminated in the tragic death of Ralph Johnstone, holder of the world's altitude record. Mile a minute time was made by Hoxsey.

Rising and circling to a height of about 2000 feet, taking nine minutes to do it, he headed northwest toward the foothills until only the keen-eyed could see the machine. When he reached the field again, it was learned that he covered an estimated distance of twenty miles in twenty minutes. Hoxsey estimated his greatest altitude at 3500 feet from the ground, or 8700 feet above the sea level.

COMMONS STORMED BY SUFFRAGETTES

Their Militant Tactics Keep London Police Very Busy

London, Nov. 19.—One hundred and sixteen suffragettes and four men were arrested by the police in their storming of parliament. Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and two other leaders were admitted and saw Premier Asquith's secretary, who informed them that there was no chance for the enfranchisement bill passing parliament this session.

Among the thousands in Parliament square who watched the suffragettes trying to batter their way in the parliament building were scores of American sailors from the third division of the fleet which is at anchor at Gravesend. The bluejackets cheered the women lustily, inciting them to fresh efforts.

David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, told the commons that the government would announce its policy next week in regard to women's suffrage.

New England Apples Have the Western Variety Beaten to a Pulp—"Cultured" Expectorators Will Henceforth be Excoriated—The Late John La Farge Greatly Influenced Yankee Artists and Art Students—The Short and the Long of It in Nomenclature—Misstatements in an "Impartial" Study of Western Woman Suffrage Arouse Massachusetts Suffragists.

Let the city of culture be clean. Police Commissioner O'Meara will excoriate the folk who expectorate. There has, indeed, been a law against this misdemeanor for a long time, but the fact that a person arrested for this offence must be dealt with under the law exactly as a dangerous criminal would be dealt with, has led the officers to hesitate in prosecuting where there is no criminal intent. The enfocement of the law is now ordered, however, as the result largely of a communication from the chairman of the board of trustees of the Boston Consumptives' hospital, heartily endorsed by Mayor Fitzgerald. Grown persons who look intelligent, and there are a lot of them in Boston, are to receive first consideration. Any one of the so-called privileged class who is noted expectorating on the sidewalk will be haled into court lickety-split. Women, who don't spit anyway, minors, who ought to have been taught better at school, and the poor and ignorant generally will not be dealt with quite so summarily at present unless their offences are particularly flagrant.

That Massachusetts hillsides can raise just as juicy apples as the western plains has been proved. Even Washington and Oregon have been beaten to a pulp. The Bay State's Board of Agriculture has just shown an exhibition of fruit as radiantly beautiful as a June flower garden. Many agriculturists have contended for years that Massachusetts and New England in general have the goods on the trees. These men have now definitely proved their claim.

"The Boy Lied," according to a reprinted article which the Woman's Journal, the equal suffrage periodical published in Boston, is circulating anent an alleged "impartial" study in the best known of women's publications of the working of woman suffrage in the progressive western states where political equality has been established. It seems that the—"investigator," Mr. Richard Barry, having the male instinct for accuracy and thoroughness lack of which is sometimes attributed to women as a disqualification for their using the ballot, went to the Rocky Mountain state and, after the manner of the muck-raking writers, in short order reappeared with his copy. From Miss Blackwell's detailed analysis it would appear that many of his statements of fact have just that careful regard for literal truthfulness which every city editor soon learns may be looked for in the work of the average cub reporter when assigned to an important "story." True, the dates on which Colorado and Utah adopted woman suffrage are both misstated. Mr. Barry's article, furthermore, states that "The Juvenile Court in Boston antedated the one in Denver," whereas in reality the act establishing the Boston Juvenile Court was approved June 15, 1906, and the first session was held Sept. 1, 1906, while Judge Lindsey's celebrated juvenile court had been established several years before that date. Again Mrs. Lafferty, a woman member of the Colorado legislature is reported in the Barry article to have introduced at the last session, at Judge Lindsey's suggestion, seven different bills concerning the Juvenile Court. The records showed that she introduced only four of these bills. The "investigator" to show that a woman legislator cannot get things done, asserts that "The unimportant bills got through; the important ones are still pigeon-holed." The record shows that all four of Mrs. Lafferty's bills were passed in the House, and that three went through the Senate and are now on the statute books. The other one was held up because of a slight amendment which Judge Lindsey accepted; it is now in the hands of the judiciary committee. Of the three bills which Mrs. Lafferty did not introduce, one became law; two failed in the Senate. So the account goes, bringing out a host of those petty inaccuracies of statement which when found in a piece of writing supposed to be serious most people believe to be evidences either of hasty and inconsequential preparation or of fundamental incapacity to get at the exact truth. The suffragists of Massachusetts are keenly interested in the growth of woman suffrage sentiment in the western states. They are jubilant over the great victory in Washington, toward which they contributed money, literature and speakers. They are naturally anxious that whoever writes about the workings of equal suffrage in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, or Washington shall at least give a truthful presentation of the easily ascertainable facts.

Meantime, something's doing every minute in the equal suffrage centre of New England. It is the turn of the Boston association, just now, to occupy the stage, literally, for two delightful comedies will be presented on Friday evening, Nov. 25, at Jordan Hall, with appropriate casts of clever amateurs. One of these plays is "Lady Geraldine's Speech," by Beatrice Harraden; the other is that fine favorite "How the Vote was Won." It is expected that not a few suffragists from the nearby cities and towns of New England will come Hubward for this affair.

Dental practitioners are used to their client's nerve, but there is one dentist in Massachusetts who is not likely hereafter to trade professional services for commodities. Some time ago he agreed to do some dental work for a farmer, in return for which the farmer was to deliver vegetables to the value of the dentistry. About $40 worth of work was put into the agricultural mouth and a few days later a barrel of fine potatoes was deposited at the dentist's door. After a long delay the dentist spoke for further settlement of the bill and received a barrel of squash. Nothing more was forthcoming and after some months the dentist met the farmer on the street and asked when he was to be given some more vegetables. The farmer looked him over in astonishment and exclaimed: "Goodness, man, do you want the land they grew on?"

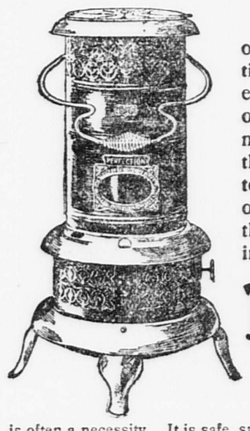

The art colony in Boston is stirred with keen regret over the death of John La Farge, who, though in later years less frequently in touch with the community than might have been wished, was still a potent factor in the development of art wherever his influence extended. He has held an annual exhibition in this city for the last twenty years, and while some of the works were exhibited two or three times they were of his best and, in his own words, "the best were equally good however often exhibited." Artists and art students recall the two memorable lectures given by Mr. LaFarge in 1906 at Huntington Chambers Hall, on "The Consideration of Painting" and "The Minor Arts." They were valuable contributions to the knowledge and thought of his audience, accentuating the broad principles and scope of the man's ideas and artistic aims. Mr. LaFarge's canvases are not, perhaps, all of immortal fame, but his uplifting influence on art education was stronger than that of almost any other one painter of his day.

Miss Eda Ek of Brockton was thought to have won easy fame through a heralding forth as one having the shortest name to be found hereabouts, or in the country for that matter. Another claimant has appeared however in Al Re of Everett. As a direct consequence the question has arisen as to who has the longest name. Two students of the Boston University School of Law believe they are entitled to a chance to qualify as prize winners, their names being respectively Louis Napoleon Raoul Archambault and Raphael Anthony Augustine Comparony. The shortest man is, of course, he who has neither silver nor gold, but the person with the shortest name having been found, who has the greatest name for being short?

For Business Use

There are a great many places and occasions when the possibility of getting extra heat immediately effects an economy by decreasing the discomfort of the worker. In the office, in the early morning or late at night, before or after the steamheat is on, it is of importance to have extra heat. In the builder's outside office, in the shipping room, in the checker's shack, on exposed lofts, in railroad stations, in studios, the

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

is often a necessity. It is safe, smokeless and odorless. Apply a match, and it gives heat quickly. With four quarts of oil it burns nine hours. Has automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be cleaned in an instant.

It has a cool handle and a damper top. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking.

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel. It is strong, durable, well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

BRIEFS

John Whitney Hall of Hancock street observed his 78th birthday on Thursday.

Mrs. Cherrington is seriously ill with pneumonia at the home of her son Mr. Charles Cherrington of Clive street.

The many friends of George W. Jones, proprietor of the well known City Square gentlemen's furnishing store, who has been confined to his home for the past few weeks, will be glad to learn that he is now convalescent and will be able to be out again in a few days.

Rev. Dr. John Galbraith, District Superintendent of the Methodist churches in the Boston District, will preach at the evening service at the Hall Place M. E. church on Sunday at 7 P. M. A cordial welcome for all who attend this service.

The Ladies Benevolent Society of Atlantic, met with Mrs. William Cummings of Clive street Wednesday afternoon. Plans were made to provide furnishings for the kitchen of the new church. The church is being completed so rapidly that the greatest enthusiasm is being maintained by the good workers of the parish.

The Atlantic railroad station was entered by burglars Thursday night, and $20 stolen from the money drawer. Inspector Goodhue has the sabre that was used in smashing the window and in prying open the money drawer.

The cafeteria lunch given by the Mens club of the Union chapel at Houghs Neck on Thursday evening was a decided success. Long tables were loaded with baked beans, doughnuts, cake, pie, coffee,etc. Everybody helped themselves, paying for what they desired. The affair was in charge of Hiram Darrow, assisted by C. R. Southwick, Charles E. Decker, Clarence Ryder, Gordon Webster and Harold Darrow. After the supper there was an entertainment including selections by the junior glee club, solos by Miss Maud Brown, organ selections by Miss Rose Chapman.

NEW "CURE" FOR INSANITY

It Fails to Work and "Voodoo" Doctor Is Arrested as a Result

Cincinnati, Nov. 19.—"Voodoo" charms and similar methods were prescribed as a cure for her insane son by Mrs. Clara Barnes, according to testimony by Mrs. Mary J. Koehler here. As a result the former was held to the federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The fortune teller made her give up $50 as a retaining fee, Mrs. Koehler said. Then she had her bury $10 in gold in a cigar box full of salt. The gold piece disappeared, but the son remained insane.

THE WORLD IN BOSTON

Meeting to be Held in Quincy Sunday Evening

The Sunday evening service at Bethany church will be of unusual interest to the people of Quincy. Rev. A. M. Gardner of England, general manager of the mammoth Missionary exposition which is to be held in Boston next spring, will tell of his work and will explain the purpose and the plans for having "the World in Boston." Most of us will not have an opportunity to travel round the world, so this exposition is arranged to bring the world to our feet. Each country will be represented in this miniature world of 10,000 inhabitants. These inhabitants are now going through a thorough course of training in the manners and customs of the people, the geography of the country and the work of the missionaries. There will be Japanese and Chinese, African and Indian villages, scenes from all the heathen countries and many of those which are civilized. The most striking scenes in all the countries will be depicted. The worship of all the religions of the world will be delineated. All the scenes will be arranged by an expert who has travelled through the countries and studied the life and the dwellings, temples and marts in all of them.

A visitor at this exposition can imagine himself in a foregn land, amid a foreign people who can talk English. The 10,000 young people of Greater Boston who will be the inhabitants of this world will learn all about the nations they are to represent. Their costumes will be identical with those of the real inhabitants of the country and the Indian villages and Buddhist temples and so on will make one believe he is in the Orient.

Mr. Gardner will tell all about the exposition and his fascinating manner of speech as well as his great personality will surely appeal to everybody. It is expected that all parts of the city will be represented in the audience tomorrow evening.

GOMPERS WOULD BAR JAPS AND NEGROES

Considers Them a Menace to Supremacy of White Race

St. Louis, Nov. 19.—Plans of Samuel Gompers to demand the exclusion of all Japanese from the United States—and, in fact, all Asiatics—is one of the topics of discussion at the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

President Compers advocated this in a speech at a banquet to convention delegates. He declared that the invasion of Asiatics was a menace to American standards of life and must be combatted if the white race hoped to maintain supremacy on this continent.

Mr. Gompers also advocated the elimination of negroes from the labor unions of America. He said the supremacy of the Caucasian race in the unions should be maintained.

"There are 8,000,000 negroes in the United States," said Gompers. "I do not believe they should be permitted to join our unions, lacking, as they do, for the most part, the very necessary knowledge of what our unions really stand for in the economic world."

The speech was received with cheers.

CARNEGIE'S SYMPATHY

He Declares That It Goes Out For the Sons of Wealthy Men

New York, Nov. 19.—Andrew Cargenie, speaking at the dinner of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen of New York, said his heart went out in sympathy for the sons of millionaires.

He said it was the son of poor parents who realized what a father and a mother's love was. The one who had to toil hard for what he got was the boy to be envied, he said. He declared that his greatest joy in giving was not the giving, but the opportunity it offered to induce and stimulate others to do their part of the work.

HARVARD VS. YALE

Big College Game Is On at New Haven

The weather conditions are favorable at New Haven this afternoon for the big college football game—Harvard vs. Yale. The crowd assembled is a record breaking one.

Play will begin promptly at 2 o'clock and the result should be known before 4.30.

The Daily Ledger will bulletin all scores promptly.

Today will find all the teams in the Boston and district association football league entering upon the second half of the 1910 season. The Globe says: Thus far the Fore River aggregation of Quincy has lived up to all that was predicted for it by its stanch supporers, for it has as yet to find a team strong enough to defeat it, although on one or two occasions the best it could do was to share the two points, and that strange to say with the two Lynn clubs, the General Electric and the Fosse elevens. While the drawing of the Fosse team, an eleven which made its real football debut this season with the league leaders, was in itself the best thing that the Lynn team has done this year it must not be forgotten that this in no way lessened the hold on first place, which the Black brigade of Quincy has held since the opening of the present season. Taken as a whole the season has been one of the best seen in this part of the country in years. The play has been far more even than was the case a year ago.

FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

The Norfolk East District of the Massachusetts Interdenominational and cooperation Sunday school association will hold its annual meeting and Fifteenth anniversary in the First Methodist Episcopal and the First Congregational churches at East Weymouth, Tuesday, Dec. 6, morning, afternoon, and evening. There will be seven sessions. The district has had eleven presidents all of whom will be heard from at this great meeting. The birthday of the district is Dec. 4, and this will be celebrated in each church and Sunday school in the district by special exercises. The great subject of moral Hygiene and the prevention of disease will be taken up at the noon session for pastors, superintendents and laymen. Two district presidents are expected to be present. At 4.15 P. M. there will be a session for young people. The addresses will be replete with accounts and stories interesting to all.

WRONGFULLY COMMITTED

Two Innocent Men to Be Released From Sing Sing Prison

New York, Nov. 19.—An order for the immediate release from Sing Sing prison of Morris Taub and Louis Brown, formerly engaged in the cotton goods business here, as Brown & Taub, was isused last night by the appellate division of the supreme court.

The men were convicted in February, 1910, by a jury in general sessions, and were sentenced to Sing Sing for not less than 2½ years and not more than 4½ on a charge of forgery in the third degree.

According to the appellate division they should not have been prosecuted at all on the charge of forgery, and it appears to be a case of grave doubt if any offense warranting criminal prosecution was committed.

A BERTH FOR LODGE

May Be Ambassador to London If He Loses Senatorship

Boston, Nov. 19.—In the event that the Democrats and the progressive Republicans in the Massachusetts legislature prevent the reappointment to the United States senate of Mr. Lodge, it is reported here, though not confirmed, that he will be appointed United States ambassadorship to England. There is a growing belief here that the Democrats and the progressive Republicans, by joint action, will prevent his return to the senate.

Senator Lodge, according to his friends, would rather return to the United States senate than to hold any other position, but they add that he will accept the ambassadorship if it is offered in case of his being turned down by the legislature.

BOMB IN NAVY YARD

One of the Stage Variety Dropped From Airship by Grahame-White

Philadelphia, Nov. 19.—Claude Grahame-White proved the usefulness of an aeroplane in war times when he deliberately put a "stage bomb" on the roof of the administration building at the League island navy yard.

When White accomplished his feat, his aeroplane was going at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, and before the sailors or marines at the navy yard were aware of what the aviator had done, he was back at his starting point.

German Protestants Angry

Berlin, Nov. 19.—The Protestants and all the political progressive parties indignantly criticise the kaiser's address to the Benedictines at the monastery at Beuren, which is interpreted as a bid for the support of the clerical party in combating liberalism and Socialism.

Roses and Skeeters In Jersey

Bayonne, N. J., Nov. 19.—Two rose bushes in front of 39 West Thirty-fifth street, this city, which bore pink roses in August, blossomed yesterday in deep red roses. A flock of mosquitoes buzzed about the blossoms.

CANAL WORKMEN QUIT

Boilermakers and Others Think They Are Entitled to Higher Pay

Panama, Nov. 19.—The first serious check to the work on the Panama canal came yesterday, when more workmen joined the 145 boilermakers who quit Thursday. Five days' notice was given by the men. The boilermakers are demanding increased pay in lieu of six weeks' leave of absence yearly.

President Taft, who is now speeding toward Cuba, told them that they were getting higher salaries now than their fellow workmen in the United States. The machinists threaten to strike unless they get higher pay after Jan. 1.

Quincy High Gives Dorchester a Surprise

BOSTON CHAMPIONS ARE SHUT OUT

Quincy High Outplay Them at Every Point on Their Own Grounds

Hill and Manning Were the Bright Stars

"Quincy" and "Victory" are not spelled alike, and it would be hard to convince many people that there was any connection between them. But those favored few who had the privilege of witnessing the game in Dorchester on Saturday can assert that the two words are synonymous and even a casual observer can see that they come to the same thing in the end. The score, 11 to 0, does not begin to tell the story of the game. Dorchester was literally rushed off its feet from start to finish and only once was the Quincy goal in danger.

During the first quarter when Quincy was sailing serenely up the field, the backers of the home team were saying, "Wait till Fraser gets in and we'll show you a few things," but alas, poor Fraser was unable to do little more than the rest, and was taken out of the game in the last quarter looking pretty well used up.

Dorchester was taken completely by surprise and her team seemed to be playing as if in a trance with the exception of a few minutes after Quincy scored her first touchdown. Then they came to as the result of the shock, and made a very worthy attempt to score, but the visitors held them on the 10-yard line, and apparently satisfied with this gape and stretch Dorchester laid down again and submitted to the hynotic influences of their opponents.

FIRST QUARTER.

Dorchester kicked off to Quincy. Hill received the ball and carried it back 10 yards. After two short gains Dorchester got the ball and tried it's luck. Quincy held and Conley punted. Manning received the ball and ran it back 5 yards. Hill and Prout made successive gains of 20 yards each. Harmon gained 3 yards through centre. The home team held for downs then and substantial gains by LaRoche, Conley and Betts brought the ball into Quincy territory. A forward pass was tried but was a failure and Quincy started back up the field. Their progress was rudely interrupted however after they had gone 4 yards of the distance and Hill punted. Manning was down with the ball and recovered it on the 25 yard line. Prout hurdled on the next rush and Quincy was penalized 15 yards. Manning was given the ball for an end run but fumbled and Quincy recovering the ball was forced to kick. Hill got off a long one and Manning tackled his man on the 2 yard line. Time was called before Dorchester started to punt. Score 0 to 0.

SECOND QUARTER.

As a result of the little dose administered in the first quarter Dorchester put in Fraser as an antidote. Coach Reilly was saving him for the game with Mechanics Arts but the need was considered great enough in this game to warrant his being put in. With the ball on the 2 yard line, Conley punted to midfield. Harmon gained 8 yards and Hill made first down. The ball was within striking distance and Chapman tried a drop kick which was unsuccessful. Betts was pushed through the line for 5 yards after Dorchester was given the ball on the 25 yard line. LaRoche was tackled hard on the next rush and had to take time out. Dorchester was forced to punt after an unsuccessful try to make their distance. Manning received the ball but was unable to gain before he was tackled. After Dorchester held for 3 downs, Hill punted and Chapman got the ball. Gains of 5 yards each by Prout and Harmon and one of 10 yards by Hill brought the ball within striking distance again. Chapman failed in his attempt at a field goal and Dorchester was given the ball on the 25 yard line. Time was called before a rush was started. Score 0 to 0.

THIRD QUARTER.

Dorchester started off the third quarter with a rush. Fraser gained 5 yards around tackle and LaRoche made 2 more around the end. Tirrell threw Conley for a loss on the next rush and Dorchester punted. The punt was blocked but Dorchester regained the ball. Johnson received a kick in the head in the next rush and during the remainder of the game was out of his head. After a short gain by Fraser which did not make the required distance, Conley punted to Manning. Harmon gained well but Prout was thrown back and Hill punted. Manning recovered the ball on the 25 yard line. Hill gained 10 yards, Blackmur went through centre for 10 more and Hill went over for a touchdown. Chapman kicked the goal very prettily.

The Dorchester supporters were looking at each other in amazement now and the team braced itself to "come back." Conley received the kickoff and ran it 5 yards. Betts netted 5 more and Fraser reeled off 10. Johnson prevented his getting away with any more my making a splendid tackle. Fraser was given the ball again and made 5 yards. Conley and Betts gained 3 and 4 yards. Johnson tackled brilliantly again on the second rush. A forward pass, the only one of the game which was successful was worked by Dorchester. In the next

BOSTON'S MAYOR AT BRAINTREE

Advocates Tax on Unearned Increment of Real Estate

Quincy was as well represented as Braintree at the large gathering at the Braintree Forum on Sunday afternoon, when Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston spoke on "The unearned increment of real estate." He said in part:

"New means of taxation must be devised to meet the increasing needs of the population. This taxation must come in a form so as not to be injurious to legitimate business, but, rather, helpful, to it, inasmuch as it must meet the equities of the situation more than the present methods of taxation. The taxation of the unearned increment I believe to be a most progressive measure, and, in my judgment, will be the law in all progressive communities in a very short time. Progressive cities in Canada, New Zealand, Germany and other countries recognize the justice of this taxation. In Germany alone $125,000,000 are paid annually into the treasuries of the towns and cities, and even the national treasury itself benefits from this law.

"I believe that our city (Boston) will furnish a better illustration of the injustice of the present method of taxation than almost any city in the land, because our business area is so restricted that land values increase over night. As an example I might cite the territory on Washington street between Adams square and Eliot street, about two-thirds of a mile in length, where the valuation has increased $25,000,000 in a little over 10 years. Most of this land has been held by trustees and families who have never improved it or permitted others to improve it, and in most instances the buildings upon this property show a decrease rather than an increase in valuation.

"They hold the property, awaiting an increase in value due to the thrift and enterprise of the people of the community, rather than to any effort on their own part. The big cities in Germany would have taken for the public treasury 33 1-3 percent of the increase every time any part of this property was sold."

Councilman McDevitt of Quincy, a young lady and others asked questions at the close of the address, which provoked much interest.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Registrars of Voters will hold recounts tonight of the Democratic votes cast at the caucus in Ward Four for ward councilmen and ward committee, and of the Republican votes cast in Ward Six for ward councilmen.

From the way the municipal campaign has started off the battle this year will be a right royal one.

In order that Mayor Shea might have a true copy of what was said at the Hobbs rally in Ward Six last Thursday evening a short hand report of the speeches was taken.

It is probable that Mayor Shea will not hold any rallies until late in the campaign when he will make general answer to the statements and arguments made at the Republican rallies held in the meantime.

Councilman McDevitt, who has been nominated as Democratic candidate for Councilman at large, is to take the stump and wage a hot campaign for election. He will attack the votes of some of the present councilmen who are seeking a re-election.

—The latest contribution of Jasper Ewing Brady on the wrecking of the battleship Maine accentuates the necessity for raising the hulk and seeing whether the blow was from without or from within. If from without, there will still be a dilemma to know if the Spaniards or the Cubans were responsible for the calamity; but in that case it will become certain that the wreck was the result of a plo t and was not a mere accident, as many people now maintain. Mr. Brady's charge that the Cubans were back of the blowing-up of the Maine is denied by officers of the navy department, but the curiosity of the American public is aroused not a little by the charge.—Barre Times, Vt.

EXPENSES OF BRIDGES

Quincy Interested in Report of Boston Commission

Boston has no ground for complaint relative to expenses of the Neponset river bridge says Boston's finance commission which has issued a reply to the letter of Mayor Fitzgerald of Sept. 28, in which he called attention to the cost of bridges connecting Boston with other cities and towns, and asking the commission "to consider whether a petition and bill might not be framed and submitted to the legislature at its next session on this subject, so that some system of equitable apportionment, varying to meet the needs of individual cases, may be adopted."

The report says in part:

"The commission believes that Boston has no ground for complaint on account of its expenditures for bridges under the existing arrangements between itself nd Quincy, Milton, Dedham, Brookline, Watertown Cambridge. But Boston is unjustly compelled to bear the entire cost of the Winthrop, Chelsea street, Meridian street and Malden bridges, and practically the entire cost of the Chelsea bridge; and, therefore, it should be provided as soon as possible that the city be relieved of a part of this expense.

Among the recommendations are these:

"2. That said commisioners assess an equitable portion of the cost of reconstruction and repairs of the bridges connecting Boston with Cambridge, Watertown, Milton, Dedham and Quincy upon any street railways having locations on such bridges

"3. That another commission appointed in the same way, apportion between the cities and towns in Suffolk county and such other cities and towns as receive special benefits the expenses hereafter incurred on account of the reconstruction, repair and maintenance of such of the water bridges within the limits of the city of Boston as constitute parts of highways leading from Boston to other cities and towns; and assess upon railroad and street railway corporations having locations thereon an equitable portion of the expenses hereafter incurred on account of the reconstruction and repair of such bridges.

"4. That the legislative act provide that the amount which shall be assessed upon any railroad or street railway corporation as its share of the cost of reconstruction or repair of any bridge which is widened or strengthened to accommodate its cars, shall include the cost of widening or strengthening the bridge for such use."

NEW GRANITE CUTTERS BILL.

The Granite Cutters and Blacksmiths unions have their requests for changes in the existing bill of prices between the union and manufacturers already to forward Dec. 1, the date upon which notice must be given of any desired change. While it has not been made public just what will be asked, is understood that the main thing will be an increase in prices of practically ten percent.

—Mayor Wood of Somerville has vetoed 41 orders this year.

DUST IS FULL OF DISEASE GERMS

How much better you feel when you breathe the crisp pure air after a snow storm—absence of dust the reason—Doctors recommend an ocean voyage for sickly folks—the patient breathes pure ocean air, free from dust and feels better.

Dust is everywhere, especially in your home, in the corners, on the walls, back of pictures, top of mouldings, under sofas—yes everywhere. A broom stirs it up, a carpet sweeper picks up some from the surface but a vacuum cleaner eats up the dust from every nook and corner, from the walls, draperies, mouldings, back of pictures, beneath the carpets, with little work and no trouble. Last week one lady picked up nearly 3 quarts of dust in one room she had thought to be fairly clean.

A vacuum cleaner will keep your home free from dust which is ladened with disease germs. No money you can spend will do so much for your health and comfort in living. We sell the Duntley and Pneu Vac Cleaners $65 to $125. There are additional advantages to you in buying through us. Demonstrations free. Cleaners rented for $2.00 per day electric. $1.50 per day hand power. Time payments for your convienence.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Thanksgiving Day, next Thursday, will be observed by the Daily Ledger as a holiday. No paper will be issued and the office will be closed all day. See Friday paper for holiday and political news.

The kind of man who would rather talk than eat ought to marry a woman who would rather listen than cook.

If Nic Longworth had given away some 40-cent bacon with his free cook books Ohio might have done better.

"A train load of whiskey shipped from Birmingham to Memphis was lost Doubtless it was routed through prohibition Georgia.

To the majority of us the announcement from Washington that spurious $100 bills are in circulation is absolutely immaterial.

Senator Bourne, of Oregon, wants candidates for President nominated by direct vote taken in primaries. Has the Oregon man no respect for the vested interests of the bosses?

The prices on meat have fallen considerably and there is rejoicing in consequence. There are several reasons advanced to explain just why such a thing has happened, but whatever the cause, whether it be the monster corn crop of the country, the accession of the Democrats to power, or as the school girl says: "just because"— it is a blessing and is a very good reason for thanksgiving.

Isn't it about time for you to begin your Christmas shopping? You said last year that you wouldn't get caught again in the bustle and confusion of the holiday rush but would purchase your gifts early and so save time and temper. Well now is the time to start in to buy your Christmas remembrances. The crowds are not so large and you can have a better opportunity to make your selections.

More than all this you will help to lighten the labors of sales people, post office employes, messenger boys, expressmen and last but not least the tired horses who toil early and late on the delivery wagons.

Just a little colder weather and we shall read how reckless persons presumed too much on the strength of thin ice and lost their lives by drowning. It is a sad total that is recorded each winter. Parents should be especially careful when and where they allow their children to skate. In this as in many other things an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. There is no healthier or pleasanter exercise than skating and there is also nothing more dangerous than thin ice. Have a good time but give Jack Frost a good chance at the ponds before you venture on them.

DRIFT OF OPINION

For the thousands upon thousands of American tourists who leave these shores annually for summer tours in Europe, particular interest will attach to the ruling which Secretary MacVeagh is soon to make public, according to Washington advices, on the kind and amount of foreign merchandise a returning American citizen may bring in from abroad free of duty. By the same token, the general interest will be widespread. Under the present law, $100 worth of goods is exempt, but there is the most delightful confusion in listing articles as to just where exemption ends, under this clause, and the levying of duties begins. It may not be feasible to unite upon a hard-and-fast regulation, whereby tourists shall be removed from all doubts in making their purchases. It ought to be easy, however, to fix upon details by which returning tourists may be able to arrive at a reasonaby close conclusion, where today they are more or less completely in the dark. The uncertainty to which the present condition of things has contributed among throngs of returning tourists is being made manifest in more ways than a few. Some people would settle this matter for good and all, by having duty exemptions abolished altogether. They argue that it would then be the duty of inspectors to levy upon everything, no matter how small. This measure would mean collection of revenue upon a multitude of trifles picked up abroad, at a small outlay by individual purchasers, as souvenirs. A tourist might not have more than $50 or $60 worth of small articles, all designed for personal use or for preservation at home as souvenirs of this, that or the other city across the seas. Levying on the total, say at an average rate of forty per cent., would not be a real hardship to the travelers. It would, however, be so akin to "small potatoes" on the part of the government that such an application of the "protection" principle could be counted upon to create feelings better perhaps to be imagined than described. A very large proportion of Americans who join in the throngs of people Europeward are not heavy purchasers of trinkets abroad. In the first place, they "travel light," as the saying is, with dress suit cases or hold-alls. They have not the facilities for lugging along a lot of souvenirs, and the lesson is soon learned that impedimenta are not only a bother in European travel ,but also a decided drawback to comfort. These people are to be numbered by the thousands. They are not smugglers. As long as the government provides for "duty free" goods, they would like to know approximately what articles may be brought in, outside of clothing, within the $100 limit. If Secretary MacVeagh can or will enlighten such people, as well as intending tourists who are to make initial trips, it is safe to say that his ruling will be noted with much keener interest than the stay-at-homes have any idea of.—Salem News.

A decision is said to have been reached by Japan to construct five super-dreadnaughts for her navy within five years at a cost of $40,000,000. An influential paper published at Tokio states that the proposed fortification of the Panama canal is directed against Japan, and hence the increase in her navy. The fortification of the canal is not directed against any foreign power, but is a defensive movement for the protection of the interests of the United States, the monetary investment in the canal which our country cannot afford to have destroyed, and the preservation of the American right of way against all others that might wish to secure control of it. If Japan is to build five great warships because of the fortification of the canal, then there is reason for the action of our government, and also for making the defensive works as strong as it is possible for modern science to devise. On Oct. 15, a Japanese Dreadnaught of 20,000 tons was launched in the presence of the emperor and 50,000 of his subjects. Japan is ambitious to have the largest and best navy in the world, and she is not alone in this desire. What Japan is determined to be ready to do makes it imperative on the part of other powers to be prepared to meet any emergency that Japan may force upon them. The diarmament of the nations still continues to be classed as an iridescent dream.—Old Colony Memorial.

The Boston Globe properly protests against the growing use of a "cap" V where U is the right letter to employ, in carved and painted signs, printing and the like. Whether this practice is more common in Boston than in New York or other big cities one cannot say, but wherever the substitution is noted it "riles" the observer who has a taste for the fitness of things. As the Globe says, it is only a stupid and ignorant affectation. In New York this wretched perversion of letters is criticised as a novelty, but the carved stone over the door of one great block reads "ST. JAMES BVILDING," and that was put up many years ago. It is better to use U in these days, no matter what the Romans did.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

SAVINGS BANK INSURANCE.

The insurance departments of the Whitman and Brockton banks completed on Oct. 31st their second year of operation. Some advance figures from these banks reports furnish an indication of the growth and permanence of this movement for Savings Bank Life Insurance. The premium income of the two banks for the year just ended was $55,318.01 as against a premium income of $25,586.39 for the year ended Oct. 31, 1909, recording a striking increase in the second year of operation of Savings Bank Life Insurance of 116 per cent in the premium income over the premium income of the first year.

ANOTHER ARREST.

A young man answering to the name of Abraham Foss was arrested in East Boston on Sunday for Inspector McKay, by whom he was wanted for breaking and entering the clothing store of Payson-Mitchell Co., in Quincy, on the night of Sept. 29. Some weeks ago Inspector McKay and a Boston Inspector traced a gang of young men to a room on Warrington street, Boston, when the officers made a raid on the gang. When they entered the room four men were found. One, who it is claimed was Foss, jumped from the third story window and escaped. The other three, William J. Mullen, W. F. Conway and Frank Finn were arrested.

At that time a large quantity of clothing stolen from the store was found in the room. Some of the men were also wearing parts of the clothing. They were convicted in the district court and held for the grand jury. Ever since that time the police have been on the lookout for the man who got away. For reasons best known to themselves, the police believe Foss to be the man wanted. He succeeded in keeping out of sight for a time; then becoming more brave showed himself, and was pinched. He was arraigned in the Quincy court.

BIG G. A. R. CAMPFIRE.

Several Quincy Grand Army men attended the enthusiastic Faneuil Hall reception on Saturday evening to Commander-in-Chief John E. Gilman, held under the auspices of Thomas G. Stevenson Post of Roxbury. About 1500 were present, and as their average age was about 60, the aggregate of years was nearly 100,000 which has never been excelled at Faneuil hall. The campfire opened with the drooping of the colors on the platform, a beautiful ceremony in which all of the posts were represented. There were adresses by the commander-in-chief and other guests and music by the Lotus Male Quartet, "Olin's Gang" Post 26 Band and Gideon's Band of Post 36, Arlington.

WATERWAY CONGRESS.

The seventh convention of the National rivers and harbors congress, which will be held in Washington Dec. 7, 8 and 9 next, it is expected will bring together the largest gathering of waterway enthusiasts ever assembled in this country.

Pres. Taft will deliver the opening address. Probably next in importance will be the speech of Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio, who has for years been a close student of the question of improved waterways.

Others to deliver adresses are Hon. Clifton Sefton chairman of conservation of Canadian government; the Mexican ambassador; Gen. W. H. Bixby, chief of engineers; Gov. Horace White of New York; Representative Champ Clark of Missouri; Col. William L. Sibert, member of the Panama canal commission; Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City; F. W. Crandall, national chairman railroad committee Travelers' protective association of America; Robert J. MacFarland of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Hoyle Tomkies of Louisiana, president of the Woman's national rivers and harbors congress.

Four thousand delegates attended the convention held in Washington last year, and according to Sec. J. F. Ellison of Cincinnati, who opened his headquarters today, this number will be greatly augmented at the forthcoming convention.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

A splendid repertoire is offered for the third week of the second season of grand opera at the Boston Opera House. Puccini's "Tosca" will be the opera to be given on Monday night, Nov. 21st. Carmen Felis will repeat her excellent impersonation of Floria Tosca. Florencio Constantino will sing the role of Mario Cavaradossi. The world famous French baritone Maurice Renaud will make his debut with the Boston Opera Company and will sing Scarpia. "Otello" will be repeated on Wednesday evening Nov. 23d with the Czech tenor Leo Slezak in the title role. The eminent Russian baritone George Baklanoff will sing the role of Iago. Frances Alda will repeat her excellent singing of the role of Desdemona and Florence Wickham of the Metropolitan Opera will sing Emilia. The spanish basso, Jose Mardones will sing Lodovico. Friday night Nov. 25th, will mark the reappearance in this country of Mme. Lillian Nordica, the greatest American dramatic soprano. She will appear in the title role of Ponchielli's opera "La Gioconda." The performance will start at 7.45. Florencio Constantino, the popular tenor will sing Enzo. "Il Trovatore" in Italian by Verdi will be the opera presented for the Saturday matinee with Slezak as Menrico. Galeffi as Count de Luna, Marie Villani of the Metropolitan Opera will make her debut as Leonora. The popular performance on Saturday night Nov. 26th will be a repetition of Gounod's "Faust" with Mme. Frances Alda as Marguerite.

HE MUST FIGHT OR SURRENDER

Lodge's Withdrawal From Senate Is Demanded by Foss

LATTER WILL TAKE STUMP

Says He Intends to Find Out Where People Stand on the Question—Asserts That His Election to Governorship Was a Repudiation of Lodge—Will Not Permit Him Longer to "Manipulate the Legislature"

Boston, Nov. 21.—Governor-elect Eugene N. Foss last night issued a remarkable political statement to the voters of Massachusetts, in which he says:

In the name of the majority of the sovereign people of the commonwealth of Massachusetts I demand that Henry Cabot Lodge surrender his seat in the United States senate by withdrawing from his contest for re-election. If he does not know that he has been "licked to a frazzle" some friend had better tell him.

His election to the senate would be a repudiation of the great victory of the people at the last election. He was on trial as much if not more than Governor Draper, and if he had been the candidate my majority would have been double what it was.

The issues on which the fight was made, on which I was elected, were honest tariff revision downward, lower duties on the necessaries of life, free raw materials, an untaxed food supply, reciprocity with Canada, and more Democracy in our form of government.

Where does Senator Lodge stand upon these issues? We al know where he stands and where he has stood all these years. To re-elect him would be a step backward, and Massachusetts has never learned to walk backwards.

I shall never sign his credentials except at the end of a campaign which will make the last one look life an afternoon tea party. He must surrender or fight. He must defend his position before the people. The people of Massachusetts will not permit him longer to manipulate the legislature. I am ready and if he does not retire will be on the stump in every section of the state, and we will find out where the people stand.

Senator Lodge is not in touch with the new order of things, with the progressive spirit of the times. He doesn't represent the people.

I do not deny Senator Lodge's ability, but only regret that he has seen fit to employ his talents in the wrong direction. For he has drifted away from policies that brought him in touch with the people and has thrown his powerful influence in favor of the trusts and special interests, until he has ceased to be a representative of the people, has ignored their wishes and has turned a deaf ear to their needs.

I will not sit quietly and see the work of years thrown absolutely away while Senator Lodge tries to manipulate his election, trusting to his superior skill in playing the game to force a victory against the desires of the people. The people voted overwhelmingly for the priniciples I stand for, but that victory would be rendered absolutely void and worthless should Senator Lodge, who opposed the legislation the people voted for, be sent back to the United States senate to work and vote against the relief the people have demanded.

If Senator Lodge will meet the issues and defend his course he will be given the opportunity, for unless he withdraws I shall start at once on a state wide campaign, going into the cities and towns and holding meetings where I will discuss his official acts, his votes, his known and admitted position on the questions on which the people have already voiced their opinion.

The people will be given an opportunity in public mass meetings to voice their sentiments. The case will be referred to them. Their verdict will be made known to the legislature and I have no doubt as to the outcome.

The people of the state, if they indicated anything by their votes, indicated their wish that Senator Lodge retire. Their action was a repudiation of Senator Lodge and the tariff for which he was so strongly responsible. Shall the Lodge machine in defiance of that expression of opinion of the people be permitted to force through the election of Senator Lodge?

This is the issue and I am ready to meet it. I am unwilling that the work for tariff revision, lower cost of living and Canadian reciprocity and better government shall be hampered and delayed by Senator Lodge, who, if re-elected, would become the head and front of the ultra-high protective, reactionary movement.

Senator Lodge must either get out of his own accord or be forced out by the positive demand of the people. He must not be returned to the senate. I earnestly hope that the legislators will not commit themselves to any part of the legislative program until public opinion has thus had a full expression.

THANKSGIVING IN PLYMOUTH COLONY.

They had left the dear old home with its green hedge rows and ivy covered buildings for a strange, barren land across the water. Their first view of the chosen home land came in a storm, but if the waves dashing upon the rocky shore gave them a twinge of homesickness there was no outward sign. These 102 Pilgrims had not taken the wearisome journey for a mere whim. A religious principle was at stake and for this they were willing to live or to die as might be their lot.

In the chill winds of the new country they built their homes. The new land brought them sickness and the winter was drear indeed, for Death stalked grimly among them laying his hand relentlessly to the right and left until he had taken forty-six of their little band. With hunger, sickness and death in their midst, it would have been little wonder if the half hundred survivors had boarded the Mayflower when it left in April on its return voyage to England.

But each of these bereaved ones had buried some dear one and they felt they must stay and live for the principles for which their loved ones had died. To hide the mounds from the sharp eyes of the Indians, who must never suspect how depleted the colony had become, they planted corn over the graves. The warm days were a relief and when the May flowers peeped up from hidden nooks and the trees burst into leaf the new country seemed less unlike old England. Men, women and children toiled unceasingly through the spring and summer and in their sowing and reaping they prospered.

Then did Gov. Bradford think it meet that they should set aside several days to be spent in thanking God for their blessings. So he issued a Thanksgiving proclamation and bade Massasoit, the Indian friend of the colonists, to the feast which should form a part of the Thanksgiving celebration.

The woods furnished food in plenty and thither did all the young men and boys go to hunt for wild turkeys, fish, clams, fruits and nuts. While the men were busily engaged in scouring the country the good cooks from the seven Plymouth households gathered in Dame Brewster's great kitchen and prepared food for the three days' feast.

There was much merry badinage among the Pilgrim dames and maidens yet with all their fun the eyes often overflowed with tears in memory of the absent dear ones whom some word or thought had called to mind. Dame Brewster in her energetic way superintended the stewing and brewing and baking. Priscilla Mullin was at her right hand with a ready smile and a quick reply to every sally. There was no greater favorite in the village than this tall Pilgrim maiden so dainty to look upon and of such ready wit. Little wonder that the two leading men of the colony sought her as their wife.

Early on the first day appointed for the celebration, Massasoit and ninety of his tribe with a great noise approached the Plymouth colony, bringing with them deer, wild fowl and oysters. This was the introduction of oysters to the colonists, and the first New England cooks were forced to make their own recipes for the dish. The oysters were eaten with a relish, and ever since have been a favorite food in America.

Good things were in abundance during all this festive period, but on the last day, which fell on Saturday, came the real Thanksgiving dinner. The Pilgrims sat at one table, the savages at another. After a lengthy prayer by Elder Brewster the company sat down to as abundant and savory a feast as ever graced a Thanksgiving board. There were roast turkeys dressed with beech nuts, venison stews served with dumpings, meat pasties and roasts of all kinds, oysters, broiled fish, clam chowder, soups, salads, cakes, wild fruits and nuts. Blessed they felt themselves to be and in the weary winter which followed these brave men and women looked back many times to the glad days of the Thanksgiving feast.

But God had led them in the past. He was with them in the present, and with hopeful, courageous hearts they gave the future into His keeping as they made merry over the first Thanksgiving dinner spread in the wild woods of America on that bright Indian summer day so long ago.

You'll have no trouble buying Lenox Soap.

Nearly every grocer sells it.

You'll have very little trouble keeping things clean after you've bought Lenox Soap.

In price, size, shape, quality, it suits the majority of women better than any other soap.

Lenox Soap— "Just fits the hand"

WE wish to call the attention of our customers and to the buying Public of Quincy and surrounding towns, that after a careful inspection and comparison, we consider that, taking the quality and genuine value of our goods, that we are the lowest priced store in Massachusetts.

Now, this may seem to be a broad statement to some people but we stand ready to PROVE our statement. We claim that no where in Quincy or any part of Massachusetts, do they sell better QUALITY or do they charge lower prices for the same QUALITY of goods than we do. We have been noted for years for the QUALITY of the goods we sell, and are ever ready to make good when the goods are not just as represented, and nowhere can you get such a guarantee of Quality. You all know that there is a certain value to High Quality Provisions as well as other commodities that you use; and when you go along the street and read the advertisements of different dealers who are selling you something at a ridiculously low price, you can depend upon it that you are surely buying a gold brick, for you cannot buy something that is absolutely worth thirty cents for fifteen cents and expect Quality any more than you can buy a three thousand dollar automobile for fifteen hundred and expect it to be just as good.

Now we have posted ourselves on the different grades of the other dealers and we say once more that we are the lowest priced Quality Store in Quincy or Massachusetts, and we ask you, if you want proof, to call and compare our goods and prices with what you are paying.

Just now the market has eased off considerably and we were one of the first dealers to give our customers the benefit, showing you that we are WITH the people, our customers, at all times.

Thanksgiving will be here soon and we wish to inform our customers that we shall have a grand display of DELICIOUS fresh Goods for the trade. No cheap trash, but fresh, wholesome, clean stock—the only kind FIT TO BUY, TO EAT, and the prices will be hammered down just as hard as possible for them to be and for us to live; so,we invite you to our store, where you can see that our statements are all absolutely true in every respect.

Space will not permit us to quote at length our prices but below will be found the prices of a few things that we know to be of more than special value.

QUEEN LOUISE FLOUR at 90c a bag

We ask you to use some of this flour and if you do not find it to be the best you ever used, return the empty bag to us and receive your money back. This is the guarantee that goes with the FLOUR.

We sell the famous La Touraine Coffee for 35c a pound. The EQUAL of any 40c coffee on the Market.

With each pound of La Touraine Coffee we give FREE any 5c bar of soap you wish.

Our line of Teas are the BEST in Quincy, carefully selected and chosen to suit the heavy and light tea tastes of our customers. One special Tea at 60c we wish to call your attention to, a regular $1.00 Quality. Try some.

Our Market—always the best, always the LOWEST PRICED and the VERY HIGHEST QUALITY. This part of our large business speaks for itself. It needs no debate, as it is in a class all by itself; but of one thing you may be sure, considering the Quality, we are surely cutting the prices on GOOD SUBSTANTIAL CORN FED BEEF.

We have our prices on MEAT on our price Board in plain sight of every one who enters our store, and all we ask is, compare Quality and then compare Prices, and you will see that we are not selling you NOTHING for SOMETHING, but for every penny you spend with us, you get your penny's worth in return, in WEIGHT and MEASURE and QUALITY, to say nothing of HEALTH and HAPPINESS in your HOME because a poor QUALITY of cheap meats never promotes HEALTH and therefore little HAPPINESS.

Inspect our poultry department, before you buy elsewhere and see what a splendid line of fresh killed chicken—fowl and turkeys we have to offer, and we will guarantee that the prices will be cut as close as it is possible to cut them, for we wish to sell every one a Thanksgiving Turkey or Chicken. Once again we invite you to our Store to inspect our goods and prices.

ACTIVITY IN CHURCHES

Several Thanksgiving Services to be Held Thursday

Union services will be held on Thanksgiving day both at Quincy and Wollaston, the former at 10 A. M. at Bethany Congregational church, and the latter at 5 P. M. at the Unitarian church. It is proposed to limit the Quincy service to one hour.

Three excellent addresses are promised, one on the "New England Home" by Miss Edith Randall of this city; then an address on "The Community Thanksgiving" by Albert L. Barbour, Superintendent of the Quincy schools; and lastly, "Religion and Community Needs" by Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector of Christ church. Madame Ellen Beale Morey will preside at the organ.

At the union service at Wollaston Rev. Wesley Wiggin of the Methodist church will deliver the sermon, and other clergymen of Wollaston will take part.

Thanksgiving services will also be held at Christ church at 9 A. M., a holy communion; and at St. Chrysostoms at 10 A. M., morning prayer and address. The choirs of these two churches will unite in presenting the cantata "The Beautiful Giver" at Christ church on Friday evening.

The Swedish churches of the city will hold a union Thanksgiving service at 10.30 A. M. on the holiday at the Swedish Baptist church at Brewers Corner.

FIRST CHURCH.

The annual harvest festival of the Sunday school of the First church was held Sunday afternoon in the chapel. It was largely attended by the parents and friends of the school. The children brought offerings of vegetables which were arranged on the platform. These will be distributed among the needy for Thanksgiving. The offering taken during the concert will be expended in the purchase of meats which will be distributed among the worthy people before Thanksgiving day. The concert which was an entertaining one opened with a reading of a Thanksgiving verse by Superintendent Charles H. Johnson. There was singing of hymns and psalms by the school, the reading of Gov. Draper's Thanksgiving proclamation by the superintendent, and recitations by John Lane, Miss Natalie Saville, Miss Florence Mead, Frank Johnson, Miss Eleanor Gow, Floyd McDonald, George Wexler and a reading entitled "Polly's Thanksgiving" by Miss Ruth Packard.

The morning church service was well attended, a Thanksgiving sermon being preached by the pastor, Rev. Ellery Channing Butler.

HALL PLACE M. E.

"Why do we invite persons to unite with the church?" was the question on which the pastor of the Hall Place M. E. church based his talk Sunday morning, at the close of which he received twenty-two persons into the church on probation.

Sunday school was held at the close of the morning service, and Junior League at 3 P. M.

At 6 P. M. Dr. John Galbraith, district superintendent, held the quarterly conference in the vestry. The text for the evening service was taken from 1st Cor. 1-9—"For we are laborers together with God." The district superintendent preached a helpful sermon along this line. At the close of the evening service, the Epworth League held their usual devotional service, which was lead by Joseph M. Francis, the topic being "Taking men."

Prayer meeting will be held Friday evening at 7.30.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

Dr. Hardy spoke at the morning service on the subject: "The Puritan spirit." There was a large audience at the meeting to enjoy the excellent sermon.

The Christian Endeavor meeting was especially good. Miss Winnifred White sang a solo and Rev. A. M. Gardner of London spoke. Most of the Endeavorers got back from the Young People's rally in Tremont temple in time to attend the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting. Madame Morey's playing inspired the young people to sing with greater spirit than usual.

The evening service was attended by a very large audience. Rev. A. M. Gardner spoke on the "World in Boston" and held the audience all the way through his address. The Boys' choir sang several selections.

The church choir concert will be given in the auditorium this evening. A rare musical treat is promised those who attend.

The union Thanksgiving service will be held in the auditorium, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. All the people in Quincy are invited to join in and make this service a helpful one.

FIRST UNIVERSALIST.

At the Universalist church on Sunday an interesting and appreciative Thanksgiving sermon was given by Rev. M. P. Burnell of Mansfield. In the Sunday school preparations were made by the annual Christmas concert.

The Mission circle is meeting this afternoon with Mrs. Frank A. Hobart of Mill street.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

The pastor spoke at the morning service upon the theme—"After the loss of love shall we be judged on the day of judgment." The church choir sang two beautiful anthems.

Sunday school was largely attended. Preliminary preparations for the Christmas concert were made by the teachers.

At the evening service the pastor spoke on the subject: "Be good."

A Thanksgiving meeting will be held in the church Thursday evening. A literary and musical program will be given followed by an address by the pastor.

The pastor baptized the child of John Johnson of 183 Villa street, West Quincy, Sunday afternoon.

The Boston district conference of Lutheran churches will be held in Lowell this week Tuesday and Wednesday. Rev. S. N. Elvin, the pastor of the Quincy church, will give an address Wednesday afternoon. His subject will be: "Faith and Reason."

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

The pastor took his text for Sunday morning from Romans 1:16—"I am not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ."

Sunday school and Men's league were well attended.

The evening address was one of the series on the life of Joseph, "Joseph made known to his brethren" was the topic for last evening.

The Teachers' Bible class will meet with John Russell on Wednesday evening.

A Thanksgiving service will be held in the church, Thursday evening the pastor will deliver a timely address.

The Y. P. S. C. E. had their Thanksgiving service Sunday evening. Topic: "How does God want to be thanked."

CALVARY BAPTIST.

Rev. James E. Matheson of the First Presbyterian church preached at the morning service on the subject: "Lost service." There was a large audience representing both churches. Mr. Farquhar and Mrs. Davis sang a very pleasing duet.

The Davis men's class was taught by Mr. Matheson. Five new members were welcomed at the meeting.

At the evening service the pastor gave his third special address to young men: "A young man's question and its answer." A ladies' trio rendered several selections very acceptably. An especially large audience came out for the meeting.

The Bible study class will meet Tuesday evening at the manse instead of at Mrs. Horton's as was previously announced.

A Thanksgiving prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening at the usual prayer meeting hour.

SWEDISH METHODIST.

Rev. Carl E. Rydstrom, the pastor, preached at the morning service taking for his subject: "When the sinner and God meet." Texts: Mark 5:6, and Luke 15:20.

A large number of children as well as older people were present at the Sunday school service which was conducted by William Gelotte.

The Epworth League meeting was led by Yule Kjellander.

In the evening the pastor took for his text Daniel 5:27, "He was weighed in the balance and found wanting." Miss Olga Olson sang two very beduiful solos. A large audience was present at the service.

The Thursday evening prayer meeting will be omitted this week on account of the union service with the Congregational and Baptist churches. The pastor will be one of the speakers.

The monthly business meeting and social of the Epworth League will be held Friday evening. Refreshments will be served.

There will be an auction sale of the things left from the bazaar, Saturday evening at 7.45. Refreshments will be served to all who attend.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

Rev. Carl G. Horst took as the subject for his Sunday morning sermon "Liberty and Law," saying in part:—Liberty is nothing, in itself, it is a condition, an opportunty to be and to do our best, and law is the principal which allows it, the necessary condition which makes liberty safe.

A free country is one in which every man has equal opportunity to be his best self, to which end the prosperous and able are taxed to support schools and good institutions, that those less fortunate as to financial means and natural ability may be put in touch with the ways of life which elevate and ennoble.

The savage recognizes natural forces as terrible foes because not comprehensible. Civilized man knows God's laws are always reliable and trustworthy, and having appreciated this he harnesses the forces and makes them serve him in all departments of life. The fear of the ignorant becomes in the intelligent a recogntion of opportunity and not a menace.

Moral laws scrupulously obeyed become an equipment and endowment, not a restriction to the best life of man.

The good man is unconscious of any restriction, his inborn love of liberty, developing under the reign of law, gives him the sense of freedom, and strength comes from knowledge. Closely following knowledge of the laws that govern us in the mental and spiritual as well as inthe physical realms, comes obedience, and so the secret of the life of joy and peace and well- being lies in the intelligent adjustment of the life of freedom to the laws which govern all development.

WOLLASTON M. E.

Rev. John Galbraith, D. D., held quarterly conference Sunday morning at the Wollaston M. E. church. The text of his sermon was from 1st Corinthian 3:9—"For we are laborers together with God." He endeavored to show that each had his own work that no one else could do, and this together with God could accomplish much. It was a sermon well worth listening to.

George H. Doggett of Mattapan, first vice president of the Boston district was the leader of the Epworth League meeting and was assisted by Mr. Stone of Waltham, a gospel singer.

This church will unite in the union service on Thanksgiving day at 5 P. M. at the Unitarian church.

The prayer meeting will be held as usual on Friday evening.

A box has been placed in the rear of the church auditorium for contributions to help the Sunday school at Christmas time. Everybody is invited to contribute.

The district Sunday School association will meet Tuesday, Dec. 6, at East Weymouth.

Rev. Carl H. Raupach of the West Quincy church will preach at the Wollaston M. E. church next Sunday morning, and Mrs. Charles Parkhurst of Somerville will speak Sunday evening on missionary work.

HOW TO SERVE COUNTRY

Vote as Free Man for the Best Man

Editors of Daily Ledger:

In a recent issue of one of the dailies, attention was called to the fact that the special interest in air ships, automobiles, and election, being over the human mind could be occupied along other lines. We are living in an age of evolution; we are always trying to improve existing conditions, and to establish new and better ones. We are always experimenting, always looking for something new, something better, not only in the way of invention, but also in the way of how to govern ourselves. Most of us are ambitious in our own peculiar way, which all tends to hasten the progress of the world.

The recent election has brought many things to our mind. We cannot help but recognize the fact that the American people have begun to wake up; we are trying experiments in politics which also shows that we are becoming more and more educated. The ignorant man never experiments, because he dares not. He can be led like a lamb to his own destruction, and the last man that speaks to him, can convince him to follow, and he groans under the burden of his own existence.

This is the class of men that some politicians like because they can boss them, but they are apparently becoming less in numbers. The man that the two great parties will run up against in the future is the man that uses his brains, the man that wants to reason, and wants to know why a thing is so, and does not think he knows so much but what he can learn some more.

These are the kind of men who are going to purify politics; these are the free and independent men whom the American Constitution declare are the best citizens. Humanity has moved along narrow lines, but the lines are becoming wider and wider until a man will be considered for what he really is, regardless of creed, nationality and political affiliations.

The main question is this; Is the man who seeks a position in the gift of the people going to be their servant or their master? Which? The more the people reason for themselves, the less of a master he is going to be, and the result will be good for many. Whenever the few are conspiring for the purpose of deceiving the many, corruption and destruction will always follow.

If you are a man that feels the tingling of manhood in your veins, and whose highest ambition is to do every man right, never be afraid to express your opinion. The world needs it. I know men working in stone-sheds, quarries, factories and the streets, who have more common sense than some who have the title "Honorable" attached to their names. It is a great thing for us to educate ourselves. No one is so insignificant but what he has some good opinion, and we want to know it.

Remember that nearly all really great men who have made the world better because they have lived in it, have come from the common people, and we have more of them today than at any other time, and education is the cause. All tyrants have feared the education of the people, and the corrupt politician of today fear the intelligence of the American public.

Did you notice the carefully planned speeches made in the last State election? Quite different from what they used to be twelve or fifteen years ago.

We have been treated to something new this fall, or rather the old thing with a new name, namely, the high cost of living. Economy has always been the contention between the political parties, and to keep them in a position so as to make them fear each other's, can have nothing but a good result. But who is it that keeps them in this position. Not the absolute Republican and Democrat; it is the free, independent and intelligent American citizen, the men who are willing to set aside party lines when the welfare of the public is concerned.

I do not say that these dyed in the wool Republicans and Democrats are not honest and intelligent; I only say that at times they are a little too set in their principles, and some of them are absolutely corrupt. Whenever a few men of two or more parties secretly conspire to hold down the public positions of any community, state or nation, then there is danger, because it is a hard combination to break, and if allowed to continue for any length of time, it becomes a menace to the common good.

If you are a free man, and your vote does not belong to anyone but yourself, and if you appreciate the privilege given you by the American Constitution, study things, educate yourself, look at things as they really are, condemn no man without good cause, and vote for the man you think will give the best service to the most people. By so doing, you will serve your country, and you will stand among that class of men who have saved every nation that could be saved.

To this I may add the advice given by a dying king of Sweden to his son. Be gracious to thy inferiors; trust all men fairly, but only entirely when thou hast learned to know them. That son behaved so well, that his most bitter enemy respected him.

Oscar F. Frisk.

During the first month of Delia's service in her new place there was nothing but praise for her good qualities. But one evening the mistress, on entering the kitchen suddenly, discovered the traditional "cousin" hidden in one of the closets. "How is this Delia—a man here?"

"Troth, ma'am, I don't know what to make of it. Shure he must have been forgotten by the cook that was here before."

BRAINTREE

Freeman S. Arnold of Albany, N. Y., is the guest of his sister Mrs. J. Franklin Bates, Washington street.

The Guild of St. Mary of Emmanuel church will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Hobart 691 Washington street, Wednesday, Nov. 23.

Miss Ethel Blanchard of 26 Adams street has been confined to her home the past week with a severe attack of neuralgia.

Miss Eunice Lothrop of Boston, formerly of Braintree, was the guest of Miss Hildegarde Dearing of Washington street, on Wednesday.

Miss Ethel Babcock of Sampson avenue had a party on Tuesday in observance of her eighteenth birthday. About twelve of her friends were present and a good time was enjoyed.

A bowling ball will be given at the Cochato club to the lady and to the gentleman rolling the three highest strings over the official rating on Thanksgiving day.

Eben Prescott of Middle street returned Tuesday from a short visit in Concord, N. H. The boys there were enjoying skating on shallow ponds and the mountains were covered with snow.

Mrs. Jacobs, grand chief of the Pythian Sisters, will address the ladies connected with Monatiquot lodge, Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 30, at Pythian hall and it is hoped that a large number will attend for the purpose of forming a Pythian temple here.

The regular monthly meeting of the Penniman School Association was held Tuesday evening at the school building Mr. G. H. Holbrook, president, in the chair. Committees were appointed for the December, January and February meetings. Mr. H. A. Rhoades, who went with the bankers on their trip to the Pacific coast accompanied by Mrs. Rhoades, Mrs. G. E. Williams and Mrs. F. K. Patch, gave a very interesting account of their trip. There were nearly 450 gentlemen and ladies in the party and four special trains were at their command. The party from Boston left here on August 24 and returned Sept. 22. Mr. Rhoades discription of San Francisco, before and after the earthquake and fire, was very interesting. He was given a vote of thanks for his instructive impromtu lecture. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 22.

EAST BRAINTREE.

Mrs. B. J. Loring of Front street, assistant inspector of the department of Massachusetts W. R. C. inspected corps of West Hanover, Nov. 16.

Mrs. Eliza Ludden of Front street is making a three weeks visit at Bridgewater to her daughter Mrs. Brown.

Negotiations are in progress for a reproduction of "The Man from Kokomo" in the Jonas Pekins school hall and it is quite probable that our people will have a chance to see that brilliant production at an early date.

The union Thanksgiving service of the protestant churches of Weymouth and East Braintree wil be held in the Baptist church of Weymouth on Wednesday evening, Nov. 23d, at 7.30 o'clock. Rev. Rufus H. Dix, pastor of the Universalist church of Weymouth will preach the Thanksgiving sermon. The public is cordially invited.

The Braintree Teachers' Association began its year's meetings Wednesday evening with a party at the Jonas Perkins school hall. The first part of the evening was given to guessing the names of prominent people pined to the backs of the guests. This afforded a good deal of fun and enjoyment. Next followed games and dancing. During the evening light refreshments of fruit punch and crackers were served. A delightful program has been arranged by the executive committee for the winter and contains meetings both instructive and social.

OUR THANKSGIVING.

William Brunton.

How many times the heart is glad,
Yet sings no song;
How many times when we are sad,
We give it tongue;
But here and now arrives the day
When every man his thanks should say!

O yes, we thank the dear, good God,
For all we own;
For life and love, for pathway trod,
And mercies shown;
For fall of snow and flowers of May,
And celebrate Thanksgiving day!

Miss Olive Wentworth of Brockton is making an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wentworth of Liberty street.

Past Commander, William H. Paine has been appointed an inspector of Sons of Veterans camps and has been recently assigned those of Milton and Stoughton.

The Krow Eldeen Society will meet with Mrs. Sadie Cook, 60 Central avenue Tuesday evening. Fred W. Calkins and George S. Lewis of Melrose will speak on "The Story of a Book." A large attendance is desired.

Quite a number of the members of the Old Colony Driving club are making plans to visit Madison square gardens, New York, during Thanksgiving week for the purpose of attending the Old Glory sale of horses.

Quite a number of local musicians are making plans to start a brass band in this locality in the near future. Considerable interest has been awakened and plans are being perfected for the organization.

Superintendent of schools, Ralph L. Wiggin, has made arrangements that hereafter scholars will be notified of afternoon sessions on stormy days by the sounding of the fire alrm. Up to this time the signal in the morning has governed the day.

George Pike has sold the house on Division street, which he remodeled from the old building that stood so long at the end of the line on Washington street, and was then moved to its present position. Edward H. Sands is the purchaser and he has already moved in with his family.

Joseph E. Hayden of Pearl street has been appointed division inspector of the Sons of Veterans to inspect several local camps. He has also been selected as division aid and assigned to the new camp at Avon and has been delegated to assist in organizing a new camp at South Weymouth. Friday evening, he inspected the John L. BRIEFS

City Council this evening.

No Ledger on Thanksgiving day.

Gentlemen's night tonight of the Quincy Catholic club.

About 20 degrees temperature at sunrise, the lowest of the season.

Mrs. J. Ginns and son of Bay View spent the week end with relatives in West Quincy.

Quincy High certainly put up a great game of football against Dorchester on Saturday.

The Daily Ledger will soon issue an edition of 5,000 extra papers which will be distributed free.

The Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor will hold its annual masquerade party Wednesday evening.

The choir of Bethany church will be assisted at its concert this evening by a quartet, a pianist and the boys vested choir.

It is more than probable that the street loan orders will be given some attention at tonight's meeting of the City Council.

Please send the Daily Ledger the names of your Thanksgiving guests, especially if they were former residents of the city. Our telephone is 425 Quincy.

CAR CREW HELD

Fatal Accident Said to Be Due to Disobedience of Orders

Northboro, Mass., Nov. 21.—Charged with manslaughter, George H. Stewart and Fred C. Reynolds, conductor and motorman respectively of one of the trolley cars which figured in the collision of last Thursday near here, in which James H. Mansfield, motorman of the other car, was killed, were arrested Sunday. They were admitted to bail in bonds of $1000.

Stewart and Columbia manned a car bound from Worcester to Marlboro, which should have met Mansfield's Worcester bound car at a turnout just outside this town. The two cars collided beyond the turnout.

Officials of the Worcester Consolidated railway, whose cars were concerned, charged Stewart and Columbia with responsibility for the accident in not having waited at the switch.

Many Middies Have Typhoid

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 21.—Typhoid continues to increase among the midshipmen at the naval academy. Eight additional cases were taken from the midshipmen's sick bay to the naval hospital, making the total number of midshipmen who now suffer from the malady twenty.

DEATH OF HENRY HOYT

He Achieved Bright Record In the Department of Justice

Washington, Nov. 21.—Henry M. Hoyt, councillor for the department of state, died at his home here from peritonitis. He was taken ill in Canada while there relative to the reciprocity negotiations between the United States and that country. Since his return to Washington last Monday he had been confined to his home.

In the death chamber when he died besides his physicians were the wife, son and daughter of the deceased.

Mr. Hoyd was the strong right arm of Philander C. Knox when the latter was attorney general. When Knox became secretary of state he lost no time in obtaining the transfer of Hoyt from the department of justice to his department.

His record of service in the department of justice is a bright one. He was closely associated with the attorney general in the prosecution of many of the cases involving attack upon the great corporate violators of the anti-trust law.

SEASON'S FOOTBALL DEATHS

They Number Twenty-Two, With About Five Hundred Injured

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The American football players' annual contest with death is now drawing near to its close. Last year the number of players killed on the football field or dying after a lingering illness from injuries totalled thirty. This year the number of dead is twenty-two.

It would seem from these figures the inauguration of the new rules had made the game approximately one-third less dangerous than it was a year ago. But a comparison of the number of deaths in the two years is not conclusive on this point.

Compilation of the number of injured this year shows a total of 499. Last year the number of injured was only 216.

BRIAND STRUCK IN FACE BY ROYALIST

Police Save Assailant From Death at Hands of Crowd

Paris, Nov. 21.—Imposing national ceremonies in the Tuileries Garden in the dedication of a statue erected to the memory of Jules Ferry, the French statesman, were marred by an assault upon Premier Briand, who, while walking with President Fallieres, was struck twice in the face by a Royalist. The premier was not seriously hurt.

The vast crowd which had gathered in the garden set upon the premier's assailant and only determined intervention by the Republican guards saved him from being beaten to death.

The man was taken before a magistrate and gave the name of Lacour. He was a member of the executive committee of the "Camelots du Roi," an organization of young Royalists, and said that he wished to strike at the republic in the person of Briand.

MARRIED BUT THREE WEEKS

Nashua Man Shoots His Wife and Ends Own Life With Revolver

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 21.—After shooting his wife, Arthur L. Morphey, aged 30 years, employed as a shipping clerk in a local business house, turned his revolver on himself, aiming at his heart. He died almost instantly. Mrs. Morphey will recover. Jealousy is said to have been the cause of the shooting.

The couple had been married but three weeks. Mrs. Morphey was Lillian Leroy, an actress, 18 years of age, whom Morphey met in Philadelphia. Her desire to return to the footlights is said to have actuated her husband to try to kill her and then commit suicide.

HAD NO WARNING

New York Man Is Stricken Stone Blind While He Sleeps

New York, Nov. 21.—Without previous illness or symptoms of any kind to warn him, August Soops, 45 years old, living at 1503 Commonwealth avenue, the Bronx, awakened from perfectly normal sleep to find himself stone blind.

Although a bookkeeper for many years, he had never suffered eyestrain and had never worn glasses or felt the need of them.

A physician's examination resulted in nothing to give Soops a hope that his eyesight would be restored.

Moterman Instantly Killed

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 21.—Harvey B. Cronckite, 23 years old, a motorman, was instantly killed when he jumped from a trolley directly in the path of an oncoming car. The accident happened directly in front of Cronckite's home, to which he was returning after his day's work.

LIPS OF JURORS ARE UNSEALED

Tell About Testimony Given In the Schenk Case

A NURSE'S STARTLING STORY

Woman Detective Says She Was Offered $1000 by Mrs. Schenk to Bring About Death of Husband—Told by Alleged Poisoner That She Would Never Have to Work Again to Gain Livelihood

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 21.—The special grand jury that indicted Laura F. Schenk on the charge of administering poison to her husband, John O. Schenk, the millionaire pork packer, for the purpose of causing his death, was so amazed by the testimony given before them that the jurors have been unable to keep secret the evidence on which they indicted the former domestic servant who married the richest pork packer in West Virginia.

According to the statement of Prosecuting Attorney Handlan, not one-tenth of the evidence he has against Mrs. Schenk was brought out before the grand jury.

There were only three witnesses, Dr. Hupp, Miss Evans, the nurse who waited on Schenk before poisoning was suspected, and Miss Kline, the detective nurse.

Miss Kline testified before the grand jury that she was at the Schenk home for two days before the patient was removed to the North Wheeling hospital. She first tested Mrs. Schenk out by saying:

"Do you know that your husband is likely to keel over at any minute and drop dead? It might happen at any time while he was going to the bathroom or for a drink of water."

"He can't die too soon for me," Mrs. Schenk replied, according to the testimony of Miss Kline. "If he'd die I'd be the happiest woman in the world."

Witness said Mrs. Schenk told her she was "nothing but an Indian slave" about her home, and her husband mistreated her, that she was sick of it all. "The whole Schenk family," she said, "made her sick." All they knew was "money and meat." All she heard was "money and meat."

"Well, I don't blame you," the witness told Mrs. Schenk. "I wouldn't want a husband like that, either. I believe I'd want him dead, too, and would try to get rid of him."

At this remark, witness told the grand jury, Mrs. Schenk laid her hand on the witness' shoulder in a confidential way and said: "Would you? Will you help me to get rid of him?"

Witness further testified that Mrs. Schenk said she would pay her and pay her well. She told Mrs. Schenk she thought it was worth $5000, but Mrs. Schenk said she didn't have that much money, but that she would give her $1000 and see that she never had to work again as long as she lived.

Witness said that at the time she suggested to Mrs. Schenk that her husband might die at any minute the latter said: "Well, if he does die, you make a grab for his trousers first thing and get the bunch of keys out of his pocket. If those brothers of his get those keys, I won't get a thing. I want the keys for his safety deposit box at the bank where he keeps his bonds and stocks. Call me up first thing, and don't call up his brothers until at least fifteen minutes after you call me."

The detective nurse said she told Mrs. Schenk that when her husband died she wanted to be careful to wear heavy mourning and not show she was glad he was dead. According to Miss Kline, Mrs. Schenk replied: "Oh, you needn't worry about that. I'll get a great big veil of double thickness so people can't see through it and see me laugh."

THOMPSON IS SENTENCED

Doctor Gets Twenty Years For Death of San Francisco Girl

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—Twenty years in San Quentin prison was the sentence imposed upon Dr. Robert Thompson, formerly of Boston.

Thompson was convicted of murder in the second degree through a criminal operation performed upon Eva Swan, a young stenographer, whose mutilated body was discovered under the floor of a vacant house.

ALMOST TOO REALISTIC

Bartender In Barroom Play Gets Bad Welt With a Bottle

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 21.—Realism in an amateur production of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" ended disastrously for the "bartender" here, and caused the abandonment of the performance.

J. B. Hagadon, who played the part of Simon Slade, the barkeeper, was cut about the head when a quart bottle, thrown by his erstwhile drunken son, Frank Slade, played by Arthur Cook, slipped from the latter's hand and struck Hagadon with much force.

Hagadon fell unconscious on the stage and a physician took several stitches in his scalp.

SEIZURE OF BAD EGGS

More Than Ten Tons Taken From Refrigerator Company's Plant

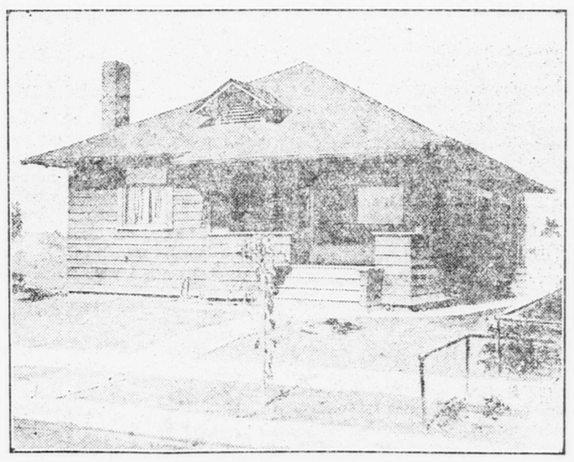

New York, Nov. 21.—United States marshals seized 20,303 pounds of liquid eggs known as "rots and spots" in the King County Refrigerator company's plant in Brooklyn, upon a report from Washington that the eggs were not fit for human consumption.

The eggs were shipped here six weeks ago from Atchison, Kan., and some were sold to bakers.

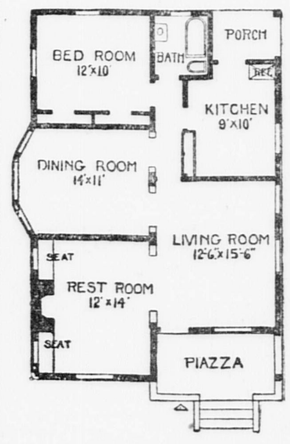

Samples showed, the inspectors say, 2,300,000 malignant bacteria to each gram of eggs.

CHEAP AND ATTRACTIVE BUNGALOW.

Design 855, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FLOOR PLAN.

This design offers a convenient floor plan, combined with a very attractive though inexpensive exterior. The large room in front can be used at any time as a bedroom, thus making two bedrooms for this small house. The fireplace can be omitted if one chooses. There is a cellar under the rear part. All rooms are nine feet high in the clear. Birch floors and Washington fir finish throughout. Size, twenty-six feet wide and thirty-eight feet deep over all. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $1,575.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 855 for $13.

WORLD FIGURE PASSES AWAY

Tolstoi, Self-Exiled, Dies After One Week of Sickness

HIS FAMILY AT THE BEDSIDE

Wife Had Been Denied Admittance to Sick Room While Patient Was Conscious—Philosopher and Essayist Considered One of Greatest Writers Russia Ever Produced—Born an Aristocrat, but Became Peasant

Astapova, Russia, Nov. 21.—Count Leo Tolstoi, self-exiled from home, died here in the home of the switchman at this dreary junction. He had been ill a week, refusing to see friends or relatives, save his daughter Alexandra.

Dr. Makovetsky and the other attending physicians and Countess Tolstoi and other members of the family were at his side when the end came. It was recognized long before that his case was hopeless and after the countess had been summoned and the other members of the family had gathered in an adjoining room, the physicians issued a bulletin announcing that the activity of the heart had almost ceased and that Tolstoi's condition was extremely dangerous. Several of the physicians were greatly overcome.

Countess Tolstoi was admitted to the sick room for the first time Saturday night, but her husband failed to recognize her. She had hastened to his side when she learned that his illness was serious, but the physicians had deemed it advisable that she be kept out of sight, fearing that her presence might cause the patient emotion. His daughter Alexandra has been in constant attendance.

Tolstoi was looked upon as one of the greatest writers Russia has ever produced. His countrymen have always believed in his sincerity, and though he has always advocated peace, he was regarded as one of the greatest of forces behind the revolutionary movement in Russia. He had written and touched upon subjects which would have meant exile to Siberia had any other Russian expressed such views as he advanced.

Although born an aristocrat, Tolstoi consistently preached the doctrine that the humble peasant had rights which even the czar was bound to respect. He has preached poverty, and gone about in peasant's garb. He wore this costume on the day that he set out with Dr. Makovetsky, leaving his family and friends with but $15 in his pocket and started forth to find seclusion. He has worn wooden shoes, tilled the soil with rude implements and all this in the face of family opposition.

Devoutness was ever one of the orders of his life. He believed that Christian doctrine should be applied to the daily life of each person. The revolutionary ideas of Tolstoi brought him into conflict with the hierarchy of the Greek church many times and he has ever been disdainful of mandates enunciated from the pulpit.

Tolstoi was born in Yasnia Poliana eighty-two years ago and his family is possessed of a magnificent estate which the venerable sage made over to them some time ago. As a boy his education was looked after by tutors, but later on he was sent to the University of Kazan, where he studied medicine, astronomy, theology, chemistry and social questions.

Man to him appeared to be the greatest study of all studies and he has shown profound knowledge of human nature in all his books. He was opposed to war, a matter of opinion which perplexed many, for at one time he had served in the army and had fought at Sebastopol. In that defense of the citidel he proved himself and efficient and brave officer, but after peace was declared voiced the opinion that the pen was far mightier than the sword and prepared to use this weapon in behalf of the rights of men.

He wrote novel after novel, which, under the guise of interesting fiction, has some moral lesson as its great object. His work on Napoleon, depicting the invasion of 1812, was extremely realistic.

In his autobiography he says:

"I would divide my life into four periods—the innocent, joyful, poetic period up to fourteen; then those dreadful twenty years, the period of coarse dissoluteness of service, of ambition and vanity, and above all of sensuousness; next the eighteen years during which I have lived regular, honest family life, yet a period all the interest of which is limited to egotistical family cares, to concern for the increase of wealth, the attainment of literary success and the enjoyment of every kind of pleasure, and the fourth period, in which I now live and hope to die, from whose standpoint I see all the significance of my past life."

JUSTICE MOODY RETIRES

Resignation Tendered Two Months Ago Goes Into Effect

Washington, Nov. 21.—The resignation of Associate Justice Moody of the United States supreme court took effect Sunday and a vacancy will exist in the membership of that tribunal until President Taft appoints a successor to the Massachusetts jurist.

About two months ago Moody formally tendered his resignation to the president. This he did on account of his health, which had for nearly a year confined him to his home.

Just before the close of the last session of congress, a resolution was passed by both houses, allowing Moody to retire from the bench upon full pay even though he had not reached the retirement age provided by statute.

TRAWL BRINGS UP RELIC OF PORTLAND

Fisherman Gets Electrolier of the Ill-Fated Steamer

Boston, Nov. 21.—A mass of twisted electric light fixtures twined about a brass electrolier, a portion of the saloon fixtures of the steamer Portland, which was lost with all hands in a November storm twelve years ago, was dragged up out of the sea by the fishing trawls of the schooner Ida Silva off the Middle Bank and has reached Boston.

All doubt as to the authenticity of this remarkable souvenir of the wreck, in which the lives of the 300 persons were lost on the night of Nov. 27, 1898, is removed by the discovery of the name of the manufacturers of the fixtures inside the bowl of the chandelier.

By this discovery it is thought the exact location of the steamer's hull may be found. Several pilots have viewed the souvenir of the worst accident of the sea which ever took place on the New England coast, and an effort will be made to obtain other portions of the Portland from the depths of the Middle Banks.

GUN BACKFIRE KILLS FOUR

Explosion Probably Due to Bent or Fouled Firing Pin

Washington, Nov. 21.—Four men were killed by the premature explosion of a five-inch 51-calibre gun at the Indian Head proving grounds of the navy. The breech-block of the gun, which was being tested, blew backward into the crew which was firing the gun. Lieutenant Caffee, who was in charge of the gun, was one of the men killed.

The explosion probably was due to a bent or fouled firing pin which projected beyond the face of the breech plug of the gun. The gun was discharged before the crew had finished loading it.

LANDS BY ONE VOTE

Democrat Elected to Congress by Single Ballot Out of 41,000

Buffalo, Nov. 21.—A single vote in a district where over 41,000 ballots were cast on Nov. 8 elected Charles B. Smith, Democrat, a member of congress.

The face of the returns indicated a tie with Representative D. S. Alexander and Smith 20,684 each. An error of one in the tally sheet was discovered, and yesterdady the board of canvassers corrected the returns, giving Smith the vote.

Body of Man Found In Woods

Swansea, Mass., Nov. 21.—In a lonely spot in the woods Lester Chase, while hunting small game, found the body of an unknown man who had apparently taken his own life with a revolver. The body was that of a man about 65 years of age.

Russian Actors Take Day Off

Moscow, Nov. 21.—The police yesterday forbade the theatres from suspending their performances because of the death of Count Tolstoi. Nevertheless the playhouses were closed, because the actors refused to appear.

EXTRA SESSION NOT FAVORED

Thoughtful Men of Both Parties Are Opposed to It

NO HURRY ON THE TARIFF

Republicans Committed to Revision Only After Tariff Board Reports—Committee on Committees Now Appears to Be Chief Issue—Contest Over It Promises to Be Very Warm—Champ Clark In Danger of Defeat

Washington, Nov. 19.—Stories emanating from Washington of the desire of each party for an extra session of congress for the purpose of putting the other in a hole make interesting reading, but they are not taken seriously here by careful men. While it must be taken for granted that the tariff will be a leading issue in congress, both parties regard it as a good deal of a hot poker.

The Republicans are committed to tariff revision only after thorough investigation of business conditions by the tariff board. Even the Republican insurgents, who will vote with either party that will revise honestly, are not pressing for action before the facts are ascertained, nor, if reports from the west are true, are they anxious to make any hard and fast combination with the Democrats.

President Taft's closest associates here believe, it can be stated on good authority, that the administration could do no more dangerous thing than rush a tariff revision for political purposes, nor do they believe the president would favor the calling of an extra session with his certain knowledge that the tariff board could not prepare a satisfactory report on anything in time for action in the spring.

Just now the Democrats are much more interested in the rules fight than in tariff revision. A faction led by Representatives Hay of Virginia, Henry of Texas and some others, will press for a committee on committees. Champ Clark has sidestepped this issue with the remark that it should be left to the Democratic caucus. Hay and others declare that Clark committed himself to the committee plan during the rules fights in the house and are criticising him for his alleged repudiation of an alleged Democratic principle. The contest over this question promises to be a very warm one. Mr. Hay no doubt cherishes designs on the speakership, if not for himself at least for someone pledged to yield the appointment of the committee to a committee elected by the house. It is not unlikely that the Hay idea may yet win a majority support.

As a matter of fact, bets are already being made that Champ Clark never will be speaker, based on the "anti-Cannon" doctrine. The Democrats could count on the solid insurgent Republican support for the committee plan, and the Hay faction make no bones of saying that of Clark does not come out flatly for it he will be beaten.

As for the extra session, the liberalized rules place it in the power of any obstructionist to prevent consideration of the appropriation bills before March 4 and thus throw some of them over to an extra session. Tawney of Minnesota pointed out that the new rules admitted of this possibility when they were before the house.

Whether anyone will think it wise thus to take advantage of technicalities and force the president to call an extra session, cannot, of course, be stated at this time. A dominant idea of President Taft in favoring a tariff board and revision by schedule was to avoid disturbance of business. No greater disturbance to business could be conceived than a premature tariff revision program thrown into an extra session for which neither congress nor the country is prepared.

From the present outlook an extra session may be precipitated by a few filibusters, but it would seem hardly to be contemplated in the plans of the thoughtful men of either party.

RED SWEATER ANNOYS BULL

He Goes After Sunday Golf Players and Trees Them

Wenham, Mass., Nov. 21.—Five Sunday golf players were treed by a bull on the Wenham links, narrowly escaping with their lives. The bull escaped from the barn of T. W. Batchelder and ran across the fields toward the men, attracted by a red jersey one of them wore.

The five climbed an apple tree, making the hastiest ascent in their lives. The climb was preceded by a fifty-yard dash to the tree.

For fifteen minutes the bull looked up at the red jersey, trying in vain to climb the tree. The golfers, after they recovered their breath, screamed at the top of their voices.

A groundkeeper was attracted by their cries. He summoned Bachelder, who, with two men armed with pitchforks, drove the Holstein back to the barn.

Keeping an Eye on Nicaragua

San Juan Del Sur, Nic., Nov. 21.—It is reported here that a British and German warship have arrived at Corinto. Their presence in Nicaraguan waters, it is said, is due to the refusal of the provisional government to recognize concessions granted by Zelaya to Englishmen and Germans.

House Job For Keliher

Washington, Nov. 21.—A boom was launched here in behalf of Representative John A. Keliher of Boston, who was defeated in the recent election, to be sergeant-at-arms of the next house. That office will be selected by the Democratic majority. The salary is $5000 a year.

BRIEFS

There may be skating for Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Blake of Lowell are visiting their daughter Mrs. William Cleaves of Warren avenue.

Miss Louie Monk was the guest of the week and of Miss Eleanor Homer at Bridgewater.

Alfred N. LaBrecque, who was nominated on the Democratic ticket at the caucuses for Councilman at large has withdrawn.

Councilman Arthur W. Loud who was nominated as Councilman from Ward Five on the Democratic ticket will officially withdraw this afternoon.

Mrs. Joseph Coulter and daughter Jean of Campello who are guests of her sister Mrs. Fred Bailey of Wollaston were joined over the week end by Mr. Coulter.

Thanks have been extended to the Daily Ledger for "the very excellent report" of the sixth annual banquet of the Makaria Fraternity, to which was added: "It is indeed satisfactory to have it reported so well, and we appreciate it."

TWINS AT WOLLASTON

Population of the City Increasing Rapidly

Quincy's population is growing by jumps. It was only a few days ago that the birth of triplets was announced to the family of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wentworth. Now comes the news that on Sunday twins, a boy and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Weiting of Safford street, Wollaston. Who will be the next?

Let the good work go on, and by the time the next census is taken five years hence Quincy's population may reach 40,000. While triplets are very rare, twins are by no means common. A well known Quincy resident some years ago said when his wife presented him with twins that he would not take $1,000 a piece for them, but would not give ten cents for another pair. Mr. Weiting is a young man about 35 years of age, and is in the insurance business.

Of course the case incidental to bringing up twins is considerable, yet no family would shake that responsibility if the stock should leave a pair at their door. Thirteen pair of twins arrived in Quincy in 1909. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Weiting.

—School authorities at Quincy are to work together with a view to keeping a closer watch on boys and girls of school age, and preventing juvenile crime. Meanwhile are parents to have a holiday?—Boston Herald.

Miss Ruth Keating of Upland road, Quincy, a pupil of William Howard is now prepared to give lessons on the violin to a few pupils

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

The pastor took his morning theme from the text Eph. 4 1-2. In the afternoon he went to Hyde Park to speak at a Sunday School meeting. The evening service had the usual address by the pastor and special music by the orchestra.

The orchestra and choir will hold a special rehearsal Tuesday evening.

The union Thanksgiving service of the Methodist, Congregational and Baptist churches will be held in the auditorium Thursday morning at 10.30. Rev. G. H. Palmgren of the Congregational and Rev. C. E. Rydstrum of the Methodist church will be the speakers.

Thursday evening at 6.30 there will be a social in the church. At 7.30 there will be a program consisting of music and speeches.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The pastor preached at the Calvary Baptist church Sunday morning and also conducted the services of the men's class in Sunday school.

The last afternoon service was held in the United Presbyterian church at 3 o'clock. The pastor spoke on the subject "Optimism" taking his theme from the good report of the spys mentioned in the book of Numbers.

A congregational Thanksgiving prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening at the manse. After the service the officers and teachers of the Sunday school will hold a meeting.

The pastor is planning to resume all the regular services in the Bible school room of the church next Sunday. Unless something unforeseen happens there is every reason to believe that these plans will carry. The upper part of the church will not be ready for a few weeks yet, but the congregation is of course anxious to get back to their church and will welcome the time when they can meet within its walls.

SWEDISH CONGREGATIONAL

In the absence of the pastor, who is attending a conference, the Sunday morning service was conducted by the deacons.

In the evening two missionaries from Japan spoke very interestingly to a large audience.

Thursday morning the congregation will unite with the Baptist and Methodist churches in a union Thanksgiving service at the Baptist church at Brewers corner. The pastor will be one of the speakers at the service.

Next Sunday evening the last of the series of addresses will be given by the pastor. Subject, "Heaven and hell.' This series thus far has brought out very large audiences and the addresses promise to do great good to those who hear them.

CHRIST CHURCH.

The morning communion service was held at 8 o'clock Sunday. Morning prayer and a sermon by the rector at 10.30.

In the evening, the prayer service and confirmation address on the subject: "Prayer."

Thanksgiving day will be observed by holding a holy communion service at 9 o'clock. The rector will deliver one of the addresses at the union service.

Friday evening Maxfield's cantata, "The Bountiful Giver" will be given by the choirs of Christ church and St. Chrysostom's church of Wollaston under the direction of Mr. Wrigley.

The rector will give a lecture entitled "In Noro Land" Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. Armstrong served as a missionary in the Philippines for two years, and in this lecture will tell of his experiences there. Stereopticon slides will be shown. The proceeds will go toward furnishing a hospital for the Moros, one of the powerful non-Christian tribes of the Islands.

Boy's club meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

St. Margaret's Guild meets Friday evening at 7 o'clock for special preparations for Christmas work.

—We sometimes pity the children who lived fifty years ago because they had so few books and such scanty means of intellectual culture and amusement, but we sometimes doubt whether the intellectual poverty of those times was not a benefit. Children were driven to find their pleasure in outdoor sports and in converse with nature. Any child brought up to find his chief amusement in the comic section of the daily papers must go on into life with a perverted sense of what constitutes beauty and what is really comic. Tragedy and comedy belong to the highest arts of living, and the child is to be pitied who is diverted from the imaginative literature, the fairy lore, the folk-stories, and the numerous sources of culture and amusement which are open to all well-taught and well-bred children.—Christian Register.

BOTH MEN FINED $10

Counter Charges Brought by Atlantic Parties

Hugh Gilmartin, the well known Atlantic contractor, was arraigned in court this morning on complaint of Patrick J. Downey for assault, and Downey was arraigned on complaint of Gilmartin for injury to real estate. It seems that Downey, who is employed by Gilmartin, through carelessness smashed a $20 pane of plate glass at Neponset, for which Gilmartin was obliged to pay. He in turn charged the same to Downey, and took the amount from his pay.

Saturday Downey went to Gilmartin's house to get his money. Hot words followed, and Gilmartin claimed that in self defense he struck Downey with a poker, but not until Downey had overturned a lighted lamp and nearly set the house on fire, and had smashed a window. Gilmartin claimed he used no more force than was necessary to put Downey out of the house.

Downey then came to Quincy and swore out a warrant against Gilmartin for assault, and Gilmartin came in later and swore out a warrant against Downey for injury to real estate. Both cases were heard together. The court fined each defendant $10. Gilmartin took an appeal.

BASKET BALL VICTORY

Quincy Y. M. C. A. Defeats Abington 24 to 23

The Y. M. C. A. basketball season opened Saturday evening, the first team defeating Abington 24 to 23, and the second team suffering defeat by the same score at the hands of Alpha Mu fraternity of Winthrop. As can be seen by the score both games were very closely contested. The first team was fast and slow by turns, but showed up very well for the first game in the year. Early in the game Jenkins played particularly well and Bates also had a good eye for the basket. In the second half, Bates shot three clean baskets in succession, and Jenkins got two more. For the visitors, Wales the centre and Calkins, the captain played the best game. The first half ended in Abington's favor, and it looked as if Quincy would be defeated, but a spurt along near the middle of the second half gave her the lead and neither side scored again.

The summary:

Morris, lf	rf, Barton
Glover, rf	lf, Calkins
Jengins, c	c, Wales
Brooks, rb
Dackers, rb	lb, Gillis
Bates, lb	rb, Bishop

Score—Quincy, 24; Abington, 23. Referee— LaRose. Timer— Parker. Goals—Bates, 5; Jenkins, 4; Glover, 2 Morris, 1; Wales, 6; Calkins,5. Fouls Calkins 1. Time—15m halves.

SECOND TEAM.

The second team started off with more snap than the first and led their opponents at the end of the first half. They were not as good as their opponents in team work but seemed to have a little better eye for the basket. Miller shot two clean baskets from the middle of the floor and Claflin proved his efficiency by shooting two good baskets. In the second half the home team seemed to let down a little although they were still scrappy. Gourlie came to the front in the opening of the half by scoring 4 points. Miller contributed 2 more and Jones shot two baskets. Alpha Mu took a hand then and got 5 baskets right off the reel. Claflin shot one near the end of the game but the Quincy team could not quite get the ball to go in again. Several times it careened around the edge but would not fall through. The finish of this as well as of the other game furnished considerable excitement for the gallery. Capt. Verner of Alpha Mu contributed a good share to the whirlwind finish.

The summary:

Gourlie, lf	rf Fielding
Jones, rf	lf, Verner
Claflin, c	c, Turner
Miller, rb	lb, Edwards
Rich, lb	rb, Steadfast

Score—Quincy, 23; Winthrop, 24. Boals: Claflin 3, Miller 3, Gourlie, 2, Jones 2, Rich 1, Verner 4, Fielding 3, Turner 2, Edwards 2, Steadfas t 1. Fouls: Gurlie 1. Referee—LaRose. Timer—Parker. Time—15m halves.

FOOTBALL

rush Arthur tackled hard and Conley was laid up with an injured nose. Dyke went in at quarter back and LaRoche took Conley's place at half-back. Fraser made his distance. With the ball on the 10 yard line Quincy held in two successive rushes and time was called with the ball still on the 10 yard line in Dorchester's possession. Score 6 to 0.

FOURTH QUARTER.

The ball was on the 10 yard line it was third down with 10 to gain. Dorchester tried a very clever trick which fortunately for Quincy failed to work. The centre snapped the ball back to the quarter who held it for a second as if for a place kick and then passed it to one of the backs. Smith and Arthur smothered the play in a moment and Quincy had the ball on downs. The Quincy rooters heaved a sigh of relief for the only time during the game because it was the only time the goal was threatened. Dorchester held for 3 rushes and Hill punted but Dorchester was penalized 10 yards for holding and Quincy was given the ball. After two small gains by Prout and Harmon, Hill punted. Manning tackled his man on the 30 yard line. In the next rush Tirrell was kicked deliberately by one of the Dorchester men and a number of the Quincy players resented it. For a few moments it looked as if the game would end then and there in a fight but the officials quelled the disturbance and play was resumed as if nothing had happened. Dorchester gained about 5 yards in two rushes and then tried a forward pass which was blocked by Prout. From that time on to the end of the game Dorchester lost heart. Arthur gained 5 yards, Hill made 10 and Harmon 5. After two or three short gains Hill punted and Fraser made a fair catch. Dorchester was unable to gain and Mullane tried a punt which was blocked. Hill made 5 yards around the end. Fraser in tackling had his shoulder severely injured and Regnier went in again at fullback. Dorchester recovered the ball on downs but was held twice and failed to make good on a forward pass. Holmes who had taken Prout's place at halfback gained 5 yards for Quincy. Harmon netted 5 more and Hill re.led off 20 on one of his old time end runs. Harmon carried the ball the last 10 yards necessary for a touchdown during the last 10 seconds of play. Chapman failed to kick the goal. Final score 11 to 0.

QUINCY SUPERIOR.

Quincy outplayed her opponents in every department of the game. Her backs were speedier and her line held like a stonewall. Manning and Chapman showed wonderful speed in getting down on punts and every man on the team did some fine tackling. Johnson who was injured early in the game tackled brilliantly and after the game declared that he did not know anything about it. Smith, Rice, Tirrell and Arthur were all on the alert and played their best game. Blackmur did little that was spectacular but his excellent judgment and all round good generalship was an important factor in the victory. Harmon and Prout did some great ground gaining ,and Holmes showed up well during the few minutes he was in the game.

Hill and Manning were the particularly bright stars on the Quincy horizon. The Dorchester men themselves said that they were the fastest and the slippriest pair they had seen on the field. Hill did wonderful work both in offence and defence. Manning with his excellent capability in forming interference and his phenomenal speed in getting down under punts deserves equal credit.

Now that it is all over, we are expected to tell why we won just as it is up to Dorchester to explain her defeat. Quincy won not through luck, but because she had the better team, and because every man went into the game determined to win. Kersberg of Harvard, former All-American guard, and Gardner and Beadle, two stars on the Harvard freshman team have been coaching the team during the past week and a number of players said afterwards that the words of Kersberg were ringing in their ears all through the game. "Watch your man, watch the ball, when you scent a trick play, hold your position until you see where the ball is." The spirit he put into the team was one of the greatest factors.

And then the crowd who followed the team and encouraged them by cheers and shouts of approval helped a lot. About 250 graduates and undergraduates were present to witness the game and the players were made to feel almost as if they were on their own field in Merrymount Park. This of course gave them additional confidence and paved the way to victory.

Dorchester was expecting an easy game and expected to get no more than a stiff scrimmage , two to put them in trim for the final game on Thanksgiving day. Quincy's aggressiveness swept them off their feet and although they gave Quincy one of the best contests of the year they were not quite able to get over their surprise. Dr. Brayton who had seen both teams play expected Dorchester to win by 18 points, and expressed his surprise at the speed and the fine defence of the visiting team.

Coach Reilly and the members of the home team were chagrinned to be beat for the first time of the year by a team which they did not consider very seriously. Five years ago Capt. Moody's team gave the Dorchester team a very serious jolt in the final game of the season and won by a score of 12 to 0. Every year since then Dorchester has defeated Quincy rather easily. Last year the score went up into the thirties, and many supporters of both sides looked for a repetition of the performance. At the Y. M. C. A. the guesses at the results gave Dorchester as high as 50 points and only two or three gave Quincy the victory.

Thus the climax of the season was as surprising to many as it was pleasing to everyone interested in the work of the team. The season has been most successful from a local standpoint. The two defeats by Brockton and Boston College High by no means inglorious for Quincy, and the result of the final game took away the bitter taste of the 14 points scored by those two teams. A total of 180 points have been scored against opponents. We are all proud of the achievements of the team this year and we are looking for the names of two or three of them to appear on the allscholastic.

DORCHESTER ROWDISM.

The sequal to the great game was not long in arriving. A number of the "hangers-on' of the Dorchester team had said before the game that if Quincy licked Dorchester, we will lick Quincy. And this they tried to do as soon as they were outside the gates. One of them pitched into Manning who was immediately championed by other Quincy fellows. A free-for-all was in the air, but the local police who had evidently had experiences of that kind before, succeeded in breaking it up.

The Quincy aggregation then started for home many of them deciding to walk to Neponset. The sidewalk would not accommodate the crowd and consequently most of the men were walking in the street. Those in the lead were turning the second corner when a grocery team belonging to Gibson, the marketman, came around the corner at full tilt. The driver, a fellow named Lincoln, whipped up his horse when he saw the crowd, in an endeavor to separate it. Smith, the right guard on the Quincy team was struck by the wheel which grated his thigh. He was thrown heavily and struck with force enough to stun him. Six of the fellows took him to the house on the corner where it was found that the injury was not serious and after a few minutes he was able to limp along to the car. A policeman who was told of the accident said Lincoln had done the same thing several times before and was on probation in court for a similar offence. When the man drove by a few moments later the officer hailed him, and it is very probable that the reckless driving will be stopped if a fine will have any influence upon the man. When he saw that he was going to run over Smith he did have the grace to swerve the horse to one side. Several others who were walking with Smith just barely escaped without serious injury.

This combination of incidents took everyone's mind away from the result of the game for the time being, but when peace was restored the aftermath was forgotten, and by the time the Dorchester dust was shaken from the feet of the pedestrians, and they were treading on the pavement of Neponset, all was serene again.

QUINCY CELEBRATION.

At 7.30 in the evening several hundred rooters with the team in their midst gathered in City Square and celebrated the victory. A torchlight procession marched up to the corner of School street and back amid cheers and counting the score, and a general display of enthusiasm and satisfaction over the victory. When they reached Bethany church, all seated themselves along the wall and indulged in a season of cheers for the team and the individual players, both those who took part in the game and those who have been assisting so ably in the development of the team, as substitutes and coaches. Needless to say, a throng of spectators of both sexes crowded the square to look on and lend their presence to the enthusiastic scene.

NOTHING TO NOTHING IN FOOTBALL GAME

Crimson Falls to Lower the Blue at New Haven

New Haven, Nov. 21.—Twenty-two strong youths of Yale and Harvard battled here for one hour and forty minutes for the year's football championship, while 33,000 people looked on, sometimes breathless, sometimes with a prodigal expenditure of breath in fierce hurrahs. And in the end it was nothing to nothing.

But the score does not tell the story, a story of what was and what might have been. When the Crimson clad giants loped upon the field it would have been a venturesome prophet that would not have predicted for them a substantial victory.

Because Harvard did not win there will doubtless be many explanations. But the fact remains that time and again the Crimson line fell upon the Blue, broke it, and swept on to seeming victory, only to be balked by its own impetuosity.

Probably the most of the experts will agree that Harvard lost its own game. Yale played on the defensive. It was a masterly defense, almost without a flaw. When the line was broken, there was no disorganization. It closed again and the enemy found a new front countering its charge. A front alert, powerful to repulse, fierce to return the onset.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The Daily Ledger bulletined the result of the Harvard-Yale game so early on Saturday that for awhile the sports did not believe it. The result of each of the four-periods was promptly bulletined by the Ledger and it was a row of zeros —0. The final score was bulletined at 3.48. Before 4.30 the Ledger also announced the victory of Quincy High over Dorchester High.

* * *

It was a victorious day for Quincy all round, as the McGregor team and the Y. M. C. A. basket ball team also won. The soccer scores were:
McGregor, 2; Americans, 0.
Rovers, 4; Rangers, 0.
Lynn Fosse, 2; Brockton, 0.

* * *

Hyde Park High and Dedham High played a scoreless game. Somerville defeated Everett 11-0, Revere defeated Chelsea 6-0, and Boston College High scored over Newton 6-0.

* * *

The Fore River soccer team will play the Boston Americans at Quincy Point on Thanksgiving day.

* * *

The Journal says: "To the obvious surprise of their most ardent supporters, the Quincy High lads triumphed over the Dorchester High School eleven at the Dunbar avenue grounds to the tune of 11-0. It was the first defeat for the Dorchester team this season. Bobber Conley had his nose broken in the second period. The contest was one of the most exciting seen on a local gridiron in several weeks. It was only the individual performances of Hill, Manning and Harmon of the visitors that enabled the Quincy team to win."

BETHANY CHOIR CONCERT

Excellent Program and a Musical Treat

The Bethany church choir concert was given in the church auditorium Monday evening before a receptive audience composed mostly of music lovers, but the excellence of the program merited one much larger and more appreciative. Every number was very good and the participants gave evidence of great superiority in richness of tone and in accurate and pleasing execution.

Mr. Bullock was suffering from a hard cold, but rather than disappoint the audience he took his part in the program and very creditably.

The first selection was a solo and chorus from Euryanthe, "Brightly the morning." The piece was brilliant and the rendering excellent. The solo by Mrs. Moore was especially well done.

A. L. Hayden sang "The Bandolero" with great ease and abandon, and with that naturalness and lilt which characterize the Spanish minstrel. Miss Hanson's accompaniment added greatly to the effectiveness of the piece.

"Waves of the Sea" a trio, was very well rendered by Mrs. Moore, Miss Coe and Mr. Bullock. The song is extremely melodious and was in perfect harmony with the mood of the audience. One could almost feel the rise and fall of the billows and hear the waves lapping the shore.

The fourth number was instrumental. Miss Hanson and Madame Morey gave an exquisite rendering of the overture, "Poet and Peasant." One recognized the presence of two artists, the two instruments sounded as one.

Owing to his severe cold and indisposition, Mr. Bullock was obliged to substitute "An Arcadian Lullaby" for "Fear not ye, O Israel" which required a very wide range of tone. In spite of his cold, Mr. Bullock rendered this song admirably and it alone was worth attendance.

The Boys' choir gave the next selection which formed a somewhat pleasing contrast to those rendered by the adult voices. What may have been lacking in volume and quality of tone was made up in enthusiasm. The solo by Loyal Safford was clearly and sweetly sung.

Instead of the bass and tenor duet by Mr. Hayden and Mr. Bullock, one of Nevin's beautiful songs was sung by Mrs. Moore and Miss Coe. The artists seemed to enter into the spirit of the melody and gave to the rendering a touch of the realistic.

Miss Coe's interpretation of D'Hardelot's "Because" was perfect. Everything seemed to be in perfect keeping with the spirit of the song and the mood of both artist and audience.

The ninth song was rendered by the quartet without accompaniment thus allowing the voices to have their full value. The gentle melody seemed to permeate the entire room and the voices of the four singers harmonized so perfectly that one could almost believe he heard but one voice which like an aeolian harp gave forth all the sweet tones at once.

"Protestations" was rendered by Mrs. Moore with unusual skill and ease. The organ and piano accompaniment added to the beauty of the rendering.

The final number was a tenor solo with chorus. Mr. Bullock again showed his power of overcoming physical deficiencies. The piece was a fitting finale to an extremely successful concert. It was rendered with the utmost precision and not a little was added by the excelent accompaniment of the pianist and organist.

The whole program was well arranged and well rendered. About 300 people were present to listen to the music and all seemed very well pleased with the manner in which the evening had been spent.

The work of the committee, which has been ably assisted by Madame Morey, resulted very successfully and the choirs and the other artists all deserve great praise for the excellence of the music.

GENTLEMEN'S NIGHT OF CATHOLIC CLUB

Ladies Present the Comedy "How the Club Was Formed"

Music by a Ladies Quartette Between the Acts

Mere man's idea of how things are conducted in women's clubs has always been rather vague, but there are now, some at least, that have a more clear insight into their methods. These men are those who were fortunate enough to be the guests of the ladies of the Quincy Catholic club at their gentlemen's night Monday evening at Colonial hall. The ladies had prepared a pleasing program which included a comedy in which a number of the club members took part entitled "How the club was formed." This comedy was presented in three scenes and abounded in laughable incidents.

Scene one opened in the kitchen of Mrs. Jones and found that self-esteemed young matron and her friend Hannah Maria, just from Boston, in animated conversation. During their conversation Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Snow dropped in for a kitchen chat, and they all become deeply interested in Hannah Maria's account of a club meeting she attended in Boston. The upshot of it was that Mrs. Jones decides to form a woman's club.

Scene two was in the spare room of Mrs. Jones' home, and showed all the ladies of the neighborhood gathered to hear about the new club. All had their own ideas of what the club should be, and how it should be formed, but Mrs. Jones had her own ideas, and her ideas prevailed. Not only did she elect herself president, but she elected all of the members to the office of directors. There was to be no secretary as she did not intend to have any records kept of what transpired. After getting all the member's ideas as to a name for the club she announced that she had already attended to that, and "Optomistic club" was the title given, although she admitted that she did not know what optomistic meant.

The third scene was in the parlor of

TIE VOTE ON RECOUNT

Possibly an Independent Democratic Candidate for Mayor

Two recounts of votes cast at the recent caucuses were held at City Hall on Monday evening by the registrars. The first was of the Republican votes in Ward Six for Councilmen from the ward. The election officers returns gave Mr. Sodergren the nomination for the third candidate by one vote over Mr. Carlson.

As a result of the recount there were several minor changes resulting in a tie for the third candidate between Mr. Sodergren and Mr. Carlson. The vacancy will be filled by the Republican city committee. Mr. Carlson will probably be a candidate in any event, as he has been circulating nomination papers.

The second recount was of the Democratic votes in Ward Four for Councilman from the ward and Ward committee. The election officers returns gave the nomination for the third man to Councilman Smith by twelve votes and the recount did not change the result for councilman or ward committee.

There were quite a few minor changes here and there, but as stated above the result as announced was not changed. It is said that the main object of the recount was that it might be seen how many bullets were thrown for certain candidates.

Thomas J. McGrath who was nominated on the Democratic ticket for Councilman at large will also file Citizens nomination papers for the office, as papers in his behalf were in circularion Monday.

Councilman Arthur W. Loud, who was nominated on the Democratic ticket for Councilman from Ward Five, has officially withdrawn.

It was reported this morning that nomination papers for an Independent Democratic candidate for Mayor were in circulation.

The Republican City committee will meet Friday evening when the vacancy in candidates for Councilman from Ward Six will be filled.

Ralph W. Hobbs has filed three papers as "Citizens Voters" candidate for Mayor.

Mayor Shea has filed four papers as Citizens candidate for Mayor.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Thanksgiving Day, next Thursday, will be observed by the Daily Ledger as a holiday. No paper will be issued and the office will be closed all day. See Friday paper for holiday and political news.

Paris goes to see her new horror play and is delighted; the rest of the world is satisfied with seeing Paris.

The outlook for good weather has improved; the Weather Bureau has issued a storm warning.

When a New York poet read some of his verses to Miss Ellen Terry she burst into tears, actress that she is.

We agree with the Boston Transcript which in a recent editorial says, "The deer season is open, of course; but soberly now, wouldn't it be better fun to pat those sleek hairy coats than put a bullet hole in them?"

Woburn's new post office building is like Quincy's in architecture but it has the advantage of being better placed as to size of lot and immediate surroundings. If it were not for the library grounds our post office would be lost to view.

Judge Reed of Brockton says, "He has reached the conclusion that boys who steal from stores and do other thieving about town must pay the penalty." He imposed a fine of one dollar on a boy brought before him for shoplifting and will continue this policy in hopes of putting a stop to petty thieving by boys.

There has been considerable newspaper comment because the Beverly ministers are to change the hour of the Thanksgiving service so as to allow churchgoers to go to a football game. Well why not? Ministers and church people are human beings and no less good Christians because they enjoy a foot ball game. With the church service at nine o'clock, foot ball at eleven followed by the usual dinner and family reunion it would seem like a well rounded out day.

DRIFT OF OPINION

There is at present a large number of people that think they can make judicious purchases out of a catalog of some metropolitan mail order house. Many of our business men say that this is a serious handicap on the advance of our city.

An article of merchandise looks very differently in a picture than it does when you look at it. Third rate materials make just as pretty a picture as the best goods. Bungling workmanship is absolutely concealed in the deceptive lights of the half tone cut.

Would you go into one of our home stores blindfolded, and buy goods simply by what the clerk told you? Would you do it even if you knew personally the proprietor and his clerks and believed them to be honest people?

Then why buy blindfolded from some mail order house hundreds of miles away, when you do not even know whether the proprietor and his clerks are in the habit of giving honest goods or not.—Beverly Times.

Thanksgiving day will bring happiness and peace to some people who are objects of pity to their neighbors. The shining of the inner light may transform the most gloomy lot and make even a prison a paradise. Taken by the hundred as they come, we venture to say that there are more light hearts and bounding pulse of hope and joy among the overcrowded tenements of the East Side of New York than there are in the mansions of the overrich and the homes where every desire that money can provide for is gratified. Joy and sorrow are relative terms, and the most thankful hearts in any city may be found where some poor wretch is consciously escaping from the disabilities of race, family, poverty, and a narrow outlook upon life. Hope is the mainspring of thanksgiving.—The Christian Register.

SOLICITING LIQUOR SALES

The Charge Against a Boston Italian

Cisidio Berardinelli was arrested in Boston by Inspector Goodhue Saturday night for soliciting sales of liquor. Berardinelli is employed by a Boston Italian liquor house, and it is alleged that he has been coming to Quincy soliciting sales of liquor among the Italian families. Later the liquor would be shipped by express and still later he would come out and collect for the goods. The police have been after the fellow for some months. One day last week Inspector Goodhue got a description of the man and followed him about the city. In this way the officer was able to get the names of parties from whom orders were solicited. Berardinelli war, arraigned in court and was held until Nov. 29 for a hearing.

MASONIC FUNERAL.

Large delegations of Rural lodge of Masons and the Old Colony Grocers' and Provision Dealers' Association attended the funeral on Sunday of C Harrison Hobart at the South Congregational church, South Braintree, and townspeople filled the edifice. The service was conducted by Rev. E. O. Dyer of Connecticut, a former pastor. The Weber quartet sang three beautiful selections. The Masonic services were held at the church and were conducted by Frank A. Reed as master and Charles Sampson as chaplain. There was a large and beautiful display of floral tributes. John Hall of Quincy was director. The body was taken to Forest Hills for cremation.

THREE FUNERALS.

The funeral of Angelo Malnati one of Quincy's well known granite manufacturers was held Sunday from his late home on Intervale street. The services were very simple. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

The funeral of William D. Burns who died Friday night was held Monday morning from his late home on Cross street and was followed by services at St. Mary's church where a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Maurice Lynch of East Weymouth. On the altar were Rev. T. J. Danahey of Newton Upper Falls, Rev. Edward Fagan of Rockand, Rev. Francis Walsh of Reading and Rev. T. J. Mahoney of South Boston. The Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir under the direction of Miss Mary McKay organist. There were many beautiful flowers. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Ann McAloon who died at the residence of her daughter Mrs. John Harkins was held Monday morning from St. John's church where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated. Rev. Howland J. Harkins a grandson was celebrant. Rev. Patrick J. Scannell, deacon, Rev. Neil P. Brennan sub-deacon and Rev. John J. Coan master of ceremonies.

The Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahan organist. The solo parts being sung by Miss Mary Burns and Miss Josephine McCarthy. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery where prayers were said by Rev. Howland J. Harkins.

The bearers were George Arbuckle, Henry Harkins, Robert Arbuckle, Everett Harkins, Edward Cook and Chares Arbuckle. E. L. Bean was the director.

Mrs. McAloon who has been a resident of Quincy for fifty years leaves four daughters and a son. Her daughters are Mrs. Michael Travers, Mrs. John Harkins, Mrs. Robert Arbuckle and Mrs. Michael Cook. Her son is John A. McAloon.

Baby's Thanksgiving Dream

THE CASHIER'S THANKSGIVING.

"I'M going to have a regular old fashioned Thanksgiving dinner," said the cashier, who was lonesome, never before having been away from the farm on this festal day.

"Deviled turkey and canned pumpkin," laughed the stenographer. She was a seasoned bachelor girl and thought it her duty to squelch all sickly sentiment exhibited by the cashier.

THEN THE BOY CAME WITH A BASKET.

She knew that Bess was pining in her secret heart for the lover with whom she had quarreled and on whose account the pretty cashier now was an exile.

"Real turkey and real homemade pumpkin pie and all the trimmings," said the cashier triumphantly. "I couldn't bear to eat at a restaurant tomorrow. It would choke me. I've made all the arrangements with Mrs. Brown. She's going to let me cook on her stove, and I've borrowed enough dishes to put with ours to set the table right here in our room."

The stenographer looked incredulous. "It's a fact. I've bought all the provisions and am expecting the boy with them now. We neither one of us work tomorrow, and we'll have such a dinner as never was. We are going to have company, you know."

"Company!" The stenographer gave an amazed little scream. "Who?"

"Arthur," said the cashier, trying to look innocent.

"Oh, you dear, you dear!" exclaimed the stenographer, smothering the cashier with kisses. "You dear, I'll never tease you about Sam again as long as you live. I've a notion to telegraph him to come too."

"I'll never speak to you again as long as I live if you do such a thing," said Bess, turning pale. "And I wouldn't speak to him either."

Then the boy came with a basket, and the cashier made him pour the provisions out in the middle of the floor.

Such an assortment as was there. Turkey, pumpkin, apples, sweet potatoes, cranberries, oysters, a square of fruit cake, a loaf of bread, a bunch of celery, sugar, flour—everything that could be needed, and all in the smallest quantities. Even the turkey was a little thing and the pumpkin not much bigger than a football.

"You've bankrupted us," cried the stenographer in despair.

"Only $2.80, my dear," said the cashier calmly. "You see, I've saved us money. We expected to have a good dinner tomorrow anyway. Now we will have enough left over to last us till Sunday."

"And Arthur is coming, bless his heart," cooed the stenographer. "What a day we will have. If only"— She paused and looked at Bess.

"There are no 'if onlys' in the case. Let's get busy," said the cashier bravely, but there was a tear in her eye. "I will put the turkey and oysters in Mrs. Brown's icebox, and you may cut up the pumpkin. We will stew it tonight and be ready for the pies in the morning."

"Look here, Bess. There's a name on this pumpkin. I am hot on the trail of a romance," said the stenographer.

Bess came and looked over the stenographer's shoulder.

There in rude letters on the pumpkin's yellow skin was carved the name of all names and this unique message:

"Sam Bennefield, Clydemore, Ind. would like to correspond with the handsome young girl who gets this pumpkin."

The cashier burst into tears.

"It is your Sam, isn't it?" asked the stenographer.

"Yes," sobbed the cashier. "And the wretch is trying to get up a flirtation with some city girl. He thinks somebody will see the name and write to him. Oh, how I hate him!"

THE NAME OF ALL NAMES.

To prove that she hated him she threw herself on the bed and wept for half an hour.

In the meantime the stenographer was busy with the pumpkin. But when she cut it up she was careful to keep in one piece the section on which Sam's name was carved.

When morning came Bess was too busy to be lonesome. The landlady gave the two girls the run of her kitchen and furnished them with all the spices they needed for their cooking. She was almost as much interested in the great dinner as the girls were.

Before noon the florist's boy came with flowers from Arthur, and when the table was set and decorated it was a triumph of cozy beauty.

When Arthur entered the hallway at 2 o'clock he found a tall young stranger carefully studying the names beneath the speaking tubes.

"For whom are you looking?" asked Arthur.

"For Miss Elizabeth Grant," said the stranger.

"Oh," said Arthur, eying the stranger critically. He felt that for the stenographer's sake he was the natural protector of the little cashier. His inspection, however, convinced him that the tall stranger was all right, though it was clear that he came from the country.

"You know her?" asked Arthur at last.

"We are old friends," said the tall stranger, blushing.

"Then come with me," said Arthur cordially. "I am going up there now."

When Arthur knocked at the door the stenographer went to open it. Her eyes were shining. Bess turned her back and pretended to be busy at the window.

"THIS GENTLEMAN WANTS TO SEE MISS GRANT."

The stenographer's words of welcome died on her tongue when she saw that Arthur was not alone.

"This gentleman wants to see Miss Grant," said Arthur.

The little cashier turned slowly toward the door.

"Sam!" she cried.

"Bess!" He came rapidly toward her and took her hands. "Bess, it was a foolish quarrel. I could not bear to think of your being alone here on Thanksgiving day."

The stenographer hurried around to lay a fourth plate at the Thanksgiving dinner table.—George Weymouth in Chicago Tribune.

The Land of Used to Be.

DON'T you kinder get to dreamin'
When you hear somebody say
That in jus' a few more hours
It will be Thanksgivin' day?
Don't you kinder go a-sailin'
Back through toilful years an' see
All your frien's an' your relations
In the Land of Used to Be?

Don't you kinder like to linger
In that dream an' look around?
Don't you kinder like to wander
Over that beloved ground?
There's the house, a-settin' solemn
On the hill top—an' the tree!
Same old tree we used to swing on
In the Land of Used to Be!

Don't you see the turkey gobbler
Makin' fer you once again?
Same old feller used to chase you
Helter skelter down the lane!
An' there's mother—dear old mother!—
Callin' loud, "Come in to teal"
Ain't it peaceful-like an' nat'ral
In the Land of Used to Be?

"DON'T YOU SEE THE TURKEY GOBBLER?"

There's that spruce young colt a-prancin'
Like the place was all his own,
An' there's Rover, settin' gnawin'
An' a-growlin' at a bone!
There's the good old pump, an' there's the—
"All right, mother! Here we be!"
Kinder hate to keep 'em waitin'
In the Land of Used to Be!

Don't you see 'em settin' smilin'
At the table, an' hear Sis
Sayin' ('cause it was her bakin')
"Ever taste sich bread as this?"
Don't you hear the baby crowin',
Settin' on his grampa's knee?
Don't you hear the jolly laughter
In the Land of Used to Be?

"GOT TO FIX THE TURKEY STUFFIN'."

Listen! Mother's sayin' suthin'!
"Mus' go out an' watch that pie;
Got to fix the turkey stuffin'—
Time is drawin' mighty nigh!"
What's that, grampa? Take the baby!
All right, son, come yer to me!
Set an' watch the sparks a-flyin'
In the Land of Used to Be?

Don't your old heart get to wishin'
In a longin' kind of way
Jus' fer one, jus' one old fashioned
Long ago Thanksgiving day?

PRISONS AND PRISON WORK

Chaplain of State Prison Talks at Wollaston

At the meeting of the Men's club of St. Chrysostom's parish held on Monday evening, Rev. Augustine S. Malley, chaplain of the State's prison at Charlestown addressed those present upon "Prisons and prison work." The club also listened to remarks by Ralph W. Hobbs the Republican candidate for Mayor.

When one sees a body of prisoners, said Chaplain Malley, one instinctively feels that they are a species apart but behind the coats of gray are the same hearts, the same minds, the same souls as ours and oh what tragedies. If I were to judge the people of a foreign country I would take three sets of their buildings as a criterion. First the church, where I might find what they thought of God and the immortality of souls. Then the halls of justice where a high type of man is found and laws made. In the third place the prison, where are placed those who have failed against the laws of their God and fellow men. Behind the three what a tremendous history there is.

The speaker went back to the days of tribes when the question was easily solved by killing. He spoke of the Bible where in the book of Moses the first mention of the prison is made—"he shall be cast into prison, and there eat the bread of sorrow and drink the water of bitterness." In the old days justice was "an eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth, limb for limb, burning for burning and strife for strife."

Is there such a thing as a criminal type, said the speaker. Absolutely not. Sir Evelyn Bryce at the International Prison Congress told of the London experiment where 1000 confirmed criminals were examined. Then 1000 other men were taken at random, from the street and examined. There was no difference.

Are there born criminals? I do not think so. There are the imbecile and weak minded and the morally and mentally insane but they are not in the majority.

What we call a criminal is a person with the body of a man but the brain of a boy. He has a man's passions with a boy's brain to guide them. When we were young some of us robbed orchards. When we grew up we got over it. We did it for the excitement not for the fruit we got. Take some men, they need the same excitement. They take crime as a lark with prison as part of the chance. Are they insane? No! Will they reform? Mostly not. Some want to and try to make good but the first rebuff is fatal. As one man expressed it "Every time you try to make good you get it in the neck."

There is aristocracy in crime and the heavy yegg or second story man and safe cracker would not think of associating with the common snatch thief.

The yeggs are gentlemen strong, courteous and using no slang. They are the left overs of society and with their pent up natures would make good barons or cavalry officers. For the training of a following they look for boys of from 12 to 14 years taking them from the wrestlers and boxers.

In closing his talk the speaker read excerpts from the prison paper including a selection by "Breezy Bill" entitled "De cart before de horse" which demonstrated that all humor and wit is not found within the confines of the funny papers.

Responding to questions, Rev. Mr. Malley told in detail of the customs and rules in force at Charlestown.

Republican mayoralty candidate R. W. Hobbs, who was present said a few words along general lines about the city government and urged that the men of the community be more thoroughly interested in it and not simply allow it to drift along. Mr. Hobbs' remarks were greeted with loud applause.

An excellent oyster stew was served those present, upon adjournment, while a half hour of sociability was enjoyed. At the business meeting several new members were admitted.

JEWISH CHURCHES.

An interesting illustrated article in a Sunday paper on the growth of the Jewish population and its synagogues gives Quincy as one of the largest Jewish centres of the greater Boston district. The number of Jewish congregations in the state has grown from 66 in 1900 to 159 in 1910. Boston of course leads with 21 congregations while Quincy has but one, yet that in Quincy is one of the oldest in the state. Its synagogue is located on School street, and there regular services are held.

PLAYS MAKE A GREAT IT

As Produced by South Quincy Extensions Club

The South Quincy Extension club is not primarily a dramatic organization, but no one who was present in Alpha hall Monday evening to witness the production of the two-farces—"Turn Him Out" and "Slasher and Crasher," will take exception to the statement that there is dramatic talent in the club.

The first play, "Turn Him Out" was given by the younger boys. Nicodemus Nobbs was hired to turn out an undesirable suitor for the hand of Mrs. Moke, but he persisted in turning out the wrong man who proved to be no other than Mackintosh Moke, the head of the house. Roseleaf, the suitor, always managed to slide out at just the right time, but finally the situation was cleared up, and Mackintosh and Julia, his wife are happily reunited. Susan, the maid, and Nicodemus have visions of much joy, since the latter is hired as guardian of the household. Roseleaf, the perfectly ladylike gentleman, is abruptly cast into the outer darkness; James Jenkins, as Susan, took his part well, the voice, makeup and the gestures and movements were excellent, and on the whole, Susan was the star performer. Roseleaf was as sappy as could be desired, and Nicodemus had the voice and mannerisms of the heavy villain, although his part was not quite that. Julia and Mackintosh Moke made up most beautifully when the mistake was cleared up. The fight between Nicodemus and Mackintosh was extremely funny, and the scene in which the head of the house is locked in the trunk was no less laughable. An amusing incident occurred when Roseleaf in attempting to remove his hat, took off wig and all but it was hastily readjusted and "Rosie" was not "phased" at all. Trask and Estey as comedy baggage smashers made a hit also.

The cast:

Nicodemus Nobbs	John Copeland
Mackintosh Moke	Wallace Kemp
Roseleaf	Geo. McDonald
Julia	Louis Marini
Susan	James Jenkins

"Slasher and Crasher' is an extremely farcical skit and it was very well produced by the older boys of the club. Major Blowhard was all dignity until near the end of the play when numerous lovable pats on the stomach with rapier and cane caused the old gentleman to forget for the time being his excellent military training. Irving T. Gumb, as Lieutenant Brown, took his part exceedingly well. The scene with Rose in which he is the bashful suitor was true to life and in the interview with Slasher, his military bearing was excellent. Slasher and Crasher were comedy characters and as impersonated by Everett Clark and Alex. Robertson lost none of their comic possibilities. Slasher is a base coward in the first part of the play but when he cuts loose near its close, everyone takes pains to keep out of his way. Crasher is "strong on the talk," but when his plan of feigned enmity is acted upon by Slasher, the schemer's knees begin to tremble and he seeks refuge behind the Major.

The female parts were well taken by William Falconer and Everett Howie. The latter has more opportunity to display her talents and she did extremely well. The female portion of the audience tittered whenever Rose and Dinah walked across the stage, but "the very ladylike tread" added greatly to the fun.

The audience was about 250 strong and applauded vociferously the efforts of the thespians. All the members of the cast acquitted themselves creditably, and each furnished his share toward the general fun. Mr. Erastus Osgood, who coached the casts, is to be congratulated on the success of both plays. The cast:

Benjamin Blowhard	Wm. Michael
Sampson Slasher	Everett Clark
Christopher Crasher	Alex. Robertson
Lieut. Brown	Irving T. Gumb
Dinah Blowhard	William Falconer
Rose	Everett Howie

ACCIDENT.

John Daly, a street railway motorman, received a painful injury this morning by having his foot run over by one of Ferguson's bakery wagons. The accident happened about 5 o'clock near the car barn. Daly, who had reported, started for City Square to get his breakfast just as one of Ferguson's teams came along. Thinking to get a ride he tried to board the team while it was in motion but fell, the wheels of the wagon passing over his foot. He was able to proceed to his home in a car.

DEATH OF FORMER SHERIFF

Augustus B. Endicott Was in 93d Year

The death at Dedham on Monday of Augustus B. Endicott recalls an active political contest in Norfolk county some years ago when there was an attempt on the part of Republicans to oust him from the office of sheriff. The independent voters rallied to his support and he was elected.

Mr. Endicott was in his 93d year and unusually active for his years. He was president of the Dedham National bank and had been at his desk up to Friday, Nov. 4, since which day he has been confined to his bed by injuries received from a fall as he was about to board an electric car to go to his home after the closing of the bank.

In his death there is the passing of one of Dedham's best known and most popular citizens. A gentleman of the old school, a keen wit, with a smile and a cheery word for everyone, his friends were legion. A famous story teller, he was always a center of a group of listeners and with a sociability that never diminished his was the beautiful picture of growing old gracefully.

Mr. Endicott was born in Canton, Sept. 10, 1818. He was educated in the public schools of that town and learned the carpenter's trade. He followed his trade for five years, and when he was 21 years old moved to Chelsea, where for several years he worked as a pattern maker in a foundry.

He came to Dedham in 1852 and the following year was appointed a deputy sheriff by Sheriff Thomas Adams. At that time the sheriff was appointed by the governor, although the deputies were selected by the sheriff as they are at present. He served as right-hand man under Sheriff Adams, Sheriff John W. Thomas and Sheriff Rufus C. Wood. During the latter's term he was appointed sheriff to perform the duties of the office in case of the illness or death of the sheriff.

Sheriff Wood died in 1885 and Gov. Robinson had no hesitation in appointing the Democratic deputy to succeed him. He received his commission Nov. 3, 1885 and a year later he was elected to the position. Every three years he was elected by the voters of the county, until he voluntarily retired. Only twice was he opposed by Republican candidates and each time he was returned to his office by large majorities.

He also held many town offices in Dedham, and was prominent in financial affairs. He is survived by a son and daughter, Henry B. Endicott and Mrs. George H. Young, wife of Rev. George H. Young, a retired Unitarian minister, several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Out of respect to the late ex-Sheriff Augustus B. Endicott ,the Norfolk superior civil court adjourned early Monday afternoon. Judge Edgar J. Sherman, the presiding justice, made an extended statement in relation to the services of Mr. Endicott and his personal relations with him.

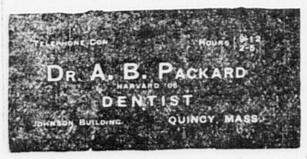

The flag was placed at half-staff over the county building, Memorial hall, the Dedham bank building and the insurance building.

The funeral services will be held Friday at 3 P. M. at the Unitarian church, Dedham.

SUNNY MONDAY

Sunny Monday laundry soap is most efficient for cleaning carpets—removing grease spots from clothing—washing lace curtains and doilies—and for every other cleaning purpose. It contains no rosin, washes woolens and flannels without shrinking, and works in any kind of water. Its marvelous dirt-starting quality spares your back and saves your time.

GENTLEMEN'S NIGHT

Mrs. Jones' home, where the first regular meeting of the club was held. All the ladies were early on hand gowned in their Sunday clothing, the hobble skirt seeming to be the height of ambition of them all. Each lady had been requested to prepare an essay, which she was to read, and they performed that part of their duty well. The essays were gems in a way and while not strictly original were brimful of tarusts at Mrs. Jones, which did not suit her any too well. The result was that each essay was nipped in the bud, and angry words followed, which resulted in all of the members withdrawing from the club, but not before the much-talked of spread had been served. This spread consisted of back number crackers, and there was just one a piece which was more than sufficient.

Between the scenes there were selections on the piano and violin by Miss Angela C. McCarthy and Miss Marguerite McCarthy and selections by a ladies' quartet composed of Miss Mary Brick, Miss Helen Brick, Miss Agnes Kelley and Miss Mary McConarty.

The program which was highly pleasing was under the direction of Miss Mary R. Lyons, Miss Helen H. Gavin and Miss Anna J. Walsh. At its conclusion an adjournment was made to the rooms of the Knights of Columbus club where the refreshment committee served appetizing sandwiches and coffee. General dancing followed until 11 o'clock in Colonial hall.

The cast of characters in the comedy were:

Mrs. Jones	Helen L. Calvin
Mrs. Brown,	Mary R. Lyons
Mrs. Snow,	Helen H. Gavin

A PROTEST.

The special committee appointed at a recent meeting held in Weymouth by representatives of the towns interested in the building of the new bridge over Weymouth Back river meet today in Boston. The government has ordered the towns interested to bear the expense of the proposed bridge, and the committee appointed at the Weymouth meeting is to formulate plans for a formal protest against the towns bearing the expense of the proposed changes which are largely for the War department.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL

At the morning service the boys' sermon was on the topic "Scouting; signals by Stones." The theme for the regular sermon was: "The faith worth while."

In the afternoon at 4 there was a musical vespers followed by a short address by the pastor, subject: "The White Sister, the story of a vow."

All the services were largely attended and the vespers service in the afternoon was especially helpful.

BURGLARY.

It was reported to the police Monday afternoon that the house of Norman Loud on Hobart street, Wollaston, had been entered by burglars and a revolver and other articles taken. The family had been away for two weeks and the break was not discovered until their return.

Oh! Such a Difference In Mattresses

"You certainly do make good mattresses" said a lady to us some days ago as she placed her order for 2 mattresses to be sent to her old home in Maine. Yes, we do make good mattresses—just as good as it's possible for skilled mattress makers to make with the best of materials and sanitary surroundings. Our mattresses are honest through and through—and that's why our reputation for high grade bedding has made this department such a tremendous factor in our business. Every kind of mattress—Hair, Felt, Silk Floss, Cotton Fibre, Moss, or even the $3.00 soft top mattress. You can make no mistake if you buy your mattress here.

New England's Lowest Priced Home Furnishers

1495 Hancock St., Quincy. Open Monday, Friday and Saturday Evenings

Nov. 22-3t O-1w

WE wish to call the attention of our customers and to the buying Public of Quincy and surrounding towns, that after a careful inspection and comparison, we consider that, taking the quality and genuine value of our goods, that we are the lowest priced store in Massachusetts.

Now, this may seem to be a broad statement to some people but we stand ready to PROVE our statement. We claim that nowhere in Quincy or any part of Massachusetts, do they sell better QUALITY or do they charge lower prices for the same QUALITY of goods than we do. We have been noted for years for the QUALITY of the goods we sell, and are ever ready to make good when the goods are not just as represented, and nowhere can you get such a guarantee of Quality. You all know that there is a certain value to High Quality Provisions as well as other commodities that you use; and when you go along the street and read the advertisements of different dealers who are selling you something at a ridiculously low price, you can depend upon it that you are surely buying a gold brick, for you cannot buy something that is absolutely worth thirty cents for fifteen cents and expect Quality any more than you can buy a three thousand dollar automobile for fifteen hundred and expect it to be just as good.

Now we have posted ourselves on the different grades of the other dealers and we say once more that we are the lowest priced Quality Store in Quincy or Massachusetts, and we ask you, if you want proof, to call and compare our goods and prices with what you are paying.

Just now the market has eased off considerably and we were one of the first dealers to give our customers the benefit, showing you that we are WITH the people, our customers, at all times.

Thanksgiving will be here soon and we wish to inform our customers that we shall have a grand display of DELICIOUS fresh Goods for the trade. No cheap trash, but fresh, wholesome, clean stock—the only kind FIT TO BUY, TO EAT, and the prices will be hammered down just as hard as possible for them to be and for us to live; so we invite you to our store, where you can see that our statements are all absolutely true in every respect.

Space will not permit us to quote at length our prices but below will be found the prices of a few things that we know to be of more than special value.

Curtice Bro's Family Tomatoes 12 1-2c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Cut, String or Wax Beans 10c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Maine Sweet Corn 12 1-2c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Small Peas (that fresh sweet flavor) 17c a can
Regular Value 20c

" " Champion of England Peas 15c a can
ONE OF THE BEST GROWN Regular Value 18c

" " May Duke Peas (a winner) 10c a can
Regular Value 13c

QUEEN LOUISE FLOUR at 90c a bag

We ask you to use some of this flour and if you do not find it to be the best you ever used, return the empty bag to us and receive your money back. This is the guarantee that goes with the FLOUR.

We sell the famous La Touraine Coffee for 35c a pound. The EQUAL of any 40c coffee on the Market.

With each pound of La Touraine Coffee we give FREE any 5c bar of soap you wish.

Our line of Teas are the BEST in Quincy, carefully selected and chosen to suit the heavy and light tea tastes of our customers. One special Tea at 60c we wish to call your attention to, a regular $1.00 Quality. Try some.

Our Market—always the best, always the LOWEST PRICED and the VERY HIGHEST QUALITY. This part of our large business speaks for itself. It needs no debate, as it is in a class all by itself; but of one thing you may be sure, considering the Quality, we are surely cutting the prices on GOOD SUBSTANTIAL CORN FED BEEF.

We have our prices on MEAT on our price Board in plain sight of every one who enters our store, and all we ask is, compare Quality and then compare Prices, and you will see that we are not selling you NOTHING for SOMETHING, but for every penny you spend with us, you get your penny's worth in return, in WEIGHT and MEASURE and QUALITY, to say nothing of HEALTH and HAPPINESS in your HOME because a poor QUALITY of cheap meats never promotes HEALTH and therefore little HAPPINESS.

Inspect our poultry department, before you buy elsewhere and see what a splendid line of fresh killed chicken—fowl and turkeys we have to offer, and we will guarantee that the prices will be cut as close as it is possible to cut them, for we wish to sell every one a Thanksgiving Turkey or Chicken. Once again we invite you to our Store to inspect our goods and prices.

"No; worse than that. I saw a great bargain in shoes and had a hole in one of my stockings."

BRIEFS

Sunrise at 6.43; sunset at 4.17.

The prediction of skating for the holiday will have to be revised.

Perhaps the warm weather will cause a drop in the prices of turkeys.

It is expected that the new school building at Houghs Neck will be used Dec. 1.

The 40-degree temperature this morning was quite a contrast with the 20 degrees on Monday.

Installation of officers of Quincy lodge of Elks this evening, to be followed by a social at the club rooms.

Fruit, cider, hot coffee, etc., will be served at the rooms of the Granite City club Wednesday evening after the whist tournament.

The Fore River Shipbuilding Company is now "at home" in its new office building, which is a great improvement over the old building. It is not only more commodious but lighter.

A special meeting of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, will be held at St. Mary's hall tonight, when the third degree will be exemplified upon a large class of candidates. A large number of visitors from neighboring towns is expected to be present.

The members of the Granite City club who were at the rooms Monday evening feel very much indebted to the ladies of the Quincy Catholic club for the fine sandwiches and coffee sent to them. A large plateful of sandwiches disappeared with great rapidity.

Rev. Neil P. Brennan, of the Immaculate Conception church of Malden, has been assigned to a curacy at St. John's church, Quincy, taking the place of Rev. J. J. Casey who is ill. Rev. Fr. Brennan was recently chaplain of the 8th U. S. cavalry at Fort Robinson, Nebraska.

Many Christian Endeavorers from Quincy attended the Young People's Rally in Tremont Temple Sunday afternoon. All denominations were represented. The principal speakers were Rev. Samuel M. Crothers of Combridge, Rev. Clarence A. Vincent of Roxbury, Guy A. Ham, Esq., of Dorchester, and Hon. Robert F. Raymond of Newton. Over 2,000 young people attended the service.

USE OF MAILS TO DEFRAUD

Charged Against Corporation Dealing In Stocks

GOVERNMENT CONDUCTS RAID

Books and Papers of Burr Bros. Seized by Federal Officers, Who Arrest Three Heads of Firm—No Dividends Received by Buyers of Between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 of Stock In Various Companies

New York, Nov. 22.—Federal officials raided the offices occupied by Burr Bros., a corporation dealing in stocks and other securities. The raid was made on warrants charging use of the mails to defraud investors. Postoffice officials say that the concern has sold to investors at par value between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 of stock in various companies, most of which have gone out of existence or have become bankrupt.

The warrants were issued by United States Commissioner Shield and the officers of the corporation were arrested and its books and papers seized. The raid was planned by Postoffice Inspector Dickson, in charge of this district, and Postmaster General Hitchcock and Chief Postoffice Inspector Sharpe, who came from Washington to see that it was carried out successfully.

The officers arrested were Sheldon C. Burr, president; Frank H. Tobey, vice president, and Eugene H. Burr, secretary and treasurer. Arrests are expected to be made in Cleveland, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco, where the corporation has extensive offices.

Postoffice officials have been working on the case for months. Hundreds of complaints have been made against the corporation by investors who charge that they have been swindled through false representations made to them concerning the profits that were being realized by those who put their money into oil, timber, copper, lead, zinc and gold.

Before criminal action could be taken postoffice inspectors had to secure legal evidence as to the standing and affairs of the various companies which the Burr Bros. were promoting and which they alleged to the investors were operating to their fullest capacity and were paying dividends. The inquiry necessitated visits by government experts to mines and other properties in distant parts of the country.

After the raid Hitchcock gave out an official memorandum concerning the Burr Bros., which was organized several years ago and in 1907 was incorporated with a capital of $100,000, and later increased to $300,000. The memorandum gives a long list of companies in which the firm has been interested and concludes:

"Sheldon C. Burr, Eugene H. Burr and F. Harry Tobey are the only members of the firm in New York at the present time.

"In every instance they have promised large dividends on the stock sold in addition to an increase in the value of the stock, but not in a single case have any of the companies paid any dividends, and practically all of them have been complete failures.

"The department has received several hundred complaints from people who have bought this stock and lost their money."

The three officials of the company, President Burr, Vice President Tobey and Secretary Burr, were arraigned before Commissioner Shields and held in $20,000 bail each. The federal prosecutor said that the alleged frauds are very extensive. The date for the examination of the three prisoners will be determined later. Other officials alleged to be connected with the Burr Bros. in the west and on the Pacific coast are C. H. Tobey and E. W. Preston.

The raid on Burr Bros. is said to be only the first step on the part of the government to suppress fake brokerage houses, which Hitchcock said had in five years fleeced the public out of $10,000,000.

Charles L. Vaughn, a director of the Continental Wireless Telegraph and Telephone company, incorporated in Arizona, was taken in a second raid and held in $10,000 bail. Inspectors say his company has sold stock to the amount of at least $1,000,000 which has brought no return to the investors. Vaughn is treasurer of the Columbia Finance company, which acts as fiscal agent for the Continental Wireless Telegraph and Telephone company, and had charge of the Continental's offices in this city.

GASTON IN THE FIELD

Solicits Democratic Support In Contest For Lodge's Senate Seat

Boston, Nov. 22.—William A. Gaston has announced his candidacy for the United States senate now occupied by Senator Lodge, in a letter which he has sent to Democratic members-elect of the legislature of 1911, in which he says he believes that Democrats should nominate a caucus candidate and solicits their support.

Mr. Gaston was the nominee of the Democrats in the legislature for United States senator in 1905, when Lodge was last elected. At that time the Democratic nomination for United States senator was merely a mark of respect to a distinguished member of the party. Gaston was the Democratic candidate for governor in 1902 and again in 1903. Just before that he had served on the staff of Governor Russell.

REPRIEVE IS DENIED

Crippen Maintains His Innocence and Is Not Afraid to Die

London, Nov. 22.—Harvey H. Crippen's petition for a reprieve was denied, the home secretary announcing that he declined to interfere with the sentence of the court. Crippen will be executed on the morning of Nov. 23.

Dr. Crippen in a three-column signed statement, said that he was not afraid to die, and bows to the inevitable. He appeals to the world to remember that he was condemned on inconclusive evidence, and asserts that the real truth will be revealed.

He knew nothing, he says, of the remains discovered in the Hill Drop Crescent house until Solicitor Newton told him the day after his arrival at Bow street. He was confident that if he could have commanded unlimited funds like the crown, and have brought more medical witnesses, the result would have been different.

BANDITS' FRIENDS MAY SEEK REVENGE

Fears of Salem Police Department Are Aroused

Salem, Mass., Nov. 22.—As a result of reports made by hardware dealers that four foreigners, presumably Russians, have been trying to buy automatic revolvers, the police believe that harm was intended court officials here by friends of the Lynn bandits, Wasili Iwankowski and Andrei Ipsen, who were found guilty of murder last week.

According to the dealers, the revolvers wanted by the quartet were of a make similar to the guns used by Iwankowski and Ipsen in the murder of Thomas Landregan and Patrolman Carroll in Lynn, June 25 last. The police here are convinced that friends of the imprisoned bandits are either planning to shoot up the jail or else to attack court officials.

Because of occurrences of the last few days, the police attach great importance to the statement made by Iwankowski after he had been sentenced Friday. Iwankowsky was interpreted as exclaiming:

"You'll be sorry you did not investigate better."

HE NEEDS THE MONEY

Chicago Man Offers to Commit Suicide For Sum of $200

Chicago, Nov. 22.—A man who said his name was Robert Tyler startled Sergeant O'Connor at the Harrison street police station by offering to commit suicide for $200.

"I mean it," said the man, who had come to ask for lodging. "You may think I'm crazy, but I'm not. If any medical college in Chicago gives me $200, I will agree that my body be given to it for dissection purposes. Two hundred dollars would enable me to live like a king for about two weeks and at the end of that time I'd be ready to quit here."

COLLISION DURING SQUALL

Results In Drowning of Schooner Captain and His Wife

Canso, N. S., Nov. 22.—Carried down by their stricken craft, which had been damaged in a collision, Captain Samuel Whiston of the schooner Midnigh and his seagoing wife were drowned off Beaver harbor in the moment when safety seemed certain.

The schooner Lila D. Young, which collided with the Midnight during a heavy snow squall, arrived here with three members of the Midnight crew, reporting the accident.

EARLY THANKSGIVING DAYS.

The first recorded Thanksgiving was the Hebrew feast of the tabernacles.

The first national English Thanksgiving was on Sept. 8, 1588, for the defeat of the Spanish Armada.

There were but two English Thanksgivings in the 19th century. One was on Feb. 27, 1872, for the recovery of the Prince of Wales from illness; the other, June 21, 1887, for the Queen's jubilee.

The New England Thanksgiving dates from 1621, when the Massachusetts Bay Colony set apart a day for thanksgiving.

The first national Thanksgiving proclamations were by Congress during the Revoluntionary War.

The first great American Thanksgiving Day was in 1784, for the declaration of peace. There was one more national thanksgiving in 1789 and no other till 1863, when President Lincoln issued a national proclamation for a day of thanksgiving. Since that time the President has issued an annual proclamation.—Journal of Education.

A Collect For Thanksgiving Day.

I thank thee, Father, for thy sky,
Wherein thy little sparrows fly;
For unseen hands that build and break
The cloud pavilions for my sake,
This fleeting beauty, high and wild,
Toward which I wonder as a child.

And thanks for morning's stir and light
And for the folding hush of night;
For those high deities that spread
The star filled chasm overhead;
For elfin chemistries that yield
The green fires of the April field;
For all the foam and surge of bloom,
For leaves gone glorious to their doom—
All the wild loveliness that can
Touch the immortal in a man.

Father of Life, I thank thee, too,
For old acquaintance, near and true;
For friends who came into my day
And took the loneliness away;
For faith that held on to the last,
For all sweet memories of the past—
Dear memories of my dead that send
Long thoughts of life and of life's end,
That make me know the light conceals
A deeper world than it reveals.
—Edwin Markham in Success.

Thanksgiving.

I offer thanks!
No flaming sword my Eden's gate has barred,
No blot of blame has my escutcheon marred.
The good stars of my horoscope have reigned.
No hope deferred my heart's content has pained.
My fireside ring remains a perfect round.
Wherefore from my glad lips let this resound,
"I offer thanks!"

I offer thanks!
Twelvemonth of plenty and of peace I've known.
No wind of fate contrariwise has blown.
Through tranquil zones of calms my barks have steered.
No sea drowned wrecks have in my ports appeared.
No false mirages have perplexed my ken.
No vexing phantoms crying "Might have been!"
I offer thanks! —Suste M. Best

FAIR EXCHANGE

A New Back for an Old One. How it Can be Done in Quincy.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the old back for a new and stronger one. Quincy residents would do well to profit by the following example.

Richard Smith, South Central avenue, Wollaston, Mass., says: "I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I had dull pains through the small of my back and on arising in the morning, I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly dress myself. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply and in a short time after beginning their use, I was relieved. After I had taken the contents of two boxes of this remedy, I was in good health and I have had no kidney trouble since. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this change in my condition and I gladly recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Insomnia

"I have been using Cascarets for Insomnia, with which I have been afflicted for twenty years, and I can say that Cascarets have given me more relief than any other remedy I have ever tried. I shall certainly recommend them to my friends as being all that they are represented."

AIRSHIP DROPS HUNDRED FEET

Then Brought Under Control by Skillful Aviator

CYLINDER HEAD BLOWS OUT

Grahame-White Has Woman Passenger With Him When He Has Closest Call He Ever Experienced—Airship Has No Charms For "Father of Balloonists," Who Is Glad to Return to Earth After a Flight

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—Claude Grahame-White, the English aviator, for about two seconds was very near death and with him was Miss Violet Ridgway of Philadelphia, whom he had taken on a flight in his Bleriot aeroplane.

When the machine was 300 feet in the air and directly over an iron picket fence the cylinder head of the machine suddenly blew out. Like a shot the machine with its double cargo dropped. For 100 feet it continued on its dizzy descent when White brought it under control. Then the machine gracefully glided to the ground in a perfect volplane.

Miss Ridgway kept her nerve and upon landing had not even lost her color. She joked with her acquaintances, declaring she had perfect faith in her aviator's ability and was not a bit seared. With the aviator it was different. He was chalk colored, not, as he explained, for any fear of personal injury, but because he was the custodian of one of the most popular women of Philadelphia and New York.

"It was the closest call I ever had," said White, "and I do not wish for a repetition of it in a hurry." Miss Eleonora Sears of Boston also made a flight with White.

Notwithstanding the accident the aviator immediately set his mechanics at work and within fifteen minutes the aeroplane had been completed and White was tearing through the air in a four-mile race with Harvey Ringler, who drove a thirty-horsepower auto. The aviator won the four-mile race by more than half a mile, the time being a trifle more than seven minutes.

Samuel King, the father of balloonists, made his first ascension in an aeroplane, and after he had alighted after a fourteen-minute flight, he declared a balloon was safe enough for him, but he never would risk his life again in an aeroplane. King went up with Clifford Harmon.

The old gentleman seated himself in the aeroplane, and Harmon started the motor. Immediately King wanted to get out, but Harmon grabbed him and ordered his mechanics to let go. They did, and King put in a most miserable fourteen minutes.

Upon alighting Harmon told how the experienced balloonist had begged of him to be taken down.

Some years ago Jago King gave Harmon his first soar in a balloon. Yesterday Harmon gave King his first ride in a propelled airship.

NO PRECEDENT FOR ACTION

Receiver's Move Against Cambridge Bank Officials Fails In Court

Boston, Nov. 22.—Judge Colt of the United States circuit court denied a motion made by John L. Bates, receiver of the National City Bank of Cambridge, for a special precept of attachment for $300,000 against Edwin Dresser, Sumner Dresser and George W. Gale, directors of the bank.

The receiver sues to recover for losses sustained by the embezzlement of funds by George W. Coleman, alleging negligence on their part.

The motion was denied for the reason that there was no precedent for for such action and the rules of the court do not provide for it.

Pleased at Democrats' Ability to Come Back

TAKES A FLING AT COCKRAN

Croker Calls Him the Greatest Hoodoo That Ever Was

New York, Nov. 22.—Expressing keen delight with the recent Democratic successes in various parts of the country, but refused to comment on the causes or the possible effects, Richard Croker, the one time Tammany chieftain, is in this city, where he expects to stay until after Thanksgiving day, when he will start for Palm Beach, where he intends to spend the winter.

"Cockran, I understand, supported Roosevelt in the campaign in New York state," said Croker. "Cockran is enough to queer any party. I think he is the greatest hoodoo that ever was. So the Democratic party has come back. Such things happen once in a while."

CHURCH SAID TO BE FIRST OF ITS KIND

Founded by Minister in Vermont and Has No Creed

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 22.—Rev. John M. Paige, until within a short time a minister of the Universalist church, has been ordained as pastor of the Everyday church of Burlington, an organization of his own creation and the first of its kind in the world.

In his sermon at yesterday's simple ceremony in Knights of Pythias hall, Paige outlined the principles of the church as being one without creed, which recognizes a man for his worth to his fellows rather than his financial standing; which strives for truth as it is shown by the light of modern ideas rather than by traditions; that discourages public prayer; that has for its cardinal principles simplicity and humanity.

CLERK ADMITS THEFT

Skipped From Holyoke With Money Belonging to Employers

Boston, Nov. 22.—Samuel I. Shaw, 23, the trusted bookkeeper of the Holyoke branch of Morris & Co., packers, was arrested in a South End lodging house last evening, charged with stealing $1940 from his employers.

Shaw was taken back to Holyoke by Inspector Metcalf of the Holyoke department. The prisoner admitted his guilt.

When Shaw made up his mind to depart fom Holyoke last week he placed all the books in the safe, then changed the combination of the safe and left town. The larceny of the money took place during the past three weeks.

NEUTRALITY TO BE ENFORCED

United States Troops Will Guard the Border of Texas

NO SYMPATHY WITH REBELS

Disturbers Will Not Be Allowed to Cross to or From Mexico—Insurrection Joined by Several Thousand More Men Who Are Opposed to Diaz Government—Hundred Reported Killed In Fight at Zacatecas

Washington, Nov. 22.—Major General Wood, chief of staff, U. S. A., has telegraphed Brigadier General Hoyt, commanding the department of Texas, with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, to hold his forces in readiness to act in conjunction with Governor Campbell of Texas should he find it necessary to use United States troops to ensure neutrality on the border.

Mexican revolutionists need expect no favors from the United States government. Diaz has the moral support of this government, and if necessary, United States soldiers will clear the Mexican border of all revolutionists. This is the attitude of the United States as outlined by state department officials.

The neutrality treaty with Mexico is to be rigidly enforced. All Mexicans who attempt to incite disorder, and who are operating on the Texas side of the border are to be rounded up and arrested as speedily as the secret service agents of the United States can operate. Mexicans who attempt to cross the border into Mexico to support or foment any armed revolution are to be treated as outlaws.

City of Mexico dispatches say that President Diaz called a special meeting of the cabinet yesterday. It is understood that plans were discussed for the immediate enlargement of the Mexican army.

Seven thousand Mexicans, many of them armed and equipped with horses, have crossed the Rio Grande into Mexico and are racing with government troops toward a secret rendezvous in the mountains, according to advices from El Paso.

Fifty thousand rounds of ammunition have been confiscated in the city of Pachuca. The Fifth Mexican battalion is under arms at San Blas, fearing riots in the territory of Tepis.

A dispatch from the sheriff of Valverde county, received at El Paso, stated that there had been a battle between Mexicans and Americans on the border, and that the Mexicans had been badly whipped.

Word was received from Eagle Pass, Tex., that Mexican revolutionists there had announced that General Reyes was on his way to lead the revolutionists against the Diaz government. Reyes was the closest rival of Diaz for the presidency, and was recently sent abroad.

Several thousand Mexican revolutionists are reported to be gathering in the mountains across the border from Marathon, Tex., to march on Chihuahua.

A dispatch from Hermandez, Mex., says that there was a revolutionary outbreak there late Sunday night. The rioters shouted "Down with Diaz," and were fired upon by the troops.

A battle has been fought at Zacatecas in the interior, and according to reports reaching here, at least 100 were killed when soldiers fired into a body of revolutionists. Rumors are current of conflicts along the border. Martial law is in force at Guerrero and riots are said to have taken place.

A FOUR PENNY TURKEY.

He was a bouncing big turkey; and they hung him by the heels, so that his nose almost touched the walk just outside the butcher's shop. A little girl was standing there watching it. You could see that she was a hungry little girl; and, worse than that, she was cold, too for her shawl had to do for hood and almost everything else. No one was looking, and so she put out a little red hand and gave the great turkey a push; and he swung back and forth almost making the great iron hook creak, he was so heavy.

"What a splendid big turkey!"

The poor little girl turned round; and there was another little girl looking at the turkey too. She was out walking with her dolls, and had on a cloak with real fur all around the edges; and she had a real muff, white with little black spots all over it.

"Good morning, miss," said the butcher man. You see he knew the little girls with the muff perfectly well.

"That's a big turkey, Mr. Martin."

"Yes," said the poor little girl timidly. "He's the biggest I ever saw in my life. He must be splendid to eat."

"Pooh!" said the little girl with the muff. "He isn't any bigger than the one my papa brought home for Thanksgiving to-morrow, I know."

"Could I have a leg, if I came for it tomorrow?" asked the poor little girl softly.

"What! haven't you a whole turkey?"

"Never had one in my life," said the poor little girl.

"Then you shall have this one," said the little lady with the muff. "Mr. Martin, I've got some money in my savings-bank at home, and my papa said I could do just as I wanted to with it; and I'm going to buy the turkey for this little girl."

The poor little girl's eyes grew so very large you wouldn't have known them. "I shall love you always so very, very much; and I'll go home for Foxy to help. Foxy is my brother, and I know we can carry him."

I haven't room to tell you all about it; but the poor little girl got her turkey, and papa his bill.

"What's this?" said he. "Another turkey eighteen pounds, $3.60?"

"Thats all right," said the little girl who had the muff. "I bought him, and gave him to a poor little girl who never ate one; and the money is in my iron bank."

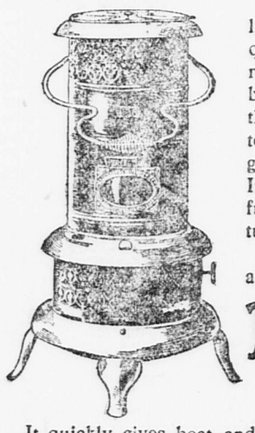

The bank was opened, and there were just four big pennies in it.—New York Tribune.

like illness, it is often necessary quickly to raise the temperature of a room. For instance, in those hours between midnight and dawn, when the day temperature has been allowed to drop, if you are called upon to get up, the room is chilly and cold. It takes a long time to start up a furnace or fire and raise the temperature by ordinary means.

You can instantly heat a room to any desired temperature with a

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

It quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be cleaned in an instant. It has a cool handle and a damper top.

An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. It has a filler-cap which does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking.

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel. It is strong, durable and well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

BRIEFS

Walter E. Piper of Centre street, has returned from a three weeks' gunning trip in Maine.

The street railway has had a gang of men at work for the past few days cleaning off the dirt which had accumulated on the rails.

A Monatiquot colony installation will take place in Pilgrim church, North Weymouth, this evening. The grand deputy from Brockton will have charge of the ceremonies.

Those interested in the formation of a new Council of the Knights of Columbus at West Quincy are planning for a concert to raise funds toward a new building.

The house belonging to William K. Chubbuck, at 584 Washington street, is undergoing repairs. When these are completed, the house will be occupied by Daniel Scouler, Jr., of 63 Madison avenue.

Eminent Sir Henry A. Litchfield has been designated by Grand Commander Blake to make the inspection of South Shore commandery, Knights Templar, at East Weymouth before July 1, 1911.

A lecture on the Philippines will be given by the Rev. R. E. Armstrong at Christ Church Parish House this evening at eight o'clock. Mr. Armstrong talks from personal experience and the lecture is illustrated by pictures, many of which he took himself. Personal touch always counts for much, and Mr. Armstrong spent two years in the Philippines and has a lot of good stories to point his remaks.

An unusual array of flae talent has been secured by Quincy Council Knights of Columbus for the grand concert to be given under its auspices at Alpha hall next Monday evening for the benefit of the tuberculosis camp. The well known Westland Ladies quartet will give several selections and in addition Stanley Nichols the well known Boston entertainer will be heard. There will also be baritone solos by Edward J. Sullivan, soprano solos by Miss Helen Galvin and readings by Miss Margaret Heaney. The object is a most worthy one and the entertainers should be greeted by a full house.

There will be an auction sale next Saturday evening at the church of the goods unsold at the recent Swedish M. E. church fair.

A joint committee is being appointed by the local G. A. R., the Woman's Relief corps, the Sons of Veterans and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans to arrange a reception to John E. Gilman, Commander in Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. As soon as the committee is appointed the hall will be decided upon and definite arrangements will be made for holding the reception in the near future. It wil be a great honor to the city as well as to the local oranizations to entertain this "grand old man" and everyone will be sure to turn out to do him honor.

A TEA SERVED.

After the demonstration at the Free Cooking school on Monday Miss Jennings gave a tea to the ladies of the Day Nursery Association and the Women's club. The demonstration was of currant tea ring, dinner rolls and Waldorf salad. The salad was served to the ladies together with sandwiches and Russian tea. A large number attended the tea and all expressed their pleasure in it.

Today the cooking school closes Miss Jennings will demonstrate cocoa, bread and rolls, waffles and cheese straws. Her demonstrations here have met with less interest than they deserved, but all who have attended have derived great benefit from them. Tomorrow the school will move on to Brockton.

RUNAWAY GIRL.

A young girl apparently about 15 years of age, who gave her name as Mildred Brown, was found at Mrs. McDonalds boarding house on Washington street Monday night by Chief Burrell, and turned over to her mother, who took her home. The girl, whose home is in Boston, desiring to see more of the world, ran away last Saturday, and came to Quincy and hired a room at Mrs. McDonald's boarding house. She told a rather mixed story and Mrs. McDonald becoming convinced that all was not right, reported the case to the police. An investigation was made, and the girl's home located. Monday night the mother came to Quincy, and Chief Burrell accompanied her to the boarding house. The girl at first did not want to return home, saying she wanted to get a situation in Quincy. After some moral persuasion, however, she consented to return.

NEW CATHOLIC CLUB.

Leo P. Noonan was elected president por tem at a meeting held at Houghs Neck on Sunday to organize a Catholic club. James P. A. Purcell was chosen secretary pro tem. About forty were present at the meeting and steps were taken to form a permanent organization. A committee was also appointed to select quarters for club meetings.

CONGREGATIONAL CLUB.

"The golden age" will be the title of the address to be given before the Wollaston Congregational club this evening by Rev. George L. Cady, D. D., of Dorchester. Mr. Cady is regarded as a forceful speaker and his talk will deal with socialism, a question to which he has given much study. A campaign for new members is being carried on by the club this fall with gratifying results.

MILTON LARCENY CASES.

The continued cases of the two Milton girls charged with breaking and entering came up in court this morning. Since the hearing last week Chief Pierce has visited Manchester, N. H., and recovered some of the stolen jewelry that had been pawned. The two young men who had been the girls' companions at the house where champagne had flowed told the court their story. On the day of the first hearing the Peck girl denied that she had ever been into the house, but after hearing the evidence of the two young men, she admitted that she had not told the truth, and that she had been in the house. After some further testimony, the court held the Peck girl in $600 bonds on two complaints for larceny for the grand jury. As the second girl was a juvenile her case was heard in the juvenile session, after which she was ordered to be committed to the Lancaster school for girls.

TODAY'S COURT.

Sidney Smith was fined $25 for assault on James C. Egan at Milton.

Patrick O'Neil was arraigned for drunkenness at Milton. Case continued until March 1.

Manitio Macconi was arraigned for threats at Milton. Case continued until Dec. 6.

Michael Monahan of Weymouth was fined $25 for assault, and $25 for carrying a revolver.

Marion Peck was held in $600 on two complaints for larceny at Milton.

Cisido Berardinelli was arraigned for soliciting sales of liquor in Quincy. Case continued until Nov. 29.

Demi Pema was fined $15 for drunkenness at Quincy, and Patrick Welch $4.53 for the same offence at Weymouth.

Domenico Morigiola was fined $5 for carrying a gun in the Blue Hills reservation.

William McLoughlin was arraigned for disturbing the peace at Quincy. He was found guilty and put on probation until Dec. 16.

Hugh Gilmartin was find $10 for assault on Patrick Downey at Quincy.

Patrick Downey was fined $10 for injury to real estate at Quincy.

Abraham S. Foss was arraigned for breaking and entering at Quincy. Cast continued until next Monday.

LOCAL SPOTS.

Quincy will have two rousing good soccer games on the holiday. In the morning at 10.30 on the Water street grounds, the McGregors will meet the Charlestown team. At Quincy Point the Fore River team will line up against the Boston Americans.

* * *

Several Quincy people are interested in the annual foot ball game to be played at the Harvard Stadium on the holiday by teams from the First Corps of Cadets and Battery A.

* * *

No games are scheduled this week in the Columbus Club bowling league.

* * *

Weymouth High was defeated on Monday by Abington High 7 to 0.

The midseason meeting of the Boston and district association football league was held Sunday at the headquarters of the Boston Rovers, Jamaica Plain. Pres. William MacLachlan of the Boston Rangers presided. The following clubs were represented: Boston Rovers, Fore River, McGregors Beverly, General Electric of Lynn, Lynn Fosse, Charlestown, Boston Americans.

Considerable time was spent, says the Globe, hearing the claims of referees for fees. Referee Todd presented a claim for a game scheduled for Nov. 5 between the McGregors and the Boston Rovers, the latter failing to make the journey. The McGregors were ordered to pay the fee. Brockton was ordered to pay the fee of referee Roake for the unplayed Brockton-Fore River game.

The managers of the Beverly F. C. lodged an objection to the appointment of referee Tighe.

The managers of the McGregors of Quincy asked the league to take action as to its game with the Fore River F. C., which was originally scheduled for Sept. 10, and postponed. The McGregors sought to restrain the managers of the Fore River eleven from playing a game arranged with the Boston Americans on Thanksgiving day. The committee ruled that the arrangements for the Fore River-McGregor game must be made for some future date and that the game between the former and the Boston Americans takes prior claim.

Joseph Gibson, the old Riverdale player, was added to the list of referees.

The managers of the Lynn Fosse team gave an open transfer to Joseph Barr, and he will be added to the Boston American playing list.

President MacLachlan announced that the managers of the Boston Rangers had decided to withdraw the team from further games of the Boston and District league on account of lack of players.

A charge was made that the Rovers, last year's champions, had been guilty of a breach of the league rules by playing ineligible men. The matter will be taken up at the next meeting.

CLASS OF 25 CANDIDATES

Initiated by the Knights of Columbus

There was a very large attendance of members and visitors at the meeting of the Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, Tuesday evening. The meeting was held in St. Mary's hall which was none too large to accommodate those in attendance. The work of the evening was the third degree which was exemplified on a class of 25 candidates from Quincy, Weymouth and Boston. The work was performed by District Deputy Grand Knight Charles J. Brady, assisted by District Deputy Grand Knight John J. Sullivan. Refreshments were served in the lower hall after the work of the evening.

TWO MORE BATTLESHIPS.

Representative Ernest W. Roberts of Massachusetts, one of the Republican members of the House Naval Committee, believes that President Taft's programme for increase of the navy will be accepted by Congres at the short session. "President Taft will recommend two new battleships in his annual message to Congress in December," he said, "and I feel certain that the House and Senate will give him what he asks. I think with the President that we should have two new battleships each year until the opening of the Panama Canal, when we will be able to quickly transfer our vessels from one ocean to the other and such a large increase may not be necessary If the democrats maintain the position toward the navy which they have assumed in the main during the last few years the chances are that the country will not get more than one battleship a year after this winter. I believe they will be making a great mistake, however, if they refuse to appropriate for two new ships."

Wexelbaum—"Ve can't affordt to throw much rice away at Mosey and Repecca after the vedding, Rachel."

Mrs. Waxelbaum (reassuringly)—"I know that, Abraham; but I'll boil id, and then id'll swell and look like a lot!"

DR. CADY ON SOCIALISM

Speaker at the Wollaston Congregational Club

Under the title of "The Golden Age," Rev. George L. Cady, D. D., of Dorchester spoke to the Wollaston Congregational club at its meeting on Tuesday evening, of Socialism and the conditions affecting it. The address of Dr. Cady was most scholarly and forceful showing with what deep thought and concentration he has gone into the subject.

All ages, said the speaker have their dreams. Plato dreamed of "the golden age." Sir Thomas More in his "Utopia" and Bacon in his "New Atlantis" both dreamed of perfection realized. Today one of the most significant, alarming and intensely interesting dreams is that of Socialism.

Some of the existing evils of the age were taken by the speaker and diagnosed. Special stress was laid on the overworked labor of children in the mills and factories in order that dividends of 40 or even 60 per cent might be paid their owners, to be expended upon the luxuries of Fifth avenue.

These inequalities of life breed discontent, socialism and even anarchy. Christianity is ever a protest against such conditions and revolution is nearly always likely to follow.

Set any age to the standard of the "Ten Commandments" and the "Sermon on the Mount" and it will invariably fall short. Nothing would cause a greater stampede on Wall street than the laying down of the "Golden Rule."

The Socialistic propaganda finds many things with which we are in accord but we must distinguish between the protest and the program of Socialism.

I am in sympathy with its protest but averse to its program. Its program is a misfit of the evils of the hour.

In the first place it is a wrong philosophy of economics that all sources of production should be owned by society in general. This would mean a readjustment of the entire wage system.

To bring into force the tenets of Socialism as understood at the present day all property must ultimately belong to the public. If we would not have conditions resolve back into their present state we must not have any such thing as private property. But suppose the City of Boston owned the Boston Elevated. Where do you think Fitz and Brother Henry would fit?

Until the entire course of human nature is changed we cannot deny the chance to earn or own more than any other man.

Civilization began with the first man who drew a line around his rude hut and put up a sign "Keep off the grass!" We destroy the main incentive in life when we take away from man the power to own private property.

I do not mean by this that we always have a right to do what we want with our own property. It is a good thing to encourage infant industries but when that infant gets so large that he wears a number twelve shoe a number sixteen collar, a number nine hat and rises up and tells you that unless you continue to rock the cradle he will knock your head off it is time he was spanked. I tell you men that in the next ten years to come, vested interests are going to receive the biggest spanking they ever had in their lives.

While Socialists claim that it is conditions and not individuals that make history the Socialist party today is dying for the need of great leaders.

While competition has so caused the adulteration of merchandise that when you buy a can of potted chicken you are not sure whether the animal from which it came bleated, growled, neighed or cackled, one of the benefits of this competition is that it makes men.

The philosophy of socialism for social betterment is faulty inasmuch as it leaves out human nature. This same human nature however has wrecked every Utopia known to society.

As they say there will never be an honest horse race until there is an honest human race so I say society will never realize a new age until there comes about a new man.

This we will never have until the Christian gospel puts in the spirit of brotherhood and takes the greed out of man. Until it teaches more love and takes the devil out of the heart and puts the spirit of the brotherhood of Christ within him.

At the business meeting Rufus B. Tobey reported for the schoolhouse committee that the order for a $75,000 schoolhouse for Wollaston had been signed by Mayor Shea last week. He also spoke on the license question and urged a strong No vote.

E. S. Tenney mentioned certain needs of the club while R. B. Locke spoke of the enthusiastic campaign for new members that is being waged.

W. A. Mann chairman of the benevolence committee spoke of various charitable work contemplated and accomplished.

Arthur C. Gardiner, William J. Leslie and Charles W. Bailey spoke briefly on various conditions affecting the city government.

BICYCLE ACCIDENT.

Edward Desmond the fourteen year old son of John F. Desmond of Quincy avenue, was seriously injured Tuesday. He was riding down Bigelow street on his bicycle, going at pretty good speed, when the wheel veered and he ran into a hydrant. The bicycle was smashed, and the boy was thrown over the handle bars. He landed heavily upon his back. The ambulance was summoned and he was hurried to City Hospital where it was found that he had sustained on injury to his spine.

THE UNION SERVICE

Quincy to Perpetuate the Old New England Custom

The union Thanksgiving service at Bethany Church tomorrow at 10 o'clock ought to interest a large number. The speakers are all well known and represent not only the various churches but some of the leading interests of the city. There are many in the city who believe that the old New England custom of meeting as a community for public religious service on Thanksgiving Day is worth perpetuating. These services in the past few years have been greatly enjoyed by an audience representing the very best families in the city. It is good at least once a year for the people of the community to meet to discuss the great questions of civic righteousness—those things in which all agree, without reference to sectarian and political or partisan differences. Tomorrow the following speakers will be heard. Miss Edith Randall on "The New England Home;" Mr. A. L. Barbour on "The Community Thanksgiving;" and Rev. R. E. Armstrong on "Religion—and the Community needs." It is hoped that those who care for the maintainence of such a service may attend.

The Daily Ledger of yesterday published the program for the union service at the Wollaston Unitarian church at 5 P. M., in which the six clergymen of Wollaston will take part.

A union service of the Swedish churches will also be held at 10.30 at the Swedish Baptist church at Brewers corner.

Christ church will have a holy communion service at 9 A. M., and St. Chrysostoms a service at 10 A. M.

The Christian Science church at Braintree will have a Thanksgiving service at 10 A. M.

Thanksgiving prayer services will be held in the evening at the First Presbyterian and Calvary Baptist churches; there will be an entertainment at the Swedish Lutheran, an address at the United Presbyterian, and a social at the Swedish Baptist church. Never have there been so many religious services in the city on Thanksgiving day.

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATES

Time Has Now Expired for All Nominations

The time for filing nomination papers of candidates to be voted for at the Municipal election expired this noon. Up to that time the following papers had been filed.

William T. Shea, Citizens candidate for Mayor.

Ralph W. Hobbs, Citizens Voters candidate for Mayor.

Thomas J. McGrath, councilman-at-large.

Archie Thayer, councilman Ward One.

Carl E. Carlson, councilman Ward Six.

Charles E. Gill, councilman Ward Six.

Thomas H. Hayes, councilman Ward Six.

The Registrars of Voters met at City Hall Tuesday evening to examine nomination papers that had been filed. It will be too late to file papers today as the Registrars would not have time to examine the names which they must do before the paper can be accepted.

Daniel J. Deasy, the regular Democratic nominee for the City Council from Ward One, is putting in a lot of work, and says he will give some of the candidates a surprise when the votes are counted.

It is going to be quite a proposition to decide who the third Republican candidate shall be from Ward Six. Both Mr. Sodergren and Mr. Carlson showed at the caucus that they had a strong following. Perhaps it will be more satisfactory if some name not yet mentioned is selected for the third candidate.

There was a time when "Citizen," "Indignant Voter" and other equally as mysterious parties, filled the papers with their political effusions. But those days have gone by, for the law now says the name and address of the writer must be affixed to letters in favor of or against any political candidate.

Although the caucus and recount settled who the candidates from Ward Four would be, there is still a hot political contest on hand and there may

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Thanksgiving Day, next Thursday, will be observed by the Daily Ledger as a holiday. No paper will be issued and the office will be closed all day. See Friday paper for holiday and political news.

A prison sentence of 99 years, such as was inflicted on a Texas soldier, is a humane way of giving a postponed death sentence.

The Fore River Shipbuilding Company received its "turkey" from Washington on Tuesday, and all Quincy rejoices over the $700,000 contract.

It is said that in order to reach a decision, a Pottsville jury tossed a coin. In the light of human experience, the method seems faulty. Still, it gave justice a chance.

"Sarah Bernhardt emphatically declares that she will never wear a hobble skirt." As we recall the fine line of Sarah's figure, without the aid of a magnifying glass, she would be invisible in a hobble skirt.

The population of the wards of Boston is announced today, and only three of the 25 made a better percentage of gain than Quincy These were, Ward 20, Ward 11 and Ward 24 in the order named—Roxbury, Back Bay and Dorchester.

Two of the Boston wards decreased in population in the ten years,—Ward 13 and Ward 2. Two others gained less than one per cent, and eleven less than ten per cent.

Quincy, it will be remembered, gained 36.6 per cent. Ward 24 of Boston, the Dorchester ward gained 39.2 per cent, and Ward 25, the West Roxbury ward, 36.3 per cent; so it will be seen that Quincy is holding its own with the most rapidly growing wards of Boston. The only Boston wards with a larger population than Quincy are Ward 20, Ward 24 and Ward 6. Only two of the 25 wards made a larger increase in population—Ward 20 and Ward 24.

DRIFT OF OPINION

The proposition of March G. Bennett for a Metropolitan Council is a pernicious measure and one that will work no good in the so called Greater Boston. It creates another state board and that is something the people of the state, do not need or wish. In fact the sentiment, as expressed by the vote of the people of the state at the recent election, is for less rather than more boards and commissions. The Bennett bill may not be an annexation measure, but it is a step in that direction, an entering wedge, and is so intended by the men behind the movement. They are the same men who for years gave their support to the Greater Boston scheme, which fortunately for the cities and towns surrounding Boston,never was successful. The Bennett bill, as proposed, merely appeals to a sentimental desire to give Boston the doubtful prestige of being a "bigger" city than some of its sisters in other states. Such sentiment is maudlin and ought not to be encouraged by the legislators of the state. An advisory Metropolitan council would in no way be of any special commercial benefit to Boston and far less any adequate advantage to the cities and towns clustered about that municipality. There is no real demand for the council contemplated by the Bennett bill, and its passage would be dangerous to the form of good government that now exists in the cities and towns outside of Boston.--Dedham Transcript.

President Taft expects in his next message to Congress to ask for legislation on postal reform which, if granted, will make possible one-cent letter postage. A feature of it would require magazines to pay increased postage on their advertising pages. One-cent letter postage would be very welcome, but the postal improvement most needed today is a parcels post. You can mail an 11-pound package from Boston to Berlin and the postage cost, in Germany, will be only 12 cents. To send the same merchandise by mail from Boston to Brookline will require it to be divided into three parcels—because here the limit of weight is four pounds—and the postage will cost $170. The reason for this difference is that in Germany, as in most other countries, there is no Express Trust, politically protected by powerful railroad interests which share in the proceeds of public extortion. Do you want a parcels post? If so, sit down now and write to your Congressman telling him so. The railroad pull in Congress is weakening. The chance for a parcels post is improving. Help it along.—Boston Common.

THANKSGIVING.

J. H. White, Roxbury.

No greater deed can we perform
When from the human heart
We give the best within us
That another share in part.

Not what we give, but what we share
Is righteous giving bestowed with care
And from out his own share giving
Makes another life worth living.

So may we all remember those
Who struggle for a living
And out from our own share provide with care
A greater Tanksgiving.

RELEASED FROM CUSTODY

Trio Charged With Selling Cocaine at Boston Not Guilty

Boston, Nov. 23.—Irving Bostok, May Bostok and Annie Manley were found not guilty by Justice Palmer on the charge of delivering and selling cocaine.

Henry Dewey appeared for the three defendants and argued that they were not guilty of the specific charge, that of delivering and selling cocaine. He admitted that they had cocaine hydrochlorate.

Charles H. Hickey, assistant analyst of the board of health, said that hydrochlorate was cocaine plus an acid and was the general commercial substance.

NEW PLAN IN LYNN

Two Candidates for Mayor Selected at Mass Caucus

Under the newly adopted city charter of Lynn there are no party caucuses, but at a general caucus of all voters two candidates are selected for Mayor, two for Commissioner of Finance, two for Commissioner of Streets, two for Commissioner of Water and two for Commissioner of Public Property. On election day a choice will be made between the two for each office. At the caucus on Tuesday there were nine in the field for Mayor and the vote was:

James E. Rich	3,068
W. P. Connery	2,732
Harry W. Eastham	2,553
Lynn M. Ranger	946
C. D. S. Lovell	409
Odelin	339
Sears	274
Bergengren	264
Keane	83
Healey	73
Sherman	36
Tapper	31

About 11,000 votes were cast, and great interest was taken. At a mass caucus as in Lynn each voter can vote for two candidates for Mayor, while at a joint caucus like Quincy, the Democrats vote for one, and the Republicans for one.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennard of Wollaston lost both of their suits in the Norfolk Superior court on Tuesday. In the suit of Pamelia Kennard of Quincy against Dr. Joseph H. Cunningham of Cambridge to recover $3,000 for personal injuries alleged to have resulted from careless medical treatment on the part of the defendant physician, the verdict was for the defendant. In the suit of Dr. Cunningham against Frank E. Kennard, husband of the plaintiff in the previous suit, to recover $160 alleged to be due for medical treatment, the verdict was for the plaintiff in the sum of $160.

A Glorious Day.

'Twuz a glorious Thanksgivin',
For we thanked the Lord for livin'
In a world that's full of sunshine soft an' bright,
For the sweet birds that are singin',
For the joy bells that are ringin'
An' the rest that brings the gentle dreams at night.

A glorious Thanksgivin',
An' a joy to jest be livin'
Under skies with not a cloud in all their blue,
Whar you see the bright lights shinin'
Far—far from all repinin'
An' the angels kiss their finger tips to you!

The regular meeting of the Hospital Aid Association was held at the home of Mrs. George Pfaffmann, on Thursday of last week. A large number of ladies were present, and as "many hands make light work" a considerable amount of sewing was finished, ready to be sent directly to the Hospital. The spacious home of Mrs. Pfaffmann is well adapted for such a gathering, and the members felt that the hostess had not spared herself in providing for the comfort and pleasure of the Association. Afternoon tea was graciously served and the meeting adjourned at five o'clock.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

On Tuesday afternoon the Quincy Women's club had a meeting which was open to the public and had as the speaker one of the best of the season Dr. O. P. Gifford of Boston and Brookline.

The meeting was held as usual at the clubhouse with the business session at half past two the president Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney presiding. The usual reports were given followed by brief reports by the various committees as follows:

Mrs. Bickford for the Art and Literature spoke of the next club meeting which would be in charge of her committee. The play Pygmalion and Galatea would be presented by an "all star" cast at Quincy Music hall. Each member could procure a guest ticket of the custodian, Mrs. Jameson or her committee. The demand for tickets was so great that if any club member did not intend to take a guest she is asked to notify the custodian that her guest privilege may be used.

Mrs. Tenney for the Arts and Crafts made an important announcement to Christmas shoppers. Her exchange was open and had lots of pretty things suitable for gifts. To assist the late buyer it had been decided to have a sales-table at the play at Music hall on the Dec. 13th.

Mrs. Shaw for the Civic committee announced the annual assembly at Music hall on Friday evening the 25th and asked for the usual good patronage that next year's committee have funds to work with.

Mrs. Jameson custodian wished to add further to Mrs. Bickford's remarks about tickets for the play. Tickets must be secured ahead. She would mail ticket to any member who sent the money and enclosed an addressed stamped envelope for same. Members must show their club ticket or be fined 10 cents.

Mrs. Mackay made a pleasant announcement for the Education committee saying it was proposed to have "Twelfth Night Revels," a real frolic and play night similar to the good old English revels. It would be a costume party. Details would be given later in the newspaper club column.

Mrs. Conway for the Home Economics committee urged all club women and friends to attend the lecture at the clubhouse on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 29 to hear Mrs. Tyler of the State Federation Sanitation committee. Her subject would be "Pure Food and Sanitary Markets." The lecture was free to the public.

Mrs. Gurney spoke of the Newton Federation meeting and of the recent State Federation at Cambridge which members were unable to attend as it came on a club meeting day.

The club was fortunate however in having one member present all day, Mrs. Worster, who brought back so much to the club that it was nearly as good as going. The club is indebted to Mrs. Worster for many good reports of various meetings she has attended and showed its appreciation in hearty applause at the conclusion of her report.

The afternoon's program was in charge of the Civic committee, Mrs. Shaw, chairman, announced the musical program which consisted of a group of songs by Miss Whicher of Attleboro with Mrs. Sampson at the piano. She sang "Four-leafed Clover," "A May Morning" and "My Jacquemi-not." Miss Whicher's singing gave great pleasure her voice being particularly sympathetic and the selections pleasing.

There were a few men present to hear Dr. Gifford. Mr. Shaw and Mr. Southworth met him at the station and accompanied him to the clubhouse. Mr. Bickford was also present and enjoyed the afternoon.

In a few words Mrs. Shaw graciously introduced Dr. Gifford and before many minutes had passed he had his audience very much interested. His subject "Points of Contact," whether treated humorously, earnestly or as a plain fact had its lessons and carried home many good points to his listeners which were appreciated.

He spoke of Ex-President Roosevelt as a man who thought things out and when he was right went ahead—a man of convictions, which he stood for and back of. He said it was a great thing to be sure you are right, then seek the point of contact. Trust yourself and have faith in yourself and other people would have trust and faith in you, also trust others and do not be suspicious and ready to cast reflections for that will be the estimate people will have of you after a while. Use what you know for if you do not, what is the good of knowing—find the point of contact. To be useful in life one must find the point of contact. In our own conduct we should act and do as we expect others to do—laws were made for all. Try them on yourself and you may find them hard but it would build up character.

Dr. Gifford was quick of wit and told many good stories in illustrating the points in his talk. He told one of the man who for three successive weeks got up in prayer meeting and said he had passed through the week without committing a sin and was surprised when told that owing a bill of some months' duration at the corner grocery was a sin. Dr. Gifford said it was a good plan to pay as you go and when you cannot pay don't go.

We should find the point of contact in the home. Is it what it should be? Are the boys and girls happy? Do they prefer the home to the streets? Who are their companions? Half of the criminals were such because of lack of right home influences. After the home what of the town or city? Have you found the point of contact? Is the city what it should be? Are you doing your part? In the world also there must be a point of contact, there must be trust, between countries and peoples.

Dr. Gifford was closely followed and heartily applauded at the conclusion of his lecture and many enjoyed greeting him informally after the meeting. It was one of the best lectures of the many since the formation of the club.

73d BIRTHDAY.

Galen Vinton Bowditch, the veteran fireman and newspaper messenger, is passing the 73d milestone in his eventful life today, and from outward appearances is just as young and spry as he was 25 years ago. Galen is a direct descendnt from the old Vinton family of Braintree and has called Quincy his home for many years. He cast his first vote with the Democratic party and he has been one of the party's strongest supporters ever since. He has seen his party meet with defeat and seen it meet with success, but he never wavered in his principles and can always be found in the front ranks of the Democracy.

Years ago when Quincy was a town, and things were far different from today, Galen was engaged in the express business. Those were the days before the No-License law, and there was no necessity for an expressman to seek a permit to transport liquor. Then he associated himself with F. C. Packard & Co. and travelled about the city selling their supplies. Of late years he has been the messenger to whom the newspaper men entrusted their news packages to be transported to the offices in Boston, and never has he failed to deliver them and in good time.

CONTRACT FOR SHIPYARD

Will Build one of Six Topedo Boat Destroyers

Contracts for six torpedo boat destroyers were awarded at the navy department at Washington on Tuesday says the Globe. Two of them went to the Bath iron works, Bath, Me.; one to the Newport News shipbuilding and drydock company, Newport News, Va.; one to the New York shipbuilding company, Camden, N. J.; one to the Fore River shipbuilding company, Quincy, Mass., and one to the Cramp shipbuilding company, Philadelphia.

Those to be built at the Bath iron works will be required to develop a speed of 30 knots an hour. These two boats will cost $654,500 each. Their trial tests will be made over the Rockland course, as also the one to be built by the Fore River company.

The other three boats are to make their trial tests on the Delaware breakwater course. The Fore River boat will be fitted with twin screw Curtis marine engines.

THANKSGIVING DINNERS.

Overseer of the Poor, James H. Elcock, received quite a generous response to his appeal for funds to help out in furnishing Thanksgiving dinners for the needy, and as a result he was able to send out 75 baskets of good things today, which means that 75 families will have reason to give thanks tomorrow.

STATE INSPECTION.

State Inspector of Buildings Burfet is in town today inspecting the public buildings, particularly the John Hancock school, where a new heating apparatus has been installed, and the new school building at Houghs Neck. He is accompanied on his rounds of the city by Inspector of Buildings, Warren S. Parker.

TODAYS COURT.

Patrick Delaney of Weymouth and John O'Connell of Holbrook were arraigned for drunkenness. They were placed on probation until March 1.

Gustaf Sandstrom was fined $15 for assault at Quincy.

Charles Meuse was arraigned for violation of the milk law at Weymouth. Case continued.

WARNS AGAINST DRINK

Kaiser Hands Out Good Advice to Cadets at Naval Academy

Flensburg, Germany, Nov. 23.—"The times call for iron-hearted men," declared Emperor William at the opening of the new naval academy. "Character is the first essential and character is founded upon strong moral and religious convictions."

He cautioned the cadets against excessive drinking, which, he said, undermines the nerves, and the strenuous naval service of to-day needs strong nerves. He counselled total abstinence, suggested that the young men join the Good Templars and added that "the nation which in the future uses the smallest amount of alcohol will march at the head of the column on the fields of art and war."

GUNBOATS MAKE A RECORD

Complete 26,200-Mile Journey Around the Globe In Good Trim

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 23.—The United States gunboats Wheeling and Petrel have just arrived in the Portsmouth navy yard after completing a 26,200-mile journey from San Francisco around the globe by way of the Suez canal.

The two gunboats are the smallest craft of any navy ever to make so long a trip, and the manner in which both weathered the heavy seas on the passage has caused favorable comment in naval circles.

INSTALLATION OF THE ELKS

Elmer L. Paine the New Exalted Ruler

The officers of Quincy lodge of Elks eleced some weeks ago to fill vacancies incident to the death of Exalted Ruler William J. Coleman, were installed into office at the regular meeting Tuesday evening. The officers were installed by Acting District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler, William R. Thomas, past exalted ruler of Quincy lodge, as follows:

Exalted Ruler—Elmer L. Paine.

Leading Knight—Robert J. Williams, Jr.

Loyal Knight—George Jordan.

Lecturing Knight—Phillip H. Sullivan.

After the installation refreshments were served at the club rooms.

Plans for the annual memorial service to be held Sunday evening Dec. 4, are well in hand. Rev. Edward A. Chase of Wollaston will make the general address, and the Temple quartet will furnish music. There will also be an address of eulogy by a well known member of the order.

—Dr. O. P. Gifford tells the clergy that they do not make right use of gospel. He says: "We ministers have 'got the goods,' but we don't know where to place them," Rev. Dr. O. P. Gifford of the Brookline Baptist church told the Methodist ministers at their weekly meeting in Wesleyan hall, Boston, Tuesday.

"What is there in a football game to get the republic aflame?" he asked, "when the Cross of Christ is scarcely mentioned? It is not considered good form even to speak of religious topics except on Sunday. We ministers are becoming ecclesiastical phonographs and a vocalized pulpit with dumb pews will never lead the world to repentance." He went on to show the amount of study which those who hope to succeed in medicine or law give to their books and yet the Bible, the textbook of spiritual wisdom, is barely read.—Boston Record.

A heart full of thankfulness,
A thimbleful of care,
A soul of simple hopefulness,
An early morning prayer.

A smile to greet the morning with,
A kind word as the key
To ope the door and greet the day,
Whate'er it bring to thee,

A patient trust in Providence,
To sweeten all the way,
All these, combined with thoughtfulness,
Will make a happy day.

BRIEFS

Let not His praises grow
On prosperous heights alone;
But in the vales below
Let His great love be known.
Let no distress
Curb and control
My winged soul,
And praise suppress.
—Richard Baxter.

Remember today the needy.

The indications are that the holiday weather will be unsettled.

The ladies of Clan McGregor hold their annual masquerade party tonight.

George L. Gill association is to hold a dance in Electa hall next week Wednesday evening.

It was a cold storm that visited Quincy yesterday, and many are thankful that it was not snow instead of rain.

The Granite City club will keep open house as usual tonight, and welcome members and friends at its spacious rooms in the Savings Bank building.

Many families that have been separated for a year will be united again tomorrow about the table heavily laden with Thanksgiving goodies. It will be a joyous reunion for many and sad one for those who have laid dear ones away during the year.

A pleasant luncheon was that tendered Mrs. Arthur Sanborn of San Francisco, Cal., at the home of Miss M. Carrie Hatch, Irving place on Tuesday. Covers were laid for ten and those attending included members from the Quincy, Braintree and Rockland Women's clubs. Mrs. Sanborn is an active member of Women in Council and of the San Francisco Press association.

Parson Wrote Proclamation.

In days of old only New England governors issued Thanksgiving proclamations. Here is a little story as to how Missouri joined in. An old time Methodist parson writes it:

"In the summer of 1859 I was the guest of an old friend, a good Methodist down in Benton county, and during the afternoon he asked me how it happened that the governor of Missouri never issued a Thanksgiving proclamation.

"I told him that I had never considered the matter, but would suggest it to Governor Stewart as soon as I returned to Jefferson City.

"My friend said that if the proclamation was issued I must be his guest on Thanksgiving day and that a yellow gobbler should at once be put in fattening against the feast.

"In the course of time I got back to the capital and called upon the governor to suggest the advisability of issuing the proclamation.

"'Well, parson,' said the governor, 'that's in the religious line. Suppose you write it.'

"I at once proceeded to write it out."

IN FASHION'S REALM

New Fashions a Problem for Stout Women.

Youthful Styles Should be Avoided. Skirts Moderate Width.

Much of the excitement about clothes has died down. Bad as things are they could be worse, say the disapproving critics. Few styles have been prettier than these when well made, say the dressmakers.

The public takes its own course between these two opinions. One does not hear an opinion en mass, but individually. It is to be strongly observed that the woman who dislikes the fashions most, and cannot see any good in them, is the one who cannot wear them.

There is human nature in this, so why point the finger of scorn at it? It is always difficult for us to see beauty when that beauty cannot be applied to our needs. It is true that the fashions of the last three years have been created and developed for the women who retain the look of youth even if they do not actually possess it.

Even with all the furbelows that we add to the clothes of today they definitely express boyishness. Such a quality is impossible for the woman who has not a youthful face and an uncurved form.

The girls of the day are admirably suited, but what of the woman of 40? She cannot wear the Peter Pan and the Robin Hood hat; she looks absurd in the Russian police cap and the Salvation Army bonnet. If she has a double chin and the neck crease that come with years and stiff collars, she cannot adopt the half-high round neck, the sailor collar, and the Claudine frill.

Whether she is 20 or 40, if she has heavy hips she cannot wear the skirt with the one-yard-six-inch hem, or indulge in the seven Eastern veils for drapery. The one fashion that she can delight in is the Empire waist and the thickening, by fashion, of the torso until it turns the hips.

Corsets can add much because of their length, their boning, and their superior curving, or rather lack of it; but they cannot do it all. Even when a woman has laced in her hips and flattened her abdomen until she can stand no more she does not present the exact silhouette that will stand a tight short skirt and a rakish schoolboy's jacket.

Few of the hats of the day go with gray hair, and few of the evening gowns are intended for any arms and shoulders but those that possess the pink and white skin and soft contour of youth—and youth at its best.

In these days of admirable corsets it is not necessary to look as stout as you are. The masters of the art have turned all the ingenuity and skill of their profession into perfecting comfortable corsets for large women. Three years ago, when this kind of corset first camé out, and was adopted by every one who had a desire to look slim, it was thought that the fancy for such a figure was a passing one. But the years have proved this theory wrong.

Therefore the foundation of the stout woman's dressing is the right kind of corset. As a rule, it is better to buy one than to have one made. In other words, it is a far superior method to adapt your figure to perfect lines than to let the lines be adapted to your imperfections.

There are few corsetieres who would follow a perfected model when making a corset for an individual. Their claim is comfort and the needs of that particular figure; and ten to one that particular figure needs just the reverse treatment. It is a bad method to buy even the best of ready-made corsets without having them fitted.

Each well-known make has half a dozen or more varying shapes. The woman who is buying should have an expert fitter try each shape on her before triple mirrors, and let her see how they fit when standing, walking, and sitting. The latter is quite important.

Every corset needs minor alterations in it, and these should be marked out by the fitter while the corset is on the figure. This method usually results in an excellent corset, thoroughly adapted to the figure of the woman, and yet giving lines she does not possess.

Underwear is also important to a stout woman. If she would be even near-fashionable she cannot afford to have any thickness around the hips or ruffles at the ankles. In winter she should wear combinations as thin as her health allows and cut off at the knees. The low-necked ones are healthier than the high ones, and they can be kept on under evening gowns as well as under street suits.

Over these go the corsets; then another combination suit made of thin muslin with knickers and corset cover put to one waist band. These should not be full, and the latter should be boned.

The petticoat is not needed in Winter, as the cloth skirt is heavy and opague. Such costuming prevents that thick look always given when many materials are worn under the gown. It reduces the contour to its slimmest straightest proportions.

Even when the stout woman is thus corseted, the fact that she has heavy lines in her constructions would prevent her wearing the boyish skirt that the slim woman can use with such jaunty result. Her skirt should be two yards wide, or even a little more in order not to accentuate the size of hips and waist.

It should not be adorned with wide bands of braid that cut off the length and give a rotund appearance. If the skirt must be trimmed there are Van Dyke points or slim diamonds that can be made of braid and placed vertically below the knees. Above all things, she should avoid in the cut of her skirt is that tendency to curve it in below the spine. This is a mistake that is made by even the best dressmakers. It does not add to the appearance of slim or stout figures.

There is no justification for this curve in the fashions. They demand a straight line from hips to hem, not a curved one. This latter trick vulgarizes the skirt because it is such a plain attempt to reveal the figure. This is never good art. While it is true that the figure is revealed in a dozen ways this Winter, the artistic designers make it appear as a chance revelation, not a studied one.

The broad panel down the back which extends over the waist line to the top of the skirt is a good fashion for the stout woman to follow. When it is well placed it hangs like a plumb line, without curving in or out. If it draws the side widths into the figure it is ill done and should be altered.

It is better not to have two panels on a skirt. This is only a good method for the boyish figure which can stand a wide straight line down front and back.

The skirt that has circular sides, or a twelve-inch band at the foot line, or curves in and out through any means, is not right. Too many stout women adopt it because they think that it obviates the size of the hips. Maybe it does, but it is such an unfashionable method that it should be avoided. It gives the appearance of a skirt of three years ago, although one must admit that it is still carried out by tailors that have well-known names. Dressmakers avoid it.

It is always a mooted question as to whether the skirt that fastens at the left side front or at the back, is the better one for stout figures. If the abdomen is corseted down to a flat line it is often better to fasten it in front. The figure of the woman must determine this.

The French dressmakers never incline to fastening a blouse or skirt in front. The back fastening has been a tradition with them for centuries; it was rudely interrupted by the styles of 1884, but it regained its sway very soon after. The claim is that one cannot get good lines either in the back or front by a front opening, and the dressmakers who follow French models adhere to the same theory.

It goes without saying that the boyish jackets which has taken such a deep hold on the public will not do for the woman who is stout and over 30. Of course, she will want to wear it. We all yearn for youthful things, and would give much to be able to persuade ourselves that a Peter Pan hat suited our face, and a Claudine frill suited our necks, but alas, our family and our mirrors tell us differently.

On the other hand, the long coat which gives a graceful contour is so unfashionable that none there are so brave as to risk it. The tailors say that their entire fall trade has been hampered by their workrooms having to cut long coats into short ones. Good customers cannot be refused this request. Even if last season's suits won't last out this winter, it will do until Christmas if altered to the modern mode.

The woman who chooses a new coat must see to it that the lines from the shoulder are straight; that the underarm sleeves are not curved; that there is no fullness in the back, and that the fastening is single breasted. Such a model was always more becoming to a stout woman than the model with a definite waist line and fullness at the hips.

Some tailors are inclined to give a slight ripple at the back of the coat, just at the hem to offset the tight look, but it is not a good plan. What tailor and customer must work for is a straight line everywhere. The latter cannot be too insistent upon it.

The question of empire trimming at the back is a delicate one for a stout figure. There is no hard and fast rule about it. There are quaint devices that give the fashionable effect and a pleasing result at the same time. Triangles and diamonds are a part of them, especially as these shapes are both Egyptian and Muscovite. They are formed of heavy silk braid, or thick cord of satin. The latter trimming was popular two years ago, and it has been strongly revived. It is not always becoming to a stout figure, but it is not a wild idea to try it.

The shawl rever is still used on some of the American suits, but it strikes the note of a fashion that is finished. This is one reason against it; another is that it exposes the chest in winter. The better fastening is the one that runs straight to the neck and is finished there with a flat turnover collar, squarely cut off at the ends. If a longer line is desired then the collar, which should be of soft material, can be extended down one side nearly to the bust, and the first button placed at its ends.—Anne Rittenhouse in New York Times.

A ROOM FOR BOYS.

Just what is the right home atmosphere for the boy? Is he to be repressed all the time on the ground that he makes too much noise, or is he to be allowed to run loose and do as he pleases on the ground that if he can't be happy at home he will go to less desirable places for a good time?

The home belongs to many people, and, while the boy has his own place in it, he must respect the rights of others. To teach him otherwise is to make him selfish.

On the other hand, just what are the boy's rights in the home?

First of all he should have a comfortable room—not a garret or a receptacle for old, broken down furniture nor yet a dimity trimmed affair, but a real boy's room.

"But boys are careless of good furniture," some may say; "it does not pay to give them good furniture." Then if they are always given old battered things and not expected to take any care of them they will never learn how to appreciate nice things and be careful of them. Oh, no; that is not the way. Fix up your boy's room as you would your husband's with solid, durable oak pieces, dull finished, with a desk for his papers and convenient shelves for his books or specimens. Let there be a good lamp to read by and a comfortable easy chair. You will soon find your son bringing his friends to his den instead of spending his evenings with them on the street.

Take the boy's point of view, mother, and try to see things as a man would when you are dealing with your son. Be wise, be firm, be patient. Keep his respect and encourage his confidence. Encourage interest in the home. Make him feel when he is doing his tasks that he is working for it. Above all, make him feel that he has a place in the home and that this place carries with it both obligations and privileges as it does for a grown person.—New Haven Journal-Courier.

Some Thanksgiving History.

The manner in which Thanksgiving day was first instituted as a national festival has especial interest. During the war for Independence eight public and general thanksgivings were ordered by the Continental congress, but after the general thanksgiving for peace in 1784 the proclamations were discontinued until 1789, when the first national thanksgiving was proclaimed by President Washington, the time designated being the last Thursday in November.

The special purpose, as recommended to congress, was to give thanks for the adoption of the constitution. In 1795 the suppression of the whisky insurrection was recognized by a presidential call for a national day of thanksgiving. The practice of officially recommending the observance of a thanksgiving festival was gradually adopted by the states until it now has place among the great holidays of the nation.

To receive honestly is the best thanks for a good thing.—George Macdonald.

There is no better excess in the world than the excess of gratitude.—La Bruyere.

I would have my thanksgiving to be gratitude for all that belongs to my life—for joy and sorrow, for health and sickness, for success and disappointment, for virtue and for temptation, for life and death, because I believe that all is meant for good.—Orville Dewey.

FIGHTING LINE OF 200 MILES

Mexican Revolution Is Sweeping Towards the Capital

"THE UNITED MEXICAN STATES"

New Government Proclaimed by Madero, Who Claims Allegiance From Seven States—Americans Said to Be In Great Peril—Disturbances In Various Parts of Republic—Thousand Persons Reported Killed

Mexico City, Nov. 23.—The government has learned that Madero, the revolutionary leader, has proclaimed a provisional government of the United Mexican States and that he claims allegiance from seven states.

The cabinet of President Diaz was in session all day and all night, considering steps to be taken to crush the revolution. President Diaz held long conferences with War Minister Cosio in private.

A battle between revolutionary forces and government troops extends from Metamoras to Loreda, a distance of 200 miles.

At Carmago the rebels made an unsuccessful assault upon the garrison and retired with 100 dead and wounded. At Mier revolutionists and rurales clashed, the rurales going over to the rebels after a brief skirmish.

A revolutionary army is proceeding against Monterey and an attack there is imminent. Most of the Americans have fled.

By Way of Texas

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 23.—The Mexican revolution is sweeping like wild fire toward the capital, according to dispatches received here.

The rebels are operating in force to within 100 miles of Mexico City, and are fighting and spreading their propaganda throughout a vast territory, extending fanwise from here clear up to the Rio Grande. Seven different states are more or less in revolution.

Americans are in great peril in Mexico. When the rebels moved upon Rio Blanco, Nogales and Santa Rosa, shooting down resisting officers, looting stores and applying the torch, reports came of anti-American threats. Cards bearing such inscriptions as "Kill the Yankees," are being posted.

The rebels are in control of the towns of San Antonio, San Andreas, Torreon Ranch, Minaca, Encimillas, Guerrero and all the surrounding territory in the state of Chihuahua. Martial law has been proclaimed in Chihuahua, according to late reports.

More than 1000 men and women have been killed and wounded in fighting about the towns of Parral, Torreon, Gomez Palacio, Durango and Pueblo, according to the same report. This is a conservative estimate; other reports of less definite character make the losses five times as high.

Minister of War Cosio sent large detachments to prevent the Yaqui Indians from joining the rebels. The Yaquis are the most savage tribe of Indians extant and they have always been a thorn in the side of Mexican peace. The territory in which they live is wild and rugged and constantly patrolled by rurales.

Treason in the Mexican army will be crushed by the Mexican government with an iron hand. News reached here that nineteen officers and privates of one of the regular regiments at Orizaba were arrested and immediately executed in the military prison.

The executions followed wholesale desertions from the ranks of the federal troops to the insurgents. A late report says that fighting is still going on at Torreon, where the revolutionists are being aided by 300 federal troops who have deserted.

What Lenox Soap looks like.

A cake of Lenox Soap is about 4 inches long; 3 inches wide; and 1¾ inches thick.

The ends, top and bottom are rounded, so that the cake is easily held in one's hand.

The top side of the cake bears the word Lenox; the reverse side, the name of the makers, Procter & Gamble.

On the inside of the wrapper are suggestions as to the best way to use Lenox Soap, that are well worth reading.

Lenox Soap—"Just fits the hand"

WE wish to call the attention of our customers and to the buying Public of Quincy and surrounding towns, that after a careful inspection and comparison, we consider that taking the quality and genuine value of our goods, that we are the lowest priced store in Massachusetts.

Now, this may seem to be a broad statement to some people but we stand ready to PROVE our statement. We claim that nowhere in Quincy or any part of Massachusetts, do they sell better QUALITY or do they charge lower prices for the same QUALITY of goods than we do. We have been noted for years for the QUALITY of the goods we sell, and are ever ready to make good when the goods are not just as represented, and nowhere can you get such a guarantee of Quality. You all know that there is a certain value to High Quality Provisions as well as other commodities that you use; and when you go along the street and read the advertisements of different dealers who are selling you something at a ridiculously low price, you can depend upon it that you are surely buying a gold brick, for you cannot buy something that is absolutely worth thirty cents for fifteen cents and expect Quality any more than you can buy a three thousand dollar automobile for fifteen hundred and expect it to be just as good.

Now we have posted ourselves on the different grades of the other dealers and we say once more that we are the lowest priced Quality Store in Quincy or Massachusetts, and we ask you, if you want proof, to call and compare our goods and prices with what you are paying.

Just now the market has eased off considerably and we were one of the first dealers to give our customers the benefit, showing you that we are WITH the people, our customers, at all times.

Thanksgiving will be here soon and we wish to inform our customers that we shall have a grand display of DELICIOUS Fresh Goods for the trade. No cheap trash, but fresh, wholesome, clean stock—the only kind FIT TO BUY, TO EAT, and the prices will be hammered down just as hard as possible for them to be and for us to live; so we invite you to our store, where you can see that our statements are all absolutely true in every respect.

Space will not permit us to quote at length our prices but below will be found the prices of a few things that we know to be of more than special value.

Curtice Bro's Family Tomatoes 12 1-2c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Cut, String or Wax Beans 10c a can

QUEEN LOUISE FLOUR at 90c a bag

We ask you to use some of this flour and if you do not find it to be the best you ever used, return the empty bag to us and receive your money back. This is the guarantee that goes with the FLOUR.

We sell the famous La Touraine Coffee for 35c a pound. The EQUAL of any 40c coffee on the Market.

With each pound of La Touraine Coffee we give FREE any 5c bar of soap you wish.

Our line of Teas are the BEST in Quincy, carefully selected and chosen to suit the heavy and light tea tastes of our customers. One special Tea at 60c we wish to call your attention to, a regular $1.00 Quality. Try some.

Our Market—always the best, always the LOWEST PRICED and the VERY HIGHEST QUALITY. This part of our large business speaks for itself. It needs no debate, as it is in a class all by itself; but of one thing you may be sure, considering the Quality we are surely cutting the prices on GOOD SUBSTANTIAL CORN FED BEEF.

We have our prices on MEAT on our price Board in plain sight of every one who enters our store, and all we ask is, compare Quality and then compare Prices, and you will see that we are not selling you NOTHING for SOMETHING, but for every penny you spend with us, you get your penny's worth in return, in WEIGHT and MEASURE and QUALITY, to say nothing of HEALTH and HAPPINESS in your HOME because a poor QUALITY of cheap meats never promotes HEALTH and therefore little HAPPINESS.

Inspect our poultry department, before you buy elsewhere and see what a splendid line of fresh killed chicken—fowl and turkeys we have to offer, and we will guarantee that the prices will be cut as close as it is possible to cut them, for we wish to sell every one a Thanksgiving Turkey or Chicken. Once again we invite you to our Store to inspect our goods and prices.

MORE ARRESTS ARE IMMINENT

Hitchcock Intends to Send Fake Promoters to Prison

ABOUT $100,000,000 IS LOST

Agents of Postal Department Go After Men Higher Up In Gigantic Get-Rich-Quick Frands After Carefully Planning Crusade—Innocent Investors Swindled and Lack of Confidence In Legitimate Business Created

New York, Nov. 23.—The crusade of Postmaster General Hitchcock against "get rich quick" concerns is expected to cause a general exodus of fake promoters from the city. The postmaster general is determined to send to prison this class of promoters, who, he says, have sold to an unsuspecting public about $100,000,000 of worthless securities in the last five years.

Postmaster General Hitchcock expressed great satisfaction at the start that has been made and declared that the government will drive from the country every wild-cat scheme to separate gullible investors from their money, so far as it is possible to do so.

Many arrests are expected throughout the country within the next few days. Officials of the Burr Bros. Company, Sheldon C. Burr, president; Frank H. Tobey, vice-president, and Eugene H. Burr, secretary-treasurer, arrested Monday, spent the night in the Tombs in default of $10,000 bail each. They will be examined on Monday by Commissioner Shields.

Postmaster General Hitchcock issued a statement in which he says:

"The crusade now in progress is the result of a careful plan of some months ago, the first step in which was a thorough reorganization of the inspection service, with the selection of a new chief postoffice inspector and certain changes and re-assignments in the force of inspectors in charge of the fifteen inspection divisions. As soon as the reorganization was affected, instructions were issued to the newly assigned inspector in charge to take up and prosecute vigorously all pending cases of frauds against the mails.

"Owing to the extent of these cases and the large amount of work involved, it was necessary to detail a considerable portion of the force of postoffice inspectors. The best men in the service were selected for this work and were sent to their tasks with the assurance that the department at Washington would back them up to the fullest extent.

"In order to strike at the root of this evil, the department directed its agents to go after the men higher up in these gigantic schemes to defraud, and to allow no influence, however powerful, to prevent the proper punishment of the offenders. Through the assistance of the attorney general the full co-operation of his department was secured in the successful carrying out of this crusade.

"As the work of the investigation proceeded, it became apparent that the fraudulent use of the mails was far more extensive than had been realized by the department. A vast system of fraud as far-reaching in its ramifications as the postal service itself had been developed by unscrupulous men who, through the grossest forms of misrepresentation, were stealing from the people millions of dollars annually.

"These fraudulent operations have not only swindled thousands of innocent investors, but have created a lack of confidence in legitimate business enterprises. It is therefore as important to the business community to have these frauds stopped as it is to the people whose losses are directly traceable to them. Formerly the procedure in such fraud cases was entirely different. It was the practice to issue a fraud order against the guilty concern. This method proved to be ineffective; while it deprived the offending concern of the use of the mails, it was a simple matter for its promoters to reorganize under a new name and thus evade the law.

In the department's present crusade, the practice has been to proceed immediately to the arrest of the principles in the fraudulent enterprises, the object being to secure prompt conviction and imprisonment. The results already accomplished by the department represent only the beginning. The work of investigation and prosecution will proceed with all possible vigor until the swindling of the people through the use of the mails is brought to an end."

SUFFRAGETTES MOB PREMIER ASQUITH

Rescued by Police After Being Struck In the Face

London, Nov. 23.—Premier Asquith was mobbed and struck in the face by suffragettes in Downing street after leaving the parliament building yesterday afternoon. He was rescued by policemen and placed in a taxicab.

One of the women rammed her fist through the glass before the cab could get under way. When it started the suffragettes followed it, calling "coward" and other harsh epithets.

The attack was part of a demonstration which the suffragettes had made following the announcement in parliament by Asquith that if the present government were in power following the general elections he would introduce a bill enfranchising women. He said that the bill would be so broad as to admit of many amendments.

WAS CHUM OF LEWIS

Body of Man Found In Death Trunk Was That of an Artist

New York, Nov. 23.—With the police apparently convinced of the correctness of their theory that the body recently discovered after eight years' concealment in a zinc-lined trunk in a West Side cellar is that of Albert Collier, a young French artist who was a chum of the missing waiter in the case, William Lewis, it looks as if the trunk murder mystery was approaching a solution.

Deputy Police Commissioner Flynn expresses himself as convinced that his force of detectives are on the right track in the case and believes that he knows the guilty man. He says an arrest may be expected within a day or two. It was in a trunk which bore the name of W. Lewis that the skeletonized body was found.

WITHOUT CHURCH RITES

Remains of Count Tolstoi Are Consigned to the Grave

Tula, Russia, Nov. 23.—Just before sunset last evening the casket containing the body of Count Leo Tolstoi was carried to the grave, about which the family and close friends of the dead man knelt. The choirs sang the hymn: "Everlasting Memory," but there was no other ceremony. In silence the casket was lowered into the ground.

The novelist often referred to the disposition of his body and in directions left specified explicitly that the ceremony incident thereto should be "of the simplest without the rites of the Orthodox church."

Elevator Inspector Killed

Boston, Nov. 23.—Charles E. Shattuck, 63 years old, was instantly killed, and John J. Fitzgerald, 33 years of age, was perhaps fatally injured by an elevator accident in the Boston and Albany freight terminal. Shattuck was an inspector of elevators and the injured man was his assistant.

American Robbed In London

London, Nov. 23.—An American named Zimmer reported that he had been robbed of $1000 by confidence men, who drugged his coffee while he was dining with them in a London hotel.

CRIPPEN GOES TO SCAFFOLD

Only Small Group of Officials Witness Execution

CONFESSION REPORT DENIED

Miss Leneve Pays Farewell Visit to Man Who Killed His Wife That He Might Be Free to Wed Typist Whom He Loved—Traced to Montreal and Brought Back to Pay Penalty For Crime Which Stirred the World

London, Nov. 23.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen was hanged this morning within the gloomy walls of Pentonville prison, which stands in one of the most dismal sections of London.

Public Executioner Ellis of Rochdale, who hanged a wife murderer at Liverpool yesterday morning, arrived in London last evening. A few tenements overlook the prison yard, and to bar the tenants from a glimpse of the tragedy a big canvas screen was put up before the gallows.

Only a small group of official witnesses attended and every effort was made to prevent morbid crowds from gathering in the neighborhood. The body probably will be buried in quicklime in the prison yard. This is the custom at Pentonville, although not in all English prisons.

Father Carey, who has visited Crippen frequently, entered the prison at 6 o'clock last evening to spend the night with the condemned man. He walked with Crippen to the scaffold.

Miss Leneve paid a farewell visit to Crippen at Pentonville prison yesterday afternoon. She reached the place in a closed cab and was accompanied by an elderly man who remained outside.

Miss Leneve remained for a half-hour in the visitors' room with the doctor. During her stay the wardens watched the condemned man closely.

The meeting of Crippen and Miss Leneve was one of the most emotional and dramatic that has ever been enacted in the grim walls of the prison. The young woman, for whose love Crippen was charged with killing his wife, wept and cried out hysterically as they talked.

The visit of Miss Leneve was her fourth since her acquittal of being an accessory after the fact in the murder of Belle Elmore Crippen, and it was also her last.

A London paper caused a sensation by flooding the city with placards that Crippen had made a written confession. Every one in a position to know denied this. Ethel Leneve said: "I was the last person to see Dr. Crippen. So far as my knowledge extends he has not made such a statement."

It was also reported that Crippen wrote a statement for a Sunday paper, which bought a previous story of his. The paper denies that it has his confession.

The mystery of Belle Elmore's disappearance and the flight of Dr. Crippen with his typist, Miss Leneve, forms one of the most thrilling tales of criminal history in England. Crippen had told the police that his wife had gone to America and had died in a western town. For a time this story satisfied them, but when they later went to find him he had disappeared. A search of his home revealed the skeleton buried in quicklime.

Crippen was trailed to the steamship Montrose, bound for Montreal. His typist was dressed in boy's clothes. They were arrested and taken back to England, where Crippen was promptly found guilty of the murder of his wife and condemned to die.

MADE JOHN BROWN'S COFFIN

Death of Undertaker Who Participated In Notable Execution

Charlestown, W. Va., Nov. 23.—The last of those who took part in the execution of John Brown died here at the age of 83. He was Louis P. Starry, the undertaker who made the coffin in which Brown's body was placed.

Starry rode in the wagon with Brown from the jail to the scaffold and delivered the body afterwards at Harper's Ferry to Mrs. Brown and Dr. McKim. Starry lived here all his life.

VALUE OF RAW APPLES.

Many persons fancy that raw apples are indigestible and only endurable in the early morning. Doubtless the old adage that fruit is gold in the morning, silver in the middle of the day and lead at night is to some extent answerable for this erroneous impression.

Dietitians say that ripe, raw apples contain more phosphates in proportion to their bulk than any other article of food, fish not accepted. A recent writer on this point boldly declares that in this lies the secret of healthful longevity. They correct biliousness and act as a sedative upon the racked nerves and allay insomnia.

"Eat uncooked apples constantly, although, of course, in moderation, and drink distilled water only and years will be added to your life, while the evidences of age will be long in coming."

This argument is based on the supposition that as age advances the deposits of mineral matter in the system increase and that aging is little more than a gradual process of ossification. Phosphoric acid contains the least amount of earth salts, and for that reason is probably the nearest approach to the elixir of life known to the scientific world.

If you want to live long, retain your youth at the same time and to increase your brain tissue, eat plenty of apples, drink only distilled water and eat as little bread as possible.

Tart apples are far more wholesome than sweet, and all, like potatoes, should be fully ripe when eaten.

Wise Men and Women Know that most of the sicknesses of life come from inactive bowels and from unhealthy condition of the organs of digestion. If your digestive system is not working right, your food does not nourish you—poor blood and weakness follow; if your bowels are inactive—waste matter poisons the whole system and serious sickness is sure to follow. To take promptly is to save yourself trouble and expense. Gentle, but quick; safe, but thorough, they enable the bowels to carry away waste matter naturally and tone up the whole digestive system. They will not injure the most delicate. They help you to get your bowels and your digestive organs in that condition when they can take good care of themselves and of you. Beecham's Pills

BEECHAM'S PILLS

ACCIDENTAL DEATH BY FALL

Charles M. Jenness Formerly Quincy Business Man

A dispatch from Meddybemps, Me., states that Charles M. Jenness, while assisting in repairing the roof of a local church on Tuesday, fell from the staging and was killed.

Mr. Jenness was well known in Quincy where he resided for many years. He was the son of Mrs. Thomas Plumer by her first husband and upon her death inherited most of the property of Mr. Plumer, which included a large estate on Hancock street consisting of the homestead, store and Plumer's block. Some years ago Mr. Jenness opened a hardware store in this block, which he conducted up to the time of the death of his mother.

Following her death he travelled considerably and then settled in Maine where he made his home. He was a past grand of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows, and also a member of Manet Encampment and Canton Shawmut, P. M. Some years ago he married Mrs. Nellie Batson of this city.

be some surprises when the votes are counted Dec 6.

The Socialists who took out nomination papers for Mayor and councilmen at large had not filed them up to noon. Under the present law the signatures of 100 voters are necessary on nomination papers for the above offices.

With seven candidates seeking the three positions as councilmen from Ward Six it looks as though there would be some lively voting in that ward at the coming election.

BRIEFS

So take Joy home,
And make a place in thy heart for her,
And give her time to grow, and cherish her;
Then will she come and oft will sing to thee

The Farmers club, a well known German society of West Quincy, hold their annual Thanksgiving dinner tonight at their hall on West street.

The many friends of Daniel Desmond will be sorry to hear that he is confined to his bed by illness. Mr. Desmond underwent a surgical operation about a year ago and has been in poor health since that time. Recently he sustained a shock since which time he has been confined to his bed.

ELMENDORF ON BERLIN.

Dwight Elmendorf has for the subject of his lecture at Symphony Hall next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, "Berlin." Mr. Elmendorf's lecture will reveal a city of palaces and magnificent monuments, a city of order, cleanliness and beauty. All points of interest will be pictured and described by the lecturer. The motion pictures will constitute an unique feature of the lecture. Much is heard these days of Germany, yet the people really know very little about the country, which is among the most progressive in the world. As presented by Mr. Elmendorf it is sure to be instructive and entertaining. The evening lectures are given at 8.15 and the matinees at 2.15, and are always largely attended.

CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE.

The bi-monthly conference of the Norfolk Union of Congregational churches was held in Bethany chapel Tuesday afternoon and evening. At the first session, Rev. T. H. Lewis of Abington spoke on "The exaltation of the church," and Rev. Granville Yager of Braintree spoke on "The exaltation of the ministry." In the evening a discussion of the Apportionment plan was led by Rev. A. J. Dyer of Sharon.

Foss Will Not Attack Lodge After He Becomes Governor

Boston, Nov. 23.—Governor-elect Foss said last night that he will not take any active part for or against a candidate for United States senator after he takes office, Jan. 2.

He said that he believed that there had been some misinterpretation of his attitude, especially among the Republicans, who were charging that he was usurping the prerogatives of the legislature in taking an active part against Senator Lodge, even although he has just been elected governor of the state.

He said: "In conducting a campaign against Senator Lodge, I am acting within my capacity as a private citizen and not as governor of Massachusetts.

"Senator Crane is all right to lead some campaigns, but this time he would better take off his gum shoes and retire to the woods. Lodge is defeated now, and he knows it."

A NOTABLE ALLIANCE

Jane Morgan Becomes the Bride of a Noted Englishman

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—A wedding of international interest took place here when Miss Jane Morgan, daughter of Randal Morgan, a wealthy Philadelphian, and Cecil Vavasseur-Fisher, son of Lord Fisher of Kilverstone, admiral of the British fleet and recently first lord of the admiralty of England, were married in St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Owing to the recent death of Miss Morgan's mother, the wedding was quiet, only the bridal party and the members of both families attending. Mr. and Mrs. Vavasseur-Fisher will occupy Kilverstone Hall, the bridegroom's country seat in England.

The bride is noted as one of the few women who hold a sailing master's license.

MOSQUITOES CAMP ON ITALIAN LINER

All But Eat Up More Than Three Hundred Passengers

Boston, Nov. 23.—The Italian liner Lazio, from Mediterranean ports, docked with 305 passengers suffering from bites inflicted ten days ago by a swarm of inch-long mosquitoes, which camped upon the vessel in midocean.

When the Lazio came to quarantine Dr. Gay thought the passengers were suffering from smallpox. They bore on their hands, arms and faces small, hard "papules," as they are called, which are like the preliminary symptoms of smallpox.

Dr. Gay was told about the mosquitoes and when he investigated the story thoroughly he became convinced that the extraordinary appearance of the Lazio's passengers was really due to mosquitoes.

The mosquito swarm descended on the decks of the Lazio ten days ago. They bit the passengers frightfully, especially the children. They invaded the staterooms and saloons, drove all passengers up on deck and made life miserable for all. Finally the staterooms and saloons were fumigated with sulphur, which drove the "bugs" out again or killed them.

SPEED IS FACTOR UNDER NEW CODE

Fleet Offense Is Biggest Asset In Modern Football Game.

DUE TO FORWARD PASSES.

Four Quarter Rule and Open Plays Also Demand Quickest Sort of Attack—Series Plays Are Good Things For Elevens.

That speed, individually and collectively, is one of the most important in football has been shown in nearly every game played this season. Even in the old game the quickness of attack in taking advantage of opponents' slowness in lining up was a thing sought for by all coaches, but under the new code the quickness with which an offensive team gets into position for an attack has a great effect on the result of the plays.

When the forward pass with all its possibilities was first introduced in 1906 speed then was seen to be a most important factor toward the ultimate success of plays, and with each succeeding year this football essential has increased in importance. With the game divided into four quarters of fifteen minutes each, a great deal depends upon the successive quickness with which plays are executed and the speed of each player who performs an important part in each formation.

Series Plays Gain Ground.

With most of the big college elevens having series plays, which is a good thing, especially if the games are played before large crowds, the success of these plays depends almost entirely upon the quickness with which they are executed and the alertness of the offensive team in taking advantage of any weakness of its opponents. Nothing in football will demoralize a team quicker than to have an offensive eleven get it on the run so that the defensive players do not know what to expect, and when a team is in such a state of confusion the quicker the plays are executed the better results will be obtained.

Long and thorough signal drills are the only forms of practice which will help a team to obtain this speed.

Machines Necessary For Plays.

Series plays are used to promote speed of attack, and if each player does not know his part of the formation perfectly the value of the series is lost. A player, no matter how badly he is hurt, should always try to get into position for the second or third play of the series, for in the majority of cases the coaches do not depend upon the first play to gain much ground, but rely almost entirely on the deception and quickness of the second play to gain the required distance.

It generally happens that a three play series has to be broken up if one or two yards remain to be gained on the third down if the third play of the series calls for an end run or some other attack which is not so sure of resulting in first down as an off tackle plunge or some other play in which the runner gets up to the line of scrimmage as quickly as possible. In most cases the second play is considered the ground gaining attack of the series, and its effectiveness depends upon the speed in which the players take their relative positions.

The object of a speedy attack is to catch the opponent off guard in a manner which allows the offensive team to get the charge on the defensive players. It generally happens in series plays that one of the tackles or both and end line up on the other side of the line as the players are taking their positions after a scrimmage, and before the opposing eleven becomes aware of the shift the play is snapped off and substantial results obtained.

Speedy players should be used to catch forward passes so that in the event one is caught such players have good chances of making long runs which may result in touchdowns. Such plays often will be valuable on the defense when a player gets loose and passes all members of the defensive team. In many other ways a speedy runner is valuable to any team if he combines certain other qualifications which go to make up a good football player.

Athlete Campbell Coming Champion.

E. P. Campbell, a sophomore who transferred to Stanford university from the University of Nevada this year, is looked upon as a possible contender for the Amateur Athletic union all around championship. In a recent test at Stanford he made a mark of 5 feet 4 inches in the high jump; pole vault, 9 feet 3 inches; threw the hammer 109 feet without a turn; ran a half mile in 2:30 and covered the 100 yards in 10 3-5 seconds. He made a new college gymnasium record, registering 399 points.

Rowing on Pacific Coast.

Hiram B. Conibear, rowing coach at the University of Washington, wishes the student board of control to raise $1,000 by subscription for the purpose of bringing the Stanford and California first and freshman eights to Seattle for a two day water carnival. According to his plan, a triangular regata would be pulled off between the freshman eights the first day and a similar event between the varsity crews on the day following.

TAFT DOES SHIPWRECK

Tennessee Gets Pretty Close to German Ship During a Squall

Richmond, Nov. 23.—President Taft arrived here last night from Hampton Roads, to remain until this afternoon.

The trip from Panama was filled with incident. On Friday night last about 140 miles south of Guantanamo, Cuba, the Tennessee narrowly averted a collision with a German training ship, supposed to be the Freya.

A heavy squall had shut in around the presidential squadron. The storm was brief, and, as it cleared, the big German ship was cutting directly across the Tennessee's steel bows, not a quarter of a mile away. The helm of the Tennessee was put hard over. The Freya continued on her course. There was no exchange of signals.

UNION SERVICES THANKSGIVING DAY

AT BETHANY CITY SQUARE

New England Home Theme of The Speaker

There was a good attendance at the union Thanksgiving service at the Bethany church Thanksgiving morning, although not as large an audience as a pleasant day should have called out. The service was a most helpful one, the theme being the "New England Home."

The exercises opened with an organ voluntary by Mme. Beale Morey, which was followed by the congregation singing "God be with us, as he was with our fathers," after which Rev. A. M. Thompson conducted the responsive service, "Praise God for His Loving Kindness." Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy offered the morning prayer, and Rev. Richard E. Armstrong read the Governor's Proclamation. Dr. Hardy then read a short home-coming poem and a collection was taken for the City Hospital. Then came the singing of Julia Ward Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The first speaker was Miss Edith Randall whose topic was "The New England Home." She contrasted the home in New England with those in foreign countries, and said the N. E. people were home makers and home lovers. The home was a very important factor of the early New England character. She described the home of Colonial days and the noble men and women matured there. At the home today the news of the world is presented at the breakfast table for the telegraph and wireless waves have brought all parts of the country in close touch.

The character of the home is the women. We women must see that the influence of the home does not waver. It is woman's condition that makes the home. In some European countries the women are the beasts of burden, but not so in America. Here good comradship between women and their husbands prevail. Our boys and girls play together. They have the same home training, and it follows in later life that they are not only husband and wife but good friends. The New England women is the home influence.

OUR SCHOOLS.

Albert Barbour, Superintendent of the public schools, took for his topic, "The community and our schools." He said in part:

"The old Thanksgiving was distinctly an agricultural one. The close dependence of the farmer upon his harvests for sustenance caused the day to be set apart for prayer and thanksgiving. The change in social conditions, with its many differentiations of labor, has had much to do with the undoubted decline of the religious aspect of the day.

"We have many material blessings to be thankful for, plenteous harvests, busy industries, peaceful conditions, freedom of speech and thought. But these alone would make our Thanksgiving selfish, however precious. Our greatest blessings are the opportunities for growth, to realize our possibilities, and the opportunities for service.

"In the last analysis, it will not be the comforts of an easy life that we shall look back upon and give thanks for, but rather the toil and results of an unselfish life. The only way we can adequately give thanks for these blessings is through cooperation. And so, wherever men and women are seen working in organized altruistic effort, to help the fatherless and the widow, the distressed in mind, body or estate, or in any way to alleviate social conditions, there is found the true thanksgiving. In other words, the one thesis of this talk is that the best Thanksgiving is Thanksliving. That however good it is to thank God for all his goodness and loving kindness, it is a

AT UNITARIAN WOLLASTON

The Workings of Divine Providence

The Wollaston Unitarian church was well filled at the Thanksgiving Day union service of the Wollaston churches at 5 P. M. The meeting opening with the reading of the Thanksgiving proclamation by Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra of St. Chrysostoms Episcopal church. "Worshipping the King," a hymn by the congregation, followed.

Rev. Carl G. Horst pastor of the church delivered the opening sontences and prayer, which were followed by responsive readings by Rev. Mr. Steenstra and the congregation.

The scripture lesson, which was read by Rev. Edward A. Chase of the Congregational church, was taken from Leviticus 24. Mr. Chase also announced the Union No- License meeting which is to be held in the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday evening December 4. The singing at this meeting will be augmented by a chorus of men's voices, selected from the various Wollaston churches, under the direction of A. D. Albee.

After the hymn beginning "O God our help in ages past," Rev. Joseph Walther of the Baptist church delivered a fervent prayer of Thanksgiving and inspiration.

A solo by George L. McGowan, basso of the Temple quartet, accompanied on the organ by William E. Weston, followed the congregational singing of "Come, ye faithful people, come."

The sermon of the afternoon was delivered by Rev. Wesley Wiggin of the Methodist church. His talk was one dealing with the workings of Divine Providence and the many things we had to be thankful for on this holiday. The speaker dwelt on the courage and fidelity of the Pilgrims and our Revolutionary fore fathers telling how much they and other great leaders of the past relied on the Bible for inspiration and help. He spoke of the gratitude we ought to feel, and urged that we manifest it, not only by the working of our lips but in many other ways. Mr. Wiggin closed his sermon with an earnest prayer of consecration.

The meeting ended with the singing of the National anthem "America."

Rev. Carl G. Horst invoked the benediction and a recessional "Amen" was sung.

GRANITE CITY HOLIDAY.

There was an unusually large attendance of members and friends at the rooms of the Granite City club the night before Thanksgiving and the club as usual maintained its reputation for hospitality. During the first part of the evening there was a whist tournament in which nine tables participated while others amused themselves with pool and billiards. At the conclusion of the whist the usual souvenirs were awarded to the two having the higest percentages. These proved to be Shirley F. Nutting, who won 39 and lost 16 giving him 70 plus per cent, while the second best score was secured by Albert C. Bruff, who won 37 and lost 18 giving him 67 plus per cent. Then came a lunch of fruit of various kinds, hot coffee, cider, etc. The evening proved to be one of enjoyment to all.

ANOTHER LAUNCHING.

The steam trawler "Ripple," a sister ship of the "Spray" and "Foam" will be launched at the Fore River Ship Building yard next Tuesday. This is the tenth launch to take place at the Fore River yards thus far this year The "Ripple" like her sister ships, is 125 feet long, and was made ready for launching in remarkably short time.

AT OUR INSTITUTIONS

Good Cheer at City Hospital and Quincy Home

Overseer of the Poor Elcock saw to it that the unfortunates at the Quincy Home had their fill of the good things they were wont to enjoy in their old homes before old age and want overtook them. No work other than what was necessary was performed and the occupants of the home gave themselves up to the enjoyment of the day. The feature of the day was the Thanksgiving dinner with its tender turkey, and quantities of vegetables topping off with mince, pumpkin and apple pie. Then each passed the balance of the day as he or she desired and when time came to retire for the night it was with thoughts of kindness for the good things that the city had provided.

AT CITY HOSPITAL.

The unfortunates confined to the City Hosptal were made as far as possible to forget their ills on the beautiful Thanksgiving day. Those whose conditions permitted were served with some of the good things their more fortunate brothers and sisters were enjoying, and in the afternoon the patients were permitted to receive visitors. Many of these visitors brought good things which if their condition permitted the patients were allowed to enjoy. Others brought flowers with which the rooms were brightened so that altogether it was a happy day for all.

AT SAILORS HOME.

At the National Sailors Home all work except that absolutely necessary was omitted, and the old salts who manned the guns in years gone by were allowed to smoke their pipes and spin yarns to their hearts content. At noon the usual Thanksgiving dinner with all the "fixins" was served and it is hardly necessary to say that all of the old salts did ample justice to what was set before them.

AT SNUG HARBOR.

At Sailors Snug Harbor at Germantown the old salts, who during their prime followed the sea, were made comfortable and all unnecessary work suspended that they might enjoy the day to its fill. At noon the usual Thanksgiving dinner was served after which checkers, and other games were enjoyed in the main room.

—The Springfield Republican has been greatly improved in appearance by abolishing all advertising from its first page. We never would insert display advertising on the first page of the Chronicle, no matter what the inducements were, and think that we have got along with our advertisers just as well as the other fellows who inserted quarter sheet posters and other unsightly advertisements on the first page of their papers. Experience has taught us that the subscribers to a newspaper appreciate a neat appearing paper, and their rights should be respected full as much as the wishes of the advertisers who desire the most conspicuous pages in the paper for their ads.—Athol Chronicle.

GOOD WORK BY OVERSEER.

Overseer of the Poor Elcock desires to thank the Daily Ledger for publishing his appeal for funds to help out the income from the Johnson fund in supplying Thanksgiving dinners to the needy of the city. Mr. Elcock states that one party wrote him stating that the appeal had been read in the Ledger and inclosed a check for $50. Another sent a check for $25, and various small sums were received bringing the total contributions up to $85. This with the $80 received from the Johnson fund enabled him to supply about 75 dinners. Each of these baskets contained a turkey, potatoes, squash, turnips, onions, celery and cranberries. This was all the most exacting could desire for a Thanksgiving dinner, and the poor have every reason to be thankful that the city has a man like Mr. Elcock to look after their welfare.

ODD FELLOWS AT SERVICE.

The body of Charles M. Jenness, who was accidentally killed at Meddybemps, Me., on Tuesday was brought to Boston this morning, and taken to Forest Hills cemetery, where brief services were held at 10 o'clock. The services were attended by a delegation from Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows of which he was a past grand.

BUTLER STILL LIVES.

Officer Bishop pulled in a drunk with a distinguished name Wednesday night. The man, who claimed to hail from Brockton, arrived on one of the late trains leaving it at Quincy instead of his home town. When lined up before the sergeant at the police station he said his name was Benjamin F. Butler, and he was proud of it and that he hailed from Brockton. He was given a bed in one of the steel-bound rooms, and the next morning was allowed to depart in time to reach home for dinner.

WATER METERS.

Bids were opened by Commissioner Bainbridge this morning for furnishing the city 800 five-eighths water meters. Seven bids were received ranging from $6.25 to $9.40 each. The bids were taken under advisement. The city reserved the privilege to install more than 800 or less than 800.

FORBES—BARRY.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at West Quincy on the holiday when Miss Hannah, daughter of Sergt. David J. Barry of the Police department, became the bride of Mr. Edward J. Forbes. The wedding was solemnized by Rev. Henry T. Grady pastor of St. Mary's church and was followed by a reception at the bride's home on Bates avenue.

TODAY'S COURT.

Frank H. Brownrigg was sentenced to two months in the house of correction for drunkenness at Quincy. Sentence suspended until March 1.

ATHLETIC MEET.

The second of the series of monthly athleic meets will be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night at 7.45 o'clock. The entries and handicaps for the various events are:

—Al Re of Everett declares he has the shortest name of any one in the country, and challenges anybody to come forward with a name as short as his. Previous to Mr. Re's announcement Miss Eda Ek of Brockton was credited with having the shortest name in America.

LOYAL LADIES MASQUERADE

Annual Party Largely Attended The Prize Winners

The thirteenth annual masquerade party of the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor Order of Scottish Clans, was held Thanksgiving eve at Music hall and was a most successful affair in every way. The attendance was very large, the greater part of the attendants being in costume, forming as they moved about the floor an ever-changing picture. From 8 to 9 o'clock Thompson's orchestra gave a promenade concert during which the costumers made merry.

Fully sixty couples were in costume and almost every conceivable character was represented from the most expensive gowns to be had of costumers, to the more comfortable home-made affair. Some of the costumes were very handsome, especially those worn by several young ladies who impersonated ladies at some of the European courts of olden times. Then there were numerous Mexicans of which so much is heard at the present time, schools girls, clowns, dominoes and farmers and hosts of others.

One of the interesting events was the grand march which opened the ball. This was participated in as stated above by over sixty couples and made a pretty sight. The ladies had announced that prizes for the handsomest as well as the most comical costumes would be given, and this involved quite a task upon the three judges who viewed the merry throng from the balcony. The judges were James F. Burke, Peter J. Williams and George T. Magee. Their award was made immediately following the grand unmasqueing dance. Mr. Burke made the announcement, and stated that it had been quite a difficult task. He complimented all of the participants on the fine appearance they had made, and the ladies of Clan McGregor on the success of their party.

The prize for the handsomest dressed lady was awarded to Miss Grassick, who wore a red court costume trimmed with white fur. Her prize was a handsome silver chatelain bag.

The best dressed gentleman was Matthew Nichols who wore a gaudy Mexican costume and he was awarded a watch fob.

The most comical impersonations were awarded to Miss Anna Anderson and John Matheson. This pair were much in evidence during the whole evening and afforded no end of amusement. Miss Anderson wore a red waist and a contrasty skirt that had some time done duty as a bed quilt. Her hat was one hard to describe, but did credit to the milliner who designed it. Mr. Matheson was dressed as a hod carrier and his prominent feature was the clay T. D. which he constantly carried between his lips. The prize given Miss Anderson was a gold bracelet, and that to Mr. Matheson a pocketbook. This pleasant duty over general dancing was resumed and continued until early morning, the only intermission being at midnight when the ladies served supper in the annex.

Much of the credit of the affair is due to Mrs. Margaret E. Gammon, president, and Mrs. Jeannie Mitchell, vice president, who composed the reception committee, and the following commitee of arrangements: Mrs. Elizabeth E. Russell, treasurer, Mrs. Isabelle Pierce, secretary Mrs. Mary Kennedy, Mrs. Catherine Gordon, Mrs. Jennie Steinbrenner, Mrs. Effie Scarborough, Mrs. Fannie Wood and Mrs. Catherine Falconer.

Miss Helen K. Kennedy was the floor directress and Miss Mary S. Summers assistant, while the aids were Mrs. Josie Daw, Mrs. Agnes Smith, Mrs. Jennie Fyfe, Mrs. Mary McKenzie, Miss Jennie Grassick and Miss Lillian McIntosh.

—Forty million dollars is not too high a price to pay for the electrification of all the steam roads within the metropolitan district of Boston. The escape from the smoke, cinders and noise that go with coal-burning engines is worth more than that, and the city and the passengers ought to be willing to pay the price.—Providence Bulletin.

BRIEFS

The funeral of Mrs. Lester W. Cole will be held Saturday afternoon.

Miss Corlew has postponed her Wollaston classes this week as she is in New York looking up new dances.

Death entered several homes on the holiday, and it was usually the wife or mother that was taken.

Fred F. Green had one of the largest family gatherings on the holiday, a total of 22.

Mrs. John Baillie, formerly of this city, passed away on the holiday. She was in her 58th year.

John L. Miller, the chairman of the School Committee, has been confined to the house a few days with bronchitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porter were Thanksgiving geusts of Col. and Mrs. Charles H. Porter.

Herbert L. Boutin of Pierce street, East Milton, mourns the death of his wife, who passed away Thanksgiving day.

Mrs. B. H. Prescott and sons of Lynn and Mrs. Kate Kertell and family of Everett were holiday guests of Frank F. Prescott and family.

Mrs. Amos B. Chamberlin of 690 Adams street passed away on Thanksiving day in her 72d year. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Joseph Ryan passed away on Wednesday at the City Hospital after an illness of two or three weeks. She was a member of the Quincy Catholic club. Burial will be at Randolph on Saturday.

A Thanksgiving festival service will be held in Christ church this evening at 8 o'clock. Maxfield's Cantata, "The Bountiful Giver," will be rendered by the united choirs of Christ church and St. Chrysostom's under the direction of Prof. Wrigley. This service is open to everyone who wishes to attend.

WARD THREE RALLY.

A rally in the interest of Ralph W. Hobbs, Republican candidate for Mayor, will be held in Doble's hall, South Quincy, next Tuesday evening. Ex-Councilman Walter E. Piper will preside, and the speakers will be Candidate Hobbs, Representative Thomas and Councilmen Richards and Gardner.

—Miss Hulda B. Loud who has been editor of the Rockland Independent for the past twenty years has retired. In her retirement the Plymouth county press loses one of its most picturesque and original figures. A woman of positive ideas, high ideals and the courage of her convictions, she impressed her personality on the weekly she edited and has been an outspoken critic and advisor in town affairs.

☞One of the signs of the season is the arrival just at the beginning of winter of the Old Farmer's Almanac established when Washington was president. It is published by William Ware & Co., Boston and the present issue is numbered 119. So old and familiar is this handy little almanac that ones desk is not complete without it.

WARD ONE GROWING FAST

Makes the Largest Gain in Last Five Years

Mayor Shea received today from Director Gettemy of the Massachusetts Census Bureau, the population of Quincy by wards. Ward Three the South Quincy Ward, continues the largest, but Ward One made the largest gain in the five years. Ward Six is second in gain, while Wards Three and Five are having it nip and tuck. Ward Two made a large gain, but Ward Four lost 33 in population.

Here are the figures for 1910 and 1905 side by side:

	1910	1905
Ward One,	5,957	4,793
Ward Two,	5,199	4,509
Ward Three,	6,727	5,817
Ward Four,	5,531	5,564
Ward Five,	4,940	4,031
Ward Six,	4,288	3,353
	32,642	28,067

With the exception of Ward Four the gain in the different wards of the city has been remarkably close in the last fifteen years as will be seen below:

	5 yrs gain	15 yrs gain
Ward One,	1,164	2,395
Ward Two,	690	2,458
Ward Three,	910	2,031
Ward Four	*33	567
Ward Five,	909	2,371
Ward Six,	935	2,208
	4,575	11,930

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

A man has as much right to be a Republican as to be a Democrat in these days, but no man has a right to be both.

The Baltimore woman "who shot a burglar" with her eyes closed had the presence of mind, probably to recollect that she couldn't hit what she looked at.

A Boston woman says lack of babies causes divorces. An extraordinary argument. We should have thought, on the contrary, that the prevalence of divorce caused the shortage of infants.

The term of Senator "Paynter" of Kentucky, expires next March and he is a candidate for re-election. Whitewashers, however, are more in demand at the national capital.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

It is intended, according to present plans, to compute and pay interest on deposits in the forthcoming postal savings banks only once a year. There may be excellent reasons for this course, but they fail to suggest themselves to people who would like to see the system fairly well tested on this side of the Atlantic. What would be said of a movement designed to engraft this particular requirement upon the savings bank system in the United States, with forfeiture of interest upon all sums withdrawn between the declarations of the dividends?—Salem News.

The financial returns of the aviators make it worth while to them to take their lives in their hands, we suppose. The statement printed in the Enterprise yesterday about Grahame-White was interesting along this line. He has cleared about $85,000 since he arrived in this country by making flights. He thinks that in six months more—if he lives—he will make at least $85,000 more. It is not understood that when he arrived in this country he was a man of wealth; but he has lived well while here, has been the friend of good people, entertained in some of the best houses, has taken a nice place in New York for a winter home, and has a comfortable fortune, no doubt, still safe, which he can draw upon when he wills. At ordinarily well paid work of any kind he would never have cleared $85,000 in a lifetime. It is not surprising that men can be found to take such risks where the reward is so tempting. Wonder what are the emotions of parachute droppers from balloons who for years took even greater chances at fairs and other exhibitions for $15 to $25 a week?—Brockton Enterprise.

Although he has not yet been inaugurated Governor of the Commonwealth, Eugene N. Foss has assumed the role of "boss" of the politics of Massachusetts. There was a time, and it is not so remote that everybody has forgotten it, when he was loudly declaiming against bossism in the State. Then the term "boss," as he applied it, was a term of reproach, a thing to be resisted as absolutely foreign to the sentiments of liberty as promulgated by the founders of the nation. Having been elected on the State ticket as the only Democrat chosen in a Republican State he assumes the right to demand of Henry Cabot Lodge that he surrender his seat in the United States senate by withdrawing from his contest for re-election. If the senator refuses to surrender the pugnacious Governor-elect notifies him that "I shall start at once on a State wide campaign going into the cities and towns and holding meetings where I will discuss his official acts, his votes, his known and admitted position on the questions on which the people have already voiced their opinion."

This is indeed alarming, for when a man has arrogated to himself the functions, responsibilities and terrors of a "boss" and proposes to crack his whip in every one of the 40 senatorial and every one of the 173 representative districts into which the State is divided, the voters must of necessity sit up and take notice. The Governor-elect is unique. He proposes a novelty of the most new-fangled kind. He takes himself more seriously than any of his predecessors have ever done or thought of doing.

It was a great thing to be the only Democrat on the State ticket to be pulled through, and that by a large majority. The people preferred him for Governor over a better man, but it may well be doubted that they desire him for a "boss." The course that he has mapped out can mean but one thing and that is a consolidation of the Republicans of the Legislature to resist the efforts of the Governor-elect and the Boston Democratic machine, and to prove to him and it, that they will not accept the dictum of a self-appointed "boss" who is the choice of a party that does not represent the political sentiments of Massachusetts.—Lynn Item.

RED CROSS SEALS.

75,000,000 to be sent out by December--May sell in Postoffices.

Judging from reports at hand, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis estimates that by December 1st, not less than 75,000,000 Red Cross Seals will have been distributed to selling agents in forty different states of the country.

Forty million seals have already been printed and another large edition is being prepared. Agents' orders to date aggregate all of that amount and a considerable number have not yet stated how many seals they can use. Taking into consideration this latter class and the agents who will be appointed before December 1st, the prospects for selling 100,000,000 stamps, which is the goal that has been set by the national workers, are extremely bright.

Over 30 state societies have organized the sale on an extensive basis, and in about 10 more states, Red Cross Seals will be sold in some places. All told, including state, city, county, subagents, an army of fully 50,000 men, women and children will be engaged in selling the bright Christmas Seals for the prevention of tuberculosis. Permission to sell seals in the corridors of all post-offices has been granted by Secretary Hitchcock. They will also be on sale in department stores hotels, railway stations, drug-stores, and in thousands of other places.

Every conceivable device for advertising the seals is being prepared. In some places valuable prizes will be given. Millions of slips, dodgers, posters, and other kinds of literature will be distributed calling upon the public to buy Red Cross Seals.

Among the agencies that are cooperating with the Red Cross and the tuberculosis societies are women's clubs, lodges, labor unions, business men's associations, stores, banks, newspapers and thousands of schoolboys and girls.

Every seal is a bullet in the fight against tuberculosis in the community where it is sold, and a million dollars from the sale for the stamping out of this plague is the object of the Christmas campaign.

DIAZ CONTROLS SITUATION

Order Practically Is Established Throughout Republic of Mexico

Washington, Nov. 25.—Indications today point to the rapid ascendency of the Diaz forces to full control of the situation in Mexico. Authentic reports that order is being established rapidly have come to the Mexican embassy.

The state department has heard that the trouble is abating, and Brigadier General Hoyt, in command of the federal troops on the border, reports to the war department that conditions there are satisfactory. There probably will be no need for more United States troops.

Henry L. Wilson, United States ambassador at Mexico City, has telegraphed to the state department that so far as the Diaz government is concerned the situation looks very optimistic.

BESIDE MOTHER'S COFFIN

Young Couple Are Wedded After Previous Disappointments

Easton, Pa., Nov. 25.—Rather than postpone their wedding the third time Sylvanus J. Fehnel and Miss Hattie M. Abel, both of Bath, were married beside the coffin of the bridegroom's mother. They were to have been married last summer, but a few days before the day set for the ceremony Miss Abel became ill with typhoid fever, and the wedding was postponed. A date was then fixed for the fall, but again the wedding was postponed, because of the death of a nephew of the bride. It was then decided that the wedding should take place this week.

Two days ago Mrs. Christiana Fehnel died suddenly. The young man and his bride had promised to let nothing interfere with the wedding again, and they carried out their resolution.

TOWNS CHANGE PLACES

Some Surprises by New Population of County

The census figures for all cities and towns of Norfolk county are now complete. The order of the first five is the same as in 1900 and 1905—Quincy, Brookline, Hyde Park, Weymouth and Dedham, but in 1880 Weymouth was larger than Quincy.

There have been several changes in positions by the other towns of the county. Braintree has moved up from seven in 1900 to No. 6. Norwood from 8 to 7. Milton has dropped from 6 to 8, and Wellesley from 10 to 11. Stoughton continues at 8 and Needham at 12. Franklin has moved up from 11 to 10, and Walpole from 15 to 13. Canton drops from 15 to 14, and Randrop from 14 to 15. Foxboro and Medfield continue 16 and 17. Holbrook has moved up from 21 to 18, Medway has dropped from 18 to 19, and Cohasset from 19 to 20. Sharon moved from 22 to 21, Wrentham from 20 to 22, Bellingham from 24 to 23, and Millis from 26 to 24. Plainville a new town is 25. Westwood dropped from 25 to 26, Avon from 23 to 27, Norfolk from 27 to 28 and Dover from 28 to 29.

The figures for 1900, 1905 and 1910 are given below in the order of the new census:

	1910	1905	1900
Quincy	32,642	28,076	23,899
Brookline	27,792	23,436	19,935
Hyde Park	15,507	14,510	13,244
Weymouth	12,895	11,585	11,324
Dedham	9,284	7,774	7,457
Braintree	8,066	6,879	5,981
Norwood	8,014	6,731	5,480
Milton	7,924	7,054	6,578
Stoughton	6,316	5,959	5,442
Franklin	5,641	5,244	5,017
Wellesley	5,413	6,189	5,072
Needham	5,026	4,284	4,016
Walpole	4,892	4,003	3,572
Canton	4,797	4,702	4,584
Randolph	4,301	4,034	3,993
Foxboro	3,863	3,364	3,266
Medfield	3,466	3,314	2,926
Holbrook	2,816	2,509	2,229
Medway	2,696	2,650	2,761
Cohasset	2,585	2,727	2,759
Sharon	2,310	2,085	2,060
Wrentham	1743	1,428	2,720
Bellingham	1696	1,686	1,682
Millis	1,399	1,252	1,053
Plainville	1,385	1,300
Westwood	1,266	1,136	1,112
Avon	1,213	1,901	1,741
Norfolk	960	1,089	980
Dover	789	636	656
Total	187,506	167,437	150,539

Quincy has over one-sixth of the population of Norfolk county, and Quincy and Brookline have nearly one-third.

DECEMBER MAGAZINES.

Everybody's Magazine has started with the aid of ex-Senator Frank J. Cannon, of Utah, to demonstrate that the Mormons need reforming, both as to their matrimonial and business methods. The blame for the situation is laid on the Mormon Prophet, Joseph F. Smith, and the outlook for his peace of mind during the next few months is not encouraging. A topic which is interesting all men in all countries at the present moment is flying. James Hopper tells in the Christmas Everybody's just how it feels to fly. He flew in an Antoinette aeroplane and he knows. The vividness of his description fairly takes one's breath away.

Other articles are the fourth instalment of "It," Lincoln Steffens's merciless analysis of present-day business method. There is also an appreciation of William James by Walter Lippman, and William Hard shows much lack of appreciation of "The Women of Tomorrow—The Wasters."

The fiction in this issue takes one from the Far West via New York, to the Panama Canal zone. "Frosty Ferguson," by Lowell E. Hardy, is a humorous tale of the Western frontier; "The Man Who Made Good," by Arthur Stringer, is a New York newspaper story full of thrills and humor; and "Son" by Ethel Train, a really touching story of a brave little boy. This month's instalment of Rex Beach's serial "The Ne'er-Do-Well" is full of his peculiar combination of humor and excitement.

Quite unusual for the Christmas season is the cover for the December National. It represents, with vivid coloring against a back ground of white, an Indian in his canoe, sounding forth the moose-call on the silent river. The effect is unique.

Following the opening pages, which gleam with holly and mistletoe, is the Editors Greeting. "A Merry Christmas to You" is one of those gentle, kindly, fireside reveries in which Editor Joe Chapple, of "Happy Habit" fame, is at his best.

"Affairs at Washington" covers the work being done by the Census Bureau, the discussion of penny postage, the visit of the President to Panama, anecdotes of the late Senator Dolliver, stories of the Boy Scouts, and other interesting phases of Washington life. An impressive conception of the Capital City in pen and ink drawings and accompanying sketch is given by the young artist, Arthur Hutchins, on the occasion of his first visit to the "City Beautiful."

The following is a list of leading articles for December, Technical World: Why Latin-America Hates Us, R. W. Emerson; What it Costs to Homestead, Charlton Lawrence Edholm; England No Longer an Island, Reginald W. Crowly; The Great Gift of Work, Henry M. Hyde. When the Boiler Blows Up, Charles Frederick Carter. Building a Thousand-Mile Boulevard, Rene Bach, Campaign at Public Expense, Worth C. Harder; Popular Science and Mechanics Supplement.

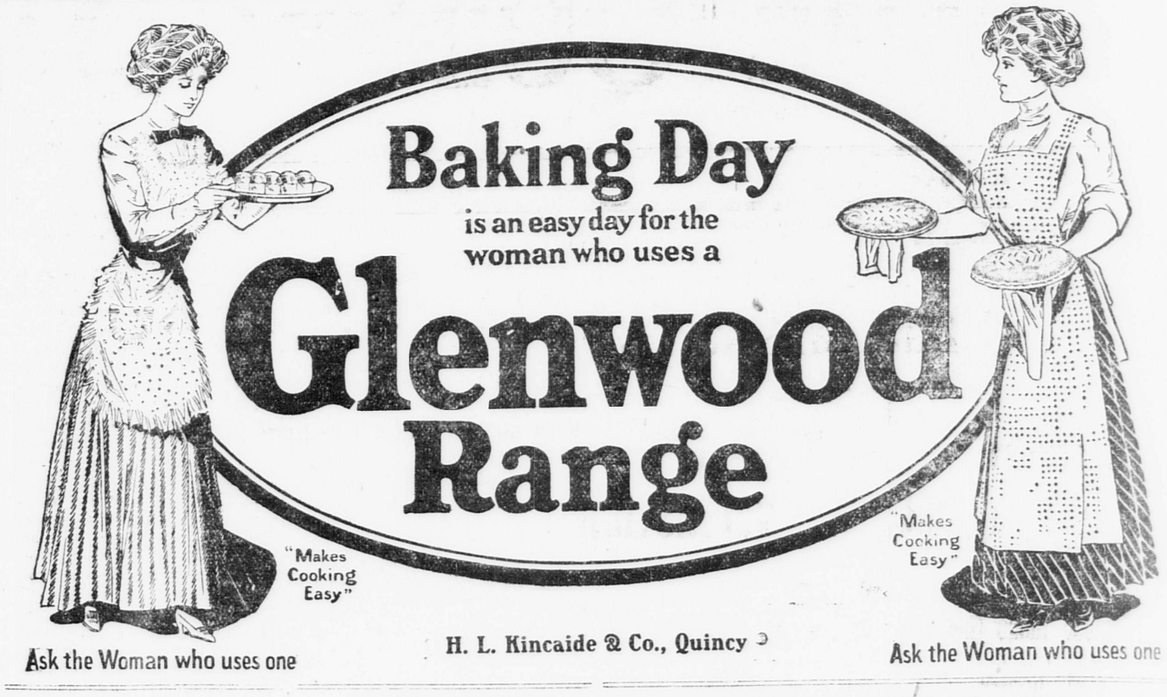

The second issue of Adventure, The Ridgway Company's new monthly, reveals the fact that the editors have thought of more kinds of adventure than were previously known to exist. The perils of Nihilists, winter, the deep sea, a forced marriage, the arctic regions, heredity, Wall Street, aviation, war, ghosts, love, lions, pirates and building railroads are a few of the varieties of which they treat.

"The White Rook," by James Barr, is a murder story. The scene of "Home Through Hades," by C. Langton Clarke, is the wilderness of Northern Canada whence Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post, the aeronauts, emerged October 26th after their record-breaking sail in the balloon America II.

The second instalment of Gouverneur Morris's pulse-stirring serial, "Yellow Men and Gold" is as mysterious and exciting as "Treasure Island" or Poe's "Gold Bug." "The Mysterious Invitation" is a delightful bit of German intrigue.

Fire In Steamer's Hold

Norfolk, Nov. 25.—The Austrian steamer Giulia, New Orleans to Trieste, with a valuable cargo of cotton, staves and pig iron, arrived here with a bad fire in her hold. The crew had been fighting the flames unsuccessfully for several days. Tugs are now pouring steam into the Giulia.

still better thing to live those thanks. A thankful spirit is better than the act of giving thanks. While we may see society engaged as it is in utilizing its forces to better the condition of mankind, we may look forward to the future with the hope of optimism, undisturbed by momentary misgivings.

OUR RELIGION.

The last speaker was Rev. Richard E. Armstrong of Christ church who spoke on "Religion and the community needs."

He said our community needs the influence of religion above all other things that we may have good citizens. How shall people be made good? Poverty is the great cause of vice and crime. Improved conditions provide a way to make the home comfortable for the family. We must have time for recreation that we may have a happy people. Good schools that we may teach our boys and girls how to be useful. Good morals make good men, good laws and government. What we need is laws that will make it hard to be dishonest and easy to be honest. Religion must enter into every method adopted to secure for the community good men and women. Social development depends upon religion for its life. The increase of income without religion does not bring happiness. Education without religion can not succeed. What is law without religion? No law is self executing. We can not legislate man into honor. What we need is better men and not better laws and city charter.

Referring to Restelli, the murderer, he asked why was Quincy visited by a man who had lost all respect for God. Who is safe on our streets? Who will protect us against such a man? Only religion can turn out good citizens and laws or legislation. Put yourself in touch with that power that has come down from above. The great need of a community is religion.

In closing Dr. Hardy said he felt sure that all would the more enjoy this day by having devoted an hour to worship. The congregation then sang America and Rev. A. M. Thompson pronounced the benediction.

"Yoh's gotter git right down an' hustle fur r'al success," said Uncle Eben. "Er young man's boun' ter spile 'is silk hat ef he tries ter w'ah it while he's puttin' on de wreath ob aurel."—Washington Star.

W E wish to call the attention of our customers and to the buying Public of Quincy and surrounding towns, that after careful inspection and comparison, we consider that taking the quality and genuine value of our goods, that we are the lowest priced store in Massachusetts.

Now, this may seem to be a broad statement to some people but we stand ready to PROVE our statement. We claim that nowhere in Quincy or any part of Massachusetts, do they sell better QUALITY or do they charge lower prices for the same QUALITY of goods than we do. We have been noted for years for the QUALITY of the goods we sell, and are ever ready to make good when the goods are not just as represented, and nowhere can you get such a guarantee of Quality. You all know that there is a certain value to High Quality Provisions as well as other commodities that you use; and when you go along the street and read the advertisements of different dealers who are selling you something at a ridiculously low price, you can depend upon it that you are surely buying a gold brick, for you cannot buy something that is absolutely worth thirty cents for fifteen cents and expect Quality any more than you can buy a three thousand dollar automobile for fifteen hundred and expect it to be just as good.

Now we have posted ourselves on the different grades of the other dealers and we say once more that we are the lowest priced Quality Store in Quincy or Massachusetts, and we ask you, if you want proof, to call and compare our goods and prices with what you are paying.

Just now the market has eased off considerably and we were one of the first dealers to give our customers the benefit, showing you that we are WITH the people, our customers, at all times.

Thanksgiving will be here soon and we wish to inform our customers that we shall have a grand display of DELICIOUS fresh Goods for the trade. No cheap trash, but fresh, wholesome, clean stock—the only kind FIT TO BUY, TO EAT, and the prices will be hammered down just as hard as possible for them to be and for us to live; so we invite you to our store, where you can see that our statements are all absolutely true in every respect.

Space will not permit us to quote at length our prices but below will be found the prices of a few things that we know to be of more than special value.

Curtice Bro's Family Tomatoes 12 1-2c a can

QUEEN LOUISE FLOUR at 90c a bag

We ask you to use some of this flour and if you do not find it to be the best you ever used, return the empty bag to us and receive your money back. This is the guarantee that goes with the FLOUR.

We sell the famous La Touraine Coffee for 35c a pound. The EQUAL of any 40c coffee on the Market.

With each pound of La Touraine Coffee we give FREE any 5c bar of soap you wish.

Our line of Teas are the BEST in Quincy, carefully selected and chosen to suit the heavy and light tea tastes of our customers. One special Tea at 60c we wish to call your attention to, a regular $1.00 Quality. Try some.

Our Market—always the best, always the LOWEST PRICE and the VERY HIGHEST QUALITY. This part of our large business speaks for itself. It needs no debate, as it is in a class all to itself; but of one thing you may be sure, considering the Quality we are surely cutting the prices on GOOD SUBSTANTIAL CORN FED BEEF.

We have our prices on MEAT on our price Board in plain sight of every one who enters our store, and all we ask is, compare Quality and then compare Prices, and you will see that we are not selling you NOTHING for SOMETHING, but for every penny you spend with us, you get your penny's worth in return, in WEIGHT and MEASURE and QUALITY, to say nothing of HEALTH and HAPPINESS in your HOME because a poor QUALITY cheap meats never promotes HEALTH and therefore little HAPPINESS.

Inspect our poultry department, before you buy elsewhere and see what a splendid line of fresh killed chickens—fowl and turkeys we have to offer, and we will guarantee that the prices will be cut as close as it is possible to cut them, for we wish to sell every one a Thanksgiving Turkey or Chicken. Once again we invite you to our Store to inspect our goods and prices.

Basketball practice will begin next week. The prospects are excellent for as successful a season as the football team has just finished. Manning, Prout, Arthur and the Chapman brothers form a great nucleus around which to build a team. Trask and Holmes and Estey play on the Y. M. C. A. Intermediates and a number of other high school fellows will make good material. The schedule calls for at least three games a week right through the season and in one week there are four games.

The first ten weeks' work in High school shows an improvement in scholarship over past years. The average has been raised a few per cent, and there is reason for encouragement among the faculty, although there is of course much that is desirable which cannot be realized. Failures among the freshmen are due in part to immaturity and to the failure of many students to appreciate the seriousness of High school work. Irregularity in attendance is still the most serious evil. The supervision over the choice of courses has aided materially in raising the average of scholarship.

The Q. H. S. football team picture was taken Wednesday afternoon by Nerses.

The cheering of the Quincy rooters at the Dorchester game was good and added greatly to the confidence of the team It is unfortunate that there are no bleachers at Merrymount park so that organized cheering would be possible at all the games. It is a potent factor in any kind of a game and as important at a home game as one out of town. With the cheering section upon the bleachers shoulder to shoulder and cheer leaders down in front working for dear life, there is something accomplished which cannot be measured by any finite rule and that something decides many an athletic contest in favor of the team which is thus supported. During the coming year we trust that steps will be taken to get the bleachers and the cheers but if the first is impossible, at any rate, the cheers.

The committee of junior and senior girls in charge of the football reception are as follows: Cora Barnicoat, Eleanor Whittemore, Annie Cumming, Louise Prout, Gertrude Labadie and Dorothy Kingsbury.

Owing to the vacation this week, Thursday recitations were held Tuesday, so that all the classes should meet at least once during the week.

The football season is over and as one looks back over the weeks that have passed, with every notch in the belts of the warriors, we read a glorious victory. The goal line has been crossed but twice and one field goal completes the story of the scoring by opponents. A total of 14 points was scored by two teams, Brockton and Boston College High, and against the former Quincy scored a goal.

The opening game of the season inspired the team and the rooters with great confidence.

Cambridge Latin made a worthy opponent, but she was worsted by a score of 6 to 0. Later this team came to be considered one of the hardest teams to beat by the big Boston schools. Yesterday Newton just nosed out a victory over her by a score of 6-5.

The next three games were easy victories, and then Brockton won her game by means of a field goal, after each team had one goal to its credit. Dedham and South Boston were defeated by small scores and Boston College high gave Quincy the hardest game of the year in the next contest. The home team went down in defeat by a score of 5 to 0.

Hyde Park proved a stubborn opponent and neither team was able to score. East Boston and Hingham were not very formidable antagonists, and Dorchester did not prove to be as dangerous on the field as she was in the newspapers.

The season was eminently successful, the most successful a Quincy team has had for many years. We could wish that the Brockton game had resulted differently, but even as it is the defeat was no disgrace. Brockton defeated Somerville a little later in the season and yesterday the latter was runner up in the interscholastic championship. Boston College High had one of the best preparatory school teams in the State, and a defeat at her hands was to be expected, but a more overwhelming defeat was looked for by most of the fans and Quincy sprung a big surprise.

Dorchester has been ill used enough recently, so we will not crow any more over her defeat, but it was none the less a great victory for Quincy and a brilliant finale for the season under Capt. Hill.

Quincy claims no championship but she does claim to have one of the best teams she ever had, and one of the best in Greater Boston. That she has Greater Boston all,—scholastic material on the team none of her supporters will doubt. Hill at half-back and Manning at end would be hard to beat. Johnson is one of the best linesman playing "prep." school football today. Arthur with his ability as a sprinter is a strong player and Chapman makes an excellent end. We cannot claim positions for all of these but if Quincy were better known in Boston some of them would surely be mentioned in the lineup.

Another year the team will lose many of the star men, but Quincy will undoubtedly have a good team, and we trust that the season may be as successful as the one which has just come to a close.

GRADED SCHOOLS.

All the schools closed Wednesday noon for the Thanksgiving holiday and will reopen Monday morning.

* * *

The children in the upper grades at the Coddington school have made some very attractive little Thanksgiving booklets. The covers are hand painted for the most part and the designs show originality and ingenuity. The inside pages contain the history of Thanksgiving as well as appropriate illustrative designs.

* * *

The class pins for the eighth grade pupils of the Quincy school have arrived and all the scholars are very much pleased with their appearance.

* * *

The seventh and eighth grade pupils of the Quincy school have started soccer football, and expect to arrange a regular game in the near future.

* * *

The seventh and eighth grade boys of the Massachusetts Fields school are playing games of soccer football with the corresponding grades in the Wollaston school.

* * *

Miss Warshaw, the seventh grade teacher at the Wollaston school has been out this week on account of sickness.

* * *

The Atherton Hough school at Houghs Neck is nearing completion.

* * *

The scholars of the Wollaston school contributed a large quantity of provisions which were distributed among the needy children of the city. The Parents' and Teachers' association of the school originated the idea.

* * *

Miss Sampson of the Washington school is spending her vacation in New Bedford.

* * *

The children of the Gridley Bryant school had a very successful candy sale Wednesday afternoon. The proceeds will be used for purchasing pictures for the schoolrooms.

* * *

Miss Burnell of the John Hancock school is enjoying her vacation at her home in Gorham, Maine.

* * *

Miss Alice Hatch of the Washington school has gone to her home in Marshfield for the holiday.

* * *

Miss Wilson, a teacher at the Lincoln school is spending the Thanksgiving recess with her parents in Springfield.

* * *

The new stereopticon is installed at Coddington school and as soon as the necessary wiring is done the children will have the privilege of seeing some fine pictures.

* * *

The seventh and eighth grade boys of the Washington school will play practice games of soccer football Thanksgiving day under the direction of Mr. Carruthers of the Fore River team.

* * *

Miss Anderson, a teacher of the Washington school is spending the holidays at her home in Ware.

* * *

At the regular Monday morning opening session at the Coddington school, Mr. Bentley talked to the children about Thanksgiving, telling them something of its history and the reasons for observing the day. Afterward he read the governor's Thanksgiving proclamation.

* * *

A unique idea for the promotion of interest and effort in mental arithmetic is in use at the Willard school. Mr. Upton has procured a button bearing the words "Lightning calculator." The boy who makes the fewest mistakes in the week's work can wear the button during the week following. The boy who wears the pin the greatest number of weeks during the year can have it for his own.

* * *

The graded schools with the exception of the Cranch and Coddington have been granted a great privilege by the trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library. Each school can take out 90 books on the 20th of one month and return them on the 15th of the month following. The books are selected from list handed in by teachers of the four upper grades and are for the use of scholars in those grades. Some of the books are history, biography, etc., for collateral reading in connection with lessons. The rest are good wholesome fiction. The scheme is proving very satisfatcory since it enables the children to get good books without a long trip, and enables the teachers to see that the children get only good books.

Miss Helen Burke, teacher of the fifth grade of the Cranch school, was given a surprise Wednesday morning when her pupils presented her with a beautiful gold locket and a bouquet of roses and pinks.

The Misses Burns, first grade teachers at the Willard school, have been out this week on account of the death of their brother. Miss Grace Fisher and Miss Cumming have been conducting their classes during their absence.

Mr. Upton, master of the Willard school, is spending his vacation in Waltham.

* * *

Under the auspices of the benevolent committee of the Wollaston Parents and Teachers' Association several families were made happy at Thanksgiving by the children of the Wollaston school. The following articles were contributed and forwarded: one and one-half barrels of potatoes, six pecks of apples, two pecks of onions, half peck of carrots, one peck turnips, four large squashes, two cabbages, half bushel cranberries, eight packages Quaker oats, three packages Cream of Wheat, three packages Shredded Wheat, seven packages Uneida biscuit, four packages graham crackers, six packages cookies, five pounds cookies, thirteen cans tomatoes, four cans shrimp, three cans soup, one can blueberries, four cans sweet corn, one can peaches, two cans beets, three cans sardines, one can cocoa, one pound coffee, two dozen oranges, one peck pears, four packages raisins, two packages dates, one package figs, four quarts beans, thirty-six jars jelly, three pies, one fruit cake, one pudding and sauce, three loaves bread, two pounds nuts, two quarts peanuts and two quarts pop corn.

OTHER SCHOOLS.

The season tickets for selected plays at the Castle Square theatre which were sold to Brookline High school pupils at reduced rates have been called in. About 200 of these were sold, and all the pupils who possessed them are of course greatly disappointed at being deprived of the privilege of seeing the Shakespearian productions which would aid them in their study of English drama.

* * *

The names of students at Wellesley college who have been awarded distinction in academic work during their freshman year have just been posted. There are 47 names on the list. The custom was established by the college authorities to encourage effort along scholastic lines among the students.

* * *

The normal school graduate in the small country town, was an exception 25 years ago. In the entire state the number of normal school graduates teaching was only 2,240, while in the year ending June, 1909, the number was 7,724. The majority of the first number were also in the larger towns and cities. The real change which has taken place in the rural schools is evidenced by the data, which show that in the three western counties, Berkshire, Franklin and Hampshire, there were 25 years ago only 83 graduates of normal schools employed, a little more than 6 per cent, of the entire number. Last year there were 519 teachers so trained, or 41 per cent of the entire number employed.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The 68th annual meeting of the Massachusetts Teachers' Association will be held in Huntington hall, Boston, on Saturday, Dec. 3. Many of the Quincy teachers are planning to go to the meeting. Among the noted speakers, who will deliver addresses, are Dr. David Snedden, State commissioner of education, Prof. Edward A. Steiner of Iowa, Mrs. Ella Lyman Cabot. Hon. Robert Luce and Marion L. Burton president of Smith college. Frederic W. Plummer formerly of Quincy is one of the directors of this association.

EXHIBITION IN WRITING.

An exhibition of the Braintree public school writing will be held in the hall of the Monatiquot school building Nov. 28, 29 and 30. The doors will be open from four to six P. M., and from seven to ten thiryt P. M. The public is cordially invited. The purpose of the exhibit is not to show perfect letter formation but a wonderful improvement from Sept. 1909 to May 1910.

The work of each school will be arranged separately, and in grades, showing at the same time the work of each pupil. Five specimens of his writing have been arranged on a grey mount.

The first sample was written before taking the Palmer method; the same again in February, and the third in May. There will also be a spelling paper, and a page of composition work.

The exhibit will be of interest to the parents, for they will have a good opportunity to see what their children have been doing in writing. It will be of interest to the teacher for it will be convenient to compare the work of her grade wth other grades. It should however, be of special interest to the business man, for the style of writing which he demands, embodying legibility, rapidity, ease and endurance is being taught in all grades from the first to the eighth grades.

Educators have realized that there has been something wrong with the copy book methods, and that the difficulty lay not so much with the different styles of the letters as the fact that the fundamental principles were at fault. For many years little children were taught to draw the letters with slow finger movement, in cramped unhealthful positions, with the result that while the letter formation was good in the lower grades, the writing did not improve as the pupils reached the higher grades when the amount of written work is increased, and less time can be given in which to accomplish it. The writing became more illegible as the speed increased.

With the new method the order is reversed. Correct position, muscular relaxation, movement, speed, proper placing of paper on desk with relation to the body, and correct pen holding must be understood and practiced from habit, before form is taught. As the pupils advance from grade to grade the letter formation improves until in the eighth grade they are able to write easily, rapidly and legibly. When pupils in the eighth grade have successfully passed the examination in penmanship, they are awarded the student's diploma. The teachers also practice the same drills, and are given the teacher's diploma on the completion of the course.

BRAINTREE HIGH SCHOOL.

Braintree High started their basket ball practice last week, when about fifteen candidates for the team reported in the hall. Ness and Scollard are the only members of last year's regular team now in school. Braintree has entered the Plymouth-Norfolk league which is composed of Canton, Milton, Rockland and Braintree. Some hard games will be witnessed in the course of this league if everybody keeps a good average in his studies. Manager Ness put the following schedule on file in the office Wednesday:

Monday, Nov. 28, Alumni (evening)
Friday, Dec. 2, Randolph at Braintree.
Wednesday, Dec. 7, Randolph at Randolph.
Friday, Dec. 16, Open.
Wednesday, Jan. 4, Canton at Braintree.
Friday, Jan. 6, Bridgewater at Braintree.
Friday, Jan. 13, Open.
Tuesday, Jan. 17, Rockland at Rockland (evening.)
Wednesday, Jan. 25, Milton at Braintree.
Friday, Jan. 27, Thayer at Thayer.
Friday, Feb. 3, Weymouth at Braintree.
Tuesday, Feb. 7, Bridgewater at Bridgewater.
Saturday, Feb. 11, Canton at Canton.
Wednesday, Feb. 22, Milton at Milton.
Friday, Feb. 24, Thayer at Braintree.
Friday, Mar. 3, Rockland at Braintree.
Friday, Mar. 10, Weymouth at Weymouth.

DREXEL SOARS 9370 FEET

Unable to Force Monoplane Higher Because Air Is So Thin

Philadelphia, Nov. 25.—J. A. Drexel broke all aeroplane altitude records here when he climbed above this city until his Bleriot monoplane was unable to make further progress in the rarified atmosphere.

The ink in the needle of his barograph ran out at 9970 feet, which was accepted as a new world's record by Clifford B. Harmon, chairman of the National Council Associated Clubs of America, and James K. Duffy, the secretary of that body.

In his climb he traveled at least thirty miles to the northward, for when he started to descend, after trying for fifteen minutes to force the machine higher, he glided down for a distance which he estimated at about six miles.

So swiftly did the monoplane descend that the aviator was nauseated. However, he reached an open field and brought his machine to the ground without injury.

DEMAND $5000 FOR EACH

Kidnappers Threaten to Behead Two Boys Unless They Get Money

New York, Nov. 25.—Two boys, each 8 years old, Michael Fritzi, 720 Fifth avenue, and Guiseppi Longo, 186 Twenty-first street, Brooklyn, disappeared from their homes on Saturday. In the mails Monday the relatives of each received a letter signed "Black Hand" demanding $5000 ransom on pain that the boys' heads would be cut off and returned to their families.

The Fritzi boy is the grandson of Nicholas Fritzi, a grocer, with whom he lived. The boy's father died last March, and his grandfather took up the burden of caring for his daughter-in-law and her children.

Guiseppi Longo was a schoolmate of Michael Fritzi. His fatner works for a brother, a builder and contractor, who owns considerable property. Both Fritzi and Longon were afraid to inform the police. No clue has been obtained to either of the missing boys.

HAS HAD SIX HUSBANDS

Woman Thinks Herself Qualified to Testify In Divorce Suit

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 25.—Mrs. Amy Bracken wanted her testimony in the divorce suit started by her husband, Delos Bracken, accepted by the court as that of an expert.

"I guess I ought to know how a husband should conduct himself, for I have had six of them," she said.

Her husband's lawyer, all unconscious of her record, had begun the cross examination by asking if she had ever been married before she was married to Bracken.

"Yes," she said with a smile, as she realized the startled effect of her full reply, "I have enjoyed six honeymoons."

It took just twenty years and brought to 40 years of age to go through that experience. She obtained a divorce from four and one died.

SUFFRAGETTES GO TO JAIL

They Prefer Imprisonment to the Payment of Fines

London, Nov. 25.—All of the suffragettes who were charged with assault and the wilful damage of property, as a result of their rioting of the past two days, were found guilty in the Bow street police court, Thursday.

They were sentenced to pay fines of $10 or $25, or to spend two weeks or a month in jail, according to the seriousness of their offense. All of the prisoners elected to go to jail.

BRIEFS

Rainy today.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Penniman spent Thanksgiving with relatives in Brockton.

Dr. Ross K. Whiton and family were Thanksgiving guests of Col. and Mrs. Joseph L. Whiton.

Mr. and Mrs. Stacey Southworth were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Southworth.

And today is the last Friday of the month, which is said to govern the weather of December.

Mrs. Mary Pollock of Bigelow street enjoyed her Thanksgiving turkey with her son Frank at Weymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wilson of Revere road were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Brookline on the holiday.

The storm predicted for the holiday did not materialize, but instead the day was a delightful one, fair and warm for the season.

The many friends of Miss Helen Guess, the nurse will be interested to know that she is now living at 49 Spear street.

Family reunions were numerous Thanksgiving day and they were all the more enjoyable by the beautiful day, the weather being all that the most exacting could desire.

KEEPERS FOUND BROKEN GLASS

Crippen Intended to Use It to Open His Wrists

HIDDEN IN UNDERCLOTHING

Watchfulness of Death Guard Prevented Gallows Being Cheated of Its Victim—Ethel Leneve, Who Claims to Be Murderer's Wife, Changes Her Mind About Coming to America—Doctor Made No Confession

London, Nov. 25.—Ethel Leneve still insists that she is the wife of Dr. H. H. Crippen, for the telegram she sent to him as he was being led to the gallows, was signed "Wife." She has been prostrated since the execution and will stay in England, she says, to settle Dr. Crippen's estate, all of which he left to her.

The telegram which was handed to Crippen from her half an hour before he was taken to the scaffold read: "My love, thoughts and prayer are with you. God bless you, darling."

Crippen, who was in a collapse when he was hanged, tried to commit suicide on Tuesday night. While in bed under the eyes of the death watch he took the lenses of his spectacles and broke them under the bedclothes.

This gave him several sharp little knives with which it was his intention to open his wrists and bleed to death. His movements attracted the notice of the guads, who immediately searched the bed. They found the glass hidden in his underclothes.

Crippen made no confession before he died. That is stated positively by the governor of the prison, all those who came into official contact with the prisoner and by the Leneve woman.

"Dr. Crippen made no confession," said the woman. "I loved him and I still believe him innocent. I'm tired of notoriety. Now I want to be just quiet and alone."

After his reprieve Crippen was in such a nervous state that he could not make any long or coherent statement. When the Leneve woman went to say farewell to him his condition was pitiful—"agonized mental prostration," the jail physician called it.

He tossed in his bed and sobbed all night long after his jailers had prevented his attempt at suicide. In the morning he collapsed entirely again when Father Carville came to read the service for the condemned with its grim message of punishment for the evildoer, but he managed to pull himself together enough to walk to the gibbet, supported by the priest.

NO PLOT AGAINST MIDDIES

Table Salt Found Its Way Into Their Sugar by Accident

Washington, Nov. 25.—Ordinary table salt in the sugar which they used was responsible for the illness of the midshipmen at the naval academy at Annapolis, who were supposed to have been the victims of a spiteful plot conceived and executed in the culinary department of the school.

Such was the conclusion reached following a chemical analysis of a sample of the sugar made here in the laboratory of the surgeon general of the navy. Officials of the navy department are inclined to believe that the salt found its way into the sugar purely by accident and that there was no plot in it.

There are now twenty-two cases of typhoid fever at the academy and four of the patients are in a serious condition, according to reports received by Surgeon General Stokes. The typhoid epidemic, of course, has no relation to the contaminated sugar.

PENN BEATS CORNELL

Red and Blue Enthusiasts Expected Much Better Score

Philadelphia, Nov. 25.—In a hard and fast game, in which there was a mixture of good and bad playing, the University of Pennsylvania football team defeated Cornell on Franklin field, 12 to 6. The Quakers' score was made on two touchdowns and goals, and Cornell's on two goals from placement by Quarterback Butler.

Notwithstanding Pennsylvania won, the score was a disappointment to the followers of the Philadelphia eleven. The Red and Blue team at times lacked the dash it has shown in several previous games this season. Cornell played a more dashing game than was expeced.

Canadians Drinking More Whisky

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—That Canadians are smoking fewer cigars and drinking more whisky is shown by the report of the department of inland revenue. Almost every Canadian smoker uses the pipe, and pipe smokers in evening dress are seen in every Canadian hotel.

Drowned In Deer Chase

Whitefield, Me., Nov. 25.—When a deer which Robert Wallace, aged 23, had shot and wounded attempted to escape across the ice on Weary pond, Wallace followed it, broke through the ice and was drowned.

MRS. SAGE TO FOUND A "SPOTLESS TOWN"

People of Moderate Means Will Enjoy Its Benefits

New York, Nov. 25.—The preliminary plans of the Russell Sage foundation, established by Mrs. Sage as a memorial to her husband, for the establishment of a model suburban city, providing healthy and beautiful homes for persons of moderate means, are announced.

Briefly, the project is to utilize a tract of 142 acres of land at Forest Hills Gardens, Long Island, nine miles from this city, in laying out a town for 1500 families.

Applicants for homes will have to submit to an examination as to their character and antecedents. Their financial standing will be a secondary consideration.

It is made plain that the enterprise is not a charity, but is to be made self-supporting and yield a fair return on the investment. Its purpose rather is to enable persons in moderate circumstances to own their own home at a minimum cost, while obtaining buildings of better construction than the average individual could erect, and amid surroundings and under restrictions that will make the little city an ideal residence place.

"COME OUT, ALL."

When Mother Announces Thanksgiving Dinner Is Ready.

In the parlor all except mother, who is bustling at the fount of those Araby odors, are gathered in a studiously indifferent circle. Of course to such the eating part is nothing. They can wait, enjoying conversation. The reminiscences of the evening before around the lamp and hearth are resumed, fascinating then, but now—huh!

"Do you remember, Lea?" asks father. Uncle Lou does. Ha, ha! Ho, ho! Nevertheless—

Will dinner never be ready?

Aunt and uncle and grandparent draw you to them to fondle and banter and query. But how may one know how old one is, or where was Moses when the light went out, or why a hen crosses the road, when one has resolved into stomach and nose and all one's thoughts are in that adjoining room?

Will dinner never be ready?

Grandmother is telling you in her gentle voice of when she was a little girl and not so old as you and they had Thanksgiving. Interesting should such a recital be. But—

Oh, dear! Won't dinner ever be ready?

"Where are you going, Johnny?" demands father sternly.

You want a drink of water—just a drink of water—in the other room.

"No; you stay right in here with us. You'll bother mother."

W-well. But—

Won't dinner ever— Ah! Mother stands upon the threshold. Flushed, warm and triumphant, she bids, "Come out, all."

Since then you have heard by the Dutch ovens of the roundup fire the cook's long yelp of "Chuck!" or on shipboard you have sprung to the galley boy's beckoning wake. You have dropped most willingly into place at the logging camp long table or, tired and spent by a day of strenuous business, in the club's cafe you have sighed with relief as the silent waiter bore in the soup and bread sticks. But mother's smiling "Come out, all," can never be o'ershadowed.—Edwin L. Sabin in Lippincott's.

FOUR OFFICERS ARE MURDERED

Mutiny on Two Battleships of the Brazilian Navy

SHELLS FIRED INTO CAPITAL

Result of Sailors' Long Agitation For More Pay and Objection to Practice In Navy of Inflicting Corporal Punishment—Mutineers Expect Congress, Which Is Called Into Session, to Grant Them Amnesty

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 25.—The crews of two battleships of the Brazilian navy mutinied. They turned their guns upon the loyal ships and also threw a few shells into the city.

The mutineers in the navy have sent a message to the government offering to surrender. The senate has unanimously approved a proposition for amnesty to the rebels. The chamber is still considering the matter.

During the outbreak four officers were killed. The fighting ceased a night, but the revolters remained in possession of the two vessels.

The battleships, with their mutinous crews, are anchored outside the bar awaiting action by the government.

Congress was summoned in session yesterday afternoon to deal with the situation. The censorship is strict and details of the trouble cannot be cabled at this time.

It is officially stated that the trouble is not of a political character, and should be described as a mutiny among the sailors to enforce concessions as to work and pay from their officers, rather than a revolt against the administration of President Fonseca.

For some time the men of the navy had been agitating the matter of more pay. They also objected to the practice in the navy of inflicting corporal punishment upon insubordinate or otherwise offending sailors.

The matter came to a head Wednesday when the crews of two of the bigger warships turned upon her superiors. The captains of the battleship Minas Geraes and three of the officers were killed.

Following the fighting the mutineers made a formal demand for increased pay and the abolition of corporal punishment, and then withdrew to the outer harbor. The mutineers expect congress to pass a measure granting them amnesty. It is believed that if this is done the trouble will be at an end. Should congress refuse amnesty to the revolters, the subsequent attitude of the latter is in doubt.

The mutiny occurred on board the battleships Minas Geraes and Sao Paolo, two of the largest vessels of the navy.

The damage done in this city by the shells thrown from the revolting battleships was insignificant. The life of the capital is now proceeding along normal lines.

TAFT RESUMES WORK AT DESK

Will Have His Message Completed Within a Few Days

RECOMMENDATIONS ON CANAL

Belief That He Will Favor Establishment of Military Government—Prediction That Canal Will Be Thrown Open to World Well In Advance of Official Date of Opening—No Reason For Extra Session

Washington, Nov. 25.—President Taft is back in the White House preparing to complete his message and to make selections for the supreme court of the United States. He worked on the message during his return trip from the Panama canal zone.

The president announced soon after his arrival that he would make no engagements during the next five days. In that time he hopes to have his message to congress completed. Only cabinet officers and others with whom he desires to consult regarding his message will be formally received at the White House. The message will be ready either on the night of the 28th or early on the 29th.

In his regular message the president will deal with his visit to Panama, making recommendations on a number of subjects which he desires considered and discussed with a view to early legislation.

It is believed in some quarters that President Taft will recommend in his message that a military government be established for the canal. Colonel Goethals has made that suggestion to Taft. He believes it the best way of handling the canal. Mr. Taft is to treat this subject at length, and also the question of tolls.

Coincident with the president's return, it was learned that there is not the slightest chance for an extra session of congress following the coming short session. The president, it is said, sees no necessity for calling congress to sit after March 4.

The president had an interesting day in Richmond, prior to coming here, the most important features of which were an informal address on the Panama canal at the luncheon given in his honor and an address before the Virginia educational conference.

The president's Panama canal speech was listened to with the greatest interest. He tried in a brief way to describe the satisfactory conditions he found on the isthmus and aroused much enthusiasm by his prediction that the canal would be thrown open to the world well in advance of the official date of opening, Jan. 1, 1915. He said that if necessity demanded he believed American battleships could go through the waterway by Jan. 1, 1913.

"What the American people want, if I understand it," said the president, "is the prompt completion of the canal, and they are willing to pay fairly well for it. It does not require the imagination of an engineer to see that the canal is there and is being put through and that it will be a great canal."

Mr. Taft described the condition of the workingmen, who, he said, are well housed and cared for. He added that they receive more wages than the average American workman does, principally because of the exacting conditions under which he labors.

TRIED TO WRECK TRAINS

Youthful Trio of Vermonters Sentenced to State Prison Terms

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 25.—State prison sentences were meted out to Fred Lashua, 24, Eddie Miller, 22, and Albert Miller, 24, all of Williston, when they pleaded guilty to the charge of attempting to wreck trains on the Central Vermont railway in Williston on Tuesday.

The trio piled a lot of sleepers and other debris on the track just before a passenger train was due. The train struck the obstacle but was not derailed, and they then did the same thing again with the same result.

They were arrested and confessed, claiming that they had been drinking. The sentences imposed range from two to three and a half years.

AMUSEMENTS

DOINGS ON THE STAGE OF

LOCAL AND BOSTON THEATRES

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

Next week, the fourth of the Boston Opera season, promises to be a glorious carnival of art as the repertoire eclipses all previous efforts, embracing the foremost works from the Italian, French and Russian schools of Opera. Every demand of the New England opera goer is being supplied by this wonderful organization under the direction of Mr. Henry Russell, and each week brings forth some feature that overshadows its predecessor. On Monday evening Nov. 28th at 8 will be presented. Il Parriere, Di Siviglia in Italian by Rossini, with Lydia Lipkowska in the role of Rosina, and Florencio Constantino as the Count Almaviva.

Madame Butterfly in Italian by Puccini will be presented on Wednesday evening at 8, with Alice Nielsen in the title role. Herman Jadlowker will sing the part of F. R. Pinkerton, Ranon Blanchart the part of Sharpless, and Rita Fornia makes her first appearance with the Boston Opera Company this season in the role of Suzuki.

Friday evening, at 8 a triple bill will be presented L'Enfant Prodigue in French by Debussy, with Alice Nielsen as Lia, Robert Lassalle as Azael, Ranon Blanchart as Simeon. Conductor Andre Caplet. Followed by the second tableau of the Opera Der Geizige Ritter in Russian, with George Baklanoff the Russian baritone as the Baron. The third opera will be Mascagni's one act opera in Italian Cavalleria Rusticana. Carmen Melis will sing the part of Santuzza.

The Saturday matinee will be Faust in French by Gounod. Lillian Nordica the greatest American soprano will take the part of Marguerite.

At the Saturday evening performance at popular prices will be Boheme in Italian. Alice Nielson will sing Mimi. Marie Camporelli will make her debut as Musetta, and John McCormack will sing Rodolfo.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

The long delayed engagement of the popular comedian, Francis Wilson, in Boston, is about to be consummated, for announcement is made that Mr. Wilson will begin a limited engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre, in his own successful comedy, "The Bachelor's Baby" next Monday night. "The Bachelor's Baby" is by all odds the most successful play Mr. Wilson has had during his long career and it comes to Boston almost direct from its season's run at the Criterion theatre, New York City, where it played to the biggest houses in the history of that popular playhouse. "The Bachelor's Baby," is a most diverting and entertaining comedy farce, full of bright lines and with clever epigram and amusing situations, tells in a clean, straight-forward and wholesome manner, an appealing as well as a very funny story. From the time the comedian makes his first entrance, which is very early in the comedy, until the final curtain falls, there is almost incessant laughter, save that every now and again, Mr. Wilson has struck a very human note in some pathetic little scene with the child, which only serves to bring out the comedy in stronger relief. Mr. Wilson has not been seen in Boston since he played "When Knights Were Bold," at this same theatre several years ago, but he has never had a role so thoroughly suited to him nor one which offers so many opportunities as that of Tom Beach, which he plays in "The Bachelor's Baby." Beach's dislike for children is extreme, they have been a thorn in his side ever since he reached manhood and when the guardianship of a little five year old niece is thrust upon him he rebels. The little girl is as lovable as she is pretty and it doesn't take her very long to break down all of the barriers the bachelor has erected. And then the story goes on to tell how the little one becomes so dear to him that he is willing to sacrifice himself for her and she even asissts in the straightening out of his own entangled love affair. But one matinee will be played each week—on Saturdays.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Lion and the Mouse" has been so successful that John Craig will give it for a second and final week at the Castle Square, beginning next Monday. Its strong emotional scenes presenting the struggle between a multi-millionaire and financier, reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in the world, and a clever young woman who fights for the honor of her father, are very effectively acted by the players at the Castle Square. The woman in the end triumphs over money and power, the entire four acts offering a striking succession of powerful scenes. In the two leading roles Mr. Craig and Miss Young are exceptionally effective and the entire stock company does good work. On Monday, Dec. 5th, Mr. Craig will make his second Shakespearean production of the season. The play chosen is "Twelfth Night," one of the most delightful of Shakspeare's many delightful comedies. Mr. Craig will appear as Malvolio and Miss Young for the first time on any stage in the role of Viola.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Announcement is made by Jos. M. Gaites that his newest production will be seen at the Boston Theatre beginning Monday, Nov. 28, entitled "Katie Did." The book is founded on that most popular of farces "My Friend From India." The transposing of the piece to music and the lyrics are the work of W. C. Duncan and Frank Smithson. The new production is in two acts and a strong cast has been gathered together by Mr. Gaites for the presentation. It includes May Volces, favorably known for her excellent work as the slavey in "My Friend From India" company and who has attracted considerable attention in several popular musical comedies. Fred Nice who is known as one of the very best dancers on the musical stage; Alfred Kappeler, Joseph Adelman, D. W. Merket, Clifford Saum, Bert Baker, Louis Simon, Josie Intropidi, Eveleen Dunmore, Florence May, Anna Wilkes and J. J. Hughes are also in the cast. In addition to this great cast there is a large chorus of well trained beauties. Many of the girls have never been on the stage before. Some of the most popular of the songs "hits" are: "In the Swim," "Out with the Owl," "Come a little Closer," "I Met My Girls," "The Light of My Eyes," "Save up your Kisses for a Rainy Day," and "Love, Love."

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

An unsolved mystery will be the feature at B. F. Keith's theatre next week in Onaip, the Hindoo Mystic, who sits a man at a piano and both rise from the ground, float in the air, and revolve, while the man plays the piano. Of all the mysteries that have been presented on the stage in recent years, this is without question the greatest, and there is no doubt that Onaip will be the talk of all Boston next week. On top of this strong feature there will be Fannie Ward, the famous English actress, who is making her first appearance in vaudeville in a comedy called "An Unlucky Star," which is said to be one of the most amusing and at the same time artistic short plays seen in recent years. Miss Ward is the widow of a London millionaire, Joe Lewis, and was for years the sensation of London and Paris. Other features will be Williams and Schwartz, the song writers; the Camillo Trio of clowns; Gus Edwards "Kountry Kids" Jolly Wild and company in a musical act; Tom Mahoney, the Irish story teller; the Musical Johnstones; and Harry Tsuda, the Japanese equilibrist.

GAIETY THEATRE.

No better type of the modern building construction can be found among Boston's playhouses than the New Gaiety Theatre, located at Washington and Boylston Streets. The building was completed in 1908 and possesses all those features that are to be found in all first-class theatres. Efficient ventilating apparatus, automatic heat control, scientific illumination and a score of other matters are quite unnoticed by the average patron, yet these things must be provided at many thousands of dollars expense, and in such the Gaiety Theatre is pre-eminent among the new theatres of Boston. No form of theatrical stage productions has undergone a more radical change in the past ten years than burlesque. Today they are patronized as extensively by ladies as by men, and justly so, for the up-to-date burlesque show combines all the elements of the stage—music, drama, comedy, vaudeville and the spectacular. This variety of performance no doubt accounts for the great popularity of these shows in their adaptability to meet all tates. The constant vigilance exercised at the Gaiety in maintaining a high standard of excellence, combined with careful management, has been the principal factor in making this house the leader in this style of entertainment.

PASTOR AND WIFE SLAIN

Deed Committed by Burglars In a New Jersey Homestead

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 25.—Rev. Andrew L. Armstrong, the 80-year-old pastor of the Presbyterian church at Dutch Neck, ten miles east of here, and his wife were murdered at their home by burglars. Armstrong and his wife were both shot in the breast.

The prosecutor and county detective returned to Trenton and brought with them Joseph Sears, the young man who lived in the Armstrong home and whose mother was the housekeeper. They also brought another man whose name could not be learned, but who lives in New Brunswick and who is a friend of Sears.

The Armstrongs lived in an old homestead. Armstrong was known to be a man of considerable means.

Life Term For Murderer

Salem, Mass., Nov. 25.—Changing his plea of not guilty of murder in the first degree to guilty of murder in the second degree, Hristos Tsapas, a Greek, of Haverhill, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state prison. Tsapas killed his former room mate, Constantinus Chasoeden. He was taken to the Charlestown prison within a few moments after sentence had been pronounced.

Offers Squaw as Security

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 25.—Sam Turkeyfoot, an Osage Indian, accompanied by his squaw, applied at a Hominy, Okla., bank for a loan of $100. The banker told Turkeyfoot he would have to have security. Turkeyfoot offered his squaw but got no loan.

Cause For Thanks.

Billy's got the colic. Jane's an awful mess—she spilled the brimming gravy boat upon her Sunday dress. Jimmy came from football with plasters on his head. Bess gave our ice cream to the cat—of course, she went to bed. Father talked all through the meal of aphthous fever milk, while Olive pestered Uncle Jim for a raincoat made of silk. I tore my brand new trousers in a fight with Butch McGlynn, and Pete the cop just told my pop he'd like to run me in. When father said, "Well, Mary, what thanks will we give, dear?" Ma said, "Give thanks Thanksgiving comes only once a year."

WHY

"1892" Pure Spun Aluminum
Kitchen Ware
Is Better Than Agate or Enamel

Because it is sanitary and saves your money, time and health. The genuine spun aluminum ware, stamped with the Maltese Cross, will outlast any other cooking utensils and is guaranteed by the makers for twenty-five years.

It is pure, wholesome and hygienic—no danger of metal poisoning—cannot chip into the food, because pure SPUN Aluminum expands with the heat and will not crack, scale or peel like the old style ware.

Enamel ware is iron coated with colored glass. Heat causes the glass to chip off into the food in minute particles, which, taken into the stomach, is apt to cause serious troubles, including cancer, according to some medical authorities.

"1892" Pure Spun Aluminum Ware is made from solid Aluminum throughout—no coating of glass—and expands uniformly under heat. It cannot crack, scale, peel like the out of date enameled utensils; it does away with all possible danger from this source.

You owe it to yourself, and to every member of the household, to give this new and better kitchen ware a practical test. If it fails to do what is claimed for it, you get your money back without a quibble or a cross word.

Temporary Heat Quickly

Did you ever stop to think of the many ways in which a perfect oil heater is of value? If you want to sleep with your window open in winter, you can get sufficient heat from an oil heater while you undress at night, and then turn it off. Apply a match in the morning, when you get out of bed, and you have heat while you dress.

Those who have to eat an early breakfast before the stove is radiating heat can get immediate warmth from an oil heater, and then turn it off.

The girl who practices on the piano in a cold room in the morning can have warmth from an oil heater while she plays, and then turn it off.

The member of the family who has to walk the floor on a cold winter's night with a restless baby can get temporary heat with an oil heater, and then turn it off. The

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

is invaluable in its capacity of quickly giving heat. Apply a match and it is immediately at work. It will burn for nine hours without refilling. It is safe, smokeless and odorless. It has a damper top and a cool handle. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font.

It has an automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be cleaned in an instant.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and can be quickly unscrewed for rewicking. Finished in japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

SWEDISH SERVICE.

The union Thanksgiving service of the Swedish churches was held at 10.30 in the Baptist church at Brewer's corner. A large congregation was present to listen to the strong sermons on Thanksgiving themes delivered by Rev. G. H. Palmgren and Rev. Carl E. Rydstrom, the pastors of the Swedish Congregational and St. Paul's Methodist church. A collection was taken for the benefit of a needy widow with four children, a family connected with one of the participating churches. The service was well attended and the sermons were timely. Rev. A. P. Hanson, pastor of the Baptist church, conducted the meting.

A supper and entertainment were given in the vestry of the Swedish Baptist church on the evening of the holiday. The supper was bountiful and savored of the season. The entertainment was given by the young people of the church. There were songs and recitations, several selections by the church orchestra, and an address by the pastor. Most of the people connected with the church joined in the good times.

THANKSGIVING CONCERT.

A Thanksgiving concert was given at the Swedish Lutheran church Thursday evening. The pastor conducted devotional exercises at the opening. A song was rendered by the church choir after which Miss Katherine Holteen gave a reading. The church orchestra played two pieces and a dialogue was given by Cecelia Nilson and Esther Viden. A very pleasing duet was sung by Miss Mary Viiting and Fritz Swanson. The pastor delivered a Thanksgiving address. After the thanksgiving offering was received the choir endered another selection and an altar service concluded the evening's program. A large number of the church people were present to enjoy the concert and the abel address by the pastor.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The McGregors of this city and the Rovers played a tie game at Fall River on the afternoon of the holiday—2 to 2. The goals for McGregor were made by Dawson and Daley.

Captain Lothrop Withington wrote to referee Langford Wednesday telling him to forward the ball used in the great Harvard-Yale contest to Captain Daly of Yale. The letter was said to be most sportsmanlike and reflects credit on the writer and indirectly upon the college he represents.

CHARGE OF HYPNOTISM

It Fails to Impress Judge Before Whom It Is Made

New York, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Margaret Annone's charge that Herman Hafers, an insurance agent, had hypnotized her husband, children and herself and walked out of the house with $50 and $300 worth of jewelry fell flat.

Magistrate Butts ordered Hafers' discharge, declaring that the evidence against him was not sufficient even for drawing up a complaint.

Disappointed In Love

Houlton, Me., Nov. 25.—Despondency over a love affair is believed to have been the cause of the suicide by shooting of Fay White, 20 years old.

Wedding Bells at Washington

Washington, Nov. 25.—The national capital's marriage license clerk granted a total of forty-four licenses for Thanksgiving marriages. Nearly half of the applicants came from outside the District of Columbia.

—Hyde Park has petitioned the Legislature for annexation to Boston. Hyde Park is thethird largest town in Norfolk county, having a population of 15,507.

WIN IN THE LAST HALF

Score Was Against Fore Rivers in First Half

It was near noon before the Fore Rivers and Boston Americans started in to play their holiday game at Quincy Point, before a large audence. F. Usher scored two goals for the visitors in the first half one on a penalty kick, to one goal by Hughes, and the score was 2 to 1. In the second half there was a good scrap between Elliot and Hanlon almost at the start, and the referee put both men out of the game. The home team was more aggressive in the second half and scored four more goals, and at the same time prevented the visitors from scoring. The final totals were 5 to 2.

BIGELOWS WIN.

The Bigelows and the Kellys met in their annual gridiron struggle on the holiday at the Ward Two playground. The Bigelows won by the score of 11-10. But a few accidents marred the game. Capt. Harkins of the Bigelows brought the spectators to their feet by tearing big holes in the opponents line for big gains. The tackling of Saunders and Muir was a big feature. In the first half Pinel, the star half back of the Kellys, in making one of his line plunges, got a blow above the eye and was forced to retire from the game. After being attended to by a doctor, he came back and cheered loudly in a vain attempt to encourage his men. The work of Bill Avery and Joe Moran was also a feature.

HOLIDAY VICTORY

McGregors Defeat the Charlestown Team

The McGregors added another scalp to their collection on holiday by defeating Charlestown team 4 to 1. Neither team had its regular lineup and Charlestown was obliged to borrow Webster from the local team. Bob Robertson appeared in the McGregor lineup and he and his brother showed the youngsters a few tricks of the trade. McDonald scored three goals in the first period and Murray, the lame linesman, scored the Charlestown goal early in the second half. Roe butted the last goal through with his head in the middle of the second half. Near the end of the game the McGregor goal was threatened but the man kicked the ball high and it went over the top of the crossbar. Wishing to avoid a poor pun and not wishing to make any insinuations we will refrain from saying what was in his bottle. The holiday spirit seemed to be present with all the players and the contest was marked by much good natured bantering. The halves were shortened to 35 minutes so that the McGregors could get through in time to take the 1 o'clock train for Fall River where they had a match with the Fall River Rovers. As will be observed in the summary only one or two of the home team had their regular positions, but even so the team put up a good game and had no difficulty in defeating their rivals. Quite a crowd of spectators turned out to witness the contest, and they were treated to an interesting game, although it was not particularly hard fought. McDonald, T. Robertson and Craig played the best football for the home team, and for the visitors, O'Conneli, Murray and Hunt excelled.

The summary:

Boston Man Becomes President of Western Union Company

New York, Nov. 25.—Robert C. Clowry, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, tendered his resignation to the board of directors, and Theodore N. Vail of Boston, president of the American Telegraph and Telephone company, which controls the Western Union, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Newcomb Carlton of the British Westinghouse company was elected a vice president of the Western Union Telegraph company.

Uncle Silas—"It's funny how some men kin go along paying no attention ter advice, jest follerin' their own whims, and still come through all right."

Uncle Hiram—"It is that. But what made ye think of it?"

Uncle Silas—"Why, Squire Yapp, ter my absolute knowledge, writ eleven letters to McKinley, giving him a few pints on strategy, an' some general information on how to conduct the war an', not a single one of his suggestions was follered."

BEGIN ON RURAL ROUTES

Postmaster General to Ask For Trial For Parcels Post

Washington, Nov. 25.—A limited parcels post for the rural free delivery routes will be recommended by Postmaster General Hitchcock in his forthcoming annual report.

In announcing this the postmaster general forsees the establishment of a general parcels post throughout the country as soon as the postal savings system is thoroughly organized.

As the preliminary step in the development of such a service Hitchcock will ask congress to authorize the delivery on rural routes of parcels weighing as high as eleven pounds, which is the weight limit of the international parcel post. This form of service, it is maintained, can be conducted with little if any additional expense to the government.

BEAUTIFUL GOWNS AT QUINCY ASSEMBLY

Society of Quincy and Vicinity Largely Represented at the Annual Party

Mrs. Stetson, Mrs. King and Mrs. Avery the Matrons

Seldom if ever has there been a prettier party than that which graced the annual "Quincy Assembly" at Music hall last evening. The attendance was somewhat larger than a year ago, yet not sufficiently large to make the floor crowded and dancing uncomfortable. These annual affairs always bring out the society set of Quincy and surrounding towns and this year was no exception, unless it was that Quincy was larger represented than usual.

The music was entrancing and those who preferred to watch the merry scene rather than more actively participate found much enjoyment in listening to it. The gowns of the ladies were unusually handsome, the lighter shades prevailing the more sombre black worn by a few forming a pleasing contrast.

The matrons were: Mrs. James H. Stetson, Mrs. Theophilus King and Mrs. Albert E. Avery, and they in themselves made a picture pretty to look upon. Mrs. Stetson wore an elegant imported gown of white broadcloth and lace and an exquisite diamond necklace. Mrs. King wore a white silk silver embroidered gown, and Mrs. Avery a pale blue silk with Egyptian scarf.

The ushers were: Walter E. Burke, William I. Dewson, Henry E. Frick, Lorenzo H. Gilson, Charles R. Hendrie, Nathaniel S. Hunting, John H. Johnson, Edward E. Jameson, Henry L. Kincaide, Delcevare King, N. G. Nickerson, Jr., Warren Ogden, George Pfaffmann, Charles A. Price, Robert Sibley, Carl R. Sheppard, Joel F. Sheppard, Morton F. Smith, Laurance H. Sturtevant, Moreton T. Swallow and Walter Sampson.

The patronesses were: Mrs. Edward H. Angier, Mrs. Herbert S. Barker, Mrs. Perley E. Barber, Mrs. William R. Bateman, Mrs. Charles M. Bryant, Mrs. Elisha B. Bird, Mrs. Joseph A. Dasha, Mrs. Frank Emery, Mrs. Eugene Hultman, Mrs. Henry I. Hall, Mrs. Arthur P. Homer, Mrs. Henry L. Kincaide, Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Mrs. Alvah Pierce, Mrs. Elmer Ricker, Mrs. Carl Sheppard, Mrs. Henry Shultz, Mrs. Eugene H. Sprague, Mrs. Joseph M. Sheahan, Mrs. Frederick H. Smith, Mrs. Laurance H. Sturtevant, Mrs. Williams Ward Whitcher and Mrs. George E. Williams.

Dancing was from 8 to 11.30, the order being augmented by frequent encores and extras.

Some of the gowns seen were:

Mrs. N. S. Hunting, white chiffon over white with gold trimmings.

Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur, a handsome embroidered white satin with chiffon.

Mrs. John H. Johnson, a silver brocaded chiffon over silk with marabout trimmings.

Miss Johnson, a canary satin with white overdress.

Mrs. Henry Shultz, a white embroidered renaissance lace over pink.

Mrs. Homer L. Bigelow, white embroidered lace over satin.

Mrs. E. E. Jameson, black silk and black net, turquoise trimmings.

Mrs. C. E. Munroe, pink silk with silver trimmings.

Miss Dorothy Packard, blue silk Persian trimmings.

Miss Minnie Packard, tan silk muslin, lace trimmings.

Mrs. George Follett, white silk, white trimmings.

Mrs. Fred Drake, blue chiffon over blue silk.

Mrs. James L. Edwards, chiffon over silk, silver trimmings.

Mrs. Edward B. Pratt, white crepe de chine.

Miss Steele, figured silk muslin over pink.

Mrs. Eugene H. Sprague, chiffon cloth of wisteria, embroidered bands.

Mrs. Richard R. Freeman, black chiffon.

Mrs. Russell C. Low, princesse lace over white silk.

Mrs. Eugene C. Hultman, pink satin with French embroidered overdress, marabout trimmings.

Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, old rose satin, embroidered bands.

Mrs. Fred E. Jones, pale lavender satin with gold embroidered trimmings.

Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, white lace, silver ornaments.

Mrs. Harry L. Rice, old rose silk point lace trimmings.

Mrs. William Russell, burnt orange silk with embroidered bands.

Mrs. William I. Dewson, jetted black lace.

Mrs. Clarence Burgin, white chiffon and white satin, Persian trimmings.

Mrs. William B. Nichols, lavender satin, Egyptian scarf.

Mrs. Clayton R. Marstin, lavender silk, white duchess lace trimmings.

Mrs. Joseph C. Morse, pale pink satin with white lace.

Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, pale pink satin with lace.

Miss Lelia Smith, green chiffon marabout timmings.

Mrs. Charles Price, white silk, blue trimmings of marabout.

Mrs. E. H. Angier, black embroidered net with gold over white.

Miss Ruth Penniman, pale blue satin.

Miss Blanche Morrion, pale blue chiffon silver trimmings.

Mrs. George T. Magee, old rose silk brocaded silk trimmings.

Mrs. Perry Lawton, pale blue crepe de chine.

Mrs. Harry Slade, lavender silk, chiffon.

Mrs. Perley E. Barbour, white silk, marabout trimmings.

Miss Catherine Saville, white satin.

Miss Gurna Saville, yellow satin.

Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham ,white chiffon over blue, silver trimmings.

Mrs. Harold Horton, white satin and lace.

Mrs. Frank N. Horton, white satin and lace.

Mrs. H. G. Smith, white chiffon, pink trimmings.

SODERGREN NOMINATED

Politics Unusually Quiet for City Election

A largely attended meeting of the Republican City Committee was held last evening. The principal business was to fill the vacancy caused by the tie at the caucus in Ward Six for Councilman from the ward. The tie was between Ernest E. Sodergren and Carl Carlson. Since the caucus Mr. Carlson has filed independent nomination papers, and as it was felt that the committee should not indorse an independent candidate it voted to fill the vacancy by nominating Ernest E. Sodergren. The vote on the question was 20 for Sodergren and 1 for Carlson.

The time for filing names to fill vacancies expired today, and the name of Mr. Sodergren was the only one filed. The official ballot is therefore now ready for the printer.

It is probable that the Ward Six Republican committee will hold a ward meeting next Tuesday evening, the same evening that the Hobbs rally is to be held in Ward Three.

ST. MARY'S GUILD.

The regular social meeting of St. Mary's Catholic Guild was held last evening in music room of the church. The entertainment consisted of several guessing contests. The members were asked to write the names of several popular and old time melodies when played upon the piano, and also to guess from the pictures the names of famous men and women. The guessing of common advertisements was an interesting number. Prizes for the best guess work were awarded Mrs. Robert Teasdale, Miss Ann McGowan, and Miss Mary Sweeney. Musical selections were rendered by Miss Anna Kane and Miss Rena Mannix. Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee. The affair was in charge of the entertainment committee of the guild.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Messrs. Clee and Gumb, the boys directors of the Y. M. C. A. went to their respective homes in Worcester and Lawell for Thanksgiving.

The Fall River Y. M. C. A. has had a campaign for $50,000 to clear its indebtedness and to cover remodelling expenses. When the period for collection was closed it was found that $56,000 in money and pledges had been received.

The Boy Scouts started on a hike to Braintree at 9 o'clock this morning. When their destination was reached the boys indulged in Scout games and a substantial lunch. They expect to return in the latter part of the afternoon.

Theophilus King will talk to the older boys at the Sunday afternoon service tomorrow at 3.

The second monthly handicap meet will be held in the gymnasium this evening.

The North Abington Y. M. C. A. started a two days campaign last evening for the purpose of raising $3,600. The campaign opened very auspiciously with a banquet and a gift of $500 from "a friend." Another banquet will take place this evening and it is expected that the full amount will be registered on the big illuminated clock before the session is closed.

GOLDEN RULE DEGREE.

There was a large number of visiting patriarchs at the meeting of Manet encampment last evening and it goes without saying that all went away impressed with the excellent work they had seen. The degree worked was the Golden Rule and 14 candidates received it. Of this number 5 were from Manet encampment, 7 from Winter Hill of Somerville, and 2 from Shalom of Dorchester. The degree was worked in a fine manner by the degree staff of Manet encampment, Herbert D. Gearwar degree master. After the work of the evening there were brief addresses by visiting patriarchs all of whom complimented the degree staff on the excellence of their work.

MUSICAL SERVICE.

A rich program is announced for the musical service at Bethany church on Sunday evening:

Organ prelude from the Meistersinger — Wagner.
Solo—"Come Home" — Lasson
Solo—"The Blind Pilgrim" — Adams
Solo—"Beulah Land" — Mary Hughes
Solo—"Just as I am" — Morey
Duet—"There was joy in heaven" — Smart
Postlude in D minor — Rinck

Soloists for the evening, Miss Winnifred White and Miss Eva Steeves. Organist, Madame Ellen Beale Morey.

CHURCH REOPENED.

After being closed for four months the First Presbyterian church will be reopened on Sunday morning. The regular Thanksgiving service will be held at 10.30 A. M. in the lecture room. The Sabbath school will begin again at 11.45. There will be no evening service this week. The C. E. society will hold the monthly missionary service at 6, Sabbath evening in the manse.

We hope to resume all services on December 4.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

Reference has already been made to the service at the Swedish Baptist church on the evening of Thanksgiving day. The program included: music by orchestra, song by choir, duet by Alice Nelson and Alice Gustafson, music by orchestra, Piano solo by Mildred DeBoar, duet by Mrs. J. O. Hellstrom,—Dora Landerholm, recitation by Alice Nelson, piano solo by Henry Peterson, duet by Alice Nelson and Alice Gustafson, violin solo by Edith Gepson, reciting of Ps. 117 by Edgar Lundin, piano duet by Rebecka Nelson and Florence Blomquist, solo by Hulda Johnson and violin solo by Edith Gepson. Only spiritual songs were sung. All were cheerful and happy. At a pause in the program a subscription for winter fuel for the church was taken. The response was prompt and liberal.

NOTABLE FUNERAL.

Business was suspended at Dedham yesterday afternoon during the funeral of Augustus B. Endicott, for many years sheriff of Norfolk county, and prominent in financial circles. The service was largely attended by the justices of the supreme, superior and lower courts, by the deputy sheriffs of the county, and most of the county officials of today and many of the past officials. County Commissioner John F. Merrill and Deputy Sheriff Field were among those from Quincy. Rev. Roger S. Forbes and Rev. William H. Parker conducted the service. The Arlington Street quartet rendered three selections. Grandsons acted as pall bearers.

THANKSGIVING CANTATA

Given by Choirs of Christ and St. Chrysostoms Churches

A Thanksgiving musical service was held at Christ church last evening. After special prayer and litany, the combined choirs of St. Chrysostom's church and Christ church sang a cantata, "The Bountiful Giver" by W. H. Maxfield, mus. bac.

Under the able direction and accompaniment of Prof. Wrigley, the organist of Christ church, the music was beautifully rendered by the choirs. Solo parts were sung by Stanley Ross, Alfred Rendle, Mr. Pooley and Ed. Haslett.

The fulness and richness of the music seemed to be in perfect keeping with the theme of the cantata and the wonderful harmonies coming from organ and choir alike filled the audience with the spirit of the season. The attendance was large, many of the Wollaston parish coming over with the choir from St. Chrysostom's. It is to be hoped that similar services may be arranged from time to time for the value of this first one was attested by the large number who attended.

DAVIS CLASS BANQUET.

The Davis men's class of the Calvary Baptist church will have their first annual banquet in Union hall on Monday evening. The success of the evening is already assured, both with regard to the caterer, the attendance and the speakers. Carroll C. Whittemore of Boston will cater. The principal speakers of the evening are Rev. Joseph Walther, pastor of the Wollaston Baptist church and Dr. James A. Francis, pastor of the Clarendon street Baptist church, Boston. Mr. Walther is well known locally and needs no introduction. Dr. Francis is well known throughout the state and needs but little more introduction in Quincy than does Mr. Walther. Dr. Francis is considered one of the very best speakers in the State, and he always has a message to deliver to his hearers. Rev. R. J. Davis, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, will be toastmaster.

The Davis class is still in its infancy, as the proud parent for whom it was named, has said, but it is shooting up with great rapidity and is ganing in strength as well as in size. The banquet Monday night will give proof of this without doubt.

WOMAN HELD UP

Police Make a Quick Response to Montclair

The police auto made a quick run to Montclair at 8.30 last evening in response to a telephone call received at police headquarters. The call was that a woman had been held up while returning home, but through some misunderstanding the officer in charge got it that a woman had been shot. Inspector McKay started for the scene in the police auto making the run inside of ten minutes. Chief Burrell and Acting Inspector Goodhue and other officers went to the scene in the cars having missed the auto.

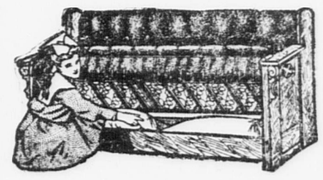

For a time there was considerable excitement in police circles. It seems that Mrs. Emma Felt was returning to her home on Broadway from a visit to a store when a man came out of the bushes and accosted her. She ran to the house of Mr. Holbrook who telephoned the police.

This is the third similar affair that has occurred in that vicinity recently and the man has thus far evaded the police although Chief Burrell has had detailed special officers to watch out for him.

Mayor Shea has signed the orders passed at the last meeting ofthe City Council increasing the salaries of the Chief Engineer, Chief of Police and policemen and the orders relative to pensions for the firemen and police.

THE KINDLER
SOFA BED

Now here's a piece of furniture that is plump full of merit and tremendously convenient. It's the very best thing in the Sofa Bed line we've ever seen, and that's saying a great deal. It's a beautiful luxurious Davenport Sofa, long enough to use for a couch, handsome enough for the parlor, with not the slightest suggestion of a bed in any part. The wardrobe box beneath the seat holds the bed clothing during the day. It takes just two seconds to drop the back and make a full-sized comfortable bed. Prices range from $25.00 to $45.00, according to upholstering and wood. Spare one minute sometime and let us show you these Sofa Beds

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

There's a chill in the air this morning that makes one think that winter is most here. Ice in the gutters and snow flurries all point to winter. But there is considerable to be thankful for, first that it has held off so long and secondly after all it will soon be over, be it severe or mild, for it's only some three months to spring.

If only a few of the rumors are true Quincy is bound to boom the coming year. It is said plans have been drawn for some time for a large cotton mill to be built here. There is talk of a large first class theatre in which reliable Boston theatre managers are interested also a new up-to-date building for a moving picture show and last but not least an arcade building or big apartment store which will combine most every known business.

Comparisons are odious and the slow going administration of justice in this country as contrasted with the hurry up methods in vogue in England seem to us a little far fetched. Although there is little sympathy expressed for Dr. Crippen, still there is the unsatisfactory element of a verdict rendered almost entirely on the weight of circumstantial evidence and the probability that after all he may have been innocent of the crime for which he was hanged. Justice in America is proverbially slow but that seems better than the hasty execution of persons whose guilt has not been conclusively proven.

It seems a grim sort of joke when the prices of all kinds of poultry advance at this time of year. To be sure there has been quite a reduction in the cost of meats but when the householder sees at the same time the prices on chickens, turkeys, etc., boosted to almost prohibitive rates he feels, and with good reason, that insult is being added to injury. It looks like a financial game of see-saw and the small buyer soon gets dizzy. As usual, all sorts of reasons are advanced to account for the condition but reasons are not legal tender in this country and do not help much in buying the necessaries of life. Surely the people who can come forward with a sensible solution of the problem will be hailed as benefactors of humanity.

It is announced from Washington that it is the purpose of Postmaster-General Hitchcock and the President to recommend to Congress an increase in the postage rate on "magazines and other periodicals," the higher rate to apply to advertisements only, the reading matter to remain at the present rate. Mr. Hitchcock believes that such increase will eliminate future postal deficits, and that this, with other contemplated reforms, will enable Congress to establish one-cent letter postage. In 1909 the total weight of paid second-class matter was 723,000,000 pounds; the forthcoming annual report will show that for 1910 the total will be about 750,000,000 pounds. But why charge advertising pages a higher rate than reading matter? They do not weight any more, page for page, and it costs no more for their distribution through the mails. Besides, the advertisements are producers of profitable letter mail, to a much larger extent than literary matter.

Alfred W. Donovan of Rockland who gave Quincy merchants some good straight talk last winter was equally frank the other night at North Weymouth when he addressed the Improvement association. Speaking of the shoe industry Mr. Donovan said that Weymouth workmen ought not to be obliged to go out of town for employment, we made the best shoes which are made in the country and it was up to the people of Weymouth to provide more factory facilities and give the men and women employment at home ,all it wanted was "more back bone and less wish bone."

"A man's luck is in himself, his chance, in ability to get something to do, and his fortune is in the skill and energy, with which he does it. When it is said a man is lucky, it means that he has brains and uses them; when it is said that things come his way, it means that he has gone after them.

"Remember you have to work whether you handle a pick, or a pen, overwork never killed a man on the sunny side of thirty, they die sometimes but it is because they quit work at six o'clock and get home at two A. M., it is the interval that kills.

"If you will look around you you will see that the men who are most able to live the rest of their days without work are the ones that work the hardest. My advice to the young man is to take off your coat and make a dust in the world."

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Booker T. Washington, who has recently spent two months in Europe in studying the state and the outlook of the lowest classes there, has come out with the statement that his race in the United States "is by no means the farthest down." He says he is convinced that the backward classes of Portugal, Italy, Spain and Austria are more difficult to uplift than the negroes of the Southern states. His conclusions on this subject have been generally accepted by those aware of the conditions in other countries, and show that the progress of the negro in this country is slow but sure, and under a free system of government capable of much more progress.—Haverhill Gazette.

Some time ago, when the discussion of the heavy expense attending elections was in progress, the Item suggested, as the only way to prevent large expenditures which bar capable men who are not wealthy from the acceptance of nominations, that the State assume all of the expense and make it unlawful, under heavy penalties, for any individual or corporation to expend a cent in an election. We notice that Mr. Foss, who was a great offender in the matter of excessive expenditures, has accepted the suggestion and will recommend it to the Legislature. It ought to become the law of the State. Part of the expense of elections that was formerly borne by candidates is now met by the State. The ballots are printed at the public expense and the precinct officers are renumerated in the same way. To go a step further and assume the whole bill and prevent any expenditure by private parties would end the scandalous custom that is so prevalent in regard to elections and work a reform that would be a decided benefit to the Commonwealth. If the Governor-elect adheres to his declared purpose the Legislature should have no hesitation in enacting a law covering the point.—Lynn Item.

Many of the most distinguished men in the country are expected to participate in the national river and harbor convention which is called to assemble in Washington, D. C., on the 7th, 8th and 9th of December. There is every reason for believing, too, that it will be one of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings of the kind ever held in the country. President Taft is to deliver the opening address; the Canadian government will be represented by Clifton Sefton, Mexico will be represented by its ambassador, and Governor Harmon of Ohio, Governor White of New York, W. L. Sibert of the Panama canal commission, the Hon. Champ Clark and representatives of the different waterway projects of leading importance will be among the speakers.

The convention of last year was attended by 4,000 delegates; the impression is that the attendance this year will be much greater, and considerable importance is attached to the fact that the chief of engineers of the United States, General Bixby, is for the first time to have a seat on the platform.

The attitude of the Republican House in its last session is not of so much concern to the waterway promoters as the probable attitude of the Democratic House a year hence. It is only reasonable to assume that it will be friendly, because many of the Democratic states are deeply interested in some of the leading waterway projects. But the Democratic party is likely, though friendly, to become conservative on this as on other questions; for it will be pledged to economy, and its leaders will be alive to the fact that the charge of extravagance is one that may be laid against it by the opposition on the smallest provocation.

Everything considered, however, the Democrats should be more liberally disposed than the Republicans have been to waterway improvements, and the country will find little fault with legislation in this particular that is liberal without being extravagant.—Christian Science Monitor.

YOUTH'S COMPANION CALENDAR.

The publishers of The Youth's Companion will, as always at this season, present to every subscriber whose subscription is paid for 1911 a beautiful Calendar for the new year. The picture panel reproduces a water-color painting of an old-time garden in a flood of summer sunshine, with a background of Lombardy poplars through which one catches a glimpse of distant hills. The picture being in 12 colors, the tones of the original are faithfully reproduced.

ASSEMBLY

Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick, black net.

Miss Bates, blue crepe de chene.

Mrs. Henry L. Kincaide, embroidered chiffon over pale lavender.

Mrs. Walter E. Burke, white overdress over yellow satin, gold fringe.

Mrs. A. H. Remick, chiffon over pale green, gold and marabout trimmings.

Mrs. Luther Glover, pink satin with point lace.

Mrs. Henry I. Hall, yellow chiffon, overdress of lace.

Miss Maude Macfarlane, white embroidered muslin, Persian trimmings.

Mrs. Elmer E. Ricker, white embroidered lace.

Mrs. Warren Ogden, white brocaded satin.

Miss Georgiana C. Lane, black embroidered chiffon.

Miss Gertrude King, pale blue chiffon over silk.

The committee to whose efforts much of the success of the Assembly was due were: Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Mrs. F. J. Moore, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Miss Maud Macfarlane, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, Mrs. Charles A. Price, Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell, Mrs. Theophilus King and Mrs. W. G. Shaw.

DIVORCE WANTED.

Mrs. Anna M. Westfall, a daughter of the late Mrs. Ann Seaver of this city, is defendant in a divorce libel brought this week by John H. Westfall, her husband of Allston. They were married May 12, 1898, at Washington, D. C. They lived together in Boston. He alleges statutory offences with James Clendennin Smith, at Norway, Me., and on the Portland boat in 1902 and 1903.

The Westfalls are very well known in Allston, where they had lived together at 24 Ashford street until a few weeks ago, when Mrs. Westfall left the house to live with friends in another section of Allston.

Mr. Westfall for about 15 years, has been a truant officer in Brighton district. He is a retired naval officer and in addition to his salary as truant officer receives a pension from the government as the result of being incapacitated in the naval service.

Mrs. Westfall is a fine appearing woman and is well respected in Allston. She moves among the best people in that section, and is a member of a local patriotic organization. She has a son 21 years old by a former marriage.

BRAINTREE PHILERGIANS.

The evening course met Monday at Mrs. Daniel Roy Freeman's home, Washington street. Mrs. William Gallagher introduced Mrs. Freeman and announced that it was to be a Liszt program. Among music lovers this evening has long been looked forward to. Mrs. Freeman received her education as a pianist in Berlin, and she has marked musical ability. Mr. Freeman gave a sketch of the life of Liszt which led to a more comprehensive and sympathetic understanding of the music. The program consisted of Liszts "12th Rhapsodie," "Ricordauze," and Transcriptions of Mendelssohn's Overture to "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Altogether it was a most instructive and enjoyable evening to the many present.

The Women's Exchange has its Christmas sale at Mrs. Henry Reynold's home, Monatiquot avenue, Dec. 9, from 10 until 6 P. M., luncheon being served from 12 until 1 o'clock. It is hoped that many will avail themselves of this early opportunity to buy gifts.

Mrs. Gardner's art palace is to be open Nov. 28, 29, 30th. Tickets may be obtained at Herrick's. The following announcement was forwarded to the club and will be of general interest.

The Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs will hold a conference in the Museum of Fine Arts, Huntington avenue, Boston, on Thursday, December 1, at 10 o'clock, Miss Georgie A. Bacon, president of the federation, presiding, at which the following subjects will be considered:

The Value of Art Study in the Life of the Pupil, Mr. Frederick L. Burnham, state supervisor of drawing and manual training.

The Value of Art Study in Women's Clubs, What may we learn from the art of the past? The value of study classes in clubs, club classes at the Museum.

GYPSY QUEEN POISONED

Elephant Weighing Nearly Four Tons Had Killed Her Keeper

New York, Nov. 26.—It took 500 grains of cyanide of potassium, a deadly poison, to kill the Gypsy Queen, a trick elephant, in execution of the death sentence passed upon her for the murder of her keeper, Robert Schiel.

The poison was given her in three pailfuls of bran mash in which had been sprinkled 100 capsules, each of five grains of cyanide. She had been starved for twenty-four hours and ate greedily. At the end of ten minutes she shivered in all her vast bulk of 7650 pounds, her knees weakened, her trunk grew rigid, she rolled her eyes and fell.

In the next two minutes she got up four times, struggling against the chains that bound her. At the end of twenty minutes her breathing was imperceptible, but forty-four minutes after her first swallow she winked when her trainer passed his hand before her eyes. That was the last sign of life.

The Queen was 87 years old, born in Africa, and one of the largest elephants in captivity. She stood eight feet seven inches high.

NOT YET INDICTED

But Assailant of Mayor Gaynor May Soon Be Brought to Trial

New York, Nov. 26.—Prosecuting officials in Jersey City are preparing for action which is expected to result shortly in bringing James J. Gallagher to trial for the shooting of Mayor Gaynor on the deck of the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse last summer.

No indictment has ever been found against Gallagher, who has been held a prisoner in the Jersey City jail, awaiting the result of the injuries he inflicted upon the mayor. Prosecutor Garven says that he looks for grand jury action on the case within a day or so. Gallagher will not be brought into court until he is called to plead to the indictment, if one is found.

POLICE HUNTING FOR MISSING FRENCHMAN

Might Throw Some Light on New York Trunk Mystery

New York, Nov. 26.—Henry d'Anarc is the name of a Frenchman the police are seeking as possibly having information which will help solve the murder mystery uncovered recently through the finding of a man's body after eight years' concealment in a trunk in a West Thirty-seventh street cellar.

William Lewis, the reputed owner of the trunk, has been missing since the day he was to have married Miss Ellen Enright in January, 1905. Albert Callier, a French artist, with whom Lewis is known to have associated, disappeared in 1902, shortly after he is said to have received a remittance of $10,000 from a brother in Africa. The police believe the body found in the trunk is that of Callier.

D'Anarc is brought into the story as a man who associated with Lewis and Callier for a time before the latter's disappearance. Two years afterwards d'Anarc appeared in his old haunts. He seemed poverty-stricken, and after lingering for a few months about French boarding houses, disappeared.

PURE RADIUM PRODUCED

Precious Metal From Cornish Pitchblende Excites Scientists

London, Nov. 26.—The finest radium is now being produced from Cornish pitchblende from the Trenwith mine. Sir William Ramsay, the scientist, has the credit for this feat.

In the London office of a radium company there are now deposited three tubes, each containing fifty milligramme of 100 percent pure radium, one of which has already been sold for a fabulous price.

The medical and scientific world has been astonished at the rapidity of the extraction of the precious metal from the pitchblende.

ALL RIGHT AS "COMRADE"

But Scotti Will Not Become Miss Ferrar's Husband, She Says

Chicago, Nov. 26.—"Men as 'comrades' are immense, but 'household consumption'—well, not for little me."

In these words, Miss Geraldine Farrar, grand opera star, denied the report that she was engaged to wed Antonio Scotti, her singer "comrade," on her arrival from New York to appear at two performances at the Auditorium theatre today.

"No, Antonio is just a 'comrade,' a 'pal' and—well, he is a dear, too," continued the singer, tugging at her "sugar loaf" hat, and smiling.

The Pond street athletic association was entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. Sarah Southwick assisted by her son Edward Southwick of Pond street. Whist was played and music furnished additional entertainment.

On Sunday, Nov. 27, the Society of Christian Workers of the South Congregational church will hold its monthly missionary meeting. It will be in the hands of the U. M. O. club. All the members of which belong to this society. The subject is "My favorite Missionary Hero or Heroine and why." Heb. 11:32-40. The president of the U. M. O. club, Miss Dorothy Loring, will lead.

Dr. William Gallagher of Thayer Academy, Mrs. Choate Burnham (Isabel Gallagher) Charles T. Gallagher, Elmer Gallagher, Sears Gallagher, Edward Gallagher, Percy Gallagher and their families, held a reunion Thanksgiving day at the Thorndike, Boston. Covers were laid for 43 at the dinner that followed, served in the Dickens parlor.

Friday evening was the anniversary of Mrs. William Benham's birth. She had planned to entertain a few friends and had in readiness two tables for bridge whist and dainty refreshments as well. When the door bell rang at 10 May avenue on the mentioned evening Mrs. Benham was greeted by about twenty-five friends who had come to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary in a fitting way. Whist was played for some time, Mr. H. A. Simonds of Franklin street making the highest score of the evening. Dainty refreshments of punch, sandwiches, cake and coffee were generously served after the conclusion of the game. A short musical program consisting of songs by Mrs. Clifton Woodsum and William Dyer and recitations by the latter were enjoyed and the hours swiftly passed.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Harry Tilden of Mt. Vernon avenue gave a dinner party in honor of the newly-weds Mr. and Mrs. Myron Haskell of Tremont street, South Braintree. The dining room was beautifully decorated with pink crepe paper and the dining table with the candelabra furnished with pink candles and shades carried out the color scheme. Mrs. Tilden proved to be a charming hostess and entertained her guests right royally. She looked very sweet in a cream princess dress. Mr. Tilden the host, is a well known architect of Boston and is a cousin of the groom, Mr. Haskell. Mrs. Haskell, formerly and well known before her marriage as Miss Ora Simonds, also looked most attractive in a pink empire gown with low cut neck and short sleves. The pleasant evening passed all too quickly filled with mirth and merriment. Mrs. Henry Haskell of Franklin street was also present.

BRAINTREE

Rev. D. Roy Freeman of All Souls' church is to address the Junior Alliance of the First church, Quincy, next Monday evening, his subject being "Why I became a Unitarian."

The engagement has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hartman of Duluth, Mich., of their daughter Mary Sybilla to Dr. Fred Wilde Allen of Braintree.

There will be an informal dance at Cochato club tonight, from eight to nine fifteen o'clock. The single admission will be 10 cents, the same as last year, to defray the expense of the pianist. If the attendance warrants it this dance will be the first of several during the winter.

Next Friday evening at the Cochato club there will be an illustrated lecture by Prof. Charles E. Fay, lately president of the American Alpine club. His subject will be "The Majesty of the Mountains." The entertainment is under the direction of Mr. G. O. Wales.

Miss Frances Marion Bryant, formerly of Braintree, daughter of Mrs. Clara Keith Bryant, was given a linen shower last week by some of her friends and on Tuesday, Nov. 22, was united in marriage at her home, 27 Summit avenue, Somerville, to George William Garey.

HYDE PARK NOT UNITED.

the agitation with regard to the enlargement of municipal Boston is reaching all the suburban towns to a greater or less degree. Hyde Park has taken the matter very much to heart and a petition signed by some 500 citizens for the direct annexation of the whole town has been filed with the Secretary of State. Considerable opposition has arisen on the part of a circle of influential men in the town. Francis W. Darling, president of the Merchants Association and James D. Grant, chairman of the board of selectmen, have said in recent speeches that they were strongly opposed to having their town become Ward 26 of Boston. Mr. Darling objected to the idea on account of the liquor question, and because Hyde Park would be the smallest ward in the metropolis and would probably not be represented in the city government. Mr. Grant opposed the principal of the thing and advocated the readjustment of the county, making Suffolk county the county of Boston and including in it all the town and cities of the Metropolitan district.

Government-elect Foss promises to devote part of his first message to the matter of Greater Boston. He is strongly in favor of the project of making Boston the great metropolis for Massachusetts that New York city is for New York.

FREAK BUILDING.

New Yorkers are now seeing another "freak" building operation. This time it is the placing of a "skyscraper" on top of one already completed. The first one is not distured at all as the work goes ahead. Before the 1907 panic the Knickerbocker Trust Company planned a twenty-two-story structure for its new home. Then the Knickerbocker collapsed, carrying banks and other trust companies down with it. Money for the new twenty-two-story building was not available. So it was decided to clip off fourteen stories and put up eight.

Now the contract has been let for the additional fourteen. The masonry is ripped from around the steel frame, at the top of the present building, and the riveters are already busy extending the frame further toward the sky. The design of the architects, McKim, Mead and White, calls for the latest type of "skyscraper" fireproof construction. The entire steel frame is protected by a covering of hollow terra cotta block, which went through a temperature of 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit in process of manufacture. Floors and partitions are of this same terra cotta, so that there is practically no danger from fire.

There are other precautions besides these, however. Elevator shafts and stairways are enclosed in the fireproof material, so that a blaze, if it started among the contents of one floor, would be unable to spread any further. There is a thorough standpipe equipment, with hose attachments on every floor. The job will be completed by April 1, 1911. Then the Knickerbocker Trust Company will have a total of 150,000 square feet of floor space in its new building.

Rt. Wor. William F. Schallenbach, district deputy grand master of the seventh Masonic district, made an official visitation to Macedonian lodge Tuesday evening, with a large suite, which included past masters of most of the lodges in the district. It was the 188th meeting of Macedonian lodge, and eight of its charter members were present. Deputy Schallenbach spoke at length concerning the Masonic home and presented a past master's diploma to the master. Handsome bouquets were presented to the deputy and Grand Marshal Benjamin S. Frost of Rabboni lodge. A banquet followed the visitation and work of the evening.

A petition has been filed with the Secretary of State asking for legislation authorizing the Old Colony railroad to construct and maintain a connection between the Shawmut branch and a point on the Midland division known as Rugby station.

Union services were held in the church of Our Saviour, East Milton, Wednesday evening. Rev. W. Dewees Roberts led the opening exercises. He said that it is good to come together in such a service for it is in God's church that we can be the most sincerely gatful. Mr. Deems gave a short talk. He said that we should strive not to be proud of what we have, and that we should not let pride separate us from the brotherhood of men. Rev. Irad Hardy spoke upon "The Habit of Thanksgiving." He said that not only should we remember to be grateful on the Thanksgiving holiday but that every day of the year should be a Thanksgiving day. Rev. Mr. Roberts pronounced the benediction.

Mrs. Jeanette M. Tyler addresses the Milton Woman's club on Dec. 5 on "Let the label tell the story." The publis is invited to attend.

The Sons of Veterans hold a patriotic festival at the Town Hall Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Cora E. Boutin, wife of H. L. Boutin of 48 Pierce street, East Milton, died very suddenly at her home on Thursday. At 5 o'clock in the morning she was awakened by intense pain. As the day advanced her suffering increased and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon she passed away. The cause of her death is not known. The bereaved husband left with a daughter and three sons. Mr. Boutin is connected with the Hancock House in Quincy.

Miss Orrisa Baxter came on from Hartford, Conn., to spend the holidays with her family in East Milton.

Miss Inez Carter, a student at Bridgewater Normal, is spending the Thanksgiving vacation with her parents.

A second toboggan slide is in the process of construction back of the Cunningham gymnasium. It is expected that it will be completed before the snow flies.

About 1,000 people witnessed the football game on Cunningham field on the afternoon of the holiday. This is the biggest crowd that ever assembled at the field. Many rooters from Quincy and Wollaston accompanied the team.

The dance in the gymnasium Wednesday evening had a much larger attendance than usual. A very pleasant evening was spent by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Sheldon will give a dance in Ellsworth hall on the evening of the 26th in aid of the Floating Hospital.

Tickets for the reading by F. Hopkinson Smith are selling fast. The Milton Women's club have been very fortunate in securing this noted author and reader for the evening of December 8. The reading will be given in the Milton Town Hall.

ANOTHER ETERNITY.

A Cleveland man with a Canadian Baedeker took the Saguenay trip recently.

After the steamer left Chicoutame on the return trip the Clevelander opened up his book and found out all the author could tell him regarding those natural wonders, Capes Trinity and Eternity, and the marvelous depth of the water, and the antiquity of the rude settlements.

He was in the steamer dining room at the time. The room was below the water mark, the dark current showing through windowed portholes.

Presently a serious man turned to the Clevelander.

"Do you realize," he asked, "what a very little distance separates us from eternity?"

The Cleveland man looked up.

"Little distance!" he retorted. "Why, this Baedeker here shows Eternity to be 30 miles away at least!"

Little Mary was discovered one day by her mother vigorously applying the oil can to the kitten's mouth.

"L" TRAINS TIED UP

Broken Axle Causes Inconvenience to Thousands of Passengers

Boston, Nov. 26.—On approaching Elevated ticket offices at stations all the way from Forest Hills and Union streets from 2:15 to until 4:45 yesterday afternoon thousands of people were turned away when told "No tickets sold for Charlestown."

An axle on one of the Elevated trains broke at the foot of the incline to the North Station, tying up the service beyond the North Station to Charlestown for two hours and a half.

Emergency air brakes stopped the train automatically, so that no one in the train was injured or even shaken up.

Laborer Loses Both Legs

Watertown, Mass., Nov. 26.—Nicholas Fratto, while at work in the gravel pit of the Boston Elevated company lat evening, was run over. The wheels of the car passed over Fratto's legs, injuring them so that they had to be amputated.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—A dispatch from Tula says that Countess Tolstoi is ill, having a temperature of 102.9.

A COUNTRY DOCTOR'S RUSE.

Out in the country, not far from the city, there was a rural practitioner who took an axe and chopped out his telephone. "I'm sick of it," he said.

"What?"

"Being called up in the night and made to drive five miles through the snowdrifts," he replied. "With my telephone out they won't be so sick," he continued. "A man will call me up in the dead of the night and say, 'Doctor, I want you to come right out to my farm. My wife's pretty sick.' I have to go, no matter how cold the weather is or how high the drifts. But when the farmer has to hook up his team and drive in five miles after me, you bet his wife won't be so sick." And the rural practitioner reasoned so well that never again did he have a telephone in his house, and his sleep was better, because there was more of it.—Utica Observer.

WE wish to call the attention of our customers and to the buying Public of Quincy and surrounding towns, that after a careful inspection and comparison, we consider that taking the quality and genuine value of our goods, that we are the lowest priced store in Massachusetts.

Now, this may seem to be a broad statement to some people but we stand ready to PROVE our statement. We claim that no where in Quincy or any part of Massachusetts, do they sell better QUALITY or do they charge lower prices for the same QUALITY of goods than we do. We have been noted for years for the QUALITY of the goods we sell, and are ever ready to make good when the goods are not just as represented, and nowhere can you get such a guarantee of Quality. You all know that there is a certain value to High Quality Provisions as well as other commodities that you use; and when you go along the street and read the advertisements of different dealers who are selling you something at a ridiculously low price, you can depend upon it that you are surely buying a gold brick, for you cannot buy something that is absolutely worth thirty cents for fifteen cents and expect Quality any more than you can buy a three thousand dollar automobile for fifteen hundred and expect it to be just as good.

Now we have posted ourselves on the different grades of the other dealers and we say once more that we are the lowest priced Quality Store in Quincy or Massachusetts, and we ask you, if you want proof, to call and compare our goods and prices with what you are paying.

Just now the market has eased off considerably and we were one of the first dealers to give our customers the benefit, showing you that we are WITH the people, our customers, at all times.

Thanksgiving will be here soon and we wish to inform our customers that we shall have a grand display of DELICIOUS frost Goods for the trade. No cheap trash, but fresh, wholesome, clean stock—the only kind FIT TO BUY, TO EAT, and the prices will be hammered down just as hard as possible for them to be and for us to live; so we invite you to our store, where you can see that our statements are all absolutely true in every respect.

Space will not permit us to quote at length our prices but below will be found the prices of a few things that we know to be of more than special value.

Curtice Bro's Family Tomatoes 12 1-2c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Cut, String or Wax Beans 10c a can
Regular Value 15c

" " Maine Sweet Corn 12 1-2c a can

QUEEN LOUISE FLOUR at 90c a bag

We ask you to use some of this flour and if you do not find it to be the best you ever used, return the empty bag to us and receive your money back. This is the guarantee that goes with the FLOUR.

We sell the famous La Touraine Coffee for 35c a pound. The EQUAL of any 40c coffee on the Market.

With each pound of La Touraine Coffee we give FREE any 5c bar of soap you wish.

Our line of Teas are the BEST in Quincy, carefully selected and chosen to suit the heavy and light tea tastes of our customers. One special Tea at 60c we wish to call your attention to, a regular $1.00 Quality. Try some.

Our Market—always the best always the LOWEST PRICED and the VERY HIGHEST QUALITY. This part of our large business speaks for itself. It needs no debate, as it is in a class all by itself; but of one thing you may be sure, considering the Quality, we are surely cutting the prices on GOOD SUBSTANTIAL CORN FED BEEF.

We have our prices on MEAT on our price Board in plain sight of every one who enters our store, and all we ask is, compare Quality and then compare Prices, and you will see that we are not selling you NOTHING for SOMETHING, but for every penny you spend with us, you get your penny's worth in return, in WEIGHT and MEASURE and QUALITY, to say nothing of HEALTH and HAPPINESS in your HOME because a poor QUALITY of cheap meats never promotes HEALTH and therefore little HAPPINESS.

Inspect our poultry department, before you buy elsewhere and see what a splendid line of fresh killed chicken—fowl and turkeys we have to offer, and we will guarantee that the prices will be cut as close as it is possible to cut them, for we wish to sell every one a Thanksgiving Turkey or Chicken. Once again we invite you to our Store to inspect our goods and prices.

BRIEFS

Almost the entire house has been sold out for the play "Miss Fearless and Co." which is to be presented next Friday evening by members of St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church.

The semi-annual meeting of the Boston Federation of the Y. P. R. U., is to be held Sunday afternoon and evening in the First Parish church in Brighton. Afternoon session at four, supper at six and evening service at half past seven. Rev. Joseph H. Crooker of Roslindale will give the address. Take the Newton Boulevard cars in the subway and get off at South street.

Everett Barber and family have moved from Appleton street to a new house on Webster street.

On Wednesday, St. Andrew's day, there will be holy communion at Christ church at 10 A. M.

Next Tuesday afternoon, at 2.30 at the Women's club Mrs. C. O. Tyler will give a lecture under the auspices of the Home Economics committee. Mrs. Tyler is one of the State Federation lecturers. Her talk will be on pure food and markets, the subject, "Let the Label tell its own Story." This is an open meeting to which all housekeepers are cordially invited.

A tablet in memory of the Reverend Henry Flynt presented by the Quincy Historical Society to the First church will be unveiled at the close of the Sunday morning service at quarter of twelve. To issue formal invitations is impracticable but the Historical Society and Church hope that as many as possible of the descendants of Edmund and Dorothy (Flynt) Quincy will be present as well as the townspeople.

Rev. Samuel G. Babcock, Archdeacon of the Diocese will preach the sermon at the 10.30 A. M. service at Christ church on Sunday.

Sub station 156 of the Boston post office has been installed at Murray's pharmacy, Brewers corner. George A. Bolster has been sworn in as postmaster.

INTERFERED IN ARGUMENT

Boarder Arouses the Anger of His Landlord

ORDERED TO LEAVE HOUSE

Assaulted as He Starts to Get Overcoat and Turns About and Instantly Kills Man With Whom He Had Been Friendly For Years—Slayer Had Taken Part of Landlady In Domestic Quarrel

Danvers, Mass., Nov. 26.—Chester M. Goodwin, aged 23, shot and instantly killed his friend and associate, Bertram W. Galloway, aged 25, last night, resenting the order of Galloway to leave the latter's house, where he had been boarding since last April. The trouble between the two men arose when Goodwin interceded in an argument at the supper table between Galloway and the latter's wife, taking the latter's part.

This interference on the part of the boarder incensed Galloway and he made several vicious remarks, finally ordering Goodwin from the house.

Goodwin rose from the table. He passed to an adjoining room, where his coat was hanging, followed by Galloway, who, according to those present, struck Goodwin on the back with his fist. It was at this time, the police believe, that Goodwin got his revolver, a 32-calibre, with which he did the shooting.

The household was in an uproar in an instant, for it was felt that the quarrel was uncalled for, and that Galloway was unjustly ordering Goodwin from the house and equally unjustly assaulting him.

Galloway returned to the kitchen and Goodwin appeared a moment later on his way to the door. Galloway approached Goodwin, slinging epithets at him, and as the latter was about to leave the house, threatened to assault him a second time.

This proved the last straw in Goodwin's fight to maintain his self-control and pulling his hand from his pocket he fired one shot from the revolver, which entered Galloway's body at a point just above the heart.

Galloway fell in a heap upon the floor with a groan, the blood spurting from the wound in his breast. Those who witnessed the shooting were transfixed and seemed unable to move from the positions which they held.

Goodwin seemed to regain his self control instantly and to realize what he had done, for, thrusting the revolver into his pocket, he started for the door.

Raymond Nichols, the brother-in-law of the victim of the shooting, stepped forward and, fearing that Goodwin would commit suicide with the revolver which he had in his pocket, thrust his hand in the fleeing man's garment and took possession of the gun. This he hid in a closet.

Only one shot was fired and the bullet passed through the victim's body just above the heart, causing his death almost instantly.

Goodwin, who was until two weeks ago a conductor in the employ of the Boston and Nothern Street Railway company, made his escape and is being sought for murder throughout the state.

Both of the men have been in the employ of the state of late, and up to yesterday were at work in Middleton in the extermination of gypsy moth. In fact they returned to the Galloway house together, and this made the shooting all the more mysterious, as the two men appeared to be on the most friendly terms when they arrived home.

HIS SUICIDE PREVENTED

Indiana Man Slays Wife and Woman With Whom She Lived

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 26.—Frank Rickets, a machinist, shot and killed his wife, from whom he had been separated several months, and Mrs. Nellie Britton, with whom she had been living.

A policeman who heard the shots found Rickets with a revolver in his hand and the bodies of the women lying in an upper hallway. Rickets tried to shoot himself, but the policeman snatched the revolver from him.

Rickets said his wife shot at him when he appeared at her door, and he fired back. The police believe he waylaid the women in the hallway. Both were dressed for the street.

Students Riot In Spanish Theatre

Paris, Nov. 26.—Part of a collection of jewels was sold at auction, advertised as being the property of Princess X, who, according to rumor, is Princess Ghika. The articles brought 296,365 francs.

BLIND COUPLE WED

Fell In Love While Groom Was Being Taught by Future Wife

New York, Nov. 26.—William M. Gooshaw and Miss Beryl H. Clark were married in the home of the bride's uncle, Joseph Lejeune, in Brooklyn, by Rev. J. B. Slocum, pastor of a Baptist church.

Two years ago Gooshaw wandered into the Brooklyn public library, where he met Miss Clark. Gooshaw became acquainted with the young woman, who had charge of the blind division of the institution, and was taken in charge by her and taught the alphabet for the blind.

Several nights' a week study at his home, assisted by Miss Clark, soon made him an expert in the art of supplying the sense of sight by that of touch. The friendship of the two ripened into love and the young man proposed marriage, which was accepted by his young teacher.

For ten years Gooshaw has been blind. When he was 16 years old he was kicked in the head by a horse and rendered sightless. Mrs. Gooshaw does not remember the time when she could see. Her affliction was due to an attack of scarlet fever.

LETTER HASN'T ARRIVED

Brandeis Has No Official Notice of Alleged $250,000 Offer

Boston, Nov. 26.—Louis D. Brandeis was still waiting last night, when he left Boston for New York, for the reported letter that was to offer him a salary of $250,000 a year to show the railroads of the country how they were losing $1,000,000 a day.

"I really do not know," he said, "except from what I have read in the papers, whether such an offer ha really been made to me. If it has, of course I shall answer it."

Pressed to say whether his answer would be favorable or not, Brandeis smiled. He reiterated that he believed that facts would bear him out in his statement about the preventable losses by railroads.

COUPLE SHOT WHILE ON WAY TO WEDDING

Brother of Bride-to-Be Fires on Them From Behind Tree

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 26.—Gustus Patalas, aged 22, is in a hospital, dangerously wounded by a bullet, Miss Stavroula Nikitas, aged 20, is suffering with a bullet wound in her left hand, and Peter Nikitas, aged 24, the brother of the girl, is under arrest, charged with assault with intent to kill.

All the parties to the affair are Greeks, and the shooting took place on crowded Main street while the wounded couple were on their way, they say, to a Greek priest, who was to wed them.

After the shooting, which was a deliberate affair, Nikitas, stepping from behind a tree and firing six shots, escaped, threatening some of his pursuers with his gun, but two hours later he was found hiding in an attic of a tenement house in the Greek quarter.

The police say that Nikitas admitted that he intended to kill the man and woman, and that he gives as his reason that they had violated a Greek custom, which requires that a man seeking the hand of a girl must obtain the consent of her guardian. The brother who did the shooting considered himself the girl's guardian in this case, as their parents are in Greece.

THREE MONTHS IN JAIL

Fines of $300 Each Also Imposed Upon Tar and Feathers Men

Mays Landing, N. J., Nov. 26.—Three months in jail and a fine of $300 each was the sentence passed upon Charles Quinn and Joseph Vaughn by Judge Higbee for tarring and feathering Frank Sichort at McKee City, near here. James Sears, who was convicted as an accomplice but did not actually assist in the tarring and feathering of Sichort, was sentenced to a fine of $300, and in default was committed to jail.

The men, when on trial, said they tarred and feathered Sichort, who is a married man, because of his alleged attentions to a widow in McKee City.

SEARS MAKES A CONFESSION

Shot Minister and Wife to Death In Their Home

GIVEN THE "THIRD DEGREE"

Slayer and Prosecutor Both Worn Out After Ordeal Lasting Fifteen Hours—Crime Committed In Revenge Because Aged Man Struck Negro-Indian Halfbreed Over the Head With a Cane During a Quarrel

Trenton, Nov. 26.—John Sears, the negro-Indian halfbreed held for the murder of Rev. Amzi L. Armstrong and his wife, has admitted that he killed both the 80-year-old minister and his wife.

In his confession Sears declared that he killed the minister as the result of a quarrel.

"He hit me with a cane Wednesday afternoon," said the prisoner. "We had a quarrel about some work to be done about the parsonage and Dr. Armstrong struck me on the head, in his anger. I made up my mind to get revenge on the minister, and in order to cover up the traces of the crime I believed hat my mother, who was I believed that my mother, who was the only other occupant of the house, would not inform on me. I also had an idea that if I got rid of both of them their wealth would come to me.

"I went to New Brunswick, as I intended to do, about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. I returned shortly afterward and got my gun. Then I went to the parsonage. As I entered I saw Mrs. Armstrong and killed her first. The minister, evidently scared by the shooting, was coming toward me and I blazed away at him, killing him, too. I left the house in a short time, and then went back to my home.

Sears weakened when the police found some money and Armstrong's gold watch hidden in his pocket and broke down, confessing all.

Sears was held without bail for the January grand jury. This action was taken after the suspect had been put through an exhaustive examination lasting fifteen hours, in which third degree methods were used to induce him to confess the double crime. He was trapped into several damaging contradictions.

At the end of the examination the accused man, who has been in the Armstrong family since he was two weeks old, was too weak to stand and had to be carried to his cell from the room where Prosecutor Crossley and the police had questioned him without intermission since his arrest. The prosecutor himself was worn out by the ordeal and staggered as he left the jail.

The mother of the halfbreed, who brought suspicion upon herself by her strenuous endeavors to shield her son insisted upon visiting him in his cell and carrying food to him, but the authorities prevented her.

Mrs. Sears, a full-blooded negress, who has been a servant in the family of Mrs. Armstrong for nearly forty years, is under surveillance as a witness. A story by which she eagerly sought to protect her son delayed action by the authorities.

Mr. Armstrong's wife, whom he married fifteen years ago, when she was 27, was a daughter of Ellwood Rue, to whose farm she and her husband moved upon Rue's death.

During the forty years that Armstrong had been pastor at Dutch Neck he had seen generations grow up.

MUTINY COMES TO SPEEDY END

Brazilian Sailors Win After Murdering Four Officers

CONGRESS GRANTS DEMANDS

Will Have Increased Pay, Shorter Hours of Service and Less Work—Corporal Punishment Is Abandoned—Doubt If Mutineers Would Have Carried Out Threat to Blow Up Rio Janeiro—Full "Surrender"

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 26.—The government of Brazil has yielded to its mutinous navy. Congress, meeting in extraordinary session, voted to concede every demand of the ultimatum presented Thursday, including general amnesty for the sailors who, after ter murdering as many of their superior officers as was necessary to place them in complete control, trained the guns of the warships upon the capital.

What effect the outcome will have eventually on the discipline in the navy is a matter of some concern. The immediate effect is to give the sailors increased pay, shorter hours of service and less work through the recruiting of additions to the crews, and to abolish corporal punishment in the fleet.

Following the action of congress the mutineers went through the formality of surrendering and the city has resumed its normal activities and the public excitement has subsided.

While the revolt lasted the people of the city were kept in a state of suspense, fearing that the mutineers would make good their threat to blow up the capital unless their wishes were met. It is doubtful, however, that they would have taken this step in any event because of the likelihood of complications with Great Bitain.

During the progress of the revolt James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States, was the guest of Baron Rio Branco, the Brazilian foreign minister, and he would have been as likely as anyone to suffer from a bombardment.

On the other hand, the mutinous battleship San Paulo had on board several British subjects who accompanied the vessel on its first trip home after its construction at Barrow-in-Furness, Eng. At the outbreak of the trouble Sir William H. D. Haggard, British minister to Brazil, notified the Brazilian foreign office that any attempt of the loyal torpedo boats to destroy the revolting warships would be attended with danger to British subjects on board. It is also known that the government hesitated to damage the bulwarks of its navy.

The dispatch, which was sent by the mutineers by wireless to President Fonseca, offering to surrender, read as follows: "Repentent of the action we committed in our defense, and for the sake of order, justice and liberty, we lay down our arms. Trusting that amnesty will be granted to us, we will remain obedient to your excellency, in whom we have all confidence."

Four officers, including the captain of the battleship Minas Ceraes, were killed during the mutiny.

Congress met in extraordinary session. The chamber of deputies first concurred with the senate in granting amnesty to the mutineers. Both houses then passed resolutions conceding the demands of the sailors. As soon as the action of congress became known the mutinous crews surrendered and the revolt was at an end.

AIRSHIP OUT OF SIGHT

Wright Brothers to Protest Drexel's Altitude Flight Claim

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—Thomas P. Jackson, one of the representatives of the Wright brothers on the Pacific coast, says that the Wrights will protest to the Aero Club of America against the acceptance of the flight by J. A. Drexel, in Philadelphia Saturday, as the world's record flight.

"While not doubting Drexel's veracity in the matter," said Jackson, "that fact remains that he did not comply with the conditions required for record flights, and I do not think that his figures will be accepted by the Aero Club of America as official. The conditions require that the flight must be made within sight of the judges."

PLACED IN FELON CLASS

Alleged Prize Fighters, Referee and Others Indicted at Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Criminal indictments charging prize fighting as a felony were returned in the Cook county court. It is the first time prize fighting has been made a basis for indictments in Illinois, and no precedents are obtainable in the supreme court reports.

The men indicted are Oscar Dabbs and George Johnson, the alleged fighters, and John Heinon, charged with acting as referee; Frank Hitchcock, owner of the place in Burnham where a deputy sheriff broke up the fight, and Frank Lewis, promoter.

GENERAL REYES

He Has No Intention of Aiding Revolution

REYES STILL IN PARIS

No Desire to Have His Name Used as a Slogan For Rebels

Paris, Nov. 26.—General Reyes, the Mexican soldier, who came to France on a special military mission, is still in this city and has no intention of returning to Mexico at this time. Reports that Reyes was going home to head the revolutionists had been circulated. Though an avowed supporter of Diaz, the loyalty of Reyes has been qustioned, and a year ago he was placed under surveillance by the government.

"The most important matter with which I have to deal has just come before me," said Reyes. "Reports that I intend to intervene in the trouble are baseless. I left Mexico for the express purpose of preventing my name being used as a slogan for revolution."

MEXICAN REBELLION HAS ABOUT ENDED

Quiet Once More Reigns Throughout the Republic

Laredo, Tex., Nov. 26.—There have been no developments in the revolutionary situation and quiet reigns throughout Mexico.

General Villar, commanding the forces along the Mexican border, has received such advices covering every point from Matamoras to Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, and on the American side everything is quiet.

Among the passengers arriving in this city last night from Monterey was Joseph Wheeless, a St. Louis attorney. Wheeless left Torreon, Mex., Thursday evening, and said that at that time conditions were normal.

Mr. Wheeless has large interests in Mexico, and he says that the many stories circulated throughout the United States magnifying the importance of what he terms a minor uprising are seriously injuring business in the republic.

STRAIN TELLS UPON HER

Hattie LeBlanc, Accused of Glover Murder, Said to Be Breaking Down

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 26.—Hattie LeBlanc broke down yesterday for the first time since her arrest on the charge of murdering Clarence F. Glover in Waltham a year ago, and begged her 74-year-old father, Abram LeBlanc, whom she saw for the first time in two years, to take her away with him to their home in West Arichat in Cape Breton, where her mother lies seriously ill.

It is reported that Hattie is much depressed, and her friends believe that the long strain resulting from her detention in jail is having its effect and the girl is breaking down as the hour of her trial approaches.

Yesterday was the first time that the young girl, whose ordeal will begin on Monday, has seemed to feel the seriousness of her plight and to realize that her life may be the penalty for the mysterious murder in the Waltham laundry which startled the community last November.

WOMEN SENT TO JAIL

Judge Tells Suffragettes They Have Had Too Much Leniency

London, Nov. 26.—Twenty more suffragettes who were arrested during the night for smashing windows in the government offices, were sentenced in the Bow street police court each to two months in prison.

In pronouncing sentence Sir Albert de Rutzen, chief magistrate of the Metropolitan police courts, said: "You disorderly women have been treated with too much leniency in the past."

Asks Protection For Strikers

St. Louis, Nov. 26.—The American Federation of Labor last night adopted resolutions protesting to Governor Gilchrist of Florida against alleged mistreatment of union men in the Tampa cigarmakers' strike troubles, and demanding that the governor grant adequate protection to the strikers.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Roseate Geography Symbolizes Progress of a Great Movement—"The World's Most Eloquent Woman" Once More to Speak to Hubbites—Millionaire Frick's Famous Paintings to be Shown at Boston Museum of Fine Arts—A Scampering Squirrel in Crowded Copley Square—Boston's Model Street Railway Company Urges "Women First, Please."

The town, too, has its tragedies of wild life. The spectacle of a lost and lonely grey squirrel leaping across car tracks, dodgng teams and automobiles, and scampering in front of pedestrians, brought the hurrying passers-by in Copley square to a standstill one noontime recently. Where the little beggar came from was a mystery, for there are no trees within some distance of the Square, and it would have been a long trip for him from the Commonwealth avenue parkway. He was badly scared and vainly sought some leafy refuge, bringing up on the broad unsympathetic facade of the Public Library, darting back into the street, and hopping along the sidewalks in terrified leaps. The prevailing opinion was that someone had lured him into a capacious pocket while feeding the squirrels and doves on the Common or Public Garden, where they are extremely tame, and had succeeded in smuggling him thus far before he jumped from the anticipated stewpot into questionable refuge of the city's busy thoroughfare. When last seen he was hopping wearily along Dlagden Street toward the railroad yards. It is to be hoped that the person who caused his unhappy experience, if it was the work of a human being, heard some of the things that were said about him by the people who pityingly watched the squirrel in his wild endeavors to get back to his peaceful stamping ground.

Geography does not usually bloom with grace and beauty, but a big map of Massachusetts hanging on the wall in a downtown office has been made to look like a miniature rose garden. The map is in the headquarters of the field Secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League, and the "roses" are formed by red headed tacks indicating the agencies for this form of non-commercial insurance throughout the Commonwealth. An impressive display is naturally found in the vicinity of Whitman and Brockton, where the two insurance banks are located, and there is a very rosy hue to the topography around Lynn and Gloucester. The blossoms have quite overrun the territory around Boston, and are sticking their heads one above another. All through the state are clusters, including a recent addition of six tacks in the western part. All told there is not one mainland country but has within its borders the roseate emblem of thrift.

By publicly urging, "Women first, please," the Boston Elevated Railway Company is winning golden opinions from all who believe that haste is no excuse for hoodlumism. The day has long since passed when it was expected that as a matter of course a man would rise to give a standing woman his seat. Some don't—some do; and when a petticoated passenger is thus favored she has every reason for graciously thanking the gentleman for his consideration. Often times, it may be conseded the tired masculine breadwinner is quite justified in not yielding his vantage to a husky matinee girl. One notes to the credit of common humanity that an elderly or feeble woman does not usually ride far without getting a seat. But, from the standpoint of ordinary courtesy, there has been less excuse for the gradual deterioration of habits of ordinary decency in boarding cars. Over and over again the same scene is witnessed at Park Street station in the Subway at Dudley Street or Sullivan Square terminal. A dense crowd of men, a majority of them usually very young men, gathers where the doors of the oncoming car seem likely to be—the male mind is quicker than the female in sizing up this situation—and then, when the vehicle comes to a stop, scramble aboard with a wild rush grabbing all the seats in advance of the women who trail timidly behind. As a reminder to the thoughtless the request of the Elevated Company that women be given precedence has been placed in the cars and in conspicuous spots at stations. This is certainly an admirable effort on the part of a public service corporation through moral suasion to secure justice for all classes of its patrons. Courtesy cannot, of course, be absolutely enforced among the thousands of men who have formed the unfortunate habit of using the superior strength of their sex to obtain an unfair advantage. Neither is it humanly possible, one has been assured, at the rush hours, to get cars in and out of the congested business district fast enough so that everybody will have a seat. But at least the management, which so admirably instructs its conductors and motormen in civility and thoughtfulness, can admonish the traveling public of the complaints it has received and of its desire that those who use the cars shall also use moderation in grabbing for the best places in the cars. There is a touch of gallantry in the Elevated's championship of the women's cause to which more than one editorial writer has referred approvingly.

Boston Socialists are preparing their jubilee demonstration over the election in Milwaukee of the first Socialist candidate to the national House of Representatives. Whether or not one sympathizes with their whole propaganda one must admit that they have things to say that are worth turning out to hear. An interesting feature of the programme at their meeting will be the presence of Mrs. Philip Snowden who created such an impression when she spoke from the same platform about a year ago. At the big demonstration in Tremont Temple on Thursday evening, December 1, there will be the first opportunity of most Hubbites have had for hearing this remarkable English woman at a free meeting. It was expected that her gifted husband, the Hon. Philip Snowden, the "real father of the British budget" would also speak on this occasion, but a cable from Premier Asquith recalled him to the scene of political activities in England. The Socalist Party is in hopes to persuade Victor L. Berger, the socialist congressman-elect from Milwaukee, to be present. Whether they succeed or not, the presence of "the most eloquent woman orator living" in itself ensures a crowded hall. Her topic will be "Woman Suffrage in Great Britain."

Why go abroad to see famous masterpieces of art when during the first two weeks in December you can see an unusual number of the world's finest pictures at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. During the eventful fortnight, besides the regular exhibits in the galleries, visitors will have an opportunity to study the famous private collection of canvasses owned by Henry Clay Frick, the Pittsburgh millionaire, who for some years past has been a summer resident of the North Shore. This collection is one of the most valuable in America, and is considered by many connoisseurs to equal, except in size, that of J. Pierpont Morgan, which ranks with the great collections of the old world museums. Naturally the average attendance at the Museum will be multiplied many fold, both by residents of the city and by visitors from outlying districts to whom the fame of Mr. Frick's collection is familiar. This will be a good time for many New Englanders, who have not yet seen the inside of the attractive new museum, to devote half a day to study of the fine arts.

WHEN MR. MAY WENT SHOPPING.

Mr. May, large, fat, cheerful, had been shopping with his wife. They had spent the better part of a day at it, and reached the station just in time to catch the 5.40 train home. In the car Mrs. May found a friend, with whom she began to converse earnestly, leaving Mr. May to the friend's husband. He, too, had been shopping, as his armful of bundles testified.

"Don't you hate it?" he said to Mr. May.

"Hate what?" asked May, innocently, with no apparent worry on his face.

"Hate this shopping, I mean. But there's no reason why you should; you haven't been buying anything at all. I can't see," he looked his companion over, "that you have a single package. You haven't been shopping."

Mr. May threw back his head and laughed. "My dear, Tom," he said. "Mabel and I started in at 11 o'clock. We went to three furnishing stores, five department stores and one grocery shop—I know because I counted 'em. Three and five and one makes nine, doesn't it? Yes, I guess that's right.

"We had lunch at the fourth department store, if you can call a chicken sandwich the size of your watch a lunch. We talked to forty-one salesgirls, one of whom was a man—I counted those, too. And now you say I haven't been shopping."

"All I can say is," remarked the other, smiling, "that you weren't made into a pack-animal the way I was. Perhaps you had the stuff sent home?"

"Not a bit of it!" exclaimed Mr. May. "I've got it with me. Here it is."

He dived into one coat pocket ,then another, and finding nothing there struggled his way into his trousers pocket. Finally, on the left side, he got hold of what he wanted. A pull, and he had jerked forth a diminutive package, which he held up for Cooper to examine.

"There you are!" he said. "Nine stores and forty-one clerks, and this as a result!"

"What is it?" asked the other.

SUNDAY 12 TO 1—SHARP

Bethany Church, City Square

If YOU are a young man, and not associated with any other Quincy church, YOU are most cordially invited to come to our meeting.

A warm welcome—Hearty singing—A helpful hour together.

Perfectly Willing.

"Let me like a soldier die!"
He warbled like a cow,
But still he sang it lustily
And raised an awful row.
His auditors sat sadly by.
One of them murmured: "Wow!
Die any way you like, old top,
But do it now!"

—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Economy.

Mrs. Oldwed—Warmed over dishes reduce expense.

Mrs. Newwed—I know. I always buy twice as much porterhouse as we can eat, so we can have hash next day.—New York Sun.

Good Reason.

"He says he has never deceived his wife."

"He never has."

"He is one truthful man."

"Not particularly. He's just got that kind of a wife, that's all."—Houston Post.

ANOTHER TABLET IN QUINCY'S HALL OF FAME

Erected to Tutor Henry Flynt by the Quincy Historical Society

Addresses by Prof Barrett Wendell and Others

An interesting service was held by the Quincy Historical Society at the First Church Sunday morning, immediately following the regular church service, when the tablet recently placed to the memory of Rev. Henry Flynt, second pastor of the church, was unveiled with fitting ceremonies. There was a very large attendance at the unveiling, many coming from out of town. In the absence of Brook Adams, president of the Quincy Historical society, through whom the tablet was placed, Charles Francis Adams of Lincoln presided.

In opening, he referred to the sermon just delivered by Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, in which he had said he had resided in Quincy 15 years, and spoke of someone who had resided in Quincy for 200 years. It was seventeen years ago today that the speaker severed a connection with this town that had lasted for 250 years. Another recollection that came to his was that 58 years ago, that is the Sunday following Thanksgiving, he came from Boston with his father to look upon the tablet on his right that commemorates a man who died four generations before Henry Flynt. Today seems very appropriate therefore to unveil a tablet to one over a century in his grave when the tablet was unveiled 58 years ago. The death of Henry Flynt occurred in 1665, and is something to remind us what this community was, and that this church has held its own. He also spoke of the other tablets in the church, and hoped that the good work would be kept up and other tablets commemorative of good old names connected with this town and church would be erected. There were two he would mention. Ann Hutchinson and Lemuel Bryant. It was very appropriate these memorials should be on the walls. There was little of Quincy as the speaker knew it save this church, and we are here to commemorate the name of one who first as a teacher and then a minister for many years. To draw the veil from the tablet commemorative of Henry and Marjorie Flynt with their children.

The veil that covered the tablet was then drawn by Henry M. Faxon. It reads as follows:

PROF. WENDELL.

Mr. Adams then introduced Prof. Barrett Wendell. Prof. Wendell expressed his gratitude to the Quincy Historical society and also to Charles Francis Adams for the great interest they had taken. He said there was but little in the records about Henry Flynt except what Cotton Mather wrote of him. He writes that in life and action he was another John Cotton. He was like all the New England ministers, of his time, a great thinker. Of his sons as far as we can learn but one survived, Josiah Flynt. He followed in the footsteps of his father. He was talked of for the minister of this church but did not come here but was settled over a church in Dorchester. There he maintained to the full degree the dominant independence and orthodox character of his father. He had one daughter, the last of the name, who married Josiah Quincy. The speaker then spoke at length of the descendants and of the old families familiar to Quincy and New England history.

MORE TABLETS.

Mr. Adams then said that there were two more names which he thought tablets should commemorate in this church. They were John Hancock and Josiah Quincy, names familiar to all acquainted with Quincy. The Quincy family was a unique one for while most families descended from father to son, the Quincy family descended from Josiah to Josiah, and they descended from Henry Flynt. He therefore felt that an occasion like this would be incomplete if something was not said of that descendant of Henry Flynt. He would therefore ask the present representative of Josiah Flynt to say a few words.

EX-MAYOR QUINCY.

Josiah Quincy of Boston, formerly of Quincy was the gentleman referred to, and he spoke briefly. He said that he should be very ungrateful if he was not willing to add a few words of the relation of the Flynt family to the parish and the family that sprung from Henry Flynt. We have here in this church more memorials of the past than in any other church he knew of. First of all the two Presidents of the United States, also of other men prominent in Colonial periods, that were identified with this church and the early life of New England. If we add to these the tablets suggested we shall have a unique series of men connected with the past New England history.

No one can know of these old Colonial characters without being profoundly impressed with the sense of their convictions. Men ready to sacrifice all men hold dear for their convictions. In Colonial days those convictions took the form of theological belief. Now religion assumes a different life. It has passed through many epochs since the days of Henry Flynt, but religion has never ceased to play a prominent part in influencing hu-

LIMITATION OF ARMAMENT

Subject at Meeting of the Braintree Forum

The third meeting in the series known as the People's Forum was held in the assembly hall of All Soul's church, Braintree, Sunday afternoon at 3.30 before an interested audience. The speaker of the afternoon was Benjamin F. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace Society, who gave a most interesting talk on reasons why the United States should lead in the movement for the limitation and reduction of the armaments of the great nations of the world.

Mr. Trueblood spoke in a most informal but highly interesting way and held the close attention of his hearers throughout. He quoted some staggering figures and showed very conclusively that poverty could be abolished, the cause of education greatly advanced, and great upward strides made in all lines of endeavor if the money now expended for the maintenance and increase of armies and navies could be turned into more peaceful channels. He said that the aggregate war debt of the world is now $350,000,000,000, a sum so vast that if one had started at the year 1. A. D., to count, and had counted "one" every second, for twelve hours a day, that one hundred years more would be necessary to complete the count.

It was interesting to know that the world powers for the past 35 years have increased their appropriations for armament enormously and that in the United States the tax upon the people for military and naval expenses exclusive of pensions, amounts to $12 per year for each family, and that the average income of these families is less than $600 per year. The speaker gave several other startling statistics and proved conclusively that the arguments of the Peace Society are well founded, and are bound to bring satisfactory results within two or three years.

Mr. Trueblood is thoroughly opposed to the proposed fortification of the Panama canal, and thinks the big ditch would be much safer as neutral territory and with not a single gun to protect it. It seems that by international agreement no city, town, or port which is not fortified can be bombarded from the sea, and for this reason the speaker argued that the canal and in fact Boston or any of our large cities would be much safer with the forts dismantled. He ridiculed the idea of possible war with Japan, and showed clearly the great advantages of settling disputes by arbitration rather than by force of arms.

He gave a most interesting description of the peace conference at The Hague, and some of the proceedings before that famous tribunal.

As usual at the close of the meeting the speaker answered questions put to him by members of the audience relative to his subject and as he expressed it, some of them were "stickers."

Next Sunday afternoon Theodore C. Williams will speak on "Religious ideals in Education." Mr. Williams will be well remembered as master at the Hachley school of Tarrytown, N. Y., and also a former head master of the Roxbury Latin school. These meetings are a great success, and those who fail to attend them from week to week are losing a great opportunity for mental improvement.

BANQUET ON ANNIVERSARY

Employees of Boston Gear Works Have a Good Time

The first annual banquet of the office and shop force of the Boston Gear Works with their ladies was held Saturday evening at Union hall, on the anniversary of the burning of the plant a year ago which was Nov. 27, 1909. All remember that fire which destroyed one of Quincy's foremost manufacturing plants, and all remember how quickly the energetic proprietor, Frank Burgess, not discouraged by the great loss that had come to him, put his shoulder to the wheel, so that today another plant is located on the old site and giving employment to a large number of skilled mechanics. It is the intention of the employees of this plant to hold these yearly gatherings hereafter, and the date will be as near the anniversary of the fire as possible.

An air of pleasant informality prevailed at the gathering Saturday evening and served to cement more firmly the good feeling which exists between Mr. Burgess and his employees. The program included an appetizing banquet which was served at 6 o'clock, Mr. Burgess and other officials of the company occupying the seats of honor at the head table. The dinner over, A. H. Burgess was introduced as toastmaster. He called upon Frank Burgess, the proprietor, who spoke briefly of the work of the Boston Gear Works, and its plans for the future, also of the high regard in which the employees were held. Other brief remarks were made by Charles E. Crofoot, assistant superintendent A. Bissett, William Lee, Arthur Stowers and William Snow. By this time George B. Cutter of Somerville, the well known entertainer had arrived and he kept the party in constant bursts of laughter with his monologues, readings and songs. This closed the evening which had been one of pleasure to all.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

"The Final Settlement," a drama of today, will be the attraction at Quincy Music hall on Wednesday night, for one night only. This will be the first presentation of the play in this city. It is quite melo-dramatic, with a strong vein of good comedy. The story deals with the early struggles of a young foreman in one of the mills of a great iron corporation. Through an accident he is raised to the position of president of the corporation. His suddenly acquired wealth and position, and the allurements of life in the fast social set in which he moves, cause him to renounce the wife of his youthful struggles and privations and to seek companionship in the person of a beautiful actress, whom he believes better qualified for the exacting demands society would make upon the wife of a man of his exalted commercial position and wealth. His subsequent ruin and his final rescue at the hands of the wife of his youth, form the basis of the melodrama. The company presenting the play is a strong one,— is now playing the big city time, and the production is in every way qualified to give the theatre goer a good evening's entertainment.

BRIEFS

John J. Warner of this city is treasurer of the Samuel S. Vinal Company of Boston, dealers in cotton, wool, paper stock, fibres, etc., recently incorporated for $50,000.

The funeral of Mrs. Lester W. Cole was held Saturday from her late home, 56 Edison street. Services were conducted by Rev. C. P. Marshall. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

George W. Jones, the well known City Square business man, who has been confined to his home for several weeks by illness, is able to be out again.

The funeral of Mrs. John Balllie, formerly of Quincy, was held Sunday from her home, 14 Holbrook avenue, Neponset. Services were conducted by Rev. Dr. George W. Cutter. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery, Quincy.

PUBLIC DOCK IS RECOMMENDED

For Prosperity of the Granite Industry and for Yachting Generally

Report of Commissioner Crane to Mayor Shea

Frank Fessenden Crane the commissioner of waterways and navigation of Quincy, has just forwarded to Mayor Shea his annual report, which has valuable recommendations relative to a public dock, the Quincy Point bridge, the Fore river channel, etc. It is printed in full:

"As Commissioner of Waterfront, Waterways and Navigation under your appointment, I have the honor to submit the following report, dealing particularly with transportation by water as it affects business of the City of Quincy.

"There were received and shipped by water in the year 1908, 156,003 tons of 2,240 pounds; in 1909, 140,766 tons; in 1910 to November 1, 146,180 tons.

"The above amounts are exclusive of lumber, of which there was received at the Quincy wharves about 10,250,000 ft. of lumber per year. The distribution of tonnage received and shipped is shown in the following table made up for the year 1908, which is fairly representative:—

	Tons.
C. Patch & Son,	9,779
Fore River Shipbuilding Co.,	32,500
Old Colony Street Railway C.,	48,101
J. F. Sheppard & Sons,	26,097
Quincy Electric Light Co.,	2,526
Tide Water Broken Stone Co.,	30,000
Edw. Sandberg, wharf stone, etc.	7,000
	156,003

"This traffic was carried by an average of 500 vessels, in which the average draft of water is increasing.

"In accordance with your request, I have investigated the subject of establishing for the City of Quincy a public dock on the Weymouth Fore river, convenient to channel for receiving and shipping of merchandise. I find that the establishment of such a dock can be accomplished at reasonable expense and would, when in operation, serve to advantageously extend more especially the granite business of Quincy by enabling granite manufacturers to obtain a cheaper cost of transportation to markets, in which, under present circumstances, they are unable to compete. It would, in my opinion, be the greatest incentive to further industrial development in Quincy that the dock should be available for general use at a charge sufficient to cover the cost of maintenance.

"With reference particularly to the granite industry, it should be realized that the annual sales of granite from quarries in Quincy amount to $3,500,000.00 and about 98,730 tons. These quarries are all located within three miles of a deep water channel and while a considerable portion of delivery points of this granite is accessible by water transportation at much reduced rate of freight if it were conveniently accessible, it has been up to the present time wholly shipped by rail, indicating to me that the prosperity of this industry would be developed and increased by the establishment of a public dock as suggested by yourself.

"There is no doubt in my opinion that an investigation by the city of a public dock would be amply justified. I also suggest that the wide spread demand for a public landing for yachts and pleasure craft could be satisfied at a dock of this description at small additional expense.

QUINCY POINT BRIDGE.

"The Quincy Point draw has been opened for traffic back and forth for vessels passing through in 1907, 1048 times; in 1908, 1152 times; in 1909, 933 times; in 1910, up to November 18, 1388 times. At the present time the bridge piers, both center pier of the draw and the side piers, are in an unsafe condition from deterioration, and are in urgent need of repairs for the continued safe operation of the bridge, the approaches to the draw being practically destroyed from age and lack of repairs. These are necessary for the protection of the bridge from passing vessels and require entire re-construction.

"The draw is now opened by hand, requiring the constant attendance of two men, and the average time required for its opening or closing is 16 minutes, causing a considerable loss of time for the traffic over the bridge and unnecessary interruption to vessels over what could be acomplished by simple mechanical means. Extensive

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Stand still there. Though the prices of food are falling, they won't hit you hard enough to hurt you.

A day of lively bull fighting would do more to settle present difficulties in Mexico than anything else.

We are told, the New York sun has postponed changing its name to the New Nationalist.

The Chicargo Tribune and the New Work Mail are seeking a definition of exactly what a "man about town" it. Not infrequently he is a loafer whose room would be better than his company.

Those attending the morning service at First church Sunday had a sample of what services were in olden times when the hour glass was turned several times during the preacher's discourse. The dedication of the Henry Flynt tablet following the regular service made the service from two to three hours long.

A week from tomorrow the voters will be having their say as to who shall be the captain of the good ship Quincy for another year. There are two gentlemen seeking this honored position, and doubtless during the coming week each will put their claim before the public. Several rallies will probably be held in the interest of Mr. Hobbs the first of which is scheduled for Tuesday evening at Ward Three. The dates for other ralies have not however been announced. It is not known whether Mayor Shea will hold any rallies or not, but it is reported that at least one will be held, at which some of the arguments put forth at the rallies in the interest of Candidate Hobbs will be answered.

Aside from the interest in the two Mayoralty candidates, there are contests in several wards for Councilmen, and it is safe to say that each will put in a busy week in the interest of their own election. The most interesting of these contests is probably in Ward Six, where no less than seven gentlemen are seeking the three positions to be filled. At the present stage of the game it is impossible to foretell who will win out.

There are also some interesting contests for members of the School Committee, particularly in Wards Two and Three and friends of each are making a still hunt in the interest of their favorite, so that taking the election as a whole it will be one of the most interesting in the history of the city.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Early Christmas shopping for the sake of employees of the big stores has been taken up actively in Chicago by the Consumers League ,the Girls' Friendly Society and various college societies who declare that the strain incident to the holiday rush must be lessened. Already extra forces of clerks have been engaged and the regular Christmas delivery service inaugurated more than a month in advance of Christmas. This "shop-early" movement was considered by the national convention of the Girls' Friendly Society. Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, president of the Chicago branch, upon her return said: "If women realized the strain undergone by girls who serve them in the department stores during holiday-week and before they would begin immediately to do their buying. Moreover many articles can be purchased cheaper a month or so in advance than during the holiday week. Women who are interested in aiding the sales girls should not be satisfied when they have completed their own shopping early; they should call up their friends and point out to them the advantages all around in early buying and get them to do the same." Each year the total of holiday buying has mounted higher in the millions, the business of a few weeks reaching proportions as great as that of several ordinary months.

GRAHAME-WHITE BIPLANES.

Claude Grahame-White, who was the star at the Quincy Aviation meet, has placed an order for seven biplanes of a special type with the Burgess Company & Curtis, the Marblehead aeroplane makers, who are now engaged in turning them out. This is believed to be the first order placed in an American factory by a foreign aviator. It is said this is only the beginning of a much larger order.

The new aeroplanes are to be known as the "Grahame-White" type. They will be equipped with seven-cylinder Gnome motors imported from France, the machine used by Grahame-White at the Quincy meet.

It is thought to be Grahame-White's intention to sell these planes to his pupils in the United States. The contract calls for the delivery of the first three in February.

HE CAME DOWN LIGHT.

A Chicago board of trade man who was not in the habit of attending church was taking a walk one Sunday morning, and on coming to a church at the regular hour of service he decided to go in.

As he entered the auditorium in which the pews were adjusted upon a sloping floor an usher stepped forward, and, wishing to consult him as to location before conducting him to a sitting, politely inquired:

"Would you like to come down pretty well?"

Mistaking the inquiry to be an appeal for money, the board of trade man began to fumble through his pockets as he drawled:

"I'd like to, but I'm not prepared to come down very heavy, as 15 cents is all I have with me."—Harper's Magazine.

OLD TIMES.

F. S. Stanton

Old times were good times—they were sweet to know,
Old friends who loved us—friends whom we loved so;
Dreamin' of 'em always, here where Memory dwells,
They're like a sweet song's echo—a far-off chime of bells!

Old times were good times—sweet to see again,
Smilin' in the sunshine, tangled in the rain;
The old, the pleasant places, of meadows bright with dew,
The kind, the gentle faces alight with love for you!

Old times—we love 'em—here, in Memory's book,
Lookin' at a fellow like his sweetheart used to look!
Stay with us forever, dear times, so tender-bright,
Till the Evening bells are ringin' and memory sighs "Good-night!"

MISSED AT MEDDYBEMPS

A Tribute to "Charlie" Jenness Formerly of Quincy

It is said from time to time when an individual dies that a community shares a grief in common. It is seldom, perhaps, that such a statement means so much as when applied to the sudden death of Charles M. Jenness, which occurred last Tuesday says a writer from Meddybemps, Maine, to the Sunday Globe.

Mr. Jenness formerly was a resident of Quincy, Mass. He was the possessor of a considerabe estate. In the prime of life he was told by his physicians that he had an affection of the heart which made it imperative that he should drop all business responsibilities and live in the out of doors, carefree.

With Mrs. Jenness he came here, bought one of the largest islands on lake Meddybemps and lived there, not only in the summer when other city owners of islands make them their temporary homes, but in the winter, when with the snow and the ice and the driving storms life is a serious matter even to those bred to the country. These are conditions that try out the man.

Perhaps nothing could tell more of Mr. Jenness than that in a year from the time he came here he was "Charlie" Jenness to every man who knew him. And he was known from Calais to Eastport ,and back through the villages and camps of Washington county.

On his isalnd he had a home built of matched logs, with big low-ceiled rooms, fireplaces that would hold a good-sized section of tree trunk, shelves and racks for books, guns and rods, and everywhere objects of art, trophies of hunting trips and interesting odds and ends that he and Mrs. Jenness had gathered in travel. Here any traveler, by boat, canoe or snowshoes knew that he was welcome, not conventionally, but wholeheartedly.

Mr. Jenness, had, too, a genius for mechanics and his workshop near the island boat landing was stocked with the best and the most wide variety of tools for working in wood and iron. And what was his was anyone's who needed it.

A good six feet in height, broad of shoulder, lean and muscular seemingly as an athlete in training, there was nothing to suggest organic disease. Those who had heard of his original purpose in coming to Maine had forfogotten it. In the winter he had made trips on snowshoes that would exhaust most men, in the autumn storms he had brought his boat across lake Meddybemps when few cared to attempt the water.

The end came under circumstances that were characteristic. It had become necessary to reshingle the roof of the church of this village. Mr. Jenness promptly offered to "lend a hand." His method was not to give advice; he took a bundle of shingles and climbed the ladders to the scaffolding. He did this twice. The third time, just as he reached the top, his heart beat for the last time, and he fell to the ground.

His funeral took place in Boston Friday. Here in Washington county it is being realized only slowly that a man has really gone who in the lives of all who knew him held a larger place than that of those commonly known as "friend."

GREAT TERMINAL OPENS

Pennsylvania Road's Structure at New York Cost $100,000,000

New York, Nov. 28.—The new $100,000,000 terminal of the Pennsylvania railroad at Thirty-second street and Seventh avenue was opened to the public Sunday. Tens of thousands of visitors admired the features of the huge structure.

It is just eight years and forty-eight days since the franchise for tunnels under the North and East rivers was granted. It took nearly six years to erect the terminal building.

This new $100,000,000 structure takes the place of 500 buildings which were demolished. All tracks are underground and upon the various levels are housed sixteen miles of tracks.

What impresses one on a first visit to the station is the entire absence of smoke and dirt. Electric engines draw the trains in and out. Elaborate systems of electrically worked signals make accident as impossible as human ingenuity can approach.

Paroled Under New Law

Leavenworth, Kan., Nov. 28.—Rudolph Bailey of Washington, sentenced to prison for thirty years for assault, was the first convict to leave the federal prison here under the operation of the new parole law. The warden released him this morning.

DECEMBER MAGAZINES.

Suburban Life for December is a notable Christmas number, filled with entertaining articles, helpful suggestions, and choice illustrations. Among the well-known contributors are Annie Hamilton Donnell, the short-story writer, who has a charming holiday sketch entitled "The Christmas Baby" Helen R. Martin, author of "Tillie, the Mennonite Maid," who describes the Christmas Tree garden of the Pennsylvania Dutch; Enos A. Mills, author of "Wild Life in the Rockies," who contributes a characteristic western story; Mabel Osgood Wright, the author of "The Garden of a Commuter's Wife," and many other popular books, whose serial, "The Madness of Flower Hat,' comes to an end in this number; William Horatio Clarke, the famous organ instructor, who writes on "The Pipe-Organ in the Home;" and Charles E. White, Jr., the Chicago architect whose practical articles on house-building have won wide attention.

There is a Merry Christmas indeed with the December number of the Woman's Home Companion. The cover by Jessie Willcox Smith is one of the most beautiful of modern Madonnas and is a work of art in itself. "The Enchanted Chimney," a Christmas cantata, by Mary Theresa Hart, beautifully illustrated, and "A Christmas Conspiracy,' a one-act play by Anna Steese Richardson, will prove boons for those of us who are getting up Christmas entertainments. A charming song by Louise Ayers Garnett is a contribution to holiday music. As for fiction, timely stories are offered by such writers as Katharine Holland, Brown, Laura Spencer, Portor Marion Hill, Philip Verrill Mighels, and a new story by Mary E. Wilkins Freeman is begun in this number. "The Admiral's Niece" by Kate Douglas Wiggin and her collaborators is now well started. The practical side of the holidays is taken care of in hundreds of practical suggestions for presents, such as "Gifts From the Work-Bench" "Gifts in Painted China" "Binding books at Home," "The book plate as a Gift," "Trimming the Home Tree," etc.

Most of the important magazines get out especially fine Christmas numbers, and Lippincotts is no exception to the rule. The complete novel for December is "There Was Once a Queen," by Edith Robinson, author of "A Mock Caliph and His Wife." It is a brisk and actionful story, with its scenes laid in a small German principality, the hero being in the diplomatic service there. He falls in love shortly after his arrival, and is thereby led into strange adventures. There is a decided mystery in the plot, and it is doubtful if the reader will be able to solve it prematurely; but there is no doubt whatever that the story will be thoroughly enjoyed. As to the short-stories, it is safe to say that a more interesting collection has seldom, if ever, been gotten together in one magazine. John Reed Scott, author of "The Impostor," "The Colonel of the Red Huzzars," etc., contributes an immensely entertaining automobile story entitled "Mrs. Randolphs Nerve" Nevil G. Henshaw, who wrote "Aline of the Grand Woods," is responsible for "The Tree of His people," a Christmas tale of rare charm. Hulbert Footner's offering is "Laurie of the 'Plainsman,' " a newspaper yarn of Western Canada; Ella Middleton Tybout's, "Aides-de-Camp to Cupid;" Eleanor Mercein Kelly's, "The Givin'est Lady," a wholly delightful story of the South; Caroline Wood Morrison's, another Christmas narrative called "The Mother;" Olivia Howard Dunbar's, "The Willow Garland."

The leading article in the December McClure's is the second instalment of "Masters of Capital in America," by George Kibbe Turner and John Moody. This is the unparalleled story of the aggregation of J. J. Hill's empire railroad and of his alliance with Morgan. The third instalment of the "Working-Girls' Budgets," by Edith Wyatt and Sue Ainslie Clark, deals with the question of unskilled and seasonal factory workers, and gives the stories of individual workers. In "The Trial and Death of Ferrer" William Archer concludes his articles on the Ferrer case, giving a masterly analysis of the evidence brought against Ferrer, and describing his trial and execution. The fiction in the December number is unusually strong. Mrs. Humphry Ward's great novel, "The Case of Richard Meynell," heads the list. In this novel Robert Elsmere's wife, Catherine, appears after twenty years, and his daughter Mary is one of the chief characters in the story.

The leading place in The Engineering Magazine for December is given to a paper by Sylvester Baxter on the centralization of electric power supply in the State of Connecticut. So far, the principle of centralization has been applied only to transportation, but an application to all the demands for motive power that may possibly arise is in prospect. Mr. Baxter shows the results of the centralized control of the electric railway systems, and discusses the probable effects of further extension of the principle on the economic organization of the State.

Among the important illustrated features of this number may be mentioned Dr. A. Selwyn-Brown's review of the mineral resources and mining enterprises of the Japanese Empire of which the first instalment, here presented, deals with mining law, methods and machinery, and the production of copper and gold, and the first part of Rolin W. Hutchinson's discussion of the new era in electric illumination inaugurated by the introduction of metallic-filament lamps. An interesting series of recent photographs illustrates certain features of the Panama Canal work. Royce W. Gilbert shows how efficient factory ventilation is a profitable investment because of the increased efficiency of the workers, and J. A. Switzer demonstrates, with reference to the results of trials of steam-jet apparatus, the practical economy of smoke prevention. The number carries also the full Review of the Engineering Press and the Engineering Index.

Congressman Greene for Revial of Merchant Marine

Congressman Greene, was the principal speaker Saturday evening at the annual banquet of the Massachusetts Nautical Training School. He spoke in advocacy of a revival of the merchant marine of the United States, outlining various bills before congress having that object in view, and giving special attention and support to the bill of Congressman Humphrey of the state of Washington. He said in part:

"The United States has but 11 vessels in its foreign ocean-going trade, while England, with less than half our population, has 11,000 vessels, Germany over 2000 and Japan 1000. It is also deplorable that we handle less than 8 percent of our foreign commerce. The other 92 percent is carried for us by foreign ships. A large part of our own 8 percent is carried in the trade with Mexico and Canada.

"We are paying foreign shipping companies $300,000,000 annually for handling the nation's ocean business. We have so neglected our shipping that when the navy made its memorable world tour it was conducted by 27 colliers flying the flags of foreign nations. With powerful England and Germany ruling the Atlantic, aggressive Japan intent on the mastery of the Pacific, and America with practically no ships at all, is there not a condition here to make, a thoughtful American ponder deeply?

"Free ships and compensation, called by some subsidies, are provided for in the so-called Humphrey bill, introduced in the house of representatives at the special session on June 22, 1909, by Representative William E. Humphrey of the state of Washington. The bill was favorably reported and is now upon the house calendar. The measure is described as a bill 'to promote the American marine in foreign trade and the national defence and for other purposes.'

"The effect of the Humphrey bill is to permit American citizens to purchase vessels in any country they may choose and run them under the American flag. Every time a bill has come before congress providing assistance to American shipping, it has been opposed on the ground that it contained no 'free ship' clause which would allow for Americans buying their ships in the cheapest market and running them under the stars and stripes. This provision entirely removes this objection. The bill also provides for a change in tonnage taxes.

"There is a possibility of the bill known as the ocean mail bill, presented in the senate by Senator Gallinger at the last session, passing that body early in the coming session of the 61st congress. If that result should be attained I certainly hope that votes enough may be secured in the house of representatives to provide concurrent action by that body and thus some practical advantage in legislation in behalf of the American merchant marine may be obtained, if all other propositions suggested are refused consideration."

The congressman urged all friends of the merchant marine to use their influence on congressmen to get some sort of a beneficent bill adopted, as so many of the congressmen from the west seem to have no knowledge of the subject and no interest in it.

LODGE WILL BE SILENT

But His Friends Plan Taking the Stump In His Defense

Boston, Nov. 28.—While Senator Lodge will not take the stump in his own behalf, unless there is a change in the present plans, the stumping tour of the state to be made against him by Governor-elect Foss will, it is expected, be met by friends of the senator, who will address meetings at various places in the interest of the candidacy of Lodge.

It is admitted by his advisers that the project has been under discussion ever since Foss issued his command to the senator to get out of the field or be talked out. Plans will not be perfected until it is seen how much of a reception Foss gets on his whirlwind

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Mass Meeting for Missionary Exposition Called

All churches and religious organizations are requested to send reports of their Sunday services for the Monday Ledger. Copy should reach the office early in the morning. Each society should appoint a press correspondent.

A mass meeting of the stewards and workers of Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth, Milton, Hyde Park and Dorchester, for America's first great missionary exposition—"The World in Boston," will be held Tuesday evening Dec. 6, at the South Congregational church, Codman square, Dorchester. The speakers will be Rev. Arthur Little, Rev Charles M. Moss, Rev. R. B. Guild and Rev. P. M. Rhinlander.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

"A Thanksgiving after thought" was the subject of Rev. Dr. Hardy on Sunday morning.

Melville P. Hayward is taking the place of Walter E. Blanchard as superintendent of the senior department of the Bible school.

Ernest W. Branch, the superintendent of the Bible school, has issued a special appeal for funds for Bible school work, also for the annual Christmas celebration. A special offering will be taken in the school next Sunday.

The Christian Endeavorers enjoyed very much the talk of Daniel McKay of Boston on his work among prisoners.

At the evening service the choir was assisted by Miss Winnifred White and Miss Eva Steeves as soloists and a very pleasing musical program was given.

The Intermediate Christian Endeavor society will meet Tuesday evening with Miss Flora McPherson at Adams Shore. They go by the 6.45 car and return at 8.45.

Miss Trask of Boston will address the Woman's Missionary Society on Wednesday at 3 o'clock.

The Philathea class will give an entertainment this week.

FIRST UNIVERSALIST.

At the Universalist church on Sunday, Rev. Ernest H. Carritt preached a thoughtful sermon, taking for his subject "Unity of diversity." The regular quartet furnished the music.

The Dorcas society holds a special meeting Tuesday evening with Miss Florence Holton of Edwards street to make final preparations for their Colonial fair to be held next week.

On Wednesday evening a special parish meeting has been called for 8 o'clock in the church vestry.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet Thursday afternoon at 2.30 with Mrs. Arthur Merritt of Elm place.

QUINCY POINT CHURCH.

The usual services were held on Sunday at the Washington Street Congregational church.

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the newly organized Men's club will hold a meeting, and will have as guests the Men's club of Christ church. The speaker will be Superintendent of Streets Rourke of Boston who was recently at Panama and will speak of the Panama canal.

HALL PLACE M. E.

The Rev. Wesley Wiggin of the Wollaston M. E. church occupied the pulpit of the Hall Place M. E. church on Sunday in exchange with the pastor. He took for his text Hebrews 2:3,—"How shall we escape if we neglect so great salavtion."

In effect, Mr. Wiggins said we can never accurately count the cost of educating a child until we can realize every sacrifice on the part of the parents to make the child's education possible. So it is with the great sacrifice of Jesus Christ. We can never estimate the cost of redemption until we can realize every struggle of our Lord and Saviour, the suffering that made possible this salvation. But the results of this salvation justifies its cost, when we see the sinner transformed, through the power of God, and lifted from the lower level to the higher plane of living.

It was a very helpful sermon, with many inspiring thoughts and interesting illustrations and the people of the church were pleased to listen to one whom they have known in the larger field of work.

The atendance at the Sunday school was increased. Junior League was held at 3 P. M. Miss Lillian Johnston lead the devotional meeting of the Epworth League.

At the evening service, the pastor, Rev. Carl H. Raupach, took for his subject "Gifts and their benefits," using as his text "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift," 2 Cor. 9:15. During the sermon, illustrations of his thought were given by Miss May and Ada Williams in the singing of hymns, which expressed the meaning of the thought in connection with God's great gifts.

Prayer meeting will be held Friday at 7.30 P. M.

On Tuesday the Ladies Aid will meet in the small vestry.

NORWEGIAN SOCIETY.

Rev. Olof Jonsvold began his work on Sunday as pastor of the Norwegian Society which holds regular services every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel of Bethany church. A revival in the work is anticipated.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

From the text taken from Heb. 13:5 "Be content with such things as ye have," Rev. Carl G. Horst contrasted Sunday morning the ignoble contentment of the unambitious person who accepts things as he finds them and makes no effort at improving either the situation or himself, with the man who, while striving and aspiring and feeling a worthy unsatisfaction with himself, still maintains an attitude of patience toward the present and unavoidable ills of his environment.

Regulated ambition and honest longing are desirable and we may aspire without being jealous or discontented with the lot which we see may be bettered by noble and persistent struggle for the best. All positions and spheres have their limitations, no life is free from heavy cares and days of sadness, and in narrowest lot that is portioned him man may find possibilities for doing great work since it is there God has placed him. In looking to those who have more than ourselves we find our greatest cause for discontent; and many people, otherwise greatly blessed, are made miserable by over estimating the seeming prosperity of others.

Let us not forget the hearts that have been with us in our joy and our sorrow, the hands that have been outstretched to us in companionship and love.

Let a great desire for improvement go hand in hand with deep contentment, and thankfulness for blessings enjoyed. The difference between unsatisfaction and dissatisfaction is as wide as the difference between heaven and earth.

The Y. P. R. U. attended the semi-annual meeting of the Boston Federation of Young People's Religious Unions, which was held Sunday at the First Parish church of Brighton with sessions at 4 and 7 P. M. At the evening meeting the Rev. Joseph H. Crooker, D. D., of Roslindale gave an inspiring address.

The Unitarians join with other churches of Wollaston in a No-License rally at the Congregational church Sunday evening, Dec. 4. All men in the church who can sing are invited to join a chorus, which meets for rehearsal at the Congregational church Sunday, Dec. 4, at 4 P. M.

The new electric lights for the purpose of lighting up the chancel on a cloudy day and the new electric pulpit lamp are most welcomed improvements.

The Unitarian Church Helpers will meet with Mrs. C. G. Horst, 67 Winthrop avenue, Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 29.

Special music will be provided for the stereopticon lecture on the Passion play.

Rev. Carl G. Horst attended today the monthly meeting of the Boston Ministerial Union. At 10.30 the Rev. W. A. Wood, West Upton spoke on "The reconstruction of the Fifth commandment" and after the luncheon President David Starr Jordan of California delivered an inspiring address upon "War and Manhood."

Unitarian League of Wollaston met as usual at the close of the morning service of worship for the consideration and discussion of "The church and social service." The object of this forum is the untrammelled discussion of the burning questions of today. All men are invited.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst are at home to receive callers Monday evenings.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. David T. Whiton, 214 Arlington street, this evening.

The Dutch Kirmess will be held the latter part of the week.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

Both the morning and evening services at the Swedish Baptist church were well attended Sunday. A Sunday School service was held at 9.30 and was followed at 10.30 by the regular morning service. There was also a service at 7.30 in the evening. The pastor, Rev. A. P. Hanson, preached at both of these services.

Y. M. C. A. SERVICE.

The Sunday afternoon meeting at the Y. M. C. A. for older boys, that is, from 14 to 18 years of age, was well attended, fully sixty boys being present. The speaker was Theophilus King and his topic was "Visions." His talk was an interesting one, and contained much food for thougat.

ZAMPINE--SPERA WEDDING

Quincy Man Goes to Braintree For a Wife

A wedding of much interest to the Italians of this vicinity was solemnized Sunday afternoon when Miss Julia Alpena Spera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Spera of King Hill road South Braintree, was united in marriage to Mr. Felice Zampine, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zampine of Quincy. The ceremony was performed at the St. Francis church, South Braintree at 2 o'clock by Rev. M. F. McDonnell, pastor of the church.

The bride was attired in white china silk, and was atended by Mrs. Mary Cameron, Matron of honor, while Mr. Joseph Moscato of Quincy officiated as best man.

Immediately after the wedding, a reception was held at the bride's home from 4 o'clock until 10. The happy couple were showered with gifts and the house was all too small to hold the many relatives and friends of both families who had come to greet the newlyweds.

A variety of refreshments were served and music was furnished by a stringed orchestra from Quincy, and by the Ferry street quartette, from Boston: Louis L. Malinara, Charles Plance, Louis Plance and Fred Sheffi. This quartette which gave some very fine selections is managed by Bennie Burke and John Furmingo.

The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Spera, the bride's parents. After a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Spera at their residence on King Hill road, the newly married couple will go to their new home in Quincy, where Mr. Zampine has a fine position. Guests were Present from Boston, Quincy, Marlboro, Braintree, Randolph and other places.

ANOTHER TABLET

man life. The present belief has risen out of the past. The inspiration must be the same old Colonial theology.

Early New England worked out its own history and laid the foundation for what we have. We live today in a civilization that if they came back they would not recognize, as they knew it in the time of Henry Flynt. If we trace back history we can not fail to see those traits of character and force that have given to New England her enduring history. We have merely raised the superstructure of the foundation laid in those early days of which Henry Flynt was associated.

So we today add one more endearing link that binds the present with the past. Looking back eight generations that separated him from Henry Flynt and nine generations that separated him from the ancestor of Henry Flynt, he felt we are commemorating something that is worth commemorating. We know much of what his connection with this church meant, and in commemorating it, we not merely commemorate a personality of which we know little, but type of character we can not forget.

The service closed with singing a hymn of H. W. Lunt, a former pastor of the church, and benediction by Rev. Mr. Butler.

—A contractor who has a pair of horses that have been in almost continuous service for 20 years relates the following story in the World's Chronicle: "A few years ago I decided that this team had earned retirement to an old age of comfort on the farm, and shipped them out to the country. Naturally, I expected to see them grow fat and sleek, with no work to do, and the best of stock-farm fare. But what was my surprise to note that instead of gaining they lost weight and rapidly went down hill. After some weeks of watching, my farm boss decided that the horses were actually pining for their daily work to which they had been so many years accustomed. We brought them back and put them at light work. They are fat and hearty, one 25 and the other 26 years old. My bookkeeper figures that those two old greys have done $10,000 worth of work for us since we tried to retire them." Horses, like men, will do more for the kind driver than for him who plies whip and spur. It pays to be kind to the man who does your work, and it pays to be kind to your horse.—Our Dumb Animals.

WHY NOT THIS?

Tibet Headdress Might Be Adapted to American Styles.

THE PAGOH, HEADDRESS WORN IN TIBET.

Take off the pigtails and this headdress worn by the upper class women of Tibet might adorn the pretty head of America's upper tendom. Indeed, it is not as outre as many of the hats of the day that are considered "perfect dears."

And as for expense, it lines right up with the most exclusive winter models, the price being practically fifteen hundred of our dollars.

This costly piece of Tibetan headgear is interwoven with the wearer's hair and is ornamented with many turquoises, corals and small pearls. The decorations can be easily removed. It is worn only by women who are purely Tibetan and have not married Nepalese. In other words, it is as "classy" as a Georgette or Cartier French model. American millinery artists please take notice of the "lines" and profit thereby when genius takes another eccentric chapeau flight.

A New Negligee.

For the woman who likes red and is fond of adding eccentric garments to her wardrobe comes the chanticleer negligee jacket—a gorgeous affair in cockscomb red satin. Lace medallions are used as a border trimming, and feathered rooster heads of startlingly realistic aspect ornament the edges of the sleeves and form a corsage adornment. The chanticleer craze dies hard, and this aftermath expression of the rooster fad is certainly a strange one.

THE CHANTICLEER DRESSING SACK.

Suit Case Polish.

Some persons are surprised when they go to pack their suit cases for a journey to find them shabby or spotted, the leather dry and cracked or covered with greenish mold. They have been stored away either too near furnaces and steam pipes or in damp cellars.

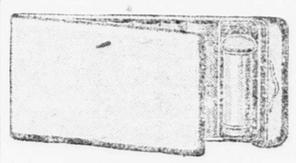

All leather goods, chair seats, book covers, traveling bags, etc., must have consideration if they are to retain a fresh, attractive appearance. Shoes are preserved by the dressing on the leather. Book covers of leather or calf which are beginning to grow dry and brittle should be rubbed with a very small quantity of vaseline. If merely shabby and spotted they should be rubbed with well beaten white of egg, as should chair seats and all other leather articles, with the exception of sole leather suit cases, which are best cleaned by using ordinary russet shoe polish.

New Employment For Women.

A new employment for women which is most profitable is that of entertaining invalids. A young woman student in one of the larger cities found that there was an opening for some one who could play games with persons recovering from illness, and the demand was so great that all her spare time was occupied in this manner. Chess and checkers were much in demand with women as well as men. Tact must be used to know when to win a game and when not to, for the game must have all the appearance of a close contest.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR SWEETHEARTS

It is always much easier to choose an acceptable present for a woman than for a man, the needs of the sterner sex being more limited and practical utility being favored rather than mere decorativeness in all those things of which they are prepared to make use with any pretense of pleasure. The man who smokes will be genuinely pleased if some one presents him this Christmas with one of the new tobacco cases in whose silver shelter fourteen little cartridges of the fragrant and favorite weed are compactly stowed away and accompanied by a filler which, without any of the usual trouble or untidiness, adjusts the contents of the beloved pipe.

CONVENIENT TOBACCO CASE.

"For the automobilist or for the man who travels—indeed, for the smoker everywhere—this little gift is just the thing he'll want.

When Gift Hunting.

For the exquisite, the book lover and the traveler in one, whether man or woman, a gift par excellence would be a beautiful book rack of rare wood with much fine inlaid work, which comes from Florence. Birds and scrolls in intricate designs are deftly shown in woods of varying hues. For the man or woman bridge fiend there are bridge score pads supplied with covers of Chinese embroidery. Belt pins and buckles are welcome offerings.

Give Her a Placque.

If you give your best girl a pendant she will be charmed, but should you select the latest ornament from gay

LA PLACQUE, THE NEW ORNAMENT.

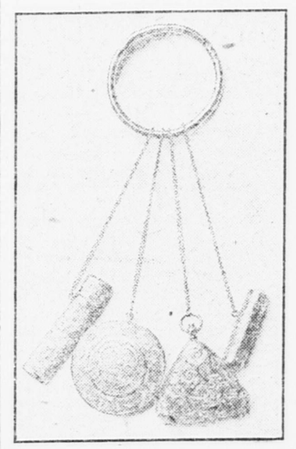

Paree, "la placque," she will love you better than ever, for it's the smartest thing we've had in jewelry for many moons.

This novelty is a round medallion about the size of a silver dollar and is of platinum or silver, but never of gold. Pearls, gold or colored stones are incrusted on the surface, and delightful color combinations are secured by enamels.

The little ornament is worn around the neck suspended on a fine gold chain or a narrow velvet ribbon with jeweled slides.

The Smart Vanity Set.

All girls like dangling trinkets, and here's an invention that is both swagger and convenient. It consists of a number of toilet accessories made of solid gold or silver dangling from a bracelet. In the set pictured the articles reading from left to right are lip salve holder, coin purse, powder box and eyebrow pencil. To these is sometimes added for the very up to date girl a cigarette case, with, of course, a tiny receptacle for matches. These sets won't do for the nervous woman, for their jangling and tinkling are very pronounced as the wearer walks.

The Walking Stick In Again.

There are years when the walking stick is not carried by men, but this is not an off season, so why not buy the man a stunning stick of meerschaum wood with the ever popular straight handle tipped with silver on which the monogram of the prospective owner is engraved?

PEANUTS.

Peanuts are one of the most popular luxuries among the food stuffs. Buttered pop corn and pop corn brittle and ice cream cones, have come very strongly into favor the past two summer seasons, but the peanut stand still holds its place and peanut lovers buy the hot roasted goobers and crack them and try them and eat them.

Peanuts are more popular in the summer time than even chocolates. There are a good many persons who would rather have a bag of peanuts than a box of chocolates each Saturday night, despite the popularity of Saturday night chocolates. The improvements in the methods of roasting, salting and distributing peanuts is leading to a large increase in their sale, and it is quite possible that this increase in the sale of the cheap goobers is at the expense of high-priced candies.

It is expected that more than 20,000,000 bushels of peanuts will be marketed this year. They will be worth more than $10,000,000. The peanut lover, who spends his nickel for a bag of the celebrated double-jointed Dewey peanuts cannot grasp how great is this annual production of peanuts.

Peanuts are, it is said, a native of South American countries. They are now raised in warm countries all over the world. When the domestic crop is short, Spanish, South American, African, Chinese or other peanuts may be imported. The growers of peanuts are constantly improving the quality of their crop, just as are the growers of corn. Potatoes and other vegetables. There seems to be some doubt, however, as to whether it is best to raise big double-jointed peanuts, with three or four nuts in each pod, or small nuts, with two well shaped and firm nuts in each pod, that may be roasted to good advantage, because they do not break easily.

The sale of salted peanuts has increased rapidly the last few years, because of improvements in methods of salting and of distributing them. The peanut man now use machinery for removing the shells from the nuts, and salt them baskels at a time. Their product ranges from the fancy brands of salted peanuts that are sold in sealed boxes, down to the common brands that are sold in the penny-in-the-slot machine. The automatic vendor, by the way, has led to a considerable increase in the sale of peanuts.

Peanut butter and peanut oil are by-products of the peanut raising industry that have come into common use in the past few years. Many stores deal in them. Their sales have increased since the pure food laws were enacted. It is now unlawful to adulterate peanut butter with glycerine and meal or to sell peanut oil as olive oil. People are satisfied with genuine peanut butter and genuine peanut oil, and are using them. There are some persons who cannot eat peanuts in any form. But the real peanut lover considers peanuts not only a pleasing food, but, a cheap and nourishing food, that may be freely indulged in to the benefit of the mind, as well as of the body.—Salem Evening News.

REPORTED AN ESCAPE.

One day a tall, gaunt woman, with rope-colored hair, and an expression of great fierceness, strode into the office of a county clerk in West Virginia.

"You air the person that keeps the marriage books, ain't ye?" she demanded.

"What book do you wish to see, madam?" asked the polite clerk.

"Kin you find out if Jim Jones was married?"

Search of the records disclosed the name of James Jones, for whose marriage a license had been issued two years before.

"Married Elizabeth Mott, didn't he?" asked the woman.

"The license was isued for a marriage with Miss Elizabeth Mott."

"Well, young man, I'm Elizabeth. I thought I oughter come in an' tell you that Jim has escaped!"

QUIETLY AT HOME.

Enforced sobriety is one of the measures by which practical temperance is being forwarded. A great reform is going on quietly in all the industrial establishments and railway systems of the country. Not only are men tested for color blindness and for defects of vision and perception, but they are also brought under rules which affect their trustworthiness in their daily duties and in cases of emergency. Some railroads now discharge men who are known to drink, gamble, and visit disreputable resorts. There has been a general cleaning up of ideas in all athletic associations, because it is seen that normal conditions of health are essential to the performance of feats which require skill and alacrity. No gentleman is now respected even by "good fellows" if he allows himself to be overcome with drink at a public festivity. The statistics in regard to the consumption of alcoholic drinks do not in any way give the measure of good or bad behavior among people at large.—The Christian Register.

A BLOW ARRESTED.

An organist, who on the eve of a festival was taken suddenly ill, secured a deputy to take his place.

The deputy, on the authority of the St. James Budget, was a gentleman who played a very full organ, playing full chords where the principal played only single notes, and consequently using a much larger quantity of wind.

When about three parts through with the "Hallelujah Chorus" the wind suddenly gave out. Going round to the back of the organ to ascertain the reason, the deputy found the blower in the act of putting on his coat preparatory to going home.

"What do you mean by such behavior?" the deputy angrily expostulated.

"Look here, sir," the blower returned, with warmth, "if you think I don't know 'ow many puffs it takes to blow 'the 'Allelujah Chorus' you make a big mistike!"

A certain wealthy man has a brother who is hard of hearing, while he himself is remarkable for his very prominent nose. One evening, dining at a friend's house, he found himself between two ladies who talked to him very loudly, much to his annoyance. Finally, one of them shouted a commonplace remark, and then said in an ordinary to the other:

"Did you ever see such a nose in your life?"

"Pardon me, ladies," said the wealthy man, "it is my brother who is deaf."—Tit Bits.

BRIEFS

No City Council meeting this week.

On Dec. 8 the sun will rise at 7 o'clock.

Wednesday will be the last day of November.

Mrs. W. E. Blanchard has been confined to her bed since moving to Sherborn a fortnight ago.

Thomas Burke of Willard street, who has spent the past three weeks at his home returned today to Washington, D. C.

"A law-abiding citizen," who writes a letter to the Daily Ledger for publication, violates the law by sending an anonymous leter.

William Williams who spent Thanksgiving at the home of his parents, West Quincy returned to Stafford Springs on Sunday.

Miss Tyler of the City Treasurers office was among those to witness the great football game between the Army and Navy on Saturday.

Oscar Blaisdell has purchased the news business and store of Fred G. Benson in the Bates block at Whitman, taking possession Dec. 1.

The Daily Ledger will issue the latter part of the week an edition of over 7000 papers. If the advertising agent has not called upon you, please forward your advertisement today.

From the advance sale of tickets for the grand concert at Alpha hall tonight, under the auspices of Quincy council Knights of Columbus, there will be a large attendance. The concert promises to be a most excellent one, and as the object is to aid the tuberculosis camp, it is deserving of a large patronage.

Federation of Labor Names Old Officers by Unanimous Vote

St. Louis, Nov. 28.—The American Federation of Labor closed its thirtieth annual convention by choosing Atlanta as its meeting place for next year and re-electing President Gompers and all its old officers by unanimous vote.

The convention indorsed woman suffrage, and placed itself on record as favoring the organization of all classes of labor in this country, including negroes.

Some of the Pacific coast delegates objected to the proposition to include the Asiatic races, and it was suggested that the remedy was the exclusion of orientals from the United States.

NEARLY A THOUSAND DEER BROUGHT DOWN

Many Wounded Animals Now In Woods of Massachusetts

Boston, Nov. 28.—Conservative estimates of the total number of deer killed in the six days open season in five Massachusetts counties indicate that not far from 1000 were bowled over by guns of the hunters.

A remarkable feature of the open season, which began Monday morning and ended at sunset Saturday night, is that not a hunter among the thousands who roamed through the woods lost his life.

Reports from the sections where deer were hunted indicate that many wounded animals escaped and are now dying or suffering in the woods. Reports also indicate that the deer in the five counties concerned have by no means been exterminated.

SEVENTY-NINE ARRESTS

Police Break In Alleged Gambling House With Axes and Crowbars

New York, Nov. 28.—The biggest raid on an alleged gambling house that New York has seen in many days was led by Deputy Commissioner Driscoll in person against a so-called social club in East Forty-second street. Seventy-nine prisoners were taken.

It took ten minutes' hard work with axes and crowbars to batter down a huge door that barred entrance to the rooms. One lone detective, who had gained access as a club member, was roughly handled by the crowd inside when he tried to protect evidence from destruction.

Seventy-three of the arrests were made for refusal by the men in the rooms to aid the detective when he called for assistance. The other six prisoners were charged with gambling.

EIGHTY HURT IN RIOTS

Redmond and O'Brien Followers Clash In Campaign In Cork

Dublin, Nov. 28.—William Redmond's campaign in Cork against William O'Brien has led to serious rioting by the rival factions. Several persons were injured there Saturday night and others last night.

When a Redmondite procession tried to march through an O'Brienite quarter of the city, police blocked their way. Fights occurred on all hands and about eighty persons were injured.

It is said that O'Brien has $125,000 at his command, and will contest twenty-four seats, he himself contesting the constituencies of Cork City, East Cork and West Mayo.

Man Blinded by Jealous Girl

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 28.—J. V. Mullen was blinded in the street in Piedmont by Miss F. Fallon, who threw carbolic acid in his face. His sight is destroyed and his face is severely burned. Miss Fallon was arrested. She was jealous of the attention paid by Mullen to other girls at a ball.

TAFTS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Success or Failure of Short Session Rests Upon It

WILL NOT WITHDRAW PROGRAM

Compelled to Alter Plans, However, Because of Democratic Control of House—Unlikely to Insist on Action on Tariff at Present—Several Important Measures to Be Pressed During Next Three Months

Washington, Nov. 28.—President Taft, it is said, is in doubt as to what course to pursue as regards tariff action in his executive message. The chances are he will not insist on action during the approaching session of congress.

It is thought that he will offer to the Democratic house and the Republican senate, a year hence, a program for tariff revision which will be bolstered up with facts and figures gathered in the meantime by the tariff board.

When congress meets a week from today it will have just three months in which to perform whatever may be the demands of a Republican administration. After that the fate of the Taft legislative program will depend upon the will of a Democratic house and a Republican senate, a condition which will continue until the end of President Taft's present term of office.

Confronted with a situation full of confusion, the success or failure of the approaching short session of the Sixty-first congress is believed to rest with the character of the executive message to be sent to the legislative bodies, according to Republican party leaders who are now in the city.

Many of the regular Republicans who were defeated in the recent elections are not expected to accept with the best of grace the blows so harshly administered, and this fact will cut out for the president a task far more difficult and complex than any that has been presented to an executive within a score of years.

Realizing that he will be criticised if he fails to demand of congress further revision of the tariff—and fully cognizant of the fact that the prospects would be all against the success of such a program if sumbitted, the president, it is said, has not made up his mind definitely what his course will be.

Personally the president has made it clear that he does not purpose to withdraw any part of his program, although compelled to alter his plans somewhat, just because the Democrats are about to come into control of the house of representatives.

Within the short session which begins next week fourteen regular appropriation bills, carrying an aggregate of a billion dollars or more, must be passed. Otherwise there would be necessity for an extra session next spring. The result of such a session would be to bring the Democrats face to face with the necessity of doing something nine months in advance of the time they would ordinarily be called upon to assume responsibility. For many reasons neither Democrats nor Republicans want to precipitate this situation and it will be avoided if possible. As far as appropriation bills are concerned, it is not believed there will be lack of co-operation to facilitate their passage.

There is some sympathy among Democrats with the president's plan for a federal incorporation act and for the modification of the laws relating to injunctions and trusts. All these questions are complicated, however.

Among the measures to be pressed are those providing for the fortification of the Panama canal, and this, it is conceded, will provoke controversy; the amendment of the postal laws so as to provide for a parcels post along rural delivery routes, and for increased postage on the advertising portions of magazines; the granting of ship subsidies; the pensioning of superannuated employes of the civil service; the creation of a public land court, and the establishment of forest reservations in the White mountains in the north and in the Appalachians in the south. Opposition to the naval program for the annual addition of two battleships to the navy may be expected, but it probably will not be effective in the approaching session.

DALTON'S KICK BEATS ARMY

Seventh Attempt at Goal From Placement Wins Football Game

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—Standing on the Army's 30-yard line in the last period of the big football match, Dalton, the Navy's half-back, kicked a goal from placement, which was the only score of the contest, and disposed of the West Point eleven unexpectedly, by 3 to 0.

Dalton had previously attempted six goal trials without success, so that when he shot the oval squarely between the posts and above the crossbars the blue and gold enthusiasts indulged in wild demonstrations of unbridled joy.

Having beaten Yale early in the season, and having held Harvard to six points, the Army players were generally expected to carry the day. But it was clearly demonstrated that they were lacking in cool-headed judgment and became evidently rattled at the most critical points.

SUES FOR $45,000 FOR BLIGHTED LOVE

Detroit Girl Holds an Alleged Contract For Marriage

Uxbridge, Mass., Nov. 28.—Carl G. Hockett, a former Worcester Technology student, who last September was married to Miss Laura Moore of this town, has been made defendant in a breach of promise suit asking for $45,000 damages, brought by Louis M. Hazard, a Detroit "hello" girl.

An alleged contract to marry, dated July 3, 1909, is Miss Hazard's chief exhibit in the case. Other exhibits the Hazard girl has to substantiate her claim are given by her as the diamond ring, which she still wears per contract, his Alpha Tau Omega fraternity pin, and a tuft of hair, cut from his head and labeled, and wrapped in a cigaret paper.

Hockett denied at first ever having heard of Miss Hazard. He finally remembered that he knew her "by sight." Asked about the contract, he said:

"I was in Detroit last summer, but I don't know as I was there July 3. If I did make a contract it wasn't legal, because I was under age then."

MORAN KNOCKS OUT NELSON

Takes Eleven Rounds to Dispose of the "Durable Dane"

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Battling Nelson will no longer menace the lightweight belt. For the first time in his fighting career the "Durable Dane," a shell of the once great pugilist, was knocked out beyond all dispute. Owen Moran of Birmingham, Eng., did the feat.

Moran knocked Nelson out in the eleventh round of a scheduled twenty-round event, his victory being clean and leaving no room for argument as to his complete mastery over the one-time champion. But he was compelled to drop Nelson five times in this round, for, despite the force of the Briton's right hand punches on the point of the chin, the wonderful fighting spirit of the Dane was ever present.

NIGHTMARE HAS PASSED

Brazil Gets Possession of Warships and Now Feels Easier

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 28.—The city awoke Sunday morning with a feeling of inexpressible relief. The warships of the fleet were again in the hands of the government, which Saturday evening sent officers to take command.

Trains from the interior brought back families which had fled in fear of the bombardment of the mutineers, and the newspapers rejoice that the people had been delivered from what they term a nightmare.

BODIES RAIN FROM FACTORY

Twenty-Four Girls Lose Their Lives In Newark Horror

NO ESCAPE BY STAIRWAYS

Rush of Flames So Swift That Narrow Fire Escapes Become Dancing Hot—Many Dashed to Pavement Sixty Feet Below as Girls Scurry Like Rats From Burning Bin—Delay In Sounding Fire Alarm

Newark, N. J., Nov. 28.—Only one unidentified body remains in the morgue here, only one employe of the Wolf Manufacturing company is still missing, and it now seems that the first estimate of the death list from the great factory fire will stand at twenty-four.

The girls were burned alive or crushed to death on the pavement in leaping from the windws and fire-escapes of the four-story brick factory at the corner of Orange and High streets. Forty-nine were taken to hospitals, of whom two may die.

The rush of the flames was so swift and threw such terror into the huddled working girls on the top story that the body of one was found still seated on a charred stool beside the machine at which she had been busy when the first cry of "Fire" frightened her.

The building was very inflammable, and the first gush of flames cut off all possibility of escape by the stairways. The elevator made one trip, but took down no passengers and never came back. The only exit was by two narrow fire-escapes, the lower patforms of which were twenty-five feet from the street. To these overcrowded, scorched and steep lanes pressed forward a mob of women, blind with panic, driven by the fire and the others behind them. A net was spread beneath the windows, and the girls began to jump.

"Like rats out of a burning bin," was the way a fireman described that pell-mell descent. Some of them were dashed off the fire-escape to the pavement sixty feet below. Others stood in the windows outlined against the flames and jumped clear; others leaped from the landings; still others from the steps where they stood. The air was full of them, and they fell everywhere—into the net, on the firemen, and fifteen of them on the stone slabs. When the rain of bodies ceased there were eight dead in the street, and the gutters ran red. Others died in the hospitals.

Thousands flocked to the fire and made the work of the firemen and police more difficult. Silk workers fell in the street and prayed. Priests and clergymen worked their way through the press to give the last consolations. Ambulances and automobiles, commandeered for emergency service, were hurrying in opposite streams to the hospitals and back again.

The building was a four-story brick structure, occupied on the two lower floors by the Newark Paper Box Company and the A. A. Drake Paper Box company; on the third floor, where the fire started, by the Anchor Lamp company and the Aetna Electric company, and on the top floor, where the death list ran heaviest, by the Wolf Manufacturing company, makers of underwear. The wooden floors were soaked with oil drippings from the machines, and the flames ate through them like pasteboard. When they warped and weakened the weight of the machinery tore them from the walls, and they fell into the basement in a tangle of hot iron and mangled humanity.

Sadie Benson, an employe of the Aetna Electric company, was cleaning an electric light fixture in a gasolene bath. The gasolene took fire—she does not know how—and trickled in a little rivulet of flame to the floor, where there was a full can of gasolene. The can exploded, and the burning liquid flew far and wide.

Lewis Coxe, an employe of the box factory on the second floor, was standing in the hallway at the time of the explosion. The shock was strong enough, he says, to hurl him against the wall, but the girls up stairs at their whirring sewing machines heard nothing.

Fire Chief Ashley laid the responsibility for loss of life to delay in turning in an alarm. He says that five minutes were lost in trying to fight the blazing gasolene with sand in a barrel. "If those precious minutes had not been wasted," he almost sobbed, "we should not have lost one single life."

Frederick Weimar, chief inspector of the public prosecutor's office, is making an investigation to determine the responsibility of the tenants and owners.

SURRENDERS TO POLICE

Goodwin Claims That He Killed Gallaway In Self Defense

Danvers, Mass., Nov. 28.—Chester M. Goodwin, who shot Bertram W. Gallaway to death Friday night, walked into the Danvers police station last night and gave himself up.

After he had been locked up Goodwin is said by the police to have made a complete confession. He claimed he had shot Gallaway in self defense.

Goodwin said that Gallaway had become jealous of his attentions to Mrs. Gallaway and when he interfered between them to save Mrs. Gallaway from a beating Gallaway threatened to throw him out of the house and started to carry out his threat.

Goodwin said he had spent the two nights since Gallaway's death in the Topsfield woods, about four miles from here. He had saved himself from starving by eating barberries and frozen apples.

He will be arraigned for a preliminary hearing today in the Salem district court.

MICHAEL CUDAHY DEAD

Founder of One of Largest Packing Concerns In the Country

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Michael Cudahy, founder of the packing firm bearing his name, died here last night of pneumonia. He had been ill for five days.

Mr. Cudahy was born in Ireland, Dec. 7, 1841. He came to the United States with his parents in 1849, and the family settled in Milwaukee.

When a boy of 15 he became an employe in a Milwaukee packing house. He attracted the attention of the late P. D. Armour, and at Armour's solicitation came to Chicago.

In 1873 he was made a partner in the firm of Armour & Co., and continued in this connection until 1890, when he aided in organizing the Cudahy Packing company of which he was made president. His brothers, Joseph and Patrick, were associated with him.

PUBLIC EXCLUDED AT LE BLANC TRIAL

Courtroom Reserved For Venire Until Jury Is Selected

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 28.—Today in the East Cambridge criminal court, where many men and women have faced a struggle for life with the grim specter of death hovering ever close, a 16-year-old girl, the youngest in the six New England states ever charged with first degree murder, faced the bar of justice.

Hattie LeBlanc, charged with shooting Clarence F. Glover of Waltham, for the first time faced a jury of her peers.

There were no spectators at this first day of trial. All of the available seats in the courtroom was filled with the venire of 194 men from among whom the trial jury will be selected. This will doubtless take the entire day. Tomorrow, following the usual custom, the panel selected will probably view the premises at Waltham, the scene of the crime.

DUEL TO THE DEATH

Razors Wielded With Terrible Effect In Row Over a Girl

Newton, Mass., Nov. 28.—Two men fought a running duel with razors for 200 yards along Boylston street early last evening. The weapon wielded by one man was broken in the furious battle and he was slashed to death in a few seconds. It took surgeons more than an hour to sew up the rents in the survivor's body, who is charged with murder.

Antonio De Filippo, aged 21, was the victim in the gruesome duel. The victor was Giuseppi Di Maio, 32 years old.

Three companions of the duelists, who witnessed the beginning of the quarrel, were later captured by the quarrel, were captured by the police and held under bail to appear at a hearing in the Newton court Tuesday.

It is said that the two men quarrelled about a young woman at whose house the five friends had been visiting.

WORKING ON THE MAINE

Hulk of Battleship Expected to Be Raised by Feb. 15

Havana, Nov. 28.—Night and day the sound of the steam hammers, the wiadlass and the drills can be heard at the wreck of the Maine, where more than 100 men are doing the preliminary work necessary to the raising of the battered hulk.

The engineers, it is said, have been instructed to have everything in readiness for memorial exercises on Feb. 15, the thirteenth anniversary of the destruction of the Maine, by which time it is expected the cause of the explosion will be known.

ELEANOR FRANCES HOUSEHOLD LETTER.

Savory Snacks Daintily Served. Piquant Relishes and Delicious Drinks Easy to Prepare.

People who like to entertain their friends informally are always on the lookout for anything new and appetizing for the smalll snacks that eveyone relishes. The kind of spread that is at once easy to prepare, and dainty and piquant, in place of unwholesome sweets and alcoholic drinks.

CLUB SANDWICHES.

A familiar sandwich and general favorite not always correctly served, is made of evenly toasted, thin slices of bread soft enough to absorb the butter with which they are spread while hot. Lay on a layer of crisp slices of thin bacon, topped by a layer of shredded lettuce dressed with Mayonaise, and on this, slices of chicken or turkey, covered by the top slice of buttered toast. Serve with this the new Hawaiian bottled pineapple juice, in large glasses half filled with shaved ice. This drink is wholesome and delicious, and forms just the right combination with chafing dish menus, rarebits and unsweetened dishes.

DREAMS.

Run good snappy American cheese through the chopping machine and mix to a paste with melted butter. Make thin sandwiches with the paste trimming the edges neatly. Brown on both sides in a little butter in the blazer of the chafing dish, or on a griddle if a number of people are to be served.

ONION SANDWICH.

Mince the rare part only of cold roast beef and moisten with Worcestershire Sauce. Spread on thin buttered bread with a layer of Spanish onion sliced very thin.

RUSSIAN CAVIARE.

Serve on buttered toast as a canape, or between thin slices of bread as a sandwich if preferred. The canape is usually decorated with the yolks of hard boiled eggs, and has served with it a spoonful of minced onion on a small lettuce leaf. People usually like caviare very much or not at all, so it is well to serve some other snack at the same time with this.

CHEESE CRACKERS.

The cheese crackers or straws that come put up in air-tight packages, heated just a little to make them eat crisp are especially good with the pineapple juice and ice.

FRUIT PUNCH.

A new punch that is very popular is made with two quarts of bottled pineapple juice, to which is added one quart of Apollinaris or White Rock water, one pound of sugar and one quart of canned strawberries, or raspberries. Served in punch bowl with plenty of cracked or shaved ice, or in place of the canned berries use six slices of Hawaiian Pineapple cut into small pieces, and serve in large glasses half-filled with cracked ice, placing a bunch of fresh mint, and one or two Maraschino cherries on top of each glass.

FRIED OYSTER SANDWICH.

Fry very large oysters and serve between thin slices of buttered bread with strips of salt cucumber pickle, and a little minced bacon if liked.

BROWN BREAD AND PEPPERS.

Prepare a mince of white crisp cabbage and green peppers with a French dressing using a generous quantity of oil. Place between layers of buttered brown bread. This is especially good with devilled eggs.

HIS LEADERSHIP IS RECOGNIZED

Democratic Congressman Seeking Champ Clark's Counsel

A ROMP INTO SPEAKERSHIP

Has Already Taken Command of Party's Forces In Washington, Where He Daily Prepares For Legislative Strife—Ascertains Sentiment of Followers by Having State Delegations Polled

Washington, Nov. 28.—Washington is taking a new measure of Representative Champ Clark, and he, as prospective speaker, is apparently taking a new measure of Washington. It is already assumed here that the Missourian will romp into the speakership without opposition.

The assumption seems to be well founded. It requires about 114 votes to make a majority of the Democratic caucus. The last time Clark counted his pledges they were 160. The contest for the speakership has ceased to interest him.

Democratic representatives and representatives-elect are now visiting him daily at the little minority room on the ground floor, just east of the house restaurant. He is already recognized as a leading official personage. The shadows athwart his threshold are as notable of a day as those that loom through the mahogany doors of the old ways and means committee room one flight up, where Speaker Cannon is now keeping office hours in anticipation of the business of the session.

The prospective speaker is as cautious as ever Tom Reed was in the days of his great power in the house. He is giving practically no interviews. Nearly all he has said for the press since election night has been put down in black and white before it left his hands. The aspects of party harmony, which have thus far attended his candidacy, gratify Him, but he is even more anxious to lay the foundations for a harmonious Democratic program.

"If we get through this next congress well," said he, "the Democratic party will have the White House for twenty years."

His desk is in a little cubbyhole about as wide as a hall bedroom, and used to be occupied by the chairman of postoffices and post roads as a sort of private office. There, and in the larger room outside, he spends a few hours every forenoon and afternoon talking things over with the Democratic visitors.

As minority leader he developed some ideas of his own about ascertaining the sentiment of his followers. Instead of calling minority caucuses, which generally demonstrate much scattering thought, he has been in the habit of writing the particular question out on paper and asking the deans of the respective state delegations in the house to poll their men regarding it.

By methods such as these the Missourian hopes to get his party lined up pretty solidly by the time, as a house majority, it puts the gavel into his hands. He will meet a goodly portion of the new Democratic members-elect during the next three months. Most of them will come to Washington to look around a little before the session is over.

"Is it true that your husband is so very absent-minded, Mrs. Newly?"

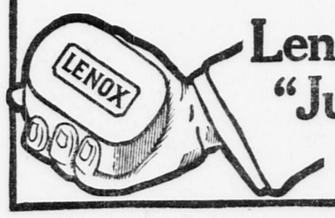

"Perfectly. We've been married six months and many an evening at eleven he gets up and takes me by the hand, tells me what a delightful time he has had, and would leave if I did not remind him."

—What has Massachusetts come to when the nominee for governor of one party spends $37,000 and the other $20,000. Joseph Walker comes near the mark when he says: "I believe the greatest evil in politics today is the excessive use of money." Mr. Walker is financially able to keep up the pace, but he does not propose to do so. Just as good and better men than the Speaker of the House could not spend any such sums as are recorded above if they would. It is full time these fit men were given some sort of a chance in a race for the governorship. —Springfield Republican, Ind'l.

BRIEFS

Mr. Walter V. Loud and Miss Anna I. Hadden who were married Sunday evening by Rev. Dr. Hardy, will make their home on Elm place.

Mrs. Rebecca Ruffell, the mother of Mrs. F. L. Crossman of Center street, Milton, died on Sunday in her 95th year.

For over two hours on Sunday Hose 2 of Wollaston was busy extinguishing a grass fire near North Central avenue responding to a still alarm about 3.30.

John L. Miller who has been confined to his home by illness is reported as being much better today, and will be able to be out again in a few days.

Arthur Savard, foreman in the office of the "Reporter," North Conway, N. H., has been the guest the past ten days of his cousin Mrs. Bouchard, 278 Water street.

The poor ventilation at the District court room makes it necessary to burn Egyptian disinfectant sticks mornings to clear the air of the foul odor that usually arises from the drunks in the cage.

Members of Quincy lodge, N. E. O. P., will attend a class initiation at Braintree Town Hall on Thursday evening. Banner lodge of Brockton will work the degree in the presence of Grand officers.

The funeral of Mrs. Horatio N. Holbrook was held on Sunday from her late home, 196 Holbrook road. Services were conducted by Rev. John Gartland. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

President Stone of the Quincy Board of Trade has been invited to attend on Wednesday a convention of the Boards of Trade and Business Men's Associations of New England which has been called by the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

An informal social gathering will be given to men of British birth at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening from 7.30 to 10 o'clock. A pleasing program of music, both vocal and instrumental, of old country songs, will be given, and refreshments will be served. There will also be an opportunity to see the gymnasium class and swimming pool. The committee are: Joseph Carruthers, Kenneth Campbell, Richard Laurie John Forester and William J. Tate.

SUNDAY SERVICES

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

Rev. Carl H. Raupach, the pastor of the West Quincy church, preached a very able sermon at the Sunday morning service at the Wollaston M. E. church; text 1 Corinthian 12:31.

The subject of the Epworth League meeting was "The sin of the drink traffic," with Chester A. Cleveland as leader.

At the Sunday evening service Mrs. Charles Parkhurst of Somerville gave an address on missionary work.

The Ladies Aid will have a sewing meeting on Wednesday at 2 P. M. with Mrs. S. A. Kay of 273 North Central avenue.

A laymen's meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7.30 at the First church, Temple street, Boston, under the auspices of the Laymen's Association of the New England conference.

A business meeting and social of the Epworth League will be held in the church vestry on Thursday evening at 8.

All members are urged to attend the weekly prayer meeting on Friday evening, not only to encourage the pastor, but to receive a blessing in your own soul.

Next Sunday morning at 10.15 there will be a love feast in the vestry. A communion service will follow the morning sermon.

FIRST CHURCH.

The address or sermon of Rev. Ellery Channing Butler at the First church on Sunday was an unusually interesting one, dealing as it did largely with personal reminiscences of times gone by. He spoke of the past history of the First church, and of his own experience as pastor of the two oldest churches in the Commonwealth, as well as from the records of these two churches. He also touched the local government of Quincy contending that things were much better under the old town form of government than they were today. He also spoke of the Puritans, their fidelity, and way of doing things, and that they had traits that were lacking today.

He told of his first impression of New England and the first call he had received, and that while the people seemed to lack of warmth, he had found when he came to know them that they were not so. He also spoke of the older families of Quincy which had been called to mind by the unveiling of the tablet to Rev. Henry Flynt which was to follow the service.

ST. PAULS SWEDISH.

Rev. C. J. Wigren of Newport occupied the pulpit at St. Paul's Swedish M. E. church Sunday morning and preached an interesting sermon. Music was furnished by a quartette.

A session of the Sunday School followed which was conducted by William Gelotte.

In the evening the pastor preached, his text being taken from Luke VII, 13-14, "Christ's Visit to Nain." There was a duet by Miss Olga Olson and Miss Edith Olson and a solo by Miss Olga Olson.

Special services will be held on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday evenings this week. The speakers will be Rev. Broman of Brockton. Rev. Hamilton of Lowell and Rev. Raine of Worcester. All are welcome.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

All the service s of Sunday were held in the lecture room of the remodelled church and were very largely attended. The morning service was a Thanksgiving service, with sermon by the pastor Rev. James Matheson, and special music. The attendance at the Sunday School was very large.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Rev. S. G. Babcock, Archdeacon, preached at the morning service at 10.30 at Christ church Sunday, and in the evening the rector, Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, preached a sermon on "The church." A morning Holy Communion service was held at 8 A. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Macleod will entertain the Galahad brotherhood at their home 17 Edison street, Tuesday evening.

On Wednesday evening the Men's club has been invited to meet with the Men's club at the Quincy Point church. Superintendent of Streets Rourke of Boston will speak on the Panama canal.

PUBLIC DOCK

repairs are immediately necessary upon the bridge, and when these are made traffic conditions show that the draw opening should at the same time be widened 50 feet.

IMPROVEMENTS IN CHANNEL.

"In the Harbor and River Act, approved June 25, 1910, was contained an appropriation requiring examination and survey of the Weymouth Fore river with reference to desired improvements.

"In order to provide for the safe navigation of long and deep draft vessels, it is desirable for the commerce of Quincy in the transportation of coal and it is necessary to the continued development of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, or any other large industry which may make use of the advantages of this port, that this channel should be improved. The features requiring immediate attention are the straightening of the dredged channel at the lower end and the removal of channel rock, the deepening of the whole channel and the straightening of the channel at other points leading to the Quincy Point bridge and the approach to the draw.

"A preliminary and favorable report upon these improvements has already been made by the United States officer in this district, and the board of engineers for rivers and harbors in Washington is now seeking more complete information as to the advisability of the general government providing additional facilities for this locality, and I recommend action by yourself and the city government which shall satisfy said board of the public interest which exists for the improvement of this channel which appears amply ustified by the facts set forth already."

Y. M. C. A. MEET.

The first of a series of indoor athletic meets at the Y. M. C. A. was held Saturday evening, and was well attended. No records were broken in any of the events. The cups which are to be given for the series were on exhibition and were much admired. The results follow:

15-yard dash—Won by J. Phelan, J. Claflin second.

Potato race—Won by H. Trask, J. McCarthy second.

Half-mile run—Won by S. Dineen, H. Sutermeister second. Time 2m. 23 3-5s.

Three standing jumps—Won by J. Claflin, Wilson second, George Booth third. Distance 28ft 1 1-4in.

Springboard high jump—Won by Phil Wood, T. Djerf second, J. McCarthy third. Distance 6ft. 7in.

12-pound shot put—Won by George Booth, J. Claflin second, P. Wood third. Distonce 40ft. 4in.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The Quincy team will meet the Elm Hill team this evening in the Columbus Club bowling league.

* * *

At soccer on Saturday Harvard was defeated by Springfield Training school 2 to 0. The Boston Americans, who were defeated at Quincy on Thanksgiving day by Fore River, took revenge from the Brocktons 3 to 0.

GIRL IN STRANGE COMA

Collapse Brought About by Bad News From Relatives In Russia

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—Despite all efforts of doctors to arouse her, Ida Dishler, 17 years old, is in a coma and the physicians pronounce the case one of the most remarkable on record.

For two weeks she has been kept alive by the injection of food, and it is said at the hospital that she gives no indication of recovering from the stupor.

A mesage from Russia that her mother was dead and her brother, an officer in the Russian army, at the point of death, caused the collapse of the girl two weeks ago.

NEW FOOTBALL WORKED WELL

Season's Trial of Changes In Rules Show Good Results.

FEW MORE MAY BE MADE

When Rules Committee Meets This Winter Further Tinkering Is Likely; but, on the Whole, No Radical Changes Will Be Necessary.

The new football code has worked so well that the season passed without any real complaint. When the rulemakers get together again there will undoubtedly be further tinkering, but for the most part the rules will be left as they are for several years to come. There are bad features to the code as it now stands, but it will not take any radical treatment to eliminate them. The four period idea, for instance, has met with general condemnation, and many of the coaches as well as practically all the mere spectators would welcome a return to the old two halves system.

The forward pass has lost many of its objectionable features by being restricted to heaves of twenty yards or less, but it is still an unpopular play and probably always will be until it is limited to use behind the line of scrimmage. The University of Pennsylvania has used the play a lot this year, but almost invariably it was confined to passes that did not go over the line.

© 1910, by American Press Association.

HAM CORBETT OF HARVARD, LEADING HALFBACK IN EAST THIS SEASON.

About the only other change that most of the coaches will really insist upon will be the restoration of pulling and pushing of the man with the ball after the twenty or twenty-five yard line is reached. If this is permitted the props will be knocked out from under the one big argument the critics of the new rules have been able to advance that there is not enough scoring when teams of almost equal strength meet.

The rule prohibiting interference with the ends in going down under kicks has not interfered any with the running back of punts that goes so far to make a game spectacular. It has necessitated better interference for the receiver and has therefore improved the game.

The good backs still run the ball back just as far as they ever did. Corbett of Harvard and Pendleton of Princeton, the best halfbacks in the east, and Magidsohn of Michigan and McGovern of Minnesota, the best in the west, have run back punts as though the ends had no protection at all.

Forward Pass Disappoints.

Those who expected the forward pass to become a popular play with the removal of the restrictions that formerly hedged around it have been disappointed. Some few teams have been able to develop it into something more than a gamble, but mighty few.

Against real live opponents it is just as risky as it ever was and not nearly so showy. The only excuse that any one has yet been able to find for it is that it keeps the defensive team from drawing its backs up to the line and makes it easier to gain on line plays. As a threat it's a good thing to have on the rule books, but that lets it out.

The outside kick has been a more or less neglected play simply because there are few men playing football this season who can kick accurately enough to make it worth while. The rule that makes an outside kick illegal unless it travels twenty yards or more has about killed it.

PURE GLYCERIN.

It Is a Queer Substance Endowed With Peculiar Properties.

One of the great advantages of glycerin in its chemical employment is the fact that it neither freezes nor evaporates under any ordinary temperature. No perceptible loss by evaporation has been detected at a temperature less than 200 degrees F., but if heated intensely it decomposes with a smell that few persons find themselves able to endure. It burns with a pale flame, similar to that from alcohol, if heated to about 300 degrees and then ignited. Its nonevaporative qualities make the compound of much use as a vehicle for holding pigments and colors, as in stamping and typewriter ribbons, carbon papers and the like.

If the pure glycerin be exposed for a long time to a freezing temperature it crystallizes with the appearance of sugar candy, but these crystals being once melted it is almost an impossibility to get them again into the congealed state. If a little water be added to the glycerin no crystallization will take place, though under a sufficient degree of cold the water will separate and form crystals, amid which the glycerin will remain in its natural state of fluidity. If suddenly subjected to intense cold pure glycerin will form a gummy mass which cannot be entirely hardened or crystallized. Altogether it is quite a peculiar substance.

DON'T GET TOO SEDATE.

Play Is as Good For Grown Persons as For Children.

Play is just as necessary to keep a grown man young and a middle-aged man from growing old as it is to make a child grow into a man. Wordsworth's lines are as sound physiology as good poetry:

My heart leaps up when I behold
The rainbow in the sky.
So was it when my life began;
So be it when I am a man
Or let me die.

In childhood we play because we are young, in middle age we are young because we play, and if we keep it up we shall never know that we are old until we are one day suddenly dead. Yet the absurd idea has grown up, and Mrs. Grundy has adopted it with her usual fatuousness, that play is something undignified in a grown man and unbecoming in a lady. And this unfortunately is one of the rare instances where "thinking makes it so." After a man has practiced this belief in the uselessness of exercise for half a decade or so and become fat and pompous and red faced or pale and slack muscled and short winded then the contortions that he indulges in when he decides to unbend and try to play furnish considerably more entertainment to spectators than to himself.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Outing.

In the Shadow of Fame.

There are a number of former celebrities who are now running rooming and boarding houses in New York city. Many a singer, actress or writer who formerly held a place in the public eye has now settled down to the prosaic occupation of housing and feeding a small portion of that same public. Their houses are a magnet for young persons with the artistic temperament. One woman who once enjoyed a fair reputation as a violinist has five furnished apartments which she sublets room by room to aspirants for dramatic, operatic and literary honors. Reflected glory rather than physical comfort is the portion of most of these satellites, but the privilege of hobnobbing with yesterday's greatness compensates for material discomfort.—New York Press.

Cicero on Wit.

There are witty sayings which carry a concealed suspicion of ridicule, of which sort is that of the Sicilian who, when a friend of his made lamentaton to him saying that his wife had hanged herself upon a fig tree, said, "I beseech you give me some shoots of that tree that I may plant them." Of the same sort is what Crassus said to a certain bad orator who, when he imagined that he had excited compassion at the close of a speech, asked our friend here after he had sat down whether he appeared to have raised pity in the audience. "Very great pity," replied Crassus, "for I believe that there is no one here so hard hearted but that your speech seemed pitiable to him."—Cicero's Oratory.

A Strange Likeness.

An extraordinary resemblance has recently been discovered at the London Natural History Museum between a specimen of the huge African elephant and the pygmy shrew mouse. Sir E. Ray Lankester suggested comparison of the two, and the result has been that practically every bone, muscle, blood vessel and nerve of the giant beast has been found identically reproduced in the little animal, which is scarcely two inches in length. In the museum a stuffed mouse has been placed between the fore feet of its enormous mounted prototype for the purpose of showing the curious likeness.

The Trouble.

"So she doesn't return your affection, eh? Well, I shouldn't get mad about that. What's the use of bothering about a girl?" said Watkins.

"I don't mind her not returning my affection," said Dobleigh, "but, confound it, she won't return my diamond ring, either!"—Harper's Weekly.

When a Joke's Not a Joke.

To the joker who writes jokes for a living it isn't much of a joke when the editor can't take a joke.—Lippincott's.

REPUBLICS IN GERMANY.

Three City States Whose Constitutions the Empire Respects.

Hamburg, Bremen and Lubeck are theoretically three republics which have for the mutual convenience of themselves and the empire come under the rule of the kaiser in all but purely local affairs. As they had joined the north German confederation, which was formed after Prussia's victory in 1866, there was nothing left for them to do but to give their allegiance to its successor, the empire.

Each is represented in the bundesrath, or federal council, as well as in the reichstag, and each retains the republican principle in its local legislation. The Hamburg senate may have fallen from its highest estate, but it still lives and legislates concurrently with the house of burgesses. The burgomaster of Hamburg remains the great man in the estimate of the Hamburg people, the inheritor of the great traditions of the Hansa. Bremen and Lubeck have constitutions in cousinship with Hamburg.

A wise empire respects the constitutions of these city states and refrains from any action hinting of the application of the steam roller in pursuit of harmony. The survivors of the Hansa have been more fortunate than some other republics of continental Europe. They have outlived several that had hopes of being left ignored in their republicanism.

Cracow was once a republic, but, being surrounded by Austrian possessions, was finally swallowed up in 1846. Since that time it has been a city of Austrian Poland.—Boston Transcript.

DROWNED THE MUSIC.

The Audience Was Angry, and Theodore Thomas Was Obstinate.

Theodore Thomas once undertook to raise a subscription fund for a series of concerts in San Francisco, but only $10,000 had been raised, and the enterprise hung fire. Then he announced that Emma Thursby would sing at each concert, and the guarantee fund promptly went up to $50,000.

Thomas had a rule against encores for soloists. They were allowed to appear and bow in recognition of applause, but that was all. The San Franciscans held that as it was Miss Thursby's engagement which was responsible for the raising of the fund they were entitled to encore her if they chose. Thomas, however, insisted stubbornly on his rule.

On the last night a determined effort was made to encore her. She appeared again and again, bowing her thanks, and each time the applause increased instead of diminishing. At last the audience began to shout its demands instead of merely applauding, and Miss Thursby turned to Thomas and said, "What shall I do?"

"Keep on bowing if you have to bow all night," snapped Thomas grimly.

And she went out and bowed again. This time Thomas directed the orchestra to go ahead with the final number. The audience, thoroughly indignant, shouted down the music, but Thomas was inflexible. The orchestra went on playing, utterly unheard, in a pandemonium of shouted protests. And it was probably the only time that a Thomas number fell on deaf ears.—Ladies' Home Journal.

BOSTON PASTOR THE PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

At First Annual Banquet of Davis Class Of Calvary Baptist Church

Rev. Joseph Walther and Others Also Speak

Although the Davis class of the Calvary Baptist church is only six months old it is taking a prominent place in the city and scored a great success at its first annual banquet at Union hall on Monday evening. The attendance was large and all the speakers entertaining.

The reception was at 6.30 P. M., and in the receiving line were J. Edward Mundie, class president, Rev. R. J. Davis, teacher of the class, Rev. J. A. Francis, D. D., pastor of the Clarendon Street Baptist church of Boston, Rev. Joseph Walther, pastor of the Wollaston Baptist church; Vice President Newman H. Savage, and Secretary Chester V. Hobart.

Young ladies of the church acted as ushers: Miss Eva Prario, Miss Mary McDonald, Miss Blodwen Walters, Miss Abbie Livingston and Miss Lottie Hobart.

The banquet was served at 7 o'clock by C. C. Whittemore of Boston and included roast turkey and cold meats, escalloped oysters, salads, fancy creams, cake, etc.

President Mundie opened the postprandial exercises with three stories. He told of the progress of the class which began with two or three members, but now had 40, and an average attendance of over 20. It had been successful in everything undertaken. He had a tribute to Rev. R. J. Davis, the teacher and pastor.

Henry T. Prario was introduced as the toastmaster, and also had several stories to amuse the guests.

Rev. R. J. Davis was the first speaker, and extended a greeting.

Frank Burgess, the president of the Boston Gear Works emphasized the need of fixed habits in boys. They were negative too much. He would rather see mistakes if they will only attempt to do something. He told of the good work of the Walther class at Wollaston ,and complimented Rev. Joseph Walther the teacher. He closed by reading the "Twelve mistakes of life."

Charles E. Grassick told of the work of the Makaria Fraternity. He hoped to see fraternity between the two classes, and told a couple of good stories.

LAUNCH OF THE RIPPLE

The Third Steam Trawler Built at Quincy Yard

The steam trawler Ripple, the third of this class of vessels built by the Fore River Ship Building Co. of this city, and a sister ship of the Spray that was launched Nov. 5, 1905, and the Foam launched Aug. 18, 1910, was given her maiden dip at the shipyard this morning.

The launch today was a private one, and was witnessed only by a few of the officials of the Bay State Fishing Co. and officers of the Fore River Co. Her sponsor was Miss Bettie Dent Smith, a daughter of General Manager H. G. Smith, who also had the honor of being the sponsor of the first of the fleet, the Spray.

The weather was anything but pleasant, yet this in no way interfered with the plans for the launch. Preparations were begun shortly after 9 o'clock and at 9.30 the signal was given to saw away the two soul pieces the last blocks that held the ship on the ways. This was the work of but a few minutes and then the Ripple began to slide toward her native element As she began to move Miss Smith smashed a bottle of sparkling wine over her steel bow, and a minute later the Ripple was riding gracefully in the briny deep, and Miss Smith was being congratulated on the successful manner in which she had carried out her part of the launch.

The Ripple like the Foam is of American design and differs but little from the Spray which was of English design, the changes in the two latter boats being those suggested by the experience gained with the Spray. The latter boat when built was in the nature of an experiment, but she proved such a success that two more boats were ordered, the last of which was launched today.

The general dimensions of the Ripple are: 126 feet overall, 117 feet between perpendiculars, 22 feet 6 inches beam, and 12 feet 6 inches depth. Her capacity is 100 tons of fish. Her propelling power is a triple-exptnsion engine of 450 indicated horse power steam for which is generated by Scotch boilers. Her cost is something like $60,000 and she will carry a crew of nineteen men.

As she was nearly ready for commission when launched she will be put into service early in January, and it is confidently expected that she will prove as much of a success as her sister ships have.

Savage—You don't mean to tell me that you always take your wife into your confidence!

Meekman—I don't have to; since I've had a wife I haven't had any confidence.

DANGEROUS AT CITY HALL

Much Speculation As to What It All Means

Not a few have noticed that sign on the pole near City Hall upon which the word "Dangerous" appears. These same people have doubtless wondered what particular dangerous thing there was about the old stone building that required a sign to be posted. There certainly does not seem to be any danger of the building falling over.

One observer suggested that as there were so many charming young ladies in the several offices in City Hall that it might mean that it was dangerous for an eligible young man without incumbrances to enter. Yet that could not be it, for it was pointed out that the reigning Mayor would come under that class of eligibles, and as far as known he was safe up to the present time, although he had been occupying one of the offices for three years.

Then the wise guy came along and said, ask the Commissioner. Mr. Bainbridge was found diligently at work pumping up his automobile, and a smile illuminated his face when asked the question.

Then with a knowing wink he pointed up to the row of pigeons that were perched along the front coping and said he guessed they were the only dangerous thing about City Hall, for people who had occasion to visit the building were in constant danger of having their clothing soiled by these self same pigeons.

Several schemes have been tried to rid the building of these pigeons, but all to no avail up to the present time. They are certainly a nuisance, and it is necessary for a man to wash off the sidewalk in front of the hall every morning.

Speaking about City Hall there is one thing that should be remedied another year, and that is the acoustic properties of the Council chamber. As it is now it is next to impossible to hear what is said by any of the councilmen, and it is only by watching them closely that the young men who sit at the reporter's table can make out what is said. To those in the rear of the hall it is like Greek. Occasionally they can catch a word, but so much is lost that few know what is transpiring. It seems as though there must be some way of remedying this evil, and there doubtless is. Those who claim to know say that this defect can be easily remedied and at a very small expense. The plan suggested is to string a series of wires across the hall just beneath the ceiling. This it is said will do the business and make it possible to hear what is being said in any part of the hall.

Another rises to ask, why not do something about that interior telephone system so that it will be of some use. The system was installed when the building was remodelled, but outside of working for a few weeks the system has been out of commission. Mayor Shea has had new batteries put in several times, which put the system in working order for a few days. Then it goes on a strike again. There are thousands of offices in Boston which have the interior telephone system and it goes without saying that they work and there is no good reason why such a system could not be made to work in City Hall.

The telephone boxes now in the various offices should first of all be consigned to the junk heap and bell telephone instruments connected. The wires that are behind the walls for the present system are all right, and can readily be used for any new system that might be installed.

There are probably some other things that might be mentioned but as the city is now on the eve of a decisive battle of ballots perhaps it is just as well to wait until the election is over.

Very Pleasing Concert for the Benefit of the Mount Pleasant Camp

The Westland Quartet Great Favorites with Audience

An appreciative audience of music lovers gathered in Alpha hall Monday evening at the concert given under the auspices of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, in aid of the Quincy Tuberculosis camp, an institution which is doing such good work in helping to stamp out that great white plague.

The concert was one of unusual excellence and every number was freely applauded showing that the efforts of artists who contributed were fully appreciated.

The leading numbers on the program were contributed by the Westland Ladies' quartet, composed of Miss Dadmun, Miss Van Orden, Miss Coe and Mrs. Miller. Others to contribute were Edward J. Sullivan, Miss Margaret Heaney, Miss Helen Galvin and Stanley Nichols.

The program opened with a selection by the quartet, "Wake Up, Sweet Melody," and was followed by Miss Van Orden, who rendered Puccini's "Musetta's Aria" in a manner that immediately captivated her hearers, who demanded and received an encore.

The quartet followed with "My Lady Chlo," and Miss Dadmun with "Chanson Provencale," and the quartet with "Rose O'Tipperary." These selections composed the first numbers on the HARBOR ESTIMATES.

Although the Fore river channel must be straightened before the mammoth Argentine battleship can reach the ocean, the government estimates for the year ending June 30, 1912, do not include anything for this river. The estimates for Massachusetts work are: Harbors at Gloucester, $15,000; Nantucket, $20,000; New Bedford and Fairhaven, $30,000; harbor of refuge at Sandy bay, cape Ann, $100,000; Mystic and Malden rivers, $10,000; Taunton river, $5,000.

Under the continuing contract system $1,100,000 is asked for the 35-foot channel at Boston, and $200,000 for Providence river and harbor.

As proof of the benefit to commerce of the improvements in Boston harbor, the chief of engineers quotes the general manager of several foreign steamship lines entering the port as saying that "freight rates caused by the larger class steamers being used by reason of the deeper channels, are about 50 percent less than they were 15 or 20 years ago, when very small steamers were engaged in the trade"

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The King of Belgium is fortunate in that his more violent subjects hurl pamphlets at him instead of bombs.

Oklahoma rejected female suffrage at election, but a new aeroplane designed and built by a woman soared over Long Island last Sunday.

As there have been three White House cooks within a few months, perhaps the spoiling of the Republican broth is now accounted for.

One million pounds of hair were imported into this country from China and Japan last year and yet it is claimed that "rats" are the cause of Bubonic plague.

"A Massachusetts man has inherited a farm, with the provision that he is to forfeit it if he gets drunk." Considering the aridity of the average Massachusetts farm, he will probably decide to forfeit.

"If Chicago succeeds in checking its wave of crime as it has now started out to do, when it finishes we should like to borrow the check for a while," says the Indianapolis News. But the chances are unfortunately that the check will have proved "no good."

"There is no reason why this country should not have a parcels post system," says a contemporary. Mistake, guileless friend. There are 4 powerful and substantial Express reasons, the "American," the "United States," the "Adams" and the "Wells Fargo."

DRIFT OF OPINION.

To the blackboards of our schools have been charged much of the eye strain of the pupils. Now comes the declaration that the dazzling light of moving pictures is responsible for some of the eye injuries. Anyone who is a constant patron will probably admit the strain. I fear that here is another strain which is worse. Where are the children getting the nickels and dimes? The temptation is great, the nickel is small, parents are careless with loose change and pocketbooks and wills are weak. I have reason to know that some children and some parents are careless—to use a mild word—in nickel thefts. In one city in this state about one-half of the children from 8 to 15 years went to moving picture shows once a month or oftener, while one-third of all the boys and one-fifth of all the girls went at least once a week. In New York city, it is stated that the average daily attendance of children varies from 500,000 to 600,000. It is absolutely necessary, therefore, that the sanitary conditions of the buildings, the fire-escapes and exits, and above all else the moral tone of the entertainments should be carefully supervised.—Milford Gazette.

While the Japanese profess to be pretty good friends of the Americans it is to be noted that when it comes to business friendship doesn't count for so much. They buy where they can buy cheapest, and that at present happens to be from their Asiastic neighbors. In the first eight months of this year their imports from Europe dropped from $64,000,000 to $54,000,000, or 15 per cent. In the same periods our sales fell from $31,000,000 to $17,000,000 or 43 per cent. Trade with other Asiastic nations jumped from $62,000,000 to $78,000,000 or 27 per cent. Cotton figures largely in these statistics. The Japanese doubled their orders in India at the expense of the United States, because the Indian cotton was cheaper. But in this the Japanese are not unlike everybody else. There is precious little sentiment in trade.—Framingham News.

One of the striking things about the new census figures is the tremendous differences shown in the rate of growth of different cities. One will remain nearly stationary while another has doubled in ten years. Why the difference? Is it mere luck?

If one could get back into recondite causes, it would usually be found that the growing city had men who had a vision of municipal progress above ordinary hum-drum trade. They saw that for every dollar they could make by getting business away from competitors, they could make several dollars by increasing city growth, thereby swelling the total to be divided among the busines men.

One type of man and one type of city is merely interested in business returns that are sure of being garnered the same day or week or year. Another type is continually sowing seed, the harvest of which cannot be predicted, but which surely come with unforeseen bounty some time.—Beverly Times.

No city or town in this state or in any other place for that matter, can expect to thrive and prosper without the concentrated efforts of its citizens and the judicious expenditure of money, says the North Adams Herald. The cities in our state today that are prosperous are the ones that have donated liberally to enterprises which employ labor. Thus it is and always will be, that the liberal and broad guaged town or city will thrive while the tight fisted ones are struggling for the necessities of life. It is within the power of every place to increase her population. With which class do you desire to be rated? Do you wish it to go out to the world that you lack the energy necessary to protect your own interest? If not get to work and do something that will help the city.—Chelsea Record.

THIRD ELMENDORF LECTURES.

Vienna, the rich and handsome capital of the Austrians, and Budapest the City of the Magyars and the capital of Hungary, will be treated jointly in the third lecture of the Elmendorf Lecture course to be given in Symphony Hall next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon. There has even been a jealous rivalry between these two cities both have been called the "Paris of Eastern Europe" and both have tried to outdo the French Capital in the splendor of their edifices, the beauty of their monuments and the magnificence of their boulevards and parks. In Vienna everything modern as well as ancient, is on a grand and imposing scale. Its streets broader than Parisian boulevards, splendidly paved, with buildings erected with an extravagant expenditure, both in construction and decoration, with a modern system of electric tramways; a superb opera house, beautiful theatres, well appointed shops, magnificent churches; monuments; superbly appointed clubs and luxuriant public parks; with museums full of rare collections in art and science and its streets peopled with well dressed civilians, smart-looking officers and beautiful women; add to this a mingling of the very old and the very new, with a colossal royal palace crowning its battlements and adjoining buildings in French Renaissance and we have Budapest.

The next lecture in Mr. Elmendorf's series will treat of "Famous Paintings.'

CAPE CODDERS IN WINTER.

The Cape Cod newspapers now interest more than ever the fellow who knows something about the cape and the islands. They begin to teem with little paragraphs about Cape Cod folks who have been away for the winter, either at work or visiting, and who have dodged the bleak winds of the winter time.

Now they are beginning to go home again, and the papers record their arrival. Some have been to Boston. Here and there one has been to New York. A throng has been right here in Brockton, the most popular of the Massachusetts cities for the cape residents.

These moving native Cape Codders get five or six months at home, enjoy themselves hugely and in many cases pick up a good bit of money, and when fall comes are hale and hearty and crowded perhaps in the pocketbook. Then during the winter they have just as good a time in the large towns and the cities as the rest of us do.—Brockton Enterprise.

Discovery After Death of Woman Thought to Be Very Poor

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Catherine Leary, who died at her home on Sun street, caused a genuine surprise to her relatives and friends by leaving a considerable amount of money, when it had always been supposed that the woman was in very poor financial circumstances.

After the death of Mrs. Leary, who leaves one daughter, Miss Lillie Leary, money to the amount of $1265 was found secreted about the house. This amount was in gold and bills.

In addition to the above five bank books, each of which represented $1000, were also found. The discovery of the hidden wealth was as big a surprise to the daughter as it was to everybody.

Mrs. Leary was the widow of a stone cutter, who died many years ago.

GIVEN HIS OWN MEDICINE

Wife Beater Is Horsewhipped by Justice of the Peace

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 29.—Realizing that the law did not provide adequate punishment for a man who thrashed his wife whenever the humor seized him, Justice of the Peace Hayden of Swoversville vigorously lashed Albert Gay of the same place with a heavy horsewhip. When he had finished, the wife beater, weeping and begging for mercy, promised never to strike his wife again.

Mrs. Gay, a small, frail woman, appeared before Hayden with black and blue bruises and cuts on her head and arms and said her body was marked also by the blows of her husband. It was not an unusual proceeding, she declared, but she could not stand it any longer and wanted her husband punished.

MOVE TO BREAK UP THE SUGAR COMBINE

Dissolution Suit Is Filed by the Federal Government

New York, Nov. 29.—A bill in equity to dissolve the American Sugar Refining company, known as the sugar trust, because it is a monopoly conducted in restraint of trade, was filed in the United States circuit court for the southern district of New York by United States District Attorney Wise.

A perpetual injunction is asked restraining the company from paying dividends and the stockholders from exercising any privileges as stockholders. The petition charges an unlawful combination and conspiracy in dominating and fixing the selling price of raw sugars effected by forty-nine defendants, corporations and individuals in nine states.

The petition describes the manner in which the trust acquired smaller concerns and how by selling sugars for less than cost the company was able to force factories to close down, driving competitors into selling their interests to the trust.

VICTORY FOR LASTERS

Big Strike Averted by Concessions of Lynn Manufacturers

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 29.—The threatened strike of 2000 lasters was practically settled when fifteen out of the sixteen manufacturers involved agreed to grant the lasters their desired increase of 2 cents a pair on high-top shoes and 1 cent a pair on low-cuts. The increase goes into effect at once. One manufacturer, who did not attend the meeting, is said to be holding out.

There was rejoicing when the settlement was announced, for a strike of the 2000 lasters, scheduled to take place Dec. 1 if the increase was not granted, would throw 18,000 other operatives out of work.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Goodwin Is Arraigned on Charge of Murdering Galloway

Salem, Mass., Nov. 29.—Chester Goodwin pleaded not guilty when formally charged with the murder of Bertram W. Galloway at Danvers, when brought before the first district court here. He was held without bail for the January term of the Essex county grand jury.

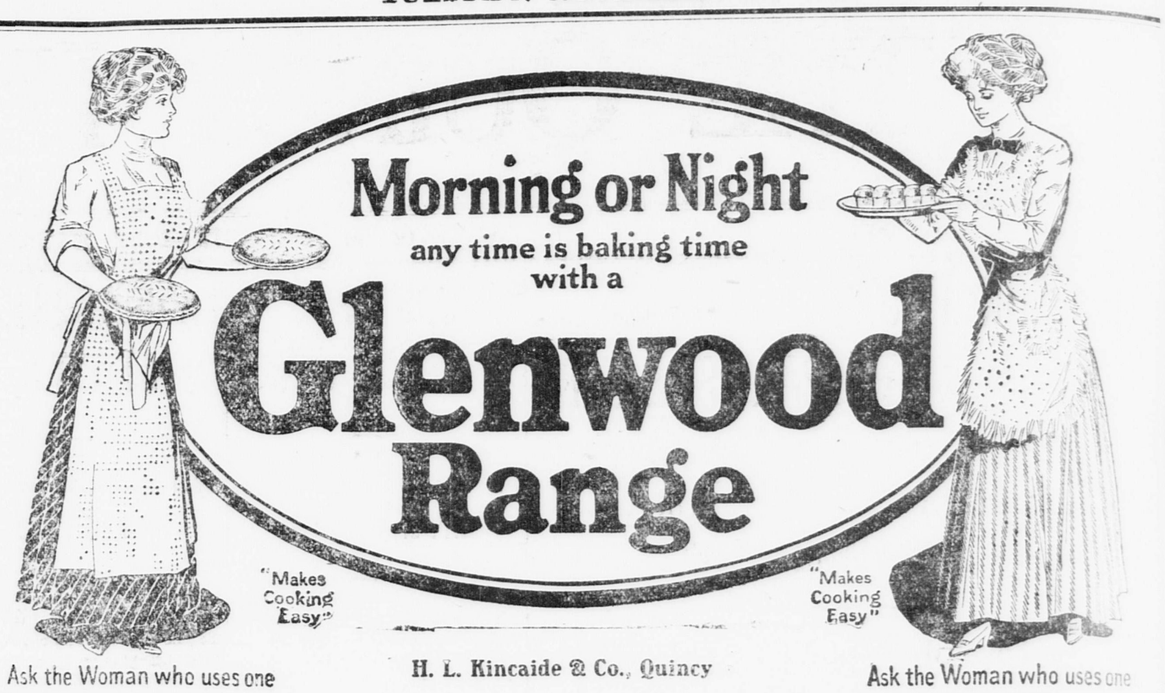

Goodwin, who worked with Galloway in the moth extermination service and who also boarded at Galloway's home in Danvers, shot and killed Galloway at the latter's home during a quarrel.

Typhoid at Naval Academy

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 29.—The twenty-fourth case of typhoid fever developed at the naval academy when Midshipman Woodward of the first class was admitted to the naval general hospital for treatment. Of the typhoid cases in the hospital several are said to be still serious.

Illinois Gains 16.9 Percent

Washington, Nov. 29.—The population of the state of Illinois is 5,638,591, according to the statistics of the thirteenth census. This is an increase of 817,041 or 16.9 percent over 4,821,550 in 1900.

BOSTON PASTOR PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Rev. Joseph Walther brought the greetings of 350 Baptists of Wollaston, and of the Men's class of 50. Most of the men of the church are in the class. He claimed man was the key to the situation and because of their interest in the class the Sunday school had increased 150 to 175. He offered a few suggestions and enlarged on them: Don't let your class drift into a men's club; let Bible study be first. Don't think you must have a religious subject at all monthly gatherings. Don't feel that your young men's class is a field but a force. Don't put overestimate on numbers. Don't put an overestimate on human plan or intervention. He wished the class prosperity.

Rev. Dr. Francis was full of humor, telling story after story to illustrate his points. He said something was necessary for the success of a Bible class, and that was a leader, who was an incarnation of the thing he teaches. There should be a warm vigorous social life. The business of the class should be to study the word of God. The Bible was worth more than all the rest of the library put together. It is a sad thing that people of today are not as well acquainted with the Bible as their fathers were. Nothing will add such an asset as study of the Bible. Learn to do one thing well. Then cooperate with the other fellow. He wished the class success.

Delcevare King responded to the toast, the young ladies, and gave the young people a few points.

At 9.50 the banquet closed with the singing of "America."

1911 PLANS FOR AVIATION

Quincy Field to be Prominent All Summer

A glider meet is proposed for Quincy next June. At the annual meeting of the Harvard aeronautical society held in the Harvard union Monday evening, says the Globe, for the primary purpose of electing officers. Adams D. Claflin was the chief speaker, and in the course of his address he proposed that the Harvard society should take the initiative in getting up an intercollegiate glider meet, to be held next June on the Harvard aviation field in Quincy.

Mr. Claflin paid a high tribute to the enthusiasm shown by the Harvard aeronautical men and the interest they have taken in this new sport in the past year, and especially for the part they took in making the meet a success.

In connection with the idea of an intercollegiate glider meet, Mr. Claflin stated that practically all of the major colleges of New England now have active aero organizations, and many of them already have constructed gliders for experimental purposes. The Technology club has four, Tufts one, Harvard one, and others are in progress of construction for other college clubs.

Steps are being taken to construct a tower and an inclined plane on the field at Quincy, these to be especially adapted for gliding work. The tower will be 40 feet high and the plane will be made to revolve about the tower, so that the gliders can take advantage of the wind whatever direction it blows. Arrangements to construct this tower are practically complete, and as soon as the Harvard club sanctions and signifies its intention to back the proposition with its interest, Mr. Claflin declared, the plan will go through.

Concerning a second aero meet similar to the one held last summer, Mr. Claflin was confident that another could and should be held at Quincy next summer.

At the close of his address Mr. Claflin paid a high tribute to Claude Grahame-White, whom he tried to have present at the meeting, but who could not attend on account of his departure for England Wednesday. Mr. Claflin characterized Mr. Grahame-White as the best all-round sportsman of the day, and in behalf of that aviator he presented to the Harvard aero club his photograph as a token of his esteem for that organization and the courteous manner by which he was treated while in Boston.

Mr. Claflin also announced that it was Mr. Grahame-White's intention to open an aviation school in this country similar to those he is conducting in England. This school will in all probability be on the Quincy field and will be opened next summer.

With the exception of such officers of the club as were graduated last June practically all were re-elected last night. The following men will constitute the leaders of the organization for the coming year: Prof. A. L. Rotch Hon. '91, president J. V. Martin, vice president A. Sweetser '11, treasurer, E. C. Brown '12 secretary; R. M. Allen '11, R. Douglas '12, P. C. Cummin '12, S. K. Rindge '11 and H. L. Groves '12 directors; Prof. J. N. Hollis, H. N. Davis and Prof. R. N. Wilson advisory board.

PRIZES FOR APPLES

Big Yields from Orchards in Massachusetts

The special committee of the State Board of Agriculture on the disposition of the money appropriated by the Legislature of 1910 for the encouragement of orcharding has awarded the prizes offered by the board for orchard work. These prizes were open to competition of all persons owning orchards in Massachusetts, and there were many entries.

The awards are as follows: (1) for the best yield of marketable fruit from a single tree, first prize, to Frederick A. Russell of Methuen, for 56 bushels of marketable fruit from a Gravenstein tree, $25; second prize, to C. W. Mann of Methuen, for 44 bushels from a Baldwin tree, $15; third prize, to Rev. Nathaniel B. Fiske of Danvers (orchard in Stoneham), for 32 1-2 bushels from a Wealthy tree, $10.

(2) For the best yield of marketable fruit from an acre of apple orchard, trees in one solid block, first prize, to Drew-Munson Fruit Co., Harold L. Frost, treasurer, of Littleton, for 227 barrels of Baldwin apples, selling for $715.70, with a net profit of $519.55, award $50; second prize, $30, to Rev. Nathaniel B. Fiske of Danvers (orchard in Stoneham), for 115 barrels of Baldwin apples, selling for $517.50, with a net profit of $509.50.

(3) For the best results from spraying, first prize, $30, to Rev. Nathaniel B. Fiske of Danvers (orchard in Stoneham); second prize, $20, to the Drew-Munson Fruit Co., Harold L. Frost, treasurer, of Littleton. The judges took into consideration the previous condition of the orchards, the improvement shown in condition of trees, yield, and net profits resulting.

These first three classes were shown by the sworn statements of the contestants and the awards were made by the committee from an examination of these statements.

The largest number of entries was in class 4, for the best young apple orchard of not less than two acres, not necessarily in one solid block, set in 1908 or 1909. Wilfrid Wheeler of Concord, acted as judge in the class, and the following points were taken into consideration in making the awards: manner of laying out, condition of the soil, varieties, growth of trees, health of trees, shaping of the trees. First prize $50, to Turner Hill farm, Ipswich, F. A. Smith, superintendent, with a score of 95; second prize, $30, to H. A. Hale of Colrain, with a score of 91;—third prize, $20, to E. Cyrus Miller of Haydenville, with a score of 91.

MRS. H. N. HOLBROOK.

The funeral services for Mrs. H. N. Holbrook were held from her home 196 Holbrook road on Sunday at two o'clock. The Rev. John Garland of the Atlantic Methodist church conducted the services his text being Paul's words "to die is gain." H. B. Lowe of Boston sang "Some Day, Some Where" and "No Sorrow There." Interment was in the family lot in Mount Wollaston cemetery.

Among the floral offerings were:

Wreath of pinks and roses, Mr. and Mrs. William Doane.

Bouquet of pinks and chrysanthemums, Fred Reed.

White pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Collett.

Mound of pinks, roses and volets, Mrs. P. R. Sutherland, Mrs. Harriet G. Smith, William Grant

Bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums, Miss Florence E. Reed.

White chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Poquett.

Blush pinks, Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook.

LARGE SUM REALIZED

program, and before they were over the audience had come into perfect sympathy with the quartet and soloists, as was shown by their spontaneous applause.

Mr. Sullivan, who is a well known member of Quincy council, contributed a baritone solo, and for an encore sang "Silver threads among the gold."

Miss Heaney, one of Quincy's young elocutionists with a promising future, contributed two selections. "As the moon rose," and a short sketch. She was presented with a beautiful bunch of roses by some admiring friend.

Miss Galvin of Braintree, who has often been heard by Quincy audiences, received a warm reception, rendering two solos, "I love you" and "Without thee."

The next few numbers were contributed by members of the Westland quartet. The quartet opened with "The clock" and Mrs. Miller followed with "Bedouin Love Song." She immediately touched the responsive chord of her hearers with her rich deep contralto voice, and was obliged to respond to two encores. An equally responsive chord was struck by Miss Dedmun and Miss Coe in their duet, "Estudiantina," which was beautifully rendered, and also called for two encores. The quartet then sang "Song of the Shepherdess," and "Bells of Shandon." Their closing number was to have been "Carmena," but the audience were loath to part with them and they responded with two more selections.

Although the concert up to this time had occupied two hours, it is safe to say that they would gladly have remained longer had there been more numbers by the quartet.

The closing number on the program was fifteen minutes with Stanley Nichols the well known character entertainer.

Taken as a whole it was one of the most enjoyable musical entertainments given thus far this season, and Quincy council is to be congratulated on its success. The committee of the council who had the program in charge were: Lawrence W. Lyons, Henry McGee, William A. Carey, Richard A. Cole, Edward D. Barrett, Michael T. Sullivan, Harry McGrath, Robert Teasdale, George B. Powers, Gerald Sullivan, John A. McGowan, and Charles J. McGilvary.

"THE FINAL SETTLEMENT."

What is conceded to be one of the most powerful American dramas written in recent years is L. B. Parker's new romance of a phase of life in our idle rich class entitled "The Final Settlement," which comes to Quincy Music Hall, Wednesday night. The theme of the story is daring and sensational and attacks those members of society who seek recourse to the divorce courts to relieve themselves of undesirable mates. The climaxes and situations are startling and spontaneous and the story well told and consistent. The company presenting the play is of unusual excellence. The piece was a big success on the city tour in the West last season and this is its first tour East.

RED CROSS SEALS.

At meeting of Board of Managers of the Quincy Anti-Tuberculosis association on Monday, action was taken in regard to the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals. It was voted at the annual meeting that this society be appointed sub-agents; three-fourths of the proceeds to be devoted to the Mount Pleasant Fresh Air Camp and one-fourth going to the National Association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis.

Each member of the Board of managers is to act on the committee or provide a substitute. Plans will be made at a committee meeting with Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., on Monday next. Advertising cards will be placed in the cars and in public places. Last year $254.00 was raised for the camp by this sale. The co-operation of all organizations, stores, newspapers is most earnestly solicited to make this coming sale a success.

Shopping Passion.

The new bride was telephoning to the iceman.

"How much do you want?" he asked.

"Oh," and she stopped to think, "a piece about ten inches long and four wide, just enough to keep this dear little steak till Archie comes home to lunch."—Buffalo Express.

THE POLO COAT.

It's the Smart Outing Wrap of the Season.

THE NEW POLO COAT.

When is a polo coat not a polo coat? That is the question which may be answered in the same breath—when you see it worn by smart girls and women as an outing wrap, for motoring, on the tennis court as a blanket for the feminine champion as she stands to receive the congratulations of her friends after the game these cold autumn days, on the field of conquest or at football games.

The coat will be worn on cold and stormy days by swagger girls during the winter, and, in short, it's mighty useful all round wrap, but where it gets its name nobody knows.

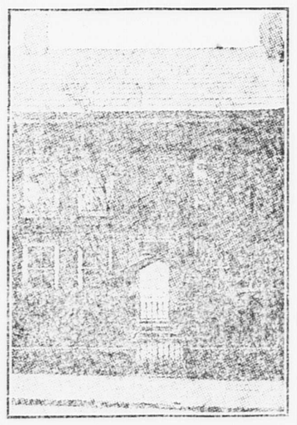

The material of the polo coat is not unlike a heavy elderdown fabric, and a snuffy brown shade is the approved color of Dame Fashion.

The coat is long, loose and double breasted and fastened with a double row of large buttons. There are a wide belt of the material drawn through straps and a collar that buttons up tightly about the throat, or it may be turned down at will. These coats range in price from $40 to $20, according to finish and material.

Where "Cranford" Was Written.

To lovers of that English classic "Cranford" this picture of the house in Manchester, England, where Mrs. Gaskell wrote her inimitable story will doubtless be of great interest.

The centenary of Mrs. Gaskell's birth was recently celebrated at Knutsford, Cheshire, the English village which furnished the author with character studies for "Cranford," in which she reproduced to the life the everyday existence of the "maiden ladies and widows of limited means" who formed the social life of the village.

THE MANCHESTER HOUSE, WHERE MRS. GASKELL SPENT MOST OF HER MARRIED LIFE.

Going Motoring.

Have you seen the new knitted hoods with border and ties that are brought round the neck, cross in front and tie low at back? They are cone shape like the caps of early Tudor reign.

Another quaint motor cap of velvet folds with brocade or cretonne border in lighter tone, ornamented on each side with a huge velvet colored button mold, is peaked like the caps of colonial days.

A close fitting motor bonnet for cold weather is of fine colored beaver with the brim turned back on the pulled crown to a depth of five inches and studded on edge with small silk rosettes.

COOPERATIVE STORE.

Henry S. Potter, Jr., of the Manhattan Cooperative store at Cambridge, which is seeking to locate one of its 10 branch stores in Quincy, gave an interesting talk on the plan before Clan McGregor on Monday evening at Doble's hall.

The plan, as explained by Mr. Potter is to have $10,000 of the stock subscribed in Quincy. The par value of shares is $10 and the stock will be sold in blocks of 100 shares each. For every 100 shares of preferred stock, 50 shares of common stock will be given. Credit will be given to stockholders, who will also be given a discount of 5 per cent on their purchases. The company guarantees 7 per cent interest on the preferred stock.

This is the company that several local men have become interested in. The proposition is understood to be to consolidate some of the large stores in City Square, or failing in this, to open a large new store. It is understood that considerable of the necessary stock has already been subscribed.

Some of the merchants are not taking to the idea very kindly.

BRIEFS

A rainy day.

Only 26 days to Christmas.

Just one week to the City election.

The George L. Gill associates are anticipating a large party at their dance tomorrow night at Electa hall.

All the live merchants of the city will be represented in the big special number of the Daily Ledger this week —5,000 extra papers will be printed.

Cards have been received in Quincy announcing the marriage at Kansas City, Missouri, on Nov. 23 of Miss Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker of this city and Mr. Franklin Stuart Nichols of Wollaston.

At the Saturday evening whist party held in Clan McGregor hall the souvenirs were awarded to Mrs. Denton, John S. Gillis, Mrs. O'Neil, F. Boutilier, Mrs. Gleason and Edward Skinner and the consolation to David McLeod and Mrs. A. J. Gould.

The Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary announce a 7 cent social to be held Dec. 7 at the Association building. It will begin at 7 minutes past 5 P. M., and end at 7 minutes of 10 P. M. All articles will be sold at 7 cents each. It is hoped that 7 times 77 may be present, as the ladies are much interested in the work for boys.

—If the gypsy and browntail moths would only eat up the fallen leaves now instead of waiting till next spring and tackling the new ones, there would be some sense in the pesky "varmints."

LITTLE TO SAY OF THE CRISIS

Critis'l Parliament Is Dissolved by King George

THE NEWFOUNDLAND AWARD

Satisfaction Over Settlement of Dispute Which Lasted Almost a Century—Dissolution Based on Issue of House of Lords—Balfour Says That Socialism and Home Rule Lurk Behind Single Chamber "Conspiracy"

London, Nov. 29.—The second parliament in the reign of the late King Edward VII, which met on Feb. 15 last, was dissolved in pursuance of the program of the Liberal government to go before the country on the question of the prerogatives of the house of lords.

The king's speech was notable for its brevity, the only reference to the constitutional crisis being a colorless expression of regret that the conference between the leaders of the opposing controlling parties had failed of an agreement over the reformation of the upper chamber.

The longest and most interesting paragraph, which immediately followed an illusion to the death of King Edward VII, dealt with the recent arbitration of the Newfoundland fisheries dispute with the United States and read:

"I confidently hope that the questions connected with the North Atlantic fisheries between Canada and Newfoundland on one hand and with the United States of America on the other, which have been the subject of controversy for nearly a century, have been at last finally settled by the award of The Hague tribunal. It is the cause of special satisfaction that it has been found possible to solve by arbitration problems of such an intricate and difficult nature, and that the award has been received by both sides in a spirit which must tend to increase good will."

The proclamation of dissolution summons a new parliament to assemble on Jan. 31, 1911.

Monday's dissolution of parliament brings to a crisis the supreme struggle now in progress to limit the legislative powers of the house of lords and thereby permit the elective branch of parliament, the house of commons, to exert larger powers in effecting legislation, more particularly measures relating to Irish home rule and the financial budgets.

The present house of commons has a ministerial majority of 124, and the present standing of the various elements is as follows: Liberals 275, Labor members 40, Nationalists 71, Independent Nationalists 11, Unionists 273. Of the foregoing, the first four groups are generally counted as supporters of the ministry, giving a ministerial strength of 397, as against the Unionist strength of 273, or a net ministerial majority of 124.

The last general election followed the dissolution of Jan. 10 last. Prior to that the ministerial majority was 334, and as a result of Unionist gains in the election the ministerial majority was reduced to the 124 of the house just dissolved. The former dissolution was also based on the issue of the house of lords, Premier Asquith having introduced a resolution declaring that the refusal of the lords to enact the financial budget passed by the commons had constituted "a breach of the constitution and a usurpation of the rights of the commons."

The election address of Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the opposition in the house of commons, is a brief document. It declares that the Unionist program of legislation is practically the same as at the general election and asserts that behind the single chamber conspiracy lurks Socialism and home rule.

"It is because both Nationalists and Socialists are aware that their darling projects are not in harmony with the considered will of the people," says Balfour, "that they press for the abolition of the only constitutional safeguard which at critical moments will enable that will to prevail."

IMPORTER ARRESTED

Alleged Undervaluation Frauds Said to Amount to $100,000

New York, Nov. 29.—United States Marshal Henkle arrested Clarence A. Walters of the firm of John S. Briggs & Sons, woolen dealers, on a federal warrant charging him with undervaluing goods imported into the country.

Assistant United States Attorney Platt declared that the alleged frauds amounted to $100,000. Walters was arraigned before Commissioner Shields and held in $10,000 bail for examination on Dec. 1.

Train Hits Twin Sisters

Chelsea, Mass., Nov. 29.—Mary and Pasqualine Desfianno of this city, twin sisters, 14 years of age, were struck by a freight train near the East Everett station last evening, and Mary was instantly killed, while her sister was thrown twenty feet and sustained many bruises and contusions.

DUEL AT CLOSE RANGE

Policeman Dies From Wound After Killing Man Who Shot Him

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—During a pistol duel at Forty-second and Pine streets last night, Policeman Bornett was shot through the spine and died later in a hospital and an unknown man, supposed to be a burglar, was shot and killed.

Bornett, who was in civil dress, had been sent to watch the locality because a number of burglaries recently were committed there. He saw two men who aroused his suspicions and he followed them. They separated at Forty-second street, and he followed one who entered an alley.

When he began to question the man, the latter drew a revolver and shot him through the body. As the policeman fell he drew his own pistol and fired two shots at his fleeing assailant. The latter dropped dead.

JURY QUICKLY SECURED

Completed by Selection of Eighty-Sixth Talesman In LeBlanc Trial

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 29.—The trial of Hattie LeBlanc, on the charge of killing Clarence F. Glover of Waltham, was halted yesterday afternoon for the jury to visit the scene of the tragedy in Waltham.

Selection of the jury progressed rapidly for a trial of this nature. One juror to about every seven talesmen was the ratio of selection. The twelfth juror selected was the eighty-sixth talesman. The jury includes three farmers, two painters, teamster, clerk, weaver, harness manufacturer, merchant, sawyer and a retired business man. The foreman is H. W. Fairbanks, ex-member of the legislature and a Sudbury farmer, 42 years old.

THOROUGH PROBE INTO GIRLS' DEATHS

Investigation of Newark Fire Has Already Begun

Newark, N. J., Nov. 29.—"If I find any city or state official guilty of negligence in the inspection of this building," said County Prosecutor Mott, as he stood by the ruins of the factory in which twenty-four girls lost their lives by fire, "there will be the bitterest sort of prosecution.

"I do not mean to imply," he continued, "that I have been before any evidence of criminal negligence, but I do mean that the investigation which begins today shall be in earnest. My view is that it ought to take the form of some sort of public hearing, and I think a coroner's jury will be the most effective instrument."

Accordingly a coroner's jury of six was sworn in, the first of its kind that has sat here in twenty years. There will also be separate inquiries by the grand jury, which visited the scene, by the state labor department and the city building department.

The destroyed building was the property of Miss Barbara Glass.

AVIATOR WHITE'S MEMENTO

Gets Silver Cup For His Remarkable Flight In Washington

New York, Nov. 29.—When Claude Grahame-White leaves for London tomorrow he will take with him a particularly graceful memento of his visit via aeroplane to the war department when in Washington.

It is in the shape of a tall, slender and handsomely engraved silver cup presented to him by Brigadier General Allen, chief signal officer of the United States army. The inscription on the cup reads:

"To Mr. Claude Grahame-White, for his admirable flight to the war and navy departments, Washington, D. C., Oct. 14, 1910, from the chief signal officer of the United States army, Brigadier General James Allen."

MINISTER A SUICIDE

Woman May Have Been Concerned In Philadelphia Tragedy

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—Rev. Michael A. Starr last evening committed suicide in a rooming house by inhaling illuminating gas. The body of the minister, who has been officiating in several local churches, was lying across a trunk when found.

According to the landlady, Starr came to the house at an early hour yesterday morning. He was accompanied by a good looking woman, for whom the police are looking but of whom they have no trace. That the minister intended to commit suicide is proved by a note found on the dresser.

TUFTS TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Former Cashier Was to Be Examined as to Sanity

CHARGED WITH $8000 THEFT

Had Retracted Plea of Not Guilty and Was Under Bail—Goes to Home of Former President of Rockport National Bank and Sends Bullet Through His Heart as Old Friend Comes to the Door

Rockport, Mass., Nov. 29.—George W. Tufts, former cashier of the Rockport National bank, who was recently indicted for the alleged larceny of about $8000 from the bank, committed suicide by shooting here last evening. He was out on bail pending an examination as to his sanity.

About two weeks ago Tufts retracted his former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to one of the eight counts of the indictment. He was then released on bail again, pending the question of having him examined as to his sanity.

Yesterday Tufts left town, without informing anyone where he was going. Returning on a late afternoon train, he walked to the home of Loring Grimes, former president of the bank, whose wife is Tufts' aunt. Tufts rang the bell, and when a servant had called Grimes to the door, Tufts tore open his coat and before Grimes could make a move to prevent him, drew a revolver and shot himself through the heart. He dropped on the steps, and Dr. Tupper, who was quickly summoned, stated that death was instantaneous.

Following the regular examination of the Rockport National bank in April last, a bank examiner made an unexpected visit to the institution late in June. After looking over the bank's books, he had a conference with bank officials, and when he returned to Boston, Tufts went with him.

The cashier was taken into the federal court and held for the grand jury, which later indicted him on eight counts charging larceny and forgery of notes. It was charged that he obtained about $8000 from the bank, partly by means of notes to which he is alleged to have forged the names of his wife and of Alvin Smith of Portland, Me. Tufts pleaded not guilty, but later decided to change his plea.

Tufts, who was 52 years old, had long been prominent in town affairs, and had served as town treasurer and selectman. He leaves a widow and one son.

TO SAVE MAN'S LIFE

Half a Dozen Nurses Each Part With a Square Inch of Skin

New York, Nov. 29.—Six nurses of the city hospital, Jersey City, participated in a sacrifical act that will assure them of bearing for life a badge indicating that they contributed their mite toward saving a human life.

On the left arm of each, midway between the shoulder and the elbow, is a spot about an inch square, from which the skin was deftly pared by a razor-edged knife of a surgeon.

The six contributions of skin from the young women were added to others and the total of twenty-four square inches used in a skin grafting effort to save the life of James Skalton, who had been severely burned on the face and arm by hot tar.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER
Absolutely smokeless and odorless
you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.
The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An Indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. The heater has a cool handle and a damper top.
The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

A little backache at first.
Daily increasing till the back is lame and weak.
Urinary disorders quickly follow:
Diabetes and finally Bright's disease.
This is the downward course of kidney ills.
Don't take this course. Follow the advice of a Quincy citizen.

Mrs. George L. Nott, 99 North street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have every reason for holding a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled a great deal by headaches and dizzy spells which were so severe at times that I had to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My sight was also affected, spots often appearing before me and my back ached intensely. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, my case being of long standing, I was cured. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pills with equally good results."

ALASKA NEEDS HER COAL

Development of Territory Checked by Ill-Advised Restrictions

Washington, Nov. 29.—Expressing it as his opinion that want of cheap fuel and the delay in opening the Alaska coal fields are the strongest adverse factors in the present problem of territorial progress, Governor Clark of Alaska, in his annual report to the secretary of the interior, declares that "the ill-advised policy of forbidding all development of the large coal resources of Alaska or of placing such a restrictions upon development as to make the embarkation of private capital impossible is to be deprecated, while the policy of conservation by proper use is to be encouraged.

"This coal," he says, "is needed for the industries of the territory and for the physical comfort of our people, and on no account should it be withheld from those uses."

BANK HAS MADE NO GAIN IN DEPOSITS

Enjoined From Business Except the Collection of Money

Bath, Me., Nov. 29.—The People's Safe Deposit and Savings bank was closed by an injunction issued by Associate Justice Savage of the supreme court on petition of State Bank Examiner Skelton.

Mr. Skelton explained that the action was not taken because of lack of confidence in the institution or its officers, but for the reason that the bank has not made any gain in deposits for some time; that there is such a strong competition in this vicinity for business and the bank was not on a firm enough basis to compete with the other banks.

Justice Savage ordered a hearing to be held on Dec. 27 and that an injunction be issued pending the hearing, restraining the bank from proceeding further with its business except the collection of moneys due it. The injunction was served and no further business will be done pending an order from the court.

Patient Who Is Cured In a Hospital Refuses to Get Out

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—Robert Ross, 28 years old, who has been a patient at St. Mary's hospital since Nov. 6, refuses to leave the institution, his claim being that he is dead and therefore can not leave the building. Ross has been a victim of pneumonia for the last three weeks. He was pronounced cured yesterday and was told to get out.

"You can't put me out," Ross declared. "I'm dead."

The hospital authorities resorted to heroic means to prove to Ross that he still lived but he refused to respond to treatment. He is still in the hospital.

CONSERVATION LEGISLATION

Will Be Actively Pushed by Pinchot and His Friends

ACTION AT SHORT SESSION

Attack Will Be Made on Smoot Measure, Which Has Backing of Much Strength of West, as Represented In Senate—Efforts to Have Government Control Ground Under Surface of Land Taken Up by Individuals

Washington, Nov. 29.—Gifford Pinchot, president of the National Conservation association, is preparing for an aggressive campaign at the next session of congress in behalf of a cause for which he has been working ever since he saw his first tree. The other officials of the association, including the militant secretary, Thomas R. Shipp, and the equally militant attorney, Philip Wells, are preparing to accompany Pinchot in the attack.

Recently there was issued by the National Conservation association a summary of legislation, bearing the signature of Pinchot as president of the association. In it this was written: "In spite of all opposition, the principles for which we stand have been enacted into law, in a considerable number of cases, and are represented in many bills still awaiting action. More than one avenue to monopolistic grabbing of the people's property has been closed, but much still remains to be done."

The conservationists are going to try to do the "much" during the coming short session. They are strong in antagonism to a bill now pending in the senate which proposes to grant the control of water power sites to the undivided states. It is known as the Smoot bill and its subject matter has been the cause of debate in congress and in the country, but particularly in the western country. Conservationists believe in federal control.

Much of the strength of the west, as it is represented in the senate, will be exerted on behalf of the Smoot bill. Some of the insurgent Republicans from the "far country," however, will stand by the conservationists. Congress is to be told by the opponents of the Smoot bill "that the nation is morally bound to exercise for the general welfare its constitutional power to dispose of and to regulate the public domain, and that in surrendering its land titles to power sites, and therefore the control of their present and future use, the federal government would be shirking its duty to the people whose property it holds in trust."

Last year President Taft devoted a special message to the subject of conservation. Some of his recommendations were not to the liking of the forces of Pinchot and in two or three instances on minor bills they succeeded in securing amendments which they say have improved the recommended legislation greatly. It is probable that the president will have something to say about conservation in his forthcoming message.

Some of the western interests will fight hard against any proposition to separate "forever and all time" the surface lands which are to be opened for agricultural purposes from the ground which lies beneath the surface. Already there is legislation which covers this matter in part, and the conservationists admit that the passage of one bill on the subject "powerfully assists" the conservation of coal and is a bulwark against theft and waste.

The hope of the conservation association is that before long a law will be enacted which will provide for the retention of the government ownership of all the mineral fuel and asphaltum which may be found under the surface of land taken up by individuals. They want the law made general, rather than merely to apply to specific cases.

The Appalachian forest reserve bill passed the house at the last session after a hard contest. The senate did not take altogether kindly to the measure, but the senators agreed to vote on it Feb. 15 next. Some of the senators may make up their minds to prevent the passage of the bill by means known to senatorial procedure.

It is needless to say, perhaps, that Pinchot is particularly interested in securing the passage of this measure. It has been opposed by men whose sole reason, it is charged, for opposition was personal dislike of the former chief forester. The conservationists believe that this measure, proposed years ago and which has been battledored and shuttlecocked from one house to another, finally will be passed and that the forests of the eastern mountain chain in a large part will be preserved for all time.

BALKS AT BIG BALL

California's Governor-Elect Prefers a Simple Inaugural

Sacramento, Nov. 29.—Governor-elect Johnson will not attend the customary inaugural ball here and his refusal may result in the affair being called off. In a letter to the mayor of this city, declining to attend the ball, he says:

"So far as I am personally concerned, I prefer that your plans be not carried out. The design of the administration I am about to enter upon is simple and direct, and I wish my inauguration to be of the most simple and direct character, without ceremony or ostentation."

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Chestnut Soup. Peel about 60 chestnuts and blanch until the inner skin can be removed, then cook them gently in well flavored soup stock until tender enough to rub throgh a sieve. Dilute with the liquor in which they were cooked and serve very hot with croutons or squares of toast.

Chicken Sandwiches. Chop the white meat of chicken very fine, then pound to a smooth pulp in a mortar. Season to taste with salt, pepper, olive oil and a little lemon juice, and spread upon thin slices of lightly buttered bread cut in fancy shapes. The covers to these slices are spread with butter into which are pressed almonds or English walnuts sliced or chopped very fine. Put together and press.

White Cake. One cup of butter and three cups of powdered sugar, rubbed to a cream; add one cup of sweet milk, five cups of flour, the whites of twelve eggs, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one cup of shredded citron.

Chocolate Fillings. Melt two squares of chocolate in a small saucepan set in another of boiling water. Beat the whites of two eggs until light, add three-quarters cup of powdered sugar slowly, beating it into the egg. When all is smooth add the hot chocolate and beat well. Flavor with one-half teaspoon of vanilla and it is ready to spread.—Gene Weld.

Peanut Cookies. Cream one rounding tablspoon of butter with one-quarter cup of fine granulated sugar, add two tablespoons of milk, one well beaten egg, one-half cup of flour sifted with one level teaspoon of baking powder, a saltspoon of salt and one-half cup of finely chopped peanuts. Drop by teaspoons on to an unbuttered pan about an inch apart and bake in a slow oven.

Nut Spice Cake. One-half cup butter one cup brown sugar, one-half cup molasses, yolk of three eggs, one cup thick sour milk, two and three-quarters cups sifted pastry flour, one level teaspoonful soda, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon, one-quarter grated nutmeg, one cup sultana raisins, one-half cup pecan nuts, one level teaspoonful baking powder. BRIEFS

The new concrete sidewalk on Granite street is completed.

Frank Fessenden Crane will represent Quincy at the Rivers and Harbors Congress in Washington next week.

Bishop Lawrence will hold confirmation at Christ church on Sunday at 4.30.

George Monk is to furnish the music tomorow night for the dance of the George L. Gill associates.

All men of British birth are invited to the social to be tendered at the Y. M. C. A. this evening from 7.30 to 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Neal of Summit avenue are spending the winter at the Parker House, Boston.

George L. Gill Rebekah lodge will initiate six candidates at the regular meeting on Thursday evening in I. O. O. F. hall.

Robert T. Johnson, I. W. Taylor and Dr. Everett Hardwick left Monday for New Hampshire, where they expect to bag some game.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney of Farrington street announce the engagement of their daughter, Sally Thompson to Mr. Arnold Hopkins of Bromfield street.

Truant Officer Charles H. Johnson had three boys in court this morning for playing truant. They came from the Coddington, Washington and John Hancock school districts.

From what is heard on the streets, a stranger would never know that a political war was near at hand. There seems to be but little interest on the outside, although there may be a still hunt on that will work surprises. A grand display of political fireworks is looked for before the end of the week.

The Banquet committee of the Ward Four Improvement Association held another enthusiastic meeting Monday evening. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at the regular meeting of the association on Thursday evening at Dolan's hall to act on the report of the committee. A collation will be served at the meeting.

The official ballot for the Municipal election Dec. 6 is published today by City Clerk Keith. In Wards One, Two and Three, twelve crosses are necessary to vote the whole ticket, and in Wards Four, Five and Six, eleven crosses will be sufficient. Study the list carefully and make up your mind how you intend to vote .

QUINCY POINT MEN'S CLUB.

The address which was to be given tomorrow night on the "Panama Canal" by Mr. L. K. Rourke, superintendent of streets for the city of Boston, has unexpectedly been postponed on account of a sudden call for Mr. Rourke to go west today, which will necessitate his absence from town the balance of the week. By the courtesy of the directors of the Boston—1915—movement, one of their corps of speakers has been secured for tomorrow night's meeting. Leslie Hayford, the secretary of the North American Civic League for Immigrants, will give an address on "Old ideals and new citizens—the assimilation of the immigrant."

The meeting is called for at 8 o'clock, and visitors are welcome, especially members of the other Men's Clubs in the city. Music and a collation will be furnished during the evening. A business meeting of the members will be held at 7.30 o'clock, at which a large attendance is requested.

The committee are pleased to report that Mr. Rourke's address will be given at the next monthly meeting of the club, Wednesday evening, December 28, and the debate arranged for that evening has been put over, due announcement of which will be given later.

A SPLIT IN HYDE PARK.

As a sort of counter movement against the recent petition for the annexation of Hyde Park to Boston, a number of residents of Hyde Park have filed with the secretary of the commonwealth a petition for legislation to authorize the annexation of that part of Hyde Park between Milton and the Neponset river to Milton. The petition is intended as a protest against the annexation of Hyde Park to Boston, says the Boston Advertiser.

This part of Hyde Park, it is stated, was formerly part of Milton, and expresses a desire on the part of its citizens to "get back into the fold." It is said to be favored by all the residents of the district.

Though a sort of counter petition to that for annexation to Boston, it is stated by the filer of the petition that the annexation of this section of the town to Milton is not new, but has been agitated for a long time, before the filing of the other petition.

The petition is signed by F. P. Rafter, Geo. E. Whiting, J. A. Morgan, J. L. Curtis, H. S. Thompson and a number of others, and is to be presented to the legislature after it is advertised according to law. No draft of a bill was filed with the petition.

LADIES' NIGHT.

The young men's club of the Wollaston Baptist church observed ladies night in the chapel on Monday evening. The greater part of the evening was taken up with a fine program of music and readings.

Miss Annabelle G. Phinney of Roslindale, who is no stranger in Wollaston musical circles, gave several pleasing vocal solos, being accompanied on the piano by Miss Kirwin.

One of the hits of the evening were the glee songs of a quartet of Wollaston young men, Messrs Pinkham, Sayward, Thomas and Pinkham. Their songs were spirited and of the humorous variety.

The readings of Miss Rogers were excellent and she was recalled again and again.

An orchestra comoposed of Miss Dorothy Sayward, Max Pinkham, Everett Rhodes, Ernest Pletsch and Charles Sayward helped fill out a most enjoyable evening. The evening closed with an hour of games and refreshments.

WORK AMONG QUINCY BOYS

Boys' Department of Our Y M. C. A. a Leader

The boys' department of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association is now ranked among the first, if not the first, in the United States. Its work is carried along on the most scientific basis and deserves great commendation as does its leader. The entire work is carried on by the boys for boys, and here lies the secret of its success.

No argument of course is needed in these days for a work among boys, as all agree that this is one of the most important parts of a community. The work which the Boys' department of our city is doing is not confined to the building, but it a city wide and even district-wide work.

In South Quincy a club is organized which takes boys of the entire community, and not only gives the boys a place to go for one night a week, but the spirit of the club permeates the whole week, and the result is manlier and cleaner boys. A night at this club includes for the first half hour, study of the Bible ,after which a social time or an educational talk of some sort, such as: submarine diving, business as a profession, patriotic night, debates and any quantity of attractions all conducted by the boys themselves.

Similar clubs are being conducted at Wollaston, Atlantic and Quincy Point. All meet weekly and by the many activities and also the use of the Boy Scout movement, the characters of these boys are being molded along the right lines.

The commendable feature of this work is that it takes the boys of the entire community, and all have been established long enough now so that it is a part of the community life.

Another feature of the work is the fact that the Boys Work director is juvenile probation officer of the East Norfolk District court. About forty boys are now under his care, and a definite benefit is being felt by the superintendent of schools and chiefs of police. The probation system is being worked aimost to the letter. Not only with boys that are brought into court, but with boys that are on the road and need at the right time just the right word.

Of course the work in the building is the center from which all the work stretches forth. Here is carried on a work among employed boys, students and junior boys, physical, social, educational and religious. The religious work is the strongest feature, and through Bible study, meetings weekly for younger boys and older boys, higher ideals and ambitions are being developed. Outing, hikes, educational trips and innumerable other activities interest and hold the boy. The policy of the Boys' department is to cooperate with every agency for the betterment of boy life and to harness energy; to develop latent ability; to eliminate the undesirable; to make Christian character.

STRUCK BY ELECTRIC.

A Boston paper reports that Angelo La Cicero of South Quincy had his right thigh broken Monday night at Fields Corner, Dorchester, an elevated car striking the farmer's wagon he was driving and throwing him across the street upon the curbing. Cicero was on his way from Boston to South Quincy with a load of produce and at 7 had reached the junction of Adams street and Dorchester avenue. He had cleared the inbound track except for the rear wheels when the wagon was struck. Cicero was taken to the City hospital.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The Letter Carriers connected with the Quincy post office have challenged the postal clerks to a bowling match, and have named as their team: W. Mullane, A. H. Dunham, T. Sullivan, L. P. Sullivan and John Cunniff.

TOURISTS IN JAPAN.

Troubles of Those Ignorant of the Language and Native Ways.

All Japanese inns, of course, charge a great deal more to the globe trotting European tourist who does not speak the language, since he or she is not content to travel strictly a la Japonaise and worries the entire household with a variety of strange demands—extra quilts to sleep on because they find the floor hard, an improvised pillow, special food (the ordinary guest takes what is given him and at the hour that his host pleases and is thankful), knives, forks and spoons because he has neglected to practice eating his food with chopsticks, a bath with fresh water in it because he will not follow the custom of entering the bath as soon as he arrives, thus getting the opportunity of first bath and the water while it is fresh, and half a dozen other requirements. He reserves his chadai also until he leaves, and often the host misunderstands this action and, fearing he will get no recompense for his extra trouble, augments the bill accordingly.

These visitors not unusually treat the waitresses like so many novel playthings, especially travelers of the sterner sex, who sometimes fail hopelessly to distinguish between professional geishas and ordinary maidservants.—Vera Collum in Wide World Magazine.

MANYUEMA CANNIBALS.

African Savages That Grind Their Teeth to Sharp Points.

The most terrible species of cannibals living are the cruel, bloodthirsty Manyuema of Tanganyika, in central Africa. Living to the west of Tanganyika, these cannibals, clothed in primitive fashion with a piece of bark cloth rudely hammered out from a neighboring tree, have an appetite for human flesh which is well nigh insatiable.

They exercise the most fiendish cunning in tracking down their quarry, choosing fat, well covered people in preference to those who are lean and bony. Their favorite practice is to waylay their victims at eventide so that they may have before them a long night in which to effectually dispose of their prey by cutting it up into strips and drying it over a low fire in the woods. These dried strips of human flesh are carefully preserved for future use, and on two occasions these grewsome forest food depots were discovered and their owners killed by the Wafipa people, who inhabit east Tanganyika.

Most of these cannibals file their teeth to sharp points so as to enable them more easily to tear the flesh from the bone when they have to eat their abominable meal in a hurry.—Wide World Magazine.

An Unreasonable Friend.

Several young artists in Philadelphia are telling a story on another wielder of the brush who is a fellow member in a little club. One of the rules of the club is that each member must keep his finished paintings up to a certain number. The artist on whom the story is told is noted for his indolence. He keeps up to the requirement regarding the number, but never exceeds it. But for his distaste for work the artist probably would be very comfortably fixed financially, as he has considerable talent. As a matter of fact, he is usually on the edge of penury. Several days ago, when his exchequer was unusually low, a friend visited him in his studio. The friend looked at several of the paintings, while the artist lay on a couch, smoking a pipe.

"I like this," the friend finally said, pointing to one of them. He named a good price which he was willing to pay. The artist looked at him mournfully.

"Aw, don't do that," he said. "If you do I'll have to paint another."—Philadelphia Times.

Ancient Bridge Superstition.

A primitive notion existed among the Romans and other races that a bridge was an offense and injury to the river god, as it saved people from being drowned while fording or swimming across and robbed the deity of a certain number of victims which were his due. For many centuries in Rome propitiatory offerings of human victims were made every year to the Tiber. Men and women were drowned by being bound and flung from the wooden Sublician bridge, which, till nearly the end of the republican period, was the one and only bridge across the Tiber in Rome.

Strategy.

The turkey was not a very large one, and Mrs. Pedagog's boarders began to be a little anxious on the subject of its going around. Finally the last bit was distributed, and the idiot, glancing at his portion, observed that he had drawn the neck and the pope's nose.

"Ah, Mrs. Pedagog," said he, with a genial smile, "you are a wonder at making both ends meat."—Lippincott's.

SLOSSON CONFIDENT OF DEFEATING HOPPE

Despite the fact that under regulations governing the challenging for championship matches George Slosson was not in a position to challenge Willie Hoppe for the 18.1 balk line billiard title, after forfeiting recently, until after the first of the year, Hoppe has accepted Slosson's defi and conceded to the challenger's request that the match be a two night affair. The men will play in New York Dec. 1 and 2.

Slosson originally challenged Hoppe for the premier honors at this style of billiard play, and the match was set for Nov. 2, but owing to Slosson claiming that he did not have time to practice and get into shape to play at his best he forfeited. The rules attest that after a forfeit the challenger must wait sixty days before again challenging.

However, Slosson claims that he will be in grand shape for his match with Hoppe and believes that he will surely capture the honors from the boy wonder. The men will play 500 points a night for a purse of $1,000 and the receipts, the winner to take all.

BASKETBALL PLAYER GETS $450 MONTHLY.

Through the influence of United States Senator Boies Penrose, Harry Hough, the greatest of all basketball players, obtained a leave of absence from the Trenton (N. J.) postoffice and is now in Pittsburg, where he is playing with the South Side Athletic club five. Hough is to receive a salary of $450 a month for seventeen games, almost twice as much as has ever been paid to any other basketball player for the same length of service. For four years Hough captained the South Side five and always had them near the top of the Central league pennant fight, but last year he remained in the east and played with the Trenton team. His playing won the pennant.

COLLEGE ICE HOCKEY.

Intercollegiate League to Open In New York Dec. 22.

The Intercollegiate Ice Hockey league will be made up the same as last year, with six teams—Princeton, Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Cornell and Dartmouth. It is generally conceded that Cornell is the most likely looking team this year, as the Ithacans suffered least in losing stars by graduation last June.

Princeton, last season's champions, lost two star linemen in Captain Peacock and Reed, and Yale has lost her two star men in Captain Heron and Martin. Tom Howard, who directed the Elis last year, will undoubtedly again be in charge. Harvard will have a difficult time filling the gap caused by the graduation of Hicks, last year's captain. The Columbia team will be coached by Percy Leseur, formerly identified with the Ottawa professional champions.

The opening of the intercollegiate season in New York will be an exhibition contest between Williams and Princeton on Dec. 22. Other exhibition games have been arranged with teams not in the big six, and the regular season will open in January.

Polo Season Opens Dec. 1.

The polo season will open on the Pacific coast Dec. 1. The dates already settled for the tournament are: Coronado, Jan. 1, 1911; Riverside, Feb. 16 to 22; Coronado championships, March 23 to April 5, and Pasadena, April 5 to 12. The first tourney at Coronado will establish the rating of the players. The series at Riverside will be for the Frank Mackel cup. The second tourney at Coronado will be for the All America polo trophy, valued at $4,000; the Spreckels cup championship of California and many other cups. The Pasadena tournament will be for the Hogan and other cups. Crack teams from the eastern states and also Canada, Mexico and Great Britain are entered.

A Very Large Mine.

There was once in Cripple Creek an old character named Burns. He was an odd person who always, no matter what his work, wore what used to be called a "Prince Albert." He struck a rich vein of ore and named that the Prince Albert. Being of a generous and convivial disposition, this lucky fellow was, of course, surrounded by many self seeking friends. When he and they were in their cups some of them, with an eye to the main chance, managed to wheedle out of Burns on one pretext or another a deed of a share in his mine. With royal prodigality he scattered deeds about among his retainers and camp followers until finally something had to be done, and the case was taken into court. One of the lawyers had Burns on the stand. "Now, Mr. Burns," said the lawyer, "will you please tell the court how you can explain your conduct? The evidence shows that you have deeded away twenty-nine twenty-fourths of your mine. What have you to say to that?" "Well, sir," replied the witness, "you must remember, sir, that the Prince Albert is a very large mine."

A Cleanup.

The three amateur sharpers smiled. They thought they had found an easy mark. He was well dressed and grossly inebriated. And he bore a tight roll of bills that looked like a bologna sausage.

"Boys," he thickly said, "I'm goin' to shend thish wad of shtuff to th' gov'ment laundry an' have it dry cleaned. It's sho fearful dirty. Maybe one of you gents would kindly shee it's addreshed to proper place?"

"Why, yes," replied the gang. "We'll take care of it."

"Thanks," replied the victim. "An' now I mush ashk you to lemme have a few clean bills for emergensish, don't you know."

So they searched themselves and gave him a new twenty and a ten and a five. Then, taking the soiled wad, they hurried away.

Two days later the three clever ones were arrested for having counterfeit money in their possession.

But the guileless inebriate was seen no more.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ENFORCE THE CURFEW LAW

Should Not Be a Dead Letter in Quincy

Many people have doubtless forgotten that there is in Quincy an ordinance known as the Curfew Ordinance. This ordinance was passed some years ago but of late years has become a dead letter although the curfew blows continue to be struck on the fire alarm bells at 8.55 every night.

The ordinance which is numbered 26 is entitled "An Ordinance in relation to children under sixteen years of age." It provides briefly that "No child under the age of sixteen years shall loiter or remain upon any street, highway, park or other public way or place in this city after the hour of nine o'clock in the afternoon of any day, unless accompanied by, or under the control or care of a parent, guardian or other adult person, or performing or returning from employment or from the performance of some duty, directed in writing by said parent, guardian or other adult person; and no such child, while performing such duty, or returning from the performance thereof, or from employment, shall loiter upon any such street, highway, park or other public way or place." The ordinance also provides that the penalty for the violation of this ordinance shall not exceed five dollars.

For a time after the ordinance was passed it was enforced, and the public streets became free of the hundreds of young boys and girls that now nightly frequent the public streets, and squares, but as noted above the ordinance has become practically a dead letter.

In view of the recent agitation in regard to the crowds of young people that throng the streets at nights, learning and seeing things that are morally harmful, it would not be out of place if the enforcement of the ordinance was again enforced. As told in the Daily Ledger at the time, a recent meeting was held with Judge Avery of the district court, of the school superintendents, probation officers and chief of police of towns in the East Norfolk district. The object of this meeting was to discuss what was best to be done in the way of putting a check on the young boys and girls who are growing up in the community, and whom if not checked would eventually be led into an immoral life.

As stated at that time, parents do not seem to have any control whatever over their children, so that it is up to the authorities to take a hand. One way would be that the Chief of Police should be instructed to inform his night officers to enforce the curfew law. The night officers who are on duty in City Square and other public places know full well who these young people are that should be kept off the streets, and if a warning does not suffice let them be summoned before the juvenile court, where they may be given to understand that night loitering on the street corners and public places must cease.

RECEPTION AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Men of British Birth Have a Gala Evening

The reception to the men of British birth at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening proved to be a most enjoyable occasion to the hundred or more present. During the first part of the evening there was an interesting entertainment which included British and Scotch songs by James White, Mr. Harkins and others, Frank Gilbert acting as accompanist. Joseph Carruthers, who presided, then called upon a number of the gentlemen present, who responded with interesting old country stories. Among those to contribute in this line were Archibald McLeod and H. A. Haslett.

There was also a brief talk by E. G. Gay, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who welcomed the guests present. He also spoke of the work which the Y. M. C. A. was doing for the new Americans.

Richard Laurie also spoke of what the Y. M. C. A. had done for him during his three months' residence in Quincy.

Refreshments were served after which the guests had an opportunity to see the work going on in the gymnasium, also the swimming pool.

Before adjourning it was decided to form a permanent organization which was done. The object being to bring together men of British birth who may be residents of Quincy. The following officers were elected:

President—Joseph Carruthers.
Vice President—Archibald McLeod.
Secretary—John Forrester.
Treasurer—A. W. Coates.
Executive Committee — Charles Laing, J. Brooks, B. G. Barnes.

All men of British birth interested in the new organization are requested to communicate with John Forrester, the secretary, at 16 Edison street.

QUARRY ACCIDENT.

Peter Guiliane, of 40 Bryant avenue, a quarryman employed at the O. T Rogers granite quarry, had the heel of his right foot badly crushed this morning when a large block of granite upon which he was at work fell upon him. He was attended by Dr. Ash and later removed to the City Hospital in the police ambulance.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of Ciscidio Berardinelli, for unlawfully soliciting orders for liquor at Quincy, was placed on file on payment of $75 on account of costs.

—"Women voters should remember that they are like the boys casting their first vote and are not capable of holding offices at the present time, and I would not think of supporting a woman for commissioner in case the commission form of government is adopted," said May Arkwright Hutton of Spokane, president of the Washington Political Equality league in speaking of questions that have arisen since the right-to-vote franchise has been given to women of that state, adding: "Women must not abuse their privileges. Any right minded woman will realize that she is in the class with a boy of 21 who is casting his first vote, and the first thing to do is to study conditions and gain information, which will take much time." When asked if she would favor a woman commissioner under any conditions, Mrs. Hutton said: "Absolutely not at this time. I was for votes for American women. The questions in such an office would be new to the women. My idea was not that women should immediately seek political honors, but that they should support honorable, capable men for such positions."

MANY ISSUES AGAINST MAYOR

Raised at the Ward Three Republican Rally

A largely attended and enthusiastic Republican rally was held Tuesday night in Doble's hall, South Quincy. Ex-Councilman Walter E. Piper presided, and in opening said the meeting was held to meet the candidates and hear what they had to say, and show why there should be a change at City Hall. The President of the United States is forbidden by law to serve more than two terms, the Governor of the State three terms, and there was an unwritten law that the Senator should not serve three terms. No Mayor has ever aspired for a fourth term. The present Mayor had been given a fair trial and found wanting.

The first speaker was Candidate Hobbs, and he spoke largely in the same vein as at the opening rally in Atlantic. This is a Municipal corporation, and it is for the voters to decide in whose hands the trust shall be put. He quoted from the circular issued by Mayor Shea in 1908, when he denied political activity on the part of his office holders, yet the morning following the issue of that circular an office holder was at work at the polls in Ward Six. He also said the debt would be reduced, but had it? It has increased $200,000 which does not include the two new school houses and a loan passed at the last Council meeting. During his term no great public work has been projected. During the last year of Mayor Thompson the city was bonded outside of school houses for $40,000. This year $109,000 will be added to the debt, a larger part of which is for current expenses. In it is a bonded appropriation for clerical hire which is certainly not busi-

CITY ELECTION

CITY OF QUINCY

City Clerk's Office, Nov. 25, 1910.

In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 560, Acts of 1907, notice is hereby given that meetings of the citizens of Quincy qualified to vote in city affairs will be held on TUESDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1910, in the following places, namely:

Ward 1, Precinct 1, Council Chamber, City Hall.
Ward 1, Precinct 2, Council Chamber, City Hall.
Ward 2, Precinct 1, Hose House, Washington Street.
Ward 2, Precinct 2, White's Building, Union Street and Newcomb Place.
Ward 3, Precinct 1, Doble's Hall Franklin Street.
Ward 3, Precinct 2, Police Building, School Street.
Ward 4, Precinct 1, St. Mary's Hall, Willard Street.
Ward 4, Precinct 2, Hose House, Copeland Street.
Ward 5, Precinct 1, Hose House, Beale Street.
Ward 5, Precinct 2, Hose House, Beale Street.
Ward 6, Precinct 1, Music hall, Newbury Avenue.
Ward 6, Precinct 2, Poland Building, Billings Road.

The polls will be opened at 6 o'clock in the morning and will be closed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and all such citizens may, in the several precincts in which they are entitled to vote, between said hours, give in their votes for a Mayor, Five Councilmen-at-large, Three Councilmen from each Ward, One member of the School Committee-at-large for three years, One member of the School Committee for Ward 2 and one member of the School Committee for Ward 3 for three years, and one member of the School Committee for Ward 1 for two years; also their votes "Yes" or "No" in answer to the following question: "Shall licenses be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors in this City?"

MASSACHUSETTS MONUMENT.

A dispatch from Petersburg, Va., to the Globe says, the Massachusetts battlefield commission has selected a site on the Crater battlefield farm, in Prince George county, a short distance from Petersburg, for a monument to be erected by the state of Massachusetts to the memory of the soldiers of that state who were killed in the battle in front of Petersburg.

The site selected is at the mouth of the Crater lane on the Jerusalem plank road. The date for the dedication of the monument will be fixed by the Massachusetts state art commission.

The state of Massachusetts has expressed its high appreciation of the cordial attitude of A. P. Hill camp of confederate veterans of Petersburg on the monument matter and the state is simply awaiting further developments to secure a title to the land from the heirs of Mr. Griffin, former owner of the Crater farm.

As soon as the preliminaries have been arranged the commission will take possession of the lot and proceed with the erection of the monument. This will make three federal monuments within sight of one another.

ELK'S MEMORIAL.

Arrangements are all completed for the annual memorial service of Quincy lodge of Elks which will be held Sunday evening at Alpha hall, to which the general public are cordially invited. The program will include selections by the Temple quartet, a general address by Rev. Edward A. Chase of the Wollaston Congregational church, and a general eulogy by Dr. J. P. Gibbons, past exalted ruler of Winthrop lodge.

—The number of predictions made quietly by well informed democrats some of them legislators-elect, that Mr. Lodge is sure to be sent back to fill the post in which he has done the state such signal service, is the most significant comment we hear on the situation. The whole state now agrees that the general court and not Gen. Foss will make the choice.—Boston Record.

MORE SALARY FOR TEACHERS

Petition Presented to School Committee

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening Messrs. Burke, Barker, Bushnell, Curtis, Hunting, McKay and Newcomb present. In the absence of Chairman Miller, Dr. Hunting was elected chairman pro-tem.

The Superintendent was authorized to advertise for bids for fuel.

It was voted to expend the income of the Rock Island fund in the purchase of reference books for the High School library.

It was voted that the Superintendent be instructed to make arrangements for an address before the High School on "Thrift," as illustrated by the Savings Bank insurance.

A petition was received from the teachers asking for an increase of salaries which was referred to the committee on finance with instructions to report at the next meeting.

The financial statement to date was reported as follows:

	Appropriation.	Expended.	Balance.
Salaries	$119,500	$104,873.23	$14,626.77
Janitors	10,530	9,258.29	1,271.71
Books & sundries	11,600	11,329.96	270.04
Fuel	8,000	7,453.59	546.41
Transportation	1,484	1,430.00	54.00
Rent	360	330.00	30.00
Evening Schools	2,000	1,126.90	873.1
Totals	$153,474	$135,801.97	$17,672.03

Note: $1,000 was transferred from the appropriation for salaries to the appropriation for fuel, November 9, 1910.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The public at large will have reason for congratulation if congress, as is reported likely, addresses itself to the regulation of cold storage plants. There is no question of the role which these plants play in the maintenance of artificially high prices. In the matter of storage, too, there is no limitation of period, a condition of things that can be attacked, with plenty of justification, on the score of protection to public health. Attention was some time ago directed to the fact that there is nothing like a uniform system of inspection of what is placed in storage or what is taken out. If this subject is probed as the situation demands, there is no question that congress will be able to find abundant ground for legislation of benefit to the public, and as well from the standpoint of health as from that of practical considerations. The wonderful expansion of cold storage plants may be traced within certain bounds to legitimate policies. Kept within these bounds, the establishments respond to functions against which no just criticism can be directed. It is when these bounds are exceeded, however, and legitimate uses are abused, that justification for the employment of the "be-it-enacted" power becomes strikingly apparent. It will hardly be a difficult matter for congress to effect desirable reforms in this quarter, once it has addressed itself vigorously to the problem.—Salem News.

Premier's Life Endangered

Athens, Nov. 30.—An attempt was made to wreck a train on which Premier Venizelos was traveling. An iron bar was laid on the track on a bridge crossing a ravine. The engineer saw the obstruction and applied the brakes just in time.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—A tragic sequel to the death of Count Leo Tolstoi is reported from Yasnaya Paliana. The coachman of the late count visited the grave of his master and committed suicide by opening a vein in his arm.

WHY SHIP SUBSIDY FAILS

Lobbying Against It By Foreign Steamship Companies

Efforts to determine the truth of charges that developed in the last session of Congress that a powerful lobby had been maintained at Washington to defeat legislation favoring a ship subsidy were begun Monday, says the New York Herald, in the Custom House by a special Congressional committee. The only witness who testified was Captain George L. Norton, editor of the Marine Journal, a publication in which appeared an article said to have contained assertions almost similar to charges made by the Marine League, of Cleveland, Ohio.

The charges made by the league caused an initial investigation by Congress which resulted in the appointment of the committee conducting the present inquiry. This committee is composed of Representatives J. Van Vechten Olcott, chairman; Nicholas Longworth, W. E. Humphrey, W. C. Garrett, and W. C. Hawley.

In the initial investigation by Congress Representatives Halvor Steenerson, of Minnesota, and Gustav Kusterman, of Wisconsin, were cleared of charges made by the Marine League.

On the witness stand Captain Norton denied that he was possessed of any specific knowledge regarding the maintenance of a lobby, but said he believed that "every man, woman and child knew there were grounds for belief that foreign shipping interests were opposing the shipping interests of this country." He admitted, however, that he knew of no person who might be called before the investigating committee as a witness.

Captain Norton later said that he believed there are Representatives from "the Middle West" who are interested in newspapers which receive patronage from steamship companies much greater than is given to newspapers in the East. Under questioning by Mr. Longworth, Captain Norton said he was unable to name either a Representative or a newspaper so patronized.

The inquiry will be continued today. John W. Dodsworth, editor of the Journal of Commerce; William H. Douglass, formerly a Representative; Herman Winters, of the North German Lloyd steamship line, and Lawson Sanford, secretary of the Atlantic Conference, are expected to testify. The inquiry probably will conclude on Friday, when J. P. Nolan, counsel for the French steamship line, and G. Waldo Smith, of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, are expected to appear before the committee.

CONGRESS' SHORT SESSION

But Little Is Likely to Be Accomplished, According to Hale

Washington, Nov. 30.—Senator Eugene Hale of Maine, Republican leader of the senate, by virtue of his position as chairman of the party caucus and of the senate committee on appropriations, foresees little of accomplishment in the coming short session of congress.

Beyond the passage of the usual appropriation bills, and possibly of an apportionment measure and one providing an ocean mail bounty, he believes no important business will be transacted.

BELMONT "PERSECUTED"

He Gives Testimony In Probe of Alleged Corruption Fund

New York, Nov. 30.—August Belmont, millionaire horse owner and chairman of the Jockey club and the Westchester Racing association, took the witness stand yesterday afternoon and told the legislative investigating committee that he considered he had been persecuted.

"And I want to say," he added with emphasis, "that the racing association and the Jockey club fought the anti-race track bills fairly."

Belmont is the only one of a trio of prominent men identified with racing whom the committee has been able to get on the witness stand to testify concerning the charge that a $500,000 corruption fund was raised by the racing interests to combat the Hart-Agnew law, prohibiting betting on horse races, which passed the legislature in 1908. Belmont denied that such a fund existed.

GAS KILLS MAN AND WIFE

Parents of Nine Children Are Found Dead In Bed

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 30.—Overcome by illuminating gas, which had filled their rooms while they slept, John T. Brais and his wife were found dead in bed in their home, 95 John street, by their son-in-law, after ineffectual efforts to arouse them had been made by their younger children.

An examination of the gas fixtures showed that the stop cock had become loosened, and the police say it probably sprung back an eighth of an inch after Brais turned it off, thus allowing enough gas to escape during the night to fill the bedroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Brais are survived by nine children, the oldest of whom is married. The youngest child is 4 years old. Medical Examiner French pronounced death due to accidental gas poisoning.

DEPARTMENTS MUST USE PRUNING KNIFE

Estimates Submitted to President Taft Are Unsatisfactory

Washington, Nov. 30.—President Taft established a precedent by summoning to the White House officials who disburse millions of dollars annually for the government and told them that they must reduce their estimates for the coming year.

He was told that the estimates had already been heavily reduced, but that did not satisfy him.

"Go back and cut off some more," was the essence of the order he issued, at the same time warning all that hereafter the best of business methods must prevail in all departments.

The conference was a part of President Taft's war against "pork barrel" methods. He will carry the fight to congress and appeal to congress as a whole to eliminate "pork barrel" items in the appropriation bill.

The president hopes to reduce the appropriations so materially that the recent "billion dollar congress" shall be the last in his administration.

GOVERNORS WILL BE BUSY

Conference of Chief Executives of Many States Begins In Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 30.—The house of governors, a conference of the chief executives of many of the states, opened in Kentucky's new capitol. Among the subjects which will be taken up are conservation, irrigation and hygienic conditions in the larger cities. There will be numerous luncheons, dinners and banquets.

This morning the governors went to Louisville, where the real business will begin. Present to assist in the welcome was the venerable former governor of Kentucky, Simon B. Buckner, now 86 years old.

GALLAGHER IS INDICTED

Two Charges Against Man Who Tried to Kill Mayor Gaynor

New York, Nov. 30.—James J. Gallagher, who shot Mayor Gaynor last June, was indicted by the grand jury in Hudson county, New Jersey, charged with assault with intent to kill on the mayor and William Edwards, street cleaning commissioner. Another charge placed against Gallagher was that of carrying concealed weapons.

Gallagher has been held in jail since his attack on the mayor, awaiting the result of the injuries which he inflicted.

FOR INFRINGEMENT OF THEIR PATENT

Wright Company Brings Suit Against Grahame-White

New York, Nov. 30.—What is believed to be the opening gun in a campaign of litigation that will affect every aviator in this country was fired when the Wright company, now the holders of the patent rights of the Wright brothers, instituted suit in the United States circuit court against Claude Grahame-White to enjoin him against giving any exhibitions in this country with a heavier-than-air machine, which is alleged to infringe upon the patent rights of the Wrights.

At the same time J. C. Turpin, one of the Wright fliers, has been in Chattanooga, where the Moissant aviators have been giving exhibitions with a view to observing whether any of the machines in use there infringe upon the same rights.

Grahame-White was served with a notice of the suit while he was busily engaged in packing up his belongings preparatory to leaving for England today. He turned the whole matter over to his attorneys.

HUGHES TO HEAD BENCH

Other Supreme Court Vacancies to Be Filled by Nagel and Swayze

Washington, Nov. 30.—On the second Monday of the coming session of congress President Taft will send to the senate the names of three men who will constitute one-third of the bench of the supreme court of the United States.

The three men are now selected, and callers at the White House receive a definite impression that Justice Hughes will be advanced to the chief justiceship; that Francis J. Swayze of the supreme court of New Jersey will succeed Justice Moody, who has resigned, and that Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel will take the place now held by Hughes.

All these vacancies, with the exception of that to be caused by the promotion of Hughes, have existed for some time, and the president has given the greatest care to selecting the men who are to fill them.

SALOME DANCE OR NOTHING

May Garden Objects to Official Criticism of Chicago Police

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Folowing official criticism from the Chicago police department through Chief of Police Stewart, the production of "Salome," in which Mary Garden had twice appeared here, was withdrawn from the grand opera program for Friday night.

The chief of police informed the management that "offensive" features, particularly the head scene, should be taken out. Miss Garden strenuously objected to eliminating any of her lines or poses and accordingly the production for Friday evening was withdrawn.

After the announcement that "Salome" would not be presented Friday night other artists refused to substitute their productions for the withdrawn opera, and in consequence the stage will be dark that night.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Boston Man Who Killed a Negro Is Placed on Probation

Boston, Nov. 30.—John Holt, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in having caused the death of Sabie Singleton, a negro, in the Roxbury district earlier in the month, was yesterday placed on probation by order of Judge Stevens. This action of the judge followed upon the evidence of eye witnesses who had seen the trouble between Holt and Singleton.

The two last witnesses put on the stand by District Attorney Pelletier declared they had seen Singleton rush towards Holt in a threatening atttitude with his hand in his hip pocket.

OFF FOR SOUTH POLE

Start of Two Expeditions, One of Which Is Doomed to Failure

London, Nov. 30.—The hunt for the South Pole is on again in earnest. The British Antarctic expedition, under the command of Captain Scott, sailed southward from Port Chalmers, New Zealand, yesterday afternoon.

The Japanese Antarctic expedition, under Lieutenant Shirase, started from Shinagawa bay aboard the 150-ton schooner Kainan Maru. In the opinion of foreign experts the preparations are wholly inadequate and this expedition is doomed to failure, possibly disaster.

Gun Found to Be Faulty

Washington, Nov. 30.—An investigation of the accident at Indian Head, Oct. 19, resulting from a proving test of the 5-inch gun and which cost the lives of four men, has established the fact that the design of the breech mechanism of the gun is faulty.

Big Anti-Prohibition Vote

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 30.—Prohibition was defeated in Missouri at the recent election, according to official announcement, by 218,125 votes. It received 207,281 votes to 425,406 against it and carried in only 37 out of 115 counties.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

A thoroughly up to the minute drama of American social life, "The Final Settlement" will be the attraction at Music hall tonight. In the play, the hero, an ambitious young workingman, rises to be the president of a great iron mill corporation. Then comes his ambition to shine in the social world. To do this he divorces his faithful first wife and marries a beautiful actress, thinking her talent and social graces will open to him the doors of society. The final settlement between love, ambition, wealth and sentiment forms a startling denouement. It is from this climax that the drama gains it name. Broad questions are raised by the drama, which holds up business and social success in sharp contrast with domestic hapiness. A strong company headed by H. Blosser Jennings will present the play here.

MRS. HELEN P. CHAMBERLIN.

The funeral of Mrs. Helen P. Chamberlin was held Saturday at one o'clock from her residence 690 Adams street. The burial was at Hanover, Mass. Mrs. Chamberlin has been a resident of Quincy for about thirty-seven years and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Helen M. West a teacher at the John Hancock school and Rena M. Chamberlin principal of Tucker school, Milton.

BARRETT WENDELL'S PUN.

When Professor Wendell of Harvard entered upon his sabbatical year, he remained in Cambridge some weeks after his leave of absence began and persisted in taking part in the departmental meeting. The head of the department protested.

"Sir," he said, "you are officially absent. You are non est."

"Oh, very well," replied Professor Wendell, "a non est man is the noblest work of God."—Success.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

Are you going to "Pygmalion and Galatea" is the question members of the Quincy Women's club are asking each other. Indications are that the full club membership will turn out which will about fill Music hall.

* * *

The Friday club meets Dec. 2, with Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., of Spear street.

* * *

Adams Chapter, D. R., holds its December meeting on Dec. 5, at the birthplace of President John Adams. Following the business meeting there will be readings from Mrs. Flora Adams Darling's book of letters which is proving of great interest.

* * *

The Quincy Day Nursery association holds its December meeting on Tuesday afternoon Dec. 7, at the clubhouse of the Quincy Women's club, Goffe street.

Wollaston Alliance is to have an evening meeting on Dec. 7, when "Our Young People" will be the subject with Mrs. Clara B. Beatley and Rev. W. I. Lawrance as the speakers. An interesting meeting is anticipated.

* * *

The second of the current events lectures by Mrs. May Alden Ward will be held Thursday afternoon Dec. 8, at the Women's clubhouse. These lectures are largely attended this season and busy women find them most entertaining as well as instructive.

* * *

Junior Friday club meets on Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Etta M. Prescott, Spear street, and will continue the study of France under the leadership of Mrs. Arthur W. Hall. Napoleon the Emperor; campaigns, abdication 1814, Marie Louise and Gounod are some of the subjects for discussion.

* * *

It seems a long time to the next meeting of the Quincy Women's club which does not come until the 13th. It seems far off probably because so eagerly anticipated, as a play is to be presented under the auspices of the Art and Literature committee. There will be no tickets sold at the door and members must be provided with members and guest tickets when the doors open at Music hall. Guest tickets may be obtained of the custodians, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, Miss Isabel Albee, Mrs. Samuel Chapman, Mrs. Charles C. Hearn, Mrs. Walter L. Jones, Mrs. W. A. McCormick, Miss Annie L. Prescott, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Mrs. Joseph M. Sheahan.

* * *

The next meeting of the Mothers' Association will be of more than usual interest to mothers and there should be a large attendance. It will be held as usual on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock at Bethany chapel. The speaker, Mrs. Clara Bancroft Beatley of Boston, will speak on "The Real Mother." Every mother will be cordially welcome at the meeting.

* * *

Great preparations are being made by the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. for the "seven party" which they are to hold on Dec. 7 in Association hall. Everything will be by sevens.

* * *

The State society of the Daughters of the Revolution is at home on Friday from three until five at the society rooms in the Colonial building, Boston. Adams chapter of this city will act as hostesses Mrs. Frank F. Prescott being chairman of the committee.

* * *

The Young Women's club held a Thanksgiving social at the club house Saturday evening to which each member was privileged to bring a guest and it was a very jolly affair and much enjoyed.

* * *

The executive board of the Quincy Women's club meets to morrow morning at the club house at ten o'clock to discuss the business of the club.

* * *

Mrs. William B. Nichols of Presidents hill gave a talk on "The Cheerful Letter Movement" on Monday afternoon at the meeting of the Needham Woman's Alliance. It was a public meeting held in the parish house of the First church of that town.

TWELFTH NIGHT REVELS.

Fun and frolic—and lots of it—is what is promised at the Twelfth Night Revels! This dance will rank with the Assembly given under the auspices of the Quincy Women's club the evening after Thanksgiving. It will probably receive the same patronage given to the above-mentioned dance and the Tennis dance.

A costume party is rather a novelty in Quincy, and people are already considering what to wear to the Revels. Any costume prior to 1860 will answer. The range for costumes is very wide. A beautiful, or original, or historical costume may be worn or just peasants or old-fashioned costumes. The costumes need not be expensive or elaborate, on the other hand, pretty costumes will add beauty to the scene and may be worn if persons desire to do so.

There are to be some novel features before the grand march and dancing. These features, offered by way of entertainment, will be part of the merry-making. The music will be good and the refreshments will be in keeping with the affair. It will be run by the Education Committee of the Quincy Women's club and club members will be given full details later.

CLUB WOMEN'S VOICES.

"What's the matter with club women's voices that they can't be heard from a public platform?" was the question asked by a man at a reception given by a woman's Democratic club at the Waldorf-Astoria. The question was repeated to Grenville Kleiser, who is training 200 members of New York women's clubs in the art of speechmaking.

"I am not at all surprised," said Mr. Kleiser, "that you ask this question about club women's voices, for I have been struck with it time and again at club meetings. Nine cases out of ten you can't hear the speaker five rows away from the platform. But what applies to club women strictly speaking, applies equally to all American women.

"Most club women speak with half closed mouths. When they start to speak the voice can't come out. They vocalize back in their throats, so that they cannot be heard three yards away. Several persons called my attention to this at the recent Bryan meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria.

"Then, strange as it may perhaps seem, club women, and other women also, are timid, naturally so. They have been brought up to be afraid, and this diffidence has the effect of constraining the voice. They speak in whispers, and a whispering voice is very detrimental to good, pure tones; that is, to a carrying voice.

"Then also they too often have too light a mental conception of what they are trying to do. Because there is no thought of force in what they want to say it falls far short of the mark. They get up to speak and the result is that because of the breathing quality, timidity and lack of force they make no impression.

"Even if the occasion arouses women to forget their diffidence and they speak right out in meeting their voices are high pitched and shrill. Without a doubt this shrill, penetrating voice is the product of a noisy city. One is constantly endeavoring to talk above the turmoil of the city's street, and this ruins the best modulated voice.

"I was particularly struck with the soft melodious voices at the Roycroft shops when I visited East Aurora recently. One young woman especially, who took me through the shops, had the most delightful voice. I am sure it could have been heard in an audience of 300 people. Yet she had no training. The only way I can account for this is that they live in a quiet atmosphere.

"Our national defect is nasality, and this is noted in the club woman's voice, as it is in those of women generally. It is so common that we are pretty generally unconscious of it. I was struck with this peculiarity when I was abroad a year ago, I was told too that the way they recognized Americans over there was by their nasal, twangy voices.

"Another reason why our women have such unpleasant voices is because they live so nervously. Haste destroys all possibility of correctness of speech. The same tension we have in our lives we put into our palates. They become hardened and as the speaking voice is determined largely by the surrounding tissues, its resonance is seriously affected as you will see, by the nervous strain.

"One very important thing too is faulty breathing. Not one woman in a hundred uses the abdominal method of breathing. She may say she does and really think so but she doesn't. As one club woman said to me the other day; 'Oh, I know all about that. I've used that method for a long time, and she proceeded to show me how she did it. She had no conception of how to do it correctly. In abdominal breathing the walls of the abdomen in taking in the breath move outward, the diaphragm contracts and descends, while the lungs resting upon the latter are expanded to their fullest capacity. In her case in inhalation she drew in the abdomen, and just reversed the process all the way through. It is simple when one knows how, but you must know how.

"Simon pure tones are almost never heard among women. It's a pity, but it's true. I often wonder when I hear the children's sweet voices in the park how it happens that they soon lose their purity and timbre. At least I used to wonder, but now I know. It comes from the fact that our school teachers are such very poor speakers themselves.

"Women in business need a good speaking voice as well as the club woman or the society woman. We are all prejudiced against or attracted to a saleswoman by her voice and manner, and I don't hesitate to say that success in business depends very largely upon the voice and manner of the woman who serves us.. Slovenliness in speech suggests slovenliness in other respects. Carelessness in speech suggests carelessness in thought so that the business woman not using the best thought cannot possibly make the best impression.

"Women should concentrate on the mind as well as the voice, for the same thing that applies to a man in his futile effort at public speaking also applies to many a woman who stands to address an audience. She fails because she has nothing to say. Back of the training of the speaking voice in the highest sense is the training of the mind. The real work should be within. Without the training of the mind all the cultivation in the world won't make a good public speaker."—New York Sun.

THE CHRISTMAS RUSH.

The wild swirl of holiday shopping constitutes such a strain upon the proprietors and clerks of the retail stores, as to have enlisted the interested support of Consumers' Leagues and other agencies for a change. But while the load has thus been a little better distributed, there still remains abnormal congestion of business before Christmas.

The failure to make any great change is due to the unfortunate fact that philanthropic motives are weaker than those of self interest. If the merchants could but make the public believe it is for their interest to buy early, a more radical change might be effected.

If a merchant in November would take some of his best gift bargains, feature them by liberal advertising, he would draw much trade that now waits until the football flying wedges and tackles of the final week.

The people who would visit the stores to capture these bargains would incidently see other things that would attract their cash. Any intelligent shopper ought to know that attractive gifts can be secured at any good store at any time in the year. This fact is not fully realized by the general public, but they could be made to realize it by consistent advertising of strong features.

No doubt purchases of holiday goods could be increased by such a policy. Where the work of gift buying is left to the last week, many people become so discouraged by the attempt to buy in the turmoil, and are so disgusted with the tousled array of goods that meet their eye, that they do not buy all the gifts they would have under favorable conditions.

The "buy early" policy could be so developed by early advertising as to swell the receipts of the stores, besides saving the frazzle worn nerves of the clerks.—Beverly Times.

☞The Mothers' Association of Quincy aims to help mothers by suggesting to them the best methods of training children. The speakers at these meetings are persons recognized in the educational world as the best authority upon these subjects. There are informal discussions about these matters and opportunity for acquaintance with the members when a social half hour with refreshments follows the day's program. Are you a mother? or, are you interested in the welfare of children? are the only questions asked of strangers. All of the mothers in the city of Quincy are invited to attend these meetings; they are free. Come, and hear the things which have to do with training children in the home into perfect manhood and womanhood. Do not leave a stone unturned to make your child's character as nearly ideal as you can. It is worth while to make the effort. The child will thank you for it in years to come.

A BLANK CARTRIDGE

Mayor Shea So Regards One Of Charges

(Advertisement.)

The following letters are self explanatory:

Quincy, November 30, 1910.

Mr. George T. Magee, Clerk of City Council, Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I am advised that Councilman John R. Richards has made the statement that an appropriation of $300 was passed by the City Council for the purpose of flooding the Ward 3 Playground for skating purposes. He also states that this money was not spent for the purpose as provided in the order, but was diverted to other purposes.

Will you please advise me of the date of the passage of this order, as my office contains no record of such an order.

I remain, very truly yours,
(Signed) William T. Shea,
Mayor.

Quincy, Mass., Nov. 30, 1910.

Hon. W. T. Shea, Mayor, City of Quincy.

Dear Sir:—In compliance with your request of even date, I have looked through the records of the City Council for the years 1908, 1909 and 1910, and I find no record of any order being passed appropriating $300.00 for the purpose of flooding the Ward Three playground for skating purposes.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) George T. Magee,
Clerk of Council.

The charge appears to me like a blank cartridge.

William T. Shea.
12 Common street, Quincy.

BROCADE WORK BAG.

Charming workbags are made of old brocades in dull tones with tarnished gilt fringe or embroidery. In the centre of the side is framed an oval picture of a beauty of the French Court, outlined with tarnished gilt cord. Others have bouquets of dull gilt roses, or flowers of dull-toned narrow ribbon, appliqued. The drawstrings are of tarnished gilt cord and sometimes a plain taffeta, in a dull quaint color, is used with the brocade for the upper part of the bag.

NOT TOO FLESHY.

There are many who have the idea that they are too fleshy when such is not the case, and they would not look well if they were to lose the flesh they would like to get rid of. The point for such is to remain where they are not to add more to their flesh, rather than to lose any. For such, careful attention to diet is necessary. Cut off cereals and sweets, and take care not to eat much bread and butter. I am convinced that many to avail anything must be of a vigorous kind, kept up with regularity and judgment. Those who are stout owe their flesh to what I call the "bread and butter habit," which means that at table they unconsciously keep eating bread and butter while waiting to be served, and nothing is more flattening. For those inclined to flesh, stale bread or toast is better and less likely to increase the weight. A couple of slices or one roll is enough for a meal, when eating other things, and, if vegetables are included, lessen even that amount. It is not necessary to repeat the rule which I have given so often, to avoid vegetables which grow in the ground. The reason is that they are, one and all, rich in starch, potatoes most of all. Corn and beans, which grow "above the ground," are also fattening, and should be eaten sparingly.

The popular idea today is that most people eat too much, but I have seen many very fat people who were small eaters; everything they ate seemed to go to flesh. What can be done in such cases, you ask? Baths and exercise are the hope for them, as indeed they are for all stout people. The exercise, are apt to have fat about the heart, and therefore should be careful about violent and unusual exercise. It is more necessary for them than for others to begin any systematic course of exercise gently, taking only a little at a time and increasing in quantity and vigor gradually. Most of the exercises for flesh reduction tire one at first, and are likely to make one dizzy. As soon as one begins to feel dizzy she should stop.

Very hot baths when going to bed are good, but before getting out of the bath the cold water should be turned on until the water is quite cold; then with hair mittens, a bath brush or a hair strap rub every part of the body vigorously enough to redden it. Not alone is such a bath beneficial, but the exercise incident up on the rubdown after it is of a great benefit. Moderate exercise is not of much use in flesh reduction—in fact, I think that and too gentle massage stimulates an increase of fat rather than reduces it. Therefore, as soon as possible the exercises should be increased until they can be taken with such vigor that they will start the perspiration and increase the circulation.

Another consideration in the matter of flesh reduction is that of drinkables. Beer, malt liquors and alcoholic beverages are great flesh producers, and should not be indulged in. It is a question with those who have made a study of reducing the flesh whether water should be allowed with meals or not. The reason of this diversity of opinion is due to the fact that some people's systems need the water to promote digestion and to help in the food changes of the body, while others do not. Water is needed to act upon the bowels and kidneys, and hot water, taken as hot as it can be borne, is better than cold. Ice water should be avoided.

Some people, especially those who have inherited a tendency to flesh, a matter which can be determined generally by knowing the habits of their families will always be stout, no matter what they do, and these will find that efforts at flesh reduction are not only unavailing, but will undermine the health.

There is no other consideration which should be borne in mind by those who are very stout and wish to get rid of their superfluous flesh; the fat is distibuted in a layer under the skin, the same as if it were an interlining of cotton or wool, more or less thick. The skin is kept smooth over it. When the fat goes the skin shows the lack of this interlining and becomes flabby and wrinkled. A fat person who has become thin never looks as well. The wrinkled skin is often not a healthy color, and the individual has the appearance of one recovering from a fit of sickness, especially when that individual has dieted rigidly to reduce the flesh. For it should be added that all the systems which are set forth for flesh reduction reduce the amount of food from one-third to one-half of that usually taken, and indeed what is ordinarily required. And in this connection a warning should be given about entering haphazard upon a course of banting, lest the health should suffer from it.

Corsets are most useful, and when women are at all stout they are a necessity. Ill-fitting corsets are capable of doing a great deal of harm. If they fit tight around the waist, after the fashion of a string around the middle of a bag of meal, they press the contents of the abdomen downward and may give rise to a great deal of trouble. The straight-front corsets, which have been the model adopted for the last five years or so, are an actual benefit when fitted properly, by which I mean drawn well down in front so as to support the lower part of the abdomen, but not pressing upon it. Indeed, many doctors have given up the abdominal bandages because these corsets answer the purpose better. It is worth while to pay a good price for a good-fitting corset and economize in some other direction.—Dr. E. L. Mackaye.

A "MURPHY" STORY.

Kansas newspapers are "passing on" this story which is going the rounds, and the unanimous verdict is that it is good. It is to the effect that a freckle-faced girl stopped at the post office and yelled out:

"Anything for the Murphys?"
"No, there is not."
"Anything for Jane Murphy?"
"Nothing."
"Anything for Ann Murphy?"
"No."
"Anything for Tom Murphy?"
"No."
"Anything for Bob Murphy?"
"No, not a bit."
"Anything for Terry Murphy?"
"No, nor for Pat Murphy, nor Dennis Murphy, nor Pete Murphy, nor Paul Murphy, nor for any Murphy—dead, living, born or unborn, native or foreign, civilized or uncivilized, savage or barbarous, male or female, black or white, franchised or unfranchised, naturalized or otherwise. No, there is positively nothing for any of the Murphys, either individually, jointly, severally, now and forever, one and inseparable."

The girl looked at the postmaster in astonishment, and said: "Please to look if there is anything for Clarence Murphy."—Kansas City Times.

MANY ISSUES

ness like. Not one particular economical act can be cited. He has not exercised his power of veto on a single order except that which sought to protect the Woodward Fund.

The burden of taxation has been raised $114,775 in three years. This is not economy. The only way to wipe this out was to put the city on a business basis, and wipe out political finance. He then spoke of the bonds of the city some of which called for four and one-half per cent, when other cities were paying but four per cent. It is possible to get better school buildings than we are getting. We should get a dollar return for a dollar expended.

If elected he would see that the construction of school building was taken out of political entanglements. The gas question was then touched upon and the Mayor taken to task for doing nothing with the resolution seeking to get cheaper gas. He had seen in City Hall, the unseating of a member to further the onslaught on the city treasury. This onslaught was led by the chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and it was easy to tell who was the man behind the gun. Contracts should be open to public inspection, and if elected he would see to it that every contract was on file where they could be seen.

Councilman Bolster followed with an account of his stewardship and said if returned this year he would be in a better position to look out for the city. During the year he had voted on all questions as he thought right.

Councilman Richards occupied the attention of the audience for an hour. After briefly referring to the gas situation, he said he had no personal grievance against the Mayor. No man in Quincy had less animus against a man than he had. Personally there was no better fellow in Quincy than the Mayor, but there was a difference between a personal good fellow and the manager of a corporation. He then said that his text would be "Lemons" and he enumerated a number that he said had been handed out.

The first was the Houghs Neck causeway and boulevard for which $10,000 was wanted. The next was the Squantum causeway, for which $8,000 had been appropriated. Others mentioned were West street, for which the order for $3,500 was jumped to $8,000 so as to kill it.

I got an order though the Council for a skating pond in Ward Three, but nothing was done save driving the stakes.

The Coddington school and Lincoln addition had been accepted over the protest of the Commissioner and Inspector of Buildings, also the Houghs Neck school. How about the penalty on this building?

The $5,000 order for a Grand Army hall had a supreme court decision against it.

The Hancock street paving contract, the class of pavings being illustrated by a drawing on the wall, was criticised.

There were lemons coming to the Wollaston and Montclair schools if the people did not look out.

The water meter question; the failure to expend any part of the $40,000 order for meters came near getting the city into trouble and a fine.

The stone crusher proposition.

The interest proposition.

The scheme of the Mayor to be made chairman of the School Committee.

The refusal to give residents near the tuberculosis camp a hearing.

The taking of contracts from a public service corporation.

Robert Craig, one of the candidates for the City Council, promised to work for the ward if elected.

Herbert S. Barker spoke for candidates on the whole Republican ticket. He was present to say a good word for John L. Miller who was ill. He was a sincere and fearless man, and had performed his duty without fear of results. He should be returned to the School board.

Other speakers were Councilman Alexander Clark, Councilman James M. Nowland who said he had measured the Hancock street paving and had carried off the block shown. Councilman Arthur C. Gardner who took the Mayor to task for doing nothing on the gas proposition; ex-Representative Harry S. Nicol and ex-Councilman John Q. A. Field.

TWO MURDER CHARGES

"Candy Bandit" Is Indicted by Grand Jury at Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Leight Rhodus, the "Candy Bandit," so-called because of his confession to East St. Louis police that he followed a life of crime to supply his young bride with candy and flowers, was indicted by the Cook county grand jury on two charges of murder and three of highway robbery.

The killings charged were those of Dr. William Michaelis, Aug. 5, and Anton Helbig, Aug. 7. His trial has been set for next week.

IN FASHION'S REALM

Tapestry in Artistic Colorings for Evening Gowns

Evening Wraps Sumptuous and Gowns Still Short

Those who speak of dress are apt idly to mention the use of tapestry for evening gowns, but not half enough is said when one considers the facts. It is not a new thing— this use of upholstry for fashionable clothes. It was done last year, more or less, and it met with a good deal of favor from those who make a point of wearing artistic things.

This season more people know about it. The great dressmakers, or rather those who go in for Byzantine effects, are making up wondrous costumes in which the soft French tapestries play a large part.

When one uses the word tapestry, the mind at once reverts to stiff material that would be unwieldy as a gown or even a cloak; but the tapestry that is meant is that soft, splendid kind used at the sides of French windows, as furniture covering for fine pieces in the drawing room, and as cushions on handsome sofas.

This material is exquisitely supple and can be twisted and turned into any kind of drapery that a graceful figure desires. It was used in the old Byzantine days as well as in the years that the Alexandrian costumes were famously lovely. It is only right and natural that it should come back with the revival of Eastern fashions.

This is an age of drapery skillfully done. Only on the street suits does one find the need of precision, of a plumb line, and of a mathematical nicety of proportions. The narrow skirt is by no means easy to cut, for it does not suggest drapery in the slightest degree, and a quarter of an inch to the right or the left absolutely mars the effect.

Barring this one costume, the rest is a question of drapery. Here one must know more of art than geometry, more of color than of engineering. All manner of entrancing pictures are painted in the Eastern materials of this day, and nothing is left untried that the artistic mind can suggest in the way of a gown.

In the olden days wonderful frocks were made from the stuffs that we now use in our drawing rooms. The world was many centuries old before dressmakers ceased developing costumes out of the fabrics that went into the hands of upholsterers. When we went back to the fashions of those days we went back to its matrials also. Stuifs they were called then, and the name is again coming into use.

Also in those days there was a wide demand for what was known as coin gold. It has returned to favor in the twentieth century. It is a rare lovely shade of yellow, rather mysterious, somewhat vague. It blends with many other colors, and for this reason is most acceptable in this age of color juxtaposition in every costume.

It is brought out in tapestry as soft as satin. The embossed figure often has a glint of dull gold or tranished silver or aluminium in it. The scissors go into it very gingerly, for it is worked out better with the hand and a few trial pins. When every fold is found good the unnecessary ends are cut off.

It is this very simplicity of method that is the delight and the despair of the woman who cannot afford a skillful dressmaker to make her gown. If she is artistic she can arrange this drapery with her little seamstress before her mirrors and get an excellent effect; if she is not so, she can try for a month and not succeed in achieving anything that is worth wearing.

The designers ask very large sums for well-made gowns of these tapestry brocades, because they know how difficult it is for the ordinary dressmaker to manage them, and if a woman wants one she must be willing to pay the price for it.

One of the most interesting gowns made of the Roman gold tapestry this year had first a slip of flesh-pink chiffon cloth over another slip of a thin Oriental silk in the same shade. The third drapery was of white tulle, in the meshes of which were woven tiny cut crystals.

These three slips were cut on rather straight lines, with a slight curve at the waist and narrowest at the hem. Without a heavier drapery they would have been impossible, but as a foundation for something more definite they were quite entrancing.

This drapery was of the gold tapestry, and was wrapped around the figure under the arms as a gypsy would wrap her shawl. The folds across the back and from the bust to the hips were wonderfully molded, showing off every good line of the figure and concealing every bad one.

The tapestry was drawn together at the left side and caught with a bunch of crab apples with green silk leaves, and the two sides, which were left open from waist to hem, showed the soft chiffon silk and tulle of the underslips. At the back, in order to keep the drapery from looking too much like a shawl, there was a dull gold cabochon placed in the folds well up above the left knee.

The upper bodice, which covered the shoulders, was a part of the lower robe of chiffon and tulle. It was cut out in a slight round at the neck and had short, rather tight, peasant sleeves. These were finished with a Tom Thumb fringe of crystals mounted on a tiny gold band.

It does not take much imagination to see how daring and colorful this gown is, and yet it is one of the pronounced successes in the season's designing.

Of all the colors that one would never imagine in combination probably cerise and green would take the lead. Yet gowns are made of it in this brocade if not in anything else. The shades of the two colors are marvelously chosen and the dyeing is well done. Otherwise the effect would be impossible.

The tapestry lends itself by some subtlety of weaving to the combination of these curious and vivid tones, and the result is in keeping with the gown which these materials make. Such a gown as this must be delicately handled and worn only by a certain type of woman.

The one that is accounted the most successful has a glint of silver through the tapestry—that dull tarnished silver that is quite artistic. The drapery is around the figure, under the arm, showing the bodice over the shoulders and arms as a mere wisp of transparency.

It is of black tulle sewn with silver beads. These are not obstrusive nor do they dangle. They are woven in with the tulle by that difficult and tedious process that has recently been invented in Paris, and which takes dozens of workers to make one square yard a day.

The folds of the cerise and green tapestry are caught with a huge Roman coin in dull silver with the head of Caesar stamped on it.

This is embedded in a rosette of black satin. The opening of the drapery below the knees shows another one of those decidedly Eastern underslips. This one is made of cerise chiffon over black chiffon cloth and green Oriental silk. This latter is used as the lower lining for a number of these Salome-like gowns, that are taking first rank in fashion.

Along with all the other revivals of the Byzantine and Roman fashions is the use of imitation antique coins. These were brought out on the wonderful gowns that were made for "Thais," and proved so attractive and effective that they were transferred to gowns for private life. They are quite as effective on evening wraps as on gowns; probably more so, for these garments have reached a degree of luxury and artistic merit that would have been difficult to have imagined at their advent.

They have met with more success this Winter than ever before, and they outdo all the gowns, no matter how splendid the latter may be. They take on the narrow lines and the sensuous drapery of Byzantine days, and because one can be extravagant with them as far as line and color goes the great dressmakers have gone into the work with glee.

It is difficult to believe that some of the garments fashionable women will wear are only wraps. They look like most sumptuous gowns. The latter are so loosely draped themselves this Winter that one can be easily pardoned for confusing the two. And the woman who hasn't a deal of money cannot possibly see the use of putting so much of it into a garment that is taken on and off in the dressing room and demands a cab wherever one goes.

The truth of it is that the woman who has a wrap of Abrabian Night's splendor does not take it off in the dressing room. She wears it into her box at the opera and takes it off in a leisurely manner while standing. She wears it down the aisle to her seat if she is not sitting in a box. At the restaurant supper and dinner she takes good care to wear it in to the table, and lets it slowly drop from her shoulders to the chair.

Last season there was a good deal of criticism aganst the elaborate gown worn after 7 o'clock that cleared the floor. A good many persons said it was immodest; many thought it inelegant—to use an early Victorian word. Yet it was worn in elegant Victorian days, and as for being immodest it is far less so than the long skirt which must be held up.

Every one knows by this time the unconscious display that even the most modest woman made when holding up the flimsy gowns of the last two years, which were not supported by petticoats. That is a matter of sartorial history already. The gown that does not have to be held up remains where is is put—to jump from Victorian words to modern slang.

There is something very dainty, quite charming, about the evening skirt that just covers the ankles. As it must be narrow it is more graceful short than long. Its disadvantage is that it is aggressively jaunty and youthful, and is utterly unfit to be worn by a woman past youthful slimness. She must wear the skirt that touches, but it need not flow upon the ground. In truth it is difficult for it to do this, if it is cut anywhere near the present fashionable narrowness. The shorter it is the less awkward will it look.

If it is long it must just cover the feet and show the tip of the toe when walking. The sides must not be any longer, but they may grade out to an apology of a train in the middle of the back. These little trains are called by all manner of explanatory names.

Paquin makes a specialty of a straight sash that comes down from the waist like a panel, lies on the floor for three inches on its short side and six on it long. This unevenness is caused by the edge being cut on a sharp bias.

Callot achieves a train by taking the two sash ends of whatever material they are made and knotting them together about two inches beyond the hem of the skirt. The ends extend below the knot for about four inches, and no one could call the effect dignified.

Many of the inventions in trains were best left alone. They do not add to the beauty of the gown.—Anne Rittenhouse in New York Times.

INVEST IN A THERMOMETER.

A sweat-box is sometimes useful as a remedial agent, but it is not a good thing to live in; yet in spite of the fuel famine, it is probable that half the population today are living in overheated rooms. This is especially true during the winter.

Yet the people who occupy these rooms are uncomfortable, and sometimes chilly. Sitting indoors in a temperature of eighty to ninety degrees, the combustion within their bodies is reduced to the lowest ebb: they do not realize the heat of the room, and when they step outside, their systems do not react and they suffer extremely with the cold. Tell them that the room is too hot and they will not believe it. Do not argue the matter, but hang up a thermometer.

Don't let it get above seventy-five. It is better to keep it down to seventy or below. If you are chilly at such a temperature, your digestion is wrong, or your circulation, and you need a vigorous walk for a few minutes in the open air to oxygenate your blood. Of course, if you have been exposed to influenza and are coming down with a cold, your first duty is to get warm at whatever cost, but do not simmer and sizzle in a hot, stuffy room as a regular habit.

The sleeping-room should be provided with an abundance of bed-clothing. The bed itself should be thick enough to hold the heat, and windows should be open. Artificial heat may be turned on during the evening if it is desired, but it should be turned off on retiring. People who sleep in cool rooms in comfortable beds are far less likely to become victims of tuberculosis, for tuberculosis germs do not thrive in low temperatures.—The Healthy Home.

Woman Becomes Wireless Telegraph Operator on Clyde Liner

New York, Nov. 30.—Miss Graynella Packer became the first woman to operate a wireless telegraph station on board an ocean-going liner when she assumed charge of the wireless room on the Clyde line steamer Mohawk, which sailed yesterday afternoon for Charleston and Jacksonville.

Attired in a natty uniform of blue jacket and regulation cap, Miss Packer appeared full of business and very much at home in a little wireless room on the second deck of the Mohawk.

"I don't always intend to be a wireless operator," she said, "but I am using wireless to help me to my career in life. I have an ambition to become a concert and church singer, and I have become an operator to help me in my life work."

Ulstermen Declare They Would Rather Take Up Arms

AMERICAN DOLLARS SCORED

Ulster Will Utterly Decline Obedience to Law If Home Rule Parliament Is Established—Big Fund Subscribed to Make Stern Resistance Should Measure Be Forced Upon Them—Civil War Is Threatened

London, Nov. 30.—In Ireland the election campaign is growing more bitter every day. Delegates representing every constituency in Ulster met, subscribed $50,000 on the spot to organize the Ulstermen into regiments and buy arms and adopted a resolution offered by a Presbyterian minister to formulate a solemn pledge to pay no tax imposed by any Dublin parliament and obey none of its decrees.

A monster Unionist demonstration was held at Ulster hall, Belfast, and an overflow meeting of 20,000 people was held in the open air. Both aroused the greatest enthusiasm.

Lord Londonderry declared that American dollars enabled John Redmond to hold Asquith in the hollow of his hand. If a home rule parliament were established, he said, it might be found that Ulster would utterly decline obedience to the law.

Sir Edward Carson, a former solicitor general, and the Conservative M. P. for Dublin university, said they never would consent to their country being sold for American dollars.

Walter H. Long, Unionist M. P. for Strand, spoke in the same strain and other speakers advocated stern resistance to the law if home rule is forced on Ulster.

Suffragists created serious disturbances at a meeting at Lambeth at which the home secretary, Winston Churchill, was speaking. After several men had been thrown out, Churchill strongly denounced the suffragist tactics, and said:

"I am told that individuals are to be singled out for violence. If that is their language, there is only one answer, and that is 'come on.'"

The first independent woman suffrage candidate is announced in the person of William Mirnloos, who will contest a division of Glasgow.

The Socialist party has decided to run a third candidate in Battersea, thus endangering John Burns' chance of re-election.

MOTHERS AND CHILDREN.

Mothers wear themselves out and do an injury to their children in not teaching them to help themselves and to be helpful to others. The care that a child requires is very different from that which it may from indulgence demand. If the child were better for it one would not grudge the time and weariness that the mother or nurse spends, but the child is defrauded in the exercise of those powers which can only develop by being put into use. It is better for a child to go to sleep by itself than when it is rocked and sung to sleep, but as a general thing mothers prefer the bondage of the process of wooing sleep for their children, and so tie themselves up, and add to their burden without in the least increasing the comfort of the child. Mothers would spare themselves greatly if they would only learn that the training of the child begins with the earliest weeks, and that they can make the child understand many things that they would not at first believe possible.

When the mother is remonstrated with for spoiling the child by overindulgence, she will say: "My child is different from others; she is more nervous. If I do not take her up she will cry and make herself sick" The child in the beginning, finding that the mother ran to it the minute that it began to cry, of course soon learned this method of summoning her. It also perceived that the louder the cry the greater the indulgence, consequently it develops speedily into a despot, beneath whose tryanny the mother grows wan and pale. When it is said of her: "She is a perfect slave to her children," she looks satisfied and pleased, as if she had won a martyr's crown, instead of which she has uselessly squandered her strength, and prevented the child from learning proper habits, which are as necessary to his growth and development as it is that he should learn to walk instead of creeping the rest of his life, because he may fall and hurt himself and cry now and then.—Harper's Bazar.

DYING WORDS ARE RULED OUT

"Hattie LeBlanc Shot Me" Was "Statement" Made by Glover

JUDGE GIVES HIS OPINIONS

Assertion of Murdered Man Must Not Be Used In District Attorney's Opening Address to Jury—Will Rule Later as to Whether It Will Be Allowed as Evidence—Point In Favor of the Accused Girl

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 30.—A big sensation was sprung late yesterday afternoon in the trial of Hattie LeBlanc for the alleged murder of Clarence F. Glover when Judge Bond, who is presiding, decided that no reference should be made to Glover's so-called dying statement in the outline of the case by the state.

In this statement, made before he died, Glover, it was testified, declared: "Hattie LeBlanc shot me."

Judge Bond said that if he were called upon to decide at this time whether the statement should be allowed as evidence he would be against it, but that he wanted to look over the evidence carefully. District Attorney Higgins asked Bond to rule on the question then and there. "If this dying declaration is not admitted," said Higgins, "there is not much to our case."

Judge Bond said that he did not believe that Glover knew that he was dying when he made the statement, which is the contention of the defense.

Finally court adjourned without the matter being decided, Judge Bond saying that he wanted more time to look over the evidence. The question will be decided today. After adjournment Higgins said: "Even if the court excludes the evidence I will continue with the case."

The controversy over the admission of this statement of Glover took up all the day in court. The jury was excluded. When the battle was at its height Hattie LeBlanc broke down and wept. Her glasses fell off and she pressed her handkerchief to her eyes. It was the first time that the girl had manifested any emotion.

Should Bond rule out the dying statement the whole case against Hattie LeBlanc, as Higgins explained to the court, would rest upon circumstantial evidence. The lawyers for the defense would regard the ruling out of the dying statement as a very important point in their favor.

At the conclusion of the arguments by both counsels, the judge said:

"There are three witnesses in this case who have testified as to what Glover said and none of them have testified alike as to what he said. Sometimes they have not even said the same thing in substance. The witness King, who was the first to testify and said that he was there upon the doorstep with Glover, may have been there, but I can't believe it.

"The nurse was not sure that he was there. He may have been there, but all the other witnesses say that he wasn't there. He said that Glover said three times that he was dying. It is possible that the officers went there too late. I find that the officers said to Glover 'this is your dying statement,' but they did not get that from him. They did not get from him that he thought it was a dying declaration which he made.

"If I were to rule now on this matter I'd exclude the evidence as to this alleged dying statement, but I wish to look over the testimony very carefully before I make a ruling.

"In the meantime I will rule that this mattetr shall not be referred to by the district attorney in his opening. Later I shall decide whether it is to go in or not."

Last night State Detective Byrnes was in the Waltham police station in conference with Mayor Walker, a friend of Mrs. Glover, and Miss Emily W. Bowers, Walker's secretary, who made a stenographic report at the third degree examination of Hattie LeBlanc the night of her arrest.

Miss Gallant, the interpreter at this examination, is said to be in Nova Scotia and to have refused to return to the jurisdiction of the Massachusetts courts. She is wanted by the prosecution to tell what Hatie LeBlanc admitted or told during the all-night police inquisition.

District Attorney Higgins is now trying to get in this evidence through Mayor Walker's stenographer.

Hattie LeBlanc's attorneys announced last night they would fight to the bitter end any attempt of this nature on the part of the government.

Washington, Nov. 30.—In reply to the offer of several western railroads to employ him at his own salary if he could show them, as he claimed he could, how American railroads could save $1,000,000 a day, Louis D. Brandeis of Boston telegraphed that, without any charge to them, he would be glad to meet and point out to a conference or conferences of eastern and western railroad presidents how such saving could be effected.

Mr. Brandeis is here representing certain shipping organizations in the freight rate increase hearing being conducted before the interstate commerce commission.

Ex-President of Honduras Starts a Fresh Revolution

San Juan Del Sur, Nic., Nov. 30.—Advices from Tegucigalpa state that the Atlantic ports of Honduras and the department of Comayagua have been captured by revolutionists under the leadership of former President Bonilla. Government forces sent to retake the territory joined the enemy.

General Bonilla attempted an unsuccessful revolt against the government of President Davila last summer. Later he sought refuge in Guatemala, from which country he was deported. Recently he was reported to be in New Orleans organizing an expedition which was to attack the Atlantic coast of Honduras.

Bonilla's cause was helped somewhat by the rebellion of General Valladares, the governor of the island of Amapala. The latter was recently deposed, and came to this country.

FOSS IN LONE FIGHT

Democratic Leaders Are Not In Campaign Against Lodge

Boston, Nov. 30.—Governor-elect Foss stated last night that he was to wage a non-partisan campaign against Senator Lodge.

"I will not declare for a Republican or for a Democrat in this campaign," said he. "It is to be a purely non-partisan fight. The Democrats are running away from me as fast as the Republicans."

Mr. Foss announced that four Republicans would accompany him on the Cape trip. It was originally intended that he would be accompanied on his campaign against Lodge by leading Democratic spellbinders, but this plan was given up because it was argued that it would present a partisan aspect.

"The malign influence of Tschertkoff," writes Tolstoi, "caused the premature death of my father, his superhuman sufferings and the separation from his family."

REPUBLICANS ARE WORRYING

Fear That Democratic Legislatures Will Gerrymander

BIG PROBLEM FOR CONGRESS

New Census Means New Apportionment—High Ratio Expected For House of Representatives—New York Might Have Eight More Members—Northern New England May Suffer—How South Is Affected

Washington, Nov. 30.—Congress is confronted with a serious and important problem—the reapportionment of the house of representatives. When Director Durand of the census bureau publishes his official statement of population, which will show an increase from the 74,565,096 of ten years ago to more than 93,000,000, it will be the duty of congress to see that the additional population either has representation in congress or to increase the present ratio of 194,182 citizens to one representative.

It is not improbable that that a solution will be found in an increase of the present ratio of representation to such an extent as to permit few if any additions to the 391 members now in the house.

According to present calculations New York state would be entitled to eight new members at the ratio of 194,182 to 1. Many Republican members of the New York delegation feel, and with reason, that if the reapportionment bill should be passed at this session, the Democratic legislature would so redistrict the state that only rock-ribbed Republican districts could hope to send a man of that political faith to Washington. The other districts would be so manipulated as to give the Democratic party all the advantage.

If such a bill must pass these New York Republicans hope that the passing will be postponed until the Sixty-second congress, by which time they hope to control the state legislature and to have the votes to defeat an objectionable redistricting measure. The same view is entertained by Republican members from other states which have elected Democratic legislatures.

The case of those states whose population has not increased in proportion to that of the rest of the country must be considered. If the ratio were raised it is probable that some of the older states would lose representatives. Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont have not kept pace with the remainder of the country and might suffer in this manner. The same is true of Missouri.

The south will approach the reapportionment question with timidity because of another problem which promises some embarrassment. There are a number of southern states in which a large number of citizens are not permitted to vote. Northern Republicans believe that full representation should be withheld from these states so long as they continue the disfranchisement of the negro, or that the representation should be curtailed in proportion to the number of citizens disfranchised.

BRIEFS

The annual ball of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows will be held next Wednesday evening, Dec. 7.

A cross walk is being laid on the easterly side of Hancock street at the head of Cottage avenue.

The St. Mary's basket ball team has organized for the season with Charles J. Hebert as manager.

Meetings in the interest of Candidate Hobbs will be held tonight at Republican headquarters in City Square, and also by the Ward Six committee.

The usual night before Democratic rally will be held in Ward Four next Monday evening. There is also some talk of Democratic rallies in Wards Three and Six on Friday evening.

Court Officer Marden and family, who passed the summer at Hanson, have returned to Quincy and will pass the winter at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Henry Hathorn on Barry street.

City Treasurer Curtis placed the $19,000 street improvement loan order Tuesday with Blodget & Co., at a premium of $16.60. The loan is for 4 per cent and extends over a period of ten years.

Meetings in the interest of Candidate Hobbs were held Tuesday evening at the residence of Edward J. Sandberg in Ward Four, and at the residence of Herbert S. Barker in Ward Six.

Much interest is being taken in the annual meeting of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, to be held Thursday evening. There is quite a contest on for grand knight and deputy grand knight.

Miss Bessie M. Brooks gave a farewell luncheon at her home on Hancock street, Sunday evening, in honor of Miss Lillian G. Sutherburg who left Monday morning for Cheever, New Hampshire, where she will teach this winter.

Weighty Propositions.

The ark was thirty days out.

"You and your wife must be privileged animals," growled Mr. Hyena, glaring at Mr. Elephant. "All the rest of the bunch are on short rations, but I notice you're still drawing regulation sized meals. There must be a reason."

"There is," replied the elephant; "we threatened to rock the boat if our meals lost any weight!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Mexico's National Hymn.

Under the law of Mexico the national hymn may be played only on occasions when the chief executive of the nation or the governor of a state is present.

Candidate: "You have not any doubt as to my character, have you?"

Voter: "Oh, of course not."

Candidate: "Then, why don't you vote for me?"

Voter: "Because I have no doubt as to your character."

CLERK OF COURTS DEAD.

John P. S. Churchill, clerk of the district court at Quincy, died in Boston this noon of heart failure. Mr. Churchill who has been clerk of the district court for the past nineteen years has been in poor health for some weeks. Three weeks ago he went to Virginia hoping that the change in climate would improve his health. The health he sought however did not come and he returned to Boston this week.

Mr. Churchill was a resident of Milton but made his home winters in Boston. He leaves a widow and child.

His death comes as a sudden shock to the many lawyers and officers who do business with local court. While all knew that he was in poor health his death at this time was unlooked for.

LOCAL SPORTS.

Two matches in the Makaria league will be bowled at the Granite street alleys tomorrow evening.

* * *

The High school basket ball team will open its season on Friday.

* * *

A duck pin total of 1,789 was made by the Walkovers of Brockton on Tuesday evening; and is said to be a State record for three strings—641,587 and 561.

* * *

The opening game in the Makaria bowling league was rolled Monday evening on the Y. M. C. A. alleys and was between the Red Sox and Pirates. It was a warmly contested game from start to finish. On the first string the Pirates got away with the Red Sox. This seemed to stimulate the latter team, for they went in and won the next two strings.

TO PLANT HYACINTHS.

Now is the time to plant hyacinth bulbs if you wish them to brighten your home this winter. Bulbs can be had from any good dealer, who will give directions as to their culture.

The chief thing in raising these flowers is to give them a good root growth. This can only be had in the dark, so the bulbs must be kept in a cold cellar or buried in ashes outdoors for from eight to ten weeks after planting.

It is with the use of hyacinths as decorations that this is most concerned. So much more can be done with them than just to plant one or two bulbs in a pot and set it in a window.

There are quaint wall vases some of china or crockery, others or reed or of gay earthenware covered with raffia, that can be had to hang in various positions where they get the light. They look well in a bay window or hanging from a bracket in front of a common window, but are newer when stood as vases on wall rests.

Some of these are big enough to hold a single bloom, but the larger ones in which five or six bulbs are set are much showier.

If one cannot find or afford the bought wall vases or hanging baskets, wonders can be done with old tin kettles, jam jars and crocks and a can of paint. Be sure to put holes in the bottom of these vases for ventilation.

Quaint jardinieres, urns and hanging baskets in old brass are to be found in antique shops which will add much to the beauty of your hyacinths indoors.

For those grown in glasses there are lovely bowls of dull-blue pottery that are extremely decorative. The dealer will advise some of the patent bulb glasses preferably the tall ones with removable tubes to avoid root disturbance. The squat shapes are more artistic and equally as good.

In putting hyacinth bulbs in glasses, see that base of bulb merely touches the water; then set in a cool, dark closet or in the cellar until the glasses are full of roots. At this time bring into the light in a cool room until the spikes are well developed, when they can be given more heat for flowering.

If you have handsome vases or holders that you do not wish to put in the dark, have inner receptacles made to fit them, making sure that both are perforated in the same places.—N. Y. Times.

Where It Balked.

"What's the matter?" we inquire solicitously of our friend the inventor, observing the bandages which cover his head and arms.

"Was trying my new aeroplane," he answers.

"But it was stated that you had it equipped with parachutes and things to prevent injury if it fell."

"That's right. Got hurt going up. Bumped into the lower limbs of a tree."—Chicago Post.

The Suffragette.

With her the franchise, we suspect,
Will give her little cause to gloat,
For she can't fail to recollect
She'll have to give her age to vote.

COACH HAUGHTON'S METHOD OF HANDLING FOOTBALL PLAYERS.

Now that the football players of the large universities have disbanded for the season many good stories are being told about the gridiron warriors. Training during the football season is no easy task, and strict tabs are kept on the moleskin warrior. Here is one on Dick Lewis, a Harvard cub. During the early part of the season when Lewis was a little stale Haughton accosted him thusly: "What's the matter, Lewis—have you broken training?"

© by American Press Association.
LEWIS.

"Oh, no, sir," replied Lewis.

"Been drinking or smoking?"

"No, sir."

"Oh, I guess I know what is the matter with you. You must have been doing some studying again."

Lewis bowed his head like a shamefaced boy who had been caught with his fingers in the jam and finally acknowledged that he had been doing a little "grinding."

Then the face of the mighty coach took on a stern look, and Lewis quaked.

"Young man, have you no regard for your college?"

GWIN HENRY IS A WONDER.

So Says Trainer Robertson of Young Sprinter From Texas.

Lawson Robertson, the well known athletic coach of New York, has something interesting to say about Gwin Henry, the sensation of the New Orleans championship meeting, who showed his heels to the country's best at 220 yards. He is almost as enthusiastic about Henry as Matt Halpin or Paul Pilgrim, who maintains that the Texan is another Bernie Wefers. He goes further than Captain Dieges, who puts Henry's best possibilities at eveas. Robertson says:

"I think Henry is a very fast ten second man. With favorable conditions he will get under even time occasionally. He is not necessarily a world beater; but, take it from me, he is very, very fast. Henry fooled me badly. He looked like a farmer when he trained on the morning of his race. I laughed at him with the rest, but as soon as he had run fifty yards in the first heat of the hundred yard race it was evident that the last laugh was Gwin Henry's."

Hart to Lead Tigers Again.

Edward J. Hart, '12, has been re-elected captain of the Princeton football team. Eddie Hart's secondary defensive work has been of invaluable service to his team during the last season, and it was chiefly due to him that the Tigers' goal line had not been crossed previous to the Tigers' game with Yale. He is one of the four Princeton football captains who have been honored with two successive captaincies in the history of football at Princeton. He prepared at Phillips Exeter and also lives at Exeter, N. H. Arthur Poe, one of the most famous athletes who ever wore the orange and black, is another man who led a Princeton football team two years in succession.

Building Yacht to Beat Westward.

William Fife, the British yacht designer, has accepted a contract to build a racing schooner for an owner whose name is not divulged. The avowed purpose of the owner, however, is to secure a racer capable of defeating the American schooner Westward, owned by Alexander Cochran of New York. Sailed by Captain Charles Barr, the Westward won the feature events at the Kiel and Cowes regattas last summer.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

The University of Washington, in Seattle, is to raise $1,200 for crew equipment next spring.

Charles Querrie of Toronto, Canada, has accepted terms to coach the Columbia university lacrosse team next spring for five weeks, closing May 4.

In England George Hackenschmidt, "the Russian Lion," who is now touring this country, is reported to be worth a million. He wrestles for the love of the game and for the love of more money.

Baseball is now Japan's national sport. The players are gentlemen. They never dispute the decision of the umpire. Good sportsmanship is their slogan. The fans are impartial and never resort to unfair tactics.

Gama, "the Lion of Punjab;" Inman Box and Ahmud Buxsh, the East Indian wrestlers who were the sensation of England this season, have returned to their homes for the winter. In the spring the trio will come to America in search of fame and money.

FAMOUS NOVELISTS.

What Some of Them Did Before They Took to Writing.

Among those novelists who studied law we have Fielding, Scott, Charles Reade, Wilkie Collins, Blackmore, Washington Irving, George Meredith, Robert Grant, Henry James, Anthony Hope, Rider Haggard and Owen Wister. Journalism, which Mr. Kipling once defined as the one legitimate branch of the profession, is represented by Dickens, David Christie Murray, William Black, J. M. Barrie, Marion Crawford, George W. Cable, Stephen Crane, George Barr McCutcheon, Frank Norris, Richard Harding Davis and David Graham Phillips. The navy and merchant marine have given us Smollet, Captain Marryat, Fenimore Cooper, Clark Russell, Joseph Conrad and Morgan Robertson. Artists and architects include Thackeray, Du Maurier, Hopkinson Smith, Robert Chambers, Thomas Hardy and William J. Locke. Medicine and theology are not so well represented. Under the former head we recall for the moment only Smollett (naval surgeon), Holmes, S. Weir Mitchell and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle; under the latter, Sterne, Charles Kingsley, Henry van Dyke, Edward Everett Hale, Ian Maclaren, Ralph Connor and Thomas Dixon. College professors who have either given up their chairs to become novelists or have found time for occasional novels in the midst of their other duties are Sir Walter Besant, Robert Herrick and Brander Matthews.—Bookman.

A BLOOD TAX.

Payment by a French Town to Spain For an Ancient Crime.

Seven hundred years ago some shepherds of the valley of Roncal, in Navarre, were murdered by shepherds of the valley of Bareton, in Bearn, the crime taking place on the high pasture lands of Arlas, in the Pyrenees. It would have been difficult to bring the murderers individually to justice, and the Spaniards were preparing to make war upon the valley from which the French murderers had come when the French villages proposed that peace be maintained at the price of a yearly tax or tribute, to endure for all time, and this proposition was accepted.

The payment of this blood tax—originally three white mares, but later three cows of a particular breed and color—has been made ever since, the custom (it is nothing more) having survived even the great wars in which both France and Spain have engaged and the storm of the French revolution.

Yearly the representative men of the two valleys meet on the frontier at a certain stone remote from any town and go through the ceremony of presenting and receiving the cattle. The order of procedure, which is elaborate and impressive, is fixed by a document bearing the date 1375, though the tax was paid a hundred years prior to that time. The records of each yearly meeting and payment are duly attested and deposited in the archives of the Roncalais.—New York Tribune.

The Sanity of Paris.

The French live within their means and by a sense of economy wholly unknown to us manage to save and retire to enjoy whatever fortune has stored up for them, says F. Berkeley Smith in Success Magazine. To them France is sufficient. They voyage rarely and gamble less. The spendthrift or the man who plunges on the bourse, the races and the gaming table is regarded by the masses in the light of a rogue and a fool. The Parisians work hard enough for their leisure, but they never eliminate it nor allow their work to encroach upon their traditional daily vacation, as luncheon, the aperitif hour, dinner and fete days. They work, not to amass millions and die in harness, but to save enough to give their daughter her dot, without which she may never marry; start their son in his chosen trade and have enough income left to retire before they are too old to enjoy their freedom.

Old and Modern Customs.

Palm Sunday in certain places is called "Fig Sunday" from the custom of eating figs on this day, as snapdragons on Christmas eve, plum pudding on Christmas day, oranges and barley sugar on St. Valentine's eve, pancakes on Shrove Tuesday, salt codfish on Ash Wednesday, frumenty on "Mothering Sunday" (mid-Lent), cross buns on Good Friday, gooseberry tart on Whitsunday, goose on Michaelmas day, nuts on Allhallows, and so on.—New York American.

Leading the Leader.

A very small boy was trying to lead a big St. Bernard dog up the road.

"Where are you going to take the dog, my little man?" inquired a passerby.

"I—I'm going to see where—where he wants to go first," was the breathless reply.—Argonaut.

An Exceptional Case.

"What are you doing these days?"

"Playing the horses."

"No money in that."

"Yes, there is. I get $2 a night for imitating hoof beats in a melodrama."—Washington Herald.

Her Bad Habit.

"I don't like that woman."

"Why not?"

"She's the woman who is all the time teaching my wife a new way of serving up cold meat."—Detroit Free Press.

Integrity without knowledge is weak and useless, and knowledge without integrity is dangerous and dreadful.—Johnson.

TO MARK CLOTHING.

The nicest way to mark clothing is to embroider one's initials on every garment. The letters should be small and can be done in solid embroidery, or, if time be scarce, in chain stitched outlines.

For boarding school or public laundries, where the full name is essential, make a die from one's own writing, have it in the form of a stamp, and work the name in outlines.

Less dainty but quicker is it to sew on colored names that can be bought ready stamped by the dozen on short tapes. These are neatly hemmed on the edges and rarely wear off.

Quickest of all is marking with indelible ink that does not need ironing, as do some of the makes. To avoid blurring the material should be firmly stretched and the pen clean. This kind of marking is only for one's most ordinary belongings.

—A bank managed by women and for women and children, which has been launched in the Chicago suburb of Edison Park will give particular attention to encouraging children to open accounts. The bank's capital is to be $25,000. Women only signed the application for incorporation and a woman attorney, Mrs. Antoinette Funk drew the papers. Woman's intuitive judgment, which in other banks has proved sound, is to have full play in this institution and to an extent it rarely has in domestic affairs or business. Men will be depositors as well as women and men as borrowers not only will have to convince a loan committee the loan will be paid but also—as women often have to convince their husbands—that the money will serve a useful purpose.
